absent, seized on the royal palace of Pavia, and took upon him the title of king. ^a Hereupon Cunipert, who was quite unprovided, not imagining the duke could be guilty of such treachery and ingratitude, fled to an island in the lake Larius, now Lago di Como, and there fortified himself in the best manner he could. In the mean time the usurper, behaving in a most despotic and tyrannical manner, highly disobliterated all his subjects, even those to whom he was chiefly indebted for the crown he wore. As he was one day telling money in his closet, he happened to let a piece drop, which the son of Aldo, who was present, officiously took up, and gave him. The tyrant, in receiving it, Your father, said he, has many such pieces, which, ere it be long, shall be all mine. As the son of Aldo was but a child, the tyrant was not upon his guard; but the boy, remembering what he said, upon his return home, told it ^b to his father, who concluding from thence, that his death, and the ruin of his family, would be the reward of all his services, if he did not, by some means or other, prevent them, consulted with his brother Granso, and his other friends, about deposing the usurper. They all agreed to seize on the city of Pavia, and recal their lawful sovereign the first time Alachis should go out to take the diversion of hunting. This they did accordingly, to the great satisfaction of the inhabitants, especially of the clergy, whom the tyrant had chiefly disobliterated. Alachis, finding upon his return the gates shut against him, and Cunipert possessed of the royal palace, fled into Istria, and, having raised a considerable army there, he returned at the head of it, not doubting but he should be able to drive Cunipert anew from the throne. The king, ^c hearing of his return, drew together all his forces, and, meeting the usurper in the plains of Coronata, he challenged him to a single combat, in order to save the lives of many innocent men, who must otherwise perish; but, Alachis refusing the challenge, the two armies began to prepare for a general engagement. While they were drawn up, and Cunipert ready to charge the enemy, one Zeno, a deacon of the church of Pavia, greatly attached, as were all the ecclesiastics, to the king's person, and firmly persuaded, that the welfare of the church depended upon his safety, with the greatest earnestness imaginable, begged leave to put on his armour, and counterfeit his person: If I perish, said he, the loss will be small; but upon your safety depends the welfare both of the church and state. The king being, with much-ado, prevailed upon by the ^d tears and intreaties of his friends to accept the proposal, Zeno put on his armour, and appeared in it so like the king, whom he resembled in shape and stature, that he could hardly be distinguished from him; so that, when the two armies joined battle, Alachis, mistaking him for the king, engaged him with the utmost fury, and, having with great ease overcome and slain him, in the greatest transports of joy imaginable, he ordered his head to be cut off, and exposed to the view of both armies on the point of a spear; but, finding it was the head of a priest, and not of the king, his joy was succeeded by a violent rage and passion, in which he vowed to emasculate all the ecclesiastics, in case he obtained the victory. In the mean time Cunipert, ^e observing that his men, disheartened with the report of his death, began to give ground, shewed himself to them, and, by shewing himself, encouraged them to such a degree, that, returning to the charge, they renewed the fight with fresh vigour. However, Cunipert, to avoid the effusion of blood, sent a second time to Alachis, inviting him to decide the quarrel by a single combat; but he, declining anew the challenge, the two armies fought with the utmost fury, till, Alachis being slain, his men, disheartened by his death, fled in the utmost confusion. Most of them were cut off in the flight, and the rest drowned in the Adige. The army of the dukedom of Friuli, which Alachis enticed to his party, while they were marching to the assistance of the king, withdrew in the beginning of the battle, scrupling either to fight against him, to whom they had sworn allegiance, or against their lawful sovereign. ^f Cunipert, after this victory, which put an end to the civil war, returned in triumph to Pavia, having first caused the deacon Zeno to be interred with the greatest pomp and solemnity. He afterwards built, in honour of St. George, a magnificent monastery in the field where the battle had been fought. Cunipert, having thus happily suppressed so dangerous a rebellion, reigned in great peace and tranquillity till the year 703. when he died, universally lamented; for he was a prince, says our historian, of a most comely aspect, of a sweet temper, engaging behaviour, great courage, and extraordinary piety. He had married Hermelinda, a princess of the Cunipert: restored.

War between him and Alachis.

Alachis killed, and his army defeated.

Cunipert dies. Year after Christ 703.

^a Idem ibid. c. 38—41.

^b Idem ibid.

blood

- a blood royal of the Anglo-Saxons, and had by her one son, named Luitbert, to whom he bequeathed the kingdom; but, as he was then an infant, he committed him to the care of Asprand, a person of great distinction among the Lombards, and highly esteemed for his wisdom. Luitbert, or rather Asprand, had scarce governed eight months, when Ragumbert, duke of Turin, taking upon him the title of king, defeated Asprand in battle, and caused himself to be acknowledged by the whole nation; but he died the same year, and was succeeded by his son Aripert, in whose reign Luitbert, assisted by several dukes, attempted the recovery of his paternal kingdom; but he was utterly defeated by the usurper, and taken prisoner, in a battle fought at a small distance from Pavia. Rotharit duke of Bergamo, who had espoused with great zeal the cause of the king, fled, after the defeat of the army, to his own city, in which he was closely besieged by Aripert, who, having in the end made himself master of the place, sent the duke to Turin, where he was soon after put to death by his orders. Luitbert, his young competitor, met with no better treatment; for he soon after ordered him to be stifled in a bath. As for Asprand, whom, above all others, the tyrant was desirous of getting into his power, he fled first to the above-mentioned island in the lake Larius; but being informed, that a strong detachment was marching against him, he fled from thence to Ravenna, and from Ravenna to Theudebert duke of the Boioarii, with whom he continued for the space of nine years. Aripert's men reduced the island; but, not finding Asprand there, they returned to Aripert, who, transported with rage at his disappointment, put out the eyes of Sigibrand the son of Asprand, and at the same time caused the nose and ears of his wife Theuderata, and daughter Aurona, to be cut off. Asprand had another son, by name Luitprand; but the tyrant spared him, as he was yet a child, and sent him to his father, Providence reserving him, as our historian observes, for great things¹. Aripert, notwithstanding the acts of cruelty he practised in the beginning of his reign, is said to have ruled afterwards with great prudence and equity. He was a great friend to the ecclesiastics, and very liberal to the churches, which he enriched with ample donations. To the church of Rome he restored many lands, especially the patrimony of the Alpes Cottiae, which had been seized on by king Rotharis. We are told, that he sent the instrument of this donation to the bishop of Rome written in golden letters² (W). In the ninth year

Luitbert succeeds; but is driven out by Ragumbert.

Ragumbert succeeded by his son Aripert.

Who puts Luitbert to death.

His cruelty.

Is liberal to the churches.

² Idem ibid. c. 18—21. & l. vi. c. 22.

¹ Idem, l. vi. c. 28.

(W) The lands and estates, which the churches acquired, not only within the district of their respective cities, but in distant countries, were styled patrimonies, as were likewise the hereditary estates both of princes and private persons, but with this difference, that the prince's estate was called patrimonium sacrum, as appears from several constitutions of the Justinian code⁽¹⁾. The patrimonium sacrum was what we now call the king's domain. As for the churches, so many profuse donations were made to them, both by princes and private persons, that, in process of time, they acquired great estates, which, according to the style of those times, were called patrimonies. Thus, in the letters of pope Gregory the Great, frequent mention is made, not only of the patrimony of the church of Rome, but of the church of Milan, Rimini, Ravenna, and several others. The churches of great cities, such as Rome, Ravenna, and Milan, where the emperor's officers, and other illustrious persons, resided, acquired patrimonies, not only within their own district, but in distant countries; whereas the churches of smaller cities, whose inhabitants had but moderate fortunes, and their estates within their own limits, had no patrimonies out of their districts. The church of Rome, above all others, acquired, by degrees, immense patrimonies, not only in Italy, but in the most distant provinces of Europe ⁽²⁾. In the time of Gregory the Great, that church held ample patrimonies in Sicily; for Gregory, in a letter to Justin governor of Sicily for the emperor, intreats him to cause the corn of the patrimony of St. Peter to be, without delay, conveyed to Rome, where there was great scarcity. The church of Rome had likewise a patrimony in France, and another in Dalmatia, of which the latter was committed to the care of one Antoninus a subdeacon, and the former to that of a priest named Candidus, whom Gregory, in one of his letters, earnestly recommends to queen Brunichild, and likewise to king Childbert her son. In a letter to Candidus, he shews him how the revenues of that patrimony are to be disposed of; nay, from the letters of the same pope it appears, that the church of Rome had, in his time, a patrimony in Africa; for, in a letter to Gennadius exarch of that province, he returns him thanks for taking care of the patrimony of St. Peter there, and in particular for sending such as depended upon him to till the lands, which had been abandoned by the tenants. In Italy the patrimonies of the Roman church were almost without number. In the province of the Alpes Cottiae she had a large patrimony, which was seized, and for a long time possessed, by the Lombards; but restored to her by king Aripert in the time of pope John VII. Aripert king of the Lombards, says Paulus Diaconus, restored the patrimony of the Alpes Cottiae belonging to the apostolic see, but for a long time possessed by the Lombards, and sent the donation to Rome in golden letters⁽³⁾. This donation was, according to the same writer, confirmed by king Luitprand. Other patrimonies were held by the same church, as appears from the letters of several popes, in the exarchate of Ravenna, in the dukedom of Naples, in the territories of Salerno and Nola, in the provinces of Campania, Lucania, Calabria, Abruzzo, Liguria, Tuscany, &c. That these patrimonies might be the more respected,

(1) Cod. Justin. l. xii.

(2) Vide Ammirat. in opusc. discept. vii.

(3) Paul. Diac. l. vi. c. 28.

Asprand returns into Italy.

Aripert drowned.

Asprand declared king.

The dukes of
Benevento.

year of his reign, Asprand returned into Italy at the head of a powerful army, raised by the duke of the Boioarii, who, having espoused his cause with great warmth, resolved to assist him with all his strength in revenging the cruel treatment his wife and children had met with at the king's hands. Aripert met him on the confines with an army no ways inferior to his. Hereupon a bloody battle ensued, which lasted till night parted the combatants. The next day Asprand was for renewing the fight; but Aripert, though he had not lost near so many men as his adversary, yet declining, for reasons unknown to our historian, a second engagement, he left the enemy masters of the field of battle, and retired to Pavia. Being pursued by Asprand, whose men were no less encouraged by his retreat, than Aripert's were disheartened, he abandoned Pavia, with a design to pass into Gaul, and there hire a new army, b carrying with him for that effect the best part of his treasures; but, attempting to swim cross the Tesino, he was drowned in that river. His body was found the next day, and buried with great pomp in the church of St. Saviour, founded by Aripert, the first of that name. His brother, by name Guntbert, fled to the king of the Franks, and continued at his court to his death. Raginbert, the eldest son of Guntbert, governed the city of Orleans for the king of the Franks in the time of our historian*. The throne being vacant by the death of Aripert, Asprand was placed on it by the unanimous consent of the whole nation; but he dying three months after his accession, his son Luitprand succeeded him in the kingdom of the Lombards. But, before we speak of his reign, we shall relate what happened till his time, worthy of c notice, in the other provinces of Italy subject to the Lombards.

In the year 677. died Romuald duke of Benevento, and was succeeded by Grimoald II. his son, to whom he left that dukedom greatly enlarged by the addition of Tarento, Brindisi, Bari, and their territories, which he took from the emperor of the east, as we have related above. Grimoald governed, with his brother Gisulph, not quite three years; and, upon his death, Gisulph held the dukedom alone fourteen years more. All we find recorded of him in history is his laying waste, upon what provocation we know not, the territory of Rome. Gisulph dying in 694. was succeeded in the

* Idem ibid. c. 35.

the bishops gave them the names of the saints, which each church had in special veneration. Thus the possessions of the church of Ravenna were called the patrimony of St. Apollinaris; those of Rome, Milan, Naples, &c. the patrimony of St. Peter, St. Ambrose, St. Aspremus, &c. The name of patrimony did not import any sovereignty or jurisdiction; for the pope, as well as the other bishops, held their patrimonies of the prince, in whose state they lay, paying the same taxes and impositions as other subjects. It is true, that, in some places, those who had care of the patrimonies of St. Peter, attempted to take the administration of justice into their own hands; but this no prince would suffer, and besides, Gregory the Great forbid all attempts and encroachments of that kind, on pain of excommunication (4). In the year 681. the emperor Constantine Pogonatus granted an exemption from all tribute for the patrimonies of the Roman church in Sicily and Calabria; and the tribute paid for the patrimonies of the same church in Lucania and Abruzzo was remitted by Justinian, the successor of Constantine, in 687. But Leo Isauricus, provoked against the bishop of Rome, on account of his hindering the imperial edict against the worship of images from being put in execution, first revoked the exemptions granted by his predecessors for the patrimonies in Sicily and Calabria; and afterwards, as the bishop continued to oppose the edict, he seized on those patrimonies, and ordered the revenues to be paid into the exchequer. The church of Rome possessed, as we have observed, several patrimonies in the different provinces of Italy, and this gave rise to a great mistake among the writers of later times, who, confounding the patrimonies which the church of Rome held in those provinces with the provinces themselves, have supposed the provinces of the Alpes Cottia, of Sicily and Calabria, the dukedoms of Benevento and Spoletto, and part of Tuscany and Campania, to have belonged to the church of Rome. Into this mistake several eminent authors have fallen, and among the rest Scipio Ammiratus, who, though otherwise a most exact and accurate writer, supposes king Aripert, by the donation we have mentioned above, to have restored and confirmed to pope John VII. the province of the Alpes Cottia (5); whereas it is evident from the words of the historian, that the king restored to the church of Rome the patrimony, which she had in that province, and not the province itself, which reached as far as Genoa, and comprised a great tract of country, in which were many cities of note, and places of great importance. It is surprising any one should imagine, that the king of the Lombards would have divested himself of such a country, and given it to the pope, whom he knew to be greatly attached to the emperors of the east, the implacable enemies of the Lombards. But of this subject we shall speak more at length hereafter, on occasion of the many famous donations made to the church of Rome by Charlemagne and Lewis the Pious, where it will appear, that what we read in them of Naples, Benevento, and Salerno, ought to be understood of the patrimonies, which the church of Rome had in those dukedoms, and not of the dukedoms themselves, it being certain, that the dukedom of Benevento came first under the dominion of the church in the year 1051. by way of exchange made between the emperor Henry II. and pope Leo IX. for the church of Bamberg (6).

(4) Vide Ant. Matt. man. ad jus can. l. iii. tit. 17.

(6) Vide Pietro Giann. hist. civil. di Napoli, l. iv. sect. 4.

(5) Scip. Ammirat. opusc. discept. vii.

duke-

- a dukedom by his son Romuald II. who ruled twenty-six years, during which time he greatly harassed the Neapolitans, and, by a stratagem, made himself master of Cumæ, belonging to them. Hereupon Gregory II. then bishop of Rome, apprehending that metropolis to be in danger, did all that lay in his power to persuade the duke to restore Cumæ, offering him even a considerable sum in lieu of it. But his offers, and every other fair means, proving ineffectual, the bishop in the end thundered against him the sentence of excommunication; but finding, that Grimoald made no more account of his excommunications; than his offers, he had recourse to John duke of Naples, whom he advised to attack the city in the night; which he did accordingly, and, having made himself master of the place, he put three hundred Lombards, with
- b their gaskald, to the sword, and took five hundred more prisoners, whom he carried with him to Naples. As for the city, he sold it to the bishop, as had been agreed on before-hand, for seventy pounds weight of gold¹. Romuald died in 720. and was succeeded by his son Adelai, who governed only two years, and performed nothing worthy of notice. In the dukedom of Friuli, Welcar, who had been appointed duke by Grimoald, as we have related above, was succeeded by Landar, and he by Rodoald, in whose absence one Ansfrit seized on the dukedom, and soon after, aspiring at the crown, began to make vast preparations for so great an undertaking. But Cunipert, who reigned then, being privately acquainted with his design, found means to intercept him as he was going to Verona. However, he spared his life, but sent him into
- c banishment, after he had caused his eyes to be put out. In the mean time Rodoald dying, his brother Aldo succeeded to the dukedom, which he governed, according to our historian, but one year and seven months^m, though Sigonius will have him to have held it seven years. Aldo, who by Paulus Diaconus is styled only protector of the dukedom, was succeeded by Ferdulf, who was killed by the Sclavonians, with all the nobility of the dukedom, except Munichis, who had the good fortune to make his escape. One Corvulus was then appointed duke by king Aripert, whom he soon disobliged, and was on that account deposed, and deprived of his sight. In his room was raised to the dukedom one Pemmo, who, seeking for the sons of the nobility killed by the Sclavonians, brought them up with his own childrenⁿ. During this
- d time died Mitula, who had been rewarded by king Grimoald, as we have related above, with the dukedom of Spoleto, for his gallant behaviour against the emperor Constantine. He was succeeded by his son Faroald, who governed jointly with his brother Wachilap^o. To return, after this short digression, to Luitprand:
- THAT prince, from the very beginning of his reign, gave great instances of his courage and prudence. He had scarce mounted the throne, when one of his kinsmen, named Rotbaris, conspiring against him, invited him to a banquet at his house, where he had assassins concealed, who, upon a signal agreed on before-hand, were to rush into the room where the king was, and dispatch him. But Luitprand, receiving private intelligence of the treason that was hatching against him, sent for
- e Rotbaris to the palace, who, finding himself discovered, drew his sword all on a sudden, with a design to kill the king; but he defended himself with great bravery, not shewing the least tokens of fear or surprize, till his guards, coming in at the noise, dispatched the traitor. He sometimes suffered himself to be transported by his courage beyond what was prudent in a prince, on whose safety depended the welfare of his subjects. Thus, being informed that two of his attendants had conspired against his life, and only watched a favourable opportunity of putting their design in execution, he one day walked out with them alone into a thick wood, and there, drawing his sword, he upbraided them with their treachery, and told them, that they now had what they so long wished for, the king alone; and therefore might try, if
- f they pleased, to compass their wicked design. These words, with the king's generosity, and their own guilt, made such a deep impression upon their minds, that they threw themselves disarmed at his feet, and, owning the whole truth, acknowledged themselves unworthy of mercy. The generous prince, however, not only forgave them, but, receiving them into favour, preferred them afterwards to great employments^p. Having thus won his enemies at home by his kindness, and strengthened his interest abroad, by marrying the daughter of the duke of the Boioarii, who had received and entertained him and his father in their distress, he applied himself, in imitation of his predecessors Rotbaris and Grimoald, to the making of new laws, for

The dukes of Friuli,

And of Spoleto.

Luitprand.
Year after Christ 711.Two conspiracies against him.

¹ Idem, l. v. c. 44. & JOAN. DIAC. apud Ughell. de episc. Neap. p. 86.
ⁿ Idem ibid. c. 24, 25. ^o Idem ibid. c. 30. ^p Idem ibid. c. 38.

He publishes a new edict of laws.

the better regulation of his kingdom, and administration of justice. Having therefore, in the first year of his reign, convened a general diet in Pavia, with the consent and approbation of his nobles, and the judges from all parts of his kingdom, he enacted several laws, which he added to the edicts of Rotharis and Grimoald. In the following years he published many others, as occasion required; so that, next to Rotharis, he ought to be accounted the chief lawgiver of the Lombards.^a His first edict was published the last day of February, in the eleventh indiction, and the first year of his reign, as appears from the preface prefixed to it (X), and several others he published the following years; so that his laws amounted in the end to an hundred and fifty-two. But the wisdom this prince shewed in settling his kingdom with excellent laws, and his other extraordinary parts, were not a little eclipsed by his unbounded ambition; for, not satisfied with the large and extensive dominions left him by his predecessors, he undertook to drive the Romans quite out of Italy; which in the end occasioned the ruin of the kingdom of the Lombards in that country: for the popes, growing jealous of their too great power, and finding the emperors of the east incapable of making head against them, or putting a stop to their conquests, had recourse to a foreign nation, which raised a new empire in Italy, upon the ruins of the kingdom of the Lombards, as we shall relate in the sequel of this history. Luitprand, pushed on by his ambition, watched all opportunities of enlarging his dominions at the expence of the emperors; and in the fifth year of his reign a very favourable one offered: for Leo Isauricus, who at that time reigned in the east, having, by his famous edict, forbidden the worship of images, and ordered them to be every-where pulled down, the people were so provoked at that innovation, that, in several places, they openly revolted, and, falling upon the emperor's officers, drove them out of the cities. In the east Germanus, patriarch of Constantinople, opposed the emperor's design with great warmth; but Leo caused him to be deposed, and Anastasius to be raised to that see in his room, ordering at the same time all the images in the imperial city to be pulled down, and publicly burnt. He strictly enjoined his officers in the west, especially the exarch of Ravenna, to see his edict punctually obeyed in their respective governments. In compliance with these orders, Scholasticus, then exarch, began to pull down the images in all the churches and public places in Ravenna; which incensed the superstitious multitude to such a degree, that, taking arms, they openly declared they would rather renounce their allegiance to the emperor, than the worship of images. Thus a kind of civil war being kindled in the city, Luitprand thought he had now a favourable opportunity of making himself master of the seat of the exarch, not doubting but the conquest of such an important place would be followed by that of the whole exarchate. Having therefore drawn together all his forces, he unexpectedly appeared before Ravenna, and closely besieged it. The exarch little expected such a surprize, as a friendly correspondence had been maintained for many years between the exarchs and the Lombard kings. However, he

Disturbances occasioned in Italy by the edict of Leo Isauricus.

Luitprand invades the ex-archate.

^a Idem, l. vi. c. 58. BERNARD. SACCUS, hist. Ticin. l. ix. c. 5. SIGON. reg. Ital. ad ann. 713.

(X) The preface is couched in the following words: "Whereas our most mighty predecessor, and most eminent king, Rothar, published an edict for the Lombards, wherein he prudently caused the following words to be inserted; If the princes of the Lombards, our successors, find any thing superfluous in this edict, they may leave it out, and, with the assistance of God, add what they think wanting: after him, the most glorious king Grimoald accordingly added and left out what to him seemed fit; and we, following his example, and inspired, as we hope, by God, have decreed to be added and omitted such things, as, according to the law of God, seemed to us proper: therefore, in the name of the omnipotent God, I Luitprand, the most excellent, the christian and catholic, king of the nation of the Lombards, beloved of God, in the first year of my reign, the day before the calends of March, in the eleventh indiction, together with all the judges from the parts of Austria and Neustria, and borders of Thuscia, with others of my faithful Lombards, and all the people assisting, and pleased with the following regulations, which to us have appeared good, according to "the fear and love of God." Then follow the six chapters of the edict, whereof the first bears this title De successione filiarum. In the fifth year of his reign he published another edict, and a great many more in the following years, which are all to be seen intire in the manuscript code lodged in the monastery of Carva, with seven other chapters added to them, under the following titles: I. De mercede magistris. II. De muro. III. De amona. IV. De opera. V. De caminata. VI. De furno. VII. De puteo. The laws of Luitprand are in all an hundred and fifty-two, as appears from the above-mentioned code; but the compiler of the three books of the laws of the Lombards has thought fit to insert in that work only an hundred and thirty-seven of them, viz. forty-eight in the first book, and eighty-nine in the second. As for the third book, it is chiefly composed of those laws, which were made by the emperors who reigned in Italy, as successors to the kings of the Lombards; for several laws were enacted by them, not as emperors or kings of France, but as kings of Italy, or of the Lombards; and hence the Lombard laws were never of any force in France, nor the French laws in Italy.

defended

- a defended the place with such courage and resolution, that Luitprand, despairing of success, broke up the siege, and led his army against Classis at a small distance from Ravenna, which place he took, plundered, and levelled with the ground. The loss of this place, and the severe treatment the inhabitants met with from the king, threw the citizens of Ravenna into the utmost consternation; which Luitprand being informed of, he resolved to take advantage of their fears, and, returning before Ravenna while the inhabitants were thus disheartened, to attempt once more the reduction of that place. Accordingly he led his whole army against it, and, by frequent attacks, tired the inhabitants and garrison to such a degree, that the exarch, finding they could hold out no longer, and despairing of relief, privately withdrew. Luitprand, informed of his retreat, attacked the town with more violence than ever, and, having carried it by storm, gave it up to be plundered by his soldiers, who found in it an immense booty, as it had been for a long time the seat of the Roman emperors, of the Gothic kings, and the exarchs. The king stripped it of most of its valuable monuments of antiquity, and caused, among the rest, an equestrian statue of an emperor, of wonderful workmanship, to be conveyed to Pavia, where it is to be seen to this day. The reduction of Ravenna was followed by the surrender of several cities of the exarchate, which Luitprand reduced to a dukedom, appointing Hildebrand, his grandson, to govern it with the title of duke, and giving him, as he was yet an infant, Peredeus duke of Vicenza for his guardian.
- b He takes and plunders Ravenna. Year after Christ 722.
- c THE conquest of Ravenna, and the greater part of the exarchate, did not a little alarm Gregory II. bishop of Rome. He was then at variance with the emperor, whose edict against the worshipping of images he had opposed with all his might, and by that means provoked Leo to such a degree, that he had threatened to drive him from his see, and send him into exile. However, the pope, no less jealous of the power of the Lombards, than all his predecessors had been, resolved, by some means or other, to put a stop to their conquests. The only prince in Italy, to whom he could have recourse, was Ursus duke of Venice, the Venetians making already no inconsiderable figure. To him accordingly he wrote a very pressing letter, conjuring him to assist his worthy son the exarch, and, for the love of the holy faith, to attempt
- d with him the recovery of the exarchate, which the wicked nation of the Lombards had unjustly taken from his sons Leo and Constantine emperors. Ursus and the Venetians, moved with the pope's letter, and at the same time greatly alarmed at the growth of so powerful a neighbour, promised to assist the exarch with the whole strength of their republic, and accordingly fitted out a considerable fleet, pretending it was designed for the service of the emperor against the Saracens. At the same time the exarch, who had taken refuge in Venice, abandoning that place, as it were in despair of bringing the duke over to his party, raised, in the places still subject to the emperor, what forces he was able; and having got together a considerable body, he marched with them towards Imola, giving out, that he designed to besiege that
- e city; but turning all on a sudden towards Ravenna, as had been agreed on between him and the Venetians, he laid siege to it by land, while they invested it almost at the same instant by sea. Peredeus defended the town for some time with great courage and resolution, obliging all those, who were able to bear arms, to repair to the walls. But the Venetians having, in spite of all opposition, forced open one of the gates on the side of the sea, the city was taken, and Peredeus slain, while he was attempting, at the head of a choice body, to drive the enemy from the posts they had seized. As for Hildebrand, he fell into the hands of the Venetians, who, having thus recovered Ravenna to the emperor, returned home, leaving the exarch in possession of the city. Luitprand was then at Pavia; but the town was taken before he could assemble his
- f troops to relieve it. And now Gregory bishop of Rome, to whom the recovery of Ravenna was chiefly owing, persuading himself, that the emperor would, out of gratitude, give ear to his remonstrances and admonitions, began to solicit him with more pressing letters than ever to revoke his edict against the worship of images; but Leo, well apprised, that the bishop, in all the measures he had taken, had been more influenced by a regard to his own interest, than to that of the empire, instead of hearkening to his remonstrances, was still more provoked against him for thus obstinately opposing the execution of his edict. Being therefore resolved at all events to have it observed in Rome itself, and, on the other hand, not doubting but the pope
- Ravenna recovered by the exarch and the Venetians.

* PAUL. DIAC. l. vi. c. 32. & ANAST. bibliothecar. in Greg. II.

* PAUL. DIAC. ibid.

would

Leo and pope Gregory quarrel.

The exarch attempts to get the pope into his power,

Who is defended by Luitprand.

The pope opposes the emperor's edict against images.

Several cities revolt.

Great disturbances in Ravenna, and the exarch murdered.

All Pentapolis, and great part of Romagna, submit to Luitprand.

would oppose it to the last with all his might, in order to remove all obstacles, he sent three officers to Rome, with private orders either to dispatch the pope, or to take him prisoner, and convey him to Constantinople. At the same time he wrote to Mauritius duke of Rome, secretly injoining him to assist his three officers in their undertaking; but no favourable opportunity offering to put their design in execution, the emperor, in the year 725. recalled Scholasticus, and sent Paul a patrician into Italy, to govern in his room, with private instructions to encourage the above-mentioned officers with the promise of great rewards, and to assure them of his protection. But in the mean time the plot was discovered, and two of the conspirators apprehended by the citizens of Rome, and put to death, the third having escaped into a monastery, where he took the monastic habit, and ended his days. Hereupon the exarch, in compliance with the emperor's orders, resolved to proceed no longer by secret plots, but by open force. Accordingly he drew together a considerable body of troops, and set out at the head of them on his march to Rome, with a design to seize on the pope, and send him, as he had engaged to do, in chains to Constantinople. But, on this occasion, Luitprand, though highly provoked against Gregory for having stirred up the Venetians against him, yet resolved to assist him, and the citizens of Rome, against the exarch, in order to keep the balance even between them, and, by assisting sometimes the one, and sometimes the other, weaken both. Pursuant to this resolution, he ordered the Lombards of Tuscany, and those of the dukedom of Spoleto, to join the pope, and the inhabitants of Rome, who being, by this reinforcement, far superior in strength and number to the exarch, obliged him to return to Ravenna, and give over all thoughts of any further attempt on the person of the pope. In the mean time Leo, persisting in his former resolution of suppressing throughout his dominions the worship of images, sent fresh orders to the exarch Paul, strictly injoining him to cause his edict to be put in execution in all the cities of Italy under his empire, especially in Rome. At the same time he wrote to the pope, promising him his favour and protection, if he complied with the edict, and declaring him, if he continued to oppose it, a rebel, and no longer vested with the papal dignity. But Gregory was so far from yielding to the emperor's threats or promises, that, on the contrary, he solemnly excommunicated the exarch for attempting to put the imperial edict in execution; and at the same time wrote circular letters to the Venetians, to king Luitprand, to the Lombard dukes, and to all the chief cities of the empire, exhorting them to continue steadfast in the catholic faith, and to oppose with all their might such a detestable innovation. These letters made such an impression on the minds of the people in Italy, that, though of different interests, and often at war with one another, they all united, protesting they would defend the catholic faith, and the life of the pope in so glorious a cause, at the expence of their own; nay, the citizens of Rome, and the inhabitants of Pentapolis, now Marca d'Ancona, not contenting themselves with such a protestation, openly revolted from the emperor, and, pulling down his statues, they elected, by their own authority, magistrates to govern them during the interregnum. We are even told, that, transported with a blind zeal, they were for choosing a new emperor, and conducting him to Constantinople, not doubting but the people would every-where join them. But the pope, thinking this resolution unreasonable, and not to be easily put in execution, opposed it; so that it did not take place.

In the mean time the exarch Paul, having gained a considerable party in Ravenna, began, pursuant to the repeated orders from the emperor, to remove the images, as so many idols, out of the churches. Hereupon the adverse party, supported and encouraged by the pope, flew to arms, and, falling upon the iconoclasts or image-breakers, as they styled them, gave rise to a civil war within the walls of Ravenna. Great numbers were killed on both sides; but those who were for the worship of images prevailing in the end, a dreadful slaughter was made of the opposite party, and, among the rest, the exarch himself was murdered. However, the city of Ravenna continued faithful to the emperor; but most of the cities of Romagna belonging to the exarchate, and all those of Pentapolis or La Marca d'Ancona, abhorring the emperor as an heretic, submitted to Luitprand king of the Lombards, who, pretending a great zeal for the catholic religion, took care to improve the discontent of the people to his advantage, by representing to them, that they could never maintain their religious rights under a prince, who was not only an heretic, but a perse-

* ANASTAS. in Greg. II. SIGON. ad ann. 725. MARG. FREHER. in chron. exar. Rav. p. 38. * PAUL. DIAC. l. vi. c. 9. REGIN. chronol. l. i. p. 47. SIGON. ad ann. 726.

- a cutor of the orthodox. In Naples, Exbilaratus, duke of that city, having received peremptory orders from the emperor to cause his edict to be put in execution, did all that lay in his power to persuade the people to receive it; but, finding all his endeavours thwarted by the bishop of Rome, for whom the Neapolitans had a great veneration, he hired assassins to murder him. But the plot being discovered, tho' carried on with great secrecy, the Neapolitans, highly provoked against the duke, tore both him and his son to pieces, and likewise put to death one of his chief officers, who had composed a libel against the pope *. Luitprand, and Gregory, at that time duke of Benevento, laying hold of so favourable an opportunity to make themselves masters of the dukedom of Naples, did all that lay in their power to persuade the Neapolitans to submit to them. But the Neapolitans, bearing an irreconcilable hatred to the Lombards, with whom they had been constantly at variance, rejected every overture of that nature with the utmost indignation, and, continuing stedfast in their allegiance to Leo, received from Constantinople one Peter, who was sent to govern them in the room of Exbilaratus. Some writers suppose the Neapolitans, in this general revolt of the cities of Italy, to have shaken off the yoke with the rest, and to have appointed magistrates of their own election to govern them, in the room of the officers hitherto sent from Constantinople, or named by the exarch; but they are therein certainly mistaken, it being manifest from history, that Peter succeeded Exbilaratus in that dukedom; and that the Neapolitans continued to live under the emperors, till they were conquered many years after by the Normans, as we shall relate hereafter. In the mean time Leo, hearing of the murder of the exarch, and the general revolt of the cities, and not doubting but the pope was the chief author of so much mischief, sent the eunuch Eutychius into Italy, with the title and authority of exarch, strictly injoining him to get the pope dispatched by some means or other, since his death was absolutely necessary for the tranquillity of Italy. The exarch left no stone unturned to get the pope into his power; but a messenger, whom he had sent to Rome, being apprehended by the citizens, and an order from the emperor found upon him to all his officers in that city, commanding them to put the pope to death at all events, the pope's friends thenceforth guarded him with such care, that the exarch's emissaries could never afterwards find an opportunity of executing their design. As for the messenger, the Romans were for putting him to death; but the pope interposed, contenting himself with excommunicating the exarch *. And now the Romans, provoked more than ever against Leo, and, on the other hand, unwilling to live under the Lombards, resolved to revolt from the emperor, and appoint their own magistrates, keeping themselves united under the pope, not yet as their prince, but only as their head. This they did accordingly, and from these slender beginnings the sovereignty of the popes in Italy took its rise, though they did not then, as is commonly supposed by historians, but many years after, become sovereign lords of Rome (Y).

The Neapolitans put their duke to death.

Eutychius, the new exarch, attempts to get the pope murdered.

The origin of the pope's temporal power.

Eutychius

* SIGON. ad ann. 726. MAIMB. hist. iconoclast. p. 73.

* FREHER. in chron. exarch. Raven. p. 81.

(Y) The Greek writers, who flourished long after Gregory, Paulus Diaconus, and Anastasius Bibliothecarius, tell us, that the Romans, revolting from the emperor Leo, chose Gregory for their prince, and took an oath of allegiance to him. They add, that the pope readily accepted the sovereignty offered him; that he forbade the Romans, and the other inhabitants of Italy, to pay tribute for the future to the emperor; that he absolved all the subjects of the empire from their oath of allegiance; and finally, that, with great solemnity, he excommunicated and deposed Leo. Hence, say the Greek writers, viz. Theophanes, Cedrenus, Zonaras, and Nicephorus, the temporal dominion of the popes over Rome, and the Roman dukedom, took its rise; to which were afterwards added, by Pepin and Charles the Great, the exarchate of Ravenna, Pentapolis or the Marca d'Ancona, and several other cities of Italy. On the other hand, Paulus Diaconus, Anastasius Bibliothecarius, and Damasceus, take no notice of the pope's deposing or excommunicating the emperor; of his forbidding tribute to be paid to him; or of his accepting from the rebellious Romans the sovereignty of Rome. These writers only say, that he opposed with all his might the edicts of Leo; that he prevented them from being received by the people; and that he earnestly exhorted and conjured the emperor to revoke them, and give over, as they style it, such an impious undertaking. Anastasius, after having told us, that Leo deposed Germanus patriarch of Constantinople for opposing his edict, and appointed Anastasius in his room, adds, that Gregory excommunicated the new patriarch, and wrote to the emperor, exhorting him to revoke his edict. Had he likewise excommunicated the emperor, we cannot persuade ourselves, that Anastasius, Paulus Diaconus, and Damasceus, would have passed over in silence such a remarkable incident, it being agreed on by all writers, that no prince or emperor had been excommunicated till that time. As for what Cedrenus, Theophanes, Zonaras, and Nicephorus, write of the pope's deposing the emperor, it is evidently false, since Gregory acknowledged Leo for emperor as long as he lived, as did likewise Gregory III. his successor, who wrote several letters to him full of respect; nay, the dates of most of that pope's letters bear

Eutychius failed in his design upon the life of the pope; but, having brought with him from Constantinople a good number of troops, he easily quelled the rebellion in bear the years of Leo's reign; and in that, which he wrote to Boniface, he gives Leo the title of Most pious, Imperante domino piissimo Augusto Leone imperii ejus xxiii (1). Hence the French writers, and among the rest P. de Marca, Natalis, and Du Pin, maintain, that Gregory never excommunicated, or attempted to depose, the emperor Leo; that what the above-mentioned Greek authors have written on that head, ought to be deemed fabulous; and, that, in so remarkable an incident, the silence of the Latin writers, who flourished in times less distant, ought to be of far greater weight with every unbiassed reader, than the authority of the Greeks, who, out of their natural aversion to the Latin church, have obtruded such fables on the public. But most of our protestant writers seem to give intire credit to the Greeks, and by all means will have it, that Gregory excommunicated the emperor; that he absolved all his subjects from their allegiance; that he forbade them to pay him the usual tribute; and that, being offered the sovereignty of Rome by the rebellious Romans, he accepted the offer, and thenceforth took upon him all the state of a temporal prince. Spanhemius thinks, that all this was denied by the French writers, lest, in the reign of Lewis the Great, they should seem to acknowledge such a power in the popes (2). The Italian writers, even those among them who are most addicted to the court of Rome, agree with the protestants in giving credit to the Greeks, but with a different view, viz. to shew, that the power of excommunicating and deposing princes was so early exerted by the popes. To conclude, Theophanes, Cedrenus, Zonaras, and Nicephorus, say, that Gregory II. not only excommunicated the emperor Leo, but absolved his subjects from their allegiance, declaring, that they were no longer bound to obey him; that on this occasion the Romans, shaking off the yoke, offered the sovereignty of Rome to the pope; and that he, accepting the offer, became sovereign lord of that city, and its dukedom. On the other hand, Paulus Diaconus, Anastasius, and Damasenus, who flourished before the Greek writers, only say, that the pope opposed the edicts of Leo; that he excommunicated both the exarch of Ravenna, and the patriarch of Constantinople; and that he exhorted the emperor to revoke his edict. Some modern writers give intire credit to the Greeks; others, from the silence of the Latins, conclude the accounts of the Greeks to be fabulous: and such truly they appear to us, since Gregory, so long as he lived, acknowledged Leo as emperor; and Gregory III. his successor, not only wrote respectful letters to him, but dated those he wrote to others by the years of his reign, as we have hinted above. As for the temporal dominion of the popes in Rome, we shall shew in a proper place, that it did not begin till several years after; and that their first acquisitions were in the exarchate; that they became afterwards masters of Pentapolis, of several places in the Roman dukedom, and lastly of Rome. As for the famous donation of all Italy, said to have been made by Constantine the Great in the year 324. to pope Sylvester, it is now universally exploded as fabulous. It was indeed formerly defended with great warmth by most of the Italian writers, who even maintained in their works, that the emperors, who succeeded Constantine, had no title or right to any part of Italy, as belonging to the pope, and being the patrimony of St. Peter; that from thence the investitures given by the popes took their rise; and that, from that time, Italy began to be disjoined from the empire, and was never afterwards subject to the emperors; nay, Matteo d'Affusti, a civilian of no small account, from this supposed donation, will have the constitutions published by the emperors, the successors of Constantine, to be of no force in Italy, since those princes had not the power of causing them to be received by the inhabitants of that country, who were no longer subject to them; and several eminent civilians, members of the collateral council in Naples, were of opinion, that in Italy recourse ought to be had to the canon, and not to the civil law (3). But, in later times, it has been evidently proved by many able writers (4), that this donation was forged in the eighth or ninth century, and then inserted into the decrees of Gratian, no mention of it being made by any writer before that time. The many copies of this famous instrument, which are still extant, and widely differ from each other, are so many evident proofs of forgery to every person, who does not delight in darkness, to use the expression of Pietro Giannone, and therefore shuts his eyes, lest he should be forced to see. A copy of this supposed donation is still to be seen in the Vatican library, but greatly differing from that, which we read in the decrees of Gratian. It is related in quite different words by the popes Melchias, Nicholas II. and Leo IX. and quoted by Petrus Damianus, Balsar, Jus de Characteres, Bursarius, and Albericus, with great disagreement both in words and sense. Besides, who can imagine, that Eusebius, and other contemporary writers, who have transmitted to posterity the most minute incidents of Constantine's reign, would have passed over in silence this, perhaps the most remarkable of all? This donation is said to have been made by Constantine at Rome, in the spring of the year 324. and four days after his baptism. But it is evident from history, that Constantine was not then at Rome, but engaged in a war against Licinius in the east; and that, the war being ended, he went the same year to Thessalonica, and continued there till the year following (5). He defeated Licinius in his third consulship, having Crispus for his colleague, who was likewise in his third consulship, as is affirmed by all historians. Now, according to the unanimous consent of chronologists, Constantine and Crispus were consuls for the third time in 324. and in the spring of that year, the very time when he is supposed to have made that donation, he was at Thessalonica, as is manifest from two of his constitutions still to be seen in the Theodosian code, the one bearing the following date. Dat. viii. id. Mart. Thessalonica, Crispo III. & Constantino III. coss. the other dated thus; Dat. vi. id. Aprilis. Thessalonica, Crispo III. & Constantino III. coss. (6). The latter is directed to Lucer. Verinus, that year prefect of Rome, as appears from the notitia of the prefects of that city, where we read Crispo III. & Constantino III. coss. Lucer. Verinus praefectus urbi. From these constitutions, and likewise from the most credible historians, both Greek and Latin, it has been evidently proved by several writers, that Constantine was baptized in Nicomedia when he was dying, and not in Rome by pope Sylvester, to whom he is supposed to have made the above-mentioned donation four days after his baptism: so that, upon the whole, we may conclude Constantine's yielding Rome to Sylvester, and his receiving baptism at the hands of that pope, to be equally fabulous.

(1) Greg. III. ep. iii. P. de Marca de con. sac. & imp. l. iii. c. 11. num. 5.
Maimburg. in hist. imag. p. 52. (3) Affis. in consil. in pralud. q. 2. num. 3. & q. 20. num. 1. Tappia de jur. reg. l. i. de legib. l. i. num. 6. (4) Marca, l. iii. c. 12. & l. vi. c. 6. Schol. frat. antiq. illust.
part. ii. diff. 3. c. 8. (5) Vido Zof. l. ii. & Anonym. Sirmund. (6) Cod. Theod. l. iv.

(2) Spanhem. contra

- a Ravenna, and severely punished the authors of the late disturbances. As for the rebellious Romans, he was well apprised he could never reduce them, so long as they were supported by the king of the Lombards; and therefore he employed all his art and policy to take off that prince from the party of the Romans, and bring him over to his own. Luitprand, for some time, withstood all his offers; but Trajimund duke of Spoleto revolting at this very juncture, the exarch, laying hold of that opportunity, offered to assist the king with all his strength against the rebellious duke, provided he would, in like manner, assist him against the pope and the Romans. With this proposal Luitprand readily closed, and a league being concluded upon these terms between him and the exarch, the two armies joined, and began their march towards
- b Spoleto. At their approach, the duke, despairing of being able to resist two such powers, came out with a small attendance to meet them, and, throwing himself at the king's feet, sued, in that humble posture, for pardon; which Luitprand not only granted him, but confirmed him in the dukedom, after he had obliged him to take a new oath of allegiance, and give hostages for his fidelity in time to come. From Spoleto the two armies marched, in pursuance of the treaty, to Rome, and encamped in the meadows of Nero, between the Tiber and the Vatican. Gregory had caused the city of Rome to be fortified in the best manner he could; but being sensible, that the Romans alone could not long hold out against two such armies, and reflecting on the kind treatment the duke of Spoleto had met with upon his submitting to the king, he resolved to follow his example; and accordingly, taking with him some of the clergy, and the principal inhabitants of the city, he went to wait on the king in his camp; and there, with a pathetic speech, as he was a great master of eloquence, softened Luitprand to such a degree, that, throwing himself at his feet in the presence of the whole army, he begged pardon for entering into an alliance against him, and, assuring him of his protection for the future, he went with him to the church of St. Peter, and there, disarming himself in the presence of his chief officers, he laid his girdle, his sword, and his gantlet, with his royal mantle, his crown of gold, and cross of silver, on the apostle's sepulchre. After this, he reconciled the pope with the exarch, who was thereupon received into the city, where he continued for some
- c time, maintaining a friendly correspondence with the pope. At this time an impostor, taking the name of Tiberius, and pretending to be descended from the emperors, seduced a great many people in Tuscany, and was by them proclaimed emperor. The exarch resolved to march against him; but, as he had not sufficient forces to oppose the rebels, Gregory, who let no opportunity slip of obliging Leo, persuaded the Romans to attend the exarch in this expedition; by which means the usurper being taken in a castle, his head was sent to the emperor, and the rebellion utterly suppressed. But the emperor still insisting upon his edict against the images being received in Rome, the Romans, at the instigation of the pope, publicly renounced their allegiance to Leo, paid him no more tribute, and withdrew for ever their obedience to the emperors of the east. Leo, informed of this revolt, and not questioning but the pope was the author of it, immediately caused all the patrimonies of the church of Rome in Sicily, Calabria, and his other dominions, to be confiscated. At the same time he ordered a powerful army to be raised, with a design to recover the towns that had revolted, to chastise the Romans for their rebellion, and, above all, to be revenged on the pope, who had raised all these disturbances, by opposing himself, and persuading others to oppose, the execution of his edict. Gregory, greatly alarmed at the warlike preparations that were carrying on throughout the empire, and well apprised, that they were chiefly designed against him and the Romans, resolved to recur to the protection of the French, the only nation at that time capable of coping with the emperor, and on whom, on account of their zeal for religion, he thought he might depend. The Lombards were then very powerful; but, as they wanted to be masters of Rome, he did not think it advisable to trust them. The Venetians, though zealous in the defence of the pope, were not yet in a condition to withstand the power of the emperor, and, besides, were jealous of the Lombards, who watched all opportunities of enlarging their dominions at the expence of their neighbours. As for Spain, it was then in a most deplorable condition, being over-run, and almost wholly ruined, by the Saracens. The French nation was at this time governed by the celebrated Charles Martel, who had distinguished himself in a most

An alliance between the exarch and Luitprand.

They besiege Rome.

The pope persuades Luitprand to raise the siege. Year after Christ 729.

Leo resolves to reduce the revolted cities, and to chastise the pope:

Who has recourse to the French.
Year after
Christ 731.

eminent manner in the wars of France and Germany, and had, not long before, gained a signal victory over the Saracens in the neighbourhood of Tours; whence he was generally reputed the best general, and the greatest hero, of his time. To him therefore Gregory sent a solemn embassy, with a great number of reliques, earnestly intreating him to take the Romans, and the church, under his protection, and defend them against the attempts of Leo. The ambassadors were received with extraordinary marks of honour, and a treaty soon concluded between them and Charles, who engaged to march into Italy in person, at the head of a powerful army, in defence of the Romans, and the church, if they should be attacked either by the emperor, or the Lombards. On the other hand, the Romans were to acknowledge him for their protector, and confer on him the honour of the consulship, as it had been formerly conferred on Clovis by the emperor Anastasius, after that prince had defeated the Visigoths. The ambassadors returned from France loaded with rich presents. But Gregory did not long enjoy the fruit of their negotiations; for he died the same year 731. and was succeeded by pope Gregory III. in whose time some place the above-mentioned embassy. These authors tell us, that Luitprand, having defeated Thrasimund, who had revolted a second time, invaded, after his victory, the Roman dukedom, and laid close siege to Rome, being provoked against Gregory for receiving and entertaining the rebel; that the pope, finding his prayers and intreaties did not make the same impression on the king, as those of his predecessor, had recourse to Charles Martel; and that Charles persuaded the king of the Lombards to raise the siege, and, contenting himself with four cities only, to leave Rome, and the rest of that dukedom, to the Romans and the pope. Be that as it will, it is certain, that, upon the pope's recurring to France, the French first began to concern themselves in the affairs of Italy, and afterwards, by degrees, made themselves masters of the country, as we shall relate anon.

In the mean time died the emperor Leo, and was succeeded by his son Constantine, surnamed Copronymus, who, treading in the footsteps of his father, renewed his edict against images, and began to prosecute all those, who stood up in their defence; nay, not satisfied with ordering the images to be removed, he went farther, and forbade the invocation of saints, especially of the virgin Mary, not suffering any holy days to be kept in her honour, or her assistance to be implored. This edict occasioned new disturbances in Italy, and confirmed the Romans in the resolution they had taken of separating themselves intirely from the empire, the more as, being now under the protection of Charles Martel, they had nothing to fear from the emperor. They therefore drove out of their city such of the imperial officers, as they had hitherto suffered to continue there, and by that means abolished the very shadow of dominion, which the emperor had till this time among them. Soon after the emperor Leo, died Gregory III. and was succeeded by Zachary, who was no sooner elected, than he dispatched a solemn embassy to Luitprand, intreating him to restore the four cities, which had been yielded to him upon his raising the siege of Rome. Luitprand received the ambassadors with extraordinary marks of honour, and seemed inclined to comply with their request; but, as the desired restitution was put off from time to time, Zachary, in imitation of Gregory, went in person to wait on the king, attended by all the clergy of Rome. Luitprand, who was then at Terni, received him with the greatest respect imaginable, and not only granted him his request, but restored to the church of Rome the patrimony in Sabina, which had been confiscated thirty years before, and concluded a peace with the Romans for twenty years. Towards the latter end of his reign, being impatient of rest, he invaded the exarchate, and, having taken Cesena, was making the necessary preparations for besieging Ravenna, and bringing that place once more under his dominion. But Zachary, for whom the king had the greatest veneration, interposing, Luitprand, at his request, not only laid aside all thoughts of making further conquests, but even restored Cesena, and some other places, which he had taken. Not long after, Luitprand died, in the year 743. the thirty-second of his reign, and was buried with great pomp and solemnity in the church of St. Adrian in Pavia. Paulus Diaconus bestows on him the highest encomiums, and not undeservedly; for he was endued with every good quality becoming a prince. He governed with great justice and moderation, treating his subjects as his children, and giving daily instances of his generosity and good-nature,

Luitprand dies.
Year after
Christ 743.

* Vide append. ad Greg. Tur. p. 15. c Idem ibid.

* SIGON. ad ann. 739.

* PAUL. DIAC. l. vi. c. 57, 58.

a even to his greatest enemies. He enlarged his dominions by the addition of Pentapolis, and the greater part of Æmia; and this his thirst after conquests, and his ambition, are the only faults, which the writers of those times have been able to discover in his character. He founded many churches and monasteries, enumerated by Paulus Diaconus^d, whereof the vestiges are admired to this day. With his death Paulus Diaconus closes his history of the Lombards (Z).

Luitprand was succeeded by his grandson Hildebrand or Hildebrand, whom he had, some years before, taken for his partner in the kingdom. But the Lombards, finding him unequal to so great a charge, deposed him, after a short reign of seven months, and in his room raised to the throne Rachis duke of Friuli, a person highly esteemed for his piety and eminent virtues^e. He ascended the throne in 744. to the unspeakable satisfaction of the whole nation, and, in the beginning of his reign, confirmed the peace with Zachary and the Romans, which had been granted them by his predecessor. In the second year of his reign, finding the laws of the Lombards still defective, notwithstanding the many alterations and additions made by the preceding kings, he resolved to add some new laws to them, and soften the rigour of others. Accordingly, having convened the states in Pavia, with their consent and approbation, he published a new edict in 745. and ordered it to be observed throughout his dominions. This edict, containing eleven chapters, is still to be seen in the often-mentioned code of the monastery of Cava in the kingdom of Naples^f. Having thus provided his subjects with excellent laws, and settled the affairs of the kingdom to his satisfaction, though naturally inclined to peace, he turned all on a sudden his thoughts upon war, and, pushed on by an ambition of enlarging his dominions, as his predecessors had done, he raised a considerable army, and, putting himself at the head of it, he first retook several places in Pentapolis, which had revolted from him, and then, entering the Roman dukedom, laid close siege to Perugia. The emperor was at a great distance, and did not mind the affairs of Italy. The exarch was not in a condition to defend himself, if attacked, much less to protect his neighbours. Zachary therefore, instead of soliciting the assistance either of the emperor or the exarch, resolved to try, whether, by his own authority and character, he could divert the king of the Lombards from pursuing his conquests. As his former journey had proved successful beyond his expectation, he resolved to undertake another. Accordingly, he went in person to the camp of Rachis, under the walls of Perugia, and, being received by that prince with great marks of respect and veneration, he represented to him, with such force and energy, the punishment that is reserved for those, who unjustly invade the property of others, that Rachis, wonderfully affected with his speech, not only raised the siege of Perugia, but restored all the places he held in Pentapolis; nay, the presence and authority of the bishop made such a deep impression on his mind, that the following year he went to Rome, with his wife Tasia, and his daughter Ratruda, to pay him a visit. Being overcome, while he was in that city, with the secret force of religion, he renounced his kingdom, and, prostrating himself at the pope's feet, took the habit of St. Benedict, and retired to the monastery of Monte Cassino, where he spent the remainder of his days, and was honoured after his death by those monks as a saint (A). Tasia his wife, and Ratruda his daughter, followed Hildebrand succeeds; but is deposed, and Rachis chosen in his room.

He publishes a new edict of laws.

He invades the Roman dukedom, and lays siege to Perugia.

He raises the siege, and turns monk.

^d Idem ibid.

^e ERCH. apud Peregrin. in hist. princ. Longob. p. 5.

^f Idem ibid.

(Z) With the death of Luitprand, Paulus Diaconus closes his history of the Lombards. He was deacon of the church of Forum Julii, in the territory of which city his great-grandfather's father settled, when the Lombards, his countrymen, first came into Italy. He left five sons, who were carried into captivity by the Avars, when Forum Julii was betrayed to them, as we have related above, by Romilda the wife of Gisulf. Of the five brothers, one only, by name Lupicis, returned to the place of his nativity, where he married, and had a son named Arechis. The son of Arechis, named Warnefrid, had, by his wife Theudelinda, Paul Warnefrid our historian, commonly called Paulus Diaconus, or Paul the deacon. He betrays, throughout his whole work, great partiality for his countrymen, of which the reader will find several instances in the learned Camillo Pellegrino (7).

(A) Giovanni Villani, in his history of Florence, supposes the large statue of brass, which is still to be seen at Barletta, a city of Apulia, and is called Arrachio, to have been erected by the Lombards of Benevento to this prince (8). Beatillus (9), and the abbot de Nuce (10), are of the same opinion; for, at this time, the dukedom of Benevento extended as far as Bari, so that it comprised the city of Barletta; and it is not improbable, say they, that the Lombards of Benevento should, in one of their cities, erect a statue to their king. They were, it is true, immediately subject to their own duke; but both he and

(7) Camill. Peregrin. in dissert. fin. ducat. Benevent. ad septentrion. p. 37.

(9) Beatill. hist. di St. Sabino, p. 83.

(10) De Nuce ad Ostiens. l. i. c. 8.

VOL. VII. N^o. 9.

His brother
Asthulphus chosen king in his room.
Year after
Christ 751.

followed his example, retiring into a monastery of virgins, founded by them at a small distance from Monte Cassino &c. The Lombards no sooner heard, that Rachis had religned, than, assembling in Pavia, they chose his brother Asthulphus, or Aistulphus, in his room, a man of great gallantry in the field, and wisdom in council. He raised the kingdom of the Lombards to the highest pitch of its grandeur; which gave occasion to its total ruin, as we shall relate anon. In the beginning of his reign, he confirmed the peace concluded between his brother and pope Zachary, who died the following year 752. and was succeeded by Stephen II. But Stephen, having held the see three days, died on the fourth, and in his room was chosen another named likewise Stephen, whom the antients call Stephen II. not reckoning his predecessor, who died before he was consecrated; for, in those days, the election alone did not make a pope, but the consecration; and hence this pope is by Echerempertus, and Leo Ostiensis, called Stephen II. and not Stephen III. but at present it is a settled point in the church of Rome, that the pope receives all authority from his election, contrary to what was believed by the antients; and therefore the writers of later times reckon Stephen, who lived but three days, and was not consecrated, among the popes, altering by that means the number of the subsequent Stephens; so that the second is by them called the third, the third called the fourth, &c. and the ninth called the tenth, which has bred confusion in the history of the church. Stephen II. or, as the modern writers call him, the third, three months after his election, dispatched legates to king Asthulphus, with rich presents, to confirm the peace, which had been lately granted by that prince to Zachary. The king received the new pope's legates with the greatest respect, and not only ratified the peace, but extended it to forty years more. This he did with no other view, but to divert the pope from thwarting the design he had upon the exarchate, which he was resolved to invade, the emperor Constantine Copronymus being then engaged in a war with the Saracens and Bulgarians, and all Asia and Greece miserably wasted by a dreadful plague. He thought he could not have a more favourable opportunity of subjecting Ravenna, and the rest of the exarchate; and therefore, having raised a very considerable army, he marched straight to that city, and closely besieged it. Eutychius, who was still exarch, defended the place for some time with great valour; but finding his men quite tired out, and despairing of relief, he at last abandoned it to the enemy, and returned by sea to Constantinople. Asthulphus, thus become master of the metropolis of the exarchate, reduced, with great ease, the other cities, and all Pentapolis, which he added to his kingdom, and, by that addition, raised the power of the Lombards to a higher pitch than any of his predecessors had done. Thus ended the exarchate of Ravenna, and with it the splendor of that city, which, ever since the time of Valentinian, the emperors had chosen for the place of their residence, as it was afterwards the seat of the Gothic kings, and, upon their expulsion, of the exarchs, who, for the space of an hundred and eighty-three years, maintained the power and authority of the emperors of the east in Italy. As the dukes of the other cities of Italy, and of Rome itself, were under the exarch, who resided at Ravenna, the bishops of that see contended for pre-

He confirms the peace with the pope.

He invades the exarchate, and takes Ravenna.

An end of the exarchate, which is changed into a duke-
dom.
Year after
Christ 752.

* Idem. ibid. & LEO OSTIENS. chron. l. i. c. 8.

they were at the same time subject to the king, the kingdom of the Lombards comprising not only that country, which is now known by the name of Lombardy, and the other small dukedoms, but likewise the three famous dukedoms of Friuli, Spoleto, and Benevento. But Pietro Giannone alleges two strong arguments against the opinion of Villani, and the two above-mentioned writers, who have espoused, without due consideration, his opinion. In the first place, it is altogether improbable, says he, that the Lombards of Benevento would have erected such a large and magnificent statue in a town at that time of no account, and situated on the very borders of their dukedom, and not in Benevento their metropolis, or in some other city of note, such as Capua, Salerno, Bari, &c. which were all cities of that dukedom. Villani, who flourished in the reigns of Charles II. of Anjou, and Joan I. his niece, when Barletta was become one of the most considerable cities of Apulia, thinking it had been such in the reign of Rachis, and seeing a statue there, called by the natives Arrachio, concluded it to be the statue of Rachis. The other reason alleged by Giannone is, that the prince represented by that statue is dressed after the manner of the Roman emperors, has in one hand a cross, in the other a globe, and no beard; whereas the kings of the Lombards are represented, as appears from the ancient code of the monastery of Cava, with long beards, military garments, a sceptre in their right-hand, and a crown on their head, none of them having either the cross or the globe. Hence Giannone concludes it to be the statue of some Roman emperor, perhaps of Heraclius, there being some resemblance between that emperor's name and the name, which, time out of mind, has been given to the statue by the inhabitants of Barletta (11).

(11) Piet. Giannone. hist. civil. di Napol. l. v. c. 1. sec. 11.

cedency

a cedency even with the bishops of Rome. But a period was at the same time put to the exarchate, and to the lustre of that antient metropolis, which was reduced by the Lombards to a dukedom; so that, by degrees, it decayed, and, in process of time, came to the deplorable condition in which it is at present. Marquardus Freberus, in his chronology of the exarchs of Ravenna, writes, that the exarchate lasted for the space of an hundred and seventy-five years^b. But he does not reckon well; for he himself tells us, that it began in 568. and ended in 752. so that, even according to him, it must have lasted an hundred and eighty-three years.

Astulphus, now master of the exarchate, thought he had a just title to all the places depending on it, and consequently to the Roman dukedom, and to Rome itself. He therefore dispatched a messenger to that city, requiring the inhabitants to acknowledge him for their sovereign, and alleging, in justification of his demand, that the exarchate, which was his by right of conquest, gave him the same power, which the emperors had till then in Italy over the inhabitants of Rome, and the Roman dukedom. At the same time he marched his army towards Rome, and, having taken Narnia, now Narni, he sent from thence to acquaint the pope, that he was determined to plunder Rome, and put all the Romans to the sword, if they refused to acknowledge him, by paying him yearly a golden solidus a head. The pope, alarmed at this severe message, attempted first to divert the king from this resolution by a solemn embassy, at the head of which were the two abbots of Monte Cassino and St. Vincentius, who, meeting the king at Vulturnum, a city in Campania, standing on a river of that name, put him in mind of the peace he had lately concluded with Stephen and the Romans, and endeavoured, by arguments, prayers, and intreaties, to persuade him not to break it, but to employ his arms elsewhere^c. The two legates had brought rich presents with them for the king; but he, rejecting them, insisted upon his being acknowledged by the pope and the Romans for their sovereign. This threw Stephen into the greatest perplexity imaginable; for he found the king of the Lombards unalterably determined upon the reduction of Rome, and the Roman dukedom; and, on the other hand, the emperor was no ways in a condition to defend them, or put a stop to the conquests of so powerful and warlike a prince. The pope, upon the first irruption of the Lombards into the exarchate, had written pressing letters to the emperor, representing to him the danger Italy was in, the disgrace, which, from the loss of the countries he still held there, would, in future ages, redound upon his memory, and the glory, that would accrue to him from preserving so valuable a portion of the empire. But the emperor, instead of an army, sent one John, with the character of ambassador, to the king of the Lombards, requiring him to restore the places he had already taken, and not to disturb the peace of Italy, by attempting the reduction of others. John went first to Rome, and from thence, attended by Paul, the pope's brother, to Ravenna, where Astulphus then was. The king received the message with the utmost contempt, and dismissed the messengers with great scorn, which they might well have expected. Hereupon the pope sent his brother to Constantinople, to acquaint the emperor, that the king of the Lombards was not to be restrained by his authority alone, and to intreat him to send a powerful army into Italy, without which Rome, and the remains of the Roman empire in that country, would be irreparably lost. But Constantine at that time had no troops to spare, being engaged in other wars; so that the pope, upon the invasion of the Roman dukedom, thinking it was in vain to have recourse to him, resolved, after the example of Zachary and the two Gregories, to recur to the protection of France. That kingdom had been transferred some years before from the Merovingian to the Carlovingian line; and the celebrated Pepin, son to Charles Martel, was then king. As pope Zachary had had a great share in that translation, Pepin had promised to protect his see against all its enemies, especially against the Lombards. Stephen therefore, not doubting but Pepin would readily perform what he had promised, dispatched privately a messenger into France, to acquaint him with his distress, and the desire he had of conferring with him in person, provided he could do it without danger, and a safe conduct was procured for him from the king of the Lombards, who already kept Rome, in a manner, blocked up. Pepin, glad of the opportunity of obliging the pope, sent immediately two persons of distinction, to beg, in his name, of the king of the Lombards, leave for Stephen to come out of the city, and go with him into France. The two Astulphus invades the Roman dukedom.

The pope endeavours in vain to divert him from this invasion.

Pope Stephen recurs to Pepin king of France.

^b FREHER. in Leuvenclav. tom. i. jur. Græc-Rom.

^c SIGON. ad ann. 753.

ambassadors

embassadors found the Lombards in possession of all the castles and strong-holds in the neighbourhood of Rome, and ready to invest that city. However, Astulphus readily complied with their request, and suffered the pope, not only to come safe out of Rome, but to repair with them to France, where he was received by Pepin with the greatest marks of esteem and veneration. He laid before the king the deplorable condition to which he was reduced by the Lombards, and, imploring his assistance and protection, he promised, as one good turn deserves another, to employ all the authority of the apostolic see in his behalf. On the other hand, Pepin assured him of his assistance, and, having prevailed upon him to stay till the winter was over, and the army ready to march, both he, and his two sons Charles and Carloman, were in the mean time anointed by him with the holy unction, and, with great solemnity, consecrated in the church of St. Dennis kings of France. This ceremony, Pepin thought, would recommend him to the respect of his subjects, and greatly contribute to the establishing of the kingdom in his person and posterity ^k.

He goes in person into France.

Astulphus publishes a new edict.

Pepin is persuaded by the pope to make war on the Lombards.

He enters Italy, and besieges Astulphus in his metropolis.

The exarchate and Pentapolis is given by Pepin to the pope.
Year after Christ 754.

In the mean time Astulphus, not aware of the danger that threatened him, was wholly intent upon publishing a new edict of laws, which is still to be seen in the code of the monastery of Cava, and contains twenty-two chapters. The preface prefixed to this edict is couched in the following words: "Having maturely and seriously weighed and examined the laws enacted by my predecessors, I have found many things wanting, and great disorders arising from that want: Therefore, in the fifth year of my happy reign, in the name of God, on the first day of March, the seventh indiction, having called together the chief lords and judges of my kingdom, I have caused to be added to the laws of my predecessors, and to my own, what to me seemed just, and pleasing to God." But while Astulphus was busied in making new laws, pope Stephen was negotiating in France the ruin of him and his kingdom. Pepin, upon the arrival of Stephen in France, had promised to assist him against the Lombards with the whole strength of his kingdom, and to drive them out of the exarchate and Pentapolis, which were to be restored, as Pepin understood, to the emperor, from whom the Lombards had taken them. But the pope finding the king ready to gratify him in all his demands, he resolved not to let slip so favourable an opportunity of aggrandizing himself; and therefore insinuated to Pepin, that he could not better acquit himself of his obligations to the apostolic see, consult the welfare of his soul, or reward him for the dangers he had undergone, and the pains he had taken for the safety of Italy, and the church, than by granting both the exarchate and Pentapolis to St. Peter, that is, to himself. As for Constantine, the pope pretended he had forfeited all right to those countries, by forsaking the protection of Italy, and persecuting the church. Pepin, to oblige the pope, not only promised to put him in possession of the exarchate and Pentapolis, if he should succeed in driving the Lombards out, but confirmed his promise with a solemn oath, which was likewise taken by his two sons Charles and Carloman ^l. When Pepin was ready to set out on his march for Italy, in order to perform his promise, the pope was taken ill; so that the expedition was put off till the month of August. In the mean time the pope, by frequent letters and messages, endeavoured to persuade Astulphus to restore what he had taken, conjuring him by the holy mysteries, and the tremendous day of judgment, to prevent, by his compliance, the effusion of christian blood. Pepin likewise interposed his good offices, sending three different embassies to the king of the Lombards, and earnestly intreating him to content himself with such countries as had been held by the kings his predecessors. But, finding Astulphus deaf to his intreaties, he resolved to employ force; and accordingly, putting himself at the head of his army, he marched, attended and spurred on by the pope, towards the Alps, sending a party of chosen men before to open the passes. These Astulphus attacked with great vigour; but his men being put to flight by the French, who had the advantage of the ground, he fled with great precipitation to Pavia. Pepin, finding the passes clear, crossed the mountains unmolested, and, entering Italy, advanced to Pavia, where the king had taken refuge, and closely besieged it. Astulphus, apprised of the danger he was in, sent one of his chief lords to Pepin to sue for peace; which was granted him, upon his engaging, by a solemn oath, to restore the places he had seized in the Roman dukedom, the exarchate, and Pentapolis, not to the emperor, but to the pope. For the performance of these articles, he delivered up forty hostages

^k LEO OSTIENS. l. i. c. 8.

^l SIGON. l. iii. p. 126, 127.

- a to Pepin, who sent them into Thrace, and soon after followed them thither with his whole army, though in the depth of winter. As for Stephen, he returned with great joy to Rome, not doubting but Astulphus would soon put him in possession of the countries, which he had, by a solemn oath, promised to deliver up to him; but Astulphus, without the least regard either to his oath, or the hostages, when he thought the storm blown over by the departure of Pepin, instead of delivering up the countries he had seized before, broke unexpectedly into the Roman dukedom, and made himself master of several cities, destroying all with fire and sword. At last he approached Rome with his army, and closely besieged it, not imagining that Pepin would pass the Alps a second time. In this extremity, Stephen had recourse to his protector,
- b writing to him the three letters that are still extant^m, and couched in the most submissive terms imaginable. St. Peter, to whom the donation had been made, is introduced speaking in these letters to the king, his two sons, and all the states of France, conjuring them to come to his relief, on pain of being debarred from the kingdom of heavenⁿ. Pepin, greatly affected with the pope's letters, and looking upon the breach of faith in the king of the Lombards as an affront offered to him, resolved to have recourse anew to arms. Having therefore, with great expedition, assembled his forces, he again set out on his march for Italy; which Astulphus no sooner heard, than, breaking up the siege of Rome, which had lasted already three months, he returned in great haste to the defence of his own country. In the mean time Pepin,
- c having defeated, as formerly, the troops that had been sent to defend the passes in the Alps, and entered Italy, Astulphus, whose army was not near so numerous as that of Pepin, threw himself a second time into Pavia, with the flower of his army. Thither Pepin followed him, and invested the city on all sides. In the mean time the emperor Constantinus Copronymus, receiving intelligence of the agreement between the pope and Pepin, in virtue of which the king was to drive the Lombards out of the exarchate, and then deliver it up, not to him, but to the pope, immediately dispatched ambassadors to Pepin, to protest against that donation, to convince him, if possible, of the injustice of it, and persuade him to restore to the empire what had been rent from it, and not to the pope, who had no manner of claim to any part of
- d his dominions. The ambassadors went first to Rome, and thence to Marseilles, where they were informed, that Pepin had already passed the Alps. Hereupon one of them made privately the best of his way to Pavia, where he understood the king then was, leaving the rest at Marseilles with the legate, whom the pope had sent with them from Rome, and who, as they apprehended, would have thwarted their negotiations. The ambassador, who was immediately introduced to the king, after having extolled, in his master's name, the courage, valour, and conduct, which he had shewn in the present war with the Lombards, the common enemy of the empire and France, represented to him, that the exarchate, without all dispute, belonged to the empire, from which it had been taken with the greatest injustice, while the emperor was engaged
- e in a war with the Saracens; that, since the king had retaken it from the unjust invader, it was agreeable to the rules of equity, that he should restore to the emperor what was his; that the bishop of Rome was his subject; and that since he suffered him peaceably to enjoy what had been given him by princes and private persons for maintaining his dignity, he could not usurp the dominions of his sovereign, without being guilty at the same time of high treason, and the most crying injustice. The ambassador concluded his speech by telling the king, that his master, who desired nothing of others but what seemed agreeable to equity, was ready to practise it himself; and therefore would willingly reimburse him all the expences he had been at in the recovery of the exarchate, and other places taken by the Lombards. Pepin, having heard
- f with great attention what the ambassador said, replied, that the exarchate belonged to the conqueror of the Lombards, who had acquired it by right of war, as their forefathers had done; that many places had, of their own accord, submitted to Luitprand, the inhabitants having no other means to maintain their religion; that therefore the right of the Lombards to those countries was no more to be questioned, than that of the French to the countries, which they had taken from the Romans and Visigoths; that the right which the Lombards had was devolved upon him, so that he could dispose of those countries as he thought fit; and he had judged it proper to bestow them on the pope, that the catholic faith might be preserved in its full purity, and Astulphus besieged a second time in Pavia by Pepin.

The emperor sends ambassadors to claim the exarchate.

Pepin's answer to them.

^m Tom. vi. concil. p. 239. & BARON. ad ann. 755.

ⁿ DU CHESNE hist. tom. iii. p. 705.

be no longer defiled with the many abominable errors of the Greeks; that this was ^a his firm resolution, which nothing could make him alter; and that he was determined to maintain, to the last drop of his blood, the pope, and the church, in the possession of what he had given them. He then dismissed the ambassadors, without suffering them to reply ^o; and, pursuing the siege of Pavia with great vigour, reduced Astulphus to such streights, that, being no longer able to hold out, he sent ambassadors to sue for peace; which was granted him by Pepin, upon his promising to perform immediately the treaty made the year before, and, over and above, to deliver up to the pope the city of Commachio, a place at that time of great importance. This promise was confirmed by a solemn oath, and hostages were given as formerly. Pepin then renewed his donation, whereby he yielded to St. Peter, and his successors, the ^b exarchate, Æmilia, now Romagna, and Pentapolis, now Marca d'Ancona, with all the cities therein, to be held by them for ever; and, having caused a new instrument of the donation to be drawn up, he delivered it, signed by himself, by his two sons Charles and Carloman, and by the chief barons and prelates of France, to Fulard abbot of St. Denis, to be given into the pope's hands. Fulard, whom Pepin had appointed his commissary, having received this instrument, went, together with the commissaries named by Astulphus, to all the cities of the exarchate, Æmilia, and Pentapolis; and, taking possession of them in the pope's name, he received hostages, with whom he repaired to Rome, carrying with him the keys, and Pepin's donation, which were laid by the pope on St. Peter's sepulchre. Pepin, having thus performed ^c the promise he had made to the pope, left Italy, and returned with his army to France ^p. The exarchate comprised, according to Sigonius ^q, the following cities, viz. Ravenna, Bologna, Imola, Faenza, Forlimpopoli, Forli, Cesena, Bobbio, Ferrara, Commachio, Adria, Cervia, and Secchia, which were all delivered to the pope, except Faenza and Ferrara. Pentapolis, or Marca d'Ancona, comprehended Rimini, Pesaro, Conca, Fano, Sinigaglia, Ancona, Osimo, Umana, Jesi, Fossombrone, Monteferetro, Urbino, the Balnesian territory, Cagli, Luceoli, and Eugubio, with their territories and districts, as appears from the donation of Lewis the Pious, by which Pepin's donation was confirmed. The pope committed the government of the exarchate to the archbishop of Ravenna, who thereupon took the title of exarch, not as archbishop, but as an ^d officer of the pope, now a temporal prince. Thus was the sceptre added to the keys, the sovereignty to the priesthood, and the popes enriched with the spoils of the Lombard kings, and the Roman emperors. As those countries belonged, without all doubt, to Constantine then emperor, some authors have thought, that this donation was made in his name, and that this gave rise to the fable of the donation of Constantine the Great ^r. Be that as it will, from this time the popes left off taking notice of the years of the emperors in their bulls and letters, as they had done hitherto; and, depending upon the protection of France, they withdrew their obedience to the emperor, and would be no longer deemed his subjects. The French, who pique themselves upon being the first authors of the popes temporal grandeur, will not ^e however allow Pepin to have ever invested them with the sovereignty, it being manifest, say they, that the sovereignty remained in Pepin and his descendants, and was exercised by them all over Italy. With them most authors agree, and, among the rest, the learned Sigonius. Petrus de Marca maintains this opinion, and at the same time tells us how the popes, by degrees, became sovereigns of Rome. The exarchate of Ravenna, says that writer, being yielded to the pope, the government of Rome, of course, devolved on him; for the Roman dukedom had been always subject to the exarch: the sovereignty indeed was vested in the emperor, but the administration belonged to the exarch; whence the pope, when he became master of the exarchate, claimed it, and continued to govern Rome, not as sovereign, but only ^f with the authority that had been vested in the exarch, till the year 876. when the authority of the emperors, successors of Charlemagne, declining in Italy, Charles the Bald yielded all his claim to, and sovereignty over Rome, to the apostolic see ^s. Hence Constantine Porphyrogenitus, describing the state of Europe in his time, that is, about the year 914. writes, that Rome was subject to the pope as its sovereign. It was upon the declension of the western empire, when it was confined to Germany alone, that the pope, as well as the several princes of Italy, assumed the sovereignty, which they Astulphus submits.

Pepin renews his donation to the pope.

And puts him in possession of the exarchate, &c.
Year after Christ 756.

Whether the pope was invested with the sovereignty over those countries.

^o ANASTAS. in vit. Steph. III. p. 87. P. de MARCA de concord. sacerdot. & imper. l. i. c. 17. num. 5.
^p LEO OSTIENS. l. i. c. 8. ANASTAS. ibid. ^q SIGON. ad ann. 756. ^r SPANHEM. de imag. contra Maimburg. ^s P. DE MARCA, l. iii. c. 11. num. 7, 11, 12. CONST. PORPH. de themat. l. ii.

enjoy

a enjoy to this day, as we shall plainly demonstrate in our modern history. A modern writer has endeavoured to prove, from the coins of the popes, that the French emperors were never sovereigns of Rome, nor had any authority in that city, but what was granted them by the pope; for, according to him, the senate and people of Rome, shaking off the yoke of the emperors of the east, subjected themselves to the pope, and acknowledged him for their sovereign^t. But that writer is, in our opinion, fully confuted by Le Blanc, in a treatise which he published on the coins of Charlemagne, Lewis the Pious, Lothaire, and their successors, coined in Rome ^u.

But to return to Astulphus: That prince, finding himself constrained to surrender the exarchate, and the other countries, to one who had no more right to them than himself, began to make vast preparations, with a design to retake what he had been obliged to give up, and at the same time to put himself in a condition of withstanding the French, who, he did not doubt, would return into Italy, and renew the war. But while, in the height of these warlike preparations, he was one day taking the diversion of hunting in a neighbouring forest, he was killed, according to some, by a wild boar, according to others, by a fall from his horse. Erchempertus writes, that he was killed with an arrow ^w.

Astulphus dies.
Year after
Christ 756.

b We should perhaps have been able to give a more favourable account of his reign, had Paulus Diaconus continued his history; but that writer, living in the time of Charlemagne, the son of Pepin, prudently declined writing the history of this and the following king's reign, lest, by relating the transactions of those times, he should disoblige the French princes, who, having driven out the Lombards, succeeded them in the kingdom of Italy. His countrymen were, for the same reason, all silent; so that those events have been transmitted to posterity by such writers only, as were biased in favour of the prevailing party. As the deceased king left no issue male behind him, and his brother Arachis had taken the monastic habit, the Lombard lords began to assemble, in order to proceed to a new election. But in the mean time Desiderius, whom Astulphus had raised to the dukedom of Tuscany, and besides made him his comes stabuli, or master of the horse, caused himself to be proclaimed king by his Tuscan Lombards. This Rachis no sooner understood, than, repenting of his former resolution, he resolved to quit the monastic life, and resume the purple, being encouraged thereunto by several persons of great authority among the Lombards, and by the inhabitants of Liguria and Venetia, who began to flock to him in great numbers. This gave great uneasiness to Desiderius, who thereupon had recourse to the pope, offering him the cities of Faenza, Ancona, Secchia, and Ferrara, which had not been restored by Astulphus, provided he assisted him at this juncture, and, by his authority, maintained him on the throne.

Desiderius causes himself to be proclaimed
king.

d The pope readily closed with the proposal, and, entering into an alliance with Desiderius, found means to persuade Rachis to continue in the state he had embraced, and lay aside all thoughts of recovering the kingdom, which was held by his friend and ally. Desiderius, being thus delivered from the danger that threatened him, surrendered the above-mentioned cities to the pope, pursuant to the agreement. Pope Stephen died soon after, that is, on the twenty-sixth of April of the present year 757. To him the church of Rome is chiefly indebted for the grandeur it still enjoys. He was succeeded by his brother Paul, who renewed the alliance with the king of the Lombards, but died in the third year of that prince's reign. In his room was chosen Stephen the third, or, as the modern writers will have it, the fourth, between whom and Desiderius great jealousies arose, which at last came to an open rupture. Desiderius having, by his interest, caused one of his intimate friends, named Michael, to be chosen by the people and clergy archbishop of Ravenna, the pope, not approving the election, drove him from that see. Hereupon the king, to be revenged on the pope, caused the eyes of Christopher and Sergius to be put out. These were two legates sent from Rome to demand the restitution of some lands belonging to that church. After this, Desiderius, not doubting but the pope would have recourse to the kings of France, resolved to be before-hand with them, and gain them over, if possible, to his side. In order to this, he offered his two daughters in marriage to Charles and Carloman, who, upon the death of their father Pepin, had divided the kingdom between them. Pope Stephen was no sooner informed of this treaty, than he wrote to the two princes, earnestly intreating them not to enter into any sort of alliance with the king of the Lombards, and threatening them with excommunication,

He is supported by the pope, to whom he yields
some cities.

e f

^t VIGNOLI antiquior. pont. Rom. denar. p. 19.

^u Vide LE BLANC. p. 17.

^w ERCHEMP. p. 6.

nay,

Misunderstanding between him and Charlemagne.

He quarrels with the pope, and takes several cities.

may, and damnation ^w, if they consented to marry his daughters. But Desiderius ^a having gained Bertrade, the mother of the two princes, the marriages were, by her means, concluded, in spite of the utmost endeavours of the pope to prevent them. This alliance however was but short-lived; for Charles soon after divorced his wife, pretending, that she was incapable of bearing children, and married in her room Ildegarda, a princess of Suevia. His brother Carloman dying about the same time, Berta, the deceased king's widow, not thinking herself, and the two sons she had by him, safe in France, fled to her father in Italy, and put herself, and her children, under his protection. Desiderius, who was highly incensed against Charles for divorcing his daughter, received them with great joy, not doubting but he should, one time or other, be able, by their means, to raise disturbances in France; which would both give him the satisfaction of being revenged on Charles, and divert that prince from intermeddling with the affairs of Italy. In the mean time died pope Stephen, and Adrian I. was, in the year 772. chosen in his room. He no sooner saw himself raised to the apostolic see, than he sent two legates to conclude a lasting peace with Desiderius; and it was agreed, that neither of them should disturb the other in the possession of the countries they held. Desiderius, concluding, from this step taken by Adrian, that he did not entertain such jealousies and suspicions of the Lombard kings, as his predecessors had done, nor was so attached to the princes of France, proposed to him the consecrating and anointing the sons of Carloman kings, not doubting but that would raise tumults and disturbances in France, and at the same time create a misunderstanding between the pope and Charles, which would give him an opportunity of recovering the countries taken by Pepin, and yielded to the church. The ceremony of anointing, after the example of Pepin and his two sons, had been, by degrees, introduced among christian princes, the people deeming those, who were thus anointed, lawful kings. But Adrian, who, notwithstanding the peace he had concluded with the Lombards, was no less jealous of their power, than his predecessors had been, peremptorily refused to comply with the request of Desiderius, being well apprised, that, by granting it, he should incur the displeasure of Charles, the only prince capable of protecting him against the Lombards. Desiderius left no stone unturned to bring the pope into his measures; but, finding he could obtain nothing by fair means, he resolved to employ force. Accordingly, he broke unexpectedly into the exarchate, and, having made himself master of Ferrara, Comacina, and Faenza, he threatened Ravenna itself with a siege. Adrian, alarmed at these hostilities, immediately dispatched ambassadors to put the king in mind of the peace lately concluded, and to demand the restitution of the places, which he had taken with an open breach of the late treaty. The king received the ambassadors with the greatest marks of honour, and told them, that he was desirous of treating with the pope in person; and that, if he came himself, nothing should be denied him. But Adrian, rejecting the invitation, answered with great haughtiness, That he would never appear before him, unless he restored the cities he had seized. Desiderius, highly provoked at this answer, marched his army into Pentapolis, and, having there laid waste the territories of Sinigaglia, Monteferetro, Urbino, and Eugubio, he approached Rome, destroying all with fire and sword, and carrying into captivity such of the inhabitants, as fell into his hands. Hereupon Adrian ordered the abbot of St. Vincent, attended by twenty monks in great reputation for the sanctity of their lives, to wait upon the king in his name, and earnestly intreat him to restore the places he had taken, and desist from further hostilities. The king received them in a very obliging manner, and assured them, that, if the pope would come in person to confer with him, the cities should be immediately restored, and an end put to all hostilities. Not satisfied with signifying to the legate his earnest desire of a private interview with the pope, he sent ambassadors of his own to acquaint Adrian therewith, and persuade him, if possible, to comply with his request, since he had matters of the utmost importance to impart to him. But Adrian, firm in his former resolution, solemnly protested, that he would never appear before the king, till the towns he had taken were restored; but that, as soon as they were restored, he would meet him in what place soever he should think proper to appoint, in order to settle, in concert with him, the tranquillity of Italy. Upon the return of these ambassadors, Desiderius sent others, to whom the pope made the same answer, adding, that, if he did not comply with the king's request,

^w Tom. vii. concil. p. 582.

- a request, as soon as the cities were restored, he gave them leave to take them anew, and invade the territories of the church at his pleasure. But Desiderius, provoked more than ever at the obstinacy of the pope, threatened to bring his army before Rome, and, by that means, oblige Adrian to grant him his request. The pope was so terrified with these menaces, that, thinking himself in the utmost danger, he resolved, in imitation of his predecessors, to have recourse to France. Accordingly he sent one Peter by sea, all the passes by land being guarded by the Lombards, to acquaint Charlemagne, then king of France, with the danger he was in; and not only to implore his assistance, but to invite him to the conquest of Italy, almost intirely ruined by the Lombards. Desiderius was no sooner informed of the arrival of the pope's legate in France, and of the things laid there to his charge, than he dispatched ambassadors to Charlemagne, assuring him of his inclination to live in peace with the pope, and complaining of Adrian's obstinacy, in refusing him a private interview for settling the tranquillity of Italy. But Charlemagne, who only wanted a favourable opportunity of revenging himself on Desiderius for keeping his two nephews, with a view, as he supposed, of raising disturbances in France; received the invitation made him by Adrian with incredible satisfaction, and began to make such preparations, as plainly shewed, that his design was not only to assist the pope, but to make an intire conquest of the kingdom of the Lombards *. He appointed Geneva for the place of the general rendezvous; and there; when the troops were all assembled, he divided his numerous army into two bodies, whereof the one he led in person, and committed the other to the conduct of his uncle Bernard. On the other hand, Desiderius, having certain intelligence of his motions, sent some troops to guard the passes in the Alps, and then, making numerous levies in the dukedoms of Friuli, Benevento, Spoletto, Etruria, and the other dukedoms, of which his kingdom was composed, he raised a mighty army, and, putting himself at the head of it, marched to Turin, with a design to give Charlemagne battle, in case he forced the streights, and came into the plain country. We are told; that Charlemagne, as he drew near the Alps, to prevent the effusion of christian blood, dispatched ambassadors to the king of the Lombards, offering him fourteen thousand solidi, provided he restored to the pope the cities he had taken; but that Desiderius would hearken to no proposals, being bent on the conquest of all Italy. Be that as it will, Charlemagne pursued his march to the Alps; and, finding the passes guarded by the Lombards; he sent a detachment; under the conduct of experienced guides, to cross the mountains another way. This they happily accomplished, and, falling unexpectedly upon those who guarded the passes, struck them with such terror, that, abandoning their posts, they fled in the utmost consternation. Upon their retreat, Charlemagne passed unmolested with his whole army, and, descending from the mountains, marched in quest of the enemy. Some authors write, that the two armies came to an engagement, in which, after an obstinate dispute, Desiderius was defeated. They add, that the place, where the battle was fought, from the great number of the slain, took the name of Mortuaria. Others, less affected to the Lombards, tells us, that, at the approach of Charlemagne, they fled in the utmost confusion, not daring to look the enemy in the face. Be that as it will, it is certain, that Desiderius retired; and shut himself up in Pavia, not being in a condition to keep the field. At the same time he sent his son Adalgisus, and his daughter Berta, the widow of Carloman, with her two sons, to Verona, a place not inferior in strength to Pavia itself. Charlemagne, hearing that the king had shut himself up in Pavia, led his whole army against that city, and closely besieged it. The Lombards defended the place with great vigour; and, on the other hand, Charlemagne, determined not to withdraw his troops from before it till it had submitted, sent for his wife and sons, and continued with them in the camp till Christmas, which festival he celebrated with great pomp, and then, leaving his uncle Bernard to pursue the siege of Pavia, he went, with part of the army, to invest Verona. Adalgisus defended the town, for some time, with great bravery; but, in the end, finding himself reduced to the last extremity, and despairing of relief, he withdrew in the night; and, after having wandered a long time about the country in disguise, he found means, at last, to make his escape by sea to Constantinople, where he was received and entertained with great kindness by the emperor. Upon his departure, the garrison and inhabitants of Verona surrendered to Charles, who, having got Berta and her two sons into

The pope recurs to Charlemagne king of France.

Charlemagne enters Italy.

Desiderius retires, and is besieged in Pa-via.

Verona besieged by Charles,
and taken.

* SIGON. p. 138—143.

Charles goes to Rome.

His reception
there.

Honours done him at Rome.

He confirms the donation of Pepin.

his power, sent them immediately, under a strong guard, into France; but what ^a became afterwards of these two unfortunate princes, was never known. Verona being reduced, all the other cities on the same side of the Po submitted upon the first summons to the conqueror, who, returning before Pavia, pursued the siege with more vigour than ever. But, in the mean time Easter approaching, Charles resolved to keep that solemnity at Rome; and accordingly, committing a second time the care of the siege to Bernard, he set out for that city with a splendid train, and, being received, in all the places through which he passed, with the greatest marks of honour imaginable, he reached Rome the day before Easter. Adrian exerted himself on this occasion, thinking it incumbent upon him to receive so great a prince, and one to whom the church was so highly indebted, with the greatest demonstrations of honour, ^b gratitude, and esteem. By his orders the magistrates and judges, with their banners, and the badges of their respective offices, met him thirty miles from the city. At a mile from the gate he was received by a procession of children, carrying in their hands branches of palms and olives, and singing his heroic exploits and virtues. After them came a great number of cross-bearers, for whom it was customary to attend the public entries of the exarchs and patricians. Charles, as soon as he saw the crosses, alighted from his horse, and, attended by his own nobility, and the Roman magistrates, went the rest of the way on foot. As for the pope, he went early in the morning, with the clergy and people, to the church of the Vatican, and there, sitting on a kind of throne on the steps, waited the arrival of the king, who, going directly ^c to the church, ascended the steps, kissing each of them as he mounted. Being arrived at the throne, the pope, coming down, received him with great tenderness, and, after mutual embraces, and congratulatory speeches, they went together into the church, the people following them with loud acclamations, and the clergy frequently repeating, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. When they came to the place, called then, as it is to this day, the confession, prostrating themselves on the ground, they returned thanks to the Almighty, and to his apostle St. Peter, for the success that had hitherto attended the king's arms against his enemies, and the enemies of the church, that is, the unhappy Lombards, who, in reality, were as well-wishers to the church as Charles, but were not willing the churchmen should rob them ^d of the countries they had purchased at the expence of their blood and treasure. After this, Charles begged leave to go into the city, for the Vatican stood then without the walls, to perform a vow; and visit the holy places; which was granted by the pope, after they had both sworn upon the body of the apostle, that they designed no harm or injury to each other. The day following, being the festival of Easter, the king made a solemn entry into the city, attended by the nobility, clergy, and Roman people, who accompanied him to the church of St. Mary ad Præsepe, whence, after divine service, he went to the Lateran, and dined there with Adrian. The next day he assisted at public prayers in the Vatican; and, when the service was over, Adrian caused thanks to be given him for his kindness to the church in an oration, on which ^e occasion the generosity of Charles Martel, and his son Pepin, to the church of Rome, were highly extolled, the exemplary piety of their most illustrious family mightily commended, and great encomiums bestowed on the whole nation. The orator told his auditors, that Charles, not degenerating from the piety of his glorious ancestors; was come, with a mighty army, to humble the enemies of the church; that he had hitherto, with the assistance of Heaven, been as successful in so commendable an enterprize, as he had been ready to undertake it; and that, according to all appearance, Italy would, in a few days, have occasion to congratulate him upon his accomplishing the work, which he had so happily begun, as now both Italy and the church returned him their hearty thanks for what he had already performed ^f. When the rejoicings, feasting, and congratulations, were over, Adrian came to the main point, requiring Charles to confirm the donation, which his father Pepin had made to the church of Rome. Charles readily complied with the pope's request; and, having ordered Herinus his secretary to draw up a new instrument, he signed it himself, caused it to be signed by the abbots, bishops, and other great men, who had attended him to Rome, and, with his own hand, says Leo Ostiensis, laid it, thus signed, on the altar of St. Peter. Anastasius Bibliothecarius writes, that Charles, not satisfied with the donation of Pentapolis and the exarchate made by Pepin, added to them the island of

¹ LEO OSTIENS. l. i. c. 12. ANASTAS. BIBLIOTHEC. in Adrian. p. 75.

² LEO OSTIENS. ibid.

Corfica,

- a Corfica, and that large country, which, extending from Luna to Sorano and Monte Bordone, comprehends the cities of Vercetri, Parma, Reggio, Mantua, and Monfelic: nay, according to that writer, the generosity of Charles did not even stop here; for he tells us, that the new instrument comprised the provinces of Venetia and Istria, and the two dukedoms of Benevento and Spolet.^a In the chronicle of the monastery of St. Clement, Charles is said to have added to the donation of Pepin only those two dukedoms. Sigonius will have the donation of Charles to have comprised, besides those dukedoms, and the countries given by Pepin, the Sabinian territory, lying between Umbria and Latium, with part of Tuscany and Campania. Petrus de Marca adds all Campania, with the city of Naples, and the provinces of Abruzzo and Puglia; and hence, according to him, the kings of Naples have ever been, as they still are, invested by the pope^b. Some modern writers suppose Charles to have given likewise Saxony, which he had lately conquered, and other countries, which he never conquered, viz. Sardinia and Sicily; for these two islands were held by the emperors of the east, till the Saracens became masters of them. But as no copy of the supposed donation of these several countries is to be found, either in the archives of the Vatican, or the annals of France; and, on the other hand, it is manifest from history, that Charles, as king of Italy, held the dukedoms of Friuli, Spolet, and Benevento, in the same manner as they had been held by the Lombard kings his predecessors, and that they were immediately governed by their own dukes; we may conclude from thence, that Charles only confirmed the donation of the exarchate and Pentapolis made by his father Pepin. Charles indeed caused the patrimonies, which the church of Rome possessed in the Alpes Cottiae, and in the dukedoms of Benevento and Spolet, to be restored; and hence, according to the learned civilian Pietro Giannone, arose the mistake of those writers, who will have Charles to have given that province, and those dukedoms, to St. Peter: they confounded the patrimonies of the church in those countries with the countries themselves^c.

- Charles*, having thus satisfied his own curiosity, and the desires of the pope, after a stay of eight days in Rome, returned to the camp before Pavia, which city he was resolved, at all events, to reduce, being well apprised, that, if Desiderius remained master of it, he might easily recover all the rest. The same motive that prompted Charles to exert his utmost endeavours in the reduction of the place, animated the king of the Lombards to defend it with all his might. Charles, finding his men constantly repulsed in their repeated attacks, and despairing of being able to carry it by force, resolved to reduce it by famine. Accordingly, besieging it more closely, he shut up all the passes and avenues, so that nothing could possibly be conveyed into the city; which by that means was, in a short time, reduced to the utmost extremity. Desiderius however still held out for a considerable time; but, a violent plague beginning to rage within the walls, and carrying off daily great numbers both of the garrison and inhabitants, the unhappy prince, not able to contend with so many enemies at once, was obliged, in the end, to surrender the place, and deliver up himself, with his wife and children, to Charles, who sent them all to France, where they ended their days, being never afterwards heard of. Thus ended the kingdom of the Lombards in Italy, after they had held that country for the space of two hundred and six years. They were at first a cruel and barbarous nation; but, divesting themselves, by degrees, of their native fierceness and barbarity, especially after they had embraced the christian religion, they governed with such equity and mildness, that most other nations envied the happiness of those, who lived under them. As they had no other kingdom nor dominions elsewhere, Italy became their own country; whence the natives looked upon their kings as their natural princes, not thinking themselves governed, much less kept in slavery, by a foreign nation, as it happened to them afterwards, when, by frequent changes, they groaned under the heavy yoke, sometimes of one nation, and sometimes of another. Under the government of the Lombards, says Paulus Diaconus^d, and with him agrees the abbot of Wesperg, no violence was committed, no one unjustly dispossessed of his property, none oppressed with taxes; theft, robberies, murder, and adultery, were seldom heard of; every one went, without the least apprehension of danger, whither he pleased: and truly their many wholesome laws, restraining, and severely punishing, all sorts of crimes, the magnificent churches, and rich monasteries, with which they filled that part of num. 5.

^a ANAST. BIBLIOTHEC. in Adrian.

^c PIET. GIANN. hist. civil. di Napol. l. v. c. 4.

^b P. DE MARCA de concord. sacerdot. & imper. l. iii. c. 10.
^d PAUL. DIAC. hist. Long. l. iii. c. 8.

Italy,

Whether he added other countries to that donation.

Charles returns to the siege of Pavia.

Desiderius taken prisoner, and the end of the kingdom of the Lombards. Year after Christ 774.

The Lombards
undeservedly
ascribed by the popes.

Italy, which was subject to them, the many bishopricks, which they erected, the towns and cities, which they either built, or repaired, in most provinces of Italy, their generosity even to the bishop of Rome, their avowed enemy, and finally, the great numbers of persons among them, whose sanctity and eminent virtues have been acknowledged by the popes themselves, must convince every impartial reader, that the Lombards were not such a savage, barbarous, and inhuman nation, as they are described by some of the popes, especially by Adrian, the chief author of the downfall of their kingdom. They were the only power in Italy capable of defeating the ambitious views of the bishops of Rome, whom they would not suffer to enrich themselves with the spoils of the emperors, but looked upon them as their own by right of conquest; and hence arose the inveterate hatred, which the popes bore them, and could not help betraying in all their writings. But the many wholesome laws which they left behind them, and devouring time has spared, are convincing proofs of their justice, humanity, and wisdom, and at the same time a full confutation, as Grotius observes, of the many calumnies, with which the popes, and their partisans, have endeavoured to asperse them. Their laws were found so just and equitable, that they were retained in Italy, and observed there, some ages after their kingdom was at an end. Paulus Diaconus, Grotius, Gunter, who was secretary to the emperor Frederic I. and several other writers, equal, and, in many particulars, prefer, the laws of the Lombards to those of the Romans themselves. Gunter, who was far from being prejudiced in their favour, after examining their laws, could not help calling them a sagacious, wise, and industrious people, and above all, excellent lawgivers*. Hence it sufficiently appears, with how much injustice they are styled by pope Adrian, in his letters, an unpolished, barbarous, and cruel people.

The state of Italy in the time of Charle- magne.

BEFORE we dismiss this subject, it may not be improper to give the reader a succinct account of the state of Italy at the time Charlemagne, by the captivity of Desiderius, put an end to the kingdom of the Lombards, and of the new form of government introduced by the conqueror. Italy was, at that time, divided, as it were, into four states, held by the Venetians, the Lombards, the popes, and the emperors of the east. The Venetians, by their trade to the Levant, were become very considerable, and, having a great number of vessels, they bore no small sway in the affairs of Italy, though we do not yet find them possessed of any town on the terra firma or continent. The pope, by the generosity of Pepin, and his son Charles, was master of the exarchate and Pentapolis, which we have described above. The dukedom of Naples, and some cities in the Hither and Farther Calabria, were still held by the emperors of the east. All the other provinces of Italy were held by the Lombards, viz. the three famous dukedoms of Friuli, Spoleto, and Benevento, and the provinces of Liguria, Venetia, Tuscany, and the Alpes Cottiae, which were properly called the kingdom of the Lombards. When Desiderius was taken prisoner, the dukedom of Benevento was governed by Arechis, son-in-law to the unhappy prince. It comprised then almost all the present kingdom of Naples; for of the twelve provinces, into which that kingdom is now divided, nine were subject to the duke of Benevento, viz. Terra di Lavoro, Contado di Molise, the Hither Abruzzo, Capitanata, Terra di Bari, Basilicata, the Hither Calabria, and the Hither and Farther Principato; so that it was bounded on the west by the dukedoms of Rome and Spoleto; on the south by Gaeta, and its territory; on the east by the territories of Cosenza and Cassano; and on the north by Siponto, and the promontory of Gargano. This dukedom, on account of its extent, was by the Latins called Italia Cistiberina, and by the Greeks Longobardia Minor, to distinguish it from the Greater, which, lying on both sides the Po in Cisalpine Gaul, retains to this day the name of Lombardy. This extent of the dukedom induced the dukes to divide it, for the more convenient administration of justice, into several districts, called counties, each of which had its proper governor, styled count or guastald. These counts or guastalds were, at first, appointed and removed by the dukes at their pleasure; but, in process of time, it became customary not to remove them, unless convicted of treason, and not to transfer the counties to other families, till their male line was extinct: and this was the first origin of counts and counties in that part of Italy. The only difference between the counts and guastalds was, that the latter governed only during pleasure, and the former were never removed, unless guilty of treason: hence the title of count denoted dignity, and that of guastald

The extent of the dukedom of Benevento.

And its government.

* GUNTER. in Ligurino, versu 173, &c.

- a only office. The other two great dukedoms, viz. of Spoleto and Friuli, were far inferior, both in power and extent, to that of Benevento. The former comprehended all Umbria, in which were many cities of great note; and the latter all Friuli, and the greater part of Istria. The dukedom of Naples, which continued subject to the emperors of the east, extended towards the west as far as Cuma, comprehending within its limits the islands of Ischia, Nisita, and Provida, with the maritime towns of Pozzuolo, Baia, and Miseno. Towards the south Castellamare, Sorrento, Amalfi, and the island of Caprea, were comprised in it. Towards the east and north its limits were much confined, the dukedom of Benevento reaching almost to the very gates of the city. The cities of this dukedom were governed by their particular rectores, who were appointed by, and subordinate to, the duke of Naples. These rectores were likewise called counts; but were not, as in the dukedom of Benevento, feudatories; they only governed during the pleasure of the duke: so that they were upon a footing with the Lombard gustalds. As for the duke, he was appointed and removed at pleasure by the emperor. The duke of Naples was likewise styled magister militiæ, and consul; but how the title of consul came to be given him, no writer has yet had the curiosity to inquire (B). Besides the dukedom of Naples, the emperors of the east possessed several cities in ancient Calabria, and in the country of the Bruttii, now known by the name of Farther Calabria. In ancient Calabria they held the cities of Gallipoli and Otranto; and, in Farther Calabria, Reggio, Gerace, Santa Severina, Crotone, and, besides these, the two cities of Amantea and Agripoli, with the promontory now called Capo di Lico^a, the dukedoms of Gaeta and Amalfi. All these cities were immediately governed by their rectores, who were appointed and removed by the patrician, as he is styled, or governor of Sicily; for to him were subject, at this time, all the places, the dukedom of Naples excepted, which the emperors still held in Italy: hence they are all comprised by Constantine Porphyrogenitus under the Thema of Sicily (C). In more ancient times, only the Farther Calabria was subject to the patrician

The dukedom of Naples, its extent and government.

Cities in Italy belonging to the emperor.

^a PELLEGRIN. in dissert. de finib. ducat. Benevent. p. 72.

(B) The title of consul, which the emperors had long had in great esteem, and looked upon as an honour to themselves, was, towards the latter end of the empire, intirely slighted by them, and laid aside. What made them undervalue and despise it, was its being assumed by those princes, whom they looked upon as barbarians and usurpers. Thus Charlemagne, to shew, that he succeeded to all the rights of the emperors of the west, took upon him, amongst other titles, that of consul. The other French emperors, his successors, followed his example, as did likewise the Italian emperors, Berengarius duke of Friuli, and Guido duke of Spoleto; nay, even the Saracens, after they had conquered Spain, in imitation of the emperors of Constantinople, styled themselves consuls. Thus Abderamus, who began to reign in Cordova in the year 821. and Mohammed, his son and successor in that kingdom, marked, in their writs, not only the years of their reign, but likewise of their consulship (1). The emperors therefore, finding it thus assumed by foreign and barbarous nations, took it no longer themselves, but gave it to their officers. Father Pagi thinks, that the emperors laid it quite aside about the year 933 (2). The Saracens gave the title of consul to their admirals; whence, in process of time, it became common not only to them, but to all the governors of the maritime towns, and to those who, residing in the sea-ports, took care, that justice should be administered to the merchants of their respective countries. Thus Codinus (3), Pachimeres (4), and Gregoras (5), observe, that the Pisan and Anconisan magistrates, residing at Constantinople, were styled consuls. No wonder therefore, that the title of consul was given to the dukes of Naples, since it was bestowed on magistrates of a much inferior rank.

(C) The empire of the east being, by the invasion of several barbarous nations, who had seized on Egypt, Africa, Syria, and other large provinces, confined to Asia Minor, Greece, Thrace, and a small part of Italy, with Sicily, and the adjacent islands, no further regard was had to the ancient division of provinces; but new divisions into districts, which had their particular governors, were introduced, and called themata. Of these themata or divisions Constantine Porphyrogenitus wrote two books, whereof the first contains the themata or provinces of Asia, seventeen in number, and the second those of Europe, which were but twelve. Among the themata of Europe, Sicily is the tenth, and Longobardia, or Lombardy, the eleventh. We have observed above, that, under the name of Lombardy, properly speaking, came those provinces in Cisalpine Gaul, of which the kingdom of the Lombards was composed, and that the dukedom of Benevento was likewise called Lombardy. Of these two Lombardies the former was called Longobardia Major, and the latter Longobardia Minor; but neither of them was in the possession of the Greeks, the Greater Lombardy being held by the French kings of Italy, and the Lesser by the Beneventan Lombards, whose dukes had the same power and authority under the French kings of Italy, as they had had under the princes of their own nation. By the province of Lombardy therefore, mentioned by Constantine in his themata, must be understood that small part of Italy, which was still possessed by the emperors, who, out of vanity and ostentation, gave it the name of Lombardy. The countries, which Constantine names under the thema of Lombardy, are the dukedom of Naples, and ancient Calabria, in which however the Greeks possessed, at this time, but two cities, viz. Gallipoli and Otranto. The country of the Bruttii, now Farther Calabria, with the cities of Reggio, Gerace,

(1) Pagi de consulib. p. 370. & Eulog. in memorial. sanctior. l. ii. c. 1. (2) Pagi ibid. (3) Codin. c. 7. num. 9. (4) Pachimer. l. ii. c. 32. (5) Gregor. l. iv. c. 6.

Vol. VII. No. 10.

8 X

Santa

Whence the kingdom of Naples called Sicily.

patrician of Sicily; but the cities, which the emperors held in that part of Italy,^a being reduced to a very small number, they were all put under the government of the patrician, who was sent from Constantinople to govern Sicily, as is evident from the themata of Constantine Porphyrogenitus,^b and likewise from one of pope Adrian's letters to Charlemagne, wherein he complains of the Beneventan Lombards, whom he calls a most wicked race, for taking from him the city of Gaeta, and restoring it to the patrician of Sicily. Gaeta belonged to the emperor, and was under the government of that patrician; Charles took it from the emperor, and yielded it to the pope; the Lombards of Benevento retook it, and restored it to its lawful owner; and on that account they are called by the pope a most wicked people^b. From the superintendency over the countries on this side the Faro, which, in those times, belonged to^b the patrician of Sicily, some writers will have those countries to have been called Sicily; which name was afterwards extended by the Norman and Suevian princes, and likewise by the popes, to all the provinces, of which the present kingdom of Naples is composed. It is certain, that, in the time of the Normans, the name of Sicily was common both to that island, and to the present kingdom of Naples; but with this difference, that the former was called Sicily beyond the Faro, and the latter Sicily on this side the Faro, as appears from a charter of Roger the Norman of the year 1115. quoted by Ughellus^c.

Charlemagne
crowned king of Lombardy.

Desiderius being taken captive, as we have related above, and the city of Pavia reduced, all the other cities submitted of their own accord to Charles, who thereupon, claiming the kingdom of the Lombards by right of conquest, caused himself to be crowned king of Lombardy, with an iron crown, by the hands of the archbishop of Milan. The ceremony was performed by Thomas then archbishop of Milan, at a place called Modestia, about ten miles from that city. Charles, as we read in an ancient ritual called Ordo Romanus, was led out of his chamber by several bishops to the church; and, being conducted to the high altar, after some solemn prayers, the archbishop asked the people, Whether they would subject themselves to Charles, and, with constant fidelity, obey his commands? The people answering they would, the bishop anointed his head, breast, shoulders, and arms, praying, that the new king might prove successful in his wars, and happy in his issue. He then girt him with a sword, put bracelets on his arms, gave him a robe, a ring, a sceptre, and, having placed the crown upon his head, he led him through the choir to the throne, and, having seated him there, and given him the kiss of peace, he celebrated divine service^c. Charles ordained, that the same ceremony should be observed in the coronation of his successors, and performed by the archbishop of Milan, who thenceforth began to contend for dignity with the archbishop of Ravenna. The ceremony of the coronation being over, Charles, now king of Italy, thought it necessary to settle the frame and polity of his new kingdom, and, in order to this, resolved to go to Rome, and advise with Adrian. The pope, having notice of his design, assembled fifty bishops, and a great number of abbots and other dignitaries, in order to consult with them, what honours ought to be paid to so great a prince, whose father and grandfather, as well as himself, had so much deserved of the Roman church. After several consultations, it was unanimously agreed, that he should be made a Roman patrician; that, throughout the provinces, he should institute all bishops and archbishops, who were not to be consecrated, unless instituted by him; and that he should appoint the bishop of Rome, and be declared protector of the apostolic see. Charles, upon his arrival at Rome, was received by the pope, and the Roman people, with the greatest marks of respect and esteem, and the honours we have mentioned were, with the unanimous consent of all, conferred upon him. The naming of the bishop of

He goes to Rome, where great honours are conferred upon him.

^a CONST. PORPHYR. de themat. p. 8.
Merid.

^b ADRIAN. ep. lxxiii. PELLEGR. in fin. duc. Benevent. ad Merid.

^c UGH. Ital. sacra, tom. ix. in archiepif. S. Severin.

^d Ordo Roman. apud SIGON.
Santa Severina, Crosone, and some other places, are comprised under the thema of Sicily, as being subject to the patrician or governor of that island. That magistrate seems to have had some authority even in the dukedom of Naples; for Anthemius duke of that city being dead, and disputes arising about the election of a new duke, the Neapolitans had recourse to the patrician of Sicily, who appointed one Theoclistus to be their duke; but the emperor, not approving of his choice, removed Theoclistus, and sent one Theodore to govern in his room (6). From this account Capacius, or whoever else is the author of the Latin history of Naples, and Camillo Pellegrino, conclude the Neapolitans to have been, at least sometimes, allowed to chuse their own dukes.

(6) Vide Ughell. ibid.

- a Rome was granted to him, for preventing the tumults, that, to the great scandal of all good christians, began to arise among the people and clergy, on occasion of those elections, no one having any power or authority to restrain them. But this right Charles used with great moderation, and, after some time, remitted it to the clergy and people. The dignity of patrician was, at that time, the first in the whole empire, and the conferring of it belonged of right to the emperor; but his authority being now extinct in Italy, the pope arrogated to himself that, as well as he did, by degrees, all the other imperial honours and ornaments. Charles, extremely well pleased with the reception he met with at Rome, continued some time in that metropolis, consulting with the pope about the manner of settling the affairs of Italy; and
- b then returned to Pavia, where he declared, that he intended to maintain the same form of government, which had been introduced by the Lombard princes his predecessors. Accordingly, he allowed every one full liberty to live under the same Roman or Lombard laws, to which they had been accustomed; but to the latter he added, as king of the Lombards, some of his own. He did not disturb the emperors in the possession of the dukedom of Naples, and of the other places, which they still held in Italy. As for the three famous dukedoms of Friuli, Spoleto, and Benevento, he allowed those dukes the same power and authority, which they had enjoyed under the Lombard kings, requiring only, that, as they had been subject to these princes, they should acknowledge him for their king. The exarchate, the Pentapolis, and the dukedom of Rome, he yielded to the pope; but retained the sovereignty to himself.
- c The other provinces, which we have mentioned above, he kept as the kingdom of Lombardy¹. He continued, as his predecessors had done, the other dukes in their dukedoms, contenting himself with the oath of allegiance, which he obliged them, as well as the greater dukes, to take annually to him. The oath was conceived in the following terms: I promise, without fraud or deceit, to be faithful to my sovereign Charles, and his sons, as long as I live; and I swear, by these holy gospels, that I will be faithful to him, as a vassal to his lord and sovereign; neither will I divulge any thing, which, in virtue of my allegiance, he shall commit to me. The dukedoms he never transferred from one family to another, but when the dukes broke this oath, or died without issue male.
- d This translation from one to another was called investiture; and hence it came, that fiefs were not granted but by investiture, as was afterwards observed with respect to other vassals and feudatories, viz. counts, captains, and valvasours, the model of whose services and tenures were afterwards perfected by the princes of Germany. The limits of the kingdom, and the towns, Charles committed to the care of counts, who were vested with great authority. These limits or borders were called marchæ or marches; whence those, who had the superintendency of them, were styled counts of the marches, and marquises; and hence the title of marquis had its rise. These were the ordinary magistrates appointed by Charles for the government of the cities, and the limits of the kingdom; but he sometimes appointed extraordinary magistrates, or
- e commissaries, who had greater authority than the counts, and were called missi. It was their province to part and distinguish the limits of each city, which, under the Lombards, were greatly confused; whence arose frequent disputes among the neighbouring cities about their boundaries; but the missi assigned to each city its boundaries, and, for the most part, following nature, appointed mountains, rivers, brooks, valleys, and other perpetual and lasting limits to serve for marches, that time might not alter and confound them. He likewise obliged the cities to take an oath of allegiance to him, and imposed upon them, as well as upon the fiefs, churches, and monasteries, a kind of tribute, called foderum, parata, and mansuaticum, which was to be paid to him, especially when he came into Italy; but this tribute he afterwards generously
- f remitted for himself and his successors. That Italy might retain at least some shadow of liberty, as often as he returned thither, he convened a general assembly of all the bishops, abbots, and barons of the kingdom, in order to settle with them the public affairs of importance. The Lombards had but one state, composed of barons and judges; but the French, in the time of Charlemagne, had two, viz. of the ecclesiastics and nobility; hence by Charles was added likewise in Italy, after the manner of France, the order of the ecclesiastics to that of the barons or nobility. This custom of assembling the two states lasted in Italy till the time of the emperor Frederic I. They met, for the most part, at Roncaglia, a place not far distant from Placentia,

He retains the same form of government.

Allows the dukes the same power.

Magistrates appointed by him.

Tribute imposed by him.

¹ SIGON. p. 163.

and

The duke of Friuli revolts.

But is defeated, and put to death.

That dukedom ended.

Arechis duke of Benevento changes his dukedom into a principality.
Year after
Christ 781.

The Beneventans forced, by their intestine broils, to submit to the em-perors of the west.

and there enacted several laws for the better regulation of public affairs^m. The affairs of Italy being thus settled, Charles, leaving a strong garrison in Pavia, returned to France in the year 774. But he was scarce gone, when the Lombard dukes, those especially of Friuli, Spoleto, and Benevento, scorning to live subject to a foreign prince, resolved to shake off the yoke, and make themselves absolute in their respective dukedoms. While Charles therefore was engaged in a war with the Saxons, Rodgand duke of Friuli, laying hold of that opportunity, renounced his allegiance, and caused himself to be acknowledged sovereign in his dukedom. But Charles, who had already put an end to the Saxon war, by the reduction of that country, was no sooner informed of the revolt of Rodgand, which, he apprehended, might prove of dangerous consequence, if it was not timely suppressed, than he hastened into Alsace, and, having kept his Christmas there, marched, in the depth of winter, with a powerful army cross the Alps, and entered the dukedom of Friuli. Rodgand met him with all the forces he could raise; but, in the engagement that ensued, he was utterly defeated, taken prisoner, and, soon after, publicly beheaded. Charles did not appoint another duke, but, adding the cities, of which this dukedom was composed, to his kingdom, appointed counts to govern them in the same manner as the other cities of his kingdom were governed. Thus ended the dukedom of Friuli, the first that was erected under Alboinus, and likewise the first that was suppressed by Charlemagne. Paulus Æmilius tells us, that it was afterwards restored by Charles, who appointed one Henry, a native of France, to govern it with the title of dukeⁿ. But of this, and the dukes who are supposed to have succeeded him, no mention is made by other historians. Hildebrand duke of Spoleto, who had likewise revolted, upon the news of the defeat and death of Rodgand, submitted of his own accord, and was again received into favour by Charles. At this time Arechis, who had married Adelperga, daughter to Desiderius, the last king of the Lombards, was duke of Benevento; but he, waiting a more favourable opportunity of shaking off the yoke, continued quiet till such time as Charles, after having appointed Pepin his eldest son king of Italy in 781, was returned to France, and engaged there in other wars. Then Arechis, scorning to live in subjection to a foreign prince, as he had done to his father-in-law, and trusting to his own strength, and the affection his subjects bore him, not only revolted, but, laying aside the title of duke, assumed that of prince, causing himself to be anointed and crowned with great solemnity as king by his bishops, and dating thenceforth all his writs and diplomas from our most sacred palace, according to the style of other princes and sovereigns. As it was then customary among princes, when they were crowned, to cause their images to be placed in all the churches throughout their dominions, representing them with a crown on their head, this custom was likewise observed by Arechis, who was thereupon acknowledged by all the inhabitants of the dukedom as their sovereign. He coined money with his own image, made what alterations he thought fit both in civil and military affairs, without consulting either Charles or Pepin, and even enacted several laws; for his capitularia have reached our times; and, in the often mentioned manuscript code lodged in the monastery of Cava, among the edicts of the Lombard kings, is to be found one of this prince, containing seventeen chapters. His example was followed by the other princes his successors, namely by Adelchis, Sicardus, and Radelchisus, as appears from their capitularia published by Camillo Pellegrino^o. Thus to the laws of the Lombard kings were added those of the princes of Benevento. Charles, finding that his son Pepin was not able to reduce the Beneventan Lombards, returned in 786, with a powerful army into Italy, being then disengaged from other wars. But, Arechis suing for peace, Charles granted him it upon the following terms, viz. that he should pay to Pepin a yearly tribute; that he should deliver up to him his treasure, and with it his son Grimoald, and his daughter Adalgisa, by way of hostages. The peace being thus concluded, Charles returned to France, leaving Arechis in possession of the principality of Benevento, which was held by him, with the title of prince, as it was by his successors, who greatly enlarged it, till a cruel war being kindled in the bowels of their country between Siconulphus and Radelchisus, two competitors to the principality, the one invited the Saracens of Africa, and the other those of Spain, to their assistance, who, after a twelve years war, completed the ruin of both; so that, to get rid of their troublesome auxiliaries, they were obliged to have recourse to Lewis king of

^m Vide SIGON. ibid. & FRANKEN. diff. de Majum. Maicamp. & Roncal. p. 42.
reb. Franc. p. 142.

^o CAMILL. PELLEGRIN. capit. Arech. princ. p. 309. & cit. hist. p. 73—92.

ⁿ PAUL. ÆMIL. de
France,

a France, and, by taking an oath of allegiance to him, acknowledge him for their sovereign. Lewis divided the provinces of Benevento between the two competitors, by which division two principalities were made out of one; that of Benevento was allotted to Radelchifus; and the other, called from its metropolis the principality of Salerno, to Siconulphus, the emperors of the west exercising, as kings of Italy, the same authority over them, as the Lombard kings had formerly done.

AND thus far of antient history, or the history of antient nations, from their first original, to their being either blended with, or giving rise to, some of the modern nations, which naturally paves us the way to modern history. We have spared no pains in the execution of our proposals, and hope we have made no slips, but such as b the candid reader will think excuseable, when he reflects on the many difficulties, that attend a work of this nature. We have not the vanity to think we have been guilty of no faults; but the encouragement, which, far beyond our expectation, we have met with, we may say, from all ranks of people, both at home and abroad, and which we now acknowledge with the utmost gratitude, inclines us to believe, that the mistakes we may have committed, are no-ways material. This we are the more apt to imagine, as we find but very few alterations from the original made by the several men of learning, who have thought it worth their while to translate our work into their respective languages. As for a perfectly complete history, it is not to appear, as a modern writer expresses it ^p, but in that year, which discovers the philosophers c stone, and the perpetual motion.

P LE MOYNE.

The End of the Seventh Volume.

A N

I N D E X

T O T H E

S E V E N T H V O L U M E.

The Numbers direct to the Page, the Small Letters to the Line of the Page, and the Great Letters to the Notes.

A

- A Aron, king of Bulgaria, murdered by his brother, 633, c.
- Abalite*, Avalite, where sited, 183, d.
- Abaseni*, who, and where sited, 229, c, d.
- Abassia*, part of Ethiopia, its limits, 180, b. Its high mountains, 185, c, f.
- Abassines*, their conversion, 217, & seq.
- Abd Shem IV.* king of the Arabs, his reign, 267, c.
- Abisvinda*, daughter of Alboinus, 621, f. Sent to Constantinople, 622, a.
- Abra* and Asba, their joint reign, 218, d.
- Abraham's* strange punishment, 220, a.
- Al Ashram, his fabulous defeat by the Arabs, 269, f, & seq. Mr. Sale's opinion of its reality exploded, 271, a—c.
- Abrim*, the Nile navigable from, 187, b.
- Abu Carb Asaad* introduces Judaism into Arabia, 269, a.
- Abyla*, mount, where, 145, c, d.
- Acauthine* island, in Ethiopia, 190, b.
- Acarizzi* subdued by Attila, 464, f, & seq.
- Acci*, the bishoprick of, 300, b. Colony, ibid.
- Accitani*, how they represented Mars, 354, c.
- Achaia* plundered by the Goths, 496, f.
- Achris* taken by Basilus, 656, b. Its vast treasures, 637, a.
- Acichorius* follows Brennus into Greece, 394, a. His retreat and end, ibid. b, (E).
- Acra* island, where sited, 116, c.
- Acridophagi*, who, and why so called, 183, c. Why short-lived, 201, a, (Z).
- Adluarii*, a tribe of the Franks, 548, a.
- Acum* defeats the Bulgarians, 624, a, b. Taken prisoner, ibid. c.
- Ad*, the old Arabian tribe of, 241, c.
- Adad* embraces christianity, 218, b, c.
- Adalgadus*, his escape out of Verona, 717, f.
- Adalwald* made co-partner with his father, 686, c. Peaceful reign, 688, a. Poisoned by Eusebius, ibid. f. Dethroned and dies, 689, a—c.
- Adalulf*, his treachery to Ariovald and his queen, 689, d. Defeated, ibid. e.
- Adam*, the etymon of the name, 197, (Y).
- Aden*, its situation and etymon, 234, c, f.
- Adherbal*, the son of Micipsa, 127, d. Driven out by Jugurtha, 129, a. Obtains part of the kingdom, ibid. b. Besieged at Cirta, ibid. c, d. Murdered, ibid. e.
- Adieran* strip of his territories, 171, d.
- Adites*, inhabitants of Ad. Their kings, government, &c. 241, e, & seq. Their gigantic stature exploded, 243, b, c.
- Adminius* protected by Caligula, 427, c. Proud letter to the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- Adnan*, whether descended from Ismael, 244, b, c.
- Adonis*, river in Tangitania, 145, a.
- Adria*, a city in Petra, 227, d. Wasted by Hannibal, 22, c.
- Adrian*, pope, why invaded by Desiderius, 716, pass. Invites the French against him, 717, a, b. Hatred and partiality against the Lombards, 719, & seq.
- Adrian's wall*, in Britain, 414, c, f. When built, 415, b. Its length, ibid. e, f.
- His expedition thither, 431, d, c. (K). Coins, ibid. e, (L).
- Adriane*, Hadrianopolis, a city in Cyrenica, 168, f.
- Adrianople* taken by the Bulgarians, 631, d, e.
- Advasici*, who, 398, a. Their dreadful fate, ibid. d.
- Adulis emporium*, in Ethiopia, 190, a, b, 219, (M).
- Adymachide*, who, 168, b. Their way of fighting, &c. ibid. c.
- Ademon* defeated by the Romans, 159, a, b.
- Adul*, who, 367, b, (B). Where sited, ibid. & 397, (N). Their aversion to monarchy, 367, b, c. Contest with the Arverni, ibid. & seq. Ally with Cesar, 368, a. Supplant him, 397, (N). Raise a revolt against him, 399, & seq.
- Egidius* relieves Arles from the Goths 513, f. Defeats them, 514, a. Seizes on Childeric's crown, 564, d. Driven out, ibid. & seq. & (E).
- Egimar*'s island taken by Marcus, 100, d.
- Egypt*, how become habitable, 194, b, c.
- Elia pons*, pont Elan, whence so named, 414, f.
- Elanus Desiderius*, governor of Britain, 434, a, (P).
- Emilius Paul*, marches against Hannibal, 28, c. Opposed by his colleague, ibid. d, e. Defeated and killed, 30, & seq. His court of judicature at York, 412, c. — Scaurus, his venality to Jugurtha, 129, d, e. 120, a.
- Emimin*, a city in Lusitania, 297, a. Erar,

I N D E X.

- Aras*, the odd Spanish way of computing by, 316.
- Ætaz*, who, and where, 228, b.
- Ætli*, who, and where, [410], c. (H). Their amber trade, ibid. & seq. Conquest by Ermanaric [411], d.
- Ætius's* intimacy with Attila, 471, c. f. Opposes him with a vast army of Gauls, 474, c. Defeats him at Orleans, 475, b. c. Near Chalons, 476, & seq. Outwits Torismond, 477, c. And Attila, ibid. f. Pursues him to the Rhine, 478, d. Success against the Franks, 560, pass. Peace with them, 561, a.
- Africa*, whence so called, 178, d. Whether ever joined to Europe, ibid. c. Plundered by Cn. Scipio, 27, d. Ravaged by the Vandals, 532, c. f. 533, c. d. Yielded to Genferic by the Romans, 539, c. f.
- Propria, made a Roman province, 137, b. c.
- Africans*, under Hannibal, armed after the Roman manner, 30, a. The success of it, 31, d. Blended with the Libyans, 122.
- Africus*, eighteenth king of Yaman, 268, a.
- Agarens*, ancient inhabitants of Petrea, 226, d. Why so called, 240, c. d. Noble defence against Trajan, &c. 283, b—c.
- Agilmund*, first king of the Lombards, 614, c. 615, d. Defeats the Vandals, 606, b. c. His death, ibid. c.
- Agilulf* chosen king of the Lombards, 684, b. Turns orthodox, ibid. d. Suppresses the revolted dukes, ibid. e. f. Conquests on the Roman exarchate, 685, a, & seq. Truce with him, 686, b. Death and character, 687, c, & seq.
- Agrat*, who, and where sited, 228, d.
- Agricola* subduces Britain, 431, a—c. — Calpurnius quells it, 432.
- Ajax* infects the Suevi with Arianism, 546, f.
- Aidab*, a port near Mecca, 238, a.
- Aildichus* driven out of his kingdom, 617, b.
- Ajo*, duke of Benevento, defeated and killed, 692, b.
- king of the Lombards, 614, c. 615, d.
- Air*, mount, where, 237, d.
- Alabba*, the region of, from whom so called, 238, a.
- Alachis* revolts, 697, d. Forgiven by Cunibert, ibid. c. Ingratitude to him, ibid. & seq. Defeated and killed, 698, b—c.
- Alans* submit to Attila, 466, b. Invaded by him, 480, b. c. By Torismond, ibid. d. Regain their liberty, 482, a. Where settled, ibid. &c. Defeated by Wallia, 510, a. Assist the Vandals, 529, c—e. Enter Spain, 530, a, b. Their territories there, ibid. f, & seq.
- Al-Arakh*, where seated, 241, a.
- Alaric*, king of the Visigoths, driven out by the Huns, 492, c. Serves under the Romans, 504, c. f. Spirited up by Rufinus, 505, a. His dreadful ravages, ibid. b—f. Spared by Stilicho, 506, a. Preserved by Arcadius, ibid. c. Made king of the Goths, 507, d. Breaks into Italy, ibid. & seq. Peace with Stilicho, 508, a. Corrupted by him, ibid. b. c. Enters Noricum, ibid. d. And Rome, ibid. f, & seq. His death, 509, a.
- Albania*, from whom so called, 421, (A).
- Albinus* sent into Britain, 433, a. Ill success against Jugurtha, 130, d. — Sent ambassador to Attila, 480, a.
- Albion*, the ancient name of Britain, a, b.
- Albofleda's* conversion, 569, f. Death, 570, c.
- Alboinus*, king of the Lombards, his cruelty to Cunimundus, 597, d. c. Marries his daughter, ibid. f. His reign in Italy, 615, d. Valour and reward, 617, b—c. Conquests in Italy, 618, & seq. Proclaimed king, 620, c. d. Fresh conquests, ibid. d. c. Death and character, ibid. & seq.
- Alcaabak*, the sepulchre of Ishmael, 236, c. d.
- Alcon* the Saguntine comes to intreat Hannibal, 5, d.
- Alexecus* settled in Benevento, 624, e, f, 696, f.
- Alemans*, why so called, [405], (A). Defeated by Clovis, 568, c—f. Where settled, 569, b. Submit to him, ibid. c. d. Defeated by the Burgundi, 582, c. Their origin, 588, c. Territories, government, &c. ibid. d. e. Wars, ibid. & seq. Ravaged by Maximine, 589, b. Break into Gaul, and defeated, ibid. c. By Claudius, ibid. d. By Aurelian, ibid. e. Break into Italy, and defeated, 590, a, b. By Probus, ibid. c. By Maximian, &c. ibid. c. d. Sixty thousand cut off by Chlorus, ibid. d. e. Beat by Constantine, &c. ibid. & seq. By Julian, 591, e—f. 592, pass. Defeated in Gaul, ibid. f, & seq. 693, e—f. Make peace with Valentinian, 594, b. Break it, ibid. c. Defeated by Gratian, ibid. c. d. Settled in Switzerland, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Andoacrius, ibid. f. Settle in Alsace, 595, a. Defeated and dispersed by Clovis, ibid. b, c.
- Aletes* desisted for discovering a silver mine, 65, (Q).
- Alexander's* colloquy with the oracle of Ammon, 168 (B). Mad project against the Arabs, 279, c, f, & seq.
- Alexius Angelus* opposes Lascar's new empire, 286, & seq. Defeated and imprisoned, 287, b, c.
- Comnenus founds the empire of Trapezand, 288, c. The rest see sub Comnenus.
- Alfus*, M. defeated by the Romans, 44, a.
- Al Hareth*, the fifteenth king of Yaman, 268, a.
- the seventeenth king of Hira, dethroned, 274, b. Whether the Aretas mentioned by St. Paul, 276, c, d, (C).
- king of Kenda, 278, b, c.
- Al Heg'r*, Hejr, Agra, where sited, 238, c.
- Aligern's* brave defence of Cuma, 679, a.
- Allas* worshipped by the Arabs, 246, f. 248, a.
- Allobroges*, where seated, 397, (L). Discover Carthage's cabals, ibid. c.
- Al Mondar* assists Babaram, 273, c. Why called Massamai, 274, a.
- Al Nooman* turns christian, and abdicates, 273, c. d.
- II. his wonderful conversion, 274, & seq. Death, 275, b, c.
- Alone*, ancient Lancaster, 412, d.
- Alorcus* sent with Hannibal's conditions to Saguntum, 5, c.
- Alpes Cottiva* taken by Rotaris, 691, a.
- Altinius* severely punished by Hannibal, 49, d, c.
- Alusianus* undermined by John, 638, b. Made Deleanus's colleague, ibid. c. Submits to Michael, ibid. e, & seq.
- Al Uzza* worshipped by the Arabs, 246, f, 248, a.
- Amalaric*, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, c. In Spain restored to his crown, 645, a. His territories, 647, c.
- Amalek*, the tribe of, 243, c.
- Amali*, the princely tribe of, 487, c. 492, d. 647, b.
- Amalus*, a Bashian prince, 492, d.
- Amasis's* stratagem against Barca, 171, b, (E).
- Amber*, its plenty in Prussia, [410], & seq.
- Ambigatus* invades Germany, [434], & seq.
- Ambiorix*, his account of his regal power, 368, c. Success against Cesar, 399, c and e.
- Ambrosian* women, their bravery, [374], & seq. [396], c, (K).
- Ambrosius Aurel.* succeeds Vortigern, 445, c. Defeats the Saxons, 446, a. His progress through England, ibid. b, c. Victories over the Saxons, ibid. d, c.
- Amelungus* throws the Romans into a panic, 695, f.
- America*, whether known to the ancients, 179, b, c.
- Ammer*, mount, where, 164, a.
- Ammon*, the city and temple of, 168, a. Its pleasant situation, and oracle, ibid. (B).
- Ammonii*, who, and where, 168, b—d, (A).
- Ampfaga*,

I N D E X.

- Amphaga*, where sited, 708, a, b. —River described, 111, c.
- Amram*, a wife king of Yaman, 268, c.
- Anru*, his stratagem and revenge against Zobab, 273, a.
- Amfivarii*, a tribe of Franks, 548, a.
- Anagombri*, mountains in Cyrenica, 170, c.
- Anas* river in Lusitania, 299, a.
- Anastasi* confirms Theodoric king of Italy, 525, e.
- II's deposition and death, 625, c, d.
- Anasolius* sent to make peace with the Hunns, 469, b.
- Anchialus* plundered by the Ostrogoths, 674, f.
- Ancona* besieged by the Ostrogoths, 674, f, & seq.
- Anda* surrendered to Scipio, 78, c.
- Andalusia*, its ancient names, 319, b.
- Andate*, her temple and worship in Britain, 406, c.
- Andercheiter* razed by the Saxons, 447, a, b.
- Andrius* refuses to succour the Carthaginians, 101, b.
- Aneroesius's* narrow escape, 392, c. Death, ibid. & seq.
- Angamcani*, who, and where, 140, d.
- Angels* worshipped by the Arabs, 246, f. Their names, ibid. & seq.
- Angiers*, seized on by Childeric, 564, a, b.
- Angles*, their origin, ibid. 441, a. Settlements, ibid. b. Joined to the Saxons, ibid. c. Why called Angli, 442, a, b. Assist the Britons, 453, d. A tribe of the Suevi, 540, e.
- Anglesey* taken by Suetonius, 430, c.
- Anglia*, whence so called, 441, b.
- Annius of Viterbo*, a fabulous author, 420, (A).
- Anointing*, why used by the ancients, 19, (H).
- Anquialum*, taken by the Goths, 497, e.
- Ansvarii*, Ansinarii, who, 549, c. Why so called, ibid. d.
- Ansfri*'s treason and punishment, 701, b, c.
- Ansaus's* kingdom, when begun, 121, d, & seq. His shield worshipped by the Moors, 150, c. One of the first kings of Mauritania, 153, b. Overcome by Hercules, ibid. c, d. The rest see under Atlas, ibid. & seq.
- Anthemius's* success against the Hunns, 482, c, d. Chosen emperor against Genferic, 537, a, b. Assists Leo against him, ibid. d—f.
- Anthropophagi*, who, 184, d.
- Antiochus's* unjust suspicion of Hannibal, 87, & seq. Deferts him, 88, & seq. Distressed condition, 90, f, & seq.
- Antoninus's* wall in Britain, where and when built, 415, a. Why surnamed Britannicus, 432, a, (M).
- Anzelas* kills a gigantic Goth in single combat, 676, b, c.
- Aorni*, the high mountains of, described, 185, d, c.
- Apis*, the city and temple of, 168, a, b.
- Apollinaris* defeated by Clovis, 576, a, (I).
- Apollo* worshipped by the Gauls, 355, pass. His names, ibid. & seq. Statues, 356, pass.
- temple at Carthage plundered, 103, e.
- promontory, where sited, 115, d.
- Apollonius* sent ambassador to Attila, 471, a. Noble answer to him, ibid. b. —Treachery to Hannibal, 90, e.
- Appius Sabin*, defeated by the Dacians, 612, b, c.
- Apris* defeated by the Cyrenians, 172, d, c.
- Apuleia* wasted by Hannibal, 23, c.
- Aqua Calida*, the ancient name of Bath, 407.
- Aquileia* destroyed by Attila, 479, a, b. Taken by the Lombards, 619, c.
- Aquitana* Gallia described, 321, & seq. Subdued by Clovis, 576, d.
- Aquitani* subdued, 399, b.
- Aquilphus's* treason and death, 513, a, b. 545, a, b.
- Ar* Palladis, an island in Ethiopia, 190, b.
- Arabia*, why called Cush, 182, pass. Its names and etymons, 222, & seq. Extent and limits, 223, & seq. How divided, 224, b. First inhabitants, ibid. c, d.
- Arabia Petra* described, 224, c, & seq. Its towns, nations, &c. 226, & seq. Barrenness, 227, a, b. Remarkable places, ibid. c—e.
- Deserta*, its limits, tribes, ibid. 228, a. Barrenness, 229, a, b. Why called Abasene, ibid. c, d. Its towns, 230, a, b.
- Felix* described, 230, & seq. Famous places, 233, c, & seq. How divided by the Orientalis, 234, & seq. 241, d. Its plenty of gold, 263, a, b. From whom called Arabia, 265, b, c, (A). Whether conquered by Trajan, 282, f, & seq.
- Arabic* character, when and by whom introduced, 254, d, & seq. Various alphabets, 255—257.
- Arabi*, some of the first inhabitants of Mauritania, 149, a. Their extract and history, 240, & seq.
- Old*, classes and tribes, 241, d, & seq. 243, f, & seq.
- Modern*, their extract, 244, a—c.
- Scenite*, their government, ibid. d, e, & seq. Kings, how chosen, 245, b, c. Laws, ibid. d. Religion, ibid. & seq. Deities, 246—249. Idols, ibid. e, & seq. Hold some Magian tenets, 250, f, & seq. Notion of a future state, 251, c—e. Jewish and christian notions borrowed by them, ibid. & seq. Bishopricks among them, 255, e, & seq. Sects, 253, b. Language and dialects, ibid. & seq. Writing, 254, d, & seq. Learning, poetry, ibid. 257, seq. Way of reckoning weeks, months, and years, 260, a—c. Sciences, ibid. & seq. Arts, 261, c. Signal hospitality, ibid. & seq. Other characters, 262, & seq. Commerce, 263, b, c. Circumcision, ibid. d. Other customs, ibid. & seq. Respect to their kings, 264, b, c. Feasting, ibid. d, e. History to the birth of Mohammed, 265, ad fin. cap. A list of their monarchs, 267, & seq. The names of their months, by whom given, 277, (C). Other kingdoms and tribes, ibid. & seq. Manner of securing their pastures, 278, e, (D). Whether, and how long, subject to Egypt, Medes, &c. 279, & seq. Their success against Antigonius, 280, a, & seq. Noble speech to Demetrius, ibid. & seq. Whether conquered by the Romans, 281, c. Transactions to Mohammed's time, 283, f, & seq. Heresies after their conversion, 284, e, & seq.
- Arabrige*, a city in Lusitania, 297, a.
- Araducia*, a city in Lusitania, 240, c.
- Ararena*, the province of, where, 492, d.
- Araric*, a famed Bathian prince, 492, d.
- Arbogastes* stirs up the Romans against the Franks, 557, f. Defeats them, 558, a, b.
- Arborici*, who, and where, 571, (H).
- Arcadius's* partiality to the Goths, 505, & seq.
- Arcesilaus*, king of Cyrene, 172, c.
- II. his reign, ibid. d.
- III. ibid. e.
- IV. driven out, ibid. c, f. Flight and death, ibid. & seq.
- Ardaburius* drives the Hunns out of Illyricum, 478, b.
- Ardaric*, king, a great favourite of Attila, 466, c. Serves under him, 473, a. Revolts, after his death, 481, c, f.
- Areacida*, who, and where sited, 81, b.
- Arechis*, second duke of Benevento, 684, c. His large territories, ibid. d. Death, 691, f. —Assumes the sovereign power, 724, d. Peace with Charles, ibid. e, f.
- Areta* teaches philosophy at Cyrene, 175, sub not.
- Arga*, a city in Arabia Felix, 233, c.
- Arganthonius's* long life and reign, [324], & seq.
- Aridius's* signal fidelity to Gundebald, 571, d, & seq.
- Ariogeses* chosen king of the Quadi, 602, f.
- Ariovald* dethrones Adalwald, 689, a. His death, ibid. e.
- Ariovistus* defeated by Caesar, 398, b, [436], c, d, (E).

I N D E X.

- Aripert*, Ch. king of the Lombards, 692, e. Divides his kingdom, ibid. f. Cruelty to Luitpert, 699, a, b. To Asprang, and his family, ibid. b, c. Donations to the church, ibid. & seq. & (W). Defeated and drowned, 700, a, b.
- Aristippus*'s writings, and merry character, 174, (F).
- Ariston* sent by Hannibal to Carthage, 87, d. Arrested, and escapes, ibid. d.
- Arles*, the siege of, raised, 576, e, f.
- Armorica*, Gallia, described, 322, a, b.
- American Britons*, of what standing, 454, c, d. Cruelty to the old inhabitants, ibid. c, d. Submit to Clovis, 570, e, f.
- Arma*, river in Numidia, 112, a.
- Armagastus* defeats the Hunns, 482, e, f.
- Arnegestes*, defeated and slain by Attila, 469, a.
- Arpi* taken by the Romans, 49, f.
- Arra*, the metropolis of the Arraceni, 240, c.
- Arraceni*. See Saraceni, 227, b, c.
- Arsenaria*, where seated, 114, c.
- Artime*, a city of Cyrenica, 169, c.
- Artabanes* basely forsaken by the Romans, 665, e. Brave fight with a gigantic Goth, 666, a. Death, ibid. b.—Sent against Totila, 673, f, & seq. Shipwreck, 674, d. Success in Sicily, 675, b.
- Artabrum promontorium*, Finister, where sited, 303, f.
- Artasiris* sent to defend Rome, 668, d. Defeated, ibid. c.
- Artemidorus* promoted at Rome, 523, c, d.
- Arthur*, king, succeeds Nazabed, 448, & seq. His history much doubted, ibid. (B). His tomb at Glafsenbury, ibid. Victories over the Saxons, 449, & seq. Death, 450, e.
- Arvaracus*, his vision concerning the Hunns, 473, (G).
- Arverni*, who, 367, (B). Contest with the Ædui, ibid. c.
- Arvernium*, capital of the Arverni, 398, (O).
- Ascaric*, antient king of the Franks, 550, e. When, 551, a. His sad end, 554, e.
- Ascia*, who, and where, 232, a.
- Ascurum*, where sited, 143, a.
- Asdrubal* left to command in Spain, 9, a. His army, ibid. b. Goes in pursuit of the Romans, 18, b, c. Success against them, 20, c, d. Ill success, 26, & seq. Defeated by Scipio, 27, e. Bravery against the Romans, 30, e, f. Ill success in Spain, 38, & seq. Defeats the Carpesti, 39, c. Forced to assist Hannibal, ibid. d, e. Defeated in his march, 40, b, c. Sends word of it to Carthage, 41, f. Defeated again, 48, & seq. And again, 62, b, c. Goes into Lusitania, ibid. d.
- Calvus*, shattered by a storm, 44, c, d. Arrives at Sardinia, 45, d.
- the son of Hamilcar, defeats the Romans in Spain, 56, d. Extricates himself out of a snare, 58, c. Goes to assist Hannibal, 63, d. Crosses the Pyrenees, and Gaul, 65, b. Repulsed before Placentia, ibid. c. Marches towards Umbria, 66, b. Defeated by the consuls, ibid. & seq. Noble death, 67, b.
- the son of Gisco, defeated by Scipio, 69, e, & seq. Retires to Gades, 70, d, c. Defeated at sea, 71, e. Betrayed by Masiniissa, 72, b, c. Allies with Syphax, 75, a, b. Defeated, 77, e. Retires to Anda, 78, a. Cruelties there, 80, d, e.
- Hædus*, sent ambassador to Rome, 84, a. Speech to the senate, ibid. b, c. Severe reproof to Hannibal, ibid. d.—Defeated by Masiniissa, 96, e. Impeached by the senate, 97, a. Defends Carthage against the Romans, 100, & seq. Fortifies his camp, 102, a, b. Goes over to the Romans, 103, f. His wife's noble behaviour and death, ibid. & seq.
- Gulussa*'s nephew, accused and dispatched, 101, d.—Instigates Syphax against Masiniissa, 123, c.
- Asfemonium*'s noble defence against Attila, 469, d, e.
- Asena* taken by the Carpesti, 39, b.
- Asgardians*, who, 489, b, c.
- Asia*, its etymon, 178, e.
- Asotes* marries Samuel's daughter, 634, d.
- Aspar*'s narrow escape out of Africa, 533, c.
- Asphalidonians*, a tribe of Libyans, 120, c.
- Asphaltites*, lake, discovered by Demetrius, 281.
- Asprand* driven out by Aripert, 699, a. Declared king of the Lombards, 700, a. Dies, ibid. b.
- Aspurgia*, where sited, 489, b.
- Aspurgians*, who, ibid.
- Asaboras*, river, falls into the Nile, 189, b. Described, ibid. (I).
- Asapa* taken by the Romans, 71, a.
- Asapus*, river, falls into the Nile, 189, b, (I).
- Asorga* destroyed by the Goths, 513, b, c.
- Asrata*, islands, where, 190, b.
- Asulphus*, Ch. king of the Lombards, 710, a. Seizes on Ravenna, ibid. b—d. Invades Rome, 711, & seq. His new edicts, 712, a—d. Defeated by Pepin, ibid. e, f. Besieged in Parva, ibid. & seq. Submits to him, 714, pass. Restores his conquests, ibid. & seq. Dies, 715, b, c.
- Asures*, who, and where sited, 303, e, f. 304, (B).
- Ataulphus* founds a kingdom in Gaul, 492, e. Succeeds Alaric, 509, a. And invades Gaul, ibid. Marries Placidia, ibid. b. Murdered, ibid. c.
- Atec*, antient king of the Franks, 550, e. Submits to Dioclesian, ibid. f.
- Athalaric*, king of Italy, 493, a. Succeeds Theodoric, 647. His letter to the senate, 648, pass. To the Gauls, &c. ibid. e, & seq. Debauches and death, 650, c.
- Athanagild*, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, e. Athanaric defeated by the Hunns, 459, c. 502, d. His famed wall, ibid. Retires into Caucalanda, ibid. e. Wars with Valens, 501, pass. Defeated, ibid. f. Peace with him, 502, b. Kindly received by Theodosius, 503, c. Buried by him, ibid. d.
- Athens* plundered by the Goths, 497, a. By Alaric, 505, d.
- Atinius* commands in Thurium, 54, b. Saved from the massacre, ibid. d.
- Atlantida* conquered by the Egyptians, 149, b. Who, and where sited, 177, c, d. Their customs, ibid. & seq.
- Atlantis* of Plato discussed, 179, b—d.
- Atlas*, king, the inventor of astronomy, 152, d. First king of Mauritania, 153, b. Overcome by Hercules, ibid. c, d. The same with Antaus, ibid. & (M). The fable of, explained, 154, a, &c.
- a fabulous king of Spain, 320, d.
- mountains, where, 115, e. 139, d. Described, 146, a, b.
- Atacobi*, different from the Caledonians, 414, c. Invade the Romans, 435, c.
- Attalus* made emperor, and deposed by Alaric, 508, e.
- king of the Marcomans, allies with Gallienus, 601, f.
- Attanes* goes over to Scipio, 70, c.
- Attila*'s cruelty to the fugitive Hunns, 464, e. Falls foul on the Romans, 465, b—d. Upon Theodosius II. ibid. & seq. His fratricide, 466, b. Peace with Theodosius, ibid. c. Haughty answer to the Romans, ibid. d. Proud character, ibid. & seq. Affected plainness, 467, c—e. Troops of wives, ibid. e, f. Why called flagellum Dei, 468, b. Wars with the Romans, ibid. c. Horrid devastations, ibid. & seq. New peace, 469, b, c. Forgives the Roman conspirators, 470, c. Falls foul on the western empire, 471, & seq. Demands the princess Honorina, 472, c. Outwits Valentinian with a sham peace, ibid. & seq. His vast army, 473, a, b. Defeats the Franks, ibid. c, d.

I N D E X.

c, d. Falls upon the Romans, ibid. & seq. Defeated at Orleans, 475, b, c. Besieged in his camp, 477, ibid. Retires towards the Rhine, 478, b. Invades Italy, ibid. & seq. Success and devastations, ibid., 479, & seq. Revenge on the Roman pride, ibid. (M). Truce with Rome, 480, a, b. Enters Damphny, ibid. c. Driven from it, ibid. d. His death, ibid. & seq. Pompous funeral, 481, b, c.

Attrebatii in Britain, where seated, 408, a.

Attuatii settle in Belgia, 406, d. Fifty-three thousand sold for slaves, 438, a, b.

Ataham, whether he turned Mohammedan, 220, b, c.

Avalite, where sited, 190, a.

Avaricum taken by Cæsar, 399, c.

Audoinus, king of the Lombards, his success against the Gepide, 597, pass. 617, b, c.

Audus, mount, 111, c.

—promontory, where, 115, d.

—river, 111, f.

Auges, a famed Bathian prince, 492, d.

Augusta Colonia, in Tarracon, 304, d.

—Gemina, 305, a.

Augustus prevented from invading Britain, 427, b, c. Conquest of Ethiopia, 215, & seq.

Avignon taken by Theodoric, 577, a.

Avitus proclaimed emperor by Theodoric, 512, b.

—bishop, his letter against duels, 582, b.

Aulus's shameful defeat in Numidia, 130, d, e.

Aurelian's success against the Goths, 497, & seq.

Aurelius Conasus's wicked reign, 451, c.

Auric, a famed Bathian prince, 492, d.

Ausburgh, the capital of Suabia, [415].

Ausitani, where sited, 10, f. Invaded by Scipio, ibid. & seq.

Ausones, where sited, 489, c.

Autharis chosen king of the Lombards, 622, d, e.

681, c. Takes the name of Flaccus, ibid. d.

Success against the Romans, ibid. & seq. Turns christian, 682, c, d. His conquests, 683, d, & seq. Peace with Childebert, 684, a. Poisoned, ibid. b.

Autolala, capital of the Autololes, 160, d, (B).

Automala, a fortress of Cyrenaica, 170, a.

Aulun, an ancient university in Gaul, 383, c.

Taken by Childebert, 587, f. Its temple and hot waters, 355, (R).

Auvergne yielded to Emric, 516.

Auxinum taken by Belisarius, 660, f. 661, & seq.

Auxum, metropolis of Ethiopia, 184, c. The ruins of, ibid. & seq. The Abassine princes crowned at, 185, b.

Auzia, where situate, 115, b.

Aylesford, the battle of, 444, d, e.

Azama, where situate, 109, c.

B

B A B A I defeated by the Ostrogoths, 519, f, & seq.

Bacchus worshipped by the Mauritanians, 150, c.

By the Arabs, 249, b.

Bacchus, Iacchus, comes into Spain, [321], c.

Bacanian forest in Germany, [414], a.

Badanatha, capital of the Thamydeni, 233, c.

Badeo, a city in Arabia Felix, 233, f.

Badicariini, heads of the ravaging Bulgarians, 623, c, f.

Badon, the battle of, when fought, 450, b, c.

Bætica, the province of, described, 299, c, &c. Its inhabitants, ibid. d, & seq. and notes. Roman colonies, 300, a, b. Cities, ibid. c. Sea-ports and bays, 301, c, d. Mountains, soil, &c. 302, & seq. Minerals, &c. 303, a, b.

Bætis, river, its two mouths, 301, (G). Its spring and course, 302, b. Divides Bætica into two, 299, d.

Bætula, the silver mines of, 65, b.

Bæturia. See above, Bætica, 299, d, & seq.

Bætus, a fabulous king of Spain, 319, b.

Bagauda defeated by Astorius, 543, f.

Bagendra, the high mountains of, 185, d.

Bagrada river, its spring, 163, c.

Bahrein province described, 239, c.

Balamir. See Valamir, 458, & seq.

Balchis, the supposed queen of Sheba, 268, c.

Baldwin's dreadful fate, 639, b.

Baleares islands described, 308, b—d. Ravaged by the Vandals, 531, d.

Balshi, the princely tribe of, 487, c. 492, d, c.

Banasa, where sited, 143, d.

Banduspes, king, imprisoned by his subjects, 606, c.

Banjura, where seated, 140. A tribe of the Gatullians, 160, d.

Bantius bribed over to the Romans, 36, b, (O).

Barani, where seated, 294, f.

Barat-Anac, the supposed etymon of Britain, 402, b.

Barbarium promontorium in Lusitania, 298, c.

Barbation's ill-timed bravery, 668, d.

Barbesul, a sea-port in old Spain, 301, d, & seq.

Barca, where, and by whom built, 171, b—d.

Betrayed to the Persians, 173, b, (E).

Barcah, who, and whence, 171, c, d. Their dreadful punishment, 173, b.

Bards, in Gaul, their office, &c. 364, d. Inferior to the druids, ibid. & seq. Why styled parasites, 365, a, b, (L).

Bargusii tampered with by the Romans, 8, d. Submit to Hannibal, 10, f, & seq.

Barrows, on Salisbury plain, their use and description, 341, & seq.

Basilic, the Hun, lifts in the Roman service, 464, a.

Basiliscus's treachery to Leo, 538, a, b. Defeated, ibid. c, f. Pardoned, 539, b, c.

Basilus defeated by the Bulgarians, 633, c, & seq.

Success against them, 634, & seq. Cruelty to his prisoners, 635, c. Fresh conquests in Bulgaria, ibid. & seq. 636, b. Cruelty to them, ibid. c, d. Kindness to their king's family, ibid. f, & seq. Triumph over them, 637, b, c.

—Synadenus, falsely accused by Democritus, 637, d, e.

Basma's reception of Chilideric, 564, (F). Runs away with, and married to him, 566, a, (H).

Bastarna, who, and where sited, [408], d, & seq.

Settled in Thrace, 429, a.

Bastirani, who, and where sited, 299, d, (B).

Bastuli, who, and where sited, 299, d, (B).

Bathancester, Bath, taken by the Saxons, 453, a.

Battus comes to Cyrenaica, 172, b, c. And cured of his stammering, ibid.

—II. and III. why surnamed the happy, ibid. d, e.

—IV. invites Demonax, ibid. f.

Bebamburgh, Bamborough, by whom built, 451, a.

Becca, the ancient name of Mecca, 237, b.

Bedowens in Arabia, who, &c. 229, a, b. 244, d.

Begdeg made king of Westphalia, 489, c.

Belatucardus, Apollo so named in Britain, 406, b.

Belerium, a promontory in Danmania, 407, d.

Belga settle in Gaul, [435], b, c. Why so named, ibid. & (C). Subdued by Cæsar, 398, c, d. [438], a.

—in Britain, where seated, 407, f.

Belgia, whether conquered by Pharamond, 559, d, e.

Belisarius's success against the Ostrogoths, 652, & seq. and (Q). Answer to them, 654, a, b. Complaint to the emperor, 656, a, (R). Brave defence of Rome, 657, a, b. Defeat, ibid. Raises the siege, 658, b, c. Success against the Goths, ibid. & seq. Fresh conquests, 660, c, & seq. Proclaimed emperor by the Goths, 663, b, c. Recalled, ibid. e, f. Sent against Totila, 668, pass. Dissuades him from destroying Rome, 670, c, d. Retakes

I N D E X.

- Retakes it, ibid. e, f. Recalled, 671, f. His conduct censured, 672, a.
- Bellovacii*, who, 367, (C). Ally with the Ædii, ibid.
- Bene-mezac*, where situate, 164, a.
- Beneventum* plundered by Hannibal, 23, d. Dis-mantled by Totila, 666, e. Erected into a dukedom, 624, e, f. 683, f. Besieged by Constantius, 695, a, b. Relieved by Grimoald, ibid. c. —The dukes of, 683, & seq. 700, & seq. The extent of their dominions, 720, d, e. Government, ibid. f. Changed into a principality, 724, c, d. Given to Radelchisus, 725, a.
- Berea* delivered up to Basilus, 335, a.
- Berenice*, a city in Cyrenaica, 169, e. 191, c, (A).
- Bericus* persuades Claudius to invade Britain, 428, b.
- Berig* invades the Almerugians and Vandals, 487, c.
- Bernica*, a province in Northumberland, 457, a.
- Berry* taken by the Visigoths, 515, c.
- Bessa* sent to command in Rome, 668, d. His fatal avarice, 669, e, f.
- Bestia*, Calpurnius, bribed by Jugartha, 129, f, & seq.
- Beth-meon*, a city in Arab-Petrea, 226, b.
- Betus*, Bætus, ancient king of Spain, 319, b.
- Bigati*, a coin, why so called, 36, (O).
- Bithyas* assists the Carthaginians, 101, b, c. 102, c.
- Bithynia* ravaged by the Goths, 495, d.
- Bituriges*, who, 367, c. Subject to the Ædii, ibid.
- Black Forest*, in Germany, [414], a, b.
- Bladinus*, king of the Bulgarians, 623, c.
- Bladishabllus* iaved by Gabriel, 623, d. Murders him, 636, a. Suspected by Basilus, ibid. b.
- Slain before Dyrrhachium, ibid. c.
- Blasus*'s success against Tacfarinas, 158, e.
- Blatoburgium*, Bullness, its antiquities, its antiquities, 413, b.
- Bleda* succeeds Romas, 464, c. Advantageous peace with Rome, ibid. d. New conquests, ibid. & seq. See sub Attila.
- Blemmyes* subdued by Probus, 216, e, & seq.
- Blerisa*, a city in Lusitania, 297, e.
- Bnifomena*, who, and where sited, 233, d.
- Bo*, made king of Riisland, 489, d.
- Boarex*, queen, defeats Styrax, &c. 483, a.
- Bocchar* assists Masiniissa, 123, b.
- Bocchus* assists Jugartha, 132, d, e. 134, b, c. Treachery to him, ibid. e. 156, b, c, (N), (O). Is rewarded for it, ibid. & 135, a. Assists Pompey, 137, c, d.
- Bodyna* taken by Basilus, 635, b.
- Boetius*'s consulship and character, 577, e. Compliments Theodoric at Rome, 645, a. Put to death by him, ibid. Excellent character, ibid. & seq.
- Bogud* cuckolded by Caesar, 156, (P). Signal services to him, 157, a. Death, ibid. b.
- Boii* invite Hannibal, 14, a, b. Treachery to Scipio, 18, c. Settle in Italy, 391, d. Driven out of Bohemia by the Marcomans, 600, f.
- Bolanus*, Vest. governor of Britain, 430, f.
- Bomilcar*'s arrival at Locri, 46, b. Treachery and death, 131, d.
- Bona*, in Numidia, where sited, 110, b.
- Bonduca* defeated by Suetonius, 430, c.
- Bonifacius* undermined by Ætius, 532, b. Invites the Vandals into Africa, ibid. c. Besieged by them in Hippo, 533, b. Returns into Italy, ibid. d.
- Bonofus*'s defeat and death, 434, b.
- Borises* sent prisoner to Constantinople, 632, f. 633, c. His escape and death, ibid. —Delivers up Scopia to Basilus, 635, c.
- Bosra*, a city in Petrea, 227, c.
- Boustrophedon*, what, 383, (W). Whether used by the Gauls, ibid.
- Brachata*, Gallia, why so called, 322, a.
- Braga* plundered by Theodoric, 545, a.
- Branchus*'s gratitude to Hannibal, 14, c, d.
- Branonium*, Worcester, metropolis of the Cornavii, 410, d.
- Brecknock* inhabited in the time of the Romans, 411, a.
- Brennus*'s noble answer to the Romans, 370, b—d. (F). Invited into Italy, 391, d, c. Plunders and burns Rome, ibid. & seq. Defeated and cut off, 392, b, c. —Fatal expedition into Greece, 373, b, c. 393, & seq. His end, 394, b.
- Brigantes*, who, and where sited, 412, a. Defeated by Ostorius, 430, b. By Didius, ibid. d. By Cerealis, ibid. f, & seq. By Lollius, 432, a.
- Brigo*, a fabulous king of Spain, 320, b.
- Brissello* taken by the Lombards, 681, c.
- Britain*, Great, described, 401. Whence so called, ibid. & seq. Its situation, soil, &c. 402, e, f. First inhabitants, 403, a, b. How divided, 407, c, & seq. Its three walls, 414, & seq. Various divisions, 416, b—d. Pentarchy, ibid. e. Roman government, ibid. & seq. Military, 417, & seq. Fabulous history, 420, & seq. (A). Reduced by the Romans, 429, & seq. Governed by tribunes, 430, e, f. Quelled under several emperors, 431, & seq. Divided by Severus, 433, b. Submits to Aurelian, 434, a. Given to Carausius, ibid. c. Reunited, ibid. d. Fresh division under Constantine, 435, a. Secured against the Picts, 436, c. Invaded by them and the Scots, 437, a. Abandoned by the Romans, 437, & seq. Invaded by the Picts, 438, & seq.
- Britons*, their manners, &c. 404, & seq. Way of fighting, 405, d. Trade, shipping, &c. ibid. & seq. Religion, 406, & seq. Government, 405, d. 407, b. Their fortified woods, called towns, 414, d, e. Incorporated into the Roman army, 420, b, c. Embassy to Caesar, 421, c. Brave defence against him, 422, pass. Submit to him, ibid. & seq. Break the peace, 423, c, d. Submit anew, ibid. f, & seq. Various defeats, 424, d, e. 425, c. Many of them submit to him, 426, b, (F). Whether all were conquered by him, 427, a. Tribute to Augustus, ibid. d, e. Subdued by Claudius, 428, & seq. Defeated by Geta, ibid. e, f. By Suetonius, 430, pass. By Agricola, 431, a. Romanized, ibid. b. Allowed to plant vines, 434, b. Stripped of their youth by Maximus, 436, b. Repulse the Scots and Picts, 437, b, c. Build a stone wall, 438, a, b. Make and murder their kings, 439, a, b. Dis-mal condition, and letter to Ælius, ibid. b, c. Horrid degeneracy, ibid. e. Destroyed by pestilence, ibid. & seq. Invite the Saxons, 440, b, (T). Driven out by them, 444, b, c. Out of Kent, 445, b. Beaten by Elia, 446, & seq. Under Nazaleod, 447, d, & seq. Defeat the Saxons, 450, b, c. Grow more debauched, 451, b, c. Lose several battles, 452, & seq. And three of their kings, ibid. Retire into Wales, 453, d, e. And Cornwal, ibid. f. And south Scotland, 454, a. Into Armorican Gaul, ibid. b, c. When, ibid. e, f. The sad state of those in Wales, ibid. & seq. —Those in Gaul defeated by Euric, 515, b.
- Brittenberg* castle built by the fugitive Britons, 444, c.
- Bructerii*, who, and where sited, 407, c. A tribe of the Franks, 548, a. Their dreadful punishment, 554, e, f.
- Brutti* submit to Hannibal, 34, c. Punished by the Romans, 59, c, d. At Tarentum, 62. Desert the Carthaginians, 76, f. Open their towns to the Romans, 80, b.
- Brutium* destroyed by the banditti, 61, e.
- Brutus*'s fabulous conquest of Britain, 420, & seq. (A).
- Budini*, who, and where sited, 604, e, & seq.
- Built, given to Pascentius, 446, c.
- Bulgaria Magna*, where sited, 623, a.

Bulgarians.

I N D E X.

Bulgarians, their antient seat, extract, &c. 623, a, b. Defeated by Theodoric, 522, e, f. Come into Thrace, 623, c. Defeat Aristus, ibid. d, e. New invasions, ibid. & seq. And defeats by the Romans, 624, a. Revenge, ibid. c, d. Their language, 625, a, (L). Defeat Justinian, ibid. b, c. And Copronymus, 626, a, b. Defeated, ibid. c—e. Peace with Leo, ibid. f. Defeat Constantine IV. 627, a, b. Fresh invasions and conquests, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Leo, 628, c, f, & seq. Success against Romanus, 631, & seq. Subdued by the Rossi, 632, e, f. Submit to Zimices, 633, b. Revolt, and set up four kings, ibid. b, c. Their war with Basilis, ibid. & seq. Submit to him, 636, e, f. Revolt under Deleanus, 637, c. Submit to Michael, 638, e, f. Totally subdued by the Turks, 639, a—d.

Bulleum Silurum, where sited, 410, f. 411, d. Burgundi, who, and where sited, [409], e, & seq. 494, b. Harassed by the Hunns, 463, c. Are baptized, and defeat them, ibid. d. Defeated by the Goths, 498, f, & seq. Their territories in Gaul, 516, c, d. Assist the ravaging Vandals, 529, e. War with the Franks, 571, b, &c. Defeated by Clovis, 572, d, e. Ally with him, 576, d, e. Defeated by Theodoric, ibid. & seq. Their origin, 581, a—c. Religion, kings, &c. ibid. & seq. Various defeats in Gaul 582, c—f. Found a kingdom there, 583, a, b. Their conversion and conquests, ibid. & seq. Wars with the Franks, 585, & seq. Subdued by them, 587, f.

Burii, who, and where sited, [409], b. Buteliana, the palace of, burnt, 635, f, & seq. Buzara, mount, in Numidia, 111, c. Buxer, where situate, 168, b. Byzacene yielded to the Vandals, 533, e.

C

C A A B A of the Arabs, what, 264, a. Cabubatra, mount, in Yaman, 235, e. Cacanus ravages Italy, 686, d, e, & seq. Cacus defeated in Spain, [322], a. Cæsar's success against Juba, 136, & seq. Swift conquests in Gaul, 137, & seq. & (M). —His temple built by the Lugdunenses, 349, d. Caer Vorrán, its antiquities, 413, d, e. Cælian forest in Germany, [414], b. Cafres in Ethiopia, who, and where seated, 184, d, 190, a. Calabria, its territories, &c. 721, b, c, (C). Calatib, a prince of the Bani Maad, slain, 278, d, e. Calaguris, the infamous colony of, 305, b. Calamintha, where sited, 144, b. Calavius's friendship to Hannibal, 33, a, &c. Caledonii, who, and where sited, 414, b. Transplanted, 431, a. Callimachus's writings and character, 157, sub not. Calocyus entices the Russi into Bulgaria, 632, f, & seq. Calpe, a sea-port in Bætica, 301, c, d. Camalodunum, the first Roman colony in Britain, 409, e. Cambray taken by Clodio, 560, f, & (D). Cambria by whom so called, 421, (A). Cambridge built on the ruins of Camboritum, 410, a. Cambyse's expedition into Egypt, 212, & seq. Camden's notion of Stonehenge confuted, 341, a, b. Camillus, Fur. ill success against Tacfarinas, 158, b.

VOL. VII. NO. 10.

Campanians cut off by the Romans, 44, a. Camulogena defeated by Cæsar, 400, a. Camulus, one of the Gaulish names of Mars, 354, c, (O). Canaria island, why so called, 148, b. Candace, the common name of the Ethiopian queens, 193, d. —Invaded by Petronius, 215, & seq. Peace with Augustus, 216, a, b. Cannabaud slain by Aurelian, 498, a. Cannæ taken by Hannibal, 28, d. —The battle of, ibid. & seq. Cantabri, who, and where situate, 303, d, e. Cantabrian sea and coasts, 303, c—e. Cantii, where seated, 408, c. Cantons in Gaul, what, and whence, 325, & seq. & notes. Canucius, where situate, 114, b. Capraria island described, 148, b. 309, a. Capſa razed by Marius, 133, e. Capua surrendered to Hannibal, 32, f, & seq. Desires his assistance, 47, c. Besieged by the Roman consuls, 56, f, & seq. Surrendered, 58, c. Capusa defeated and slain, 132, a. Caracalla defeats the Aleman, 588, e, f, & seq. Carbonaria Sylva, where, 561, sub not. Cardanes demands a tribute from Constantine IV. 627, b. Carians come into Spain, [324], a. Carlile, olim, where sited, 413, a. Carloman marries Desiderius's daughter, 715, f. Dies, 716, a. Carna, a city in Arabia Felix, 231, b. Carneades's writings and character, 175, sub not. Carni, who, 396, (H). Subdued by Scaurus, ibid. a. Carnuti subdued by Cæsar, 400, c. Carnutum, where situate, 411, (I). Carpesti revolt from the Carthaginians, 38, e, f. Subdued by Asdrubal, 39, c. Carpi, who, and where seated, 493, e. 494, f. Baffled and affronted by Memophilus, 606, f, & seq. Submit, and transplanted, 608, c. Carteia, whether the same with Calpe, 301, d, & seq. Cartena, where situate, 114, c. By whom founded, ibid. d. Cartenus, river in Numidia, 116, b. Cartage, New, described, 59, e. Besieged by Scipio, ibid. & seq. —Old, besieged, 100. Taken, and destroyed, 102, & seq. Rebuilt, 105, c. By whom, ibid. & seq. Destroyed by the Saracens, 106. Taken by the Vandals, 533, e. Carthage destroyed by the Vandals, 531, d. Carthaginians, their success in Spain, 2, b, c. Answer to the Romans, 6, c, d. Success against them, 17, & seq. 19, & seq. Defeated in Spain, 20, c, d. Great joy at Hannibal's success, 34, d, & seq. Treaty with king Philip, 42, & seq. Their ambassadors sent prisoners to Rome, 43, f, & seq. Second treaty with Philip, 44, d, e. Driven out of Sardinia, 45, & seq. Defeated in Spain, 46, pass. Before Illiturgi, 48, e, f. Before Munda, 49, a, b. In Sicily, 61, & seq. In Spain, 63, b. Exasperate king Philip, 64, e, f. Defeated by the consuls, 65, & seq. In Spain by Scipio, 68, e, f. Their decline there, 69, & seq. Sad state, 73, e, f. Buy king Philip's help, 74, a. Their terror at Scipio's landing, 75, e, f, & seq. Deserted in Italy, 76, f, & seq. Defeated by Scipio, 77, & seq. Sue for peace to him, 79, c. Their ambassadors at Rome suspected, 80, f. Treachery to the Romans, 81, a. Defeated by Scipio, 82, pass. Obtain a hard peace, 83, & seq. Send the first sum to

9 A

Rome,

I N D E X.

- Rome*, 85, c. Discover Hannibal's designs to the Romans, 87, e. Offer them corn, ships, &c. 89, c, d. Proscribe Hannibal, 93, d. Fall out with Masiniſſa, ibid. & seq. Abjeſt appeal to the Romans, 94, & seq. Sue for peace to Masiniſſa, 96, c. Betrayed by the Romans, 97, & seq. Forced to ſend three hundred hoſtages, ibid. & seq. To deliver up their arms, 98, b, c. To abandon the city, ibid. & seq. Make freſh efforts, 101, & seq. Deſeated at ſea, 102, & seq. Overpowered and deſtroyed, 103, & seq.
- Carthalo* ſlain at Tarentum, 62.
- Cafilinum* beſieged by Hannibal, 36, f. Its dreadful famine, ibid. & seq. Surrender, 38, b, c. Retaken by Fabius, 47, f. Butchered by Marcellus, 48, a.
- Cafius*, mount, in Petrea, 227, d.
- Caffandria* deſtroyed by the Hunns, 483, e.
- Caffibelan's* treaſon, 421, (A). — Heads all the Britons againſt Cæſar, 425, b. Deſeat, and defence againſt him, ibid. & seq. Peace with him, 426.
- Caffiodorus* ſend embaffador to Attila, 472, d.
- Caffir*, the ruins of, 116, d.
- Caffiterides* iſlands, why ſo called by the Greeks, 402, c. Where ſited, 308, a, b.
- Caffinus's* ill ſucceſs againſt the Goths, 531, c, d.
- Caffra Alata*, ſuppoſed to be Edinburgh, 413, f.
- Caffrum Altum* deſcribed, 48, d.
- Caffulo* revolts from the Carthaginians, 48, c. Betrayed to Scipio, 71, a.
- Catabani*, who, and where ſited, 231, e.
- Catalonia* yielded to the Romans, 510, a, b.
- Casamentales*, an ally of Rome, 369, b.
- Catigern's* death and monument, 444, c.
- Cato's* irreconcilable hatred to the Carthaginians, 95, f, & seq. Unjuſt ſentence againſt them, 96, a, b. Promotes their utter deſtruction, ibid. f, & seq.
- Catti*, who, 548, a.
- Cattieuchlani*, where ſeated, 409, b.
- Cattualdes* choſen king of the Suevi, 541, d. Driven out, ibid. e.
- Cavions* and Chaibons, who, 598, c, d.
- Ceaulin's* ſucceſs againſt the Britons, 452, e, f. Deſeated and driven out, 453, b, c.
- Celtes*, how far ſpread through Europe, 312, d, e. embaffy to Alexander, [327], a, b.
- Celtiberians*, deſperate detence againſt Scipio, 78, e. Their warlike fierceneſs, 304, c, d. Excellent weapons, 312, f, & seq. Their religion, 330, d.
- Cenomagni*, &c. ſubmit to Cæſar, 426, a, b, (T).
- Cenſorinus* ſent againſt Carthage, 97, c. Repulſed before it, 100, e. Sent embaffador to Emeric, 543, e.
- Cenſonius* deſeated, 22, d, e.
- Cepio's* treachery to the Tholouſans, 396, b, c.
- Cercina* iſland, where ſited, 176, e, f.
- Cerdic's* arrival and ſucceſs in Britain, 447, c, d, & seq. Sends for more Saxons, 449, b. Deſeats the Britons, ibid. c. Founds the Weſt-Saxon kingdom, ibid. d, e.
- Ceretrius* ſettles in Proponſis, 393, d.
- Cerne*, iſland, where, probably, ſited, 178, f.
- Certillus* put to death for his ambition, 367, b, c.
- Cethegus* overawes the Etrurſcans, 76, e, f.
- Centa*, its ſituation, 139, c.
- Chagan's* ravages in Thrace, &c. 685, f, & seq. Outwitted by Grimoald, 696, c—e.
- Chaiboni*, who, and where ſeated, 411, d, e. Invade Gaul, 412, a, b.
- Chalazar* put to death by Totila, 671, e.
- Chalca*, where ſited, 143, e.
- Chalcedon* deſtroyed by the Goths, 495, b.
- Chalons*, the battle of, 475, & seq. Authors reconciled about it, ibid. (1).
- Chamavi*, who, and where, 548, a.
- Chararnichis* ſlain by Enn, 681, a.
- Chararic*, king of the Franks, 566, c. Refuſes to aid Clovis, ibid. d. Deſtroyed and murdered by him, 579, d, e.
- Charcorychi* mountains, where, 115, e.
- Charford*, the battle of, 449, e, & seq.
- Charidemus*, the promontory of, 301, c.
- Chariots* with two and four horſes, by whom invented, 36, (O).
- Charlemagne* falls out with Deſiderius, 716, & seq. Invited againſt him by the pope, 717, a, b. Succeſs againſt him in Italy, ibid. d, & seq. Grand reception at Rome, 718, b, c. Donations to the pope, ibid. f, & seq. Conqueſts in Italy, 719, & seq. Crowned king of the Lombards, 722, c. Second reception at Rome, ibid. & seq. Form of government, 723, & seq.
- Charlton*, Dr.'s, notion about Stonehenge confuted, 339, & seq.
- Chauci*, who, and where ſited, 407, b. 548, a.
- Chaulafii* and Chaulorei, who, and where ſited, 161, c.
- Chelenophagi*, who, and why ſo called, 183, f. Their food, manners, &c. 200, d.
- Cheroneſus* made tree, 608, b. — Cimbrica, whence ſo named, [405]. Deſcribed, 486, paſſ. Its firſt inhabitants, who, 488, a.
- Chicheſter* built by Ciſſa, 449, d.
- Childebert's* ſucceſs againſt the Burgundi, 587, d. Againſt the Lombards, 681, c. Deſeated, 682, & seq.
- Childeric*, king of the Franks, 550, e. Taken priſoner by the Hunns, 473, c. Reſtored by Attila, 563, a. His reign and conqueſts, 564, a, b. Death, ibid. c. Tomb and character, ibid. c, d. Deſtroying and reſtauration, ibid. & seq. & (F).
- Chilperic* made magiſter militiæ, 581, c. His conqueſts in Gaul, 583, & seq. Extraſt, 584, b. Death, ibid. c.
- Chinalap Shellif*, river in Numidia, 116, b.
- Chindafwinthus*, { kings of the Viſigoths, 492, c.
- Chintila*,
- Chloderic's* parricide, 578, b, c. Punishment, ibid. d.
- Chlotildis's* character, &c. 567, c, d. Married to Clovis, ibid. & seq. Strives to convert him, 568, e. 570, b. Her retirement and death, 580, e, f. Extraſt, 584, d. Revenge on Sigifmond, 586, b—e.
- Chnodomarius's* defeat and death, 591, d—f.
- Chreſtus* enters Sarmatia, 608, a.
- Chryſaphus* hires Edeon to murder Attila, 470, a. Forgiven, ibid. c.
- Chuni*, who, and where, 458, d.
- Cicero's* partial account of the Gauliſh religion, 347, b, (A).
- Cimbrian* women, their ſignal bravery, 375, b, [436]. (F).
- Cimbrians*, their origin, names, &c. 490, e, f. Succeſs againſt the Romans, 486, & seq. Antiquity, [405], e, & seq. Extent, [406], a. Blend-ed with the Saxons, ibid. b. Invade Italy, 435, e, & seq. Deſeated, 436, a, b, (E), (F).
- Cimbrica Cheroneſus* deſcribed, 486, paſſ. When and by whom inhabited, 487, a.
- Cinetii*, who, and where ſited, 175, b.
- Cinype*, the city of, 175, a. — Diſtrict, ibid. b. — River, 176, e.
- Circenſian* games, why exhibited by Totila, 673, d.
- Cirta* deſcribed, 108, d, & seq. When and by whom built, 109, c. Surrendered to Jugurtha, 129, d, e.
- Ciſſa*, ſecond king of the South-Saxons, 449, c.
- Civifiſmaro*, the Gaul, ſlain in Spain, 49, b.
- Claffis* razed by the Lombards, 703, a.
- Claffus*, king of the Lombards, 617, a.
- Clafidium* betrayed to Hannibal, 18, f.

Clandebald,

I N D E X.

- Claudebald*, the supposed elder brother of Merouée, 562, d. Deprived of the crown by him, ibid.
- Claudius's* edict against the druids, &c. 348, b. (C). Expedition against Britain, 428, b, c. Success there, 429, b, c. Honours decreed to him, ibid. b—d, (H). Success against the Goths, 496, & seq. His colony and temple in Essex destroyed, 409, f.—the consul, defeats Hannibal, 65, e, & seq. And Asdrubal, 66, f, & seq. His signal bravery against him, 67, c, d. Throws his head into Hannibal's camp, ibid. f, & seq.
- Clementia*, Kelmitz, a city of the Quadi, 602, d.
- Cleodimir's* baptism and recovery, 570, b.
- Clepbis*, chosen king of the Lombards, 622, b. His cruelty and death, ibid.
- Clergy*, British, their horrid degeneracy, 439, e, f. 452, b, c.
- Clodio*, king of the Franks, 550, c. Settles afresh in Gaul, ibid. d. His character and reign, 559, f, & seq. Founds the French monarchy, 560, a. Why surnamed Long-hair, ibid. b. His conquests, ibid. & seq. Death, 562, b.
- Clodion's* sons fall out about the succession, 473, c.
- Clodomir's* success against Sigismund, 586, pass. Defeated and killed, 587, a, b.
- Clodoveus*. See Clouis, 550, & seq.
- Clotildis*. See Chlotildis, 567, & seq.
- Clouis*, king of the Franks, fixes his seat at Paris, 550, e, f. His birth, 566, b. Dominions and conquests, ibid. & seq. Marries Chlotildis, 567, & seq. Defeats the Alemans, 568, e, f. His conversion, &c. 569, d—f. When, 570, a. The first christian king, ibid. d, e. Success against the Burgundi, 571, & seq. 572, & seq. Falls out with Alaric, 573, & seq. Interview with him, 575, b, c. Defeats and kills him, ibid. & seq. Zeal for the catholics, 576, c. Conquests, ibid. & seq. Peace with Theodoric, 577, b, c. Made consul by Anastasius, ibid. d, e. Treachery to Sigebert and his son, 578, b—d. Proclaimed king, ibid. e, f. Seizes on his dominions, 579, a—c. Dethrones and murders Chlaric, &c. ibid. d, e. And other princes, ibid. & seq. His death and progeny, 580, d, e. Division of his kingdom, ibid. e, f.
- Cniva*, a famed Bathian prince, 492, d. Success and ravages in Thrace, 494, c—f.
- Canomani* settled in Italy, 391, d.
- Cohorts*, Roman, their stations in Britain, 418, pass.
- Coimbra* taken by the Suevi, 514, e. 546, e. Plundered by them, 547, a.
- Colcius* assists Scipio in Spain, 96, e, f.
- Colipo*, a city in Lusitania, 297, b.
- Collops Magnus*, its ruins, 109, e. — Parvus, 110, a.
- Cologn*, capital of the Ubii, [407], e. [415], c. Taken by the Franks, 556, a. By Julian, ibid. c, d. By Clodio, 561, & seq. Destroyed by the Alemans, 591, a.
- Colubraria* island described, 308, f, & seq.
- Comata Gallia*, why so called, 322, a, b.
- Comites Britanniarum*, their office, 417. Extent of their power, 419, a, b.
- Comius* made king of the Attrebates, 421, c. Imprisoned, 422, f.
- Commachio* given to the pope, 714, a.
- Commentarienses*, gaolers, their office, 417, a.
- Comneni*, the family of, 289, a, (B). Butchered by Mohammed II. 293, e, & seq.
- Comnenus*, Alex. I. his reign at Trapezus, 290, & seq. — II. and III. 291, a, b, (E). — John, his reign and imperial title, ibid. b, c. — Alex. II. his reign, ibid. d. — Basilus I. and II. their reign, ibid. & seq. — Alex. III. murdered by his son, 292, c, d. — John II. his treason and reign, and death, ibid. & seq. — David, the last emperor of Trapezond, 293, b, c. Subdued and murdered by Mohammed, ibid. & seq.
- Complutensian* polyglot, by whom published, 306, d, (H).
- Complutum*, Alcala de Henares, where sited, 306.
- Compositus's* revolt and punishment, 687, b, c, (T).
- Compsa* surrendered to Hannibal, 32, d.
- Concolitanus* taken prisoner, 392, e.
- Conimbrica*, a city in Lusitania, 297, a.
- Conon's* brave defence of Naples, 667, b. Reception from Totila, ibid. e, f.
- Cononeus* betrays Tarentum to Hannibal, 50, a—c.
- Conovium*, Conway, the old ruins of, 411, f.
- Consentia* surrenders to Hannibal, 41, b. Revolts to the Romans, 50, d.
- Constant*, why he invaded Italy, 694, d—f. Repulsed before Benevento, 695, a—c. Defeated by Mitula, ibid. d. By Romuald, ibid. e, f. Enters Rome, ibid. & seq.
- Constantina Numidia*, where sited, 108, c. Described, 109, d.
- Constantine* begins his empire in Britain, 434, d. Success against the Goths, 499, pass. Against the Franks, 554, c, d. Severity to them, ibid. e, f, 555, b—d. — a soldier, chosen emperor in Britain, 436, e. — the son of king Artorius, 450, d. His wicked reign, 451, c, d.
- Consuls* in Italy, their office, &c. 721, b, (B).
- Contestani*, who, and where sited, 303, c.
- Coral*, whence so named, 230, (I).
- Corduba*, a city in Bætica, 301, a.
- Corfu* wasted by Totila, 664, e.
- Coritani*, who, and where sited, 410, a, b.
- Cornavii*, who, and where sited, 410, c, d.
- Cornicularii*, in Britain, their office, 417, a.
- Cornwall* made part of the West-Saxon kingdom, 449.
- Cossyrus* taken by Servilius, 27, b.
- Cotes* mount, in Mauritania, 146, a. Promontory, where, 145, c. Port, 146, c.
- Coviat* castle, noble defence against the Goths, 513, d.
- Counts* in Italy, their origin, &c. 720, f.
- Couridachus* invites Attila against the Acatziri, 465, a.
- Coway* stakes, when so called, 408, c.
- Crausus's* success in Gaul, 399, a, &c.
- Cratimandua's* treachery to Caraciacus, 430, e. Dethroned, ibid. d.
- Crecaanford*, the battle of, 445, b.
- Creca*, Attila's first wife, described, 467, f, & seq.
- Crisco* ravages Pontus, 608, a.
- Crispinus*, Quint. diverted from the siege of Locri, 64, b. Defeat and narrow escape, ibid. d.
- Crispus's* success against the Franks, 555, d, e.
- Croton* surrendered to Hannibal, 41, b. — the citadel of, abandoned to the Locri, 46, f.
- Crumus's* resentment and success against Nicephorus, 627, c—f. Against Michael, 628, a—d. Defeated and killed, ibid. e, f.
- Cumberland*, the coasts of, fortified by the Romans, 412, f.
- Cumæ's* brave defence against Hannibal, 44, b. Ravaged by him, 47, d. Besieged by the Romans, 677, e. Surrendered, 679, b. Taken by the Lombards, 701, a. Sold to the pope, ibid. b.
- Cumri*, Cumbri, the name of the antient Britains, 402, a.

I N D E X.

Canamolgi, who, and why so called, 184, c. Where seated, 201, b, (A).
Cunemundus defeated and killed by Alboin, [413], sub not. 597, d, e.
Cunipert seized on by Grimoald, 693, d. Restored, and made colleague to his father, 697, d. Driven out by Alachis, ibid. f. Restored by Aldo, 698, a, b. Defeats and kills Alachis, ibid. d. — His death, ibid. f.
Cunobeline's tribute to Augustus, 427, d. His coin, ibid. (G).
Curio outwitted and killed by Juba, 136, a, b.
Cush, the land of, where, 181, & seq. 192, a—d, (P). 205, pass.
Cushites, who, 182, pass. 192, c, (P). 205, pass. Their kingdom in Arabia, 240, a, b.
Cutha slain, 453, a.
Cuthwolf's success against the Britains, 452, c. His death, ibid. f.
Cutyrgurian Hunns, why so called, 456, b. Where sited, ibid. c. Fall out with the Utyrgurians, 483, c, f. Defeated by Belisarius, 484, a. By Germanus, ibid. c, d.
Cybele worshipped by the Gauls, 359, b, c.
Cymen's shore, the battle of, 446, c.
Cyre, the famed fountain of, 170, b, (C).
Cyrenaica described, 169, & seq. Its soil, fruits, &c. 170, & seq. Various nations, 171, b, & seq. Invaded by Thimbrion, 173, d, e. Delivered up to Ptolemy, 174, a. Bequeathed to the Romans, ibid. b, c. Now under the Turks, ibid. d. Its learned men, ibid. & seq. (F).
Cyrene, metropolis of Cyrenaica, 169, c. Described, 170, a, b. By whom built, 172, b, c. Seized by Ariston, 173, d.
Cyrenians, their customs, &c. 170, b. Government, &c. 173, & seq.
Cyrila sent into Spain, 513, d.

D

DACIA described, 610, f, & seq. Made a Roman province, 613, e, f. Walked by Attila, 468, c, f. Subdued by the Goths, 495, c. Yielded to Theodoric III. 522, b.
 — New, where sited, 614, c.
Dacians, their origin, 610. Character, customs, &c. 611, a, b. Kings, ibid. b, c. Irruptions, defeats, &c. ibid. & seq. Conquests, 612, a, b. Peace with Domitian, ibid. c, d. War against Trajan, 613, a—d. Subdued by him, ibid. d, e. Fresh revolts and submissions, 614, a, b. Dispersion, ibid. c, d.
Dagalaiphus sent against the Alemans, 592, c, f.
Dalmatian women, their bravery, 374, b.
Dambea river falls into the Nile, 187, b.
Damnii, who, and where seated, 413, f.
Danes, their origin, 487, b.
Dania, Denmark, by whom first peopled, 487, a, b.
Daniel, father, his notion of the Arborici confuted, 571, (H).
Danmonii, in Britain, who, and where sited, 407.
Danube, river, described, [414], c.
Daphne, island in Ethiopia, 190, b.
Darat, river, abounds with crocodiles, 161, e.
Darod's river, where, 145, (E). Whether the same with Darat, 161, f.
Darra, a tribe of Gatulians, 160, d. In Arabia Felix, 161, d.
Dava, the antient name of Dacia, 611, a.
David chosen king of the Bulgarians, and dies, 633, c.
Days of the week in England, from whom named, 442, d, e.
Debris, the famed mountain of, 166, c.
Decebalus, king, his character, 611, e, f. Success against the Romans, 612, pass. 613, b, c. Submission and death, ibid. d, e.

Decius killed by Tacfarinas, 158, c.
 — the emperor, defeated and killed, 494, c—e.
Dejotarus rewarded by Pompey, 395, (G).
Deira, the province of, by whom founded, 451, a.
Deleanus chosen king of Bulgaria, 637, c, d. Treachery to Teichomer, ibid. f, & seq. Requested by Alusianus, 638, c.
Denmark kings, whence called Skjoldungar, 489, c.
Demeta, who, and where sited, 410, e, & seq.
Demetrius sent admiral against Tulla, 667, a. Defeated and insulted by him, ibid. c, d.
Democrates's noble death at Tarentum, 61, d.
Dengisic, Attila's son, slain, 468, a. — Wars with the Romans, 482, d, c. Slain, ibid. f.
Deorum, the battle of, 452, f.
Desiderius proclaimed king of the Lombards, 714, c, d. Falls out with the pope, ibid. e. Allies with Charles of France, ibid. & seq. Falls out with him, 716, a. Allies with Adrian, ibid. b. Falls out with, and invades him, ibid. c—e. Invaded by Charlemagne, 717, b, & seq. Taken, and sent prisoner into France, 719, d. Heard no more of, ibid. & seq.
Devil's Scutt, a Gaulish altar, described, 336, c.
Dhu-fadan, king of Yaman, bigoted to judaism, 269, d, e.
Dhu'l Adhaar, why surnamed king of terrors, 268, b.
Dhu'l Karnaim, sixteenth king of Yaman, 268, a.
Dhu Nowas, a jewish persecutor of the christians, and other recusants, 285, c, d, (E). Dethroned by Elesbaan, ibid.
Diana, her temple, and strange high-priest, near Rome, 372, (G).
Diblashaim, a city in Petrea, 226, b.
Didius, As. success against the Brigantes, 430, d.
Didymi mount, in Yaman, 235, f.
Die yielded to the Burgundi, 583, d.
Dimetia, whence so called, 411, d.
Dioclesian's success against the Goths exaggerated, 498, d, e.
Diogenes's stout defence of Rome, 672, e, f. Of Circumcella, 673, c.
 — the Carthaginian, defeated, 103, c, d.
Dionysius sent to treat with the Hunns, 464, b, c.
Disparg castle, where sited, 550, d.
Divitiacus's noble resistance against the Romans, 369, b. Gets footing into Britain, 421, (B).
Diurmount, where, 145, (D).
Dobuni, in Britain, where sited, 409, a, b. At war with their neighbours, ibid. c.
Dolabella's success against Tacfarinas, 159, a.
Dolichenus, Apollo why so called, 356, d.
Droctus's treachery and promotion, 681, c. And narrow escape, ibid. e.
Drogo heads the Bulgarians into Masja, 623, f.
Druids, Gaulish, whence they had their religion, 328, d, e. 361, a, b, (E). Corrupt it, 330, pass. 328, d, e. 361, a, b, (E). And the mi-Veneration for oaks, 331, & seq. Governed by a sleet of it, 332, pass. & note. Governed by a grand druid, 333, b. Preserve their religion in set songs, 334, a, b. Offer up human victims, ibid. c—e. Officiate in white garments, 335, c, (K). Threatened into Roman polytheism, 336, & seq. 341, e, & seq. Their overgrown power in Gaul, 348, b, (B). 361, c, d. How long it lasted, 349, a. 365, d, (M). Suppressed by the Romans, 348, & seq. 350, a, b. Whether Take the name of Senani, ibid. c. Whether they had oracles, 356, b, c. Their antiquity, &c. 360, & seq. Precede at coun-doctrines, &c. 360, & seq. Hold celibacy, cils, elections, &c. 361, c, d. Hold celibacy, ibid. e. Their three grand tenets, ibid. & seq. Skill in phytic, astronomy, &c. 362, pass. & notes. Held a general dissolution by fire, 363, c. Contempt for writing, 381, a, b, (Q). &c. Contempt for writing, 381, a, b, (Q). (S). Did not hold a transmigration, 390, c, (E).

Druids

I N D E X.

Druids in Germany, their office, power, &c. [417].
a, b, [422], b, c. Dress, ibid. d. — Arch or grand druid in Britain, 361, b. How chosen, ibid. d.
Druidesses believed to have had a prophetic spirit,
363, d. Three orders of them, 364, a, b.
Their inhuman rites, &c. ibid. d, & (I).
Drusus's success in Gaul, 401, & seq.
Dubris portus, Dover, 408, f.
Ducas, John. See Vataces, 287, c, d.
Duels, the dernier resort in Gaul, 371, pass. Reflections on that custom, ibid. & seq. & (H).
Brought thither by the Burgundi, 581, f. Laws made to enforce them, ibid. & seq.
Dukes, in Italy, their rise, 679, c, & seq. Their power cropt by Amtharis, 681, f. Privileges and succession suppressed, 684, c. Their boundaries, 687, (S).
Duma, a city in Petrea, 226, b.
Dunaan's horrid persecution of the christians,
219, d.
Duncala, metropolis of the Nubians, 185, c.
Duras relings his crown to Decabalus, 611, c.
—city taken by Theodoric III. 521, d.
Durdus mount, where sited, 115, c. 145, (D).
Durius river in Lusitania, 299, a.
Durnium, Dorchester, 407, c.
Duro-Cornovinum, where situate, 409, a.
Durotriges in Britain, who, and where, 407, c.
Duus, and other rivers in Tangitania, unknown,
145, a.
Dux Britanniarum, his office, 417, c.—c.
Dwarfs, a region of, in Libya, 178, a, (H).
Dyrrachium taken by the Romans, 634, c. By Deleannus, 638, b.
Dyfe, inferior deities of the Saxons, their office,
442, c, & seq.
Dyspargum, where sited, 549, b.

E

EASTER, whence so called, 442, c.
Ebora, a city in Lusitania, 298, b.
Eboracum, York, metropolis of the Brigantes, 412,
b. Its court, &c. ibid. c, d. Whence styled Legio Sexta, 419, b.
Eburodunum, } cities of the Quadi, 602, d.
Eburum, }
Elusa, the Saxon, comes to the Orcades, 443, c.
Settles in Northumberland, 444, a.
Ebusus, the island and city, 308, c. 309, a, b.
Plundered by Scipio, 27, c.
Edeon sent ambassador to Theodosius, 469, c, f.
Discovers his treachery to Attila, 470, b.
Edeico, Edeco, goes over to Scipio, 62, c, f.
Edinburgh's frith fortified, 414, a.
Edeobic, general of the Franks, 558.
Egg formed by serpents, the mythology of, explained, 362, & seq. & notes.
Egiga, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Egypt, how become habitable, 194, b, c.
Elb. Albus, river in Germany, [415], a.
Eldol's inveteracy against Hengist, 446, c, & eq.
& (A).
Elephant, the war of, 285, c. The æra of, when begun, 285, d.
Elephantine Pelusia, where, 213, a, (E). Its distance from Axuma, 217, c.
Elephantophagi, where, and why so called, 184, c.
Elephants, how ferried over the Rhosne, 11, d, c.
Remarks on that docile animal, ibid. & seq.
sub (F). How they copulate, 13, sub not.
Eleric over-reaches Copronymus, 626, c. Driven out by his subjects, ibid. f. Turns christian, ibid. & seq.
Elesbaan subdues the Homerites, 219, c. Turns christian, ibid. & seq. His character, ibid. (N).
VOL. VII. No. 10.

Elesbaan's conversion, 285, c, (E).
Eleuthera's walls broken with vinegar, 16, a.
Eleuthernus sent to quell the rebellious dukes, 687, b, c, (T). Takes the title of king; 688, b, c.
Killed, ibid. d.
Elfs sacrificed to by the Saxons, 442, c.
Elia, and his three sons, defeat the Britains, 446, c, d. Defeated, ibid. e. Enlarges his kingdom, 447, b, c. His death, 449, c.
—the son of Attila, made king of the Acatziri, 465, a, b.
Ellac succeeds Attila, 481, d. Opposed by his brothers, ibid. e. Defeated and killed, ibid. f.
Elusa, a city in Petrea, 227, d.
Emerita Augusta, a city in Lusitania, 298, a.
Emirs, Arab, their office, 244, d, c.
Emperors, their territories in Italy, 721, b.
Ems, Amisia, river in Germany, [415], b.
England. See Britain, 400, & seq. Whence called Anglia and Saxony, 441, d, c.
English take some provinces from the Welsh, 454, a.
Engoulesme taken by the Franks, 576, d.
Engoufah, a city in Gatulia, 164, a.
Eoster worshipped by the Saxons, 442, c.
Epanterii, who, 73, a.
Ephefus, the temple of, plundered by the Goths,
495, b.
Epiphanius, bishop, successful embassy to Gundebald, 642, c. To Godogisles, ibid. & seq.
Eraric chosen king of the Ostrogoths, 493, a. 664, f.
Murdered, 665, b.
Eratosthenes's writings and character, 175, sub not.
Erchenwin founds a fourth Saxon kingdom, 450, d.
Ermenegild, king of the Goths in Gaul, 492, c.
Ermeric invaded by the Hunns, 459, a. Kills himself, ibid. b.
—king of the Suevi in Spain, 530, f. Driven out by the Vandals, 531, c. Wars with the Galicians, 543, d. Relings to his son Rechila, ibid. c. His death, 531, a.
Erminage street described, 420, a.
Ernac, and his Hunns, settle in Scythia Minor, 482, b.
Ernigius, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Erythia island, where, 146, c, (E). 307, c, & seq.
Erythraus, antient king of Spain, [322], b.
Esk made co-partner with Hengist, 445, c. Succeeds him, 446, c. His death, 449, c.
Essex seized on by the Saxons, 445, d.
Ejus, Hesus, the supreme deity of the Gauls, 328, a, b. Whence that name, 329, (E). How worshipped, 330, pass. & seq. When exchanged for Jupiter, 333, a. Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.
Etesian winds, not the cause of the Nile's overflow, 187, c.
Ethelbert raises civil wars among the Saxons, 451, b.
Ethiopia, how divided, 179, d.
—Propria, its extent, &c. 180, a. Names, ibid.
b, c, (A). Why called Cush in scripture, 181,
& seq. & (B), (C). Its various nations, 183,
& seq. Cities, 184, c, & seq. Mountains, 185,
d. Hot clime, 186, b. Seasons, ibid. c, d.
Soil, ibid. & seq. Beer, ibid. f, (D). Lakes, 190, a. Commerce, ibid. b. Gold and other minerals, 191, b, c. Divided into forty-five kingdoms, 193, c. Its antiquity, kings, &c.
205, & seq. Damaged by a flood, 211. Tributary to Cambyfes, 213, c, d, (F). Penetrated by Ptolemy, 114, b, (G). By Augustus, 215, & seq. By Probus, 216, & seq. Its history to the Zagean usurpation, 221, pass.
Ethiopians, how sited and divided, 179, d. Why black, 182, & seq. pass. From whom descended, 192, d. Whence, and where settled, ibid. &
seq. Their antiquity, 193, b, c. Kingly government, ibid. & seq. Laws, 194, & seq.
Kings, how chosen, 193, d, c. 195, a. Religion and deities, ibid. & seq. Worship the sun, 196, d. Their language, 197, b, c. Its affinity to the

I N D E X.

the Hebrew, &c. ibid. c, d, and (Y). Changes, 198, a—c. Hieroglyphic letters, ibid. (Z), and 199, a, b. Customs, ibid. & seq. Weapons, 201, e, (C). Circumcision, ibid. and (D). Way of fighting, 202, a, b. Way of preserving the dead, ibid. & seq. Food, 203. Deify their kings, ibid. c, (H). Learning, ibid. d, & seq. Character, 204, a, b, (I), (K). Women, ibid. c, d. History, 205, & seq. Kings, whether descended from Solomon, 206, & seq. Conquest of Egypt, 210, d, e. History to the expulsion of the shepherds, ibid. & seq. To the death of Sethon, 211, & seq. To Xerxes, 212, & seq. Serve under him, 213, d, (F). When converted, 216, c, d. How, and by whom, 217, & seq. Reject the Arian heresy, 218, d, e, (K).

Etruria wasted by Hannibal, 21, b.

Etruscan, the antient Language of Græcia magna, 9, (D).

Etruscans, their treachery to the Romans, 64, c.

Eudocia, Comnena, her family and excellent character, 292, c, d.—Married to Huneric, 534, e, f.

Eudoxia, forced to marry Maximus, 534, d. Carried prisoner by Genferic, ibid. e. Sent back to Leo, ibid. f.

Eugenius's intrigue with Honorio, punished, 471, d, e.

Eulyfian region, the antient seat of the Hunns, 456, b.

Eumenes over-reached by Hannibal, 91, d, e.

Euphrantas, the famed tower of, 175, a.

Euric, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, a, 514, c. Ravages Lusitania, ibid. d, e. His conquests in Spain, ibid. & seq. In Gaul, 515, pass. Vain attempt on Auvergne, ibid. & seq. Enmity to the orthodox, ibid. f, & seq. His territories, 516, c. Death, ibid. d. Character, ibid. & seq.

Europe, whence that word, 178, e.

Eutaric's marriage and promotion, 647, b. Reception at Rome, ibid. c. Death, ibid. d.

Eutropius, undermined by Gainas, 506, e, & seq. Put to death, 507, a.

Eutychius, sent to murder the pope, 705, c, d. Allies with Luitprand, 707, a. Driven out of Ravenna, 710, d.

Euwates, among the Gauls, their office, 365, b.

Executioners, not allowed among some Ethiopians, 194, d. Why in esteem among the Germans, [422], b, c.

Exeter, Isca Damnoniorum, 407, e.

Exhilaratus attempts the pope's life, 705, a. Assassinated, ibid.

Exiliffa, where sited, 142, d. Whether the same with Ciuta, ibid. e.

Ezion Giber, a famed port in Petrea, 227, c.

F

FABIUS, Q. declares war against Carthage, 8, d. Amuses and tires Hannibal, 23, c. Supported by the senate, &c. 25, & seq. Success against Hannibal, 62, b, c.

Falæ and Falaricæ, weapon, described, 3, (A). Whence so called, ibid.

Falerum wasted by Hannibal, 23, e.

Fali, the bay of, where, 235, e.

Fasfida, king of the Gepidæ, invades the Goths, 595, f. Defeated, 596, b.

Feletheus killed by Odoacer, 616, f.

Feroaldus, first duke of Umbria, 620, d.

Feronia, the temple of, plundered by Hannibal, 58, a.

Ferrara beautified by Agilulf, 686, c, d.

Fesulæ, taken by the Romans, 661, a. 662, c.

Fez, the kingdom of, its extent, 193, c.

Fiefs, their origin, 681, f. Regulated by the Lombards, 682, b, c.

Filimer the great, settles near Palus Neotis, 487, d. Reigns there, 492, d.

Fimbultyr, the supposed inventor of the Runic letters, 490, a.

Flaccus, Valerius, rescued from the Quadi, 603, c.

Flamens, not a Gaulish, but Roman order, 365, c.

Flaminius's character, and fatal rashness, 21, b—c. Defeated and slain, 22, b.

—T. Quin. sent to undermine Hannibal, 91, e.

Flavius Dec. saves the Roman army, 62, a.

Fleishburgh, metropol. of the Angles, 441, b.

Florianus's success against the Goths, 498, c.

Folkstone, the battle of, 444, e, f.

Fonteus, Agrip. killed by the Iazyges, 605, d.

Forum Julii. See Friuli, 619, f, & seq.

Fortunata, beatæ insulæ, where sited, 147, a. Described, ibid. (H). Their number, 148, pass.

Foss way, Roman, in Britain, described, 419, f, & seq.

Fountains worshipped by the Gauls, 350, b, (F). 351, (G).

Franci ludi, why and by whom instituted, 554, f.

Franks, their origin and first settlements, 441, a. 547, f. Defeated by Attila, 443, c. Furious onset against the Gepidæ, 476, a. When converted, 500, (A). Whence their name, 547, f. Their various tribes, 548, a. Why called Scambrians, ibid. Some notions about them confused, ibid. & seq. Their extent, 549, a, b. Motley character, ibid. c, f. Government, kings, &c. 550, b, c. Driven out of Gaul, ibid. c. Ravage it, 551, e. Suppressed by Aurelian, ibid. & seq. By Gallienus, 552, a, b. Serve under the Romans, ibid. c. Dreadful ravages in Italy, ibid. d. In Spain, ibid. & seq. Driven out of Gaul, 553, b, c. Settled near the Euxine, ibid. c. Ravage Sicily, Afric. &c. ibid. d. Treachery to Proculus, ibid. e. Defeated by Carausius, ibid. f. Settled in lower Germany, 554, b. Transplanted into Gaul, ibid. c. Defeated by Constantine, ibid. e. Their severe punishment, ibid. & seq. Peace with Constantine, 555, e, f. New Ravages, 556, a, b. Suppressed by Julian, ibid. c—e. By Theodosius, ibid. & seq. Cut off by Nannius, 557, d. Irruption into Gaul, 558, d—f. Their dress, 560, a, b. When settled in France, ibid. & seq. & note. Enmity to churches, 562, a, b. Conversion, 569, e, f. Strengthened by the Armorici, 570, f, & seq. Treaty with the Ostrogoths, 572, c, d. Enlarge their dominions, 576, & seq. Defeated by Theodoric, 577, b. Conquest of Burgundy, ibid. & seq. Horrid superstitions after their conversion, 365, d, (M). Treachery to the Goths and Romans, 655, d, e. 661, b—d. Great power in Gaul, 672, b—d. Conquests in Italy, ibid. e, & seq. Refuse to help the Ostrogoths, 677, b. Enter Italy, 678, f. Destroyed there, 679, e, f. Afresh, 681, a, b. By Autharis, 682, & seq. Dismal return, 683, c.

Franton set up king of the Suevi, against Maldras, 545, d.

Fraomarius made king of the Bucinobantes, 594, a.

Fratres Septem, Heptadelphii mount, where, 146, a.

Frederic, defeated and killed by Egidius, 514, a.

Fretanleagh, the battle of, 435, a.

Frideric's treachery to Theodoric, 524, b.

Friga, Frea, [420], pass. and notes. Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.

Fristi, where seated, [407], c. A tribe of the Franks, 548, a.

Fritigil,

I N D E X.

Fritigil, queen, her conversion, 602, a—f. Submission to the empire, ibid. b.
Friuli, Forum Julii, taken by the Lombards, 619, e. Erected into a dukedom, ibid. & seq. Ravaged by the Hunns, 686, d.—The dukes of, 701, b. The end of them, 724, b.
Frontinus, Jul. success in Britain, 421, a.
Frumarius shares the Suevis kingdom with Remismund, 546, a. His ravages and death, ibid. b, c.
Frumentius's promotion in Ethiopia, 217, e, f. Converts the country, 218, a—d.
Fulard sent to confirm Pepin's donation, 714, b, c.
Fullofaudes, slain in Britain, 435, c.
Fulvius surprises Hanno's provisions, 53, e, f. Repulsed before Capua, 55, a, b. Blockades it, ibid. d. Apprises the senate of Hannibal's approach, 57, e.
 —the prætor, defeated by Mago, 55, e, f. By Hannibal, 61, a, b.
Furtius driven out by the Quadi, 602, f.
Fuscus defeated by the Daci, 612, b, & f.

G

GABINIUS, king of the Quadi, murdered, 603, f.
Gabra-menjes keddus, an Ethiopian saint, 219, b, (L).
Gabriel, king of the Bulgarians, murdered, 635, e, & seq.
Gades, where situate, 301, b, (G). The city and temple of, 320, b, (D).—The isle of, 307, b. Described, ibid. c. Stripped by Mago, 72, e. Surrendered to Scipio, ibid. f.
Gafatæ, who and where, 392, c. Defeated and cut off, ibid. & seq.
Gatulia, its boundaries, 159, & seq. Whence so called, ibid. & seq. —Part of, given to Juba, 163, a, b. —Sieved on by Genferic, 533, f.
Gatulians, 159, & seq. Their cities and territories, 160, d. Origin, ibid. Government, &c. 162, a, b, (B), (C). Religion, ibid. d, e. Defeated before Caslinum, ibid. & seq. and 73, a. Serve under Jugurtha, 163, a. Go over to Cæsar, ibid. b. Subdued by Cossus, ibid. c.
Gainas stirs up the Goths in the East, 506, d, e. Treachery to Arcadius, ibid. & seq. Defeat and death, 507, b.
Gaiobomar, king of the Quadi, put to death, 603, b.
Gaius, king of the Franks, 550, e. When, 551, a. His sad end, 554, e.
Galapa, where sited, 143, a.
Galatia Gallogræcia, where sited, 322, b, c. Given to the Gauls, ibid. and 394, d.
Galatians, whence so called, 332, b. Defeated by the Jews, ibid. c.
Galbus's Success against Aldrubal, 38, f, & seq.
Galicia maintains its liberty against the Suevi, 531.
Gallagum, the Roman causeway of, 412, e.
Galleci, where situate, 303, f. Why so called, 304, (A), & in fin. (B).
Galli, Cybele's Priests, who, and why so called, 359, b, (B), (C).
Gallia. See Gaul, 321, & seq.
Gallio's Speech to the Britains, 437, e. Departs from them, 438, b.
Gallus buys off the Goths, 394, d, e.—Ætius's expedition into Arabia, 281, f, & seq.
Gandulf put to death by Agilulph, 685, c.
Garama, capital of the Garamantes, 165, c.
Garamantes, who and where sited, 165, b, (B), (C). Their rudeness, ibid. c. Towns, trade, &c. ibid. & seq. Hunting, 166, b. Reduction, ibid. d, & seq.

Gargoras, antient king of Spain, [322], c.
Garibald's treachery to Gundebert, 692, c, d.—The son of Grimoald, dethroned, 697, c, d.
Garienis ostium, where, 410, a.
Genferic usurps the Gothish throne, 645, a. His defeat and death, ibid. c, d.
Gastaldi in Italy, their dignity, 624, e, f.
Gaudentius carried prisoner by Genferic, 534, f.
Gavius's bravery and reward, 429, (H).
Gaul described, 321, & seq. Its extent, 322, & seq. Lessened, 325, b, c. Its soil, climate, &c. ibid. & seq. How become warmer, 326, a, b. How divided by the Romans, 401, & seq. and notes. Under Theodoric, 648, (N).
Gaulish church, its dismal state under the Visigoths, 517, pass.
 —women, their bravery, 373, d. Signal instances of it, 374, f, & seq.
 —slaves defeated, 397, b, c.
 —prisoners dismissed by Hannibal, 20, e, f.
 —christians persecuted, 403, b, c.
Gauls, their origin, 321, a. (note, by a mistake, paged 241). Various names, &c. ibid. b. Settle in Spain, [323], c, d, (A). Spread through Europe, 322, d, f, & seq. Their first coming thither, 324, & seq. Plain way of living, 325, & seq. & notes. Religion, 326, & seq. Misrepresented by antient authors, 327, sub notes (A), (B), (C). Worship one Deity, 328, a, b. Their ceremonies, 329, & seq. Groves, 331, & seq. Described, 332, b—d. Worship like that of the antient Hebrews, 333, b—f. Bloody sacrifices, 334, c—e. Funerals, ibid. f, & seq. Auguries and victims, 335, a—c. Superstitious cruelties, ibid. & seq. Altars described, 336, a—c. Aversion to temples, ibid. & seq. & (M). 346, e. Consecrated treasures, 336, & seq. Polytheism, how, and when introduced, 346, & seq. Temples, when first built, 347, a, b. Human sacrifices forbid by the Romans, 348, c. 350, b. Wretched superstitions, ibid. c, & (F). 351, pass. & (G). Temples described, ibid. & seq. Deities, 353, & seq. Inhuman rites, 354, pass. Ridiculous ones, 355, b, (Q). Goddesses, 359, & seq. Belief of a future state, 361, e, & seq. Mixed government, laws, &c. 366, pass. Grand council, 367, a, &c. & (A). Civil discords, ibid. b, c. Kings, how chosen, 368, a, b, (D). Their power, ibid. c, (E). Cared for by the Romans, 369, a—c. Their laws, ibid. d—f. Yearly councils, ibid. & seq. Excessive fondness for duels, 371, & seq. For liberty, 372, d, & seq. Their valour dreaded by the Romans, 374, a, b. Character drawn by Juſtin, ibid. c—e. Martial discipline, 375, e, & seq. Superstition, 376, c, d. Way of training up their youth, ibid. a, (K). Weapons, 377, a—c. 393, (C). See also p. 80, b, c. Language, the old Celtic, 377, c, d, & seq. Proofs of it, 378, a, b, & (L). Their speaking Greek exploded, 379, b, c. Universities, ibid. d, & (O). 383, c. Swoln style, 380, pass. Adopt the Greek characters, ibid. & seq. Contempt of writing, 381, a, b, (Q). Poetry, and fondness for it, 382, a, &c. & (T). Arts, eloquence, &c. 383, a—c. Commerce, ibid. & seq. Forbid the use of gold and silver, 384, a, b, (X). Hunting, &c. ibid. & seq. & (Y). Feast of Diana, 385, b. Fondness for banquets, ibid. & seq. & (Z). Described, 386, a—c, (A). Contempt of agriculture, ibid. & seq. Of trades, 387, a. Drunkenness, ibid. & seq. & (B). Idleness, 388, b, c. Ferocity, ibid. c, d. Hospitality, ibid. e, & seq. Fidelity, 389, c, & seq. Frugality, 390, a. Marriages, funerals, &c. ibid. b, c, (E). Earliest expeditions

I N D E X.

- expeditions into Italy, 391, & seq. Cut off by Camillus, 392, b—d. Second expedition, ibid. & seq. Fatal one into Greece, 393, & seq. Why they demolished temples, ibid. (E). Some settled in Galatia, ibid. & seq. Overspread Asia, 395, a, b, (F). Subdued in part by Marcus, ibid. & seq. Signal victory over the Romans, 396, b, c. Defeated by them, ibid. d, e. Subdued by Cæsar, 398, & seq. How treated by the Romans, 400, e, & seq. Quite conquered by Aurelian, 403, d, e. Gained by Hannibal, 9, c. Obstruct his crossing the Rhône, 11, & seq. And the Alps, 15, a, b. List in his service, 16, d. Ally with, and assist him, 18, b, c. Reinforce Mago, 73, b, 74, b.
- Gauferic* miraculously repulsed before Bazas, 464, a.
- Gebra-meskel's* reign in Ethiopia, 221, a—c, (P).
- Gelimer*, last king of the Vandals in Afric, 527, d.
- Gelon* in Hannibal's interest, 41.
- Gelonians*, who, and whence, 604, e, & seq.
- Gemella*, Colonia, why so called, 300, b.
- Genobald*, antient king of the Franks, 550, b—c. Submits to Dioclesian, ibid. f.
- Genferic's* cruelty to his daughter-in-law, 472, (F).
- Advantageous peace with Theodosius, 466, b, c.
- Carries the Vandals into Afric, 527.
- II. succeeds Gonderic in Spain, 531, f. His character, ibid. & seq. Treaty with Bonifatius, 532, b. Conquest of Afric, ibid. & seq. Repulsed before Sicily, 533, c. Peace with Rome, ibid. d, e. Breaks it, ibid. f. Ravages Sicily, 534, b, c. Invited into Italy, ibid. e. Plunders Rome, ibid. f. Defeated by Ricimer, 535, b, c. Ravages, ibid. c, d. Despises the emperor's embassy, ibid. d, e. Surprises Majorianus's fleet, 536, c. Peace with him, and breaks it, ibid. d. Ravages Italy, &c. ibid. f. Peloponnesus and Greece, 537, b. Haughty answer to Leo, 538, c, f. New conquests and ravages, 539, c, d. Treaty with Rome, ibid. e. Death, 540, a.
- Genisici* subdued by Scaurus, 395, c.
- Geoffrey of Monmouth*, his character, 420, (A).
- Gepide*, who, and where, [411], 494, b. 495, d, e. Submit to Atila, 466, b, c. Defeat his son, and regain their liberty, 481, f. Obtain a pension from Rome, 482. Defeated by the Goths, 494, b. By Theodoric, 523, c. Settle in Thrace, 529, a. Defeated by Probus, ibid. b. Their other settlements, 595, e. Defeat the Burgundi, 596, b. War with the Huns, ibid. c. Settled in Dacia, ibid. d. Defeated by Justinian, ibid. e. Defeated by the Lombards, ibid. & seq. Again, and again, 597, a—d. Subdued by them, ibid. e. The end of their reign, ibid. f. Signal hospitality, 389, (D). The same with Longobards, 615, & seq. Why called Gepide, 616, a, b.
- German* women, their signal bravery, 375, c, d.
- old, supposed prophetesses, [417], a, (B).
- married, their conjugal fidelity and diligence, [430], b—d, (W). Hard laws, &c. Against them, ibid. & [432], b, c.
- poetry, its roughness, 380, (P), [427], a, b.
- Germania*, how divided, [407], (C). [408], a. [413], a, b. Its extent, [408], & seq. Its soil and produce, [413], pass. Forest, rivers, and antient towns, ibid. & seq.
- Prima*, invaded by the Vandals, 529, d.
- Germans*, their extract, [324], b, (F). [404], pass. When first known to the Romans, ibid. & seq. Their antient names and etymons, [405], c—e, (A). Several nations and territories, [407], & seq. Religion, [416], & seq. Cruel rites, [417], b, c. Had no temples, [418], a. Their deities, ibid. & seq. Theology excelled that of the Greeks, &c. [421], a, b. Yet mixed with horrid superstitions, ibid. & seq. & (I). Priests, [422], pass. Laws and government, ibid. e, f, & seq. Councils, [423], a, (K). Kings, &c. ibid. b—d. Military discipline, ibid. c, & seq. & (L), (M). Cavalry, [424], d, & seq. & (N). Weapons, and their fondness for them, 425, pass. & (O). Valour, [426], b, c. Punishments, ibid. c, d. Arts and sciences, ibid. & seq. & notes. Dress, [427], c, d, (R). Writing, [428], a, (T). Robustness, ibid. & seq. Fidelity, [429], a, b. Hospitality, ibid. b, c. Money, ibid. d. Marriages, ibid. Promiscuous commerce confuted, ibid. & seq. Funerals, [430], & seq. Belief of a future state, [431], pass. & notes. Unnatural customs, [432], a—c. Fondness for strong liquors, ibid. c, d. Their antient history very dark, [433], pass. Why invaded by the Romans, ibid. & seq. By the Gauls, [434], & seq. Invade them, [435], c, d. Succes in Italy, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Marius, [436], a, b. Invited by the Sequani, ibid. c, d. Defeated, [437], pass. & notes. Massacred by Germanicus, [440], a, b, (Q). Other wars with the Romans, ibid. ad fin. cap. Subdued by Atila, [466], c.
- Germanus* sent general into Italy, 674, a. Dies, ibid. b.
- Gerontius* betrays the streights of Thermopyla, 505, b. Allies with the Vandals, 530, c.
- Gerrai*, who, and where sit, 321, b.
- Gerunium* taken by Hannibal, 25, b, (K).
- Geryon*, a fabulous king of Spain, 319, c, (C). His three sons, ibid. & seq.
- Gefaleich*, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, c.
- Geshem*, the famed mountain of, described, 185, f. A prison for the Abassine princes, 186, a.
- Gessoriacum*, Bolonia, the triumphal arch of, 429, b.
- Gesuald's* singular fidelity, 695, b, & d. Death, ibid. c.
- Gesulians*, their pastoral life, 161, f.
- Geta* triumphs over the Britains, 428, e, f.
- Geta*, Getes. See Goths, 486, e, & seq.
- Gevaudan* taken by the Visigoths, 515, c.
- Gezira*, Fezeira, island, where, 146, e.
- Ghassan*, the kingdom of, by whom founded, 275, d. A list of its kings, ibid. e, & seq.
- Ghir*, river, in Gatulia, described, 164, b.
- Giberic*, a Bathian prince, 492, d.
- Gilda*, where sit, 143, b.
- Gildas's* account of Britain, 420, (A).
- Gindanes*, who, and where seated, 175, b.
- Girgiris* mount, and its rivers, 165, c.
- Gisco* insulted by Hannibal, 83, e, f. Fruitless embassy to Rome, 97, f.
- Gisulphus*, first duke of Friuli, 619, e. —Of Benevento, his reign and death, 700, c.
- Gjudda*, a port near Mecca, 238, a.
- Gloa Æstuarium*, fortified by Agricola, 414, a.
- Ruins of the Roman wall, 416, a.
- Gloucester* taken by the Saxons, 452, f.
- Godegiselus* leads his Vandals into Gaul, 527, d. Allies with Clovis, 571, b. Treachery to Gundebald, ibid. c, d. Put to death by him, 572, b.
- Godemar*, king of the Burgundi, 585, e. Hires the Ostrogoths, ibid. f. Succes against the Franks, 587, a. Peace with them, ibid. c, d. Driven out of his kingdom, ibid. d, f. Taken prisoner, 588, a, b.
- Gogmagog*, a fabulous prince of the British giants, 421, sub not.
- Goiam*, the mountains of, 185, d. Famed rocks, 186, a.
- Gold* despised by the Ethiopians, 202, c. By the Gauls, 384, b, (X). By the antient Germans, [429], d. —the mines and traffick of, in Ethiopia, 215, (H). —the sand of, in Lusitania, 299, b.
- Gonderic*, king of the Vandals in Spain, 530, f. Defeats the Suevi, 531, d. Defeated by Asterius, ibid. e. His miserable end, ibid. e, f.

Gondicartus

I N D E X.

Gondicarius defeated by the Hunns, 463, c.
Gontiana, where sited, 143, d.
Gontran invaded by the Lombards, 680, c.
Gordas, king of the Hunns, turns christian, 483, b.
 Murdered by his subjects, ibid. c.
Goryni outwitted by Hannibal, 91, b.
Gothish women fight in mens apparel, 498, b.
Goths seize Gothland from the Cimbri, 441, c.
 Defeated at Chalons, 476, & seq. The vast number of the slain, 477, c. Their history, 486, & seq. Origin, 486, b. 491, pass. The same with the Cimbri, ibid. c. & 487, & seq. Various settlements, ibid. pass. Countries and names, 488, a—d. Language, writing, &c. 489, pass. Come into Germany, 489, b. 491, pass. Allowed of polygamy, ibid. f. & seq. Why called Goths, 492, b. Their customs, kings, &c. ibid. & seq. Drefs, 493, b. Wars with Caracalla, ibid. c. Ravage Mæssa, ibid. e. Driven out of Thrace, ibid. & seq. Fresh ravages, 494, pass. Repulsed by Æmilian, ibid. f. By Aurelian, 495, a. By Macrianus, ibid. b. Ravage Asia, ibid. c, d. Repulsed by Odenatus, ibid. e, f. Invade the empire, 496, a—d. Defeated by Claudius, ibid. d. Destroyed by pestilence, 497, b. Surrender to Claudius, ibid. d. Driven out of Pannonia, ibid. f, & seq. Out of Thrace, 498, a. Dacia, &c. ibid. b, c. Defeated by Dioclesian, ibid. d, e. By Constantine, 499, b. Assist him against Licinius, ibid. c, d. An hundred thousand of them stroyed, ibid. & seq. When and how converted, 500, a. (A). Serve under several emperors, ibid. b, c. Defeated by Valens, ibid. c. 501, b—f. Obtain a peace, 502, a. Driven out, and submit to the Hunns, ibid. d, e, & seq. Submit to Theodosius, 503, pass. Ravage Greece, 505, pass. Italy, 507, e, f. Conquests in France, &c. See sub Visigoths, 509, & seq. & Ostrogoths, 518, & seq.
Governors in Britain, their office, 417, pass.
Gracchus, the colony of, in Spain, 405, b.
Gracchus's success against Carthage, 47, c. Sent to rebuild it, 105, c, d, & seq.
Grasulf seizes on the duchy of Friuli, 688, e, f.
Gratian chosen emperor by the Britains, 436, d. Slain, ibid. e.—His success against the Alemans, 594, c—e.
Gregory's treachery to Tato, &c. 688, d, e.
 —II. pope, opposes Leo's edict, 702, & seq. Stirs up the Venetians, 703, c—f. Falls out with Leo, 704, a. Assisted by Luitprand, ibid. b. Excommunicates the exarch, ibid. c, d. Conspired against by Leo, 705, a—d. Submission to Luitprand, 707, b—c. Embassy to Ch. Martel, ibid. f, & seq. Death, 708, b.
Greuthungi, who, 459, a. Defeated by Valens, 500, f.
Grimoald refuged in Lombardy, 692, a. Made duke of Benevento, ibid. c. Seizes on the crown of Lombardy, 693, pass. Treachery to Partharii, ibid. f, & seq. Stratagem against the Franks, 694, c. Against the Romans, 695, & seq. Against the Hunns, 696, d, e. Corrects the Lombard laws, 697, a. His death and character, ibid. b, c.
 —II. succeeds his father, and dies, 700, c.
Grove, Massilian, described by Lucan, 331, (F).
Groves in high request among the patriarchs, 331, a, b. Among the Gauls, ibid. & seq. And Germanians, [413], e, & seq.
Gualfred in Italy, their office, 720, f.
Gudeok, king of the Lombards, 616, f. His death, 617, e.
Guluffa vindicates his father before the Roman senate, 95, b. Insulted at Carthage, 96, c. His share of the succession, 127, a. Death, ibid. b.
Gundamund, king of the Vandals in Afric, 527, d.
Gundebald defeated by Clovis, 571, b, c. Belieged in Avignon, ibid. d. Success against his brother;
 VOL. VII. N^o. 10.

572, a, b. Made magister militia, 581, e. His law in favour of duels, ibid. & seq. Fratricide, 584, c. Conquests and ravages, ibid. & seq. Death, 585, b.
Gundebert's treachery to his brother, 692, t, & seq. Killed by Grimoald, 693, c.
Gundemar, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, c.
Gunderic settles in Galicia, 527, d.
Gundiac, king of the Burgundi, made magister militia, 581, d—e. His success in Spain and Gaul, 583, pass.
Gundicarius, king of the Burgundi, 581, d. Defeated and killed, 583, b.
Guzula, where sited, 160, b. Whether the ancient Gaulia, ibid. c.
Gylvo, Gylphus, receives Woden in Sweden, 489, c.
Gythilsis island in Ethiopia, 190, b.

H

HABASHAH, why one of the names of Ethiopia, 181, (B).
Habis, ancient king of Spain, [322], d.
Halrah, the famed spring of, in Numidia, 116, d.
Hadramant, the province of, described, 231, d.
Hamshire inhabited by the Jutes, 441, c.
Hamilear Barca's hatred to Rome, 1, a, b. Inspires his sons with the same, 2, a, b. [325]. Ravages Olbia, &c. 61, d. Takes some of Scipio's ships, 77, f, & seq. Raises new troubles, 85, a. Killed, ibid. b. Defeated by Cethegus, 85, c.—Sannis heads the popular faction at Carthage, 96, b. Banishes forty senators, ibid. c.
Hamyar, the chief king of Taman, 245, c. His reign and successors, 267, d, & seq. The end of it, 271, e, f.
Hancetown, whence so called, 549, d.
Hannibal besieges Saguntum, 2, & seq. Whether he denied the Romans audience, ibid. & seq. Takes the place, 5, & seq. His motives for it, 7, & seq. Regulations in Spain, 8, f, & seq. His account left at Lacinium, 9, b, (D). Dream, 10, a, b. Speech to his army, ibid. e, f. Crosses the Rhone, 11, b. Marches towards the Alps, 14, b, c. Difficulties in crossing them, ibid. c, f, & seq. In his descent, 15, & seq. His army dwindled, 16, b, (G). Speech to them, 17, b, c. Defeats the Romans, ibid. f, & seq. Second victory, 19, & seq. March into Etruria, 21, a. Defeats Flaminius, 22, b. Waikes Italy, ibid. c, & seq. Entrapped by his Italian guides, 23, d, & seq. Stratagem against Fabius, 24, e, f. Repulsed by him, 26, b. In great distress, 27, f, & seq. Speech to his army, 28, e, f. Victory at Canna, 30, & seq. His not marching to Rome justified, 31, f, & seq. Success in Campania, 32, f, & seq. Enters Capua, 33, & seq. Treatment of the Roman prisoners, 34, b, c, (N). Repulsed before Naples and Nola, 35, c, & seq. Taken with the delights of Capua, 37, pass. Betrayed by the Bartan faction, ibid. f, & seq. Stratagem against the dictator, 41, d, e. Repulsed before Cuma, 44, a, b. Bold answer to the Hirpini, &c. ibid. f. Repulsed before Nola, 45, a—d. Raises new troubles in Sicily, 47, a. Repulsed before Puteoli, ibid. d. And Nola, ibid. e, f. Plunders Apulia, 48, b, c. Private treaty with the Tarentines, 51, pass. Enters Tarentum, 52, pass. Starves the citadel by stratagem, ibid. e, f. Fresh success against the Romans, 54, & seq. Relieves Capua, 57, b, c. Stratagem against the consuls defeated, ibid. d. March to Rome, ibid. & seq. Ill success, 59, a, b. Sundry engagements against Marcellus, 61, & seq. Defeats the banditti, 62, c. And the Romans, 64, b, c. Delays to join Asdrubal, 65, c. Defeated several times, ibid. & seq. Retires to Cannusium, 66, a. His behaviour on hearing of Asdrubal's death, 68, c, d. Labours

I N D E X.

- bours with pestilence and famine, 73, b. Wounded by a scorpion, 74, c. Defeated by Sempronius, 76, f, & seq. Recalled to Carthage, 79, c. Massacres some Italians, and returns, 80, c, d. Lands in Afric, 81, b. Speech to Scipio, ibid. d, e. Defeated at Zama, 82, pass. Prevents an insurrection, 83, c, f. Noble speech to Hædus, 84, c, f. Recalled, and chosen prætor, 85, f. Envied by the Romans, 86, c. Flies to Antiochus, ibid. & seq. Stirs him up against Rome, 87, b. —d. Artful answer to Scipio, 88, b, c. Noble speech to Antiochus, ibid. d, e. Deserted by him, ibid. & seq. Kind advice to him, 89, f, & seq. Rouses him up at last, 90, d, e. Defeated by the Rhodians, ibid. & seq. Flies to Crete, 91, a. Stratagem to save his treasure, ibid. b. Against Eumenes, ibid. c, d. Poisons himself, ibid. & seq. Last words and character, 92, a, & seq. —Passer, head of the Massinian faction, 96, b. —the port of, 298, f.
- Hanno's* hatred to Hannibal, 4, c, f. 7, c, f, & seq. Left to command in Gaul, 11, a, b. Defeated by Scipio, 20, b, c. Sharp answer to Himilco, 35, a, b. To Mago, ibid. b, c. Obstructs Hannibal's succour, 37, f. Defeated by Sempronius, 44, c. By Marcellus, 47, c, f. Sent with provisions to Capua, 53, c. Defeated and stripped of them, ibid. f. Defeated in Spain, 68, c. Taken prisoner, ibid. f. —In Sardinia, 45, c. —Defeated by Scipio, 76, a. By Massinissa, ibid. c, d. —Head of the Roman faction, 96, b.
- Harpicoræ's* embassy to Carthage, 42, a. Abandoned by his men, 45, d. Joins Asdrubal's army, ibid. c. Defeated, and kills himself, ibid. f, & seq.
- Hbasanites*, who, and where, 238, b, c.
- Havilah*, the father of the Garulians, 161, c.
- Hejaz*, the province of, described, 236, a, b. —kingdom, by whom founded, 245, c. Kings of, 277, a, &c.
- Hejra*, the era of, 286, a, (F).
- Hela*, the goddess of hell, 443, a.
- Helanus*, lake, how worshipped by the Gauls, 351, a, b.
- Helmichild*, sadly over-reached by Rosamund, 621, a—c. His fatal end, and revenge on her, 622, a, b.
- Helvetii* defeated by Cæsar, 397, c—e. Settled among the Ædui, ibid.
- Hengist*, (and Horfa) who, and whence, 441, b. Help to defeat the Picts and Scots, 443, b. Settled in Lincolnshire, ibid. c. Treachery to Vortigern, 445, c. Defeated by Ambrosius, 446, c, d. His death, ibid. e. When he came into Britain, 490, d.
- Heraclæa* submits to Hannibal, 54, a. Taken by Thiodoric, 520, b.
- Heraclitus* made governor of South-Britain, 433, b.
- Heraclius* recovers Tripoli from the Vandals, 538, c.
- Hercules Diædas*, when he flourished, 121, d. Dispossesses and kills Antaus, 153, & seq. The fables of, explained, 154, a, &c. The time in which he flourished, ibid. d—f. Civilizes the Galulians, 162, b. Worshipped by the Gauls, 357, (T). His reign in Spain, 319, d. 320, b.
- Hercynian* forest described, [413], c, & seq.
- Herdones* burnt by Hannibal, 61, b.
- Heresfordshire* formerly part of Wales, 410, c.
- Hermanaric*, king of the Goths, 492, d. 500, c. His great conquests, 502, c. Kills himself, ibid. d.
- Hermigarius's* defeat and death, 532, d.
- Hermunduri*, who, and where, [408], c.
- Herna*, Attila's youngest son, 468, a. His character, &c. ibid. b.
- Herodotus* imposed upon by the Scytho-Greeks, [427], (R).
- Heroopolitian* gulph, where, 224, c, (C).
- Herpidani*, who, and where seated, 140, d.
- Herpis*, where, 143, b.
- Herttha*, a famed goddess in Germany, [418], b, c, (C).
- Hertthus* worshipped by the Angles, 443, a.
- Heruli*, who, and whence, 598, b. Settle in Thrace, ibid. c. And Scandinavia, ibid. d. Why so called, ibid. e. Their religion, laws, &c. ibid. & seq. Sundry ravages and defeats, 599, a—d. Subdued by Ermeneric, ibid. And Attila, ibid. & 466, b. 502, c. By the Lombards, 599, f, & seq. Dispersed, 600, a. Regicide, ibid. b. Conversion, ibid. c. Sad character, ibid. d. Subdued by the Lombards, ibid. &c.
- Hesperides*, gardens, where, 170, c.
- Hesperus*, a fabulous king of Spain, 320, c.
- Hesius*. See Esius, 328, & seq.
- Hiarbas* cotemporary with Dido, 138, a. A table of his successors in Numidia, ibid. pass.
- Hiempsal*, the son of Micipsa, 127, d. Murdered by Jugurtha, 129, a. —Made king of part of Numidia, 135, c.
- Hiero* invaded by the Carthaginians, 34, a, b. Supposed to have been dispatched by Gelon, 41, c.
- Hieronymus* in the Carthaginian interest, 47, a. His character and death, ibid. b.
- Hilarius* the philosopher put to death by the Goths, 505, c.
- Hilbas's* success against the Franks, 577, b.
- Hildebrand* made duke of Ravenna, 703, b. —king of the Lombards, deposed, 709, a.
- Hilperic* assists the Goths in Spain, 512, c.
- Himilco's* taunting speech to Hanno, 35, a. Sent into Spain, 39, c.
- Hippi*, promontory in Numidia, 111, d.
- Hippo* taken and burnt by the Vanaals, 533, c, d. —Regius described, 110, b, c.
- Hippa* mountains in Bætica, 302, b, c.
- Hira*, the kingdom of, founded, 272, c. Its duration, ibid. d. Series of kings, ibid. & seq. The end of it, 275, c.
- Hirpini* revolt from the Carthaginians, 44, c. Complain against Hannibal, ibid. f. Submit to the Romans, 62, b.
- Hispal*, a fabulous king of Spain, 320, a. —the city of Seville, described, 300, d, & seq. By whom founded, ibid. (E).
- Hispan*, a fabulous king of Spain, 320, b.
- Hispania*, whence that name, 295, a, b.
- Hobal*, the god of rain of the Arabs, 249, c. His statue described, 250, a.
- Hojr*, king of Kenda, why called the eater, 278, a.
- Holstein*, the ancient seat of the Saxons, 441, a.
- Homerites*, who, and where, 232, b, c.
- Honoræ* stirs up Attila against her brother, 471, c. Her lewd character and imprisonment, ibid. d, c.
- Honorius's* resignation of Britain, 437, b. Assists it against the Picts, ibid. c. Falls out with Alaric, 508, & seq.
- Honosca* razed by Scipio, 27, c.
- Horesti*, who, and where, 414, a.
- Hormida* defeated in Dacia, 482, c.
- Horfa*, who, and whence, 442, & seq. Defeated and slain, 444, d. Where buried, ibid. e.
- Hortarius* sues to Julian for peace, 592, a, b.
- Hosius* defeated in Sardinia, 45, c, d. Slain, ibid. f.
- Hud*, a pretended prophet of the Arabs, 242, b—d.
- Hulmul*, a prince of the Bathian family, 492, d.
- Humbri*. See Umbri, 323, d, (E).
- Hungarians*, whence descended, 485, d. Why so called, ibid. & seq. Hired against the Bulgarians, 629, d, e.
- Hunila* married to Bonofus, 498, b.
- Hunmeric* king of the Vandals in Afric, 527, d.
- Hunnimund*, king of the Ostrogoths, 493, a. Submits to the Huns, 518, c.

Huns.

I N D E X.

- Hunns*, whence, 456, a. Their tribes names, &c. ibid. b, c.—Scythian, their kings or chiefs, 458, a. Origin, names, &c. ibid. b—d. Cross the Palus Mæotis, ibid. e, f. Subdue the Alans, 459, a. And Ostrogoths, ibid. b, c. Visigoths, &c. ibid. d, e. Their other conquests, ibid. f, & seq. Hired by Theodosius, 460, a. Defeated in Thrace, ibid. b. Their horrid ravages, ibid. & seq. & a. In Thrace, Illyricum, 461, b, c. Assist Stilicho against Radagaisus, ibid. c, d. Second irruption, 462, a. And defeat, ibid. b. Side with the usurper John, ibid. c. Repulsed, ibid. d, e. When possessed of Pannonia, 463, a, b. Join Ætius against the Burgundi, ibid. c. 20000 cut off by them, ibid. c, d. Defeat the Goths before Narbonne, ibid. e. Plunder Auvergne, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated before Thoulouse, 464, a. Make peace, ibid. d, e. New conquests, ibid. & seq. Under Attila, 465, & seq. Ravage Illyricum, 478, b. Their prowess ends with Attila's death, 481, d—f. Defeated by the Goths, 482, b, c. In Dacia by Anthemius, ibid. c, d. Fresh irruption into the empire, 483, d. Vast plunder, &c. ibid. e. Defeated, 484, pass. By Sigebert in Thuringia, ibid. f, & seq. Extent of their dominion in Charles the Great's reign, 485, a. Embassy to him, ibid. Totally reduced by him, ibid. c, d.
- Hylogones*, their site, food, &c. 184, d.
- Hylophagi*, their site, food, &c. 184, c. Prodigious activity, 200, e.
- I
- J A B A L A H, last king of Ghassan, turns christian, 276, c, d.
- Jacobite* sect rise in Arabia, 252, c, d.
- Jadis*, the Arab tribe of, whence, 243, c. Destroyed, ibid. d.
- Jafnah*, first king of Ghassan, his conquest, 275, e. —second, sets Hira on fire, 276, a.
- Jamno*, a port in Minorca, 308, c.
- Jangacocani*. See Angacocani, 140, d.
- Jazyges*, who, 604. Declare for Vespasian, 605, d. Ravage Mæsia, ibid. e. Defeated by Galulus, ibid. Join the Suevi against Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Embassy to Adrian, 606, b. Defeated by M. Aurelius, ibid. c.
- Ibatzes's* success against the Romans, 636, c. Taken prisoner, 637, b.
- Iberia*, Spain, why so called, 294, c, d.
- Iberians* in Spain, who and where sited, 294, d, 323, b.
- Iberus*, king of the Lombards, 614, e. 615, d.
- Iberus*, fabulous king of Spain, 319, a.
- river, divides Tarracon through, 303, d.
- Iceni*, who and where, 409, f. Submit to Cæsar, 426, b, (F). Oppose Ostorius, 430, b.
- Icenian*, Icenia street, on Salisbury plain, described, 342, (R).
- Ichthyophagi*, who, and whence so called, 184, a. Their customs, &c. 199, d. Food, &c. 200, a—c.
- Ida* founds a second Saxon kingdom, 450, e.
- Idatius's* account of the Vandals eruption, 530, c, d.
- Idolatry* rooted up by the Goths in Greece, 505, e, f.
- Idubeda*, a fabulous king of Spain, 320, b. The mountains of, 307, (K).
- Jews*, in Arabia, converted by a miracle, 285, a, b.
- Igilgil*, where situate, 113, a.
- Igillus*, king of the Vandals, taken prisoner, 529, a.
- Jiel*, where situate, 107, e. 113, b.
- Ikenil* street described, 420, a.
- Ildebald*, chosen king of the Ostrogoths, 493, a, 644, b, c. Defeats the Romans, ibid. d. Murdered by Vilas, ibid. e.
- Ildigefal* refuged among the Gepidae, 597, c.
- Ilergetæ* submit to Hannibal, 10, f. Treachery to Scipio forgiven, 26, c, d. New revolt, 71, f.
- Illiturgi* revolts to the Carthaginians, 46, e. Retaken and razed by Scipio, 71, a.
- Illus's* treachery to Zeno, 522, e.
- Illyricum* laid waste by Attila, 467, e. 468, e, f.
- Image* worship, how first introduced, 247, b, (Q).
- Imola* rebuilt by Clephis, 622, b.
- Indibilis* assists Asdrubal in Spain, 56, c. Gained by Scipio, 62, f. Rewarded by him, 63, c. Takes up arms against him, 71, f. Defeated, 72, a, b. Raises a new revolt, 73, c. Defeated and punished, ibid. d.
- Indutiomarus* defeated by Cæsar, 399, c, d.
- Ingauni*, who, 73, a. Assisted by Mago, ibid.
- Ingomer's* baptism and death 570, b.
- Insubria* invaded by Hannibal, 16, b, c.
- Insulæ tres*, where sited, 146, d.
- Intercata*, the colony of, 305, c.
- Jodaimab's* victories and death, 272, f, & seq.
- John's* bravery against the Vandals, 528, f. Death ibid. & seq.—Belisarius's general's success, 658, b. Besieged in Rimini, 659, a. Relieved, ibid. b. Treachery to Belisarius, 660, a, b. Opposes Totila's offers, 667, f. Releases the Roman senators, 671, b. Put to flight by Totila, ibid. c—e. Sent into Italy, 674, c. Defeated at sea, ibid. f, & seq.
- Joktan*, and his sons, where settled, 232, e, 265, a, b.
- Jol* in Numidia, the seat of Juba, 114, a. Why so called, ibid. b.
- Jones*, Inigo's scheme of Stone-henge exploded, 339, & seq.
- Jornandes's* fabulous account of the Hunns, 478, b, c.
- Jotæ*, who and where seated, 489, c.
- Jotham*, an old tribe of Arabs, 243, d.
- Jou*, Jovis, the Gaulish name of Jupiter, 353, c, (L).
- Jovinus* sent to quell the Britons, 435, d. Success against the Alemans, 593, b, c.
- Irem*, the famed city and garden of, 242, a.
- Irenæus*, bishop of Lions, martyred, 403, b, c.
- Isacius* defeated by Rotharis, 691, b. Quells Manricius's rebellion, ibid. c.
- Isarna*, a Bathian prince, 492, d.
- Isca*, Urk, the Roman garrison of, 411, b. The antiquities of, ibid. c.
- Ismael* settles in Arabia, 266, a. The prophecy fulfilled in his descendants, ibid. b, c.
- Ismaelites*, antient inhabitants of Arabia, 226, d. Their territories, 230, a.
- Iffer*, river, in Numidia, 116, c.
- Isis*, island, in Ethiopia, 190, b.
- Isurum Brigantum*, where, 412, b.
- Italy*, peopled by the old Celtes, 323, d, (E). Ravaged by Attila, 478, & seq. Cleared of the Goths and Franks, 679, d, e. Put under a new government, ibid. & seq.
- Itamas Portus*, where sited, 234, b.
- Itius Portus*, where sited, 234, b.
- Juba* affronted by Cæsar, 135, d. Revenge, ibid. & seq. Success against him, 136, & seq. Defeat and death, 136, b, (W), (X).—Obtains Mauritania, 157, b. Educated at Rome, ibid. (R). Learning and works, ibid. Worshipped by the Ethiopians, 197, a.
- Ivellus*, river in Danmonia, 407, d.
- Jugurtha's* extract and education, 127, d. Character, ibid. & seq. Perfidy to Micipsa, 128, & seq.

I N D E X.

seq. Bribes the Roman senate, 129, a, b. Cruel treachery to Adherbal, ibid. c — e. To Maffiva, 130, e. Success against the Romans, ibid. d, e. Defeated, 131, a, b. Distracted state, ibid. e, & seq. Besieged in Thala, 132, b. Bribes the Mauritanians, 134, a, b. Betrayed to the Romans, 134, d, e. His end, ibid. & seq. and (S).

Jubones, who, and where, [407], d.

Julian's success against the Franks, 556, pass. Against the Alemans, 591, & seq.

Janus, the dictator, outwitted by Hannibal, 41, c — e.

Junonia island described, 148, a.

Jupiter, when first worshipped in Gaul, 349, d, & seq. and (D). How, ibid. & seq. That name not adopted there, 353, c. How worshipped by the Garamantes, 166, c, (F). By the Germans, [419], a, b. By the Arabs, 249, b.

Justin sent against Totila, 674, b, c. Made governor of Ravenna, 675, c.

Justinian, why styled Gepidicus; 597, f, & seq. Wars against the Ostrogoths, 651, d, e. Betrayed by Theodebert, ibid. e, f, (P). Success against him and them, 653, & seq.

Jutes, their origin, 440, & seq. Why called Giotæ, 441, d.

Juthungi settled in Thrace, 529, c. Defeated by Ætius, 543, c.

Jutland conquered by the Goths, 489, e.

K

K A B Y L E S, a tribe of Libyans, 121, c.

Kadesk, the famed desert of, 227, d.

Kaer-went, the ruins of, 411, a. — Lleion, whence so called, ibid. b. — Philycastel, the noble remains of, ibid. c. — Gourtigern consumed by lightning, 445. Given to Pascentius, 446, c.

Kail, a pretended prophet of the Arabs, 292, c.

Kais, his long and bloody war, 279, b.

Karak, whether the ancient Petra, 226, b.

Karioth, a city in Arabia Petrea, 226, b.

Kathan, the same with Joktan, 244, a. His posterity, ibid. and (O). Reign, 267, b.

Keaulius's success against Ethelbert, 451, b. 452, e, f.

Kedareni, Cedreni, ancient inhabitants of Petrea, 226, d.

Kedem, Arabia, why so called, 222, & seq. 224, b, c.

Kenda, the tribe and kings of, 278, a, b.

Kent inhabited by the Jutes, 441, e. Seized on by Hengist, 443, d. Becomes a Saxon kingdom, ibid. & seq.

Keyzler's notion of Stonchenge exploded, 340, a, b.

—— Kofs, a famed Arab orator, 258, a.

Khozaab The Arab tribe of, whence, 277, c. Possessors of Mecca, &c. ibid. d.

Kiz, the island of, where, 235, d.

Kolzum, Colzom, in Arabia Petrea, 227, c.

Koreish, the tribe of, seize on Mecca, and the Ca-baa, 277, d, e.

Koz, Kush, from whom so named, 205, c.

L

L A B I E N U S, left to command in Treves, 424, b.

Lacetani, massacred by Scipio, 26, d.

Lacinium, where situate, 9, (D).

Laetodorum, Bedford, 409, b.

Lacumales set upon the Mafflian throne, 123, a. Submits to Mafiniffa, ibid. d, e.

Lelius sent to gain over Syphax, 71, c. Defeats Asdrubal's fleet, ibid. e. Descent and success in Afric, 73, & seq. Interview with Mafiniffa, 74, a. Burns the Numidian camp, 77, c. Sent in pursuit of Syphax, 78, d, e. Bravery at the battle of Zama, 82, pass. Success before Carthage, 103, c.

Laves and Ananes settle in Italy, 391, d.

Lavinus sends a corps of banditti into Sicily, 59, d.

Lageolium, where situate, 412, d.

Lakes worshipped by the Gauls, 350, b, (F). Superstitious customs used to them, 351, a, b, (G).

Lakmians, their extract, kingdom, &c. 272, d, & seq.

Lamalmon, the famed mountain of, described, 185, d.

Lamiscus, king of the Lombards, 615, d. Why so called, 616, c. Defeats the Bulgarians, ibid. f.

Langobriga, a city in Lusitania, 296, c.

Lantila's renounces Arianism, 570, a.

Lares in Numidia described, 109, d.

Larissa taken by Theodoric III. 520, b; 522, c. By the Bulgarians, 633, d.

Lascais founds an empire at Nice, 286, f, & seq. — Theodore's reign and death, 28, c, e, f. — John, dethroned, 287, f, & seq. Murdered, 288, c.

Lasfer, a gum, described, 170, e, & seq.

Lathon river, where, 170, c.

Latin tongue corrupted in Italy, 625, (L).

Lemigius, duke, murdered for extortion, 686, f, & seq.

Lens, the battle of, when fought, 560, f.

Lentineses defeated by Mallobaudes, 557, a, b.

Lentulus defeats the Spanish reguli, 73, c, d.

Leo, pope, sent ambassador to Arila, 480, a, b. — Arcadius's general, defeated and killed, 506, c, f. — the compiler of the Theodorian laws, his character, 517, c, (C). — the emperor's great preparations against Genserik, 537, & seq. Defeated at sea by him, 538, c, f. — Phocas's ill success against the Bulgarians, 630, c, f, & seq. — Moroleon's noble defence of Adrianople, 631, d. Tortured to death, ibid. e. — Melissenus betrayed by Stephen, 633, c, f. — Isauricus causes great disturbances by his edict, 702, c. Opposed by the pope, ibid. d. 704, d, e. Preparations against him, 707, c, f.

Leogria, from whom so called, 421, (A).

Leonorius's defection from Brennus, 393, d. Settled in Galatia, 394, c, d, & seq.

Leontius's treason and defeat, 522, c, d. — Speech to the Franks, 561, & seq. sub (P).

Lerida taken by the Suevi, 544, b.

Leta, king of the Lombards, 615, d. 616, f.

Letes, who, and where fired, 554, b.

Leunigild, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, c.

Leutharis heads the Franks into Italy, 678, f. His army destroyed, 679, d.

Lexovii subdued by Sabinus, 399, a.

Liberius sent to relieve Syracuse, 674, c, d.

Libertem heads the Bulgarians in Thrace, 623, c.

Libya, when first invaded, 154, & seq. Why so called, 178, c. — Interior, unknown, 167, a, b.

Libyans, their territories, 119, a. How distinguished, 120, c, d. When first incorporated with the Africans, 122, a, b. Civilized by Dido, 155, c, f. Their customs, &c. 177, pass. 213, (F). — of Marmorica described, 167, & seq.

Licinianus

I N D E X.

Licinianns sent ambassador to Euric, 515, e, f.
Licinius, Prisc. sent into Britain, 431, d, (K).
Liguri assist Mago, 73, & seq. Turn to the Romans, 80, b.
Liguria ravaged by the Burgundi, 584, f.
Lilybaeum repulses the Carthaginians, 20, a.
Limetanus stirs up the Romans against their corrupt senators, 130, f.
Limigantes, why so called, 609, b. War with the Romans, ibid. & seq. Submit to Constantius, 610, a, b.
Lindum, Lincoln, metropolis of the Coritani, 410, b.
Lingones settle in Italy, 391, d.
Livva, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, e.
Lions taken by the Burgundi, 583, d—f.
Lipari, island, seized by the Carthaginians, 19, d.
Lippe, Lupia, river in Germany, [415], b.
Lisbon taken by the Suevi, 545, e.
Litorius taken prisoner by the Goths, 510, e. Insulted and put to death by Theodoric, ibid. & seq.
Livisa slain by Theodoric, 524, e.
Livius Cains betrayed by the Tarentines, 51, d—f. Escapes drunk into the citadel, 52, b.
—the consul, joined by his colleague, 66, d, e.
Lixus in Mauritania described, 141, d. Whether the same with Tingis, ibid. e, f.
—river, 142, a, 144, e.
Locri surrender to Hannibal, 41, b. Besieged by Clucius, 64, d, e. Taken by Scipio, 74.
Locusts destroy Africa, 172, b. Infect it with a plague, ibid. c. The food of the Ethiopians, 200, f. How caught, 201, a. Why so unwholesome, ibid. b, (Z).
Lodbrog, king, his requiem before his death, 420, (F).
Lokman, king of the Adites, 242, d, e.
—the famed Arab fabulist, an account of, 258, (T).
Lollius's success in Britain, 432, a, (M).
Lombards, their origin, &c. 614, e, f. Whence called Longobards, 615, c. Their wars with the Gepida, 596, & seq. Settle in Pannonia, 615, d. Their kings, character, dress, &c. ibid. e, f. Migrations, ibid. & seq. Defeat the Vandals, 616, b. Outwit the Assipiti, ibid. c, d. Success in Gothland, ibid. d, e. Settle in Rugiland, ibid. f, & seq. Defeat the Heruli, 617, a. And Gepida, ibid. b—d. Settle in Pannonia, ibid. e, & seq. Enter Italy, 618, pass. Their success and conquests, 619, & seq. Begin a kingdom there, 620, c. Split it into dukedoms. Why, 622, b. The ill consequence of it, ibid. c. The number of those dukes, ibid. d. Chuse a new king, ibid. e, f. Their language, 625, (L). Break into Gaul, 680, c. Defeated by Ennius, ibid. d. Fall out with the Saxons, ibid. e. Chuse Autharis their king, 681, d. Renounce Arianism, 684, d, e. 697, c. Success against the Romans, 694, & seq. The end of their kingdom, 719, d. Character and government vindicated, ibid. e, f, & seq. The extent of their dominions, 720, c, d. Laws, see under Longobardian, 690, & seq.
Lombardy, how divided, 721, (C). Its three states, 723, f.
Londinium, London, whether it belonged to the Canthii, 408, e, f. To the Trinobantes, 409, c. When founded, ibid. d. Whence called Augusta, ibid. e. Entered and restored by Theodosius, 435, d, e.
Londobris, island in Lusitania, 298, f.
Longinus defeated by Leontius, 522, c. Reception of Rosamund, 621, e, f. First exarch of Ravenna, 679, e. His new government, ibid. & seq. Defeated and recalled, 681, b.
Longobardi, who, and where, 409, d, e. 614, f. Different from the Lombards, 615, a. Whence Called Vinili, ibid. b. The rest see under Lombards.

Longobardian laws, when and by whom compiled, 690, a, (U). Corrected by Grimoald, 697, a. By Hildebrand, 709, b. By Astulph, 712, b, c.
Lorgitæ, Ilorgitæ, who, 9, b, (C).
Lotophagi, who, and where sited, 175, b. Why so called, 176, b. Their customs, &c. ibid. & seq.
Lotus, the plant of, its use, &c. 176, b—d.
Lorientium, Torway in Wales, 411, e.
Lowtaia, where situate, 107, c.
Lucani submit to the Romans, 62, b. 69, d.
Luceria destroyed by Constans, 695, a.
Lud, king, the fabulous account of, 421, (A).
Ludim, whether the Ethiopians, 183, a. Why so like them, 193, b, c.
Luernius's famed sumptuous feast, 387, (Z).
Lugdunenses build a temple to Cæsar, 401, c, d.
Lugdunensis, Gallia, seized on by the Burgundi, 583, d, e.
Lugwallum, Carlisle, why so called, 413, b. Its antiquities, ibid. c.
Luitbert, dethroned and murdered by Ragumbert, 699, a, b.
Luitprand spared by Aripert, 699, c. Conspired against, 701, d, e. Rash courage and generosity, ibid. e, f. New body of laws, 702, a, b, (X). Invades Ravenna, ibid. d, & seq. Success there, 704, e, f. Reconciled to the pope, 707, b, c. Reception of Zachary, 708, d, e. Death and character, ibid. & seq.
Lupicinus, sent against the Picts and Scots, 435, b.
Lupus, Vib. success in Britain, 433, b, (N). Bishop of Troyes, forced to quit it, 478, d. Duke of Friuli, revolts, 696, b, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. d.
Lusitania, described, 295, e, & seq. Its cities, 296, & seq. Promontories, 298, e, & seq. Rivers, 299, a. Inhabited by the Celtiberi, [324], d, e.
Lusus, an antient king of Spain, [321], b.
Lutatius's insolence to the Carthaginians, 1, a. His treaty with them examined, 6, e, f, & seq. —Defection from Brennus, 393, d.
Lybia, Lybissa, Hannibal buried at, 92, (R).
Lydia, over-run with Goths, 495, d.
Lygians, Logiones, who and where sited, [409], b, c. Defeated by Probus, 528, e. Ally with the Suevi against the Romans, 542, a, b.

M

MACÆ, who and where sited, 175, b. Their customs, &c. 176, a.
Macedon, plundered by the Hunns, 468, f.
Macrianus defeated by the Franks, 557, a, b. By Valentinian, 593, f, & seq. His death, 594, b, c.
Macrobian, why long-lived, 202, c. Their king's answer to Cambyse's embassy, 212, c—e.
Madaura in Numidia, where sited, 111, a.
Madian, a city in Arabia, 182, b. By whom founded, 238, b, c.
Madrid, where sited, 607, a, (I).
Mæata, who and where sited, 414, b.
Mænicepto slain in Spain, 49, b.
Magas reigns 50 years in Cyrenaica, 174, a.
Magi, island in Ethiopia, 190, b.
Magilus conducts Hannibal over the Alps, 14, a, b.
Magister militum, his office, 417.
Magius, Dec. bold speech against Hannibal, 33, c. Delivered up to him, ibid. d.
Magnifrid sent against the Hunns, 485, c.

I N D E X.

- Magnum promontorium* in Lusitania, 298, e.
- Magus*, sent in pursuit of the Romans, 18, b. Carries the news of Hannibal's success to Carthage, 34, d, & seq. Sent for reinforcements into Spain, 35, d, e. Countermanded from going to Hannibal, 41, f. Sent into Spain, 42, b. Defeats the consuls, 55, a, b. Defends new Carthage against Scipio, 60, a. Sent to raise new forces, 63, d. Noble defence of Locri, 64, d. Defeated in Spain, 68, e, f. Afresh, 69, f, & seq. Retires to Gades, 78, e. Sends for fresh forces, ibid. f. Sent into Italy, 72, d. Cruelties at Gades, ibid. e, f. Winters in the Baleares, ibid. & seq. Reinforces himself in Liguria, 73, a, b. His column near Lacinium, ibid. c. Speech to the Gauls and Ligurians, 74, b. Defeated in Insubria, 79, f, & seq. Sails for Carthage, 80, a. Dies of his wounds, ibid. b. — Taken prisoner by the Romans, 45, e. — A city in Minorca, 308, c.
- Magochonus's* wicked reign, 451, f.
- Maherbal* commands before Saguntum, 5, c. Ordered to ravage Italy, 17, d. Defeats the Romans, 22, d, e. Speech to Hannibal, 31, f.
- Majoranus* defeats the Visigoths in Gaul, 513, e. Wars against the Vandals in Africa, 535, & seq. Peace with them, 536, c, d.
- Majorca* island described, 308, b, c.
- Maleric*, antient king of the Franks, 550, f, & seq.
- Maldra*, chosen king of the Suevi in Spain, 513, b. Ravages Lusitania, ibid. e. 545, d — f. His treachery and death, 546, a.
- Malek*, first king of Hira, 272, e.
- Malethubalus*, mount, where sited, 115, e.
- Mallobaudus*, king of the Franks, 551, b. Success against the Alemanni, 557, a. Bravery and promotion under Gratian, ibid. b. Death, ibid. c.
- Maltha* surrendered to Sempronius, 20, a.
- Malva*, river of Tingitania, 144, c, d.
- Mamsarus*, mount, in Numidia, 111, c.
- Manab* worshipped by the Arabs, 246, f. 248, b, c.
- Mancinus* defeated by Cartago, 24, d. Repulsed before Carthage, 101, e.
- Mancunium*, Manchester, 412, d.
- Mandonius* defeated by Scipio, 27, d, e. Goes over to him, 62, f. Defeated by him, 71, f. Defeat and punishment, 73, d.
- Mandubracius* made king of the Trinobantes, 426, a.
- Manduria* taken by Fabius, 62, b.
- Manilius Nepos*. See Nepos, 97, e, & seq.
- Munlius* reduces Sardinia, 45, c, & c. — Defeated in Gaul, 396, b, c.
- Manfutus*, bishop of Britany, 454, c.
- Mantua*, where sited, 306, d. Taken by the Hunns, 479, b.
- Maranite*, who, and where sited, 231, d.
- Marcellinus's* success against Genferic, 538, b. Assassinated in Sicily, 539, b.
- Marcellus* defeats Hannibal's designs, 35, f, & seq. Drives him from before Nola, 36, c, & c. Sent to secure it against him, 44, e, f. Drives him into Apulia, 45, b. Treachery to the Casili-nians, 48, a. Success in Spain and Sicily, 61, a. Marches against Hannibal, ibid. c. Worsted in several encounters, ibid. & seq. Defeated and killed, 64, b, c. — Success in Britain fatal, 432, b, c.
- Marcian's* noble answer to Attila, 471, a. Taken prisoner in Africa, 533, c.
- Marcus's* success against the Carthaginians, 71, b, c. Sent against them by sea, 97, c. Relieves their capital, 100, b. — Rex, success in Gaul, 395, c, d.
- Marcomani*, who, and whence, [407], d, e. 600, e. Their character, customs, &c. 601, a. Peace with Augustus, ibid. b. War with the Cherusci, ibid. c. Success against the Romans, ibid. d. Defeated by them, 602, a. Submit to them, ibid. b, c.
- Marcomir*, king of the Franks, 550, b. Ill success against the Romans, 557, f, & seq.
- Mareb*, a river, that falls into the Nile, described, 189, (I).
- Mariani mountains* in Betica, 302, b, c, (I). 307, (K).
- Marius's* success against Jugurtha, 131, a, b. Supplants the brave Metellus, 132, e, & c. Defeats the Numidians, 133, & seq. 134, c, d. And the Gauls, 396, c, d.
- Mark* chosen emperor, and killed, 436, d. — Patriarch, deposed by the Trapezuntines, 289, (C).
- Marmarica Libya* described, 167, & seq. By whom inhabited, 168, d. And first peopled, 169, b. Distinct from Egypt, ibid. c.
- Maroboduus* driven out of his kingdom, 601, c. — The city of his residence, 600, f.
- Marobudum*, by whom built, 600, e, f.
- Maronea*, taken by the Romans, 61, a.
- Mars* worshipped by the Gauls, 347, b, c. With bloody sacrifices, 354, pass. His other names, ibid. c, (O). 355, a, (P). Reckoned an infernal deity, 358, a, (W). Worshipped in Germany, [419], c. His supposed sword found, 467, b.
- Marsilles* yielded to Theodoric, 573, d. — The famed university of, 376, c. — Founded by the Greeks, 381, c.
- Marfi*, who and where sited, [407]. Gained over by Sylla, 396, d.
- Martel*, Ch. allies with the pope, 707, a, b.
- Martinus* killed before Rome, 657, c.
- Martius* defeats the Carthaginians in Spain, 56, e, f.
- Masfiniffa* defeated by Syphax, 50, c. Assists the Carthaginians in Spain, 56, c. Sent to ravage Hispania Citerior, 63, d. Defeated by Scipio, 69, & seq. Abandons the Carthaginians, 70, c, d. Goes to consult with Asdrubal, ibid. f, & seq. Interview with Scipio, 72, b, c. The reasons of his defection, 75, d, e. Joins with Scipio, 76, b. Burns Syphax's camp, 77, e. Gallantry at the battle of Zama, 82, pass. Seizes on the Carthaginian territories, 85, b, 93, d, e. Disputes them before the Roman senate, ibid. & seq. Takes a vast number of Carthaginian cities, 94, & seq. Succours the Romans, 95, c. Defeats Asdrubal, 96, e. Last message to Emilianus, 100, f. Recovers his kingdom, 123, pass. Defeated by Syphax, ibid. e, f. Ravages the Carthaginians, 124, a. Narrow escape, ibid. b, c. Fresh defeat, ibid. d, e. Recovers Syphax's kingdom, 125, a. — c. Forces the Carthaginians into a peace, ibid. d, e. Disobliges the Romans, 126, a. His death, ibid. b. Character, ibid. & seq. Kingdom, how divided, 127, a. Genealogy, 138, pass.
- Masruk*, the last Ethiopian king in Tanan, 271, e.
- Massilians*, their bloody sacrifices, 325, a, b.
- Massiva* murdered by Jugurtha, 130, c.
- Massyli* and Masæyli, part of Numidia, 107, a. Of Mauritania, ibid. e. Their life and extent, 108, a. — c. 112, e, f. Government, 119, & seq. Customs, &c. ibid. & seq. Become a Roman province, 137, c.

Massi-

I N D E X.

- Maſſanabal's ſucceſſion and death*, 127, a, b.
Mataſuenta married to Germanus, 664, a.
Matronæ in Germany, who, [418], (C).
Mattiacum, capital of the Mattiaci, 407, d.
Mavia aſſiſts the Romans againſt the Goths, 284, a.
Maureſii, where ſeated, 140, d.
Mauri, why ſo called, 140, b, c. Obſcure origin, 156, a, b.
Mauringa ſeized by the Lombards, 616, c, d.
Mauritania deſcribed, 107, & ſeq. 139, a. Why called Tingitania, ibid. b. Its extent, ibid. c, d. Whence called Mauruſia, 140, a. How divided, ibid. d. Its rivers, mountains, &c. 142, & ſeq. Natural rarities, 148, & ſeq. By whom firſt peopled, 149, a—d. Government, ibid. e, & ſeq. Religion, 150, & ſeq. Language, 151, a, b. Cuſtoms, ibid. c. Habit, 152, a. Arts, &c. ibid. c, d. Power, ibid. e, & ſeq. Riches, 153, a. Kings, ibid. & ſeq. Conqueſt and diviſion, 159, c, d.
—Nova, whence ſo called, 135, a.
Mauritius's rebellion and death, 691, b—d.
Maximin, why in friendſhip with the Goths, 493, b. —Sent againſt them, 666, f, & ſeq. Deſeated, 667, b, &c.
Maximus's revolt in Britain, 436, b, c. —Theodoſius's embaffador to Attila, 470, paſſ. 472, b.
Mazdak's hereſy and puniſhment, 274, c, d.
Mecca, where ſituate, 236, b. Deſcribed, ibid. b, c. How ſupplied with water, ibid. d, e. And provisions, ibid. & ſeq. It vaſt concourſe, &c. 237, a. Temple and ſharif, ibid. b. By whom built, ibid. d, e.
Medina, a city in Hejaz, 236, b. Deſcribed, 237, d, e.
Mediobriga, the lead-mine of, 299, b.
Mediocritus, Melitarchus, the firſt diſcoverer of the Britiſh iſlands, 402, c.
Mediolanum in Wales, where ſited, 411, f.
Mediomatrici, who, and where ſited, 408, a.
Megara taken by Æmilianus, 101, e.
Mela, Pompon. where born, 301, c. 313, f.
Mele taken by the Romans, 61, a.
Melanclenæ, a kind of canibals, 605, b.
Melanogætuli, who, and where, 163, d. Their tribes, cities, &c. ibid. & ſeq. Known to the Carthaginians, 164, f, (A). Way of fighting and travelling, 165, a.
Mellobaudes's ſucceſs againſt the Alemans, 594, d.
Memnius Cai. ſtirſ up the Romans againſt Jugurtha, 129, f, & ſeq.
Memnon's wars with the Egyptians, 210, & ſeq. The ſame with Menes, 211, b.
Memp'is. See Moph, 211, b.
Menapii ſubdued by Cæſar, 399, b. Who, ibid. (R).
Meneſſeus, the port of, 301, c.
Meninx iſland deſcribed, 176, f.
Mentz, the inventreſs of printing, [416], b. Put to fire and ſword by the Hunns, &c. 474, a. By the Vandals, 529, d. By the Alemans, 583, c. —Drufus's monument at, [416], b.
Menutia's iſland in Ethiopia, 190, b. Whether the preſent Madagaſcar, 191, b.
Mercury worſhipped by the Gauls, 347, b, c. 356, e, & ſeq. His names, 367, a, b, (T). Why reckoned an infernal deity, 358, a, (W). The god of riches, ibid. c. Suppoſed tomb in Spain, ibid. d. Why ſtyled Auguſtus, ibid. (Y). His heaps or mounts, what, 359, a, (Z). How worſhipped, ibid. a, b. Why repreſented of no ſex, ibid. (Z). Why in the guiſe of Hercules, 382, e, & ſeq. & (V).
Merida taken by the Viſigoths, 513, b. By the Suevi, 543, f.
Meroe, iſland in Ethiopia, 190, b. Its ſite, ibid. c, (N). Diſtance from Syene, ibid. & ſeq. Towns, rivers, &c. in ſin. (N). Priests in high power, 194, e. Obſerve the Mosaic law, 195, e, & ſeq.
—city, the reſidence of the Candaces, 191, a.
Meropius travels into India, 417, e.
Meronee outwitted by Ætius, 478, a. Careſſed by him at Rome, 561, a, b. Succeeds Clodio, 562, b. His noble ſervices to the Romans, ibid. c, d. Reign, character, and death, ibid. & ſeq. & (E).
Merovingian line, 562, f, & (E).
Meſembria taken by the Bulgarians, 628, b, c.
Meſeus ſent to aſſiſt the Tyrians in Spain, [325], d.
Metellus, Luc. ſent to judge Jugurtha, 130, f. His excellent character, ibid. & ſeq. Succeeds, 131, paſſ. Threatening meſſage to Bocchus, ibid. e, f, & ſeq.
Micipſa ſucceeds Mafniſſa, 127, a. Jealous of Jugurtha, 128, a, b. Adopts him, ibid. c, d. His death, e.
Michael forced to turn monk, 632, b. Lays claim to the crown, ibid. d. Dies, ibid. e.
Midianites, antient inhabitants of Petrea, 226, d. Where ſeated, 227, a.
Migdol, a city on the Nile, 182, (C).
Milan taken and plundered by the Hunns, 479, c. By Theodoric, 524, a. By the Lombards, 620, c. By Belifarius, 658, d. Beſieged by the Oſtrogoths, ibid. e. Taken, and put to the ſword, 660, b. Opens to Grimoald, 693, d.
Miltine, where ſituated, 113, (A).
Minorca iſland deſcribed, 308, b, c.
Minutius left to command againſt Hannibal, 25, c, d. Made general with Fabius, ibid. f, & ſeq. Deſeated and killed, 30, f.
Miſelto, of the oak, ſacred among the Gauls, 330, ſub not. Its virtues, &c. 332, a, b, (H). 416, e, (A).
Mitula defeats the Romans, 695, d. Made duke of Spoletum, 696, b.
Mnemium, promontory in Ethiopia, 190, a.
Mnevis, whether the ſame with Apis, 209, b, (B).
Moca, Mokca, a city in Petrea, 227, e. In Arabia Felix, 234, a. Yaman deſcribed, ibid. e.
Mæſia yielded to Theodoric III. 522, b.
Mohammed's tomb at Medina deſcribed, 237, e. His extract and birth, 285, d.
Moldavia part of antient Dacia, 611, a.
Molochath, where ſituate, 143, a.
Mona, Angleſey, by whom conquered, 411, f.
Mondars, their extract, kingdom, &c. 272, d, & ſeq.
Mondus, an iſland and port in Ethiopia, 190, a, b.
Monmouthſhire, formerly part of Wales, 410, e.
Montmorillon, the famed temple of, deſcribed, 352, (K).
Moon, how worſhipped by the Ethiopians, 197, a. By the Gauls, 352, (K). By the Saxons, 442, d.
Moors. See Mauritanians, 149, & ſeq.
Moph, Noph, Memphis, from whom ſo called, 216, b.
Moræw river in Germany, [415], e.
Moreſby, the antiquities of, 412, f.
Morini, who, 399, b, (R). 421, c. Subdued by Cæſar, 399, b. Attend him into Britain, 421, & ſeq.
Morocco, its extent, 139, e.

Mortagon

I N D E X.

- Mortagon* assists Michael against the rebels, 629, a, b.
- Moses's* pretended conquest of Ethiopia, 205, & seq.
- one of the four Bulgarian kings, dies, 633, c.
- Mosylon*, promontory in Ethiopia, 190, a. Its port, ibid. b.
- Moufe*, a, sold for 200 denarii, 38, b.
- Mozarabes*, who, 310, (A).—Officium Mozarabicum in Spain, what, ibid. c, & (B).
- Muab*, the royal residence of Yaman, 235, b.
- Mucuruna* turns nun, 584, c.
- Mugaris*, king of the Hunns, takes Bosporus, 483, c. Repulsed by John, ibid. d.
- Mulucha*, Mollochath river, a boundary of Numidia, 107, a, b.
- Mummulus's* success against the Lombards, 680, d. 681, a.
- Mundo* raises a revolt in Pannonia, 643, b. Submits to Theodoric, ibid. c, d.
- Mundus's* success against the Bulgarians, 624, b. Against the Ostrogoths, 652, a, b, (Q). Defeated and killed, 653, d.
- Mundzuchus*, king of the Hunns, 458, a.
- Murcia*, the goddess of cowards, 360, in fin. (C).
- Murodunum*, Caermarthin in Wales, 411.
- Musulanians*, where seated, 158, a. Serve under Tacfarinas, ibid. b. Defeated, 159, a.
- Muza*, an emporium in Arabia Felix, 234, a, & c.
- Muzalo*, made guardian to young Lascharis, 287, f. Assassinated, ibid. & seq.
- Myronis*, island in Ethiopia, 190, b.
- Mysecuros*, the port of, where, 146, d.
- N
- NA B, river in Germany, [415], a.
- Nababurum*, where situate, 115, c.
- Nabatheans*, inhabitants of Petrea, 225, a. 239, a. From whom so named, 226, c, d. Where seated, ibid. e. Way of living, 229, a.
- Nabdalsa* put to death, 131, d.
- Nabuchadnezzar* invades Spain, [324], b.
- Najd*, the province of, where situate, 239, a.
- Najran*, an ancient bishoprick in Arabia, 252, d, f.
- Naissus* taken by Attila, 465, f. Described, ibid. & seq. (C). Taken by the Ostrogoths, 520, b.
- Nannianus's* success against the Alemans, 594, d.
- Naples* taken by Belisarius, 652, b, (Q). Its dreadful slaughter, ibid. in fin. not. Besieged by Totila, 666, e. Taken and dismantled, 667, d—f.—The exarchate of, 683, c, d. Its extent, 687, a, (S). Extent of its dukedom, 721, a. Dukes, why called consuls, ibid. b, (B). Why called Sicily, 722, a.—Theodoric's ominous statue set up at, 641, c, (M).
- Naragara*, in Numidia, described, 110, e.
- Narbonne*, by whom built, 395, d. Taken by the Visigoths, 509, a. By Theodoric II. 513, f.
- Narce* taken by Hannibal, 81, b.
- Narisci*, who, and where, [407], d.
- Nars* worshipped by the Arabs, 248, & seq.
- Narses's* success in Italy, 618, b, c. Invites the Lombards thither, ibid. d, e. Three generals of that name, ibid. f. Joins Belisarius, 658, f. Falls out with him, 659, c, d. Takes Imola, ibid. e. Accused and recalled, 660, b, c. Sent back into Italy, 674, e, f. His huge mixed army, 675, c, d. Success against Totila, ibid. e, f, & seq. His conquests in Italy, 677, c, & seq.
- Nasamones*, who, and where, 171, b. Their customs, &c. ibid. e, & seq. Ravages, 172, a, b. Why so called, 180, (A).
- Nasberol'neam*, a magnificent king of Yaman, 268, c.
- Natapa*, the residence of queen Candace, 185, a, b. Razed by Petronius, ibid. c. 216, a.
- Naulobad*, taken prisoner, and promoted, 599, c.
- Naxica Insula*, where, 112, c, d.
- Naxalod* defeated and killed by the Saxons, 447, d, e. Uncertain who he was, ibid. & seq.
- Neapolitani*, unshaken adherence to the pope, 705, a. Whether still under the emperors, ibid. b, c.
- Nebo*, a city of Arabia Petrea, 226, b.
- Neckar*, a river in Germany, [415], a.
- Nectaridus*, count, slain in Britain, 415, c.
- Nectiberes*, where situate, 140, d.
- Negroes*, whether descended from Adam, 178, b. The extent of their country, 167, a—c. The rest see under Ethiopia.
- Nemetes*, who and where situate, [408], a.
- Nemrin*, a city in Petrea, 226, b, c.
- Nephthalite Hunns*, where situate, 456, c. Subdue the Persians, ibid. & seq. Their character, 457, a, b. Repulsed before Edessa, 460, a.
- Nepos, M. Manil.* sent against Carthage, 97. Besieges it by land, 100, b.
- Neptune*, whence so named, 118, (C), 378, (E). Worshipped in Mauritania, 150, d. The first king of it, 153, b, c.
- Neptys*, the meaning of that word, 150, d.
- Nero* commands in Spain, 58, d.—Buys a vast quantity of amber from the Æthi, [411], b, c.
- Nervii*, who, 367, (C). Tribes subject to them, ibid. Subdued by Cæsar, 399, d.
- Neri*, why said to turn into wolves, [427], (R).
- Newton*, Sir Isaac's chronology of Atlas, &c. 154, & seq. Of Ethiopia and Egypt, vindicated, 297, & seq.
- Nice*, the empire of, when and by whom founded, 286, b, c. Its monarchs, ibid. & seq. and 288, b—d.
- Nicephorus's* success against the Bulgarians, 627, c. Defeated and killed by them, ibid. e, f.
- Nicolas's* ingratitude to Basilius, 635, a, b.
- Nicomedia* taken by the Goths, 495, d.
- Nicon* goes over to Hannibal, 50, & seq. Defeats the Romans at sea, 59, pass. Brave death at Tarentum, 62, d.
- Nicopolis* taken by the Goths, 497, e. By the Bulgarians, 632, e. Submits to Delianus, 638, b. Plundered by the Ostrogoths, 674, f.
- Niger*, river, a branch of the Nile, 178, a. 188, pass. 164, b. Why called Niger, ibid. c. Its course, &c. ibid. d, e.
- Night-mare*, whence so called, 442, e.
- Nigris*, river, where, 160, a.
- Nigritæ*, who and where, 177, e, & seq. The same with the Melanogæti, 164, b. Their commerce, 165, a.
- Nigritia*, by whom peopled, 164, d, e. 166, b.
- Nile* described, 187, a—d. Causes of its overflow, ibid. e, & seq. How divided, 188, pass. Capable of being stopped by the Abassin princes, ibid. d, e, (H). Its names, 189, a. River's course and cataracts, ibid. b, (I). Course turned by Memnon, 210, e. Etymon of Nile, ibid. (C).
- Nismes, Nemausus*, capital of the Volcae, 11, (E).
- Nissava*, river, in Numidia, 115, f.
- Nivaria*, island, why so called, 148, b.
- Noah's* pretended coming into Spain, 520, a.
- Nobatæ*, who and where, 183, c. 217, a. Plunder the empire, ibid. Their religion, &c. ibid. b, (I).

N 22

I N D E X.

Nocca, Neptune, worshipped by the Saxons, 442. c.
Nola amutes Hannibal, till succoured by Marcellus, 35. c. & seq. Divided within, 47. c.
Nomades, Libyan. See Libyans, 119. & seq.
Nonnius, Phil. governor of Britain, 434. a.
Norba Pratoria, a city in Lusitania, 297. c.
Noricum, how divided, [408], b.
Northumberland, why so called, and Valentia, 413. d. Made a kingdom, 450. c. Its extent, 451. & seq.
Noti-cornu, promontory of Ethiopia, 190. a.
Noviodunum, Noyons, taken by Cæsar, 399. c.
Nubians, by whom converted, 217. d. Who, and where sited, 229. c. d. (H).
Nuceria taken and burnt by Hannibal, 36. a. b.
Numantia, its excellent situation, 307. (K). Sad catastrophe, ibid. &c.
Numerarii in Britain, their office, 417. a.
Numidia, its boundaries, 107. a. b. Its cities, 109. & seq. Mountains, promontories, &c. 111. & seq. Natural rarities, 112. d. e. 116. c. d. By whom first peopled, ibid. f. & seq. How far subject to the Carthaginians, 117. c. When first founded, 121. d. & seq. Destroyed by pestilence, 127. c. Made a Roman province, 137. c. Yielded to Genesius, 593. c.
Numidians serve under Hannibal in Italy, 17. d. Bravery against the Romans, 18. a—d. Stratagem against them, 30. b. c. Defeated by Scipio, 77. & seq. 83. b. Assist the Carthaginians, 117. pass. Their government, ibid. & seq. Religion, 118. b. When first called Numidians, ibid. e. Their language, writing, &c. 119. a. Customs, ibid. & seq. Ride without bridles, 120. a. Arts and sciences, ibid. & seq. Wars with the Carthaginians, 122. & seq. With the Romans, 130. & seq. Subdued, 137. b. c.
Micatanian, severely treated by the Carthaginians, 122. c. d.
Nomonumida, who, 133. (P).
Nyza, a city in Arabia Felix, 233. c. A royal residence, 234. a.

O

O A K S, among the Gauls, the symbol of the Deity, 328. b. c. 329. & seq. In veneration with the ancient patriarchs, 331. a. b. (G). One dedicated to all hundred deities, 350. b. (E). Sacred among the Germans, [416]. And in Britain, 406.
Obal, the son of Joktan, gives names to places in Ethiopia, 193. a. b.
Oda, the Saxon, comes into Britain, 443. c. Settles in Northumberland, 444. a.
Oskar, king of the Hunns, wars with the Burgundi, 458. b.
Ottavius seizes on the Carthaginian transports, 73. b.
Odin worshipped by the Germans, [419]. c. Their notion of him, ibid. & seq. & (D). (E). (F). Made a northern hero, 420. a. b.—king of the Algardians, 489. b.
Odoacer yields his conquests to the Goths, 516. b—d. Makes himself king of Italy, 523. b. Put to flight by Theodoric, ibid. e. f. Recovers part of it, 524. b. c. Defeated afresh, ibid. d. Belieged in Ravenna, ibid. & seq. Surrenders, and put to death, 525. b. c. —a Saxon, defeated by Childeric, 564. c.
Odotheus, king of the Greuthongi, invades the empire, 504. b. Defeated and slain by Theodosius, ibid. c. d.
Ognius, one of the names of Mercury, 357. (T). Lucan's merry description of him explained, ibid.
Obud, mount, where sited, 237. d.

Oleastrum, the promontory of, whence so called, 145. b.
Olica, kingdom, watered by the Nile, 189. in fin. (I).
Olevico, an ally of the Romans, 369. b.
Olicana, where, and by whom rebuilt, 412. a.
Olisippo, Li. bon, metropolis of Lusitania, 296. d. —the port of, 298. f.
Olympius, the exarch, succeeds against the Saracens, 691. d. Death, ibid. e.
Oman, the province of, where, 233. a. b. —the city of, abandoned, 235. c. d.
Omanita, who, and where sited, 233. a.
Ombros, island, why uninhabited, 148. a.
Ophiusa, island, described, 308. c.
Ophiophagi, their site, food, &c. 184. d.
Opiternum taken by Rotharis, 691. a.
Opone, a port in Ethiopia, 190. a.
Orbitum taken by the Lombards, 686. d.
Orcaades islands discovered, 414. a. Plundered by the Saxons, 443. c.
Ordeals used among the Gauls, 334. a.
Ordovices, who, and where sited, 410. c. & seq. Their noble character, 411. c.
Orespodan hills, where, 307. (K).
Orestes sent by Attila to Constantinople, 469. f. His marriage and issue, ibid. (D). Character and death, ibid. When he left Attila's service, 472. a.
Orgetorix raises a new war in Helvetia, 397. d. Defeated by Cæsar, ibid. e. f.
Oringis taken by the Romans, 69. a.
Orleans taken by Attila, 474. b—c. Saved by Ætius, 475. a—c. Taken by Childeric, 564. b.
Orocles's misdemeanour and odd punishment, 611. c.
Oroscopa besieged by Masniſſa, 96. c.
Orus, Sicorus, a fabulous king of Spain, 320. d.
Ojasiphus, Uorthon, rebels against the Ethiopians, 210. c.
Osiris overcomes Geryon, 319. d. & seq.
Ostorius Scapula's forts in Britain, 410. c. The ruins of, extant, ibid. His success against them, 430. a. Death, ibid. d.
Ostriches, how caught by the Ethiopians, 200. f.
Ostrogotha, a Bathian prince, 492. d. Defeats the Gepida, 494. a. b.
Ostrogoths driven out by the Hunns, 459. b. Pass the Danube, ibid. c. Settle in Pannonia, 482. a. 518. d. Whence so called, 487. c. Where seated, 492. d. Subject to the Hunns, ibid. f. & seq. Invade the empire, 504. a. Defeated by Theodosius, ibid. b. &c. Their kings, history, &c. 518. & seq. Ravage Illyricum, 519. b. c. Settle in Thrace, 523. d. Where settled by Clodius, 572. c. f. Seize upon Arles, 577. c. And Pannonia, ibid. d. Their government in Italy, 640. c. & seq. War against the Romans, 652. & seq. Invaded and plundered by the Franks, 661. b. Outwitted by Belisarius, 663. b—f. Choose a new king, 664. b. c. War against Narſes, 674. & seq. Cruelty to the Romans, 677. d. e. Defeated by them, 678. b. c. Submit to them, ibid. d. e. Suffered to enjoy their liberty, 679. d. e.
Ottacilius's success against the Carthaginians, 46. a. Plunders in Africa, 56. a. b.
Otranto relieved by Belisarius, 668. b. c. Taken by John, 671. b. c.
Otta, third king of Kent, 449. c.
Ottadini, who, and where seated, 413. d.
Ox, an, said to have spoken at Rome, 10. c.
Oxyntas set up to succeed Fugurtha, 135. b.

P

P ACATIANUS, the first vicar in Britain, 419. a.
 9 E Paſſius

I N D E X.

- Patius* and Vitius treat with the Romans, 62, b.
Palatuus, an antient king of Spain, [321], f.
Palentia, by whom built, [321], f. Destroyed by the Goths, 513, d.
Palermo taken by Belisarius, 652, b.
Paleologus's treachery to J. Lascaris, 288, e, f. & seq.
Paliuri lake, where, 170, c.
Palma, a city in Majorca, 308, c.
Pampelona taken by the Visigoths, 514, d.
Pamphagi, their site, food, &c. 184, d.
Pan, worshipped in Ethiopia, 197, a.
Pancratius, a lying mathematician, slain, 627, b.
Pannonia erected into a county, 644, b, c.
Paratonium described, 167, d.
Paran, a city of Arabia Petrea, 226, b.—Defert, 227, d.
Parasite, its antient meaning, 365, b, (L).
Paris taken by Childeric, 514, b. Made the metropolis of the Franks, 577, f. And of the whole monarchy, 578, a.
Partharit, king of the Lombards, 692, f. Undermined by his brother, ibid. & seq. His flight to Chagan, 693, d. Driven thence, ibid. f.
 Narrow escape from Grimoald, 694, a, b. Recovers his crown, 697, c, d. Dies, ibid. f.
Pascasius, bishop, three years slavery under the Vandals, 534, c.
Pascentius defeated by Ambrosius, 446, c.
Patros, the land of, where, 181, d.
Patrician, in Italy, his office, 721, c.
Patrimonies of the church, an account of, 699, (W).
 That of Constantine exploded, 706, sub not.
 Confiscated by Ieo, 707, e.
Pavia, taken and burnt by Attila, 479, c. Taken by Theodoric, 524, a. By Alboinus, 620, d.
 Made the metropolis of Lombardy, ibid. e.
Paul, count, killed by Childeric, 564, a.—His brave defence of Rome, 673, a. Kind treatment from Totila, ibid. b.—Made exarch of Ravenna, 704, a. Opposes the worship of images, ibid. & seq.
Paulus Æmilius. See Æmilius, 28, & seq.—
Diaconus, his writings and character, 709, (Z).
Pax, Julia, a city in Lusitania, 298, c, d.
Pays father's account of the Nile's course, 189, d, e, (F).
Pedretus, river, in Damnonia, 407, d.
Peninus, Jupiter, why so called, 353, d, (M).
Pentapolis, Cyrenaica, why so called, 169, e.—In Italy, submits to Luitprand, 704, f. Given to the pope, 712, f, & seq.
Penula, M. Centen's rashness and defeat, 55, c.
Pepin assists the pope against the Lombards, 711, e, & seq. Success against Astulph, 712, e, f, &
 seq. Answer to Copronymus's ambassadors, 713, e, f. Donations to the pope, 714, a, b. Confirmed and enlarged by Charlemagne, 718, f.
Peredeus's brave defence of Ravenna, 703, c—e.
 Death, ibid.
Perennis complained against, 432, c. His fatal end, ibid. d.
Persians help to form the Numidians, 117, e. Why called Numida, 118, a.
Persic alphabet, 256, & seq.
Persus's success against the Carthaginians, 59, e.
Pertinax quells the mutineers in Britain, 432, d, e.
Perugia besieged by Totila, 671, c. Taken, 672,
 b.
Peter succeeds his father Simeon, 632, b. Peace and alliance with Romanus, ibid. c, d.—Sent duke of Naples, 705, b, c.
Petilia's noble defence against Hannibal, 38, c. 40.
 f. Surrendered, 41, a. Disarmed by him, 77, a.
Petilian women, signal bravery, 40, f.
Petilius Cerealis's success in Britain, 430, f, &
 seq.
Petra, metropol. of Arabia Petrea, 225, a. Why so called, ibid. b. Its site and description, ibid.
 b, c, (D).
Phameas deserts the Carthaginians, 101, a.
Phara, where sited, 223, e. 226, b. One of the boundaries of Arabia, 223, c.—The promontory of, 227, c.
Pharamond, the time of his defeat and death, 550,
 c. Of his reign, 558, f, & seq. Where buried, 559, c, d. Whether he compiled the Salic Laws, ibid. e.
Pharusii, from whom descended, 149, b, c, (K).
 A tribe of Gætulians, 161, b. Of Persic extract,
ibid. d.
Phenicians plunder Spain, [323].
Pheretima's reception at Salamis, 172, f. Gets the government of Cyrenaica, 173, a. Her revenge on the Barca, ibid. b, c.
Phial, the holy, at Rheims, the fable of, 570, c.
Phileas's treachery and punishment, 50, e.
Philip's embassy to Carthage, 42, b. And treaty, ibid. c. His ambassadors sent prisoners to Rome, 43, & seq. His second treaty, 44, d, e. Separate peace with Rome, 64, f. Assists the Car- thaginians, 82, b, c.
Philippopolis, plundered and taken by the Hunns,
 468, f. By the Goths, 494, c.
Philomenes betrays Tarentum to Hannibal, 50, f,
 & seq.—His treachery and dismal end, 62, d.
Phocra, mount, where sited, 145, (D).
Phæbi Promontorium, where, 145, b.
Phormio, the philosopher, reproved by Hannibal,
 87, a.
Phruræsus, mount, where, 115, e. By whom inhabited, 161, b.
Phrygia, ravaged by the Goths, 495, d. 506, e.
Phut, where first settled, 116, f, & seq. 149, pass.
 —River, 171, a.
Phutæi, their excellent use of the shield, 151, d.
Phylarchs, among the Gætulians, their office, 162,
 b, (C).
Picenum laid waste by the Romans, 658, b.
Picts, who, and where sited, 403, c. Whether the same with the Britons, ibid. d, & seq. Different from the Scots, 414, b, c. When first distinguished in history, 435, b, (Q). Submit to Julian, ibid. c. Invade the Romans, ibid. d.
 Subdued by Theodofu, ibid. e. By Constantine, 436. Repulsed by Honorius, 437, c—e. Fresh invasion, 438, & seq. And repulse, 439, d.
Pipa, whether married to Gallienus, 552, b.
Pisidia, ravaged by Tribigil, 506, e.
Pithom, a city in Arabia Petrea, 226, b, c.
Pityusa, isles, described, 308, e.
Placidia married to Ataulph, 509, a. Sent back by Wallia, ibid. e.
Planets, worshipped by the Arabs, 246, b. Their seven temples to them, ibid. c. Names and worship, ibid. & seq.
Plantius's success against the Britons, 428, c, & seq. Joined by Claudius, 429, a—c. Made governor, ibid. d. Further conquests, ibid. &
 seq.
Plintba's shameful peace with the Hunns, 464, c.
Pliny's partial account of the Gauls, 362, d, & seq.
 & notes.
Pluto of the Gauls, who, 357, b, & seq.
Poets, in high esteem among the Arabs, 258, a, b.
Pole, over Apollo, what, 356, a, (S).
Polignac, the antient temple of, 356, b, c.
Pollentia, a city in Majorca, 308, c.
Poltron, whence that word, 360, in fin. (C).
Pomerania

I N D E X.

Pomerania invaded by the Goths, 487, c. & seq.
Pomponius, Veientan. defeated by Hanno, 50, d, e.
 — the Gaulish bard, his danger and vow, 365, (K).
Popes hat ch the destruction of the Lombardic kingdom, 702, b. The beginning of their sovereignty, 705, d, & seq. & (Y). How confirmed, 710, b. Put in possession of Ravenna, &c. 714, c. Whether invested with the sovereignty of them, ibid. & seq.
Popilius made to pass under the yoke, 396, a.
Porta's arrival at Portsmouth, 447, c, d.
Porta, Caucasica and Caspia, where, 456, a.
Portreue, Cinqueport, whence so called, 408, f.
Portugal, whence so called, 304, in fin. (B).
Portus Magnus, Portsmouth, 407, f.
Post, and Ante-verta Diana, why so called, 358, a.
Posthumius's success against the Franks, 552, f.
Præpositi of Britain, their office, 417, d.
Præsum, promontory in Ethiopia, 190, a.
Præfects, Roman, their office and station in Britain, 418, pass.
Premis taken by Petronius, 185, b, c.
Priam, whether the first king of the Franks, 550, b—c.
Principius killed at Rome, 657, d.
Prion river, where, 235, f.
 — city, where sited, ibid. f, & seq.
Prionotus, mount, in Yaman, 235, c.
Priscillianists first appear in Spain, 334, b.
Priscus, Julian's conjurer, put to death by the Goths, 505, c.
Probus's success against the Goths, 498, c, d. Against the Vandals, 528, d—f. Franks, 553, c, d.
Quadi, 603, b, c. Permits vines to be planted in Gaul and Germany, [413], d.
Procopius's history defective, 572, & seq.
Proculus, bishop's, sermon against the Hunns, 462, c.
Proconsularis yielded to Genferic, 533, c.
Promontorium Magnum, where, 115.
Proterus, the philosopher, put to death by the Goths, 505, c.
Prusias, king, betrays Hannibal to the Romans, 91, c.
Pseboas, lake, in Ethiopia, 190, a. Island, ibid. (M).
Psecha taken by Petronius, 185, b, c.
Psylli, who, and where sited, 171, b—d. Tragical end, ibid. e.
Ptolemais, Barce, a city in Cyrenaica, 169, c.
Ptolemy, the son of Juba, his pedigree, 157, (S).
Publius's ill success in Spain, 48, d, e.
Pudni, a city in Arabia Felix, 234, a.
Punic war, second, the causes of, 1, & seq. 6, c, f. end of, 84, pass.
Purple fish plentiful in Getulia, 161, a.
Purpuraria insula, where, 147, a. Whether the modern Madeiras, ibid. (G).
Pygmies, where seated, 183, c, d.
Pyrenean mountains, whence so called, 307, (K). Set on fire, [323], d, e.
Pythagoras's journey into Gaul, 357, (V). 361, (E).

Q

QUADI, who, and where sited, 408, d. 602, d. Their cities, ibid. War with Rome, ibid. c. Submit to Antoninus, ibid. Peace with Rome made and broken, ibid. f, & seq. New one with Commodus, 603, a, b. Ravage Illyricum, ibid. b, c. Defeated by Carus, ibid. d. Fresh ravages, ibid. d, e. Peace with Constantius, ibid. e. New ravages and conquests, ibid. & seq. In Gaul, 604, b, c. Their end, ibid. d.
Quadrigati, a coin, why so called, 36, (O).

Quintianus, bishop, driven out by the Arians, 575, c.
Quintilian the orator, where born, 313, f.
Quintillus's success against the Goths, 497, e.
Quintinus's unhappy expedition against the Franks, 557, d, e.
Quintius, D. slain by the Carthaginians, 59, c.
Quisa, where sited, 114, c.

R

RACHIS chosen king of the Lombards, 709, a. His new edict, ibid. b. Conquests, ibid. c. Turns monk, ibid. d, e. His statue at Barletta, ibid. (A). Dissuaded by the pope from refusing the crown, 715, d.
Radagaisus repulsed by Stilicho, 461, c, d.
Radwa mount, where, 238, b.
Ratia, how divided, [409], c.
Ratii, who, and where sited, ibid. c, d.
Ragaisus, when he reigned over the Franks, 551, a.
Ragilo slain by the Franks, 681, a.
Ragnacharius, king of the Franks, 566, c. Assists Clovis against the Romans, ibid. & seq. Betrayed and murdered by him, 579, f, & seq.
Raptum, a promontory of Ethiopia, 190, a.
Raspa ravages Asia, 495, b.
Ratibon, by whom built, [416], a.
Ravenna besieged by Belisarius, 662, d, e. Taken, 663, d. Erected into an exarchate, 679, c. Plundered by Luitprand, 702, & seq. Reduced into a dukedom, 703, b. Retaken by Scholasticus, ibid. d, e. The end of its exarchate, 710, d. Duration, 711, a. Given to the pope, 714, b, c.
 — bishops of, claimed the precedence of all bishops, 710, c, & seq.
Rauraci, who, and where seated, 408, a.
Rausmodes, king, defeated and killed, 608, d.
Reccard, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Reccesuindus, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Rechiarius crowned at Merida, 544, a. His plunderers, ibid. b. Peace with Rome, ibid. c. Invades it, ibid. d. Turns christian, 546, e. Invades Carthagera, 512. Haughty answer to Theodoric, ibid. e. Defeated and put to death by him, 545, a.
Rechila made king of the Suevi, 543, c. His conquests, ibid. & seq. Death, 544, a.
Rechimir, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Restores, in Italy, their office, 721, c.
Regem, river in Bohemia, [415], a.
Regillianus's success against the Sarmatians, 607, d. Murdered, ibid. e.
Regnares killed for his treachery to Narjes, 679, b, c.
Regni, in Britain, where sited, 408, a, b.
Regnomer murdered by Clovis, 580, c.
Regnum, now Ringwood, 408, b.
Reguli in Gaul, their power, 368, a, b, (D).
Reidogothland. See Futland, 489, e.
Rekem, the same with Petra, and Focktheel, 225, a.
Remigius, bishop, converts the Franks, 569, d, e. His character, ibid. f.
Remismond ravages Lusitania, 513, c. 514, c. And Galicie, 545, f. Succeeds Maldra, 546, a. Peace with Theodoric, ibid. c, d. Broken, 547, a. Ravages Lusitania, ibid. c. Peace with Euric, ibid. d. Death, ibid. e.
Requarius. See Rechiarius, 544, & seq.
Retiarium taken by Attila, 465, f. Described, ibid. (C).
Renda heads the Scots into Britain, 404, b.
Rex, whence that word, 368, (D).
Rhegium's noble defence against Hannibal, 41, b.
Rhemi subdued by Cæsar, 400, c.

Rhine,

I N D E X.

- Rhine*, river, used for trying the fidelity of wives, 334, a, (I). Its head and course, [414], d, c.
- Rhing*, the royal palace of the Hunns, plundered, 485, c.
- Rhisophagi*, where seated, 183, c. 184, c. Infested with lions, 200, d, c.
- Rhodians* settle in Spain, [323], c.
- Ricared*, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
- Richarius* murdered by Clovis, 579, f, & seq.
- Ricimer*, king of the Franks, 551, b. Success against Genferic, 535.
- Riisland* conquered by the Goths, 489, d.
- Rimini*, Ariminum, where situate, 17, a. Taken by the Lombards, 622, b. By the Romans, 658, b. Besieged by the Ostrogoths, ibid. d. Relieved, 659, b.
- Riotham*, king of Bretagne, defeated by Euric, 454, d. 515, b.
- Ripuarian Franks*, who, and where seated, 568, d. Proclaim Clovis their king, 578, d, & seq. Their territories, 579, a. Character, laws, &c. ibid. b, c.
- Roas*, Rongas, king of the Hunns, defeated and killed, 462, d, (B). Succeeded by Attila and Bleda, 464, b.
- Roderic*, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
- Rodoald* defeats the Sclavonians, 692, c. Made duke of Benevento, ibid. His death, ibid. d.
- king of the Lombards, murdered, 692, c.
- Rodolinda* and her son seized on by Grimoald, 693, d.
- Rodolphus* defeated by the Lombards, 599, f. 617, a.
- Rollin's* partiality confuted, 99, a—c.
- Romagna* submits to Luitprand, 704, f. Given to the pope, 714, b.
- Romans*, embassy to Hannibal, 3, & seq. To Carthage, 6, c. Declare war against it, ibid. d, c. Frighted by omens, 10, c, d. 17, d, c. Defeated, ibid. & seq. Their camp burnt, 18, d. New defeat, 21, & seq. At Canna, 30, & seq. By Mago, 55, pass. Defeat the Carthaginians, 60, & seq. 82, & seq. Peace with them, 83, & seq. Betray them to Masiniissa, 85, b. Jealous of Hannibal, ibid. e, f. Embassy against him, 86, c, d. Treachery to the Carthaginians, 93—95, pass. Send Cato to them, ibid. f, & seq. Villainous behaviour towards them, 96, c. New war against them, 97, b, c. Perfidy to them exposed, 99, & seq. Their government in Britain, 416, & seq. Officers, 417, pass. Stations, 418, a—d. Forces, ibid. e, f. Give names to the principal towns in Britain, 419, c, d. Their highways there, ibid. & seq. Exhaust it of its men, 420, b, c. Forsake the island, 437, c. Driven out of part of Gaul, 509, & seq. 514, b. Out of Spain, ibid. & seq. Defeated in Africa, 533, c, d. In dread of the Vandals, 534, a, b. Driven out of Gaul, 570. Invasion of Gaul, Germany, &c. See under those respective articles.
- Romanus* sent prisoner to Constantinople, 632, f. 633, c. Why unfit for the crown, ibid. &c.
- exarch of Rome, defeated by Agilulf, 685, a.
- Rome* taken by Belisarius, 655, a, b. Besieged by Vitiges, 656, c, & seq. Under the plague and famine, 657, c. Relieved, 658, a, b. Besieged by Totila, 668, c, f. Its dreadful condition, 669, pass. Surrendered and plundered, ibid. & seq. Retaken and rebuilt by Belisarius, 670, c, f. Betrayed to Totila, 672, f. And repaired, 673, c. Retaken by Narjes, 677, d. Divested of its privileges, 679, c. Reduced into an exarchate, 683, c. Its extent, ibid. &c. Ravaged by the Lombards, 685, b, c. Revolts from the emperor, 705, d, (Y). Besieged by Luitprand, 707, b. The rest see under Popes.
- Romuald* receives the Bulgarians into Benevento, 624, c, f. Defends it against Constans, 695, b, c. Defeats him, ibid. e, f. Dies, 700, c.
- II. conquests on Naples, 701, a. Death, ibid. b.
- Romulea*, Colonia, in Spain, where, 301, a.
- Romulus* sent ambassador to Attila, 472, a.
- Romus*, an ancient king of Spain, [321], d.
- Rosamond* causes Alboinus to be murdered, 620, c, f, & seq. Her flight and punishment, 621, e, f, & seq.
- Roses*, Cyrenean, their excellence, 171, a.
- Rosicrucian* notions, their origin, [418], (C).
- Rotharic* put to death by Aripert, 699, b.
- Rotharis* chosen king of the Lombards, 689, f. Gives the first laws to them, 690, a—c, (U). His conquests, 691, a, b. Death and character, ibid. c.——a traitor against Luitprand, murdered, 701, d, e.
- Rowena*, Hengist's daughter, whether married to Vortigern, 443, c, d.
- Rexolana*. See Riisland, 489, d.
- Roxolani*, who, 604, e, & seq. Success in Mæsia, 605, c. Cut off by M. Aponius, ibid. d. Become pensioners to Rome, 606, b.
- Rubicatus*, river in Numidia, 112, a. In Tarracón, 304, a.
- Rufinus* stirs up the Hunns, 460, pass. And the Visigoths, 504, e, f. Undermines Stilicho, 505, pass.
- Rugians*, who, 664, e, f. Settled in Illyricum, 482, a. Submit to Attila, 466.
- Runic* character, what, and whence so called, [428], a, (T). Brought by Woden from Asia, 489, f. Why condemned, 490, a.
- Rusadir*, Ryzadir, where sited, 142, c.
- Rusatus*, where situate, 113, c.
- Rusciana* taken by Totila, 671, d, e.
- Rusconium*, where situate, 113, d.
- Russi*, Roffi, seize on Bulgaria, 632, f. Driven out of it, 633, a, b.
- Rusticana* saved by Totila, 669, f.
- Ruscurium*, where situate, 113, c.
- Rutubis*, the port of, where situate, 142, c. 146, d.
- Rutupia*, portus Rutupensis, where situate, 408, d, c.

S

- SABA, the district, towns, &c. of, 231, a. 235, c.——The metropolis of the Sabei, 230, e, f.——The famed reservoir of, 272, a. Broken, and drowns the country, ibid. b, c.
- Sabacón*, So, his reign and retirement, 211, d, e.
- Sabei*, who, and where sited, 230, e, f. How governed, 245, b—d. Their religion, 246, a—c. Tenets, 247, a, b, (Q).
- Sabatha*, Sabota, metropolis of the Adramitæ, 231, c.
- Sabiniana ala*, whence so named, 414, f.
- Sabinianus* defeats the Ostrogoths, 521, f, & seq.
- Sabit*, a ruined port in Ethiopia, 190, b.
- Sabius* stirs up the Capuans against the Romans, 33, c.
- Saburrus's* valour and defeat, 695, e, f.
- Sacrum Promontorium*, in Lusitania, 298, c.
- Sagatola*, mount, in Gatulia, 160, c.
- Sagunti*, the port of, where, 146, c.
- Saguntines*, their origin, 2, d. Noble defence, 3, a, b. Massacre, 5, & seq.
- Saguntum*, where sited, 2, d. Siege and catastrophe of, 5, & seq.
- Sahara*, river in Gatulia, 160, c.
- Sala*, where sited, 142, c.——River, 145, a.
- Salabus*, defeated by Geta, 159, b. Peace with him, ibid. c.
- Salacia*, a city in Lusitania, 298, b.
- Salah*, a prophet of the Arabs, who, 242, e, f. His miracles and death, 243, a, b.
- Salapia*,

I N D E X.

- Salapia*, taken by the Romans, 59, b.
Salathus, river, in Gatulia, 160, c.
Salca, Bæbius, basely bribed by Jugurtha, 130, b.
Saldæ, where situate, 113, b.
Salera taken by Scipio, 76, d.
Salli, who, and whence, 548, a. Why so called, 549, d, e. Submit to Julian, 556, e.
Salmantica, Salamanca, a city in Lusitania, 297, e, f, & seq.
Saljum Flumen, in Numidia, 116, b.
Salt, houses built with, in Libya, 177, e.
Salustius, legate of Britain, put to death, 431, c.
Samercand, by whom built, 268, d.
Samnium plundered by Hannibal, 23, d. Taken by the Lombards, 683, e.
Samuel, chosen king of the Bulgarians, 633, c. His horrid ravages, ibid. d. Defeated by Basilus, ibid. e, f. Fresh conquests, 634, b, c. Defeated by Uranus, ibid. d, e. By Basilus, 635, c, d. Breaks his heart, ibid. e.
Sanaa, metropolis of Yaman, 230, f. Described, 235, a, b. — The palace of, ibid. c.
Sangiban, king, who, 476, c, (K).
Saphar, the frankincense of, 231, e.
Sapphoritæ, who, and where sited, 232, d.
Sapur's cruelty to the Arabs, 273, b.
Saracenic alphabet, 257.
Saraceni, who, and where sited, 227, b. 233, b, c. Why so called, 240, c, d, (N). 241, b — d. Pensionary to the empire, 283, f, & seq.
Saragossa taken by the Visigoths, 514, d.
Sardi send an embassy to Carthage, 42, a. Defeated by the Romans, 45, d, e.
Sardica, taken by the Bulgarians, 627, c.
Sardinia yielded to the Romans, 1, & seq. Taken by the Vandals, 536, d. Recovered by Marcellinus, 538, b, c. Retaken by Genferic, 539, c.
Sarmatia, its extent, 604, e. Nations, ibid. e, f.
Sarmatian giant killed by Constantine, 608, c. — Games, whence, 608, d.
Sarmatians settled in Illyricum, 482, a. Their names, character, &c. 605, a, b. First irruptions, ibid. b, c. Submit to Adrian, 606, a, b. Peace with M. Aurelius, ibid. c, d. Where settled, ibid. e. Defeated by Caracalla, ibid. & seq. By Maximinus, 607, c, d. Peace with Probus, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Carus, ibid. & seq. By Constantine, 608, c, d. Defeat the Goths, ibid. e, f. Submit to Constantine, ibid. & seq. Beaten by the Goths, 609, a. Repulsed and dispersed by their slaves, ibid. b, c. Made free by Constantius, ibid. & seq. Restored to their country, 610, a, b. Fresh inroads and defeats, ibid. b, c. Subdued by the Hunns and Gots, ibid. d.
Sasus, the golden mines of, 215, (H).
Sathages submit to Attila, 466, c.
Saturni Promontorium, in Ethiopia, 190, a.
Savernæ rebuilt and fortified, 591, b.
Saxus, river, in Numidia, 116, a.
Saxa, worshipped by the Arabs, 248, c.
Saxon shore, whence so called, 408, e, f.
Saxon, first south kingdom, 445, & seq. Second, 447, & seq. Third, west, 449, d, & seq. Fourth, east, 450, d. Fifth, ibid. e. Sixth, East Angles, 452, d. Seventh, Mercia, 453, b.
Saxons invade the Romans, 435, c. Quelled by Stilicho, 436, c, d. Sail into Britain, 440, a, b, (I). Their origin, and settlements, ibid. & seq. Why called Saxons, 441, f, & seq. Their manners, &c. 442, b. Government, religion, &c. ibid. c, d. Success in Britain, 443, b, & seq. Driven out by Vortimer, 444, e, f. Treachery to the Britons, 445, c, d. Victories over them, Vol. VII. No. 10.
446, & seq. Leave Italy, and cut off by the Suevi, 680, e, f.
Scalabis, a city in Lusitania, 297, b.
Scandinavia, the antient seat of the Goths, 486, b. Described, ibid. & seq. Whence so called, ibid. c. By whom peopled, ibid. e.
Scaldi, Scaldri, Gothic bards, why so called, 489, f.
Scaurus's success and roads in Gaul, 396, a.
Scholasticus driven out of Ravenna, 702, & seq. Recovers it, 703, e. Attempt against the pope frustrated, 704, a, b.
Silly islands, their tin trade, 402, c. Discovered by the Greeks, 405, pass.
Scipio opposes Hannibal in Gaul, 13, a, b. Swift march after him, 16, & seq. Defeated by him, 17, & seq. — Cneius defeats the Carthaginians in Spain, 20, c, d. Afresh, 26, c, d. 48, e, f. Wounded, 49, a. Defeated and slain, 56, d. P. Corn. chosen proconsul in Spain, 58, e. Speech to his army, 59, f. Takes new Carthage, 60, b, c. The vast spoil of it, ibid. d. Politeness to some female prisoners, ibid. f, & seq. Beloved by the Spaniards, 62, e, f. Defeats Asdrubal, 63, b, c. Retires to Tarraco, ibid. e, f. Success against Hanno, 68, e, f. Reported to be dead, 71, b. Treaty with Masniſſa, 72, c, d. Descent into Afric, 74, f, & seq. Success there, 75, pass. Siege of Utica, 76, d. Raised, ibid. e. Defeats the Carthaginians, 77, & seq. Terms of peace to them, 79, d — f. Moderation towards them, 81, a. Interview with Hannibal, ibid. & seq. Defeats him, 82, e, f. Hard terms of peace, 83, c — e. Severity to the fugitives, 84, c, d. Goes to sound Hannibal in Syria, 88, a. Opposes Cato's war, 106, e. — Æmilianus's success before Carthage, 101, e, f, & seq. Takes the terrace, 103, b. And Byrsa, ibid. d, e. Destroys the city, ibid. & seq. His immense booty, 104, c. And library, ibid. (S). Divides Masniſſa's kingdom, 127, a. — Lucius's success against Oringis, 69, b.
Scavi invade the empire, 674, e.
Scordisci forbid the use of gold and silver, 384, a, b, (X).
Scots receive and assist the Picts, 403, c. Their origin, 404, b. Different from the Caledonians, 414, c. When first distinguished in history, 435, b, (Q). Submit to Julian, ibid. Invade the Romans, ibid. c. Repulsed by Constantine, 436, e. By Honorius, 437, c — e. Fresh invasions, 438, & seq. Retire into Ireland, 439, d. Repulsed by the Saxons, 443, b.
Scour, river, the battle at, 424, (D).
Scythia submits to Attila, 466, c.
Scythians of Bede, who, 403. — Hunns, their bloody character and customs, 457, b, c. Government, &c. ibid. e, f. The rest see under Hunns.
Seba, by whom founded, 230, a.
Secut, the head of the Nile, 187, a.
Sedusii, who, and where sited, [407], d.
Segobria, capital of the Celtiberi, 307, (K).
Seguntines submit to Cæsar, 426, b. Where sited, ibid. (F).
Seif ebn D'hu drives the Ethiopians out of Yaman, 271, e. The last of Hamyar's race, ibid.
Selgovæ, who, and where sited, 413, f.
Semno taken prisoner, 528, e.
Semnones, Sennones, who, and why so called, [410], a, (G). Ally with the Ædui, 367, (C). Invade the Clusians, 370, a, b. Brave answer to the Romans, ibid. &c.
Sempronius recalled against Hannibal, 17, a, b. Fatal rashness, 18, e, f. Defeat, 19, b, c. Watches him at Luceria, 47, a. Surprised and slain, 54, e, f.
9 F Seneca,

INDEX.

- Seneca*, where born, 313, f.
Sennani, druids, why so called, 360, (D).
Sennar watered by the Nile, 187, b. Whether different from Nubia, ibid. (E).
Septa. See Ceusa, 139, c.
Sequani, who, 367, c. Subject to the Arverni, ibid.
Serbetis, Xfer, river, in Numidia, 116, a.
Servia taken by Basilus, 635, a.
Servilius's success against the Carthaginians, 27, b, c. Defeated and killed, 30, f.
Sesac's conquest of Ethiopia, 207, pass. Civilizes it, 208, & seq.
Sesostri's vast conquests, 194, a. Whether the same with Sesac, 207, d, e, 208, e, & seq.
Sesiarium, the promontory of, 145, b.
Seth worshipped by the Sabians, 248, in fin. not.
Seihon, who, and his wars, 211, e, & seq.
Severus repulsed before Atra, 283, d, e. His wall in Britain, when built, 415, b, c. Severe expedition against the Caledonians, 433, pass. Death, ibid. e.
—— Valentinian's general, sent into Brinain, 435, d.
—— the senator, sent to treat with Genferic, 539, e. His amiable character, ibid. Obtains the release of the Roman prisoners, ibid. & seq.
Sevilla taken by the Vandals, 531, d. By Rachila, 543, f.
—— the church of, given to the Arians, 531, e.
Shaddad, prince of the ancient Arabs, 241, c, & seq. 267, c.
Shamar, Yaraqash, twenty-fourth king of Yaman, 268, d.
Shanater, Dhm, deposed for his incontinence, 269, d.
Shiba, the queen of, a doubtful tradition of her, 195, b—d. Her country and religion, ibid. & seq. The Abassines account of her, 206, & seq.
Shekhs, Arab, their office and power, 244, d, & seq.
Shewa, the mountains of, 185, d.
Shihr, its frankincense famed, 234, d.
Shoail, the same with Jethro, 238, c.
Sicambri, who, 541, a. Ravaged by Caesar, [438], d, (M). Submit to Tiberius, 541, a, b. Why so soon extinct, ibid. b, c. Some notions concerning them exploded, 548, a, b.
Sicanus, a fabulous king of Spain, 320, d.
Sicca Venera, where sited, 110, e.
Sicleus, a fabulous king of Spain, [321], a.
Sicily subdued by Genferic, 539, d. Yielded to Odoacer, ibid. Subdued by Totila, 674, c, d. Recovered by the Romans, 675, b.
—— the thema of, 721, c, & seq.
Sicoris, river, in Spain, 320, d.
Siconulphus made duke of Salerno, 724, f, & seq.
Sido, king of the Suevi, assists Vespasian, 541, f.
Sidonius, a zealous orthodox bishop, 515, e, f, & seq. His character of king Euric, 516, e, f. Retreat from Lions, 583, f.
Siga, where situate, 114, f.
Sigebert invaded by the Alemans, 568, d. Murdered by his son, 578, b, c.
Sigeric succeeds Atraulph in Gaul, 492, e, 509, c. Assassinated, ibid. & 585, & seq.
Sigg made king of Francia, 489, e.
Sigismund made a patrician, 581, e. Submissive letters to Anastasius, 585, c—e. Murders his son Sigeric, ibid. e, f. Retirement and penance, 586, a, b. Defeated by Chlotildis's three sons, ibid. c. His death, ibid.
Sigtunum, in Sweden, built by Woden, 489, e.
Silingians, who, 509, e, 530, f.
Silphium, the famed plant, described, 170, d, & seq.
Silures, who, and where sited, 410, e. Brave defence against the Romans, 439, pass. Subdued by Frontinus, 431, a.
Simeon's success and ravages in Macedonia, 629, d, e. Defeated, ibid. e, f. Treachery to Leo, ibid. f, & seq. Peace with him, 630, a, b. Falls out with Alexander, ibid. c. Takes Adrianople, ibid. d, c. Defeats the Romans, ibid. & seq. Cruelty to Leo, 631, d, e. Besieges Constantinople, ibid. e, f. Makes peace with Romanus, 632, a. Defeated by the Chiotasi, ibid. b. His death, ibid.
Sin, the famed desert of, 227, c.
Sinai, the mountain of, 227, d.
Sindia, where situate, 224, (B).
Singidunum taken by Attila, 465, f. Described, ibid. & seq. sub not.
Sirmium taken by Attila, 465, f. Described, 466, (L).
Siroco, the wind of, described, 29, in fin. not.
Sifaris, river in Numidia, 115, f.
Sifebatus, } kings of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, c.
Sifenand, }
Sitifi, where situate, 115, a.
Sittiorum, Colonia Ciria, whence so called, 296.
Sittius, Pub.'s success in Numidia, 136, & seq. Death, ibid. (U). Success against Juba, and reward, 137, d, e.
Sittones, who, and where, 486, d.
Skjold made king of Futland, 489, e.
Sclavonians, their signal hospitality, 389, (D).
Sleswick, the ancient seat of the Angles, 441, a.
Socrates island, where, 239, d.
Sohar, where sited, 235, e.
Soily, Henry de, erects a new monument to king Arthur, 449, sub not.
Soissons made metropolis of the French by Clevis, 567, b.
Solis, Mons, the promontory of, 145, c.
Sophonisba married to Syphax, 75, b. Her excellent character, 124, f.
Spain described, 294, a. Its limits, names, &c. ibid. & seq. How divided, 295, c, d. Its cities, colonies, &c. 296, & seq. How governed under the Romans, 311, & seq. Suffers a twenty-six years drought, [323], a, b. By what nations invaded, ibid. & seq. When and how subdued by the Carthaginians, [325], & seq. By the Romans, [326], & seq. Stripped of its immense riches, ibid. & seq. & (A). Abandoned by the Vandals, 530, a, b. Its dreadful state occasioned by it, ibid. d.
Spaniards begin to court the Romans, 58, e. Revolt under their reguli, 71, f. Defeated, 72, a, b. Take up arms, 73, c, d. Forced to make peace, 73, c, d. Their religion, 309, & seq. Government, 311, pass. Laws, 312, b—d. Valour and discipline, ibid. e, & seq. Why so hardly conquered, 313, a, d. Arts, sciences, &c. ibid. e, & seq. Ancient language, 314, c—f. Why mixed with Hebrew, 315, a—c. When exchanged for the Latin, ibid. d—f. Their writing, 316, a—c. Odd way of computing time, ibid. c—e. Education of children, ibid. f, & seq. Riches and commerce, 317, b—d. Character, ibid. e, f. Fabulous history, 319, & seq.
Spanish bishops, their zeal for their flocks, 530, c.
—— women, their hardness, 302, d, e.
Spartacus defeated and slain, 397, b, c.
Spermatophagi, their site, food, &c. 184, c.
Spoleto made capital of Umbria, 620, d. Taken by Belisarius, 670, e.
—— the dukes of, 696, b, 701, d. Extent of their territories, 721, a.
Sporades, islands in Ethiopia, 190, b.
Squirri, Scirri, who, 462, a. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. b. Submit to Attila, 466, c. Regain their liberty, 482, a. Settled in Moesia, &c. 518, d. Defeated by the Ostrogoths, 519, d.
Stani.

I N D E X.

Steni, where sited, 395, d. Their desperate end, ibid. &c.
Stars, fixed, why worshipped by the Arabs, 246, a, b. Their names, worship, &c. ibid. d, &c.
Statirius sent to discipline the Numidian youth, 50, a—c.
Stemba, the son of Masissa, 126, e.
Stephen, king of Hungary, his success in Bulgaria, 639, b.
 — III. pope, his peace with the Lombards, 710, b, c. Invaded by Astolph, 711, pass. Goes to king Pepin, 712, a, b. Stirs him up against the Lombards, ibid. & seq. Enriched by him, 714, & seq. Bribed off by Desiderius, 715, d, e.
Stilicho secures Britain against the Picts, &c. 436, c. (R). Success against the Huns frustrated, 460, b. Marches against the Goths, 505, c. Recalled, ibid. d. Goes to succour Greece, ibid. & seq. Partiality to the Goths, 506, a, b.
Stoboreum, the promontory of, in Numidia, 111, d.
Stonehenge, by whom built, 338, c—e. Whence so called, 339, b. Not a heathen temple, ibid. & seq. Errors about it confuted, 340, pass. & (P). The fabric described, 341, & seq. New conjectures concerning it, 342, & seq. Its stones, whence brought, 343, f. Huge bulk and weight, 344, c, e. Disposition, &c. 345, & seq.
Stora, the gulf of, where, 109, c.
Sura, Julia and Marcella, by whom made, 420, a.
Stratzburgh, metropolis of the Trebacci, [415], a. (R). The battle of, 591.
Strompitza taken by Basilus, 635, e, f.
Struthophagi, &c. where sited, 183, e.
Stuf, the Saxon, arrives in Britain, 449, c.
Stukeley's noble description of Stonehenge, 338, & seq.
Stylis, the hermit, foretells the ill success of the Vandals, 537, c.
Styrax defeated, and sent prisoner, 483, a.
Suani defeat the Saxons, 680, e, f.
Suaquema, island, its torrid heat, 186, b.
Suarias sent king of the Heruli, 600, c.
Subur, river in Tingitania, 145, a. In Gatulia, 160, e.
Succosii, who, and where sited, 140, d.
Suetonius, Paul. his success in Britain, 430, e.
Suevi, who, and where sited, [409], d. And settled, 440, b—d. 441, a. Submit to Astila, 466, b. Defeated in Spain, 512, c—f. Retire into Galicia, 513, b. Assist the Vandals, 529, c—e. Re-enter Spain, 530, b. Their territories there, ibid. f, & seq. Various tribes, 540, c. Whence called Suevi, ibid. c, d. Their government, ibid. f, & seq. Submit to Augustus, 541, a. Part settle in Gaul, ibid. b—d. Some in Frisia, ibid. f. Defeat the Romans in Pannonia, 542, a, b. Defeated in Italy, ibid. c. Divide Spain, ibid. c. Defeated by Wallia, 543, a. Shut up in Biscay, ibid. Defeated in Germany, ibid. b. Ravage Galicia, ibid. c, d. Submit to Theodoric, 545, a, b. War against each other, ibid. d, &c. Kill the Romans on Easter day, 546, b. Turn christian, ibid. e. Infected with Arianism, ibid. Ravage Spain, 547, pass. Settle in Galicia, ibid. d.
Suevus, river, whence so named, 540, d.
Suinthila, king of the Visigoths, 492, e.
Sutones, who, and where sited, 486, d.
Sun worshipped by the Mauritanians, 150, d. By the Gauls, 353, & seq. Germans, [418], & seq. Saxons, 442, d. — the fountain of, 169, a.
Sunieric sent against the Suevi, 513, e. 545, e, f. Ravages, 546, b.
Sunno, king of the Franks, 550, b. Ill success against the Romans, 557, f, & seq.
Suomarius sues Julian for peace, 592, a, b.
Sur, the famed desert of, 227, c.

Suffex seized by the Saxons, 445, d. 446, d.
Sufurbulus made guardian of Bulgaria, 632, b, c.
Suhul, where situate, 110, f.
Syagrius, governor of Soissons, 566, d. Defeated by Clovis, 567, a. Beheaded by him, ibid. b.
Syebi, who, and where sited, 489, c.
Syllaus's treachery to Æl. Gallus, 282, c. Punishment, ibid. f.
Syllanus left to awe the Spaniards, 59, e. Brings Masissa over to the Romans, 70, e. Retires to Tarraco, ibid. & seq.
Symmacchus confirmed pope by Theodoric, 643, e, f. Put to death by him, 645, & seq.
Syphax allies with Rome, 50, a. Flattering letter to the senate, 61, d. Gained by Scipio, 71, c. Brought off by Asdrubal, 75, a. Letter to Scipio, ibid. b, c. Defeated, 77, & seq. Joins Asdrubal with fresh forces, 78, b, c. Taken prisoner, 79, c. Defeated by the Numidians, 122, e. Success against Masissa, 123, & seq. Dethroned by him, 125, b. His end, ibid. c.
Syracuse plundered by the Franks, 553, d. Taken by Tosila, 674, c, d.
Syrta regio, described, 170, c. Its limits, 175, a, b. Nations, mountains, &c. 176, pass. Islands, ibid. f, & seq. To whom subject, 177, a, b.

T

TABRACA, in Numidia, its ruins, &c. 110, c, d.
 — island, where sited, 112, d.
Tacalhairmanous, a Coptic saint and apostle, 218, e, & seq. The etymon of his name, 219, a.
Tacatna, where situate, 110, a.
Tacaza, river, falls into the Nile, 187, b. Described, 189, (I).
Tacfarinas's plunders in Africa, 158, a, b. Defeated before Thala, ibid. d. By Apronius, ibid. e, f. His death, 159, a.
Tacitus's success against the Goths, 498, b, c.
Taei, Tavi Osium, where, 413, f.
Tafia, and her daughters, turn nuns, 709, e.
Tagus, a fabulous king of Spain, 319, b.
 — a river in Lusitania, 299, a. The golden sand of, ibid. b.
Taisale, who, 498, e. Inroads into the empire, 499, d, e.
Talabraca, a city in Lusitania, 296, e.
Taluda, river, in Tingitania, 144, c.
Tamar, the mouth of, near Plymouth, 407, e.
Tamna, a city in Arabia Felix, 231, e. 239, a.
Tanfana, the temple of, what, [418], b, (C). Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, e.
Tangier. See Tingis, 140, & seq.
 — the famed cave of, 148, d.
Taran, the Gaulish Jupiter, why so called, 153, c.
Tarentines invite Hannibal, 48, b. Awed by Valerius, ibid. c. Surrender to him, 51, & seq. Besiege the citadel, 54, a. Annoyed by the Carthaginians, 59, a. Their sad catastrophe, 62, d, e.
Tarentum taken by Fabius, 62, c, d. Retaken by Belisarius, 670, e. By Tosila, 673, e.
Tarraco taken by the Visigoths, 514, f, & seq. Destroyed by the Franks, 552, e.
 — the metropolis of Tarracon, 303, b. Described, 305, d. Taken by the Visigoths, 514, f, & seq. Destroyed by the Franks, 552, e.
Tarracon, the province of, described, 303, c, & seq. Its different nations, ibid. & notes.
 — the city of, situation, 305, d, (F). Councils held at, 306. By whom built, [324], a.
Tartessus, where situate, 301, b, (G).
Tasm, an ancient Arabic tribe, 243, b.
Tassilo, duke of Bavaria, revolts against the emperor, 485, d, e.
Tato and Caco murdered by Gregory, 688, d, e.
Tatus,

I N D E X.

- Tatus*, king of the Lombards, his success against the Heruli, 617, a. Death, ibid. b.
- Taurinum* put to the sword by Hannibal, 16, c, d.
- Tayta*, kings of Hira, 275, c.
- Tectofagi*, who, and where seated, [412], sub (I). Defeated by Sylla, 396.
- Tehama*, the province of, where sited, 238, e, & seq.
- Teja*, chosen king of the Ostrogoths, 493, a. 677, a. His character, ibid. b. Cruelty to the Romans, ibid. d, e. Goes to relieve Cuma, ibid. e, f. Defeated and slain, 678, b, c.
- Teichomer* chosen king of Bulgaria, 637, e, f. Stoned to death, 638, a.
- Telefus* chosen king of Bulgaria, 626, b.
- Tendleri*, who, and where sited, [407], d. Defeated by Caesar, [438], b—d.
- Tesla*, an ancient king of Spain, [321], c.
- Tetricus* chosen king in Gaul, 403, d. Submits to Aurelian, ibid. e.
- Teutones*, Germans, why so called, [406], c. [411]. (M). Invade Italy, [435], d, e, & seq.
- Toxaga* taken by Manil. Nepos, 100, f.
- Thabir*, mount, where sited, 237, e.
- Thaifa*, a city in Hejaz, 237, e, & seq.
- Thala*, the dreadful fate of, 132, b, c.
- Thames*, mount, in Numidia, 111, c.
- Thamud*, a tribe of ancient Arabs, 242, e, & seq.
- Their impiety, 243, a, b.
- Thamydeni*, who, and where sited, 233, c.
- Thanet*, island, given to the Saxons, 440, c.
- Thapsacus*, a city in Arab. Desert, 230, a.
- Tharamis* worshipped by the Saxons, 242, d.
- Thema*, a city in Arab. Desert, 230, a.
- Themata* in Italy, what, 721, c, (C).
- Theodatus's* treachery to Amalasunta, 650, & seq. War against Justinian, 653, pass. Deposed, 654, c, d. Murdered, ibid. e.
- Theodemir*, king of the Ostrogoths, 493, a. Serves under Attila, 518, d. Defeats the Suevi, &c. 519, e, f. Invades Illyricum, 520, b. His death, ibid. c.
- Theodomir*, king of the Franks, 550, b. The same with Pharamond, ibid. & 551, b, c.
- Theodoret's* treachery to the Goths, 655, d, e. 661, b—d. Retires laden with spoil, ibid. &c.
- Theodoric*, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, e. Subdues Italy, 493, a. Peace with Rome, 510, b. Repulsed before Narbonne, ibid. c, d. Defeated by Ætius, ibid. d, e. Defeats Litorius, ibid. & seq. Peace with Rome, 511, f, & seq. His death, ibid. b.
- II. his character, 511, f, & seq. Alliance with Rome, 512, a, b. Success against the Suevi in Spain, ibid. & seq. Ravages Lusitania, 513, b. Returns into Gaul, ibid. c. His conquests there, ibid. & seq. Murdered by his brother, 514, c.
- III. sent hostage to Leo, 519, c. Returns richly laden, ibid. f. Defeats the Sarmatians, 520, a. Invades the empire, ibid. b. Succeeds his father, ibid. c. Cared and deserted by Zeno, ibid. d, e, &c. Ravages Thrace, &c. 521, b, c. Defeated, 522, a, b. Goes to Constantinople, ibid. c, d. Retires, ibid. e. Marches into Italy, 523, c, d. Conquests and victories there, 524, a, &c. Betrayed, and shut up in Pavia, ibid. c. Assisted by the Visigoths, ibid. c, d. Reduces all Italy, ibid. & seq. Treachery to Odoacer, 525, c. Proclaimed king of Italy, ibid. & seq. Subdues Sicily, ibid. e. His alliances, ibid. & seq. Confirms the Roman laws, 526, a. And government, ibid. b, c. His courts of judicature, ibid. d, e. Protects the Alemans, 568, f. Letter to Clovis in their behalf, 569, a, b. Alliance with him, 571, a, b. Outwits him, 572, e, f, & seq. Interposes between him and Alaric, 573, e, f. Second letter to Clovis, 574, a—c. To Gundebald, ibid. c, d. To the Heruli, ibid. & seq. Opposes the Franks, 576, & seq. Falls out with Sigismund, 585, & seq. Outwits the Franks, 587, d, e. His glorious reign, 639, & seq. Acknowledged by the emperor, 640, a—c. Vast territories, ibid. d, e. Moderation, ibid. & seq. With respect to the Romans, 641, a—d. To religion, ibid. & seq. Justice, 642, b, c. Temperance, ibid. c, d. Generosity to his captive subjects, ibid. & seq. War with Anastasius, 643, a—c. Peace, ibid. d. Entry into Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Munificence there, 644, a, b. War with the Burgundi, ibid. c. With Clovis, ibid. d. Chosen guardian to Amalaric, ibid. f. Restores him to his crown, 645, a—c. Cruelty to Boetius and Symmachus, ibid. & seq. Grief for it, 646, d. Death and offspring, 647, a, b.—Opposes Attila in Gaul, 474, c, d. His bravery at the battle of Châlons, 476, c, d. Death, ibid. e. Funeral, 477, c.—Success against the Huns, 485.—Basilicus's general treaty with king Theodoric, 520, e, f. Forces Zeno to shameful articles, 521, a, b.
- Theodorician* laws, why so called, 517, c, d.
- Theodorus*, Calliopa, chosen exarch, 691, d.
- Theodosius's* success in Britain, 435, d, & seq.—Invaded and insulted by Attila, 465, & seq. Treachery to him, 470, a, b. To Constantius, ibid. d, e. Receives the Gothi into Thrace, 502, f. Blamed for it, 503, b, c.
- Theodotus*, king of Italy, 493, a.
- Theophylact* cut off by the Bulgarians, 635, f.
- Therwingi*. See Visigoths, 459, & seq. 504, a.
- Thessalonica*, taken by the Bulgarians, 634, b.
- Thissaly*, ravaged by the Gothi, 496, f.
- Theudelinda* takes Agilulf for her husband, 684, b. Converts him, ibid. d.
- Theudis*, king of the Gothi in Gaul, 492, e.
- Theudiselus*, king of the Gothi in Gaul, 492, e.
- Theutat*, worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d. In Gaul. See under Mercury, 367, a, b, (T), & seq.
- Thirmida*, its situation uncertain, 110, f.
- Thoas* the Ætolian's speech against Hannibal, 89, a, b.
- Tholosan* temple and treasure, by whom built, 555, c, (R). Plundered by Cæpio, 396, a, b. Described, 350, (F), 537, (M). Taken by the Visigoths, 509.
- Thor* worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.
- Thorismund's* bravery at Châlons, 476, pass. Narrow escape, 477, b. Proclaimed king, ibid. c. Returns to his kingdom, ibid. e, f. 511, b. Defeats Attila, 480, c, d. Succeeds Theodoric in Gaul, 492, & seq. 511, b. Wars with Rome, ibid. d. Murdered, ibid. e.—King of the Ostrogoths, his short reign and death, 518, d.
- Thrace*, wasted by Attila, 468, e, f.
- Thrasamond*, king of the Vandals in Africa, 427, d.
- Thule*, the peninsula of, where, 598, d.
- Thurians* revolt from the Carthaginians, 50, d. Receive them afresh, 54, pass. Plundered by Hannibal, 77, a.
- Thuringians* oft confounded with the Togriani, 566, (G). Where seated, 567, b.
- Thymaterium*, where sited, 142, b.
- Tiberius*, an error about him corrected, 348, (C).—an impostor proclaimed emperor, 707, d.
- Tibur* put to the sword by Attila, 668, a.
- Ticinum*, Pavia, fortified by Scipio, 17, c. The battle of, ibid. & seq.
- Tigre*, the mountains of, 185, d.
- Tin*, fetched by the Phœnicians from Britain, 401, & seq. Discovered by the Greeks, 405.

Tigri.

INDEX.

- Tingis*, capital of Mauritania Tingitana, 139, a.
When, and by whom built, 140, c, f. A gigantic corps dug up at, 141, a. Its other names, ibid. b, c.
- Tingitania*. See Mauritania, 139, & seq. When reduced into a Roman province, 157, b.
- Tipasa*, where sited, 113, e.
- Tirbakah*, who, 211, f, & seq.
- Tisfata*, Hannibal's camp at, 44, & seq.
- Tisfidium*, where sited, 131, (N).
- Titus's* success in Britain, 429, e.
- Tocolofida*, where sited, 143, c.
- Todasius*, chosen king of the Heruli, 600, b.
- Togata*, Gallia, whence so called, 322, a.
- Togodunus*, defeated by the Romans, 428, b—d. Killed, 429, a.
- Toletum*, Toledo, where sited, 306, d, & seq.
- Tongres*, taken by Attila, 473, d.
- Tongrians* conquered by Clodius, 567, b.
- Torifin's* signal fidelity to Ildisus, 389, (D).
- Torpedoes*, their strange effects, 189, (I).
- Totila*, chosen king of Italy, 493, a. 665, b. Defeats the Romans, 666, b—d. His other conquests, ibid. e, & seq. His letter to the senate despised, 667, e, f. Pursues his conquests, 668, pass. Enters Rome, 669, d, e. Stern speech to the senate, 670, a. Carries them prisoners, ibid. d. Second attempt against Rome, abortive, ibid. f, & seq. Takes it afresh, 672, e, f. Repairs it, and the senate, 673, c—e. Conquests in Sicily, ibid. & seq. Reduces it, 674, c, d. Plunders Greece, ibid. & seq. Offers to the emperor rejected, 675, b. Subdues Sardinia and Corfica, ibid. c, d. Marches against the Romans, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated and killed, 676, d, e. His character, ibid. & seq.
- Toulouse*, metropolis of the Visigoths, 510, b. The rest see sub Tholose.
- Tournay*, taken by Clodius, 560, f, & seq. & not.
- Tours*, Greg. de, his history defective, 572, & seq.
- Tragicus* lets Hannibal into Tarentum, 51, f.
- Trajan's* fruitless attempt against Arabia, 282, f, & seq.
- Transilvania*, part of ancient Dacia, 611, a.
- Trapezond*, the city of, described, 288, e, (A).—The kingdom of, when and by whom founded, 288, & seq. Kings of, 289, & seq. Subdued by the Turks, 293, & seq.
- Trapezontines*, their religion, laws, &c. 289, & seq.
- Trebia*, the battle of, 19, & seq.
- Treves* taken by Attila, 474, e. Destroyed by the Franks, 558, e, f.
- Treviri*, who, and where seated, [407], e, f, (C). Subdued by Cæsar, 400, d. Raise a new war against the Romans, [438], d, e, & seq.
- Tribelin* assists Anastasius, 625, c.
- Tribigil* raises new feuds in the east, 506, d. His death, 507, c.
- Tribocci*, who, and where seated, [408], a.
- Tribunes* in Britain, their office and stations, 418.
- Triers*, capital of the Treviri, [407], f. By whom built, [415], e.
- Trinobantes*, who, and where sited, 426, a. Submit to Cæsar, ibid. &c.
- Trisanto*, ancient Southampton, 407, f.
- Trisidis*, where situate, 143, c.
- Tritum*, a promont. in Numidia, 111, d.
- Troglodytes*, who, and where sited, 183, pass. Their country barren, 184, a, b. Way of living, 201, b, c, (B). Inhuman customs, ibid. d.
- Troyes*, forsaken, 478, d. Burnt by the Goths, 495, b.
- Tubal's* pretended peopling of Spain, 318, & seq. & (A).
- Tubulus*, C. Host. saves the Salentines, 65, d. Sent to reinforce Fulvius, ibid. & seq.
- Tubusuptus*, where situate, 115, c.
- Tufa's* double treachery, 524, b.
- Tugurt*, metropol. of Wad-Reag, 163, f.
- Tuisco*, worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.
- Tulga*, king of the Visigoths, 492, e.
- Tunes*, abandoned by Scipio, 78, f.
- Tungri*, who and where seated, [407], e.
- Turdetani*, severely punished by the Romans, 49, c. Go over to Scipio, 70, c. Settled in Lusitania, 296, b, c.
- Turduli*, whether the same with the Turdetani, 296, b, c. 299, (A).
- Turvel*, the supposed capital of the Turdetani, 300, d, (D).
- Tusca*, river, whether the modern Zaine, 107, b. 112, b.
- Tuscany*, recovered by the Ostrogoths, 666, e, f.
- Tavont*, an Algerine frontier, 107, c.
- Tycheus* assists Hannibal, 81, b. At the battle of Zama, 82, c.
- Tyrants*, Tyrannis, whence that word, 368, (D).
- Tzana*, lake, crossed by the Nile, 187, a, e, (F).
- Tziim*, in scripture, what, 184, a, b.

V

- V A B A R, promont. where, 115, d.
- Vacca*, taken by the Romans, 131, a. Retaken by Jugurtha, ibid. b, c.
- Vacuata*, where situate, 140, d.
- Vaga*, in Numidia, described, 109, d.
- Valachia*, part of ancient Dacia, 611, a.
- Valemir*, king, a great favourite of Attila, 466, e. 518, d. Serves under him, 473, a, b. Defeats the Hunns, 482, b. 519, a. Slain by the Squiri, ibid. e.
- Valens's* success against the Goths, 501, & seq. Peace with them, 502, a, b.—Fabius, his extortions in Gaul, 402, e, & seq. & (Y).
- Valentia*, the province of, in Spain, 303, & seq. City, 306, b. By whom built, ibid. c, & (G). See also [321], d, e. In North Britain, whence so called, 416, e, f. Governed by consuls, 417, b. Made a 5th province, 435, e.
- Valentine's* revolt in Britain, crushed, 436, a.—I. Marches against the Quadi, 604, b. His sudden death, ibid. c.
- Valentinian III.* embassy to Attila, 471, & seq. Over-reached by him, 472, & seq. Preparations against Genferic, 534, pass. Peace with him, ibid. d, e.
- Valentinian's* success against the Alemans, 593, pass.
- Valerianus* killed before Rome, 657, c.
- Valerius's* success against the Carthaginians, 64, c. 69, c.
- Valbala*, Odin's paradise, described, [419], pass. & notes.
- Valball* among the Saxons, what, 442, e, & seq.
- Vallona*, a river in Tingitania, 144, e, (C).
- Vandals*, defeated by the Goths, 498, f, & seq. Driven out of Andalusia, 509, f, & seq. Their origin, 527, a. Why so called, ibid. e. Character, religion, &c. ibid. & seq. Alliances and conquests, 528, a. Repulsed by Aurelius, ibid. b. By Aurelian, ibid. c. Seize on Gaul, ibid. d. Defeated by Probus, ibid. & seq. Settled in Cambridgeshire, 529, a. Others in Thrace, ibid. b. Revolt and defeated, ibid. Invade Gaul, ibid. c. Horrid ravages, ibid. d, e. Defeated by Constantine, ibid. e, f. Enter Spain, 530, a, b. Divide it with the Alans and Suevi, ibid. & seq. Humbled by Wallia, 531, b, c. Fresh ravages, ibid. d. In Afric, ibid. e, f. Refuse

I N D E X.

- to return into Spain, 533, a. Repulsed before Hippo, ibid. b, c. Beat the Romans, ibid. c, d. Defeated in Campania, 535, f. Vain attempt on Alexandria, 537, c. Settled in Afric, 559, & seq. Vandalusia, Andalusia, whence so named, 531, a. Vandelsburgh, in Cambridgeshire, whence so named, 529, a.
- Vangio* and Fido reign over the Suevi, 541, c, f. Vangiones, who, and where sited, [408], a. Vannius made king of the Suevi, 541, c. Banished, ibid. f.
- Varro's* character and fatal rashness, 28, & seq. Defeat and flight, 30, & seq. Ill advice to the Romans, 33, b, c.
- Vasso*, the famed temple of, in Gaul, 351, & seq. Vates, among the Gauls, their office, 365, b.
- Ubii*, who, and where sited, [407], c. [415], c. Outwitted by Caesar, 438, d, (M).
- We*, one of the sons of Woden, 489, d. Wegdegg made king of E. Saxony, 489, c. Velir, one of the sons of Woden, 489, d.
- Velpi*, mountains in Cyrenaica, 170, c. Venedi subdued by Hermanaric, 502, c. Venedic bay, whence so called, 486, c.
- Venedoria*, the ancient name of South Wales, 454, a. Veneri subdued, 399, a.
- Venetians*, their low beginning, 479, (L). Territories, trade, &c. 720, c, d.
- Venice* founded, 479, c. Taken by the Franks, 672, c.
- Venta Belgarum*, Winchester, 407, f. Silurum, Kaerwent, 411, a.
- Venusia* taken by Hannibal, 23, d.
- Verbica*, where sited, 140, d.
- Vercingetorix* defeated by Caesar, 399, c. 340, a, b. Vermia joins Hannibal in Afric, 81, b. Defeated, 83, b, c, f. Success against Masiniissa, 124, d, c.
- Verona*, the Romans shameful attempt against, 665, pass. Taken by the Hunns, 479, b. By the French, 717, f.
- Verfotina* worshipped by the Ethiopians, 197, a, b.
- Vervae*, where sited, 140, d.
- Verulam*, St. Albans, 409, b, c. Taken by Caesar, 426, b, c.
- Vespasian's* success in Britain, 429, c.
- Vesuni*, who, 160, (B).
- Vetera*, the Roman station of, 412, d.
- Vexalla*, the estuary of, 407, d.
- Uffa* founds the seventh Saxon kingdom, 452, c. His ditch, 453, c.
- Vibius*, Ver. poisons himself at Capua, 58.
- Vicar* of Britain, his office, 417, a, b. Ensigns, ibid. c. The first, 419, a.
- Victims*, human, offered by the Gauls, 329, a. 353, & seq.
- Vithobales*, who, 609, b.
- Vitumovia* taken by the Carthaginians, 20, c.
- Vitimir*, king of the Ostrogoths under Attila, 418, d. Settled in Pannonia, ibid. & seq. Invades the empire, 520, a. His death, ibid. b.
- Vienne* yielded to the Burgundi, 583, d, c.
- Vigilius* obtains a peace from Attila, 469, b, c. Ordered to murder him, 470, a. Forgiven by him, ibid. c.
- Villius*, P. sent to Hannibal, 87, f. Undermines him, 88, d.
- Viminacium* taken by the Hunns, 465.
- Vindebona*, capital of Austria, [408], b.
- Vindelici*, who, and where sited, [408], b.
- Vindex's* revolt, defeat, and death, 402, pass. & (X).
- Viomald* procures Childeric's liberty, 563, b. And restoration, 564, d.
- Viriatus's* success against the Romans, [327], b. Assassinated by Servil. Capius, ibid. d.
- Viroconinum*, capital of the Cornavii, 410, d.
- Visigoths* permitted to settle in Thrace, 459, c, d. Invade Italy, 493, d. Found a kingdom in Gaul, ibid. c. Where seated, 492, d. Settled in Thrace, 504, a. Serve under Theodasius, ibid. c, f. Wars with the Romans, 509, & seq. In Spain, 510, & seq. Return to Gaul, 513, d. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. & seq. Conquests in Gaul, 515, & seq. Profess Arianism, ibid. f, & seq. The end of their kingdom in Gaul, 518, b.
- Vistula*, river in Germany, [414], c, f.
- Visumar* defeated by the Goths, 499, a.
- Visurgis*, river in Franconia, [415], a.
- Vittheric* abandons his country to the Hunns, 479, b. 502, d. Retires into Podolia, 518, c.
- Vithicabius* murdered, 593, d.
- Withmir*, king of the Ostrogoths, 502, d. Slain by the Hunns, 459, b. 518, c.
- Viuges*, king of Italy, 493, a. His election, 654, c. Betrayed by Matajuenta, ibid. & seq. Wars with the Romans, 655, pass. Marches against Belisarius, ibid. f, & seq. Repulsed by him, 656, a, d. Ill success before Rome, 658, a—c. Repulsed before Rimini, 659, a, b. Embully to Cosroes, 660, c, f. Besieged in Ravenna, 662, d. &c. Offers of peace rejected, 663, a, b. Carried off prisoner, ibid. c, f. His death, 664, a.
- Vitus* defeated by the Suevi, 544, a.
- Uldin*, king of the Hunns, 458, a. Assails the Romans, 461, c. Defeats and kills Gaisas, ibid. c, f. Invades the Romans, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 462, a, b.
- Ulisheus* defeated and killed, 658, b.
- Uiprana* taken by Theodoric, 520, b.
- Ulus*, a fabulous king of Spain, [321], b.
- Umbri*, Aborigines, of Italy, 323, d, c.
- Umbria* plundered by Hannibal, 22, c. Made a duchy by Alboinus, 620, d.
- Unelli* subdued, 399, a.
- Unulf's* fidelity to Partharic, 694, a, b.
- Voliba*, ancient Falmouth, 407, d.
- Volica*, who, and where sited, 11, b, (E).—Tallaghi subdued by Marcus, 395, d.
- Volcantes* submit to the Romans, 62, b.
- Volciani*, their brave answer to Q. Fabius, 8, c.
- Volubiliani*, where sited, 140, d.
- Volubilis*, where sited, 143, b.
- Volusenus* sent into Britain, 121, c.
- Vortigern* consents to invite the Saxons, 440, a, b. Heads them against the Frisi and Satti, 443, b. Deposed by his subjects, 444, c, d. Taken prisoner by the Saxons, 445, b, c. Retirement and death, ibid. d, c.
- Vortimer's* bravery and success against the Saxons, 444, d, & seq. Death and last command, 445, a, b. Where buried, ibid.
- Vortipora's* wicked reign, 451, c.
- Uraia* sent against Belisarius, 661, a, &c. Against Thomas, 662, f. Refuses the Gwari's crown, 664, b. Murdered by Ildebold, ibid. d.
- Uranus* defeats the Bulgarians, 633, c.
- Urbinum* and Urbiventum taken by Belisarius, 659, d, e.
- Urce*, a part of the Bajitani, 300, d.
- Ufargata*, mountains, described, 163, d—f.
- Ufdrilas* slain by the Ostrogoths, 675, c.
- Ujippii*, who, and where seated, [407], c. Defeated by Caesar, [438], c.
- Ufrigothus* retuged among the Lombards, 597, c.
- Uther*, whether the same with Nazareth, 447, & seq.
- Urica* surrendered to the Romans, 97, b. Destroyed by pestilence, 127, c, d.
- Uturgurian* Hunns, whence so called, 456, b, c. Where sited, ibid. Fail foul on the Catwergians, 483, f, & seq.
- Vulcan*, in what sense worshipped by the ancient Germans, [421], b, (H).
- Vulcania*, island, seized by the Carthaginians, 19, d.
- Vulger* heads the Bulgarians into Mexia, 623, f.
- Vulturinus* ravaged by Hannibal, 23, f. Whence so called, 29, (L). Why worshipped by the Etruscans, ibid.

Vulturinus

INDEX.

Valturnus, the wind of, why so called, 29, b, & not.
Uxellodunum taken by Caesar, 400, d, e.

W

WACHO, his reign, wives, &c. 617, a, b.
Wad-reagh, the district of, 163, c. How supplied with water, 164, a.

Wadd worshipped by the Arabs, 248, c.
Walamir, king of the Visigoths, 493.
Waleka, the mountains of, 185, d.
Wales retains the pure ancient Celtic, 377, c, f. The reason of it, 378, b. Its ancient inhabitants, 410, e, & seq. Whence so called, 453, c. Its six regions, ibid. & seq. Dismembered of some of its provinces, 454, a, b.
Wall's-end, Finis Walli, in Northumberland, 418, a.
Wallia, king of the Visigoths, 492, c. Succeeds Sigeric, 509, d. Peace with the Romans, ibid. c. Wars with the Vandals in Spain, ibid. & 531, b, c. Settles in Aquitain, 510, a. His death, ibid. b.

Walterius, king of the Lombards, 617, b.
Wamba, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Wanashreefe, mountain in Numidia, 116, d.
Wandalar, king of the Ostrogoths, 493, a. 518, d.
War, unjust, the era of, 286, a, (F).
Warnecaut, duke, put to death, 685, e.
Warnefrid defeated and killed, 696, c, f.
Warni, who, 513, b.
Wandike, the battle of, 453, b.
Varaces, John Ducas, second emperor of Nice, 287, c, d.

Wasling street, why so called, 419, f. Its extent, ibid. & seq.

Wayel, sixth king of the Arabs, 267, c.

Welcar made duke of Friuli, 696, f.

Westphalia inhabited by the Saxons, 441, a.

Westrogoths, Visigoths, whence so called, 487, c. Where seated, 492, d.

Wetalla-heedh, Cimbrian islands, why so called, 484, c.

Whallop castle, the ancient ruins of, 412, c.

White Hunns. See Nephthalites, 456, & seq.

Widemir, king of the Visigoths, 493, a.

Wight, isle of, inhabited by the Jutes, 441, c. Put to the sword by Cerdick, 450, a. Given to his nephew, ibid. b.

Winitar, king of the Visigoths, 493, a.

Wiomand's fidelity to Childeric, 473, c.

Wisimar, king, defeated and killed, 609, a.

Witgar the Saxon's arrival in Britain, 449, c.

Witizia, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.

Witteric, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, 492, c.

Woden, king of the Goths. See part of his character under Odin, [419], & seq. His reign and conquests, 489, c, d. Settles and dies in Sweden, ibid. c. His character, acts, &c. ibid. & seq. When he reigned, 460, c, d. Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.

Women prophetesses in high repute in Gaul, 348, (B).

— old, esteemed in Ethiopia, 201, d. In Germany, why, [417], a, (B).

Wulphilas, the apostle of the Goths, 500, (A). His Gothic character, 489, a. 490, b.

Wurglah, a city in Garulia, 164, a.

X

XAMOLXIS's reign in Thrace, &c. 487, c. Who he was, 611, b, c.

Xenophanes sent from Philip to Hannibal, 41, c. His treaty with the Carthaginians, ibid. & seq. Seized by the Romans, 43, & seq.

Xerplibya, where sited, 178, c.

Xibam, Shibam, a city in Arab. Felix, 231, c.

Xipbias Niceph. saves Basilus from the Bulgarians, 635, d.

Y

YAFA R, eighth king of Yaman, 267, e.

Yaguth, an idol of the Arabs, 248, c, d.

Yamama, the province of, 239, b.—city, ibid. Princess, ibid. Fountain, ibid.

Yaman, inhabited by Cushites, 205, b, c. Its extent, &c. 230, c, f. Described, 234, d. Its towns, ibid. & seq. Soil, mountains, &c. 235, & seq. By whom founded, 245, c. The kings of, 267, & seq. End of their kingdom, 271, c, f. Seized by the Abassines, 285, d.

Yambo, Yambo, a port in Arabia, 238, a, b.

Yarab succeeds Joktan in Arabia, 265, b, c. 267, b.

Yashab, the successor of Yarab, 267, b.

Yatreb, the ancient name of Medina, 237, d. Whence so called, ibid. e.

Yauk, worshipped by the Arabs, 248, & seq. sub (R).

Ysel, Ifala, a river in Germany, [415], b.

Yusef introduces judaism in Yaman, 252, a. Persecutes the recusants, 269, d.

Z

ZA A B, the district of, where, 163, e.

Zachary, pope's embassy to Luitprand, 708.

Influence over him, ibid. e, f. Over Rachis, 709, d, e. Death, 710, a.

Zagreusii, where sited, 140, d.

Zaine, river, in Numidia, 112, b.

Zalacus, mount, where sited, 115, e.

Zama, Hannibal's camp at, 81, c. The battle of, 82, & seq.—fountain, 112.

Zamar, the city of, where sited, 112, d.

Zamaragdus's success against the Lombards, 681, b.

Zamarga defeated by the Romans, 484, b, c. By Zandilichus, ibid. d, e.

Zangruf, duke of Verona, put to death, 685, e.

Zanticus's peace with the Romans, 606, d.

Zantzax removes the mart to Theffalonica, 629, c, d.

Zealand inhabited by the Saxons, 441, a.

Zelis, where situate, 141, c. Whether the Roman Arzilla, ibid. d.—river in Tangitania, 144, e.

Zemzem, the well of, at Mecca, 236, d. The Turks tradition of it, 237, c.

Zendero, island, said to be governed by a dog, 194, (S).

Zengiza's promont. in Ethiopia, 190, a.

Zeno's treachery to Constantius, 470, d. To Theodoric, 520, d—f. Rejects his offers, ibid. d.

Bestows great honours upon him, 522, b, c. Treaty with Genferic, 529, e.—a priest, his zeal for Cunipert, 698, c—e.

Zerab's prodigious army, 194, b. 210, d. Defeated by Aja, ibid.

Zerbi, island, where, 176, (F).

Zin, the famed desert of, 227, d.

Zifais,

I N D E X.

- Zifais*, made king of Sarmatia, 609, f.
 - Zoa*, by whom built, 172, d.
 - Zobair's* insignificant aqueduct, 236, d, e.
 - Zoe* sends a vast army against the Men. Bulgarians, 630, d, e.
 - Zobair*, a wise prince of Kelab, 278, d.
 - Zobair II.* murdered, 279, a.
 - Zotto*, first duke of Benevento, 683, f. His death, 684, c.
 - Zuchabari*, the spring of, in Syrta, 176, e.
 - Zygrita*, who, and where fitted, 168, b.
-

A N

I N D E X

T O T H E

S E V E N V O L U M E S.

N. B. To save the trouble and expence of a geographical table to this large and extensive work, we have marked all the articles, which relate to geography, in this general index, with an † on the margin; whereby the reader may have them in view under each letter, so as to answer the end of such a table.

A

- AARON, the brother of Moses, married to Elizabeth, vol. i. 490. His genealogy and family, 492, b. Meets his brother on mount Horeb, ibid. Appears with him before Pharaoh, ibid. d. Consecrated with his sons, 513, c. His rod's miraculous budding, ibid. Idolatrous calf, 520, a. Vainly palliated by some writers, ibid. But condemned by Moses, 521, c. His apology for it, ibid. d. The death of two of his sons by fire from heaven, 523, d. Why excluded from entering the promised land, 532, b. His priestly dress and office transferred to his son, ibid. c. Dies immediately after, 523. The time of his death, ibid. d. — a christian martyr in Devonshire, vi. 216, d. — king of Bulgaria, murdered, vii. 633, c.
- Ab-Beth-Din, among the Jews, his office, iv. 4, c.
- † Abā, a city in Phocis, by whom founded, ii. 389, d.
- † — a mountain in Armenia, iii. 694, b.
- † Abacanum, a city in Sicily, described, iii. 92, (O).
- Abaddir, Abaddires, at Carthage, worshipped, vi. 693, a, b.
- † Abalitz, where sited, vii. 183, c. 193, a, b.
- † Abana, a river of Damascus, described, i. 362, a, & (C).
- † Abantes, first inhabitants of Eubœa, iii. 250, a.
- Abara, Habara, what, iv. 198, (G).
- † Abarim, the mountains of, in Palestine, i. 537, c, & (B).
- Abariman, prince of the fallen angels, among the Persians, i. 51, a.
- Abarus's speech to Scipio, iv. 787.
- Abas, king of Argos, ii. 353, f.
- of Hetruria, iv. 418, c.
- leader of the Abantes, killed, 250.
- † Abassia, its limits, vii. 180, b. High mountains, 185, d.
- Abb, the second month of the Jews, i. 611, (K).
- Abdalaminus made king of Sidon, iii. 337, (K).
- Abdias, consecrated bishop in Persia, iv. 339, d. His untimely zeal fatal to the christians, 340, a.
- Abdastartus murdered by his nurse's sons, i. 415, b.
- Abdimelech, the Saracen, makes peace with Justinian, vi. 546, f, & seq.
- Abdemonus, the Tyrian, expounds Solomon's riddles, i. 414, c.
- † Abdera, by whom founded, iii. 786, c.
- Abdon judges Israel eight years, i. 753, d.
- Abdymon dethrones the king of Cyprus, iii. 179, c. Killed, ibid.
- Abel, where probably born, i. 73, a. The import of that word, ibid. (N). Murdered by Cain, ibid. b. Variety of opinions about it, 74, (N). Whether married, ibid. How Vol. VII. N°. 10.
- accepted by God, ibid. The etymon of his name, 253, (I).
- Abel Mizraim, why so called by the Canaanites, 407, b.
- Abelard accused of some erroneous opinions, i. 8.
- Abelax's stratagem in favour of the Spanish hostages, iv. 607, f.
- Abgarus I. founder of the kingdom of Edessa, iii. 847, a.
- II. his conquests, ibid. b.
- III. his letter to Christ, ibid. c.
- IV. treachery to the Romans, ibid. d.
- V. allies with them, ibid. d, e.
- VI. &c. ibid. & seq. Embassy to Trajan, v. 17, d.
- Reception of him, 18, d. Submission to Severus, 114.
- Treacherous advice to Crassus, iv. 299, d, e.
- Abias invades Abilene, iii. 850, c. Defeated by Izates, ibid. d.
- Abiathar escapes Saul's massacre, i. 767, a. Flees to David, ibid. d. Made high-priest, 792, c. Deposed by Solomon, ibid.
- Abibal, first king of Tyre mentioned in history, i. 413, c.
- Cotemporary with David, ibid.
- Abiff, a jewish month, whence so called, i. 604, (E).
- Abihu, one of the sons of Aaron, i. 490, a. Consecrated, 523. Why killed by fire from heaven, ibid.
- Abijah foretels to Jeroboam the ruin of his family, i. 806.
- Abijam, Abijab, king of Judah, i. 826, f. Defeats Jeroboam, 807, b.
- Abimeael, one of the sons of Joktan, where placed, i. 170, b.
- Abimelech, king of Gerar, his good character, i. 344, b. Obligingness to Abraham, 345, a. Covenant with him, ibid. c.
- II. his kindness and justice to Isaac, 346, a, b. Misrepresented by Josephus, ibid. (P). Covenant with Isaac renewed, 347, c, d.
- the natural son of Gideon, i. 747, a. Murders all his sons but one, ibid. b. Proclaimed king at Shechem, ibid. c.
- Cruelty to the Shechemites, 749, c. Shameful death, ibid. d.
- Abinadab, the ark placed at his house, i. 757, a.
- Abiram, one of the mutineers against Moses, i. 529, a. His dreadful end, 530.
- Abissares's submission to Alexander, iii. 393, b.
- Abisnonus's treachery to Sopater, vi. 274, sub not. Murdered by the soldiers, 275, a.
- king of the Thervingi, leads them towards Thrace, 380, d. Outwits and beats the Romans, 381, b, c. Put to death for treason, 530, a.
- Abner proclaims Ishbosheth king of Israel, i. 773, a. Defeated by Joab, ibid. c, d. Kills Azael, ibid. Revolts to David, 774, b. Killed by Joab, ibid. c.
- † Aborigines, whence so called, iv. 414, b, c. By whom civilized, ibid. & seq.

- † Aboullara, the lake of, described, 325, b.
Abra and Absa, their joint reign, vii. 218, d, e.
Abredates's bravery and death, ii. 93, b, c. Buried by Cyrus, 49, (I).
Abrika's fabulous defeat by the Arabs, vii. 269, f, & seq.
 Mr. Sale's notion of it exploded, 271, a—c.
Abraham, the son of Terah, the tenth in descent from Shem, i. 421, c. Called out of Ur, 422, a. Goes into Canaan, ibid.
 b. Into Egypt, ibid. Returns to Bethel, ibid. & seq. Separates from Lot, 423, c. Rescues him from Chedorlamer, 424, b, c. Receives the name of Abraham, 426, b, (Q). 153, (K). Circumcised with all his males, 426, & seq. Promised a son and heir, 427, a. Entertains three angels, 428, a, b. Who promise a son to Sarah, 429, a. Intercedes for Sodom, ibid. b. Dismisses Hagar and Ishmael, 430, b. Covenant with Abimelech, ibid. Commanded to sacrifice Isaac, ibid. & seq. Buries Sarah in Macphelah, 432, b. Provides a wife for Isaac, 433, a. Marries Keturah, 434, c. Issue by her, ibid. c. His death, ibid. d. Jewish and other fictions concerning him, 435, (E). Author of the Perse religion, ii. 74, a. Whether he lived among them, ibid. b.
 — Holim, defeated by the Romans, vi. 599, d, e.
Abreos killed by the Malli, iii. 398, d.
 † Abretana, part of the Mysian kingdom, ii. 323.
Abri-man, the Perse name for the devil, ii. 76, a. Why written inverted, ibid. b. His origin and war with God, 77, b, (B).
Abulom, the son of David, murders Ammon, i. 81, c. Retires into Geshur, ibid. f. Recalled, 782, d. His rebellion, 783, a, & c. Defeat and death, 786, a.
 — the pillar of, described, 592, d, (N).
 — the son of Hircan, iv. 96, c. Chooses a retired life, 98, a. His death, iii. (V).
 † Aburavus, a river in Colchis, iii. 833, c.
Abu Mysem's opinion of God, &c. i. 8, b.
Abulpharagus, his works and character, iii. 629, (C).
Abundantius, the raiser of Eutropius, vi. 435, a, b. Ungratefully requited and banished, ibid. b, c.
Abydinians, their horrid despair, ii. 734, c.
 † Abydus in Phrygia Minor, by whom built, ii. 304, d. 333, c. A mine of gold found at, 317, e. Taken by the Macedonians, 734, c. Forsaken by Antiochus, iii. 560, c.
 — the oracle of, in Egypt, vi. 305, e.
 † Abydus, an ancient city of Thebais, i. 175, e. — taken by the Turks, vi. 642, c.
 † Abyla, where situate, vi. 865, (L).
 † — mount, where, vii. 145, c, d.
 † Aca, Aco, a famed port in Phœnice, v. 639, e, (G).
Acacius, sent against the Persians, vi. 532, d. Forsook by the army, ibid.
Academia, by whom so called, ii. 436, f.
Acalide, the wife of Trus, her progeny, ii. 314, b.
Acamas, the son of Antenor, ii. 345, b.
 † Acanthine, island, where, vii. 190, b.
Acavuzi, subdued by Attila, vii. 464, f.
 † Acarnania, described, ii. 412, (D). 745, b.
Acarnanians, why antiently called Curetes, ii. 745, b. Join in the Achæan league, 652, c. Their character and bravery, ibid. & 704, a. War with Athens, 731, & seq. Friendship to the Macedonians, 745, c. Reject the alliance of the Romans, ibid. c. Subdued, and become a province of Achæa, 740, b.
Aches, bishop of Amida's excellent charity, iv. 341, f.
Achilus drives Jason out of Thessaly, ii. 385, a.
 † Achod, the city of, where situate, i. 124, (P).
Achæron, given to Jonathan, iii. 597, c.
Achia, Atia's singular care of her son Octavius, v. 194, c, d.
Achia, taken by young Fabius, iv. 722, b.
Achilles, the son of Jupiter, by the rock Agdus, ii. 297, b. Tamed by Bacchus, ibid. c.
 † Achidama, or field of blood, i. 586, a. Where situate, iv. 236, b.
 † Achia, taken by Corn. Scipio, iv. 690, c. Abandoned and burnt, vii. 36, c.
 † Achia, in Sicily. Vid. Segesta, iii. 7, f.
Achonia, drowned for Agrippina, v. 432, b.
 † Achæans, antient Greeks, ii. 344, c, & (C). Join with Aratus, 557, b. The league called by their name, 642, a. By whom formed, 644. Their laws, ibid. & seq. Contests with the Lacedæmonians, supported by Antigonus, 634, & seq. 645, & seq. Victory at Mantinea, 636. At Selafia, 649, pass. War against the Ætolians, 650, & seq. Beg king Philip's assistance, 652. Invade Elis, 654, c. Betrayed by Apelles, 657. Invade Ætolia, 658. Sparta, 659. Make peace, 664, a. Go over to the Romans, 669, & seq. 673. Fall into new broils, 677, a—d. Send deputies to Rome, 678. Highly courted, 679, c, d. Restore the Lacedæmonians, 681, & seq. Defeated by the Messenians, ibid. & seq. Betrayed by their Roman deputy, 684, d. Forced to restore the Spartans, 685, c. Courtied by Perles, 686. Assist the Romans against him, 687, d. Ill requited by them, 688, f. Protest against their cruelty, 689, & seq. War against them, 691, pass. War against the Lacedæmonians, ibid. & seq. 695, b. Defeated by Metellus, ibid. e. By the Roman consul, 697. Made tributary to Rome, 698, e, f.
Achæus assists the Byzantines, iii. 145, b. Gained over by the Rhodians, ibid. d.
 — defeated by the Macedonians, 474.
 — regent of Syria, his valour and fidelity, 530, a, b. Forced to seize on the government, 535, c. Besieged in Sardis, 539, d. Betrayed and beheaded, 640, & seq.
 † Achaia, part of the antient Greece, ii. 344, b. Whence so called, 414, a, b. Described, ibid. c. Conquered by the Achæans, ibid. & seq. Divided into twelve districts, 416, c. One of the chief states after the Achæan league, 641, a. Its extent, laws, &c. ibid. & seq. Duration, 642. Conquest, &c. 700, & seq. Taken from the Roman senate, v. 378, e, (G). Infranchised and plundered by Nero, 565, & seq. Plundered by the Huns, vii. 496, f.
Achæmenes, made governor of Egypt, i. 275, b. Slain, ibid. c. King of Persia, ii. 82, a.
Achan, stoned and burnt for sacrilege, i. 557, c.
 † Achelous, river, the fable of, ii. 409, e, (O).
Acheus, the son of Xuthus, founder of Achæa propria, ii. 414, a.
Achillas drives out Cleopatra, iii. 673, a. Besieges Cæsar in Alexandria, 675, d. Put to death, 676, c. Treachery to Pompey, v. 149, a. 150, & seq. Slain, 152, c.
Achilles, king of Phthia, ii. 385. Where born, 382, a. 383, b. Made invulnerable, ibid. & Exploits before Troy, 321, 385, & seq. Cruelty to Hector, 386, d. Requited, ibid. e. His tomb, 305, b.
Achilleus's revolt and defeat, vi. 192, a.
 — in Egypt, 209. Defeated, 213, b, c.
Achib, king of the Philistines, i. 355, a. Hospitality to David, ibid. Success against the Israelites, 356, c. Against Saul and his sons, ibid. d.
Achme's forgery discovered to Herod, iv. 182, b, e, (I).
 † Acholla, where situate, vi. 669.
 † Achor, the valley of, whence so called, i. 557, c.
Achris, taken by Basilus, vii. 636, b. Vast treasures found in it, 637, a.
Achisaph joins Jabin against Israel, i. 332, c, f.
Achiroes, the king of, killed by a crocodile, i. 230, (I).
Achilus sent against Antiochus, ii. 719. Defeats him, 720, c. Takes Heraclea, 721. Haughtiness to the Ætolians, 722, & seq. Relieves Neopactus, 724, & seq. Takes Lamia, 726, a. Succeeded by Scipio, ibid. f.
 — Glabrio's success against Antiochus, iv. 754, c. Sumptuous triumph, 755, c, d.
 — a proscribed senator, saved by his wife, v. 226, c.
Achmon, the father of Uranus, ii. 257, & seq.
Achris, king of Egypt, joins with the king of Cyprus against the Persians, i. 276, e. Dies, 277, a.
 † Acra, the fortrefs of, built to command the temple, iv. 51, d. Described, 62, b, (X). Besieged by Judas Maccab. 69, a. Fortified by Bacchides, 76, c. Immured by Jonathan, 83, c. Surrendered, 86, b. Demolished, ibid. c. When, ibid. (C).
 † — island, where situate, vii. 116, c.
 † Acradina, one of the four quarters of Syracuse, iii. 4, b, c. Forced by Dionysius, 46, d. Taken by the Carthaginians, 52, d. Delivered up to the Romans, 120, & seq. Taken by Himilco, vi. 763, f, & seq.
 † Acra, St. John de, its ruins described, i. 538, a, b.
 † Acra, a sea-port of Sparta, ii. 386, c.
Acris, taken and plundered, vi. 803, (Z).
 † Acro-Corinth. Vid. Corinth, taken by Aratus, ii. 631, a.
 † Acroe, when and by whom built, iii. 12, d. Described, 114, (S).
Acron, killed by Romulus, iv. 429.
 † Acropolis, the citadel of Athens, ii. 125, 435. Stormed by the Persians, 471, e.
Acrotalus's brave defence of Sparta, ii. 623. Succeeds Areus, 624, f. Slain, 625, e.
Achi, at Athens, whence so called, ii. 438, a.
Actiac æra, how computed, iii. 691, a, b.
 — games, whence, iv. 357, sub not.
 — anniversary forbid by Caligula, 473, d, e.
Actian family, its original, iv. 356, (L).
Actisanes drives Amosis from the throne, i. 258, e. Unites Egypt with Ethiopia, 259, b, c.
 † Actium, where situate, iv. 289, b.
 — the battle of, 291, & seq.
Actor, first king of Ægina, iii. 244, b.
Actors, on the stage, despised among the Romans, iv. 585, (S).
Actuaris, a tribe of the Franks, vii. 548, a.
 † Ad, an old Arabian tribe, vii. 241, c.
Ada, queen of Caria's conduct towards Alexander, iii. 530, a.
Adad, Adar, chief deity of the Syrians, i. 272, a, (E).
Adab, the first wife of Esau, i. See Judith.
Adairwald's peaceful reign, vii. 686, c. 688, a. Poisoned, ibid. f, & seq.
Adam, where created, i. 48, c, d. Forbid the tree of knowledge, 59. Names the birds, beasts, &c. ibid. Takes Eve, ibid. b. His fall, ibid. c—e. Objections to the literal sense, 60, a—d. Confuted, ibid. e, f. By whom tempted,

- tempted, 61. His trial defended, 64. The sad effects of his sin, 65, a. On man, 66, a. Changes made on the earth, 66, d, & seq. Where he dwelt afterwards, 72, c, & (N). His death, 79. Opinions about his repentance, ibid. sub not. And the place of his burial, 79, b.
- Adam*, an appellation of both sexes, i. 44, (N). Rabbinical and Mohammedan dreams about the first man, ibid. & seq. Etymon of that name, 153. A better, vii. 197, (Y).
- † — the city of, where Jordan's waters divided; 553, e, (Y).
- Adar*, the sixth Jewish month, i. 611, (K).
- Adarnasses*, why excluded the succession, iv. 337, c.
- † Adda, Addis, where situate, vi. 666, (A).
- the bridge of, built by Claudius, 186, e.
- Addo's* treachery to Caius, v. 331, d. Punished, 332, a.
- † Aden, its situation and mart, vii. 234, e.
- Alegumbades* preserves young Cavades, iv. 349, e. Put to death for it, 350, a.
- Adherbal* defeats the Romans, iv. 672, & seq. In Italy, 705, a—c.
- his descent, v. 6, a, b. Flees to Rome, ibid. f. Divested, 7, c. Defeated by Jugurtha, ibid. f. Murdered, 8, f. See also vii. 129.
- defeats the Romans at sea, vi. 846, d, e.
- † Adiabene, a province of ancient Assyria, i. 858, b, (D). Subdued by Trajan, vi. 18, f. Reduced by Severus, 110, c, d.
- the kings of, iii. 848, & seq. Embrace christianity, 851.
- † Adiabene subdued by Tigranes, iii. 700, c.
- † Adiba, fortified, iv. 83, c.
- † Adis, taken by Attil. Regulus, iv. 664, a.
- † Adites, their kings, government, &c. vii. 241, & seq.
- Adjutrix* legion's furious onset, v. 610, b. Declares for Vespasian, 629, a.
- Admetus* killed before Troy, iii. 341, d.
- king of Epirus's kindness to Themistocles, 800, c, d.
- Adocus*, conjectures concerning that deity, i. 137, b, (N), (W).
- Adonia*, the meaning of that word, i. 484, (T).
- Adonijah* conspires against David, i. 790. Pardon by Solomon, 792. Put to death, ibid.
- † Adonis, river, in Tingitana, vii. 145, a. Why it appears sometimes bloody, i. 394, c, d.
- the Phœnician deity, who, 400, a, (S). His origin, 402, Worship, ibid. & seq.
- Adonibezak's* arrogance and cruelty, i. 333, d. Punished, ibid. e.
- Adonizedek* besieges Gibeon, i. 332, a. Miraculously cut off by Joshua, ibid. b—d.
- Adramelech*, an Assyrian deity, how represented, i. 861, b.
- † Adramia, who, and where sit, vii. 231, c.
- † Adrana, river, its course, v. 372, (V).
- † Adranum, a city in Sicily, iii. 8, e. Taken by the Romans, vi. 827, a.
- Adranus*, the tutelary god of Sicily, iii. 8, e.
- † Adrastra, whether the same with Parium, ii. 324, e.
- Adrastus*, king of Argos, ii. 357. His kindness to Polynices and Tydeus, 358.
- the last king of Phrygia, 303, & seq.
- † Adria, where sit, vi. 30, a. Waisted by Hannibal, vii. 22, c.
- Adrian*, adopted by Trajan, vi. 9, d, & 25, e, f. Made questor, 11, c. Obsequies to Sura, 13, a. Demolishes Trajan's bridge, 14, d. Pretorship and games, 17, b. Sent into Pannonia, ibid. & seq. Made archon of Athens, 20, b. Governor of Syria, 25, a. Proclaimed at Antioch, ibid. b. Whether really adopted, ibid. f, & seq. Extract and education, 30, & seq. Talents of body and mind, 31, & seq. Mild government, 32, & seq. Letter to the senate, 33, b. Modest entry into Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Success against the Scythians, 34, c, d. Progress through the empire, 35, & seq. Narrow escape in Spain, ibid. e. Return to Rome, Athens, &c. ibid. f, & seq. Goes into the east, 36, & seq. Syria and Egypt, 37, a, b. Observations on those countries, ibid. d, e. Unnatural love to Antinous, 38, b, c. Severity against the Jews, ibid. & seq. Stay and generosity at Athens, 42, c. Sickness, 43, c. Names Verus his successor, ibid. e. Cruelties, 44, b, c. Adopts Antoninus, 45, a. Painful death, 45, c—e. 46, a. Verifies to his soul, ibid. (B). Year of his death, ibid. (C). Obsequies, buildings, &c. ibid. & seq. Huge Mausoleum, 47, b. Character, laws, &c. ibid. & seq. Writings, 48, (D). Temple, 57, f. His wall in Britain, vii. 414, & seq. Expedition thither, 431, d, e, (K). Coins, ibid. e, (L).
- banished for not relieving Syracuse, 573.
- pope, why invaded by Desiderius, vii. 716, pass. Hated to the Lombards, 719, & seq.
- † Adrianople blocked up by the Goths, vi. 381, e. The battle of, 383, & seq. Betrayed to the Bulgarians, 578, d. Taken by the Turks, 645, e. Made the capital of their empire, ibid. f.
- † — a quarter of Athens so called, iii. 742, b.
- † — in Thrace, built by Adrian, iii. 787, d.
- † Atramentum submits to Cæsar, iv. 160, e. Described, vi. 668, d, e. Whence so called, ibid. f. Besieged by the Carthaginians, 800, & seq.
- † — in Cyrenaica, described, vii. 168, b.
- Advafmanes*, defeated by the Romans, vi. 533, e. Besieged by the Scythians, 612, f. Preserved by a stratagem, 613, a.
- † Advatici, who, vi. 120, (V). Defeated by Cæsar, ibid. c. vii. 398, d, (Q).
- † Adultis Emperium, in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
- Adultery*, Moses's laws against, i. 676, a. Placed by some Greek copies before that against murder, ibid. (G).
- strangely punished by Hippomenes, ii. 369, sub not. How by the Athenians, 432, b. Forbid by the Julian law, v. 393, c, (K).
- † Adymachide, their way of fighting, customs, vii. 168, b.]
- † Æa, a city in Colchis, iii. 833, b.
- Æaces* I. tyrant of Samos, iii. 190, c.
- II. treachery to the Ionians, 197, d, e.
- Æacidæ*, king of Epirus, driven out, iii. 459, a. 862, f. Slain by the Macedonians, 461, a. 803, a.
- Æacus*, king of Ægina, one of the three judges of hell, ii. 387, sub not. iii. 244, b.
- Æbutius Elva* made general of the horse, iv. 483, b. Gallantry at the battle of Regillus, ibid. c.
- Ædemon* defeated by the Romans, vii. 159, a, b.
- † Ædepsum, the hot waters of, iii. 249, b.
- Ædes*, king of Colchis, iii. 834.
- Ædiles*, plebeian, their office, iv. 492, e. Officiate as consuls during the plague, 518, d. Chosen from the patricians, 583, b. Discharged from the care of public shows, v. 305, c, d.
- † Ædri, who, and where sit, v. 117, (T). vii. 367, (B). Treachery to Cæsar, ibid. d, e. Protected by him, 118, b. Treachery to him, 127, b. Revolt against the Romans, 409, e, f. Defeated, 410, a. Aversion to kingly government, vii. 367, b, c. Contest with the Arverni, ibid. & seq. Alliance with Cæsar, 368.
- Æetes*, king of Colchis, possessor of the golden fleece, ii. 383, & seq. & (G). His treatment of the Argonauts, 384, a. Fatal end, ibid. b, & (I).
- † Ægates island described, iii. 10, e.
- † Ægean sea described, iii. 202, (R). Islands in it, 203, & seq.
- Ægeates*, whence so called, iii. 271, d.
- Ægeus*, king of Athens, the father of Theseus, ii. 364, a. Released from Minos's tribute, ibid. & seq. Flings himself into the Ægean sea, 365, f.
- Ægialeus* gives name to Peloponnesus, ii. 349, a.
- Ægidius*, the Gaul, marches against Ricimer, vi. 507, a, b. Success against the Visigoths, ibid. c, d. Murdered, ibid. f. Relieves Arles, vii. 513, f, & seq. — Seizes on Childeric's crown, 564, & seq.
- Ægimar*, island, taken by Marcius, vii. 100, d.
- † Ægina, island, described, ii. 705, (S). iii. 243, b. By whom subdued, 245, a. Taken from the Athenians, v. 307, c.
- Ægincans* war against Attica, ii. 458, b. Intercept the Delphic ship, 459, c. Subdued by the Athenians, 487, e, f. Expelled the island, 501. Infest the Athenians, 538, e, f. Infested by the Spartans, 583, & seq. Invaded by the Samians, iii. 189, c. Their revenge on them, 193, b.
- † Ægis, metropolis of Macedonia, plundered by Pyrrhus, iii. 471, f.
- Ægisthus*, the murderer of Agamemnon, killed by Orestes, ii. 357, c.
- † Ægium, the Greeks rendezvous against Troy, ii. 319, a. The assembly of the Achæan states, 677. Made the metropolis of Achaia, 416.
- Ægypt* and Ægyptians. Vid. Egypt, &c.
- Ægyptus*, king of Mycenæ. See Epytus.
- † Ægyra, metropolis of Achaia Propr. ii. 350. Founded by Ægyrus, ibid. Ruined by an earthquake, v. 419, a.
- Ælia Petina* divorced by Claudius, v. 488, a.
- Capitolina, Jerusalem so named, vi. 416, e.
- Ælian's* writings and character, vi. 51, sub not.
- Ælianus Papyr.* chosen consul, vi. 88, e.
- L. his revolt and defeat, 183.
- Desider. governor of Britain, vii. 2, (P).
- Ælius*, Pons, why so named, vii. 414, f. Pætus's ill success against the Gauls, iv. 749, b. — Serenian writings, &c. vi. 149, sub not.
- † Æmatia, Macedonia, why so called, iii. 253, a. Described, 256, a.
- Æmilia*, a vestal, put to death, v. 4, c.
- Musa, her estate adjudged to the Æmilian family, 392, d, (H).
- with two other vestals, put to death, vi. 27, a.
- Æmilianus* proscribed by the senate, vi. 108, f. Defeated and put to death, 109, b. Success against the barbarians, 171, c.
- Scipio. Vid. Scipio, vii. 101, & seq.
- Æmilius*, Paulus, defeats the Perfes, ii. 687, d. Hannibal, vii. 28, c. His death, 30, & seq. — Joins the Rhodian fleet, iii. 150, & seq. — Success against Antiochus, 556, & seq. 559, d.
- Scaurus. See Scaurus.
- Mamercinus, expedition against the Volsci, iv. 505, e, f.
- Lucius, makes peace with the Hetrurians, 509, c. Ill used by the senate, 510, a. Cited by the tribunes, 513, b.
- Æmilus*,

- Æmilius, Muretus*, chosen dictator, iv. 548, f. Resigns his second dictatorship, 549. Chosen a third time, 550, e. Success against the Fidenates, ibid. & seq. Chosen consul, 582, f.
- Papst, chosen dictator 613, f.
- L. chosen dictator, 617, e.
- Barbut, restores the senate and priesthood, 621, a. Defeats the Hetrurians, ibid. c. Sent against the Tarentines, 644, & seq. Against the Sabines, 646, c. Success in Africa, 666, b, &c. Shipwrecked, ibid. e.
- Paulus, subdues Illyricum, 691, c, d. Tried and acquitted, ibid. e. Falls out with his colleague, 709, & seq. Last message to the great Fabius, 710, f. Death, 711, a, (M).
- Paulus's success against the Macedonians, 763, & seq. Death, 765, c.
- Lepidus's unjust attempt against the Vacci, 785, d.
- Muretus, chosen a consul, v. 85, b.
- Paulus, bought off by Cæsar, 129, e. Condemned by the triumvirate, 223, c.
- Lepidus, made Cæsar's colleague, 155, b.
- Germanicus, his success against the Germans, 383, & seq.
- Pasceus restored by Otho, 604, f. Taken prisoner by Vitellius, 632, b, c.
- his court of judicature, vii. 412, c.
- † Æminium, a city in Lusitania, vii. 297, a.
- † Æmina abandoned by Maximian, vii. 138, d. Where sited, ibid. c.
- Æmonia*, the daughter of Deucalion, ii. 381, a.
- the ancient name of Thessaly, ibid.
- † Æneas said to have betrayed Troy, iii. 321. Whether he retired into Italy, 222, c, & not.
- Æneides*, the brave governor of Argos, slain, ii. 671, d.
- † Ænon, where situated, iv. 102, (L).
- † Ætes, from whom descended, i. 168, (D).
- † Ætina islands described, iii. 10, c.
- † Ætians, their original, ii. 759. Government, 761. Religion, 762, d. Trade, &c. 763, d. First inhabitants of Lesbos, iii. 105, d. Protected by Cæsar, v. 149, a.
- † Æolia, part of Asia Proper, ii. 288, d.
- † — in Asia Minor, described, 758, d. Its twelve cities, ibid.
- Æolus*, first king of the Siculi, iii. 13, c.
- king of the Hetrurci, iv. 418, e.
- Æon* and Protegonus, in Sanchoniatho, the Adam and Eve of Moses, i. 86, c, & (N).
- † Ægypta, so called from Epytus king of Mycene, ii. 360, d.
- Æonia*, the mother of Aulonius, her extract, vi. 401, (L).
- Æqui* defeated by the Romans, iv. 489, a. Fall out with the Volsci, 503, c. Invade the Romans with fire and sword, 506, f. Suppressed by Furius, 507, b. By Quinctius, 516, c. 517, c. By Lucretius, 519, a. By Cornelius, 526, c. Made to pass under the yoke, 527. Defeated by Scinius, 531, e. By Valerius, 545, c. By Posthumus, 550, b. Defeat the Romans, 553, c. Defeated by Æmilius, 560, c. By Camillus, 568, & seq. Subdued, 627, b.
- † Ærenoph, where sited, vii. 10.
- † Æria, Egypt, why so called by the Greeks, i. 174, d.
- Æropas*, king of Macedonia, iii. 273.
- guardian of it, 284, d. His message to Agesilaus, ibid. e.
- Æneus*, the son of Priam, ii. 317, f.
- Ætires's* character of king Philip, iii. 295, d. Sent to the amphictyonic court, 305, a.
- Æulopi* of Egypt, more ancient than the Greek, i. 218, d.
- practised physic at Pergamos, ii. 325, & seq.
- worshipped at Cos, iii. 212, d. His statue brought to Rome, iv. 628, e. The story of his birth, &c. ibid. & seq. & sub not. His temple at Carthage, vi. 661, c. Burnt, 691, c.
- † Ælis, river, a boundary of Gaul, iv. 408.
- † Ælita, who, and where sited, vii. 228, c.
- Ælon*, the father of Jason, ii. 383, b. His death, 284, d.
- † Æliti, who, and where sited, vii. [410], c. Their amber trade, ibid. & seq. Conquest, [411], c.
- † Æstians, where situated, iii. 257, b.
- Æternus's* consulship, iv. 532, a. Tribuneship, 545, c.
- Æthiopia* spreads a dreadful plague over the empire, vi. 171, b. Embassy to Constantine, 264, f.
- Æthiopi*ans pay tribute to the Persians, ii. 69. Their king's noble answer to Cambyses's ambassadors, 97, b. See Ethiopia, &c.
- Ætibus*, the supposed founder of the Elean kingdom, ii. 407, b.
- † Ætusa, island, where situated, vi. 672, sub not. 4.
- Ætus* marries Severus's daughter, vi. 108, c.
- governor of Constantinople, his life attempted, 473, c. His rise and character, 478, b, c. Sides with the usurper John, 479, a, b. Submits to Placidia, 480, a. Success against the Vandals, 489, a. Against Attila, 495, a, b. Repulsed at the battle of Chalons, 495, & seq. Undermined by Heraclius, 496, & seq. Murdered by Valentinian, 499, b. See also vol. vii. 471—478.
- prevents Irene's marriage, 560, b. Defeated by the Saracens, 569, f, & seq.
- † Ætna, the burning mount in Sicily, iii. 9.
- † Æolia, from whom named, ii. 409, c. Described, ibid. & seq. Part of Græcia Prop. 344, b. One of the three Grecian states, after the Achæan league, 641. Its government, laws, &c. 703, & seq. Seized by Michael Angel. vi. 629, c, d.
- Ætolians*, great robbers, ii. 409, d. 410, a. 650 c, d. Warlike and brutish, 702. Defeat the Spartans, 638, & seq. Massacred by them, 639. Wars against the Mædonians, 650. Oppose the Achæans, 702. Ally with the Romans, 703. Invade Locris, 704, c. Defeated by Philip, ibid. & seq. Success against him, 707, a. Forced to a peace, ibid. c. Declare for the Romans, 708, d, e. Seated by Philip, ibid. e. Burn some Thessalian towns, ibid. & seq. Oppose the confederate peace, 711, & seq. Declare for Antiochus, 712. Take Demetrius by stratagem, 513, c. And Sparta by treachery, ibid. & seq. Driven out by Philopemen, 714. Choose Antiochus their generalissimo, 715, f, & seq. Routed by the Romans, 720. Sue for peace, 722. Oppressed by the Roman senate, 725, c. Obtain a truce, 726, d. Invade king Philip, 727, b. Gallant defence of Ambracia, 728, & seq. Invaded by the Macedonians, 729, b. Make peace with Rome, ibid. & seq. Their various fates since, 731. Dispressed by Antipater, iii. 451, c. Invade Thessaly, 452, b. Defeated, ibid. c. Treachery to the Acarnanians, 460, pass. Punished, 461, a. Invite Antiochus into Europe, iv. 751, b. Raise new troubles in Greece, 754, b. Obtain a peace, 755, d.
- Ætolus*, the son of Endymion, ii. 407. Founders the Ætolian kingdom, ibid.
- the son of Oxyllus, where buried, 408.
- Æfranius* defeated and killed, v. 50, c.
- forces Sertorius's camp, 92, f. Repulsed, ibid. & seq.
- an indigent consul, 111, c.
- Pompey's general driven from the Pyrenees, 515, c, f. Repulses Julius Cæsar, 136, a. Submits to him, ibid. c. Joins Cato at Utica, 157, b. Defeated and killed, 160, f.
- the poet, his incendium acted before Nero, 544, f.
- Quintilianus conspires against Nero, 551, c.
- Æfer*, Sept. Sever, put to death by Caracalla, vi. 124, d.
- † Æfrica, whence so called, vii. 178, d. Whether ever joined to Europe, ibid. e. Plundered by the Romans, iv. 663, a, b. By their privateers, 675, c, d. By Scipio, 745, c. Subdued by Julius Cæsar, v. 160, f. Faithful to Vitellius, 622, c. Honoured by Adrian, vi. 36, c, d. Revolts against Maximian, 153. Under Cælius, 182, f. Destroyed by Maximian, 241, c, d. Relieved by Conitans, 280, a, b. Submits to Constantius, 285, c. Sadly harassed by the Moors, 349, a. Revolts to Arcadius, 438, f. Returns to Honorius, 440, c. Kept locked up by Heraclian, 461, d. 463, c. Over-run by the barbarians, 482, d, e. Seized by the Vandals, 514, a. Subdued by the Saracens, 544, c, d. 546, a. Plundered by Cn. Scipio, vii. 27, c, d. Ravaged by the Vandals, 532, e, f. 533, c, d. Yielded by the Romans to Genserici, 539, c, f.
- † — Præria described, vi. 664, & seq. Made a Roman province, vii. 137, b, c.
- Æfrican* clergy, privileged by Constantine, vi. 251, d, f.
- Æfricans*, their wretched discipline, vi. 743, (H). Abandoned by the Carthaginians, 767, c, d. Revolt and march against them, 769, b, c. Dispersed for want of a leader, ibid. d. Treachery to their allies, 811, b. Armed after the Roman manner, vii. 30. The success of it, 31, d. Blended with the Libyans, 122, a, b.
- Æfricanus*, cruelly used by Constantius, vi. 294, c.
- Ægabus* foretels a grievous famine, iv. 263, a.
- Ægag*, the first king of the Amalekites, i. 319, c. Taken and spared by Saul, 330, e. Put to death, ibid.
- that name common to all kings, 319, c.
- Ægæmænon*, king of Mycene, ii. 357. Chosen head of the Trojan expedition, 319, & seq. Murdered in his return, 357, c.
- Ægepon*, king of Arcadia, one of the Trojan chiefs, ii. 379, d.
- † Ægar, where situated, vi. 669, c.
- Ægærent*. See Hagareni, vii. 226, d, & seq.
- Ægæsthenes*, king of Elis, ousted by Oxyllus, ii. 408, c.
- Ægæstias's* history of Persia, iv. 324, (B).
- Ægæstoclea* married to Philopater, iii. 646, c. Her sad catastrophe, 647, b.
- Ægæstocles*, tyrant of Sicily, his extract, rise, &c. iii. 79, & seq. Narrow escape, 81, a. Perjury and cruelties to the Syraculans, ibid. & seq. (Vid. & vol. vi. 788, & seq.) Proclaimed king, 82, a. Defeated, ibid. d. His success in Africa, ibid. & seq. 83, & seq. Treachery to Ophellias, 86, a, b. Abandons Africa, ibid. & seq. Cruelty in Sicily, 87, b. Subdues part of Italy, ibid. e, f. Makes peace with Carthage, vi. 790. Plunders it, ibid. & seq. Retaliates their cruelties, 791, b, c. Treachery to the Messenians, ibid. Shut up in Syracuse, 792, d, e. Sails into Africa, 793. Lands and burns his fleet, 794, c—e. Ravages the country, 796, c, f. Quells a mutiny, 803. Proclaimed king of Africa, 807, d. Returns into Sicily, 808, c, (Y). Success there, ibid. b, c. Returns into Africa, 810, c, f. Speech to his army, ibid. (B). Defeated, 811, b. A dreadful uproar in his camp, ibid. e. Returns into Sicily, 812, b. Ratifies the peace with Carthage, 813, b. His death and character, iii. 88. vi. 812, d.

Ægæstocles,

- Agatocles*, the son of Lyfimachus, his success against Demetrius, iii. 440. Poisoned by his father, 468, d.
- † Agathyrna, a city in Sicily, iii. 8, d.
- † Agathyrhan Scythians described, ii. 278.
- Agatzyrius* submit to Attila, vii. 466, c.
- † Agas, a famous rock, ii. 297, b.
- Age*, old, highly revered in Sparta, ii. 565, c.
- Agelas*'s speech to king Philip at Naupactus, ii. 663, c.
- Agelmond* made king of the Gepidae, vi. 301, c.
- Agenor*, first king of Phœnice, i. 408, & seq.
- Agentes* at court reduced by Julian, vi. 325, c.
- Agentor*, a great warrior, ii. 315, d.
- Agerinus* sent by Agrippina to Nero, v. 532, d. Seized and imprisoned, 533, a.
- Agelauus*, king of Sparta, his character, ii. 605, d. Succeeds Agis, 606, b. Sent against the Persians, 607, c. Sudden fall upon them, 141, d. Commands by sea and land, 142, c, 609. Affronts the Boeotians, 608. Recalled by the ephori, 143, 611. Sent against the confederate army, 612. Forces them to a peace, 613, & seq. Invades Boeotia, 615, c. Chosen dictator, 617, a. Invades Arcadia, ibid. Quells a conspiracy in Sparta, ibid. e. Defeats Epaminondas, 619. Despised by Tachos, and helps to dethrone him, 620, pass. & not. His death and character, ibid.
- the uncle of Agis, helps him to reform the Spartan luxury, 626, b. Chosen one of the ephori, 627. Outwits his nephew, ibid. pass.
- Agelopolis*, king of Sparta, succeeds Panfanius, ii. 612. Sent against the Argives, 613, a. Against the Mantineans, 614. Invades the Olynthians, ibid. f. His death, 615.
- the son of Cleombrotus, chosen king of Sparta, 634, e.
- Agelistrata* betrayed and murdered by Amphares, ii. 628, & seq.
- Agides*, the kings of Sparta, whence so called, ii. 398, b. 404, b. A list of them, 538.
- Agilmund*, first king of the Lombards, vii. 615, d. 616, b. Defeats the Vandals, ibid. c.
- Agilo* succeeds the brave Ursicinus, vi. 308, a. Sent against the Persians, 314, c. Promoted by Julian, 324, f. Treachery to Procopius, 368, b.
- Agilulf* chosen king of the Lombards, vii. 684, b. Turns orthodox, ibid. d. Severity to the revolted dukes, ibid. e, f. Conquests on the Roman exarchate, 685, & seq. Truce with it, 686, b. Death and character, 687, c, & seq.
- Aginacius*, unjustly put to death, vi. 361.
- Agis*, his severe reign, ii. 403.
- invades Attica, 507, & seq. 596, & seq. Offers peace to the Athenians, 512, a. Defeats the confederates at Mantinea, 515, c. 599, c. Resentment against Alcibiades, 521, d. Repulsed before Athens, 527, c. 601, c. On a second attempt, 528, a. Successful in a third, 529, & seq. Invades Argos, 598, pass. Makes a truce with them, ibid. & seq. Invades Elis, 599, f. Concludes a peace, 600, a. His death, 605, c.
- the son of Agelauus, sent ambassador to Philip, 621, c. Succeeds his father, ibid. His defeat and glorious death, 622, a.
- the son of Endimidas, reforms the Spartan luxury, 626, & seq. Forced into a sanctuary, 627, a. Betrayed and murdered, 628, b.
- Deposed by Cyneas, iv. 645, c.
- Aglauros*, daughter of Cecrops, her fatal curiosity punished, ii. 363, (F).
- Agnan*, St. the bishop of, opens Orleans to Attila, vii. 474, c.
- Agnes*, St. the church of, built by Constantine, vi. 248, f.
- Agnomén*, among the Romans, what, iv. 444, (Z).
- Agnomidas*, Phocion's enemy, put to death, ii. 553, f.
- † Agroti, who, and where, vii. 228, d, (G).
- † Agrotas. Vid. Agrirentum river, iii. 5, c.
- Agrotian* law, by whom proposed, iv. 504, b. Why opposed by the tribunes, ibid. c, d. Suspended by the consuls, 505, b, f. Proves the cause of new broils, 506, 512, & seq. 517, c. 528, & seq. Revived by the military tribunes, 550. By M. P. Flaminius, 684, d, c. By Tiber. Gracchus, 769, & seq. Agreed to, 791.
- new-modelled by Jul. Cæsar, v. 113. Opposed by the senate, ibid. c, d. Passed by the people, 114, a.
- Agrestis*, Jul. begs to view the desolations of Cremona, v. 629, b. His report of it misconstrued, ibid. c. Kills himself, ibid. d.
- Agreus*, in the Phœnician cosmogony, who, i. 87, c.
- Italius, inventor of hunting and fishing, ibid.
- Agriola*, the mother of Julius, her singular care of him, v. 651, e, f. Killed, 652, b.
- Cæsius Jul. his extract, &c. v. 651, d, e. Sent into Britain, ibid. & seq. Serves under Cerealis, 652, c, d. Promoted by Vespasian, ibid. e, f. His swift success there, 653, a—c. Singular modesty, ibid. d. Wholesome regulations, ibid. e, f. 659, c, f. Supposed to have passed into Scotland, 660, b. Debauches the Britons, 661, a. Skill in fortifying, ibid. b. Strict discipline, ibid. c. Further conquests, ibid. & seq. His conquests in Britain, vii. 431, a—c.
- Agriculture* improved by the sons of Cain, i. 81, a, b. Instruments of, invented by Noah, 85, (N).
- Agriculture* unknown to the ancient Greeks, ii. 346, c. How encouraged by Numa, iv. 437, b.
- Agrirentines*, their success against the Carthaginians, vi. 734, a, b. Their phecies, what, ibid. c, (B). Humanity to the fugitive Selinuntines, 742, d. Preparations against Hannibal, 746, b, c. Resolute defence against him, 747, pass. Become infatuated, ibid. d, c. And mutiny, ibid. f. Abandoned by their mercenaries, 748, d. Dreadful catastrophe, ibid. e, f. Take several cities in Sicily, 801, & seq. Ally with Carthage, 814, d, c. Besieged by, and abandoned to, the Romans, 729, pass.
- † Agrirentum, in Sicily, described, iii. 5, c. When and by whom founded, 12, a. Its famed buildings, 17, d. Besieged by the Carthaginians, 41. Abandoned to them, 42, c. Betrayed to the Romans, 127, c. Besieged and taken by them, iv. 655, & seq. Destroyed by Carthago, vi. 843.
- Agrippa*'s splendid reception in Judea, iv. 147, b.
- the son of Aristobolus, 152, subnot.
- his son Agrippa born, 198. Advanced by Caligula, 757, & seq. The rest see under Herod Agrippa.
- king of Alba, his reign, 421, c.
- Menenius's victory over the Sabines, 479. Advice to the senate, 490, & seq. Speech to the revolted, 491, c. Death and public obsequies, 493, c.
- M. Vipsan, accuses Cassius, v. 220, d. His vain genealogy, ibid. (X). Rescues Salvatienus in Gaul, 265, a. His success there, 277, b, c. Commands the fleet against Pompey, 278, b, c. His success against him, 279, pass. 280, d, c. Valour and reward, 281, a. Brave exploits in Greece, 289, d, c. Commands Octavianus's fleet, 291, c, d. Advises him to resign, 295, b, c. His noble buildings at Rome, 300, d. 310, d, c. Receives dying Augustus's ring, 303, c. Made governor of Syria, 304, a. Of Rome, 307, a. Marries Marcellus's widow, ibid. b. Success against the Germans and Cantabrians, 309, & seq. Raised by Augustus, 311, b. His success in the east, 313, a. 315, pass. Declines a triumphant entry into Rome, 316, a. 317, c. Sent with new honours into Pannonia, ibid. d. His death, character, and offspring, 318, a, b. 407, (F).
- Postumus, the son of the former, 318, c. Adopted by Augustus, 332, c. Banished by him, 334, d. His tender interview with him, 347, c, d. Murdered, 351, a.
- Vibulenus put to death, 451, c.
- the grandson of Herod, imprisoned, 454, f. Released by Caligula, 460, e, f. Made tetrarch by him, 461. Buries the dead emperor, 485, b. Persuades Claudius to accept the empire, 490, pass. Promoted by him, 492, f, & seq. By Nero, 519, c. Goes to salute Galen, 582, f.
- declares for Vespasian, 621, a.
- success against the Dacians, 635, f.
- the son of Felix, destroyed by mount Vesuvius, 659, e.
- † — a city in Apulia. See Argos Hippo, ii. 359, c.
- Agrippina*, the daughter of Agrippa, married to Germanicus, v. 318, c. Accompanies him into Germany, 367, b. Sent away for safety, ibid. c, d. Signal courage at Treves, 377, c, d. Carries her husband's ashes to Rome, 400, c. Her mournful reception, 403, & seq. Caresses of his two sons, 418, c, d. Noble speech to Tiberius, 427, e, & seq. Accused by him to the senate, 436, c, d. Banished, 437, b. Her death, 448, c. Obsequies performed by Caligula, 460.
- Vipsania, married to Asin. Gallus, 355, c.
- daughter of Germanicus, betrothed to Domitius, 435, b. Highly honoured by Caligula, 460, c, d. Debauched by Lepidus, and banished, 475, c, (T). Recalled, 493, b. Murders her husband, 503, d. Proposed to Claudius, ibid. & (O). Married to him, 505, d. Assumes a despotic sway, ibid. & seq. Cruelties, 507, & seq. Treachery to Stat. Taurus, 515, a. To Lepida, ibid. & seq. Poisons her husband, 516, c, d, (A). Hellish policy against Britannicus, 517, pass. Cruelty and ambition, ibid. & seq. Harshness to Nero, 520, d, c. Fawns on him, 521, b. Cabals against him, 523, c. Accused by Silana, and acquitted, 524, c. Unnatural prostitution to her son, 530, d. Journey to Baizæ, 531, & seq. Escapes being drowned by Anicetus, 532, a, b. Hides her repentment, ibid. c, d. Her last words and death, 533, d, e. Funeral, ibid.
- † — Clonia, Cologn, ancient metropolis of the Ubii, 366, a, (F).
- † Agrippina Therna, when built, v. 300, d.
- Abab*'s king of Israel, his miraculous defeat of the Syrians, i. 383, c, d. And in the plain of Aphek, 764, b. Generosity to Benhadad, ibid. c, d. Marries Jezebel, and grows an idolater, 809, a. Reproved for leaving Benhadad, 811, a. Murders Naboth, 812, a. Fatal expedition against Ramoth, ibid. d, & seq. His death, 813, a. His seventy sons killed, 819.
- Abariman*, Atriman, the Persian name of the devil, i. 31, d.
- Abasphuerus*, al. Astyages, king of Media, ii. 20, c.
- Artaxerxes. See Artaxerxes, ii. 130, a, & iv. 11, & seq.
- Abaz*, king of Judah, invaded by the Philistines, i. 339, a. His wicked reign, 381, a. Invaded by Edom and Ilaci, 332, b. His idolatries and death, ibid. d.
- Abaziah* succeeds Ahab in Israel, i. 813, c. His idolatry and death, ibid. d.

- Abenobarbus, Cai. Demit.* his peaceful consulship, v. 46, a. Character, 121, c, d. Narrow escape, ibid. e. Betrayed to Jul. Cæsar, 121, f, & seq. 133. Letter to Pompey, ibid. (G). Defends Marcellus, 135, c, d. Blames Pompey's ambition, 142, b. Whimsical quarrel with Spinther, ibid. d. Slain in his flight, 146, b.
- Brutus's admiral defeats the triumvirs fleet, 248, c. Surrenders to Antony, 269, c, d. Forgiven by Octavius, 270, d. Retires to Athens, 286, a. Abandons Antony, 289, f. His death, 290, a.
- Abimam*, one of the three sons of Anak, defeated by Caleb, i. 334, a, (B).
- Abimelech* put to death by Saul's orders, i. 767, a.
- Abimelech* revolts to Abialom, i. 783, d. His hellish advice to him, 784, d. Hangs himself, 785, b.
- Abitub*, the son of Phineas, supposed to have succeeded him, i. 756, b.
- Abi. Al Tabitib*, a Mohammedan sect, i. 8. Their opinion of the origin of things, ibid.
- Aboli-bamab*. See Bajhemab.
- Abolihama*, a curious artist of the tabernacle, i. 523, b.
- Abyrte*, daughter of Sefostris, i. 254, c.
- Ad*, the king of, repulses the Israelites, i. 331, a. Defeated and put to death, 558, a.
- † Ajalon, the valley of, where the sun stood still, i. 558, c, (G).
- Ajax* shipwrecked, ii. 321, f. His tomb, 305, b.
- king of Salamis, iii. 176.
- † Aidab, a port near Mecca, vii. 238, a.
- Aio* defeated and killed, vii. 692.
- Ajon*, king of the Lombards, vii. 615, d.
- † Air, mount, where, vii. 237, d.
- Air* worshipped by the Carthaginians, vi. 692, a.
- † Aix, in Provence, by whom built, iv. 802, b.
- † Al Arakk, where sited, vii. 241, a.
- Ala*, wing, how composed among the Romans, v. 369, (N).
- † Al-Balriva, the eastern part of Delta, i. 176, c. Its more probable situation, ibid. d.
- † Al Abba's region whence so called, vii. 238, a.
- † Al Hegb'r, Hejr, Egra, where sited, vii. 238, c.
- Alachis's* revolt and pardon, vii. 697, d—f. Treachery and punishment, 698, a—c.
- Aladin's* sham paradise described, ii. 19, b. & not. His family and empire, vi. 629, a.
- † Alala, a city in Sicily, iii. 8, c.
- Alala*, the Macedonian huzza, ii. 269, c.
- Alamundarus* defeated by the Romans, iv. 340.
- abortive threats against the Romans, vi. 475, a. Commands the Saracens against them, 525, a. Repelled in Syria, ibid. b, c.
- † Alani, where situate, iv. 319, c, v. 650, c. Irruption into Media, 320, f. Revolt against Adrian, vi. 41, c. Quelled under Antoninus, 58, a. Defeat Gordian, 162, c.
- † Alans, where situate, vi. 379, c. Ally with the Hunns, ibid. d. Enter Gaul, 462, b. Settle in Spain, ibid. d, e. Defeated by Vallia, 472. Submit to Gonderic, ibid. Settle along the Loire, 485, c. Defeated in Italy, 507, e. Submit to Attila, vii. 466, b. Invaded by him, 480, b, c. By Thorismond, ibid. d. Regain their liberty, 482, a. Where settled, ibid. Defeated by Wallia, 510, a. Assist the Vandals, 529, c—e. Enter Spain, 530, a, b. Their territories there, ibid. f, & seq.
- Alaric*, a Frank general under Theodosius, vi. 424, a. Dreadful havoc in Syria, 438, c—e. Promoted by Arcadius, 445, c—e. Invades Rome, 447, f. His extract and character, 448, a, b. Second invasion, 449, b, c. Ravages Italy, ibid. d. Defeated, 450, c, d. Exorbitant demands on Honorius, 455, e, f. Supported by the barbarians, 458, a. Blocks up Rome, ibid. b. Railes the siege on very hard terms, ibid. d. Second siege of Rome, 459, f, & seq. Moderate demands on Honorius, 460, e, f. On the city of Rome, 461, a, b. Proclaims Attalus through Italy, 462, a. Deposes him, and confirms Honorius, 462, d, e. Treachery to him and Attalus, ibid. & seq. Takes Rome, 464, b, c. Dies, 465, b. Buried in the bottom of a river, ibid. c.
- driven out by the Hunns, vii. 492, e. Serves under the Romans, 504, c, f. Stirred up by Rufinus, 505, a. His dreadful ravages, ibid. b—f. Spirited up by Stilicho, 506, a. Preferred by Arcadius, ibid. c. Chosen king of the Goths, 507, d. Irruption into Italy, ibid. & seq. Peace with Stilicho, 508, a. Corrupted by him, ibid. b, c. Enters Noricum, ibid. d. His death, 509, a, 575, f.
- † Alba, the kingdom of, by whom founded, ii. 222, c, iv. 421, b. Why called Longa, ibid. Where situate, ibid. (G). The kings of, 421, & seq.
- demolished by the Romans, 443, b.
- † — the lake of, overflows, iv. 558, c. Cut into canals, ibid. c.
- † Albana, a city in Albania, iii. 837, d.
- † Albania, the kingdom of, described, iii. 837, & seq. Why so called, vii. 421, (A).
- Albanian* soldiers, whence so called, vi. 132, d. Revolt to Heliogabalus, ibid. & seq. Murder the two Maximians, 159, c.
- Albanians*, their simple manners, iii. 837, e, f. Government, &c. 838, & seq. Subdued by Trajan, vi. 18, c. Refuse to come to Adrian, 37, b.
- Albans*, their contests with the Romans decided, iv. 440, & seq. Treachery punished, 442, & seq.
- † Albanus, the river of, 837, d.
- St. martyred in Great Britain, vi. 216, c.
- Albia Dominica*, married to Valens, vi. 366, c. Brought to bed of Valentinian, ii. 369, c.
- Albinovanus* proscribed, v. 60, b. Treachery to the consuls, 72, c.
- Albinus Postum*, a friend to Massiva, v. 11, f. Ill success in Numidia, 12, b. Banishment, ibid. c.
- Lucius murdered by the Moors, 614, f, & seq.
- Clodius opposes Cassius, vi. 76, a. Consulship, 79, b. Success in the North, 87, c. Against the Frisians, 90, a. Made governor of Britain, 92, d. His extract and character, 101, f, & seq. Hatred of monarchy, 102, b. Gluttony, ibid. c. Described by M. Aurelius, ibid. (L). Tampered by Severus, 105, c. Created Cæsar, 108, a. Assumes the purple, 111, c. Defeated, 112, b. 113, c, f. His death, ibid. & seq.
- ill success against Jugurtha, vii. 130.
- sent ambassador to Attila, 480, a.
- † Albion, the ancient name of Great Britain, vii. 401, a, b.
- † Albium, Intemelium, plundered by Otho, v. 605, f.
- Albifeda*, converted, vii. 569, f. Dies, 570, a.
- Albinus's* cruelty to Cunemundus, vii. 597, d, e. Marries his daughter, ibid. f. Reigns in Italy, 615, d. Valour and reward, 617, c, d. Reign and conquests, ibid. & seq. (in Italy) death and character, 620, e, f.
- Albucilla's* condemnation and punishment, v. 452, d. 453, b.
- Alcanna*, a shrub in Egypt, described, i. 183.
- Alcetus*, king of Macedonia, iii. 273.
- brother of Perdiccas, betrays Eumenes, 421, f. Proscribed, 423, c. Joins himself to him, 424, a. Defeated, ibid. & seq. His death, 425, a.
- first king of Epirus, driven out, 800, f.
- second, defeated by Cassander, 803, c. Murdered, ibid. d. & 461, c.
- Alcibiades*, the rival of Nicias, his character, ii. 513, c. Leagues with the Argives, 514, c. Defeat into Melos, 516, b. Accused of sacrilege, 517, b. Retires to Sparta, ibid. In high esteem there, 518, 600, c. Sent to invade Ionia, 521. Cabals against the Athenians, 522, a. Recalled, 524, a. Beats the confederates, 526. Takes Byzantium, 527, c. Stripped of his command, 528. His retirement and death, 532, pass. & (N).
- invades Sicily, iii. 26, & seq. Recalled to Athens, 27, c.
- Alcimalus* settles democracy in Greece, iii. 327, c.
- Alcimus* promoted to the Jewish high priesthood, iv. 69, c. Brings a war in Judea, 70, b. Perfidy to the Asideans, ibid. e. His dreadful end, 76, b.
- his writings and character, vi. 316, (G).
- Alcymus*, king of Lydia, ii. 333.
- Alcyonius* generously reproved by Pyrrhus, iii. 472, d.
- Alectrio*, a sacred person among the Syrians, i. 375, d.
- † Alemanni, Alemanni, where seated, vi. 125, & seq. First ravage the empire, ibid. Why so called, vii. 404, (A). Their origin, 588, c. Territories, government, &c. ibid. d, e. Wars, ibid. & seq. Ravaged by Maximin, 589, b. 590, c. Defeated in Gaul, ibid. c. By Claudius, ibid. d. By Aurelian, ibid. e. Break into Italy, 590, a. Defeated, ibid. b, c. Sixty thousand cut off by Chlorus, ibid. d, e. Defeated by Julian, 591, b—c. 592, pass. Break into Gaul, ibid. & seq. Thrice defeated there, 593, pass. Peace with Valentinian, ibid. e, f. 594, b. Break it, ibid. c. Defeated by Gratian, ibid. d. Settled in Switzerland, ibid. e, f. In Alsace, 595, a. Defeated and dispersed by Clovis, ibid. b, c.
- Aleppo*, taken by Hyrcan, iv. 92, a.
- Aleria*, taken by Scipio, vi. 833, d, (Q). By the Romans, iv. 660, b.
- Aletes* invades Corinth, ii. 394, c.
- deified for discovering a silver mine, vii. 65, (Q).
- Aletus* sent to view the effects of a dreadful earthquake, v. 392, c.
- Aleus's* cruelty to his daughter, ii. 379, b.
- Alexamenus* sent to assassinate Nabis, ii. 638, & seq. 713, & seq. Massacred by the Spartans, 714, e.
- Alexander*, the son of Priam. Vid. Paris, ii. 318, a.
- king of Macedon, his noble revenge against the Persians, ii. 106, f.
- stratagem against their ambassadors, iii. 274, & seq. Speech to the Athenians, 277, & seq. Warns them against Mardonius, 279, a. Generosity to the Argives, ibid. d.
- II. succeeds Amyntas II. 285, & seq. Outwits the Thebans, 286, a. His death, ibid. c.
- the Great, born, iii. 291, a, & (C). Made regent during Philip's absence, 299, & seq. Saves his life, 305. His encounter with Attalus, 310, c. Recalled to court, 311, a. Whether privy to his father's murder, 314, (P). His character, education, &c. 312, (N). 317, & seq. Declared general of Greece, ibid. c. Invades the Triballi, &c. ibid. & seq. Sudden return into Greece, 320, d. Takes and sacks

- sacks Thebes, 321, & seq. Visits Diogenes, 322, a. Expedition into Asia, ibid. & seq. Victory at the Granicus, 325. Comes to Ephesus, 327, d. Why he dismisses his fleet, 328, a. Invades Caria, 330, a. Quells a conspiracy, 331. His passage through the ladders, whether miraculous, ibid. (H). March through Phrygia, 332, c. Cuts the Gordian knot, 333, e, d. Enters Cilicia, ibid. f. Fights Darius at Issus, 335, & seq. His generosity to his family, 336, (I). Invades Carolyria, 337. Letter to Darius, 338. Moderation towards the Greek ambassadors, 339. Cruelty to the Tyrians, 342. Answer to Darius, 343. Respect to the Jewish high-priest, ibid. & seq. Takes Gaza, 344. Journey, and new city, in Egypt, 345, & seq. Consults the oracle there, 347. Settles the Egyptian government, 348, b, c. Passes the Euphrates and Tigris, 349. Victory at Guagamela, 350, & seq. March to Babylon, 353. To Sula, 354. Destroys Persepolis, 356, & seq. Marches into Media, 357. Pursues Darius's assassins, 359. Vain attempt against luxury, 362. Conspired against for it, 363. Severity to the conspirators, 365. Cruelty to the Branchids, 368, (S). Ill success against the Scythians, 371. Degenerates, 374, & seq. Kills Clytus, 375, & seq. Conspired against, 380. Re-enters Sogdia, 382. Love to Roxana, 384, d. March towards Indus, 385, & seq. Cruelty to the Indians, 388, b, c. Passes the Indus and Hydaspes, 390. Treatment of king Porus, 392. Penetrates further into India, 393, & seq. Stops at the river Hypafis, 394. His strange vanity, 395, (E). Embarks his army, 397. In great danger from the Malli, 398. Sails down the Indus into the ocean, 401. Goes by land to Babylon, 402, & seq. Takes two wives, 405, b, c. Generosity to his army, ibid. & seq. Quells a mutiny on the Tigris, 406, & seq. Marches into Media, 407. To Babylon, 408, & seq. Threatened by ill omens, 409, & seq. & (N). His death, 411, & seq. & (O). Character, 412. Vast designs set aside, 418, b, c. Buried in Egypt, 421. Some account of him out of the Oriental writers, ii. 229, & seq. Visits the tomb of Achilles, 305, b. Outwitted by the Lampiadians, 324, & seq. His friendship to the Jews, iv. 28, & seq. Revenge on the Samaritans, 30, b. His tomb shut up with all the learned books, vi. 115, c. Visited by Caracalla, 126, e, f.
- Alexander, the son of the former, iii. 413, a. Imprisoned by Cassander, 462, a. Murdered, ibid. b.
- the son of Polyperchon, his character, iii. 453, d. Favoured by Antigonus, 459, d, e. Made general of Peloponnesus, ibid. f. Murdered, 460.
- the son of Cassander, drives his brother out of Macedon, 473, b, c. Put to death by Demetrius, ibid. & 442, b. 465, c.
- king of Epirus, allies with Philip, iii. 801, b. Wars with the Brutii, ibid. d. Deceived by an oracle, ibid. e. Defeated and killed, 802, a, b. His character, ibid. c, d.
- the son of Pyrrhus, invades Macedon, iii. 473, a. 820, c, d. Driven out by Demetrius, ibid.
- the son of Perseus, sent prisoner to Rome, iii. 499. Forced to a private life, 504, d.
- a sham son of Perseus, invades Macedon, iii. 505, d, e.
- prince of Syria, revolts against Antiochus, iii. 530. His tragical end, 533, c.
- Balas, set up against Demetrius, iii. 594, a. Courts the Jews, 595, b. Vid. iv. 78. His letter to Jonathan, ibid. (Q). Great honours to that pontif, 79, c, d. 80, d. Kills Demetrius, ibid. & seq. Marries Cleopatra, 596, b. Degenerates, ibid. & seq. Abandoned by Philometor, 598, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. & seq. His character, 599, (K), 600, & seq. Coin, 601, sub not.
- Zebina, set up against Demetrius, iii. 611, & (S). His character, 612, b. Assisted by the Jews, iv. 93, b. Defeated by Physcon, 613, a. Death, ibid. Coin, 622, sub not.
- the son of Physcon, set up against his elder brother, iii. 659, b. Kills his mother, 662, a. Defeated and killed, ibid. c.
- the grandson of Physcon, murders Cleopatra, iii. 665, c. Banished for his cruelties, ibid. e, f. Bequeaths Egypt to the Romans, 666, a, b.
- the Pherean, wars against the king of Macedon, iii. 285, f. Murdered, 292, a.
- the son of Eropas, conspires against Alexander the Great, iii. 331, a, (G).
- king of Emessa, taken prisoner, iii. 848.
- the son of Hyrcan, his first education, iv. 94, (V). Why surnamed Jannæus, ibid. Imprisoned by Aristobulus, 96, c. Mounts the throne, 97, & seq. His fratricide, 98, a. Ill success against Ptolemæis, ibid. b. Defeated by Lathyrus, ibid. & seq. By Theodotus, 99, a. His bloody revenge on the Gazeans, ibid. Affronted at the altar, ibid. d, (E, F). Cruel revenge for it, 100, a. Defeated by the Syrians, ibid. & seq. Cruelty to the rebels, his wars, conquests, ibid. & seq. & (K). Vid. & iii. 616, f. 660, & seq. Why spared by Cleopatra, 661, e. His death, iv. 102, b, c. Last advice to his queen, ibid. & seq.
- the son of Aristobulus, escapes out of Pompey's hands, iv. 112, & seq. Wailes Judea, 113, c. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. d. Besieged by them, 114, a. Defeated by Gabinus, 115, b. By Cassius, 116, b. Beheaded by Pompey, ibid. & seq.
- Alexander, the brave son of Herod, married to Glaphyra, iv. 143, b. Pleads his own cause before Augustus, 148, b. His desperate confession, 149. Condemned, and put to death, 151, b, c.
- the pretended son of Mariamne, raises a party, iv. 191. Discovered by Augustus, ibid. d, e.
- Tiberius, made governor of Judea, iv. 263, d.
- king of Epirus, invades Italy, iv. 599, e. Allies with Rome, ibid. f.
- the Epicurean's opinion of the origin of things, i. 7.
- pretor of Ætolia's speech to the Roman consuls, ii. 709, & seq.
- the orator, made general of the Rhodians, v. 234, f. Defeated, 235, c.
- the son of Cleopatra, made king of Armenia, v. 285, a.
- the Roman emperor, born, vi. 132, e. Adopted by Heliogabalus, 137, a. Hated and degraded by him, ibid. b. Saved by the soldiers, ibid. c, d. Proclaimed emperor, 138, a. His extract and excellent education, ibid. b, c. Character, ibid. d, e. Respect for the christians, ibid. & seq. Reforms the state, 139, a. Marries Sulpitia Memmia, ibid. b. Mildness to Camillus, 139, f. Expedition into Germany, 140, b, c. Retires into Campania, 141, c. Treatment of Artaxerxes's ambassadors, 142, a. Noble speech to the revolted legion, ibid. c, d. Admirable discipline, ibid. f, & seq. Various accounts of his Persian expedition, 143, & seq. Victory over them, 144, pass. Speech to the senate, ibid. b, c. Triumph, ibid. f. Hastens against the Germans, 145, b. Murdered there, 146, b. His excellent character, ibid. & seq. Public works, 148, a, b. Learning, ibid. c, d. Cotemporary authors, ibid. (Q).
- bishop of Jerusalem, martyred, vi. 168, d.
- bishop of Constantinople, his zeal and death, vi. 266, c.
- a cruel governor of Antioch, vi. 329, f.
- the brother of Leo, made regent, vi. 577, a. His vile character, ibid. d, e, k. Death, 578.
- Alexandra, queen of the Jews, gains over the Pharisees, iv. 103, a, b. Embassy to Tigranes, 104, & seq. (iii. 701, d.) Supplanted by Aristobulus, 105, b. Her death, ibid. d. Falsely confounded with Salome, ibid. (M).
- daughter of Hyrcan, cabals against Herod, iv. 122. Resentment for the death of her sons, 124, d. Imprisoned, 135, c, d. Confined at Masfada, 138, b. Base behaviour to her excellent daughter, 139, & seq. Put to death, 140.
- the temple of, at Amyclæ, ii. 397.
- † Alexandria, the metropolis of the lower Egypt, i. 176, b, c. When and by whom built, iii. 363. Belieged by Antiochus, 577. Filled with Jews, iv. 30, pass. 35, b. Courted by Cleopatra, 98, c. The massacre of, 269, a.
- † — rebuilt by Adrian, vi. 37, e. Enriched by M. Aurelius, 79, d. Ruined by Caracalla, 127, d, e. In a dreadful case under Macrianus, 179, a. Plundered by the Romans, 213, b, c. Laid under water, 328, b.
- † — the museum of, described, vi. 37, f.
- † — in Cilicia, by whom built, ii. 341, c.
- † — upon the Sinus Asiæus, i. 361, a.
- Alexandrians, their fidelity to Philometor, iii. 575, c. Opposed by Physcon, 655, & seq. Massacred, 657, b. Fifty thousand Jews murdered, iv. 269, a.
- raise a tumult against Cæsar, v. 151, c, d. Base confession to Caligula, 468, d, e. Flattery to Nero, 545, d. Ingratitude to Adrian, vi. 37, e, f. Massacred for lampooning Caracalla, 127, e, d. Acknowledge Æquilianus, 181, a.
- Alexandrian library described, iii. 629. Destroyed by the Saracens, 630.
- † Alexandrion, the fortress of, described, iv. 109, (Q).
- Alexis, Salome's husband, releases the Jewish chiefs, iv. 148, a. Speech to the army, ibid. b.
- Alexus the patriarch's base complaisance to Zoc, vi. 595, c.
- Comnenus, founds the empire of Trapezond, vii. 288, & seq. See Comnenus, &c.
- Alexon defeats a piece of Roman treachery, vi. 845, c, f.
- Alexus. See Alexander the Roman emperor, vi. 132, & seq.
- Afus Mar. defeated by the Romans, iv. 719.
- Alford, father, contuted, vi. 227, c.
- † Algæ, a city in Eubæa described, iii. 249, c.
- Algebra, known among the Egyptians, i. 218, a.
- † Altiacmon, a river in Thessaly, ii. 382, a. In Macedon, iii. 260, c.
- † Aliptera described, ii. 655, (G).
- † Aisj, river, its course, v. 381, d, (P).
- Allienus left prætor in Sicily, v. 158, c. Brings succours to Cæsar, 159. Made prætor of Sicily, 169, c.
- Allies, the war of, v. 47, b. A general revolt of them, 48, f. Their success against the Romans, 49, & seq. Revolt to Cinna, 61, a, b.
- † Allibrogæ ambassadors discover Catiline's conspiracy, v. 106, c.
- oppressed by Valens, 609, c. Where situate, vii. 397, (L).
- † Alton Baccut, why so called, i. 448, b.
- Almab, Jewish virgins, whence so called, i. 679, (P).
- Almodas, the son of Joktan, uncertain where he settled, i. 170, a.

Almop.

- † Almopians, where situate, iii. 257, b.
 † Alpeconnius, where situate, iii. 783, a.
Alorus, the same with Adam, i. 91, a.
Alphabet, how enlarged by Claudius, v. 486, (N). Hebrew and Samaritan, i. 719, c.
Alpharag writes in defence of the Sadducees, iv. 167, f.
 † Alpheus, the famed river, described, iii. 406, (F).
Alpinus's rise and character, v. 331, c, (N).
Alpinus, Jul. put to death by Cæcina, v. 601, a.
 † Alps, Apennine hills, whence so called, ii. 249, b. Augustus's monument upon, v. 306, a.
Altars, their structure among the Scythians, ii. 272.
Altamenes, why settled in Crete, iii. 132, b, c.
Altea, the fable of, ii. 411, (C).
 — the city of, taken by Hannibal, iv. 691, a.
Alutius, severely punished by Hannibal, vii. 49, d, e.
Alufianus, undermined at Constantinople, vii. 638, b. Treachery to Delecanus, ibid. d. Submits to the emperor Michael, ibid. e, & seq.
Alvates's wars with the Scythians, &c. ii. 334. His tomb 328, c.
Alynotboe, Priam's wife. Vid. Arifba, ii. 317, f.
Amadocus, king of the Odryæ, iii. 794, a.
Amalaric, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.
 — in Spain, his territories restored, 645, a—c. 647, e.
Amalasuntha married to Eutaric, vii. 647, a—c. Her excellent administration and character, ibid. & seq. Opposed by the Gothic lords, 649, e, & seq. Makes Theodotus her colleague, 650, e, & seq. Imprisoned by him, 651, b. Put to death, ibid. c.
Amalek, the son of Elau, and father of the Amalekites, i. 317, c. One of the dukes of Edom, ibid. His genealogy according to the Arabians, 317, (A). The tribe of, vii. 243, e.
Amalekites, their descent, i. 317, e. Why severed from Elau's line, 318. Their first settlement, ibid. Use of Circumcision, 319, b. Their government, arts, &c. ibid. & seq. Fall foul on the Israelites, 320, a. Defeated by Joshua, ibid. b. By Saul, ibid. c—e. By David, 321, a. Burn Ziklah, and run away with the plunder, ibid. b. Defeated afresh, ibid. c. Utterly destroyed by the Simeonites, ibid. e. Why laid under a perpetual anathema by Moses, 512, b. 665, d. Whether the same with the Greek Shepherds, 280. The Arabians and Egyptians account of them, 317, a. 319, (F). Supposed to have fled into Afric, ibid.
Amali, the princely tribe of, vii. 487, e. 492, d. 647, b.
Amalric digged up and burnt for his false doctrine of God, i. 8.
Amalthea, one of Jupiter's nurses, iii. 165, b.
Amantius's revolt in Gaul, vi. 207, e. Defeated, 258, d.
Amantius conspires against Justin, vi. 523, a.
Amasa, treacherously murdered by Joab, i. 787, c.
 † Amasia, a city in Pontus, described, iii. 720, d.
Amasiah succeeds his father Joab, i. 824, e. Defeats the Edomites, 825, c. His idolatry, ibid. d. Defeat and death, ibid. & seq.
Amasis dethrones Apries, i. 270, a. His stratagem to gain respect from the Egyptians, ibid. c, d. Magnificent portico at Sais, ibid. f. Other stately works, 271, a, b. Visited by Solon, ibid. c, d. Marries a Greek, ibid. e, f. A miracle pretended on that occasion, ibid. f. His donatives to Greece, 272, a, b. Subdues Cyprus, ibid. b. His latter days, why unhappy, ibid. d. Betrayed by Phanes, 273, b, c. Falls out with Polycrates, ibid. d. His letter to him, iii. 191. Breaks his alliance with him, and why, ibid. e. His death, ibid. His body dug up and burnt, 274, f.
Amasis, Ammosis, dethroned by his subjects for his oppressions, i. 258, d, e.
 — his body abused by Cambyfes, ii. 96, d.
 — stratagem against Barca, vii. 173, b, (E).
Amastris, murdered by her sons, iii. 825, b.
 † — the city of, built by her, ibid.
 † Amatha, the palace of, burnt, iv. 189, a, (T).
 † Amathus, a city of Cyprus, iii. 173, d.
 — taken by Janneus, iv. 98, f. Destroyed by him, 100, b. Made one of the five courts of judicature, 114, b.
Amazons, mothers of the Sarmatians, ii. 266, c. Their Scythian name, 277. An account of those female warriors, 278, sub not. Overcome by Hercules and Theseus, 366, sub not. Some further account of them, iii. 721, c, d.
Amathusians, why they sacrifice to Onesilus, iii. 178, b.
Amber, plenty of, in Prussia, vii. [410], & seq.
Ambiani subdued by Cæsar, v. 119, f.
Ambigani send colonies into Italy, iv. 561.
Ambiorix over-reaches the Romans, v. 124, b. Defeated, 126, c. His account of his regal power, vii. 368, c.
 † Ambracia, a city in Epirus, iii. 796, b. Taken by Philip, ii. 653, b. By the Romans, 727, f. 729, e.
 † Ambracian gulph, where situate, v. 239, a.
Ambraciots drive away the Macedonians, ii. 549, c.
Ambrones defeated by Marius, v. 34, & seq.
Ambronian women, their valour, vi. 35, e.
Ambrose, St. his rise and acquaintance with Probus, vi. 363, e. Highly esteemed by Gratian, 391, b. Noble speech to the usurper Maximus, 400, c. To Theodosius, 414, e, f. Sent to baptize Valentinian, 419, e. His panegyric on that prince, 420, e, f. Letter to Eugenius, 422, e. Called into the Theffalonican massacre, 427, d, e. Letters to queen Fritigil, 438, a. His death, 439, a.
Ambrosius, Aurel. succeeds Vortigern, vii. 445, e. Defeats the Saxons, 446, a. His progress through England, ibid. b, c. Victories over the Saxons, ibid. d, e.
Ambustus, Fab. his untimely complaisance to his daughter, iv. 578, e. Chosen military tribune, 579, f. His success against the Tyburges, 591, d. Chosen dictator, 592, f.
Amenophis, supposed by some to be the same with Belus, i. 492. Conjectures about the time of his reigning, ibid. (B).
 † America, how first peopled, &c. i. 104, b. Whether the Atlantis of Plato, 179, b, c.
Americans speak of a flood, i. 95, e.
Amelius's writings and character, vi. 196, & seq. sub not.
Amida, the god of the Japonese, i. 34, d.
 † — the city of, destroyed by Sapor, iv. 334, d. Taken and preserved by Cavades, 335, c. Surrendered to the Romans, 346. Fortified by Constantius, vi. 371, a. Besieged by Sapor, 306. Its dreadful catastrophe, 307, b, c. Restored by the Nisibians, 348, d. Taken by the Persians, 520, c, d. Restored to the Romans, ibid. e, f.
 † Aminci new peopled by the Franks, vi. 203, b.
Aminadab, the father-in-law of Aaron, i. 490, a.
Aminander, king of Acarnania, joins with the Ætolians, ii. 708, a. Dethroned, 727, a. Restored, ibid. b. Intercedes for them, 729, d.
Aminias, a Rhodian chief, killed, iii. 142, b.
Amisodarut, king of Lyeia, ii. 319, c.
 † Amisus, a city in Pontus, described, iii. 720, c. Surrendered to Lucullus, 744, d. 747.
Amitta, the same with Jonah, i. 827, (A).
Amitemum taken by Cervilius, iv. 636, d.
 † Ammer mount, where situate, vii. 164, a.
 † Ammianus Marcellinus, an account of his history, iv. 334, (I). Goes with Ursicinus to Rome, vi. 29, a, d. Into the east, 306, f. Joins him at Mitylene, 307, e. His character of Julian, 335, & seq. A chasm in his history, 378, e. His writings and character, 385, (K).
Ammibud, king of Gethur, i. 391, c.
Ammon, the son of Lot, by his youngest daughter, i. 292, e. — king of Judah's idolatry, 841, b. Death, ibid. c. — Jupiter, the temple and oracle of, iii. 347, d. Its pleasant situation, vii. 168, (B). Dialogue with Alexander the Great, ibid.
Ammonites, their origin, i. 292, e. Where settled, ibid. Their religion, laws, &c. 293, b, c. Dispossessed by Sihon the Amorite, 294, c. Recover it, till driven out by Jephthah, 295, b, c. Defeated by Saul, ibid. d, e. And David, 296, b. An account of that war, 297, b, c. Destroyed by David's forces, ibid. Defeated by Jeholaphat, ibid. c. Brought under tribute to Uzziah, ibid. d. To Jotham, ibid. d. Subdued and carried captives by the Babylonians, 298, b, c. Obstruct the rebuilding of the temple, ibid. d. Subdued by Judas Maccabeus, ibid. e. Flourished still in the second century after Christ, ibid. Now blended with the Arabians, ibid. &c. Excluded from the congregation till the tenth generation, 665, c. The reason of it, ibid. & 287, b. 293, c.
Ammonius, the scholar of Probus's doctrine of the eternity of the world, i. 5.
 — governor of Antioch, his cruelties, iii. 596, c. Murdered by the Antiochians, 598, d.
 — writes against the Sadducees, iv. 167, e.
Amnon, the son of David's incest with Tamar, i. 780. Murdered by Abialom, 781, d.
 † Amorites, ancient inhabitants of Canaan, i. 323, c. Hedge the Danites in the mountains, 334, c. Reduced by them and the house of Joseph, 335, a. Subdued and enslaved by Solomon, 337, b.
Amorium, taken by the Saracens, vi. 545, c. Retaken, ibid. d. Why engraven on their shields, 569, e. Betrayed and razed, 570, a.
Amosis, king of Diospolis, conjectures about the time of his reign, i. 231, (M). And his abolishing human sacrifices at Heliopolis, 259, a. 231, (M).
Amphares, the murderer of Agis and family, ii. 628, & seq.
Amphæa surprised by the Lacedæmonians, ii. 511, a.
 † Amphaxia, the region of, described, iii. 256, c.
Amphialus settles at Pergamus, iii. 800, a.
Amphiaras, a famed soothsayer, drawn into the Theban war, ii. 358, b.
Amphicrates, wars against Ægina, iii. 189, c.
Amphyktion, the son of Deucalion king of Athens, ii. 303.
Amphyktionis, the general court of Greece, held at Delphos, ii. 388. Some instances of their high power, ibid. & seq. Declare for Alexander the Great, 549. Condemn the Locrians, iii. 306, d. Chuse Philip their general, ibid. e.
Amphylitus's prophecy to Pisistratus, ii. 450, c.
Amphimachus's lot after Alexander's death, iii. 423, a.
Amphion, the usurper of the Theban throne, ii. 373, c.
Amphipolis taken from the Athenians, ii. 511, f. Rejects the Nicæan peace, 512. Taken by king Philip, 542, c. Vid. & iii. 290, c.
Amphipolus of Syracuse, his office, iii. 78, a.
Amphitrye conquers Cephalonia, iii. 242, b.

Amphitryon's

- Amphitryon's* wife deflowered by Jupiter, ii. 355, c. His fatal end, ibid. c. His temple at Rhamnus, 361, d.
- † Amplissa, the metropolis of Ozolea Locria, ii. 312. By whom built, ibid. (E). Destroyed and rebuilt, 402, b. Besieged by the Romans, 726.
- † Ampaga, river, where, vii. 108, a, b. Described, 111, e.
- Amram*, the father of Moses, his extract, i. 477, b.
- † Amivari, a tribe of the Franks, vii. 548, a.
- Amulius* dethrones his brother, iv. 421, c. His cruelty to his offspring, ibid. & seq. Murdered, 423, c.
- † Amur, a river in Scythia, ii. 267, d.
- Amurat's* success in Europe, vi. 645, e, f. Severity to his son ibid. & seq. His death, 646, b.
- II. repulsed before Constantinople, 648, a, b. Defeated over and over by John Huniades, ibid. c, d. Signal victory over him, ibid. e, f. Haughty demands on the emperor John, ibid. & seq. His death, 649, b.
- † Amyclæ, the city of, described, ii. 397, a. Taken by the Mellenians, 579, d.
- Amyclas*, king of Lacedæmon, ii. 400, c.
- Amyclean* security, a proverb whence, ii. 400, c.
- Amycus*, king of the Berbraces, defeated by Pollux, ii. 383, (H).
- Amyntas* invades Egypt, ii. 162, b. Cut off by the Persians, ibid. & sub not.
- his reception of the Persian ambassadors, iii. 273, & seq.
- Zeal for the Persians, 276, & seq. Cuts off the usurper, 285, a. Subdues the Olynthians, ibid. b, c.
- Alexander's governor, murdered, iii. 320, d.
- his general, suspected of treason, iii. 366, d. Cleared, ibid.
- a Galatian prince abandons Brutus, v. 249, b. Follows Antony, 288. Leaves him in the lurch, 289, f. His death, 300, c.
- Amyntus* and Magus, famed in the Phenician records, i. 134, a.
- Amyrteus*, driven by the Persians into the fens of Egypt, i. 276, a, b. Drives them out of the kingdom, ibid. Defeated by them, and dies, ibid. c.
- Anac*, Anax, the father of the Anakims, vi. 673, a, (A). Whence so called, ibid. See further in Anak.
- Anacharsis*, put to death for bringing the Grecian worship into Scythia, ii. 272, (B). 285, b.
- Anactes*, or Dioscuri, at Carthage, vi. 694, c. 695, a, (Z).
- † Anacus, a river in Sicily, iii. 10, b.
- Anak*, one of the seven dukes of Edom, i. 312. The meaning of his finding the mules in the wood, 313, c, (O). The progenitor of the Anakims, 333, (L). His three sons driven out by Caleb, 334, a.
- Anakims* invaded and cut off by the Israelites, i. 333, c. Their origin, ibid. (Z).
- Anamelech*, an Assyrian deity, how represented, i. 861, c.
- † Ananim, who so called, i. 165, c. Where settled, ibid.
- Ananias*, an obscure priest, made high-priest, iv. 132, b. Deposed, 133.
- † Ananes, where settled in Italy, iv. 561, f.
- Ananias*, a Jewish time-server, iii. 849, c, f.
- a famed Jew of Alexandria, iv. 98, c. His advice to Cleopatra, ibid. c.
- the son of Nebedeus, made high-priest, iv. 263, e. Murdered by the Zelots, 269.
- Ananus*, a proud Sadducee, made high-priest, iv. 266, e. Puts St. James to death, ibid. & (H). His fatal complaisance to the heretics, 267, b. Made governor of Jerusalem, 270, d. Heads the peaceable party there, 174, a, (Y). Betrayed by Githala, ibid. b, c. Put to death, ibid. & (A).
- Anapbas* I. and II. kings of Cappadocia, iii. 764.
- † Anapis, a river in Sicily, iii. 5, b.
- † Anat, river, in Lusitania, vii. 299, a.
- Anastasia*, daughter to Constantius, vi. 226, e. Married to Basilianus, 227, a. Murdered by the soldiers, 275, a.
- daughter of Valens, vi. 285, d.
- wife of Tiberius, created Augusta, vi. 533, c. Insulted by her son's ministers, 547, e.
- Anastafius* created emperor, vi. 517, c. His rise, extract, &c. ibid. & seq. Excellent beginning, 518, pass. Insulted on account of a new tax, 519, b. Narrowly escapes being massacred, ibid. e, f. Invaded by the Persians, 520, c. — e. Makes a long truce with them, 521, a. His long wall built, ibid. b, c. Persecutes the orthodox, ibid. & seq. Treachery to Vitalianus, 522, b, c. Death and character, ibid. d, e. Confirms Theodoric king of Italy, vii. 525, e.
- patriarch of Antioch, massacred by the Jews, vi. 538, d.
- Phocas's minister's conspiracy and death, vi. 538, e, f.
- Artemius proclaimed emperor, vi. 550, c. His excellent character, ibid. Banished, ibid. d, e. Resumes his claim, 551, f, & seq. Put to death, 552, a.
- Anatbema*, among the Jews, some instances of, i. 630, e.
- Anatomy*, early cultivated in Egypt, i. 219.
- Anaxagoras*, the Ionic philosopher, his doctrine, i. 18, c, d. Reforms that sect, 19, c. His notion of two eternal principles, 25, c. Of the origin of the world, 28, d.
- Pericles's preceptor, accused of impiety, ii. 498, c. His philosophy and banishment, ibid. (G).
- Anaxander*, king of Sparta, ii. 577, c.
- Anaxarchus* pounded to death, iii. 179, c.
- the sophist's flattering speech to Alexander, 378, c.
- Anaxidamas*, king of Sparta, ii. 577.
- Axaximander* king of Sparta's character, ii. 583.
- his origin of things, i. 18, d. Doctrine and writings, ibid. & (N).
- Anaximenes's* cosmogony, ii. 19.
- saves Lampacus, iii. 325, a.
- † Anazarbum, a city in Cilicia Propria, ii. 341, b.
- Ancaus*, one of the pilots of the Argonauts, ii. 384, sub not.
- Ancharus's* singular love for his country, ii. 302, & seq.
- massacred by Marius, v. 64, d.
- † Anchiale, in Cilicia Propria, by whom built, ii. 341.
- Anchises* saved from the flames of Troy, ii. 314, c.
- Anchor*, why borne by the Seleucids, iii. 510, a, (A).
- † Ancona, the port of, built by Trajan, vi. 22, a.
- † Ancyra, by whom built, ii. 302. Taken by Cossroes, iv. 366, f.
- Ancyran* marble, described, v. 346, b. 348, b.
- Ancus Mart.* chosen king of Rome, iv. 444, d. His success against the Latins, 445, b. Against the Sabines, ibid. & seq. His death, 446, c, d.
- Andate*, her temple in Britain, vii. 456, c.
- † Andersbister, razed by the Saxons, vii. 447, a, b.
- † Andes, mountains of Peru, their height, i. 102, (N). Whether the Sephar of Moies, 169, c.
- Andranodorus*, son-in-law to Hiero, iii. 103, e. Debauches young Hieronymus, 101. Becomes head of a party, 103, f. Submits to the senate, 104, e, f. Undermines the republic, ibid. & seq. Put to death, 106, b.
- Andrew*, called by Christ, iv. 199. Made an apostle, 208, (T).
- Andrians*, their answer to Themistocles, iii. 227, a.
- Andriscus* set up for the son of Perseus, iii. 501, b, c. Sent prisoner to Rome, ibid. e. Escapes into Thrace, 502, a. Invades Macedon, 503. Beats the Romans, 504, b. Defeated, 505. Sent prisoner to Rome, ibid. d.
- refuses to succour the Carthaginians, vii. 101, b.
- Androcles*, king of Mycene, killed in a fray, ii. 507, e.
- Androclus* leads the Ionians to Ephesus, ii. 755, d.
- Androestus* invades the Romans, iv. 687, c. Kills himself, 688, d.
- Androgeus*, the son of Minos, killed at Athens, ii. 364, iii. 166, f.
- Andromachus* restored by the Rhodians, iii. 145, d.
- noble answer to the Carthaginians, vi. 777, b.
- his poem on theriac, v. 578, (T).
- Andronicus* forced to surrender Tyre, iii. 433, b.
- Perseus, put to death, 488, a.
- the murderer of Onias, put to death, iii. 574, c, d. Vid. & iv. 48, & seq.
- a cruel governor of Samaria, 577, a.
- excommunicated and degraded, vi. 466, a.
- Ducas, betrayed by Samonas, 576, a. Flees to the Saracens, ibid. c. His death, ibid. d.
- the son of Ducas, left under guardianship, 603, f. Treachery to Diog. Romanus, 605, d, e.
- revolts against Alexius, 620, f. Declared his guardian, ibid. d. His horrid butcheries and impiety, ibid. & seq. Defeated by William king of Sicily, 622, b, c. His dreadful end, ibid. e. The rest see under Paleologus.
- Andronidas* unjustly condemned, ii. 696.
- † Andros, island, described, iii. 226. Subdued by the Athenians, 227, a, b.
- the metropolis of the island, besieged by Themistocles, 227, a. Its ruins described, ibid. d.
- Androsthenes* defeated by Nicostratus, ii. 672.
- Anebo*, a famed Egyptian priest, i. 13, b.
- Aneptia* put to death by Simplicius, vi. 361, c.
- † Angaucani, where seated, vii. 140, d.
- Angels*, the meaning of that word, i. 48. Their nature, 49. Almost universally acknowledged, ibid. & seq. Their several degrees, 50, a, b. The fallen angels, and their offence, ibid. & seq. Tutelar, believed by Jews and Gentiles, 59, d, e. Some absurd opinions confuted, 81, (N). Traditions concerning them among the Turks, Persians, &c. 83, & seq. Worshipped by the Arabs, 246, f, & seq.
- † Angiers, seized on by Childeric, vii. 564, a, b.
- † Angles, Anglo-Saxons, their coming into England, vi. 400, d. Their origin, vii. 441, & seq. Settlement, ibid. b. Joined to the Saxons, ibid. c. Why called Angli, 442, a, b. Assist the Britons, 443, d. A tribe of the Suevi, 450, c.
- † Anglesey, taken by the Romans, v. 536. vii. 430, e, & seq. Some brutish customs among them, ibid. f, & seq. Retaken by Agricola, 653, c.
- Anglia*, whence so called, vii. 441, b.
- † Angrivarii dispossess the Bructerii, v. 370, (Q). Put them to fire and sword, 382, a, b. Where fixed, ibid. (T). Submit, and are pardoned, 385, a. Their gratitude, ibid. d, e.
- Anicetus* invades Pontus, iii. 760, f. Delivered up to the Romans, 761.
- his contrivance for drowning Nero's mother, v. 531, a.
- Defeated, 532, b. Sent to dispatch her, 533, f. Murders her, 534, d, e.
- revolts in Pontus, 635, f. Defeated, 636, a. His death, ibid. b.
- Anicius* triumphs over Illyricum, iii. 498, (E). iv. 764.
- Animals*, monstrous, mentioned by Berolus, i. 90, a. Worshipped by the Egyptians, 210, a, b, c, d.

- Anio*, the battle of, iv. 582, b. 588, b.
Anna, the daughter of Metinus, i. 415, e.
 — the prophetess, her testimony of Christ, iv. 163, b.
 — the empress, instigated against Cantacufen, vi. 643, a, b. Deceived by his enemies, 644, a, b.
 — Perenna worshipped at Carthage, vi. 692, b.
Annas deposed from the high priesthood, iv. 194, b. Sends Jesus to Caiaphas, 235, a. Two of his sons succeed in the dignity, 266, (H).
Annaeus Serenus, a confidant of Nero's amours, v. 521, a. His character, ibid. (R).
 — Cornut. banished by Nero, 567, d. His excellent character and writings, ibid. (S).
Annian family, vi. 60, & seq. Converted to christianity, 415, d.
Annibalianus made king of Pontus, vi. 226, c. Murdered by the soldiers, 275, a.
Annius's forged history, how discovered, iii. 522, (M).
 — king of Delos, iii. 231, d.
 — L. his embassy rejected by the senate, iv. 600, a.
 — success against Sertorius, v. 85.
Annaeus præfatus, his office, vi. 356, e.
Anointing, why used by the antients, vii. 19, (H).
Anquialum taken by the Goths, vii. 497, e.
† Ansuarii, Anfinarii, who, and why so called, vii. 549, c, d.
Antæus's kingdom, when began, vii. 121, d, & seq. His shield worshipped by the Moors, 150, e. One of the first kings of Mauritania, 153, b. Overcome by Hercules, ibid. c, d. The rest see under Atlas, ibid. & seq.
Antalcidas, the peace of, ii. 539, b. Dishonourable to the Greeks, 613, b, & not.
† Antandros, island, whence so called, iii. 226, d.
Antediluvian patriarchs, a chronological table of, i. 69, a. Their genealogy, 76.
 — kings of Chaldea, their history, 91.
 — world, the state and religion of, 107, d, c. The causes of their longevity, 105, a, b. 209, pass.
† Antemne, where sit, iv. 429, (Y). Taken by Romulus, 430, b.
Antenor's embassy into Greece, ii. 314, d. Lands with the Heneti, on the Adriatic shore, 315. His progeny, ibid.
Antibakab, the Oriental name of Antiochus, iv. 372, (A).
Antibemius's rise, vi. 452, a. Excellent government, 466, a. 458. Extract and character, 459, a, b. Resigns to Pulcheria, 470. Beats the Huns, &c. 506, f. 608. Reception at Rome, ibid. e. Deposed by Ricimer, 511, c, d. See also vol. vii. 486, c, d. 537, pass.
† Antiopephagi, who, and where, vii. 184, d.
Antioch, defeated by Camillus, iv. 570, d. Submit to the Romans, 607, d.
Antigene's lot after Alexander's death, iii. 423, e. Treachery to Eumenes, 430. Cruel punishment, ibid. f.
Antigene, buried alive for burying her brother, ii. 374, d.
 — daughter of Laomedon, a haughty princess, 317, b.
† Antigonia, razed by Seleucus, iii. 514, f.
Antigonus, deified by the Athenians, ii. 554, b. Chosen general by the Achæans, 631, 647. Abandons the Argives, 648. Beats the Lacedæmonians, 632, 649. Takes Sparta, 650. Defeated and killed, 634, 650.
 — his lot after Alexander's death, iii. 417, b. 423, f. Defeats Alcetas, 424, & seq. Outwitted and defeated by Eumenes, 425—428. Treachery to him and his friends, 429, & seq. Marches into Babylon, 431, c. Seizes on Syria and Phenice, 432, 433. Invaded by the confederates, 435, b, d. Takes the title of king, 437, b. His extract, &c. ibid. & seq. Ill success in Egypt, 438, & seq. And against the confederates, 440, & seq. Slain at Issus, 441, a.
 — the son of Demetrius, his filial piety, iii. 447. Singular gentleness, 466, c, d.
 — Gonatus, seizes Macedon, iii. 470, e, f. Defeats the Gauls, 471, e. Success against Pyrrhus, ibid. & seq. Deserted by his men, 473. Takes the citadel of Corinth, ibid. f. His death, 474.
 — Dofon, regent of Macedon, iii. 475, b—d. Friendship to Aratus, 476, c. Success against Cleomenes, ibid. & seq. Kindness to the Spartans, 477, a. His death, ibid. d, e.
 — seizes on Judæa, iv. 35, a. His cruelties there, ibid. & seq.
 — Socbo, made president of the sanhedrim, iv. 36, c. His doctrine, death, &c. 40, c.
 — the son of Hyrcan, sent against Samaria, 94, a. Put to death, 96, & seq.
 — the son of Aristobulus, sent prisoner to Rome, 112, d. His petition to Cæsar rejected, 117, d. Invades Judæa, 123. Defeated by Herod, ibid. c. His second invasion, 124. Besieged in the temple, ibid. & seq. Enthroned, 126, a. Cruelty to Hyrcan, &c. ibid. & seq. Over-reached, and driven from Massada, ibid. & seq. His charge against the Roman senate, 128, a. Defeated by Herod, 130. Besieged and taken, ibid. & seq. Put to death by M. Antony, 131, b, (E).
† Antiliban, mount, whence so called, i. 87, a.
Antillius stabbed in the capitol, iv. 806, e.
Antinus's death, an account of, vi. 38, b, c.
† Antioch, upon the Orontes, a famed city of the Mediterranean Seleucis, i. 361, a.
† Antioch the metropolis of Syria, iii. 509. By whom built, 414, e. Described, ibid. & seq. Burned by the Jews, 602. Besieged by the Parthians, iv. 306, c. Taken by Coirhoes, 352, e. Declares for Cæsar, v. 148. Damaged by an earthquake, vi. 21, c. By fire, 58, f. Rebuilt by Antoninus, 59, a. Punished for siding with Cassius, 79, c. Disfranchised and restored by Severus, 110, b. Plundered by Sapor, 174, b. Retaken by Valerian, ibid. d. Razed by Sapor, 176, f. Relieved from a famine by Constantine, 264, e. Depopulated by a fresh famine, 327, c. Raises a sedition, 408, b, c. Severely punished for it, ibid. & seq. Pardonned by Theodosius, 411, e, f. Gratitude to Eudocia, 485, a, b. Ruined by an earthquake, 506, a. Under Justin, 523, f. Destroyed by the Persians, 526. By an earthquake, 533, a. Taken by Burzas, 584. By the crusaders, 615, e.
 — the famous port of, built, 277, e, f.
 — its stately portico, built by Rufinus, 472, e, f.
 — the metropolis of Mygdonia, where sit, iii. 532, (R).
† Antiochene, whence so called, i. 361, a.
† Antiochia ad Taurum, a city in Comagene, i. 360, d.
Antiochians, impious mourning for Germanicus, v. 398, & seq.
Antiochis, her spurious progeny, iii. 592.
Antiochus, king of Melicna's embassy to Sparta, ii. 570, & seq.
 — king of Syria, invited into Greece, ii. 713. Lands at Pteleum, 715, f. Speech to the Ætolians, 716, a. Advances with Hannibal, 717, f. Takes Eubœa, 718, b. Marriage and dotage, 719. Defeated at Thermopylæ, 720, & seq.
 — Soter, his success in Sicily, iii. 148, d. Retreat into Sardinia, 150, e. Defeated at sea and land, 151, b—c. Pretensions to Macedon, 470. Succeeds his father in Syria, 522. Yields Greece to Antigonus, 523, a. Why furnished Soter, ibid. c. His defeat and death, ibid. & seq. Coin, 620, (W).
 — Theos, whence so called, iii. 523, e. Ill success in Egypt, 524, d, e. Makes peace with Ptolemy, 525, e. Poisoned by his wife, ibid. & seq. His coin, 620, (W).
 — Hierax, wars with his brother, iii. 528, a. Expelled Syria, ibid. & seq. His death, 529, e.
 — the Great, ill success in Egypt, iii. 531, c—f. 533. Success against Ptolemy, 535, & seq. 537. Defeated by him, 539, b. Success against Arfaces, 541, b. In Bactria, ibid. e. India, 542, b, c. Recovers Palestine, 544. Conquests in Asia Minor, &c. ibid. & seq. Answer to the Roman ambassadors, 546. Wars against the Romans, 548, & seq. Invades Paphlagonia, 550, & seq. Conference with the Romans, 551, & seq. Marriage, 554, e. Defeated, ibid. & seq. 559, e, f. His ill conduct, 560. Sues to the Romans, 561. His gallant army, 563. Defeated at Magnesia, 564. Peace with Rome, 565, & seq. & (Q). Death, 567. Reign foretold by Daniel, 568, (R). Coin, 620, (W).
 — Epiphanes, sent hostage to Rome, iii. 543, 565. Exchanged, 570. Mounts the Syrian throne, 571, f. Wars with Egypt, 573. Injustice to the Jews, 575, d. Conquers Egypt, ibid. & seq. Profanes and plunders the temple, 576, & seq. See also vol. iv. 50, & seq. His career stopped by the Romans, 579. Wreaks his vengeance on the Jews, 580, & seq. His gambols at Daphne, 581, & seq. Repelled at Elymais, 583. His miserable end, ibid. & seq. Coin, 620, (W).
 — Eupator's reign, iii. 585, a. Ill success against the Jews, 586, & seq. Treachery to them, 588, b. Death, 591, c, d. Coin, 621, not.
 — the son of Balas, set up by Tryphon, iii. 602, b, (L). Crowned at Antioch, 603, a. His coin, 622, (W).
 — Sidetes, why so called, iii. 606, (O). Letter to Simon the Maccabee, ibid. e. iv. 81, & seq. Treachery to him, 607, & seq. iv. 85, pass. Beats the Parthians, 608. Grants to the Jewish high-priest, iv. 84, a. Perfidy to him, ibid. b, c. Encourages Ptolemy against the Jews, 89, b. Invades Judæa, 90. Reception at Jerusalem, ibid. & seq. His death, 92, a. iii. 609.
 — Gryphus, iii. 612. Success against Cyzicenus, 613, f. 614, e. Divides the kingdom with him, ibid. f, & seq. Relentment against Hyrcan, iv. 93, b. His death, iii. 613, c. Coin, 622, not.
 — Cyzicenus, iii. 615, b. Invades Judæa, iv. 94, a. Defeated and killed, iii. 615, e.
 — Eusebes, defeats Seleucus, iii. 615, d. Wars with Philip, ibid. f. Driven out, 616, & seq.
 — Dionysius supplants his brother Philip, 616. Cut off by the Arabians, ibid. e.
 — Asiaticus, sent to Rome, 617, c. His adventure at Syracuse, ibid. & seq. Reigns over part of Syria, 619, d. Stript of it by Pompey, ibid. & seq. His death, 620.
 — king of Comagene, restored by Pompey, iii. 853, b. Put to death, ibid. c.
 — II. his son, ibid. d.
 — III. assists Vespasian, ibid. e.
 — IV. serves under the Romans, ibid.
 — a Persian, tutor to Theodosius, iv. 338, c.
 — the valley of, seized by Jannæus, iv. 102, a.
Antipater, the son of Herod, by Cleopatra, iv. 152, sub not. Made tetrarch of Galilee, 184, a. Supplants Archelaus, 186, & seq. The rest see under Herod Antipater.

Antipater's

- Antipater's* character, iii. 309, b. Conduct in Greece, 353, c, d. Success against Agis, 354, a. Whether guilty of Alexander's death, 411, & seq. (O). His post after it, 417, a. Chosen protector to his son, 423, d. His extract, &c. 448, u, b. Ill success against the Greeks, 449, pass. Makes peace with them, 450. Wars with the Ætolians, 451. Chosen protector, 452, a. His death and successor, 453, pass. & (B).
- the son of Cassander, his bloody parricide, iii. 465, a. Expulsion and death, ibid. & seq.
- the son of Philip, chosen king of Macedon, 470, c.
- the father of Herod, his descent, iv. 104, (R). Character, 106, & seq. Carries Hyrcan into Arabia, ibid. 107, &c. Pleads his cause before Pompey, 109. Ingratiates himself with the Romans, 113, b. Services to Gabinius in Egypt, 114, d, e. To Cæsar there, 116, e, & seq. Ample rewarded, 117, c. Overawes the Jews, 118, b. His progeny, ibid. (H). Sends money to Cassius, 121, c. Poisoned, 121, & seq.
- the favourite son of Herod, 147, e, (D). Cabals against his two brothers, ibid. & seq. Plots against his father, 151, d, & seq. How discovered, 152, d. Decoyed back to Jerusalem, 179, b. Condemned for treason, 181, pass. Put to death, 183, & seq.
- the son of Salome, his bitter speech against Archelaus, 186, c.
- the sophist, his writings and character, vi. 120, (N).
- † Antipatris built by Herod, iv. 148, c.
- † Antipatrus, brother of Leosthenes, defeated, ii. 551, b, c.
- † Antiphan's biting answer to Dionysius, iii. 59, c.
- † Antissa, a city in Lesbos, iii. 203, & seq.
- † Antistius, P. butchered by young Marius, v. 71, c.
- Venus, marches against Bassus, 170, b. Friendship to Brutus, 215, d, (T). Saved by his wife, 226, c. Success in Cantabria, 299.
- Labeo, his merry stratagem in the senate, 311, c.
- the prætor, banished for satyrising of Nero, 541, b---d.
- Lucius, his timely advice rejected by Plautus, 542, (G).
- Antonia* married to Ahenobarbus, v. 294, b.
- her sister, married to Drusus, ibid. Her fidelity to him, 321, e, f. Why not at Germanicus's funeral, 403, (C). Her cruel death, 464, b.
- timely information against Sejanus, 437.
- daughter of Claudius, married to Cn. Pompeius, 487, c. 492, b. To Sylla, 499, c. Refuses to marry Nero, 559, d. Put to death, ibid.
- † — the fortrefs of, taken by the Zelots, iv. 269. By the Romans, 283, b.
- Antoninus Pius*, his first consulship, vi. 34. Adopted by Adrian, 45. Speech to the senate, 46, b. Why surnamed Pius, ibid. & 54, & seq. His extract, &c. 49, & seq. Time of his adoption, 54, b, c. Made high pontif, 55, a. Love for learned men, 56, a, b. Public buildings, ibid. & seq. Why esteemed by all nations, 57, a, b. 56, & seq. Letters in favour of the christians, 58, c. Death, 59. Obsequies, ibid. & seq.
- † — his wall in Britain, where, and when built, vii. 415, a.
- Why surnamed Britannicus, 432, a, (M).
- the son of Petronius, put to death, 91, c.
- Antonius* stabs Sertorius, v. 96, c.
- the consul, swayed by Cicero, 104. His partiality to Catiline, vi. 106, a---c.
- the younger son of M. Antony, his character and fate, 204, b.
- Julius, chosen consul, 219, d. Put to death, 326, (H).
- Caius, made governor of Macedon, 200, c. Ill success against Brutus, 216. Taken prisoner, 217, a. Put to death for rebellion, 233, b, c.
- Lucius, his death and character, 427, c.
- Antony, Mark*, acquitted of debauching the vestals, v. 5, d. Suppresses the pirates, 34, a. Chosen consul, 42, d. 42, c. Assassinated, 65. His character, 66, & seq.
- the father of the triumvir, defeated by the pirates, 95, b. Sent against Aretium, 133, a. Made Cæsar's general, 135. Delays coming to him, 139, b. Made governor of Italy, 153, a. Defeats Dolabella, 154, c, d. Disobliges Cæsar, 155, a, b. Flattery to him, 173, c, d. Preserved by Brutus, 187, b. Artful speech to the senate, 192, b. To the people, in praise of Cæsar, 195, a, (G). Outwits the senate, 192, & seq. Contempt of Octavian, 196. Made governor of Gaul, 199, a. Artful speech to his officers, ibid. & seq. Falls out with Octavian, 200, & seq. Marches against Brutus, 202, & seq. Proscribed, 203, b. 209, b, c. Success against the consular troops, 205, & seq. Surprises Lepidus, 210, c. Joins with Octavian, 221. Success against Brutus, 222, pass. Interview with Octavian and Lepidus, ibid. f. Execrable resolution, 223, c---e. Cruelties. Vid. sub Triumvirate, 224, & seq. To Cicero, 229, b, c. March into Macedon, 232, d. To Amphipolis, 242, b. Success against Brutus, 251, & seq. Funeral honours to him, 256, c. Behaviour to the Asiatics, 258, & seq. 260, d, e. Captivated by Cleopatra, 261, & seq. Shameful life with her, 268, pass. & (D). March into Italy, 269, c. Divides the empire with Octav. 270, b, c. Returns to Athens, and fines it, 273, & seq. Frighted by omens from joining Octav. 275, d, (M). Interview with him, 277, e. Returns into Syria, 278. Shameful profusion to Cleopatra, 283, f, & seq. Partiality to Herod, iv. 133, & seq. To the Jews, ibid. d, e, & (O). Gets Herod chosen king of the Jews, 126. Bafe partiality to him, 134, f. March against Octav. v. 285. Behaviour at Samos, &c. ibid. d---f. His will in favour of Cleopatra produced, 286, c. Accused for it, 287, b, c. Degraded, ibid. f. Recriminating letter to Octavian, 288, c, d. Narrowly escapes his snare, 290, d, e. Order of his fleet, 291, b, c, (U). Bafe flight after Cleopatra, 292, d, e. Defeated at sea, ibid. & seq. Mad behaviour since, 293, d, e. Death and family, 294, b. Three of his descendants become emperors, ibid. c.
- Antony, Primus*, banished for forgery, v. 540, e.
- Honoratus's noble speech against Nymphidius, 584, c, d.
- Antyllus*, Antony's son put to death, v. 274.
- Primus, declares for Vespasian, v. 621, f. Sends the Illyrians against Vitellius, 622. His success in Italy, 623, b---d. Comes to B-driacum, 625. His bravery against the Vitellians, ibid. & seq. At Cremona, 626, & seq. Advances to Fano, 629, f. Passes the Apennines, 630, d. Saves the capitol, 633, a, (A). Drives the Vitellians into the city, ibid. & seq. Takes it, 634, a. His unmerciful plunder of it, 635, c, d. Envied by Mucianus, 639, b, c. Over-reached by him, 645, b---d. Retires to Vespasian, ibid. c.
- Anubis*, an Egyptian deity, i. 205, f. The son of Osiris, by Nepthe, 243. The temple of, demolished, v. 402, a, (A).
- Anulius*'s orders in favour of the christians, vi. 251, c, e, f.
- Anytus* drives the Moors out of Pentapolis, vi. 467, c.
- Aon*, the son of Neptune, settles in Boeotia, ii. 370, c.
- † Aones, whether ancient Grecians, ii. 345, b. Admit Cadmus in Boeotia, 372, a. Their origin, ibid. (C).
- † Aorni, the mountains of, described, vii. 185, e.
- † Aornus, a city of India, described, iii. 388, f. The rock of, taken by Alexander, 389, c.
- † Aofia, by whom founded, iv. 299, f.
- † Apamea, metropolis of Apamene in Syria, i. 361, a.
- † — of Phrygia major, ii. 292, c, & not.
- † — by whom built, iii. 515, a. Taken by Triarius, 173, c. By Colchæes, iv. 366. Plundered and burnt by him, vi. 532, d. 539, c. By the Scythians, 174, c.
- Apaturian* festival, whence, ii. 762, a, & not.
- Ape*, said to have been born of a woman, v. 507, (Q).
- worshipped by some Africans, vi. 709, (A).
- Apelles*'s project of enslaving the Achæans, ii. 654, & seq.
- Oppolus* Antigonus, 657, a. Forgiven by him, 659: Tyranny and death, 660, & seq.
- † — where born, iii. 212, f.
- Apelicon*'s noble library, iii. 738.
- Aper* murders Numerianus, vi. 205, b. Killed by Dioclesian, 206, d.
- † Apbek, a city in Syria, i. 384, b.
- the battle of, ibid. c. The walls of, crush 27000 Syrians, ibid.
- Apberesia*'s war with the Persians, ii. 183. Subdues them, 186. Repulsed by Zalzer, 187, 190, & seq. By Rustan, 196, e. Driven out of his dominions, 197, b. Taken and put to death, ibid.
- Apobis*, king of Egypt, his extract, i. 231. Supposed to be Joseph's Pharaoh, ibid. (L).
- † Apbrodisias, in Cilicia, whence so called, ii. 340, d.
- Apbydat*, king of Athens, ii. 368, d.
- of Arcadia, 379, a.
- Apicata*, divorced by Sejanus, v. 416, e. Her letter to Tiberius, 442, d. Poisons herself, ibid.
- Apicius*, a famed epicure, v. 415, (Q).
- † Apiole taken by Tarquin, iv. 447.
- Apion*, made king of Cyrene, iii. 658, f. Bequeaths it to the Romans, 662.
- Apis*, how worshipped at Memphis, i. 206, c. Why represented by a bull, ibid. f. His oracle how consulted, 211, c. When his worship first began, 239, (D).
- killed by Cambyes, ii. 98, b. Whether the same with Mnevis, vii. 209, b, c, (B).
- king of, 350, b. Split into two by chronologers, 352, d.
- king of Argos, a cruel tyrant, 352.
- the city and temple of, vii. 168, a, b.
- † Apocalypse, the house of, at Pathmos, iii. 212, b.
- Apocryphal* books trumped up by heretics, iv. 161, in fin. (C).
- Apodemus*, an informer, burnt alive, vi. 325, c.
- Apollinaret*, the two, banished and murdered, vi. 291, f.
- Apollinarians* suppressed by Theodosius, vi. 415, b. By Arcadius, 439.
- Apollo*, the son of Chronus, supposed the Phut of Moses, i. 137, (R). Why set over the Mules, 242, b. In great repute among the Phœnicians, 399, a.
- worshipped by the Scythians, ii. 272, b. Trojans, 309, d. By the Gauls, vii. 355, pass. Why surnamed Smynthian, 310, b. Grynæw. 755, a. Didymæus, 762, d. Branchides, ibid.
- his temple and statue at Delos, iii. 228, b, c. Offerings how performed, 229, d, e. Oracle, ibid. & seq.
- temple of, plundered by Cæpio, v. 27, d, e. The sacrilege punished, 29, a.
- dedicated by Caligula, 468, d.
- at Babylon, plundered, iv. 321, c. At Carthage, plundered, vii. 103, e.
- † Apolis,

- † Apollon promontory, where situated, vii. 115, d.
 — temple at Rome, burnt, vi. 328, b.
 — temple and golden statue at Carthage, 662, d.
Apollon surrenders the citadel of Syracuse, iii. 69, b.
Apollodorus's famous bridge, vi. 14, c. Other grand works, 26, d. Mortified by Adrian, ibid. c. Banished, and put to death, ibid. & seq.
 † Apollonia, where situated, ii. 325, b.
 † — in Macedonia, iii. 225. Submits to Glaucias, 461, c.
 — Taken by the Romans, iv. 685.
 — her ambassadors insulted by the Ædiles, 650, a, b.
 † Apolloniatis, a province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
Apollonides's speech to the Syracusans, iii. 108.
Apollonius's bloody expedition against the Jews, iii. 580, iv. 51, c. Defeated and killed, iii. 597, pass. & (1). iv. 58, b. 80, c.
 — governor of Zenodotia's treachery to Crassus, 296, b.
 — the Stoic's saucy behaviour to Antoninus, 54, a, b.
 — Dyscolus's writings and character, 84, sub not.
 — Cæsar's and Cicero's master, v. 90. Different from Molon, ibid. (H). His eulogy of Cicero, ibid. in fin. not.
 — Saturn. taxed nine millions by Caligula, 472, b.
 — Tyaneus comes to Rome, 686, c. Stirs up Nerva against Domitian, ibid. d. His life, travels, &c. 691, & seq. Ordered to be seized, 696, a. His defence before Domitian, ibid. b, c. Disappears, ibid. d. Foresight of his death, ibid. e. Refuses Nerva's invitation, ibid. f. His end uncertain, 697, a. Pretended miracles and character exploded, ibid. & seq. Honoured by several emperors, &c. 698, pass.
 — sent ambassador to Attila, vii. 471, a. His noble answer to him, ibid. b.
Apologues, among the Persians, a specimen of, ii. 199, & not.
Apollonius's success against the Romans, v. 50, b. Defeated by Sylla, 52, c, f.
 — one of Nero's informers sad end, 576, c.
 — Saturn. declares for Vespasian, 622, & seq.
Apollon denied to make a will, vi. 395, f. 397, c. Disfranchised, 418, c.
Apollon, the twelve chosen by Christ, iv. 208, (T). Their instructions and success, 214, & seq. Forsake their master, 235, a, & (P). Doubts about his resurrection, 244, & seq. Commission from him, 246, & seq. Meeting at Jerusalem, 249, a, (F). Receive the Holy Ghost, ibid. & seq. The miraculous effects of it proved, 250, (H). Their zeal, miracles, doctrine, &c. 251, & seq. & (1).
 † — church at Constantinople, described, vi. 268, b, c.
Appeals at Rome, how regulated, iv. 544, a.
 † Appennine mountains described, 413, c, d.
Appian's writings and character, vi. 59, (E).
Appian, Claud. sent into Sicily, iii. 93, c. 95, b. Enters Messina, 96, b. Marches against Hippocrates, 109, a. Against Perseus, 487. Sadly distressed, 488, f. Speech against Pyrrhus, 812, b.
 — consulship, iv. 485, a. Jealous of Servilius, 487, b. Severity against debtors, ibid. & seq. Speech against the plebeians, 496, b. Against the Agrarian law, 504, f.
 — II. his son. See under Claudius, 514, & seq.
 — III. betrays the patricians, 535, c. 535, b, c. Chosen dictator, 534, a. His tyranny, ibid. & seq. Speech to the senate, 537, c. Outwits them, 538, a. Treachery to Sincinius, ibid. e, f. Brutish attempt on Virginia, 539, & seq. Accused by Virginius, 544, b. Imprisoned, ibid. c, d.
 — Speech against the tribunes, 581, d. Chosen dictator, 586, f. Defeats the Hernici, 587, c.
 — Crassus, chosen consul, 593, c. Censor, 620, a. Debases the senate and priesthood, ibid. b, c. His noble works, ibid. d, & (X).
 — chosen consul, 625, b. Prætor, ibid. c. Sarcasm against Volturnus, 631, c. Retained by Fabius, 632, d, e. Treachery to the Camerinians, 649, b. Over-reaches the Carthaginians, 654, a. Sails into Sicily, ibid. b.
 — Pulcher, chosen consul, 723. Marches against Capua, 724, d. Wounded before it, 727, a. Surprised by Hannibal, 728, & seq.
 — Maximus killed by the revolted, vi. 24, b. Claudius. Vid. sub Claudius, 828, & seq.
 — Sabinus defeated by the Daci, vii. 612, c.
Apries, the Pharaoh Hophra of scripture, i. 268, b. His league with Zedekiah, ibid. b. Treachery to him, ibid. c. Takes Sidon, ibid. d. Victory at sea, ibid. Assists the Libyans against the Cyrenians, ibid. f. Ill success against his rebellious subjects, 269, & seq. Strangled, 270, b.
Apronianus's six years reign in Babylon, i. 946, c.
Apronianus put to death by Severus, vi. 117, c.
Apronius's successful severity in Africa, v. 407, a. Defeated by the Frisians, 455, c.
Apronius's writings and character, vi. 168, (X).
 † Apus, river in Macedonia, described, iii. 260, c.
Apteras, king of Crete, iii. 165, c, & not.
Apuleia, Varil. tried for treason and adultery, v. 393, b, c. Her punishment, ibid. d, & (1).
Apuleius, L. Saturn. cabals for Marius, v. 33, d. For Equitius, 34, b. Treachery to Nonnius, 40, d. Revives the Agrarian contest, ibid. f. His conspiracy and death, 42, & seq.
Apuleius, a proscribed senator, saved by his wife, v. 226, c. 227, b.
 — Sextus, chosen consul, 343, c. A friend to Ovid, ibid. Swears allegiance to Tiberius, 354, b.
 — the philosopher's writings and character, vi. 83, sub not.
 † Aqueduct, of Appian, described, iv. 620, (X).
 — of Agrippa, v. 310, d, c.
 — of Claudius, 513, c.
Apulians, ally with the Samnites, iv. 610, d. Defeated by Fabius, ibid. f. By Plautius, 617, b.
Aquila, Pontius, his honours after his death, v. 208, b, c.
 — a lady, banished for adultery, 426, c.
 † Aquilaria in Tunis, where sited, vi. 668, a.
 † Aquileia besieged by Maximin, vi. 158. Taken by Constantine, 245, f. Brave defence against Julian, 313, f. Taken and destroyed by Attila, 496, c, f. vii. 479, a, b.
Aquileian women, their signal bravery and reward, 159, b.
Aquila, Sewer. a vestal, married to Hellegabalus, vi. 135, a.
Aquilian family joins interest with Tarquin, iv. 468, f. Surprised by Valerius, 469, a. Condemned, 470, b.
Aquilius's inhumanity to the Pergamenians, iii. 785, a. Subdues them, ibid. e. His defeat and cruel death, 730, f, & seq.
 — Tuscul, defeats the Hernici, iv. 503, d.
 — Florus, drives the Carthaginians out of Sicily, 660, a—c.
 — Manl. commands the Romans, v. 33, d. Ends the war with the Sicilian slaves, 39, f. Defeated by Sertorius, 88, a.
 — sent to murder Severus, vi. 105, c. Sides with him, ibid. e.
Aquilonia, the rendezvous of the Samnites, iv. 636, b. Taken by the Romans, 637, d.
Aquinat, Corn. the murderer of Capito, v. 589, d.
Aquitani subdued by Crassus, v. 121, b. Declare for Vitellius, 602, d.
 † Aquitania Secunda and Tertia given to Vallia, vi. 472, e, f. Where sited, ibid. Invaded by the Vandals, 453, f.
 † — Gallia, described, vii. 321, & seq. Taken by Clovis, 576, d.
Aquilus revolts from Theodoric, vi. 503. His treason and death, vii. 545, b.
 † Ar, Al-Rabbab, metropolis of Moab, i. 285, c.
 † Arabriga, a city in Lusitania, 297, a.
 † Araducta, a city in Lusitania, 296, c.
 † Ara Palladis, island, vii. 190, b.
 † Arabia, from whom so called, i. 131, a.
 — Felix, unconquered by the Romans, v. 302, d.
 — Petræa, invaded by Palma, vi. 16, a.
 — Felix, invaded by Trajan, 22. By Severus, 110, c, d. Divided by Valens, 372, d. Subdued by the Saracens, 544. Whence called Endemon, 22, c. Its other names and etymons, vii. 222, & seq. Why called Cuth, 182, pass. Its extent and limits, 223, c, & seq. How divided, 224, b. First inhabitants, ibid. c, d.
 † — Petræa described, ibid. e, & seq. Its nations, towns, &c. 226, & seq. Barrenness, 227, a, b. Remarkable places, ibid. c, d.
 † — Deserta, its limits, tribes, &c. 228, a, & c. Barrenness, 229, a, b. Why called Abasene, ibid. c, d. Its towns, &c. 230, a, b.
 † — Felix, described, ibid. & seq. Famed places, 233, c, & seq. How divided by the Orientals, 234, & seq. 247, d. Its plenty of gold, 262, a. From whom called Arabia, 265, b, c, (A). Whether conquered by Trajan, 282, f, & seq. Arabic character, when and by whom introduced, 254, d, & seq. Various alphabets, 255—257.
 † Arabs, Arabians, tributary to Persia, ii. 69, a.
 — invaded by Antigonus, iii. 433, & seq.
 — defeated by the Jews, iv. 66, c.
 † — Nomades, who, ibid. (E). Invaded by Jannæus, 100, b. Defeated by Herod, 137, b, (1).
 — revolt against the Romans, v. 269, a. Some of the first inhabitants of Mauritania, vii. 149, a. The old and modern clans of them, 241, d.
 † — modern, their extract, 244, a—c.
 † — Scenitæ, their kings, laws, &c. 245, b—d. Religion, ibid. & seq. Deities, 246—249. Idols, ibid. e, & seq. Hold some Magian tenets, 250, f, & seq. Notion of a future state, 251, c—e. Jewish and christian notions held by them, ibid. & seq. Bishopricks among them, 252, e, & seq. Sects, 253, b. Language, &c. ibid. & seq. Writing, 254, d, & seq. Learning, poetry, &c. 257, & seq. Way of numbering their days, months, and years, 260, a—c. Sciences, ibid. & seq. Arts, 261, c. Signal hospitality, ibid. & seq. And character, 262, & seq. Trade, 263, b, c. Circumcision, ibid. d. Other customs, ibid. & seq. History to the birth of Mohammed, 265, ad fin. cap. A list of their monarchs, 267, & seq. Names of their months, by whom, 277, (C). Other kingdoms, tribes, &c. ibid. & seq. Whether subject to the Medes, &c. 279, & seq. Wars against the Romans, 280, & seq. Whether subdued by the Romans, 281, c. Heresies after their conversion, 284, e, & seq.
Arach, the modern name of Parthia, iv. 289.
 † Arachofia, a province of Persia, described, ii. 29, b. Surrendered to Alexander, iii. 367.
 † Arad, one of the kingdoms of Canaan, subdued by the Israelites, i. 330, b.
 † Arad,

- † Arad, a series of their kings, 408, i. a. Their reigns, 421, a. — one of Canaan's sons so called, 330, (W).
- † Arad, or Aradus, not properly a city of Phœnice, i. 393, b. Whether the seat of the Arvates, ibid. (P). Its situation, ibid. b. Ruins still extant, 394, a.
- † Aradia Conflantina, where sited, vi. 265, d.
- † Aradus conquered by the Saracens, vi. 544, d.
- Aram*, the son of Shem, i. 162, c. Where settled, 163, d. His descent according to the Armenians, 167, c.
- † — the country of, so called by him, 360, a.
- † Aram Nabaraim, the same with Syria and Mesopotamia, i. 360, a.
- Aramean* language, a dialect of the Syriac, i. 377, d.
- Aramites*. See Syrians, i. 370, & seq.
- † Ararat, the mount where the ark rested, i. 108, d. Its situation, ibid. Traditions about it, 109, & seq. Tournefort's and others account of it, 112, d. (N). Migrations of Noah's sons from it, 141, b, c.
- Araric*, a Bathanian prince, vii. 492, d.
- Aratus*, the brave deliverer of Greece, ii. 556, 642, a. Restores the Athenians, 557. The Sicyonians, 642. Takes Acrocorinth, 643, a, & (C). Opposes the Spartans, 629, c. Betrays Acrocorinth to the Macedonians, 631, pass. 646. Defeated by the Ætolians, 651, d. Oppressed by Apelles, 655, & seq. Cleared by Philip, 659, a. Chosen prætor of the Achæans, 662. Displeases Philip by his honest answer, 665. Poisoned by his orders, ibid. His obsequies and character, ibid. & seq. In high favour with Ptolemy, iii. 636, c. Policy against the Macedonians, 473, & seq. Revenge on the treacherous Athenians, 474, c. Joins with Antigonus Dofon, 476.
- his son, poisoned by Philip, 666, a.
- revolts to the Romans, vi. 523, c, & seq.
- † Ararata, the province of, where sited, vii. 240, c.
- † Araxes, a river in Persia, described, ii. 29, b.
- in Armenia, iii. 692, & seq. Whence so called, 696, c.
- Arba*, the father of the Anakims, i. 333, (Z).
- † — the city of. See Hebron, 317, b, & seq.
- Arbaces*, first king of Media, his reign, &c. ii. 12, d.
- Arbal*, king of Arad, i. 421, a.
- † Arbela, the city and battle of, ii. 165, & seq. iii. 350, & seq.
- banditti of, destroyed by Herod, iv. 128, d. The city of, taken by Trajan, vi. 20, d.
- † Arbelites, a province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
- Arbicanes*, king of Media, his reign, &c. ii. 13, d.
- Arbogastes* sent to assist Theodosius, vi. 396, b. To invest Maximus, 413, b. To put Victor to death, ibid. c. Murders Valentinian, 419, f. Arrogance to him, 420, a, b. Success against the Franks, 423, vii. 557, f, & seq. Defeated by Theodosius, 424, pass. Kills himself, 425, b.
- † Arborea, the bridge of, broken by Julian, vi. 331, d.
- Arboreus*, the father of Ausonius, his extract, vi. 401, (L).
- † Arburi, who, vii. 571, (H).
- † Arcadia, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Whence so named, 375, a. Its site, soil, &c. ibid. d, &c. Origin, &c. 378, b. Invaded by the Spartans, 616, & seq.
- † — a city in Crete, described, iii. 161, f.
- the princess, born to Arcadius, vi. 447, c. Her character, buildings, &c. 455, a, b. Death, 488, c.
- Arcadians*, ancient Greeks, ii. 344, c. Famed for pastorals, 375, b. For brave warriors, 376, b. Their religion, ibid. d. When and how civilized, ibid. & seq. Their government, 377, pass. Kings, 378, & seq. Repentment against their king's perfidy, 380, a. Defeated by the Spartans, 618, c. By the Romans, 696, a.
- women, great warriors, 376, c.
- Arcadius* born, vi. 390. Proclaimed, 402, d. Chosen consul, 406. Clemency to the Arians, 419, d. Has the east assigned to him, 426, c. Under the care of Rufinus, 430, f. Proves a weak prince, 432, b. Marries Eudoxia, ibid. f. Swayed by the villain Eutropius, 435, c. Against Stilicho, 436, a, b. Law against aſyla, 437, d. Journey to Ancyra, 438, b. Deposes Eutropius, 443, d, c. Laws against idolatry, 444, c, f. Timorous complaisance to Gaius, 445, c, d. Interview with him, ibid. f, & seq. Severity to the Goths, 446, d—f. Presented with the head of Gaius, 447, d. His statue and column reared, 449, f. His death, issue, &c. 454, f. Fabulous story of his last will, 459, b—d.
- Arcas*, the supposed founder of the Arcadian kingdom, ii. 375, a.
- fourth king of it, 379, a.
- Arces* raised to the Persian throne by Bagoas, ii. 154, a. Murdered by him, ibid. b.
- Arcesilaus*, king of Cyrene, vii. 182, b, c.
- II. his reign, ibid. d.
- III. killed, ibid. e.
- IV. flight and death, ibid. & seq.
- Arcbagatus* defeated and killed, iii. 86, d—f.
- success in Africa, vi. 797, a. 808. Murdered, 812, c.
- Arcbanax*, tyrant of Lesbos, iii. 106, c.
- † Arcelaus, in Cappadocia, whence so called, iii. 762, a.
- Arcelaut*, king of Sparta, ii. 559, & seq.
- of Macedon, iii. 283, b. His death and character, ibid. c.
- Arcelaus*, of Egypt, defeated by Cablanah, 671, b. His gallant death, ibid. c.
- success in Asia, 733, & seq. Treachery and defeat, 734, & seq. & (T).
- his address to pacify Herod, iv. 149, e, (L).
- the son of Herod by Martac, 152, sub not. Succeeds him, 184, a—c. Speech to the Jews, 185, a. Goes to Rome, 186, a. Opposed by his brother, 186. And by the Jews, 190, b, c. Obtains part of the kingdom, ibid. c. His revenue, tyranny, and banishment, 192, a—c.
- successful embassy to Cassius, v. 235, a. Deposed and banished, 336, d.
- king of Cappadocia, tried and put to death at Rome, 390, d, (B, C).
- general of Mithridates, success in Greece, ii. 736, b. Defends Athens, 737, & seq. Betrayed by two slaves, 739, a.
- the philosopher, his notion of the origin of things, i. 29, a.
- Arcibius*, founder of Syracuse, iii. 11, c. Treachery to Ptolemy punished, 653, c.
- the betrayer of Thebes, ii. 614, f.
- Arcibidamia's* noble speech to the Spartans, ii. 623, a, b. Basely murdered by Ampharos, 628.
- Arcibidamus* made general of Peloponnesus, ii. 502, & seq. Waives Attica, 506. His lucky stratagem to save his subjects, 594, c. Invades Attica, 596, c. Takes Plataea, ibid. His death, ibid. & seq.
- the son of Agesilaus, invades Arcadia, ii. 618, d. Signal victory, ibid. Succeeds his father, 621. Dies in Italy, ibid. c.
- king of Sparta, 622.
- his character and reign, 625, a.
- defeated by Demetrius, iii. 442, a.
- Arcibulo*, where born, iii. 223, a.
- commands the Dardanians, ii. 315, c.
- Arcimedes's* curious ship, built for Hiero, iii. 99, d. Brave defence of Syracuse, 111, f. Surprising machines, 112, & seq. Death and character, 122, & seq. Other wonderful engines, 123, & seq.
- † Archipelago. Vid. Ægean sea, iii. 202, (R).
- Archisynagogus*, his office among the Jews, iv. 25, (Q).
- Archon*, a friend of the Macedonians, ii. 685, c. Declares for the Romans, ibid. e.
- Archons* at Athens, their office, ii. 417. When begun, 362. Made decennial, ibid. e. Annual, ibid. f, & 418. Solon's laws concerning them, 433, b. How chosen, 440, c. 442, b. Their oath, ibid. c. Office, ibid. d. When abolished, 413. A list of them, 418, & seq.
- Archylus* the Pythagorean's doctrine of two principles, i. 17, d.
- Archylus's* bravery rewarded by Dionysius, vi. 758, c.
- Ardaburius's* success against the Persians, vi. 474, c, d. 475, c, d. Sent against John, 479, b, c. Shipwrecked, and taken by him, ibid. d. Outwits and takes him, ibid. e. Suspected by Leo, 510, d, e. And put to death, ibid. f.
- success against the Persians, iv. 340, & seq.
- Ardaric*, king, serves under Attila, vii. 466, c. 473, a. Revolts after his death, 481, c, f.
- † Ardea besieged by Tarquin, iv. 464, b. Retaken, 466, e. Becomes the cause of a civil war, 546, & seq.
- Ardeser*, king of Persia, murdered, iv. 369, f.
- Ardevan* I. II. III. kings of Parthia, according to Oriental writers, iv. 372, (A).
- Ardisir*, king of Persia, his reign, according to Oriental writers, ii. 223—225. iv. 374, & seq.
- † Ardua taken by Germanicus, v. 339, e.
- Arduban* women, their desperate end, v. 340, a.
- Ardes*, king of Lydia, ii. 333.
- † Aracida, who, and where sited, vii. 81, b.
- Arctis* assumes the sovereign power, vii. 724, c—e. Peace with Charles, ibid. f.
- † Areopagus, the high court of, at Athens, ii. 421, c. 430, c. 432, b. By whom founded, 441, c. Their power, &c. ibid. & seq.
- Arta* teaches philosophy at Cyrene, vii. 175, not.
- Arta* chosen king of Damascus, iii. 616. Defeats the Jews, ibid. f. & iv. 101. Invades Judæa in favour of Hyrcan, 107, c. Defeated by Aristobulus, 108, b.
- wars with Herod Antipas, 203, b.
- Arthusa*, the fable of, 406, (F).
- Arcus* opposed by his uncle, ii. 612. Driven out of Sparta, 624, d. His death, ibid. f. Letter to the Maccabees, ibid. sub not.
- † Arga, a city in Arabia Felix, vii. 233, e.
- Argas* seizes the crown of Macedon, iii. 273, 285.
- Argalus*, king of Sparta, ii. 400, d.
- † Argent river, its course, v. 210, (Q).
- † Argentaria, where sited, vi. 387, b.
- the battle of, ibid.
- Argaspis's* reign and death, according to Oriental writers, ii. 219, & seq.
- Argipians*, their character, ii. 269, a.
- † Argis, why honoured by the Delians, iii. 229, f.
- Argives*, ancient Grecians, ii. 344. Their origin, 350, 352. Wars against Thebes, 350, 374. Absent from the Peloponnesian war, 501. League with Athens, 514. Beat by the Spartans, 9 L.

- Spartans, 515. By the Athenians, ibid. & seq. By the Spartans, 572, d. 583, d. 585. 598. At Mantinea, 599. Conquer Macedonia, iii. 262, a.
- Argive women, their bravery, 585, sub not.
- Argo, ship, where built, ii. 382.
- Argon, king of Lydia, ii. 333.
- Argonauts, their expedition into Colchis, ii. 383, & seq. iii. 834.
- Argos, king of Argos, by whom begot, ii. 352.
- † — kingdom, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Its founder, 350. Situation, soil, &c. 351. Kings, 352. How divided, 354. And reunited, ibid. & seq. Conquered by the Heraclidae, 359, & seq. Change of government, 350, & seq.
- † — the city of, taken by the Spartans, ii. 631, d. By Philip, 636. 671. Given to Nabis, ibid. Treacherously entered by Pyrrhus, iii. 472. Doubly beset, 818, & seq. Burnt by the Heruli, vi. 184, d.
- † — Hippis, in Apulia, by whom built, ii. 359, b, c.
- † Aria, a province of Persia, ii. 31, a.
- Ariadne, daughter of Minos, married to Theseus, ii. 365, d. Carried off by Bacchus, ibid. e. Her rape and festival, iii. 220, & seq.
- princess, married to Zeno, vi. 510, a. Suspected of incontinence, &c. 517, b, c. Married to Ananias, ibid. c. Inflicted in his company, 519, b.
- Arians defeated by Alexander, iii. 361, e, f. By Erigius, 367, d.
- heretics, their flattery to Jovian, vi. 343, f. Repelled, 344 a. Suppressed by Theodosius, 395, c. 396, a. Commit fresh outrages, 414, c. Driven from the cities, 419, d, e. Suppressed by Justin, 523, e, f.
- Ariamnes I. and II. kings of Cappadocia, iii. 764, & seq.
- Ariantes, king of Scythia, his huge copper, ii. 274, c.
- Ariarctes I. king of Cappadocia, iii. 764.
- II. crucified by Perdiccas, ibid. e.
- III. recovers his kingdom, ibid. & seq.
- IV. defeats Arsaces, 765, a.
- V. allies with the Romans, ibid. b.
- VI. his character, 592, & 565. Dethroned, 593. 565.
- VII. poisoned by Mithridates, 766, e.
- VIII. stabbed by the same hand, 726. 728.
- IX. dethroned by the same, 767, a.
- Arideus appointed Alexander's successor, iii. 415, b. Put to death by Olympias, 457.
- † Arimathæa, where situate, iv. 242, (E).
- † Ariminum surprised by Cæsar, v. 132, b, c. Taken by Fufcus, 629, d.
- Ariminius's success in Germany, vi. 294, d. Bravery, 367, c. Sent against Sapor, 373, d.
- Ariobarzanes defeated and killed, ii. 167, e.
- put to death by Cassius, v. 232, f.
- Ariogestes, chosen king of the Quadi, vii. 602, f. Defeated and imprisoned, 603, a.
- Arion, the first tragedian, iii. 204, a.
- Ariovald dethrones Adalwald, vii. 689, a. His death, ibid. e.
- Ariovistus invades the Sequani, v. 118, b. Treachery to Cæsar, ibid. d. Defeated, ibid. e. See vol. vii. 398, b. [436], c, (E).
- Aripert, chosen king of the Lombards, vii. 692. Cruelty to Luitbert, 699, a, b. To Asprang and his family, ibid. b, c. Great donations to the church, ibid. & seq. & (W). Defeated and drowned, 700, a, b.
- Arisba, Priam's wife, ii. 317.
- † — a city in Phrygia, 305, a.
- † — in Lesbos, iii. 203, d.
- Aristagoras attempts to corrupt the Spartans, ii. 587, sub not. — rebellion against Darius, 108. His death, 110.
- Aristarchus, king of Colchis, iii. 835.
- Aristæas, where born, iii. 201, (O).
- account of the Septuagint version considered, iv. 37, & seq. & (O).
- Aristæus destroyed by lightning, vi. 304. His writings, &c. 94, (I).
- Aristeus first peoples Ceos, iii. 216, e.
- Aristides, general of the Persians, ii. & seq. His character, 466. Banishment, 467. Piety, 468. Moderation on being recalled, 470. Reconciled with Themistocles, 472. Success against the Persians, 475, f. Made chief commander, 478. Regulator of the tax, 479. His death, &c. 485, sub not.
- the apologist for the christians, vi. 48, e.
- the sophist, meets M. Aurelius, 79, d. His writings, &c. 83, sub not.
- Aristion, tyrant of Athens, ii. 726, & seq.
- Aristippus, his writings and character, vii. 174, (F).
- Aristo, king of Sparta, ii. 582. His character, 583.
- Discovers a plot against Syracuse, iii. 206, a.
- Aristobulus, a learned Jewish philosopher, iii. 654, c.
- the son of Hyrcan, success against Cyzicenus, iv. 94, a. Succeeds his father, 96, c. Parricide and fratricide, ibid. & seq. & (C). Dreadful end, 97, & seq. Why nicknamed Philhellene, 98, (D).
- the son of Janneus, 102, b. Joins with the Sadducees, 103, f. Sent into Syria, 104, c. Secures the crown, 105, b. Deposes his brother, 106, c. Defeated, 107. Besieged in the temple, ibid. e. Bribes Pompey, 108, & seq. Leaves him in a huff, 109, e. Sent prisoner to Rome, 110, & seq. Escapes into Judea, 114. Taken prisoner, ibid. d. Released by Cæsar, 116, c. Poisoned, ibid.
- Aristobulus grandson of Hyrcan's title to the Jewish crown, iv. 126, (V). Made high priest, 133, c, & (B, C). Murdered, 134, c.
- the son of Herod married to Berenice, 147, a. Accused by Salome, 147, & seq. Put to death, 151, b, c.
- the son of Agrippa deprived of his succession, 263, e.
- promoted by Nero, v. 519, e.
- Aristocles, an account of his writings, &c. 83, iv. in fin. not.
- Aristocrates I. stoned for sacrilege, ii. 380, d.
- II. stoned for perfidy, 378, 380, & seq.
- Aristodemus, chosen general of Sparta, ii. 612, a. Beats the confederates at Corinth, ibid. b.
- rips open his own daughter, ii. 573, b. Chosen king of the Messenians, ibid. e. Beats the Spartans, 575, b. Kills himself, ibid. e.
- speech to Antigonus, iii. 184, b.
- Aristogiton's revenge against Hippis, ii. 454, d.
- why honoured at Athens, v. 214, e.
- Aristomachus defeated at Corinth, ii. 359.
- Aristomenes, chosen king of Messenia, ii. 577, d. Defeats the Spartans, 578, b. 579, pass. Taken prisoner, ibid. His wonderful escape, ibid. & seq. Death, 581, & not.
- sent guardian of Egypt, iii. 543. 648. Put to death for his fidelity, 649, b.
- I. king of Cappadocia, 767. Wars with Mithridates, ibid. & seq.
- II. a friend to the Romans, 767, f. Put to death by Cassius, 768, a.
- III. killed by M. Antony, 768, b.
- Ariston, arrested by Hannibal at Carthage, vii. 87, d. Escapes, ibid. e.
- Aristonica's prophecy against the Athenians, ii. 469.
- Aristonicus seizes on Pergamos, iii. 782. Defeats Crassus, 783, d. Defeated by Perenna, 784, b. Sent prisoner to Rome, ibid.
- Aristophanes's ancient cosmogony, i. 18, a.
- cruelly used by Catena, vi. 288, f. By Modestus, 305, a.
- Aristotle's doctrine of the world's eternity, i. 3, & seq.
- his character, ii. 230. According to oriental writers, 235.
- where born, iii. 256, c. And taught, 204, & seq.
- whether conversant with the Mosiac writings, 230, & (F). His books carried off by Scylla, 738, (X). Account of the Carthaginian government, vi. 674, pass. 680, & seq. & (M).
- Arius, the last king of Mysia, killed, ii. 327, d.
- Antonin. excellent character, vi. 52, a. Unjust death, 91.
- the heretic banished, 260, e. Received by the council of Jerusalem, 265, e. His death, 266, c.
- Ark of Noah, its size, figure, &c. i. 103, & seq. At what time built, 105, pass. & (N).
- the monastery of, ibid. d. Armenian fables about it, 112.
- of Moses, described, i. 655, pass. Whether one or two, ibid. d, e. Taken by the Philistines, 756, a. Sent back, 351, & seq. Brought to Jerusalem by David, 776, a—c.
- Artabanus's five years reign in Babylon, i. 946, a.
- † Arles besieged, vi. 466, a. By Constantius, ibid. c. Surrendered, 467. Relieved by Ægidius, 507, a. vii. 576, e.
- the council of. See Council, 254, b.
- Armas, brother to Sesostris, i. 255, b. Supposed the Danaus of the Greeks, 256, f.
- † Armenia, so named from Aram, i. 167, c.
- † — the lesser described, iii. 718, & seq. Kingdom, 691. Soil, 695, c. Origin and government, 693. Kings, 718, & seq. 693, & seq.
- † — given to Cleopatra's son, 708. Recovered, 709. Becomes tributary to Rome, ibid. & 713, & seq. Its various fates since, 717, & seq.
- † — subdued by the Romans, vi. 17. Allowed to chuse a king, 33, d. Wars with Parthia, 63, d. Reduced by the Romans, 65, a. Restored by Macrinus, 131, d. Taken by the Persians, 214, a.
- † — Major, wars in defence of christianity, 250, d. Revolts, 276, a. The end of that kingdom, 487, b. Subdued by the Saracens, 547, c, d. Betrayed to them, 548, d.
- Armenian legions refuse to swear to Irene, vi. 558, a, & c. Severely punished, ibid. f.
- † Armenians, their descent, i. 167, c. Ally with the Parthians, v. 327, e. Invaded by them, 331, d. Plead before Nero, 519, f, & seq. Subdued by Corbulo, 529, c, f.
- Arminius's revolt in Germany, v. 340, c. Treachery to Varus, ibid. & seq. Repelled by Tiberius, 344, c. Falls out with Segestes, 372, c. Defeated, 373, & seq. 375, c, d. Defeats the Romans, 376, c, d. Defeated and wounded, 384, b. Defeats the Marcomans, &c. 391, c. His death, 403, a.
- † Armorica Gallia described, vii. 322, a, b.
- Armorican Britons, of what standing, 454, c, d. Their cruelty to the old Gauls, ibid. & seq. Submit to Clovis, 570, c, f.
- Armoric, Gauls, who, vi. 462, c. Short lived revolt, ibid. d. Subdued, v. 128, f.
- † Armorfata, where situate, iii. 693, b.
- Arragifelus, defeated and killed, vi. 489.
- Arre, the daughter of Æolus, ii. 370, a.

† Arnon,

- † Arnon, the brook of, described, i. 533, b. The supposed boundary of the Israelites, 596, (G).
- Arouris*, in Plutarch, who, i. 88, (N).
- Arpaxat*, the third son of Shem, i. 127, a. The supposed father of the Chaldeans, ibid. Conjectures relating to him, 127, (E). One of the chiefs of the line of Shem, 162, a. Where settled, ibid. b.
- † Arva, the metropolis of the Arraceni, vii. 240, c.
- † Arraceni, the same with the Saraceni, vii. 227, b, c.
- † Arrapachitis, a province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
- Arria's* heroic constancy and death, v. 495, d, e, (Z). Imitated by her daughter, 563, f.
- Arrian*, the writer of Trajan's history, vi. 18, d. His books lost, 19, b, c.
- surprises the Massagetes, 41, c. Order of battle, ibid. f. March round the Euxine, 42, a, b. Whether the same with the former, 50, sub not. His writings, &c. 164, (W).
- Arrianus*, Luc. disgraced, v. 355, d. His extract, &c. ibid. (K). Betrayed by Macro, 452, d. Bleeds himself to death, ibid. & seq.
- Arfaces*, the common name of the Parthian kings, iv. 292, a.
- first founder of the Parthian kingdom, iv. 291, c.
- II. his wars with Antiochus, 292, b. Founders the Bactrian kingdom, ibid. 525, d, c.
- the son of Artabanus, made king of Armenia, iv. 315, a. Murdered, ibid. c.
- impiously summoned by Julian, vi. 329, c. 331, b. Abandoned by the Romans, 342, a. Murdered by Sapor, 372, c, f.
- yields his kingdom to the Persians, 487, b.
- Arfacide*, tributary to Persia, iv. 323, a. Embassy to Choroeb, 350, d.
- Arjanus* brought bound to Alexander, iii. 373, d.
- † Arzanaca, where sited, vii. 114, c.
- † Arza, river, a boundary of Gaul, iv. 408.
- Arjnos*, queen of Egypt, murdered, iii. 646, c.
- daughter of Auletes, set up by Ganymede, 676. Taken prisoner, and led in triumph by Cæsar, 679, v. 167, d. Put to death, ibid. (N).
- † — a city in Cyprus, iii. 173, a.
- † — in Cyrene, 662.
- Artabanus*, Darius's general against the Greeks, ii. 119. Defeated by the Athenians, 112. Dissuades Xerxes from a second attempt, ibid. & seq. Consents to his own disgrace, 115, & seq.
- led in triumph by M. Antony, iii. 682.
- embassy to Germanicus, v. 395, f.
- betrays the Persians, vi. 373, a, b.
- basely deserted by the Romans, vii. 665, c, f.
- kills a gigantic Goth in single combat, 666, a. His death, ibid. b.
- Artabanus's* treason and death, ii. 219, d, f.
- bold letter to Tiberius, iii. 710, d.
- king of Parthia, killed, iv. 293, c.
- of Media, invades Parthia, 314, d. Wars with Mithridates, 315, b, c. Driven out, ibid. & seq. Restored, and dies, 316, a, c.
- II. short reign, 319, c.
- III. outwitted by Caracalla, 322, b, c. vi. 127. Killed by Artaxerxes, iv. 322, c, f.
- Artabazus* sails towards the Nile, ii. 131, d—f. Beats the Egyptians, 132, a.
- Artabazanes* invaded by Antiochus, iii. 534, b.
- Artabazes*, first king of Pontus, iii. 724, a.
- king of Media's wars with the Parthians, 845, a.
- Artabazus's* fidelity to Darius, iii. 359, c. Rewarded by Alexander, 360, c.
- † Artabrum Promontorium, Finis terre, where sited, vii. 303, f.
- † Artacene, a province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
- Artax*, king of Media, i. 939, a.
- Artagera* taken and razed by the Romans, iii. 709.
- Artaphernes* sent against the Athenians, ii. 450, a.
- Artavaldes* defeated by the Persians, iv. 312, & seq.
- Artaxares's* success against the Parthians, iv. 322, & seq. Extract, 324, a. Haughty embassy to Severus, 325, c. Defeated by him, ibid. e. His death, 326. See also vol. vi. 139—144.
- † Artaxata, metropolis of Armenia, iii. 692, d. Taken by Pharasmenes, 710, c. Razed by Corbulo, 715, a. By the Romans, iv. 321, b. By Priscus, vi. 69, f.
- Artaxias*, first king of Armenia, revolts against Antiochus, iii. 582, d, (Y). Defeated by him, 698, & seq. Taken prisoner, 699, c.
- II. driven out of Armenia, 708, e. Recovers it, 709, a. Strangled, ibid.
- III. crowned by Germanicus, 710.
- Artaxerxes* raised to the throne, ii. 129, d. The Ahashuerus of scripture, 130, a, & not. Defeated by the Egyptians, 131. Peace with the Greeks, 132. Injustice to the Athenian prisoners, 133, b. Answer to the Greek embassy, ibid. c. Death and character, 134, b.
- Mnemus succeeds Darius Nothus, 136, & seq. Defeats and kills his revolted brother, 139, b, c. Peace with the Spartans, 144. Conquers Cyprus, 145, & seq. Marches against the Cadusians, ibid. Ready to perish with famine, ibid. & seq. Saved by Timbazu, 147, a. Invades Egypt, ibid. & seq. His great army and fleet, 148. Their broils and ill success, ibid. d. Second invasion, twelve years after, 149. Conspired against, ibid. & seq. His death and character, 150, c.
- Artaxerxes* III. Vid. Ochus, ii. 150.
- Artaytes* impaled for sacrilege, ii. 476, c.
- Artemidorus* gives Cæsar a list of his conspirators, v. 183, e. His writings and character, vi. 84, sub not.
- general of Syracuse, 860, c.
- promoted at Rome, vii. 523, c, d.
- Artemisia's* advice to Xerxes, and gallant behaviour, ii. 123, & seq. Surprises Rhodes, iii. 136, d.
- Artemius* the emperor. Vid. Anastafius, vi. 55, &c.
- Artemon*, the inventor of battering rams, iii. 200, b.
- Artus*, Artius, Artiburnus, and Artines, kings of Media, ii. 13, d.
- Artur*, king, his fabulous history, vii. 448, & seq. & (B). His tomb at Glattenbury, ibid. Victories over the Saxons, 449, & seq. Death, 450, c.
- Arts and sciences*, their origin after the flood, i. 173, b, e. Unknown to the ancient Greeks, ii. 346, c. Discouraged by the Spartans, 564, a.
- Arveris*, the Egyptian Orus, or Apollo, i. 241, d.
- † Arverni, where situate, v. 118, (V). Spared by Cæsar, 127, d, c.
- who, vii. 367, (B). Contest against the Ædui, ibid. c.
- † Arvernus, Clermont, their capital, 398, (O).
- Aruntius*, one of the admirals at Actium, v. 291, & seq.
- Stella, promoted by Nero, 524, d.
- † Arveans, where sited, iii. 706, (X).
- † Arzacene yielded to the Romans, vi. 215, a, b. Where situate, ibid. c.
- Asa*, king of Judah, his signal pictory, i. 807, c. Victory over the Cushites, ibid. c. Alliance with Benhadad, 808, b. Death, ibid. c.
- Asander*, king of Bosphorus, iii. 843, c. Starves himself, ibid. f. See vol. v. 153.
- Asbestos* stone, where digged, iii. 248.
- † Ascalon, in Palestine, i. 340, b. Famed for its wines, &c. ibid. d. By whom founded, ii. 329, f. Taken by the Jews, iii. 597, c. Given to Salome, iv. 191, a.
- † Ascania, in Lesser Phrygia, or Troas, i. 166, f. ii. 308, b.
- † Ascanian islands described, iii. 203, b, & seq.
- lake, so called from Askenas, ii. 308, b.
- Ascanius* defeats the Hetruscans, iv. 420, & seq.
- † — river and bay, whence so called, i. 166, c.
- Ascaric*, antient king of the Franks, vii. 550, c. When, 551, a. His sad end, 554, c.
- Ascetic* christians, when first instituted, iv. 173, d.
- † Aschaganides, the dynasties of, iv. 372, a, (A).
- † Ascia, who, and where sited, vii. 232, a.
- Asclepiada*, kings of Rhodes, iii. 134, c.
- Asclepius*, the son of Sydyce, worshipped in Egypt, i. 136, c, (P).
- Asclepiadus* lands in Britain, and burns his ships, vi. 212, c, d. Success there, ibid. d, e.
- Ascolus*, bishop, baptizes Theodosius, vi. 393, d.
- † Asculana taken by Sylla, v. 52, c.
- Asculum* revolts from the Romans, v. 49, a. Taken by Pompey, 52, c. The battle of, iii. 813, & not.
- † Ascurum, where sited, vii. 143, a.
- Asdrubal* defeated in Sicily, iii. 78, b—c.
- by Metellus, iv. 669, a. Crucified, ibid. b.
- succeeds Mago at Carthage, vi. 728, a. Killed in Sardinia, ibid. b.
- sent into Sicily, 843, b. Defeated by Cæcilius, 844, b, c.
- the son of Hamilcar, goes with him into Spain, 865, c, d. Narrowly escapes, 866, (M). Succeeds his father there, 867, b, c, (N). His quick success, ibid. d. Raises up the Roman jealousy, ibid. & seq. Treaty with them, 868, a. Murdered by a Gaul, ibid. c. Left to command in Spain, vii. 9, a, b. Pursues the Romans, 18, b, c. Success against them, 20, c, d. 30, e, f. Ill success, 38, & seq. Defeats the Carpesii, 39, c. Forced to go to Hannibal's assistance, ibid. d, e. Defeated in his march, 40, b, c. Sends word of it to Carthage, 41, f. Defeated afresh, 46, c. 48, & seq. 62, b, c. Consults with the other generals, ibid. c. Goes into Lusitania, ibid. d.
- Calvus shattered by a storm, 44, c, d. Arrives at Sardinia, 45, d.
- the son of Hamilcar, his success in Spain, 56, d. Escapes a snare, 58, e. Goes to assist Hannibal, 63, d. Crosses the Pyrenees and Gaul, 65, b. Repulsed before Placentia, ibid. c. March towards Umbria, 66, b. Defeated by the consuls, ibid. f, & seq. His noble death, 67, b.
- the son of Gisco, defeated by Scipio, 69, e, & seq. Retires to Gades, 70, d, e. Defeated at sea, 71, e. Betrayed by Masinissa, 72, b, c. Allies with Syphax, 75, a, b. Defeated, 77, c. Retires to Auda, 78. Horrid cruelties, 80, d, e.
- Hædus, sent ambassador to Rome, 84, a. His speech to the senate, ibid. b, c. Severe reproof to Hannibal, ibid. d.
- defeated by Masinissa, 96, e. Impeached, 97, a. Defends Carthage against the Romans, 100, & seq. Fortifies his camp, 102, a, b. Goes over to the Romans, 103, f. His wife's noble behaviour and death, ibid. & seq.
- Gulussa's nephew accused, and put to death, 101, d.
- Asdrubal*,

- Asdrubal* instigates Syphax against Masinissa, vii. 123.
Asellio, Aul. Semp. assassinated at Rome, v. 51, d.
Asenanthius's brave defence against Attila, vii. 469, d, e.
Asena taken by the Carpetii, vii. 39, b.
Asenath, Joseph's wife, bears him two sons, i. 453, b.
† Asgardians, who, vii. 489, b, c.
† Asdod, Azarus, in Palestine, i. 341, a. By whom built, ibid. Its situation, and temple of Dagon, ibid. &c.
Asber, Jacob's second son by Zilpah, i. 441. His father's prophecy of him verified, 464, & (N). His lot in the promised land, 569, b.
Asbes, the dreadful punishment of, ii. 124, d, & not.
Asphenax, one of Gomer's sons, where seated, i. 166, e.
Asphon, supposed the centre of the world, iv. 188, in fin. (R).
Aspmoneans, the beginning of their reign, iv. 27, & seq. The end, 131, a, & (B). Duration, ibid. (D).
† Ashtaroth Kernaim, the residence of Og, i. 330, d.
† Asbur, the son of Shem, i. 162, c. Where settled, 163, a.
Asbyaf, king of Egypt, his reign, i. 281, e.
Asia, the daughter of Teucer, ii. 311, d.
† — the fourth part of the world, whence so called, 290, c. vii. 178, e. How divided now, ibid. c. Conquered by the Scythians, 281, & seq.
† — Proconsular, described, 289, & seq.
† — Proper, described, 288, & seq.
† — Minor, the states of, 748. The flood of, i. 96, (N). Ravaged by the Scythians, vi. 175, a. 180, b—d. Submits to Macrianus, 179, a.
Asiarchæ of Ephesus, their office, ii. 754, e.
Asiatic diocese described, ii. 290.
Asiatics, their reception of M. Antony, v. 259, d, e. Heavily taxed by him, 260, pass.
Asiaticus, Vitellius's base freedman, knighted, v. 614, f. His wealth and power, 619, c. Put to death, 639, c.
Asinius Pullo goes over to Antony, v. 209, a, & f. Sent against Salvadienus, 264, f. Forsook by Plautus, 265, c. Persuades Ahenobarbus to submit to Antony, 269, d, (F). Generosity to him, 286. Free answer to Augustus, 332, (Q). Death, 414, (N).
† — Quadratus's writings and character, vi. 168, (X).
† Asopus, a river in Attica, ii. 361, d.
† Aspar's negotiation in favour of Jugurtha, v. 256, & seq. — sent with Placidia into the west, 479, a—c. Success against the rebel John, 479, d—f. Taken prisoner, 482, d. Defeated by Attila, 489, c. Inthrones Leo, 504, d, e. Favourer of the Arians, ibid. e. Fatal jealousy of Leo, 509, c. Created Cæsar by him, 510, e. Put to death, ibid. f.
† — narrow escape out of Afric, vii. 533, c.
Aspasia's character, ii. 493, (F). Impiety, 498, pass. & not. Acquitted, 499, a.
Aspasius's writings and character, vi. 149, sub not.
Asper conspires against Nero, v. 551, c. His constancy and death, 556, d.
† Aspbalite lake, whence so called, i. 576, b. Whence called Dead and Salt sea, ibid. Whether owing to the submersion of Siddim, ibid. (L). Its waters change colour, 577, (M). Length and breadth, ibid.
Asprenas ordered to assassinate Sempronius, v. 358, c, d. Killed, 489.
† Aspurgians, who, and where, vii. 489, b.
Asra fatida of Persia described, ii. 39, e.
Assaceni invaded by Alexander, iii. 387, b.
Assis of Arabia, very docil and useful, ii. 42, f.
† Assis, king of Æolis and Mysia, the same, ii. 288, d.
† Assyria derived from Ashur, i. 857, a.
† — Proper, ibid.
† — of the Greeks, ibid. (B). A land of plenty, ibid. & seq. Now a desert, 858, a. Described, ibid. & seq. The second most ancient kingdom, 859, b. Not founded by Nimrod, ibid. c. Its antiquity, ibid. & seq. Reduced by Trajan, vi. 20, d, e.
Assyrian kingdom, when first founded, i. 126, c. Vid. & ii. 7, a. Its chronology down to its fall, i. 862.
Assyrians, their religion, i. 862. Why they worshipped fishes, ibid. & 875. And doves, 875, b, & (P). 863, a, & (I). Their antiquity, 859, b. Government, laws, &c. 860, & seq. Table of their kings according to Eusebius, &c. 861.
† Assa, where sited, v. 176, (U). Surrendered to Cæsar, ibid. b.
† Assacus in Bithynia, different from Nicomedia, iii. 822.
† Assapa, the siege and sad catastrophe of, iv. 738, b. vii. 71, a.
† Assarimus, king of Troy, murdered, i. 413.
Asarte, daughter of Uranus, i. 136. How named by the Greeks, 138, a. One of the Phœnician deities, 397, b, &c. (G). Why figured with horns, 398. Called Aphrodite, 399, a. Worshipped first at Tyre, ibid. & seq. Her priests and prophets, 401, d. Rites, ibid. & seq. At Byblus, ibid. Her temple at Aphec, a sink of lewdness, 402, a. That of Tyre, built by Hiram, ibid. b. Some fresh conjectures concerning her, vi. 684, (R).
Asartus recovers the Tyrian throne, i. 415, b.
Asar, a famed archer, the story of, iii. 291, sub not.
Asterius, his gigantic remains, 673, (A).
Astorga massacred by the Goths, vi. 505, vii. 513, b, c.
† Astritic islands, where, vii. 190, b.
- Astridgers*, a remarkable account of, li. 222, sub not.
† — their liberty restrained, v. 344, a. Banished Rome, 388, b. Why persecuted by Tiberius, 430, b. Expelled by Claudius, 512, f. By Vitellius, 615, c. Their odd edict against him, ibid.
Astronomy begun among the descendants of Seth, i. 81, a. Ascribed to the Egyptians, 218, a, b.
Astulphus chosen king of the Lombards, vii. 710, a. Takes Ravenna, ibid. b. Invades Rome, 711, & seq. His new edicts, 712, pass. Defeated by Pepin, ibid. e, f. Besieged in Pavia, 714, pass. Submits to him, ibid. & seq. Restores his conquests, ibid. & seq. His death, 715, b, c.
† Astura, where sited, v. 227, c, (C).
Astures, subdued by Augustus, v. 298, e. Desperate end, 299, b. Cruel usage from Lams, 303, b. Subdued afresh, 306, d.
† — who, and where sited, vii. 303, e, f. 304, (B).
Astysages, whether succeeded by Cyaxares or Cyrus, ii. 25, sub not. His dreams of his daughter, 82. Orders her child to be murdered, ibid. f. Cruelty to Harpagus for not doing it, 84, c. To the magi, for their wrong advice, 86, d. Defeat and imprisonment, ibid. &c.
Asslar, king of Hetruria, iv. 418, e.
Atalanta's bravery, in killing the Calydonian boar, ii. 400, (B). Put to death, iii. 423, c.
Atamas, king of Cappadocia, iii. 764.
Atamirus, Jupiter, why so called, iii. 132, c.
Atargatis, the temple of, burnt, iii. 587, b. iv. 67, b, & (G). Plundered by Crassus, 296, f.
Atarneus, why given to the Chians, iii. 210, b.
Ataulphus sent for into Italy, vi. 458, a. Defeated, 460, a. Joins Alaric, ibid. b. Raised by Attalus, 461, d. Made king of the Goths, 465, c. Betrays Jovianus to Honorius, 467, e, f. Falls out with him, 468, e, & seq. Marries Placidia, 489. Forced to flee into Spain, 470, b. Stabbed to death, ibid. e. See also, vol. vii. 492, e. 509, pass.
† Atel, a city of the Ammonites, i. 293, c.
† Atac submits to Maximian, vi. 208, d. An ancient king of the Franks, vi. 550, e, f.
† Atagna besieged by Cæsar, v. 172, c. Its dreadful end, ibid. d, e.
Atellane, first actors at Rome, iv. 585, (S).
Atellius advises against fighting the triumvirs, v. 244, a.
Ataliab's impious reign, i. 822, b.
Atbanagil, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.
Atbanaric's apology for aiding Procopius, vi. 369, d, e. Defeated by Valens, 371, b, c. Makes peace with him, ibid. d, e. Invaded by the Huns, 379, e, f. Retires into the rocks, 380, e. Refuges with Theodosius, 395, c. His death, ibid. d. See also vol. vii. 459, & seq. His famed wall, ibid. Declared Theodoric's successor, 647, e, f. His letter to the senate, &c. 648, pass. Debauches and death, 650, c.
Atbeas, king of Scythia, outwits the Macedonians, ii. 28, & seq.
Atbena, daughter of Chronus, queen of Attica, i. 138, a. — the Greek name of Minerva, ii. 361, e.
Atbeneas, slain by the Arabians, iii. 433, & seq.
† — sent to persecute the Jews, iv. 52, d.
Atbencus's writings and character, vi. 95, sub not.
Atbenodorus, one of Longinus's generals, beheaded, vi. 519, d, e.
Atbenian citizens, how admitted, ii. 438, a. Vid. & 439, sub not.
Atbenians, their government, kings, &c. ii. 362, & seq. Punished for Theleus's curse, 367, c. Governed by archons, 369, b. Dwindle into democracy, ibid. f. Their state under the archons, 416, & seq. Cylon's insurrection punished, 422, & seq. Driven out of Salamis, 423, b. Expelled by Epimenides, ibid. d. Recover Salamis, 425. Divided into three parties, 437, f. Resettled by Solon, 438, & seq. New changes, 439. Their magistrates, ibid. & seq. Inferior courts, 443, & seq. Enslaved by Pisistratus, 447, & seq. Vain attempt against him, 449, & seq. Veneration for him, 454, b. Turned into detestation, 456, c. Their tribes augmented from four to ten, ibid. d. Invaded by the Spartans, ibid. & seq. Beat the Boeotians, &c. 457. War against the Ægeans, 458, & seq. Assist the Ionians, 109, a. Treatment of Darius's heralds, 111. Distressed by him, 112. 460, & seq. Success against him, 462. Preparations against Xerxes, 119. 468. Defeat him at sea, 120, & seq. 124, & seq. 472, & seq. Forsake their city and country, 407. Assist the Egyptians, &c. 484, & seq. Beat the Ægeans and Corinthians, 447. Defeated in Egypt, 132, b. At Lanagra, 487, & seq. Defeat the Thebans, 488, & seq. Make peace and break peace with Persia, 143, & seq. 490, a. A true poll of their citizens, 492, c. War with the Samians, 493. 496. Double victory over the Corinthians, 497, a. Fleet against the Greeks, 501. Visited with pestilence, 502. 507, d. Assist Leontidas, ibid. & seq. Defeated in Boeotia, 511, d. Peace with Sparta, 512, & seq. League with the Argives, 514. Defeated, 515. War against Perdiccas, 516, a. Their fleet destroyed in Sicily, 517—519, & seq. New war with Sparta, 521. Establish an oligarchy, 522, & seq. Opposed by the army, 525, & seq. Beaten at sea, 525. Defeat the Peloponnesians, ibid. & seq. 526. 528. Ingratitude

- to their generals, ibid. & seq. Beaten by Lyfander, 529, & seq. Under thirty tyrants, 530. Rescued by Thrasybulus, 531. Peace with Sparta, ibid. f. And Persia, 539. Success against the former, 540, pass. War against the Macedonians, 542, & seq. Assist the Phocians against the holy league, 543, c. Subdued by Philip, 548, & seq. Rejoicing at his death, 549. War against Macedon after Alexander's death, 550. Submissive peace with Antipater, 551, d. Ingratitude to Phocion, 553, c. Reduced by Cassander, 554, a. Abominable flattery to Antigonius, ibid. & seq. Ingratitude to Demetrius Phalereus, ibid. & seq. To the son of Antigonius, 555, & seq. To Aratus, 556. Restored by him, 557, c. Obtain a consular army against Philip, 733. Their tribes from whom named, 734, not. Subdued by Sylla, 741, b. By Cæsar, ibid. c. Honoured by Germanicus, 742, a. Their various fates since, ibid. & c.
- Athenians invited into Sicily, iii. 24, & seq. Beaten by the Syracusans, 29, & seq. 31, b, c. At sea, 32, & seq. Ruined in Sicily, 34, & seq. Their prisoners cruelly treated, 36, c. Noble carriage towards Dion, 65, b, c. War with Rhodes, 135, & seq. With the Mitylenians, 206. Purify Delos, 230. Drive the Pelasgi out of Attica, 235. Ill success in Ægina, 244. Fall out with the Persians, 275, & seq. Answer to Alexander, 278. Outwitted by Philip, 290, d. Assist the Olynthians, 294, a. Send Phocion against Philip, 304, d. Defeated at Cheronea, 307. Rank flattery to Philip, 312, b. To Alexander, 321, c. Treachery to Demetrius, 341, b. Punished, 342, a. Submit to Antipater, 450, d, e. Betrayed to Mithridates, 733, c. — high honours to Hyrcan, iv. 113, b, (Y). — raise statues to Brutus and Cassius, 214, & seq. Reception of M. Antony, 259, c. Amplely rewarded, 260, d. Flattery to Cleopatra, 286, a. Punished by Augustus, 307, c. Reception of Germanicus, 394, b, c, (L). — highly favoured by Adrian, vi. 42, d. Oppressed by Herodes, 70, d, e.
- Athenian sent into Judæa, 640. His kindness to Joseph, 641, & seq. See also iv. 41, & seq.
- general of Cleopatra, his treachery to Herod, iv. 136, d. — head of the rebel slaves, v. 32. Imprisoned by Salvius, ibid. f. Defeated, 39, c. Relieves Triocola, ibid. d. Success against the Romans, ibid. e. Killed in single combat, ibid. f.
- † Athens, whence so called, ii. 361, c, & (C). Described, 125, c. 435, & seq. Various fates, 437, (K). Government after Solon, 438. Destroyed by Mardonius, 475, d. Rebuilt by Conon, 447. Fortified, 483, b. Twice attempted by the Peloponnesians, 527, & seq. Taken by the Spartans, 529, & seq. Garrisoned by the Macedonians, 551. By Cassander, 554, a. Becomes one of the chief states after the Achæan league, 629. Its history from that time, 731, & seq. Attempted by Philip, 734, & seq. By Brutus, 736, f. Besieged by Sylla, 737, & seq. Blockaded and famished, 740. Taken and put to the sword, 741, b. Beautified by Adrian, vi. 42, d. How governed under him, ibid. e. The walls of it rebuilt, 180, c. Burnt by the Heruli, 184, d. Resumes its old idolatry under Julian, 324, b. Plundered by the Goths, vii. 497, a. By Alaric, 505, d.
- † — New, built at Delos, 42, f.
- † — the aqueduct of, finished, 57, c.
- † Atchæus, river, its spring and course, iv. 413, b.
- † Atletæ first introduced at Rome, iv. 758, c.
- † Atbos, the mountain of, its height, i. 102, (N). The passage through, cut by Xerxes, ii. 116, & seq.
- Atbotes, king of Egypt, who, i. 218, c. 238, (B).
- † — palace at Memphis, ibid.
- Atchages, a gigantic fellow, takes up the royalty, iv. 189, b. Defeated, ibid. c.
- Atian family, its antiquity, v. 194, (K).
- Atima, infamy, a punishment at Athens, ii. 432, a.
- Atmetus, the accuser of Agrippina, put to death, v. 424, a, d.
- † Atintanes, what people they were, ii. 706, & (W).
- † Atlantic islands. Vid. Fortunate, v. 86, (Z). Conquered by the Egyptians, vii. 149, b.
- † Atlantides, who, and where sited, vii. 177, c, d. Their customs, ibid. & seq.
- † Atlantis of Plato, vii. 179, a, b.
- Atlas, the son of Uranus, i. 134, b. Murdered by Chronus, 135, b. Gives name to the Atlantii in Afric, ibid. (N). — the inventor of astronomy, &c. vii. 152, d. First king of Mauritania, 158, b. Overcome by Hercules, ibid. c, d. The same with Antæus, ibid. & (M). The fable of, explained, 154, a, &c. — the nephew of Jupiter, whence so named, ii. 263, & (W). Reigned in Mauritania, 312, a, & note.
- † — mountains, where situate, vii. 115, c. 139, d. Described, 146, a, b.
- Atomic system, its author, i. 19, c. Principles, 20, d, & seq. Raised by Epicurus, 21, a. Received by modern christians, and others, 22, a.
- † Atra besieged by Trajan, vi. 24, e. Its situation, ibid. Holds out against Severus, 114, f, & seq. Against Artaxerxes, 139, c.
- Atratinus chosen inter-rex, iv. 506, a.
- Vol. VII. No. 10.
- Atrius, a revolted Roman, beheaded, iv. 738.
- † Atropatene, part of Media, described, ii. 1, b. Whence so called, iii. 844, d. Its kings, ibid. & seq. By whom conquered, 845, a, b.
- † Atropatia, where situate, iii. 534, (X).
- † Attacoti different from the Caledonians, vii. 414, c. Invade the Romans, 435, c.
- Attalus, king of Pergamus, joins against the Achæans, ii. 666, d. 703, & seq. Forced to quit Opus, 667. Invaded by Philip, 669. Assists the Athenians against him, 733. The Attalian tribe founded in honour of him, 735, f. The inventor of tapestry, 325, f.
- defeats the Gauls, iii. 769, e. His other conquests, 771, a, b. Love of learning, and death, ibid. d, e.
- II. sent to Rome, 771. His cowardice at Pergamos, ibid. e, f. Generosity at Rome, 777. Succeeds Eumenes, 778. Invaded by Prusias, ibid. Aided by the Romans, 779, b. Aids Nicomedes against his father, 780. His death and character, 781.
- III. his cruelties, 781, & seq. Death, 782. Bequeaths his kingdom to the Romans, ibid. & (E). iv. 792.
- speech to Philip, iii. 310, c. Ill treatment of Pausanias, 313. Treasonable views, 318. Put to death, ibid. d.
- Claud. put to death by Heliogabalus, vi. 136, a.
- sent to, and promoted by Honorius, 459, f, & seq. Narrow escape from Alaric, 460, a. Made prefect of Rome, ibid. c. And emperor by Alaric, 463, c, d. Deposed by him, ibid. e (Vid. & vol. vii. 508, c). Restored and deposed by the same, 464, a. Advice to the Goths, 467, d. Resumes the purple, 469, e. Taken prisoner, 472, a. His moderate punishment, ibid. b.
- king of the Marcomans, allies with Rome, vii. 601, f, & seq.
- Attic coin described, ii. 362, a.
- † Attica, whence so called, ii. 361, c. Part of Græcia Prop. 344. Described, 361, & seq. Government, kings, &c. 362, & seq. Religion, 363. Change of government, 369, b. Sacked by the Persians, 475. Its pre-eminence at sea, 479, b. Invaded by Xerxes, 121, & seq. Left to the mercy of the Persians, 125, c. 470. Invaded by the Peloponnesians, 501, & seq. Ravaged by Philip, 733, 735. Betrayed into Mithridates's interest, 746, c. Enslaved by Artyon, ibid. & seq. 740, d. One of the three chief states after the Achæan league, ibid. & 629.
- Attica fides, a proverb, 361, e.
- Atticus's opinion of the origin of the universe, i. 30.
- Curtius, accompanies Tiberius, v. 430, a, (K).
- Jul. boasts himself the murderer of Otho, 595, b.
- takes the odium of burning the capitol, 632, c, e.
- Aulus, his bravery and death, 671, e.
- finds a treasure in his house, vi. 3, f. How bid to use it, 4.
- bishop of Constantinople, his kindness to the refuted christians, 474, b.
- Attila the Hunn's peace with Rome, vi. 487, d, e. Cruelty to the Hunnish princes, ibid. f. Northern conquests, ibid. & seq. In Thrace, 488, a, b. Proud demands on Theodosius, ibid. c, d. Dreadful devastations, 489, b, c. Falls out with Valentinian, ibid. & seq. Conspired against, 490. Powerful army against him, 493, f. High demands on him, 494, b. Ravages in Gaul, ibid. e, f. Repelled by Ætius, 495, b, c. Bravery at the battle of Chalons, ibid. c, f. Repasses the Rhine, 496, b, c. Cruelty to the Aquileians, ibid. f. Old retaliation for the Roman pictures, 497, b. Truce with Rome, ibid. c. Defeated by the Visigoths, and dies, ibid. & seq. (See also vol. vii. 464—481).
- Attilius's success against the Samnites, iv. 634, e, & seq.
- Regulus, subdues the Salentines, 649, d.
- A. Collatin. entangled in Sicily, 660, f. His success there, 661, c.
- Marc. Reg. triumphs over the Carthaginians, 660, & seq. Success in Africa, ibid. & seq. Destroys the serpent at Bagrada, 663, e, f. Conquests in Afric, 664, & seq. Offers peace to the Carthaginians, ibid. d, e. Taken prisoner, 665, e. Cruelly used by them, 666, a. Sent by them to Rome, 669, d. His noble speech to the senate, ibid. & seq. Obstinately return to Carthage, 670, b, c. Tortured to death, ibid. d, (G).
- Catalinus's success in Sicily, 667, c.
- Regulus, killed by the Gauls, 688, a.
- Batus, his extravagant course, v. 393, a.
- freeman, his amphitheatre kills twenty thousand Romans, 431. His banishment, ibid. d.
- Verus, his valour and death, 625, f.
- Attis, how begot and preserved, ii. 297, c.
- his fatal wedding, ibid. c.
- daughter Cranaus, 363, c.
- Attius Tullus's reception of Coriolanus, iv. 498, c, d. Invades Rome with him, 499, & seq. Treachery to him, 502, c. Killed by the Romans, 503.
- Pateras's writings and character, vi. 273, sub not.
- Attæus's bloody revenge, ii. 356, b. Killed by Egyptus, ibid. c.
- † Attrebatii, where sited, vii. 408, a.
- g M Attrog,

- Altrog*, a fruit worn by the Jews on the feast of tabernacles, iv. 99, (E).
- † Aturia, a province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
- Atyæda*, a race of Lydian kings, ii. 330, b.
- Atys*, the son of Cotis, 330, a. 332, b. Killed by a wild boar, 335, c.
- king of the Gauls, defeated and killed, iv. 682, c.
- Atzban*, whether he embraced mollemism, vii. 220, pass.
- † Avari, who, vi. 531, c. Deprived of their pension, ibid.
- By Tiberius, 533, f. Invade the Romans, 535, c. Defeated, 536, a. Stirred up by Corihoes against Heraclius, 541, c.
- Avaticum* taken by Cæsar, v. 126, vii. 399, c.
- Auclorati*, what, and whence so called, iv. 805, sub not.
- † Audus, mount, in Numidia, vii. 111, c.
- † — river, ibid. f.
- † — promontory, where, 115, d.
- † Aventine, mount, burnt, v. 451, c. Why so called, iv. 421. Yielded to the plebeians, 529.
- Averroes* suspected of holding the eternity of matter, i. 4, b.
- Aufania matres*, who, [418], (C).
- Aufidus* conspires against Sertorius, v. 96, b. His miserable end, 97, c.
- Auge*, princes of Arcadia, put to death, ii. 379, c.
- Auges*, a Bathian prince, vii. 492, d.
- Augus*, king of Elis, his stable cleansed by Hercules, ii. 406, a. That fable explained, 407. His expulsion and death, 408.
- Augurs*, whence so named, iv. 428, (S). Their office, ibid. & 436, b. Forbid to assist at funerals, v. 375, (E).
- Auguries*, how first introduced at the installation of kings, iv. 426, b. How performed, 428, (S).
- August*, the month of, whence so named, v. 294, f. 317, b, c. 348, c.
- a new name given to Octavian, 296, f.
- † Augusta Vagienorum, where, iv. 408.
- † — Taurinorum, now Turin, ibid.
- † — Prætoria, capital of the Salafians, 409, a.
- † — Vindellicorum, Aufburgb, where, v. 313, (E).
- † Augustal, the street of Daphne, whence so called, vi. 262, c.
- † Augustammica, part of Lower Egypt, i. 176, b.
- † Augustodunum, capital of the Æduli, v. 409, f. Rebuilt by Constantius, vi. 211, c.
- Augustus's* friendship to Herod, iv. 126, d. Victory at Actium, 137. Accepts Herod's friendship, 138. Reception in Judæa, 139, a. Displeased with Herod, 150, d, e. Decree for taxing the world, 159, a, & (Y). Appealed to by Archelaus, 186, c. Divides the Jewish kingdom, 190, c. The rest see in Octavianus.
- the son of Orestes, why called Augustulus, vi. 512, c.
- Proclaimed emperor, ibid. f. Deposed and maintained by Odoacer, 513, e, f.
- temple rebuilt by Adrian, vi. 35, a.
- Avicenna* suspected of holding the eternity of the world, i. 4, b.
- Avignon* taken by Theodoric, vii. 577, a.
- Avitus* consecrated at Edessa, vi. 133. 428, sub not. Peace with the Goths, 484, c.
- made general of the Romans, 501, d. Proclaimed emperor, 502, a, b. Deposed, 503, f. His death, 504, a. See vol. vii. 512, b.
- Aulea*, a famed kind of Pergamean tapestry, ii. 325, f.
- Aulis*, in Boeotia, the Greeks sworn at, ii. 371, a.
- Aulus* shamefully defeated in Numidia, vii. 130, d, e.
- Gell, a disciple of Favorinus, vi. 49, sub not. Character of Epictetus, 50, sub not.
- of Calvisius, 50, sub not. His writings, 85, sub not.
- Pompon, revolts in Gaul, 207, c.
- Aurelian's* success against the Persians, iv. 328, a. Severity at Palmyra, 329, a.
- proclaimed emperor, vi. 185, f. His rise and character, 188, a, b. Success in the north, ibid. & seq. See vol. vii. 497, & seq. Enlarges the Roman walls, 189, b. Success against Zenobia, 190, & seq. Receives embassies from the east, 19, c. Success in Egypt, 192, b, c. His triumph at Rome, ibid. d — f. Kindness to Zenobia, 193, a, b. Reforms the state, ibid. & seq. His bread-crowns to the people, ibid. & seq. Success in Gaul, &c. 194, e, f. Assassinated, 195. Funeral honours, &c. ibid. & seq.
- family, an account of, 15, a.
- priests, by whom created, 63, a.
- the historian, his writings, 197, sub not.
- Aurelius, Marc.* his character of Antoninus, vi. 55, d. Created Cæsar, 576. Consul, ibid. e, f. Succeeds Antoninus, 58, a, b. 59, c. His extract, learning, names, &c. 60, & seq. Takes L. Verus for his colleague, 61, f. Generosity to the distressed Romans, 62, c. Mild government, 64, pass. Triumphs over Parthia, 65, e. Styled Pater patriæ, ibid. & seq. Wife orders during the plague and famine, 66, b — d. German war, 68, pass. Success against the barbarians, 69. Delivered by the prayers of the christians, 71, & seq. Stay in Germany, 68, f. 73, pass. Two letters concerning Cassius, 74, (F). 75, c, d. Speech against him, 76, b. Concern for his death, 77, a. Kindness to his children, ibid. e. Letter to Faustina about them, ibid. & seq. March into Egypt, 78, b. Shameful mourning for Faustina, ibid. c. Visit to Athens, 79, d. Great skill in philosophy, 80. Success against the Germans, ibid. c. Sudden death, funeral, &c. ibid. & seq. Meditations, 81, b, c.
- Aurelian, Victor*, his books imperfect, vi. 19, c.
- Verus, his history lost, ibid.
- Titus, Fulv. See Antoninus, 34, & seq.
- Nemfianus, &c. conspire against Caracalla, 128, c.
- Philip, his writings and character, 149, sub not.
- Cotta, his success in Sicily, iv. 607, & seq. Against Lilybæum, 674, c.
- Penicula, whipped and degraded, 68, b.
- Aureolus* forced to assume the purple, vi. 179, c. His rise and success, ibid. & seq. Defeated in Italy, 184, & seq. Killed 186, d.
- the bridge built to his memory, ibid.
- Auriteæ*, the first race that reigned in Egypt, i. 92, d, & (N).
- Aurum Coronarium*, what, vi. 54, e, f.
- Auruntii*, driven out of Campania, iv. 414, d. Their origin, 415, b. Defeated by the Romans, 487, d.
- † Aufetani, where sited, vii. 10, f. Invaded by Scipio, ibid.
- † Aufenes, their origin, iv. 415, d. vii. 489. Conquered by the Romans, iv. 604, a. 619.
- Aulonius's* character and writings, vi. 391, c, d. 401, (L).
- Auspices*, whence so called, iv. 428, (S).
- Austin*, St. judgment of Vespasian's miracles, v. 646, c. Cen- ture of Porphyry, vi. 222, & seq. Panegyric on the Roman consuls, 406, d. Zeal for church affairs, 422, f. Sermon on the deliverance of Constantinople, 437, c, f. Character of Olympius, 457, d. Apology for the destruction of Rome, 465, a.
- † Aufurians, who, vi. 467, c. Waste Pentapolis, ibid.
- Autaritus*, betrayed by the Numidians, vi. 859, c. Defeated, 860. Seized by Hamilcar, 862, c, f.
- Autefion*, king of Thebes, runs mad, ii. 375, b.
- Autbaris* chosen king of the Lombards, vii. 516, b. 681, d. Success against the Romans, ibid. & seq. Conversion, 682, c, d. Conquests, 683, d, & seq. Death, 684, b.
- Autocliton*, what, ii. 375. The second order of Athenian citi- zens, 438, a.
- † Autolala, metropolis of the Autololes, a tribe of the Getulians, vii. 160, d, (B).
- Autolyclus*, the famed statue of, iii. 748, (O).
- † Automela, where situate, vi. 805, (R).
- Autonomi* subdued by Alexander, iii. 794, a, b.
- Autronius*, sworn enemy to Cicero, v. 116, (S).
- Autun* relieved by Constantius, vi. 241, b. By Julian, 297, d. Taken by Childebert, vii. 587, f. Its temple and hot baths, 355, (R).
- Auvergne* taken by Euric, vi. 510, c. vii. 516, b.
- Auxilius's* statue erected by the Epidaurii, iii. 244, (I).
- † Auxume, metropolis of Ethiopia, vii. 184, c. Its ruins, ibid. & seq.
- Atalide princes crowned at, 185, b.
- † Auzales, in Africa, by whom built, i. 415, d.
- † Auzia, where sited, vii. 115, b.
- Axan* Sultan's generosity to Romulus, vi. 605, c — f. Treaty with Cutlumoles, 606, e, f.
- Axes*, born by the lotors, iv. 426, b. Set aside by Poplicola, 473, a. By whom refused, 482, b.
- Axieros*, among the Phœnicians, what, vi. 694, (Y).
- Axiotea* kills herself, and all her daughters, iii. 182, c.
- † Axius, a river in Macedonia, iii. 260, d.
- † Axones, who, and where sited, ii. 455, a.
- † Aylisford, the battle of, vii. 444, d, e.
- Azabel*, killed by Abner, i. 773, d.
- † Azama, where situate, vii. 109, c.
- Azan*, king of Arcadia, ii. 279.
- † Azania the portion of Azan, ibid.
- Azariab* succeeds Amasiah, i. 827, a. His piety and success, 829, a. Smitten with leprosy, why, ibid. d. His death, ibid. e.
- † Azazer, where sited, vi. 474. Abandoned to the Ro- mans, ibid. d.
- Azelmic*, king of Tyre, i. 418, d. Spared by Alexander, 420, c.
- Azer* of the Asiatics, the same as Terah, i. 132.
- Azizus*, king of Emessa, turns Jew, iii. 848, d.
- † Azotus taken by Azarhaddon, i. 206, c. Retaken by Pſam- mitichus, ibid. Taken by Judas Maccabeus, iv. 68, d. Given to Salome, 191, a.
- Azurmi*, prince of Persia, raised to the throne, iv. 403, b. Murdered, ibid. d.
- Azyla*. See Churches, vi. 422, & seq.

B

B A A L, one of the Phœnician deities, i. 597, b. Its nu- merous priests, &c. 401, b.

— Stalajus, worshipped at Sidon, 597, d. Many deities of that name, ibid. (B), (D). Sometimes a goddess, 398, a. Conjectures concerning that deity, vi. 694, pass. & (R). Sometimes meant the true God, 688, & seq.

Baal berith, its etymon, i. 747, (I).

— Peor and Pegor, the god of the Moabites, 285, c, (E). Several opinions concerning him, 236, a, b, (F).

B 21

- Baal Zephon*, unknown to ancient geographers, i. 503, (O).
 — Zebub, how worshipped by the Philistines, 343, b. Why so called, ibid.
 — made king of Tyre, 417, c.
Baalis, the last king of Ammon, i. 258, a. Receives the fleeing Jews, ibid. b. Advice against Ishmael, ibid. Carried prisoner into Babylon, ibid. c.
Baana, one of the murderers of Ishboeth, i. 774, d. Put to death by David, ibid. e.
 — head of the returning Jews, iv. 4, b.
Baasha succeeds Jeroboam, i. 808, c. His death, ibid. d.
Baau, the first woman according to the Phenicians, i. 46, d, (N).
Babai defeated by the Ostrogoths, vii. 519, f, & seq.
Babai, the sons of, put to death, iv. 141, a, & (Q).
 † Babel, by whom built, i. 123, b, (P). Its etymon, 143, c. 153, (I). When begun, 129, b. 142, d. The design of that work, 143, a, b. Opinions concerning it, ibid. & seq. Its description, 134, a, b, (N). Its ruins, 146, (N). Traditions about them, 123, b, (P). Why called the tower of Nimrod, 147, (N).
Babir, one of the Syrian deities, i. 371, d. Children call Babyas from her, ibid.
Babilus's bloody advice to Nero, v. 550, c.
Babylas forces the emperor to do penance, vi. 160, b, c. Martyred under Decius, 167, d.
 † Babylon, how, and by whom built, i. 143, (H). Whether by Semiramis, 878, b. The fable of its speedy building, 146, a, (M).
 — the kingdom of, whence so called, i. 905, c. Its proper boundaries, 906, a. Extent, situation, &c. ibid. & seq. Rivers, canals, &c. 907, d, e. Natural and artificial rarities, 910, b, c. Antiquity, government, &c. 911, a, b. Princes, &c. 912, b, c. Laws, 913, a—c. Kingdom, when founded, 927, d. Metropolis described, 957, & seq. Temple of Belus, 960. Two famed palaces, 961, a. Hanging gardens, ibid. b. Canals, lakes, &c. ibid. d, e. Ruins, 146, a, (M).
 — the fall of, according to Herodotus and others, 970, pass. & seq. According to Daniel, 971, c, d, & seq.
 † — when, and by whom taken, ii. 21, & seq. 93, & seq. 166, d. A further description of its ruins, iii. 517, b, (H).
 † Babylonia conquered by Mithridates, iv. 292, d. By Trajan, 320, a. vi. 20, e. Entered by him, 21, a. Taken by Catus, 65, c. By Severus, 146, b.
Babylonian antediluvian history, i. 90, a, b.
Babylonians ascribed the order, &c. of the world to their Belus, i. 15, a. Their religion and deities, 916, b, c. 925, e, f. First authors of human sacrifices, 926, b. Their customs, 927, a. Sale of their virgins, ibid. b. Prostitution of their women, ibid. c. Burials, 928, c. Character, ibid. Drefs, 929, a. Arts, 932. Sciences, &c. ibid. & seq. Trade, commerce, &c. 933, a—d. 934, a—c. Chronology, 934, pass. Might and riches, ibid. & (X). Table of kings from Ptolemy and Eusebius, 935. Of the successors of Nimrod, 973. Babylonians and Assyrians, two branches of one empire, 940, d. The former in subjection to the latter, 941, e, f. Revolt from the Persians, ii. 104, & seq. Straightly besieged by Darius, ibid. Bloody expedient to stop all useless mouths, 105. Surrender, 106. To Alexander, 166, d. iii. 353, a. Forced to abandon their city, 434, & seq. Freed by Demetrius, 591, c.
Bacchide, kings of Corinth, whence so named, ii. 392, d. Seize on the government, ibid. & seq.
Bacchides defeated by Judas Maccab. iv. 59, c. Sent to invade Judaea, 70, b. 74, b. Success against Judas, 75, a. Cruelties to the Jews, ibid. c, d. 76, pass. Returns to Antioch, ibid. d, (O). Defeated by Jonathan, 77, b, c. Makes peace, ibid. d, e.
Bacchus worshipped in Egypt, i. 207, c. Its obscene rites, ibid.
 — worshipped by the Phrygians, iii. 300, a. Why supposed the grandson of Cadmus, 372, (D). How worshipped at Elus, 406, a, & not.
 — defeats the Titans, iii. 164, not. Worshipped at Naxos, 220, b.
 — its famous temple there, 222, a. At Andros, 226, d, e. Worshipped by the Mauritians, vii. 150, c.
 † Bactra besieged and taken by Ninus, i. 876, c. By a pretended stratagem of Semiramis, 877, a. Taken by Alexander, iii. 369, b.
 † Bactria, a province of Persia, described, ii. 30, b.
 † — the kingdom of, iii. 845, & seq. When and by whom founded, 525, b, c. Invaded by Alexander, 369, & seq. By the Scythians, 846.
Bactrians, their character and brutish customs, iii. 846, a, b. Ally with Adrian, vi. 37, b. Embatly to Antoninus, 56, f.
Bacurius seizes under Valens, vi. 370, f. Under Theodosius, 424, a. His gallant character, ibid. b—d.
 † Badanatha, capital of the Thamydeni, vii. 233, c.
 † Badeo, a city in Arab. Felix, vii. 233, f.
Badezor, Bazor, king of Tyre, i. 415, c.
Badon, the battle of, vii. 450, b. When, ibid. c.
Babius, basely corrupted by Jugurtha, v. 11, c, d.
 — Marcellus, put to death by Severus, vi. 117, c, f.
 † Batona, province, described, vii. 299, c, & seq. Its Roman colonies, 300, a, b. Cities, ibid. & seq. Bays and sea-ports, 301, c, d. Mountains, soil, &c. 302, & seq. Minerals, &c. 303, a, b.
Batila of the heathen, their origin, vi. 693, a, (X). Worshipped by the Phenicians, i. 136, (N).
 † Batis, river in Bætica, vii. 299, d. Its two mouths, 301, (G). Its spring and course, 302, b.
 † Batula, the silver mines of, vii. 65, b.
 † Baturia. See Batica, vii. 299, d.
Bagaude defeated by Maximin, vi. 207, e, f. vii. 543, f. Give a passage to Sarus, 454, d.
 † Bagdad, where situate, iii. 518, in fin. not.
Bagoas, general of Ochus, ii. 153. Strives to save the Egyptian temples, ibid. & seq. Redeems their records, 154. Poisons Ochus, ibid. His other treasons and punishment, ibid. & seq.
 — revenge on Orfines, iii. 405, sub not.
 † Bagrada, a river, described, vi. 671, b, c.
Babaman, king of Persia, according to Oriental writers, ii. 223, a. Vid. Ardshir, ibid.
Babaram, king of Persia, according to Oriental writers, iv. 378. Flays Manes alive, ibid. b.
 — II. his reign and character, 379, a.
 — III. his obscure reign, ibid. b.
 — IV. shot to death, 382, b.
 — V. his education, 382, & seq. Magnanimity, 384. Success against the Turks, ibid. c—e. Travels into India, ibid. & seq. Feats and conquests, 385. Death uncertain, ibid. e.
 — Tiboubin, his advice to Hermouz, 397. Success against the Turks, ibid. c. Rebels, ibid. c. His character, 398, c. Death, 399, b.
 † Babrein province described, vii. 239, c.
 † Baia, the famed bridge of, built by Caligula, v. 470, & seq.
Bajazet's swift conquests, vi. 646. Arrogance to the Greek emperors, ibid. c, d. Defeats one hundred and thirty thousand christians, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Tamerlan, 647, d. His death, ibid. e.
Bail, when first taken in capital cases, iv. 521, f.
Bairbus, an Epicurean Jew, iv. 40, c.
Balaam, who, i. 287, (G). Sent to curse Israel, ibid. a, b. Whether his ass truly spoke, 288, (I). Blesses instead of cursing, ibid. c, d. His death, 289, c. 538, a. Some obscurities in his prophecies explained, 534, (Y). The place of his birth, iv. 160, (B).
Balak, king of Moab, sends for Balaam, i. 287, a.
Balamir. See Valmir, vii. 458, & seq.
Balas, first, second, third kings of Parthia, according to original writers, iv. 388.
 — Alexander. Vid. sub Alexander Balas, iii. 594, & seq.
Balaf, king of Persia, according to original writers, iv. 388.
Balator, king of Tyre, i. 417, b.
 † Balbec, the wonder of Syria, described, i. 363, d. Its temple, 364, a, b. Palace, 366, b. By whom built, ibid. (M).
Balbilius made governor of Egypt, v. 524, d. His writings and character, 578, (T).
Balbus sent to succour Rome, v. 73, c.
 — the historian, his character, &c. 155, (E).
 — Corn. triumphs over the Garamantes, 310, c.
 — Lael. a senator, degraded, 453, c.
Balbinus, Dec. made Caracalla's colleague, vi. 125, d.
 — Dec. Caesar, chosen emperor, 156, e, f. His extract, &c. 157, b, c. Wounded in an uproar, 158, c. Great joy at Maximin's death, 160, a, c. Jealousy of Maximus, ibid. & seq. Killed by the Prætorian guards, 161, a, b.
 † Balch made the seat of the Persian empire, ii. 197, d. 201, b. Taken by the king of Touran, 219, c.
Baldwin saves Edessa, vi. 615, f. Disappears, 616, b.
 — crowned emperor, 628. His defeat and dismal end, ibid. d, e. vii. 639, b, c.
 — II. crowned Latin emperor, vi. 630, e, f. Driven out of Constantinople, 631, f. 633, d.
Baltic islands, subdued, iv. 801, e.
 — slingers, very dexterous, vi. 792, (F).
 † — islands described, vii. 308, pass. Ravaged by the Vandals, 531, d.
Baleazer, the son of Hiram, king of Tyre, i. 415, a.
Balisha's success against the Persians, vii. 177, b. Goes over to Macrianus, 178, f. Takes the purple, 180, f. Murdered, 182, c.
Bilise of Archimedes, described, iii. 112, sub not. vi. 646, a.
 † Balkis, queen of Sheba, who, and where sited, i. 170, d.
Ballonymus, how created king of Sidon, i. 412, d.
 † Balm of Gilead, a plantation of, near Asphaltites lake, iii. 434, d.
 — the plant of, described, iv. 135, (F).
Baltbi, the princely tribe of, vii. 487, c. 492, d, e.
 † Bambyce, H erapolis in Syria, i. 361, b.
 † Bamoth Arnon, a station of the Israelites, i. 533, b.
 † Banafa, where sited, vii. 143, d.
Banditi of Palestine, destroyed by Herod, iv. 118, & seq. 128. Their obstinacy, 129, a, (Y).
 † Banjuræ, a tribe of Getulians, where sited, vii. 140, 160, d.
Bankers at Rome, their office, iv. 592, c.
Barabanes kills Siroes, and mounts the throne, vi. 542, e, f.
Barak

- Barak* defeats Siferah, i. 336, b. 743, b.
Baranes dethrones Hormisdas, vi. 536, b, c.
† Barami, where sited, vii. 494, f.
Barat anac, the supposed etymon of Britain, vii. 402, b.
Barbara Wasse, the Supreme Being, at Malabar, i. 33, d.
† Barbarium Promontorium, in Lusitania, vii. 298, e.
Barbas's treachery to Theoctistus, vi. 571, b. Tyranny under Michael, 572, a, b. Murdered, ibid. e, f.
Barbatio, a bitter enemy to Gallus, vi. 293, b, d.
Barbers, suppressed by Julian, vi. 325, c.
Barca, king of Tyre, i. 415, c, & seq. Goes with Dido into Africa, ibid. & vi. 719, e, f.
† — the city of, where, and by whom built, vii. 171, b, d.
Betrayed to the Persians, 173, b, (E). Its fate and punishment, ibid. c.
† Barcai, who, and whence, vii. 171, c, d.
Barcan family, or Barchinæ, at Carthage, vi. 707, (L). 848, (C).
Barcokebas, a false Messiah, flurs up the Jews, iv. 39, a. De-seated and taken, 40, a.
Bardanes's unsuccessful war against Gotarzes, iv. 316, & seq. — revolt and punishment, vi. 561, b.
Bardas defeated by the Saracens, vi. 580, f.
— Phocas's revolt and banishment, 585, & seq. Proclaimed emperor, 590, b. Treachery to Sclerus, ibid. d, e. Death, 591, a.
— Sclerus's success against the Rossi, 587, d. Revolt, 588, a, b. Outwitted by Manuel, 589, a. Defeats Phocas, ibid. b. Defeated and imprisoned, ibid. & seq. Submits to Basilus, 591, b.
Bardians, Marius's troops, why so called, v. 64, c, (R). Their butcheries, &c. at Rome, ibid. d. All cut off by Cinna, ibid. &c.
Bards, in Gaul, their office inferior to the Druids, vii. 364, d, e, & seq.
Bargus, the infamous betrayer of Timasius, vi. 436, d, e. Put to death, 437, c.
Baris, worshipped by the Armenians, iii. 697, d.
† — the city of, by whom built, iv. 96, a, (Y).
† Barrady, Chrysoriboas, a river in Syria, i. 361, e.
† Barrows, or burying-places, on Salisbury plain, vii. 341, & seq.
Barfina married to Alexander, iii. 405, c. Her issue by him, 413. Murdered by Polyperchon, 462, e.
Bartolomew called by Christ, and made an apostle, iv. 108, (T).
Baruch, Jeremiah's scribe, i. 847, b.
Barzantes murders Darius, iii. 359, c. Put to death by Alexander, 362, a.
Barzanes, by whom conquered, iii. 696, d.
Barzaphernes's treachery to Phraëel, vi. 125.
Bas, king of Bithynia, iii. 828, c.
† Bascana, where situate, iii. 604, (N).
† Babhan, the hill of, i. 330, c. Conquered by Moses, ibid. d.
Basemab, Esau's second wife, her extract, i. 441, (X).
Basie the Hunn lifts in the Roman service, vii. 464, a.
Basil, St. with Julian at Athens, vi. 322. Refuses his invitation to court, ibid. d. Studies under Proereses, 333, not. Strives in vain to convert Valens, 372, b, c.
† — the episcopal see of, iii. 762, b.
Basileus, the second magistrate of Athens, ii. 417, c. His office, 452, c.
† Basilica Pauli, by whom built, v. 129, e. Rebuilt, 413.
Basilica, or Basilus's laws so called, vi. 574, c. Of Leo, 577, c, d.
† Basilica at Rome, described, v. 413, (L).
Basilides's prediction of Vespasian's grandeur, v. 637, (C). Appears to him at Alexandria, 646, c, d.
† Basilipotamos, or Royal river. See Eurotas, ii. 395, & seq.
Basiliscus made admiral of Leo's fleet, vi. 509, a. Treachery and defeat, ibid. d — f (See also vol. vi. 538, & seq.). Proclaimed, 513, b. His extortions and heresy, 514, d, e. Reigns, 515, a. Dies, ibid. b.
— created Cæsar, and deposed, 515, b. Made bishop of Cyzicus, ibid. c.
— Tiberius, declared emperor, 551, e. Put to death, ibid.
Basilissa, who, ii. 442, c.
Basilitzas, an infamous tool of Alexander, vi. 577, e.
Basilus sent to treat with Alaric, vi. 458, d.
— created Cæsar, 572. His extract, &c. ibid. &c. Kills the emperor, ibid. f. Makes his two sons Cæsars, 573, a. Defeats the Manichees, ibid. b. The Saracens, ibid. c. Builds a vast number of churches, ibid. c. Dies, 574, b. Instructions to his sons, ibid. c.
— an impostor's treason and death, 580, a, b. An extorting eunuch poisons the emperor, 587, c — e. Defeated, 588, d — f.
— the son of Romanus, made Zemises's colleague, 585. Defeated by Sclerus, 588, & seq. Ill success against the Bulgarians, 589, f, & seq. Defeats Phocas, 590, & seq. Cruelty to the Bulgarians, 591, & seq. Wars against the Saracens, 593, a. Death, ibid. b.
Basina's reception of Childeric, vii. 564, (F). Runs away with, and married to him, 566, a, (H).
Bassi, the family of, converted, vi. 415, d.
Bassus, Cæcil. revolts against Cæsar, v. 159, & seq. Joins Cæsius in Syria, 218, a.
Bassus, Cæcil. a lyric poet, destroyed by Nipont Vespasian, 578, v, (T).
— Pompeii, put to death by Heliogabalus, vi. 156, c.
Bastards, &c. excluded from the congregation of God, i. 665, 7.
† Bastarnæ, who, and where sited, vii. [408], & seq. Invited into Macedon, iii. 479, f. Fall out with the Thracians, 483, a, b. Settled in Thrace, vi. 201, d. Transplanted, 215, d. One hundred thousand settled in Thrace, vii. 429, a.
† Batavia cleared of the Franks, vi. 211, c.
† Batavian islands described, v. 381, (L).
— cohorts sent into Britain, 616, d, e. Dismissed, 617, b, c.
Batavians surprised by the Germans, 383. Revolt against the Romans, 639, & seq. Defeated, 641, b. And left in statu quo, 644, c. Bravery against the Caledonians, 670, c, f.
† Bataw, island, where sited, v. 639, c. Ravaged by the Frisians, 640, b.
Batelnim, among the Jews, what, iv. 26, (Q).
Bath-col of the Jews, what, iv. 229, (E).
† Bath, in Somersetshire, why called Aquæ Calidæ, vii. 407.
† Bathancester Bath, taken by the Saxons, vii. 453, a.
† Batbmæ, the fair of, kept for Indian goods, vi. 289, c.
Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah, married to David, i. 779, b — c.
Batia, the daughter of Teucer. See Asia, ii. 311, d.
Battos, the two revolt against the Romans, v. 335, b, c. 336, a. One submits, and murders the other, 337, & seq.
Battus, the third king of the Cyrenæans, i. 268, f.
— cured of his stammering, ii. 383, (F). vii. 172, b.
— III. why surnamed the happy, ibid. d, e.
— IV. invites Demonax, ibid. f.
† Bauti, the villa of, described, v. 531, (E).
Bazab, king of Persia. Vid. Zab, ii. 187, d.
† Bazrab, Bezrab, Bozor, a city of Edom, i. 309, c.
Bean, the children of, who, iv. 63, (Z). Defeated, ibid. c.
Beans, how used in voting, ii. 447, b.
— a wonderful kind springing out of a lake, iii. 820, d.
Beas, king of Sodom, defeated, i. 327, b.
† Beauvois peopled by the Franks, vi. 213, b.
† Behamburg, Bambrough, by whom built, vii. 451, a.
† Bebrices, their origin, iii. 827, pass.
Beda's account of the Roman wall in Britain, vi. 118, f.
† Bedriacum, where situate, v. 609, c. The battle of, ibid. f.
Beelamen, in the Phœnician, what, i. 87, a. Meant of the sun, 397, b.
† Beer, a famed station of the Israelites, i. 533.
† Beerseba, the well and city of, whence so called, i. 450, (A).
Beetle, why worshipped by the Egyptians, i. 210, c.
Begdeg made king of Westphalia, vii. 439, e.
Beggars suppressed by Gratian, vi. 396, d.
Beheading, not used in Judea before the captivity, i. 673, c.
Beisfar, king of Egypt, built the city of Meier, i. 280, a.
Bela, the son of Beor, king of the Horites, i. 312, a.
† — a city in the valley of Siddim, 317, b.
Belatucardus Apollo, so called in Britain, vii. 406, b.
† Belerium, promontory, in Danmonia, vii. 407, d.
Belis flurs up Arbaces to rebel, i. 885, & seq. His history, 938, a, b.
† Belgæ, who, v. 119, d — f, (X). Settle in Gaul, 128, c. vii. [435], b, c, (C). Subdued by Cæsar, [438], a.
† — in Britain, where situate, vii. 407, f.
† Belgia, whether conquered by Pharamond, vii. 559, d, e.
Belibus king of Babylon's reign, i. 946, c.
Belisarius defeated by the Persians, iv. 347, b. Before Nisibis, 353, d. By the Persians, vi. 523, d, e. Fortifies their frontiers, 524, c. Forced to abandon them, ibid. d. Defeats the Persians, 525, c. Quells a revolt at Constantinople, 526, b. Sent into Africa, ibid. c, d. Recalled against the Persians, 527, d, e. Drives out the Hunns, 529, d. Success in Italy, vii. 652, & seq. Haughty answer to the Ostrogoths, 654, a, b. Complaint to the emperor, 656, a, (R). Defence of Rome, 657, a, b. Raises the siege of it, 658, b, c. Fresh success, ibid. & seq. Conquests, 660, c, d. Proclaimed emperor by the Goths, 663, c, d. Recalled, ibid. & seq. Sent back against Totila, 668, & seq. Dissuades him from destroying Rome, 670, c, d. Retakes and rebuilds it, ibid. e, f. Recalled, 671, f. His conduct censured, 672, a. Vid. & vol. vi. 629, c, f. Cleared and restored, ibid. 630, a.
Bellerophon, why so called, ii. 393, c. Falsely accused, 394. Subdues the Solimi, 394. Succeeds Jobates in Lycia, ibid. His fatal end, ibid. Whence said to kill the chimaera, 337, b. 394, (N).
† Bellona, the temple of, at Comana, iii. 762, & seq.
† Bellouaci subdued by Cæsar, v. 119, f. 128, d. Their extract, and alliance with the Ædii, vii. 207, (C).
Bellovesus settles in Piedmont, iv. 561, c. vii. 391, c, (A).
Belfazzar of Daniel, probably Evilmerodach, i. 965, f, & not. Nabonadius, 971, f. His vision interpreted by Daniel, ibid.
— Daniel, sentiments of the learned about him, ii. 23, (C).
Belus, the chief god of the Babylonians, i. 15, a.
— the son of Neptune, reigns in Egypt, 408, a.
† — the same with Pulhis temple at Babylon, 916, b, c. Hs

- His tower described, ibid. & seq. Said to have been the inventor of astronomy, 917, c.
- B lus, king of Lydia, ii. 333, a.
- † — the temple of, seized by Antiochus, iii. 567, c.
- † — a river, whose land gave the first hint for making of glass, i. 582.
- Belzebub, Satan, &c. prince of the fallen angels, i. 51, a.
- Benaiab succeeds Joab as general, i. 792.
- Ben-hadad, first king of Damascus, bribed by Afa, to war against Baasha, i. 383, a. Conquests, ibid.
- II. marches against the king of Israel, 383, b, c, (D). Defeated, ibid. d, e. His army crushed under the wall of Aphec, ibid. & (G). Spared by Ahab, 384, c, d. Wars with him and Jehoshaphat, 385, a, b. Vain attempt to seize Elutha, 387, a. Repulsed before Samaria, 387, b, c. Murdered by Hazael, 388, a. Worshipped by the Syrians under the name of Adad, Ader, &c. 372, a.
- III. thrice defeated by Jehoshaphat, 389, a. Becomes tributary to the kings of Israel, ibid. &c.
- the common name of the Syrian kings, 389, (B).
- Beneventum plundered by Hannibal, vii. 23, d. 666, c.
- † — the highway of, made by Trajan, vi. 19, f.
- first duke of, vii. 683, c, f.
- relieved by Grimoald, 695, a—c. The dukes of, 700, & seq. Territories, 720, d, e. Made a principality, 724, c, d. Given to Rodelchifus, 725, a.
- Benjamin, the son of Jacob, born, i. 448, e. Sent into Egypt, 454. Cared for by Joseph, ibid. & seq. Jacob's blessing to him, how verified, 465, b, (S). His lot in the promised land, 569, a.
- Benjaminis, or tribe of Benjamin, defeat that of Judah, i. 741, b, c. Defeated, with the loss of twenty-five thousand men, ibid. c, d. The whole tribe destroyed, except five hundred men, ibid. & seq. How restored, 742, c.
- Benignus, Orphid. defeated and killed, v. 610, c. His burial, ibid. f.
- Bentb, a deity, worshipped under both sexes, i. 919, a — c. The fame with the Alcalonians Derceto, 920, b.
- † Berach, the vale of, where and whence so called, i. 574, b, (S). See also 291. 297. 315.
- Berean christians just reproof to Julian, vi. 330, b, c.
- Berenice's intrigues at the Egyptian court, iii. 468, c.
- prince of Lydia, assassinated Demetrius, 524, d.
- daughter of Ptolemy, married to Antiochus, 525, c.
- of Auletes, set upon the throne, 667, c. Murders her husband, ibid. f. Put to death, 671, e.
- daughter of Solome, married to Aristobulus, iv. 147, a.
- Her offspring, 152, sub not.
- of Herod Agrippa, born, 199, a. Married to the king of Chalcis, 262, d. Her incontinence, 265, (E). Pity to the persecuted Jews, 269, b. Discarded by Titus, ibid. d.
- coma made a Constellation, ibid. 639, c.
- † — a city in Cyrenaica, vii. 169, c.
- Bericus stirs up Claudius to invade Britain, v. 496, d. vii. 428, b.
- Berie invades the Almerugians, &c. vii. 487, c.
- † Bernica, a province in Northumberland, vii. 457, a.
- Berosus's account of the Chaldean and Babylonian cosmogony, i. 14, c. Collection of Babylonian antiquities, 90. His character, writings, &c. iii. 523, f.
- Berobair, in Syria, plundered by David, i. 382, b.
- Berry taken by the Visigoths, vii. 515, c.
- Beryllus, Nero's Greek secretary, v. 519, a.
- † Berytus, an ancient city of Phenice, i. 394, b. Described, ibid. (T).
- whether in the isle of Cyprus, iii. 174, c.
- ruined by an earthquake, vi. 278, f.
- † Bethicus, island, separated from the continent, iii. 202, a.
- † Bethi, a people of Thrace, iii. 790, a. Subdued by the Romans, ibid. b, c.
- Bessus's treachery to Darius, ii. 168, e, & seq. Invades Bactria, 169. His treason, iii. 359. 361. Delivered up to Alexander, ibid. & seq. His punishment and death, 373, c, f, (T).
- Fulvius, his poems, v. 656, (D).
- Bessia, L. Calpurn. his sordid character, v. 9, b. Bought off by Jugurtha, ibid. & seq. Shameful peace with him, 10, b. Tried and banished, 12, c.
- † Beth-abara, where sited, i. 553, (Y). Whence so called, iv. 198, (G).
- † Bethagil, a village, where no uncircumcised lived above three days, i. 584, (T).
- † Bethany, where situate, iv. 224, d.
- † Bethel'shechem, a city in Canaan, i. 324, a. Cut off by Joshua, 331, b. Seized by the house of Joseph, 334, a, b. Whence so called, 440, c. Fortified by the Syrians, iv. 76, c.
- † Bethesda, the pool of, described, iv. 106, b, (R).
- † Bethlehem, the waters of, wished for by David, i. 775, b.
- Christ born at, iv. 159, a. The children of, massacred, 179. The prophecy of it explained, ibid. (G).
- † Bethmeon, a city of Arabia Petraea, vii. 226, b.
- † Bethoron, where sited, iv. 58, (Q). Fortified by Bacchides, 76, c.
- † Bethppage, where situate, iv. 227, c.
- † Bethsan, iii. 604, (M).
- Vol. VII. No. 10.
- † Bethsheam, a city in Canaan, i. 324, a. Taken by the Scythians, ii. 17, 281.
- Bethshephites smitten for looking into the ark, i. 757, a.
- Bethuel, whether the father of Rebecca, or her brother, i. 431, (D). 433, (M).
- † Bethzura described, iv. 60, (S).
- the battle of, examined, ibid. (T). Fortified by Judas, 62, b. Where situate, ibid. (Y). Taken by Bacchides, 76, c. By Simon, 82, b.
- † Betica reduced by the Huns, vi. 488, d. Described, vii. 299, & seq.
- Betis's brave defence of Gona, ii. 162, c. 344, b. Cruelly murdered by Alexander, ibid.
- Betylus, the son of Uranus, i. 134, b, (H).
- Bezai's notion of the Herodians confuted, iv. 169, a.
- Bezaleel, the famous artificer of the tabernacle, i. 523, b.
- † Bezanson besieged by the Gauls, v. 573, b. Relieved by the Romans, ibid. c.
- † Bezek taken by the Israelites, i. 333, d, e.
- † Bezekba, by whom built, iv. 261.
- Bizar, Perfic, described, ii. 45, b.
- Bius obtains part of Argos, ii. 354, c. Brings Iphiclus's oxen out of Thessaly, 382, (D).
- † Biblos surrendered to Alexander, ii. 161, c.
- Bibulus's sons murdered in Egypt, iii. 672, f.
- his strange defence, iv. 306, & seq.
- the consul, v. 113, a. Opposes the Agrarian law, ibid. c, & seq.
- Pompey's admiral's cruelty to Cæsar's seamen, 138, d.
- Caius's law against luxury rejected, 411, b, c.
- Bizati, a coin, why so called, vii. 36, (O).
- Bizub, Leah's maid, given to Jacob, i. 441, d.
- Blimer defeated by Ricimer, vi. 511, b, c.
- Bindus's treason and cruelty to Corrhoe, iv. 361, b, c—f. Imprisoned by Varamus, 363, b. Heads the nobles against him, ibid. d.
- Bion, where born, iii. 201, & seq. & (O).
- Birds, how used in auguries, iv. 428, (S).
- Biribi, whence celebrated in Thrace, iii. 788, c.
- two strange ones under Theodosius, vi. 416, b.
- † Bisaltæ, where situate, iii. 257, a.
- Bishops, their immunities under Constantius, vi. 277, c, f.
- orthodox, restored, 278, a. How to be tried, 294, b.
- Why recalled by Julian, 325, f. Privileged by Theodosius, 396, a.
- Bisfextile year, whence so called, v. 171, sub not.
- Bistones in Thrace, subdued by the Romans, iii. 790.
- Bitias assists the Carthaginians, vii. 111, & seq.
- † Bitynia described, iii. 812, & seq. Its origin, government, &c. 827, & seq. Invaded by Mithridates, 729. Reduced into a Roman province, 832. Adorned and restored by Adrian, vi. 36. Declares for Cassius, 76, a. Ravaged by the Scythians, 180, a. Submits to Licinius, 252, f.
- ravaged by the Goths, vii. 495, d.
- Bitynian embassy, a proverb, whence, iii. 780, f.
- Bitynians, their origin, iii. 827, c. Kings, &c. 828. Set up Niomedes against Prusias, 781. Oppressed by Cilo, v. 514, c.
- Bitultic's whimsical embassy to Domitian, iv. 809, f. Betrayed by him, 810, c, d. Led in triumph, ibid. c.
- Rituriges subdued by Cæsar, v. 128.
- Bizaras's Persian history animadverted, iv. 323, (A).
- Blacks, their origin, i. 120, (N). Not the progeny of Ham, 119. Their blackness accounted for, 47, c, d.
- Blasi, the two, put to death, v. 451, c.
- Blasus, Jun. general in Pannonia, v. 359, b. Brave speech to the mutineers, 360, c. Insulted by them, ibid. & seq.
- sent into Africa, 408, c. Success against Tacfarinas, 414, c.
- Styled imperator, ibid. d, (M). His death, 441.
- Jun. declares for Vitellius, 599, c. Furnishes him with proper equipage, 615, a. Hated by him for it, ibid. b.
- † Blatobulgium, the antiquities of, vii. 413, b.
- Bleda succeeds Rouas, vii. 464, c. Advantageous peace with Rome, ibid. d. Fresh conquests, ibid. & seq. The rest see under Attila.
- † Blemmyes, where situated, vi. 201, c. Defeated by Probus, ibid. Pliny's fabulous account of them, ibid. d. War with the Moors, 209, c. Inroads into Egypt, 213, c, f. Embassy to Constantine, 264, f.
- † Blatifa, a city in Lusitania, vii. 297, c.
- † Blizomenæ, who, and where sited, vii. 233, d.
- Bo, king of Riisland, vii. 489, d.
- Bodicea ill used by the Romans, v. 537, b. Heads the Britons against them, 538, a. Success against them, ibid. c, d. Speech to her army, 439, b, c. Defeat and death, ibid. d, e.
- Boanas defeated by the Saracens, vi. 543, c, d.
- Boanerges, whence derived, iv. 208. Their furious zeal rebuked by Christ, 222, b.
- Boar, Erymanthian, brought alive by Hercules, ii. 356, not.
- Caledonian, hunted, 410.
- Boares, queen, defeats Stryax, vii. 483, a.
- Boat, a dreadful punishment among the Persians, ii. 61, d.
- Bocbus allies with Jugurtha, v. 20, c. Defeated, 23, & seq. Makes peace with the Romans, 24, d, & seq. Answer to Sylla, 25, f. Double treachery, 26, d, a. Gratitude to Sylla, 45, f. (See & vol. vii. 131, & seq.).
- 9 N
- Bocbus

- Bocchus* assists the two Pompeys in Spain, vii. 173, b.
Bocchoris, king of Egypt, surnamed the wise, i. 263, c.
Boethius a stoic doctrine of the world's eternity, i. 8, c.
† Bœtica, the battle of, iv. 737, c. The province of, enlarged by Otho, v. 602, f.
Bœotarchi, the chief magistrates of Bœotia, ii. 743, a.
† Bœotia, part of Grecia Prop. ii. 344, b. Two of that name, 370, a. By whom founded, ibid. b, c. Famed for dunces, ibid. c. Since called Thebes, 171. Its kings, &c. vid. sub Thebes, 372, & seq. Plundered by the Athenians, 488, & seq. By the Spartans, 540, (M).
Bœotian war, ii. 615, & seq.
Bœotians expelled by the Thessalians, ii. 370, b. Their feats before Troy, ibid. Refuse the Nican peace, 512, f. Invite Philip into Greece, 546, f. Join the Athenians against him, 548, b. Form a republic, 742. Their government, ibid. & seq. Displease the Romans, 743, & seq. Subdued by Flaminius, 744, & seq.
— forced to build Heraclea, iii. 823, a, b.
Boetius's consulship and character, vii. 577, c. 645, d—f. Put to death by Theodoric, ibid. & seq.
† Bog, river in Scythia, ii. 268, c.
† Bogasi, the two straits of, iii. 186, e.
Bogud's war with Juba, v. 165, c. Gains Cæsar the victory of Munda, 173, f. Cuckolded by him, vii. 156, & seq.
— king of Mauritania, accompanies Antony, v. 288, b. Slain at Methona, 289.
† Bobemia, where and whence so called, iv. 561, c.
Bobemond's success against Alexius, vi. 610, f. Narrow escape, 615, d. Made prince of Antioch, ibid. & seq. Wars with Alexius, ibid. c. Raises new forces in Italy, ibid. d, e. Makes peace with him, 617, a. His death, ibid.
† Bœii invade Rome, iv. 588, f. Defeated by Domitius, 643, e. By Val. Falto, 681. Revolt 694, f. 749, e. Defeated by Merula, 753, b. Subdued by Sc. Nafica, 754. Settle in Gaul, v. 118, a. Driven out of it by the Marcomani, 313, (E). vii. 600, c. Invite Hannibal, vii. 14, a, b. Treachery to Scipio, 18, c.
Bojocalus's brave speech to Avitus, v. 529, a, b.
Bojorix's challenge and defeat, v. 37. Death, 38, d.
† Bojobermia, Bobemia, where situate, v. 313, (E).
Bolanus, Vett. sent into Britain, v. 612, c.
† Bolissus, Homer's house shewn at, iii. 108, d.
Bomilear chosen general against Agathocles, iii. 84, c. His treachery, ibid. f. See also vol. vi. 796, & seq. Sent into Sicily, 114, c. Returns with a larger fleet, 119, b. Forced back, ibid. c.
— assassinates Maffiva, v. 11, f. Made Jugurtha's general, and defeated, 15, a. Betrays him to Metellus, 16, d. Discovered, 18, d, e. Put to death, 19, a.
— fatal ambition and treachery, vi. 797, & seq. Assumes the sovereignty at Carthage, 806, & seq. Defeated and crucified, 807.
† Bona, in Numidia, where sited, vii. 110, b.
† Bona fides, the temple of, at Rome, iv. 436.
Bonduca defeated by Suetonius, vii. 430, e.
Bonifacius, count, repulses Ataulphus from Marseilles, vi. 469, a. Highly rewarded by Placidia, 480, d. Undetermined by Ætius, ibid. e, f. Success against Sinex, 481, a. Invites the barbarians into Afric, ibid. c, d. Returns into Italy, 482, b, c. Sent against Ætius, and killed, ibid. d, e. See vol. vii. 532, & seq.
— made king of Thessaly, 628, a.
† Bononia taken by Octavian, v. 204, c. Relieved by Nero, 514, e.
† — in Illyricum, where sited, vi. 257, a.
Bonopus's rise, revolt, and death, vi. 202, b. vii. 434, b—c. Sent against the revolted Jews, vi. 538, d.
Boots, an hundred and twenty thousand, burnt at Constantinople, vi. 515, c.
Borani revolt in Gaul, vi. 171, c. Success against the Romans, 174, c.
† Borybœnes, Nieper, river in Scythia, ii. 268, & (D).
Bos in lingua, a proverb, ii. 362, b.
Bosphorans revolt from Mithridates, iii. 843. Butchered by Justinian, 549, d, e.
† Bosphorus, the kingdom of, iii. 840, & seq. Government, &c. 841, & seq. Given to Pharnaces, 843, b, c.
† Buffera taken and burnt by Judas, iv. 64, b.
Bustar joined to Hanno against the Romans, vi. 837, c. Defeated before Adda, 838, a—c. His miserable end, iv. 670, e. vi. 842, b, (W).
Buteus, king of Bithynia, iii. 828, c.
† Butyris, in Phœnice, built by Ithobal, i. 415, d.
† Bovianum taken from the Samnites, iv. 621, d.
Bous, Bœus, Eusebius's mistake about that word, iii. 363, a.
† Bosrab, Bosor, a city of Edom, i. 309, c.
† Brachata Gallia, vii. 322, a.
Brachmanes of India, who, i. 32, c. Their opinion of the creation, ibid. Put to death by Alexander, iii. 400, d, (H).
Brachyllas assassinated by the Romans, ii. 744, a.
† Braga plundered by Theodoric, vii. 545, a.
Brama, a secondary god among the Bramins, i. 33, b.
Bramins. See above, Brachmanes, i. 32, & seq.
† Bramma, a deity of the Malabarians, i. 33, d.
Branas's revolt, vi. 611, d, e. 623, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. e.
Branchidæ, the oracle of, ii. 762, & (P).
— the priests of, massacred by Alexander, 763, a. iii. 368, (S).
Brasen gate at Rome, why so called, iv. 681, (H).
Brasidas sent to assist Megara, ii. 511. And Macedon, ibid. f. & iii. 281, c. His success and moderation, ii. 511, & seq. iii. 281, & seq. In Attica, ii. 597, a. Killed, ibid. 512, d. iii. 383. His character, ii. 597, c.
Brass, the invention of, ascribed to Cadmus, ii. 372.
— Corinthian, described, 699, b, & not.
† Bratys, mount in Phœnice, why so called, i. 87, a.
Breadplate of the high-priest described, i. 637, b, c, (X).
† Brecknock inhabited in the time of the Romans, vii. 411, a.
Brennus, general of the Celts, answer to the Roman ambassadors, iv. 562, d, e. vii. 370, pass. Defeats them, iv. 563, b. Enters and sacks Rome, ibid. & seq. Totally defeated by Camillus, 566, pass. vii. 392, pass.
† Bretania Armorica, three different colonies sent into, vi. 400, e.
† Bretagne, whence so called, vi. 508, a.
Bribery become necessary at Rome, v. 113, b. Vainly opposed by Cato, 124, d. Prevented by Augustus, 311, f. A new law against it, 322, a, b. Punished by Valentinian, vi. 355, c.
Brides, Solon's laws concerning, ii. 431, c.
Bridges, a long causeway made with, by Domitius, v. 376, a, f.
Brienne, John de, made guardian to Baldwin, vi. 630, f. Defeats Azem and Ducas, 631, a, b. His death, ibid. c.
† Brigantes, in Britain, who, v. 510, a. Subdued, ibid. b. vii. 412, a. 430, b, & seq. 432.
† Brigians, whether the same with Phrygians, ii. 295, b.
Brinio's mockery of Caligula's expedition, v. 474, d. Heads the Frisians against the Romans, 640, b.
† Britain, its etymon, ii. 248, (H). The isles of, inhabited by the Gomerians, 246, b. 248, (H). Invaded by Cæsar, v. 122, & seq. By Claudius, 496, & seq. (C). Greatly oppressed by publicans, 653, d, e. Eased by Agricola, ibid. c, f. How discovered to be an island, 667, c, e. Totally conquered by Agricola, 672, c. Visited by Adrian, vi. 35, a. The walls of, built by him, ibid. c. Reduced by Constantius, 212, f. How divided by Constantine, 270, f. Invaded by the Picts, 353, b. Defended by Stilicho, 441, b, c. Abandoned by the Romans, 514, a. Described, vii. 401. Whence so called, ibid. & seq. Its situation, &c. 402. First inhabitants, 403, a, b. How divided, 407, c, & seq. Its walls, 414, & seq. New division, 416, b—d. Pentarchy, ibid. c, f. Roman government, ibid. & seq. Military, 417, & seq. Fabulous history, 420, & seq. & (A). Reduced by the Romans, 429, & seq. Governed by tribunes, 430, c, f. Quelled under several emperors, 431, & seq. Divided by Severus, 433, b. Submits to Aurelianus, 434, a. Given to Carausius, ibid. c. Reunited, ibid. d. Fresh division under Constantine, 435, a. Secured against the Picts, 436, c. Invaded by them, and the Scots, 437, a. Abandoned by the Romans, ibid. & seq. Invaded by the Picts, 438, & seq.
Britannicus born, v. 487, c. Ill used by Agrippina and Nero, 508, a—c. Hated by Agri, 522. Poisoned, ibid. & seq. Honoured by Titus, 657, a.
† Britenburgh castle, built by the fugitive Britons, vii. 444, c.
Britons different from the Celts and Gomerians, ii. 248, (H). Brave opposition against Cæsar, v. 122, & seq. Peace with him, 123, a. Submit to him, ibid. f. Whether conquered by him, 124, (E). Defeated by Ostorius, 409, & seq. General revolt, 537, &c. Encouraged by some prodigies, 538, b. Eighty thousand killed by Paulinus, 539, pass. Subdued by Agricola, 653, & seq. Debauched by the Roman luxury, 662, a. Totally subdued, 672, b, c. Punished for their human sacrifices, vi. 27, a. Settle in Vennes, 508, a. Their manners, &c. vii. 404, & seq. Way of fighting, ibid. d. Trade, shipping, &c. ibid. & seq. Government, 405, d. 407, b. Religion, 406. Called their fortified woods, towns, 414, d, e. Incorporated into the Roman army, 420, b, c. Embassy to Cæsar, 421, c. Noble defence against him, 422, pass. Submit to him, ibid. & seq. Break the peace, 423, b, c. Fresh submission, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated, 424, d, e. 425, c. Many submit afresh, 426, b, (F). Whether conquered by him, 427, a. Pay tribute to Augustus, ibid. & seq. Subdued by Claudius, 428, & seq. Defeated by Geta, Suetonius, &c. ibid. & seq. 430, pass. By Agricola, 431, a. Romanized by him, ibid. b. Allowed to plant vines, 434, b. Bereaved of their youth, 436, b. Repulse the Picts and Scots, 437, b, c. Build a stone wall, 438, a, b. Make and murder their kings, 439, a, b. Dismal state, and letter to Ætius, ibid. b, c. Degeneracy, ibid. c. Destroyed by pestilence, ibid. & seq. Invite the Saxons, 440, b, (T). Driven out by them, 444, b, c. Out of Kent, 445, b. Worsted by Ella, 446, pass. Under Nazared, 447, d, & seq. Defeat the Saxons, 450, b, c. Grow more debauched, 451, b, c. Lose several battles, 452, c. And three kings, ibid. & seq. Retire into Wales, 453, c. And Cornwall, ibid. f. And South Scotland, 454. And Bretany, ibid. h, c. The wretched state of those in Wales, ibid. & seq.
† — in Gaul, defeated by Euric, vii. 515, b.

Brienne

- Britanni* follow Maximus into Gaul, vi. 400, d. Settle in Bretagne, ibid. e, f.
- † Brucium, the famed library of, burnt, iii. 629, d. The siege of, vi. 182, a. Destroyed by Zenobia, 187, c.
- † Bructeri, where sited, v. 370, (Q). A tribe of the Franks, vii. 548, a. Subdued by Tiberius, 333, e. By Germanicus, 370, a, b. Defeated in Germany, vi. 8, e. By Constantine, 234, b. Invaded by Eugenius, 423, c, d. Their dreadful punishment, vii. 554, e, f.
- † Brundisium taken by Cæsar, v. 133, & seq. Declares for Octavius, 195, & seq. Besieged by Antony, 270, a.
- † Brutii, where sited, iv. 412, f. Subdued by the Romans, 647, c (See vol. vii. 34, & seq.). Massacred by Hannibal, 745, a.
- Brutus*, not the first who peopled Britain, ii. 248, (H). His fabulous conquest of it, vii. 420, & seq. (A).
- Luc. Jun. counterfeits madness, iv. 460, c. 463, d, e. Pretends the Delphic oracle, ibid. & seq. Pulls off the mask, 464, f. Advice to the Romans, 465, & seq. Consulship, 466, c. Severity to his two sons, 469, d, e. Speech against his colleague, 471, a. Death and character, 472, b, (Z).
- head of the revolted legions, his answer to the senate, 491, c, d. Tribuneship, 492, a. Speech to the consuls, 494, a.
- D. Jun. chosen consul, 608, c. Defeats the Samnites, 621, c.
- Scæva triumphs over the Hetrurians, 638, b. 640, b. Defeats the Lufitanians, 786, a.
- the prætor, affronted by Sylla's soldiers, v. 54, e. Defeated by Pompey, 70, d.
- Jun. butchers all Sylla's friends, 71, b, c. Taken and beheaded, 74, c.
- his son, surrenders to Cæsar, 146, c, (Z).
- M. Jun. made proconsul of Gaul, 169, c. His extract, 179, b, (A). Conspiracy against Cæsar, ibid. c. Great pretence of mind under it, 181, e, f. Stabs him, 184, e. His behaviour after it, 189, & seq. Speech to the people, 190, a. Withdraws to Antium, 192, b. Supplanted by Antony, 201, c. Promoted by the senate, 204, b. Proscribed, 220, & seq. Receives the proscribed citizens, 226, e. Sends for Cassius, 232, e. Passes into Asia, 233, c. Mildness to the revolted, ibid. e. Coin, ibid. f. Success in Lycia, 236, c, d. Against Xanthus, 237, & seq. Instances of his invincible meekness, 238, & seq. Falls out with Cassius, 239, d, e. Visited by a spectre, 240, d, e. Returns into Europe, 241, a. Advises fighting against the triumvirs, 243, d. Counsel to Cassius, 244, c. Letter to Atticus, ibid. e. Success against the triumvirs, 245, b, c. Funeral honours to Cassius, 246, e. Forced to fight by his soldiers, 248, & seq. (O). His severity to the captives vindicated, ibid. & seq. Second apparition, and threatening prodigies, 250, e, f. Speech to his army, 251, a. Defeat and bravery, ibid. & seq. Distress, 252, f. Death, 253, d, e, (Q). Character, 254, a, (R, S, T, & U), 255, (W, X). His stabbing of Cæsar vindicated, ibid. & seq. & (Y). Funeral honours, 256, c.
- Decim. Albin. one of Cæsar's conspirators, 180, b. Persuades him to go to the senate, 183, c, d. Goes into Gaul, 187, c. Nominated Octavius's heir by Cæsar, 189, f. Supplanted by Antony, 199, a, b. Besieged by him in Mutina, 202, e. Successful ally against him, 206, f. Mortifying answer to Octavius, 207, b, c. Honoured by the senate, 208, c. Retires into the east, 214, & seq. His powerful army, 215, & seq. Made proconsul, 216, c. Letters to Cicero, &c. 217. Made general of Greece, 220, a. Driven out by Antony, 221, d, e. Betrayed by Camillus, 222, a. Murdered, ibid. b, c. Character, ibid. & seq.
- Bryennius* recalled, vi. 601, f. Falls out with Opasas, 602, a. His eyes put out by him, ibid.
- Bryges*, in Thrace, destroy part of Darius's army, ii. 111, d. Defeat the Persians, iii. 275, f.
- Eubaris*, how reconciled to the Macedonians, iii. 275, d.
- Euboeis*, or Egyptian Diana, i. 241, (A).
- Eucebalus* taken and restored by the Mardi, 360, e.
- † — a city built by Alexander, 393, a.
- Euchanan's* account of the Roman wall in Britain, vi. 118, f.
- † Budini, who, and where sited, vii. 604, e, & seq.
- † Budocus, a river in Eubœa, 247, c.
- † Bulgaria, part of Thrace, vi. 255, a. Whence so called, 546, e.
- Bulgarians* defeat Arius, vi. 520, a. Invade the empire with an hundred thousand men, 546, e. Success against Justinian, 547, a, b. Ravage quite to Constantinople, 550, b. Assist Anastasius, 551, f. Irruptions into the east, 555, & seq. Cut off, 556, a. Defeated by Constantine, 559, b, e. Success against Nicephorus, 562, b. Against Michael, ibid. e, f. Against Constantine, 579, & seq. Defeated, 591, & seq. Submit to Basilus, 592, b, c. Revolt, and defeat the Latins, 608, e. Defeated by Andronicus III. 641, c. Make peace with him, ibid. d. Defeated by Theodoric, vii. 512, e, f. Their origin, &c. 623, a, b. Wars, conquests, &c. 624, & seq. Subdued by the Russi, 632, e, f. Revolt under four kings, 633, b, c. Revolt from Basilus, 636, & seq. Set up Deleamus, 637, c. Submit to Michael, 638, e, f. Subdued by the Turks, 639, c, d.
- Bull*, how worshipped by the Egyptians, i. 206, c.
- the blood of, a sure poison, ii. 303, e.
- Bulla*, a Sabine ornament, what, iv. 432, (F).
- † Bullaun Silurum, where sited, vii. 410, f. 411, d.
- † Burgundi, where sited, vii. 494, f. Harassed by the Hunns, 463, c. Are baptized, and overcome them, ibid. d. Defeated by the Goths, 498, f, & seq. Their territories in Gaul, 516, c, d. Assist the ravaging Vandals, 529, c. War with the Franks, 571, b, c. Defeated by Clovis, 572, d, e. Ally with him, 576, d, e. Defeated by Theodoric, ibid. & seq. Their origin, vi. 356, c. vii. 581, a—c. Religion, kings, &c. ibid. & seq. Various revolts and defeats in Gaul, vi. 171, & seq. vii. 582, c—f. Their kingdom how founded there, 583, a, b (vi. 468). Conversion and conquests, vii. 583, c, & seq. Wars with the Franks, 585, & seq. Subdued by them, 587, f.
- transplanted into Cambridgeshire, vi. 201, a. Twenty thousand killed by the Hunns, 483. Settle in Savoy, 485, c. Seize on part of Gaul, 504, a, b.
- † Buril, who, and where sited, vii. 409, b.
- Burnt*, Dr. his theory of the earth, i. 36, d. Account of the change of the air, &c. After the fall, 66, d, e. Theory after the flood, 99, f. Account of the changes it caused, 106, b.
- Burning*, a punishment among the Jews before Moses, i. 673, b, & 451, (R).
- Burrus*, Afr. advanced by Agrippina, v. 509, a. Promotes Nero's election, 517, d. Made his military governor, 518. Blamed for his remissness to him, 520, f. 523, d. Acquitted of treason, 524, d. His advice about Agrippina, 533, f. Condescension to Nero, 534, & seq. His death, 541, e. Whether natural, ibid. f.
- Antifilius, betrayed to death by Cleander, vi. 89, e, f.
- Bursavolis* put to the sword by Cæsar, v. 172, c.
- Bujan* surrendered to Sapor, vi. 307, a.
- Bufris's* cruelty to strangers; the rise of his fable, i. 211, f.
- the founder of Thebes, 247, d.
- † — the city of, destroyed by Dioclesian, vi. 213, d.
- Butes* burns himself, and the city of Ejon, ii. 482, e.
- king of the Siculi, iii. 13, c.
- the son of Boreas, settles in Naxos, 220, c.
- † Butrotum, taken by Guiscard, vi. 609, f.
- † Buxara, mount, in Numidia, vii. 411, c.
- Buzes* defeated by the Romans, vi. 524, d. Abandons Syria to the Persians, 526, e.
- † Byblus, by whom founded, i. 135, b. Said to have been the first city founded in Phenice, 394, a. Two of that name, ibid.
- † Byrsa, the citadel of Carthage, described, vi. 661, e. Whence so called, 662, e, f. Taken, iv. 777, & seq.
- Byssus*, superfine linen of Egypt, i. 183, b.
- † Byzæne yielded to the Vandals, vii. 533, e.
- Byzantines* fined by the Athenians, ii. 525, e. Confederate against them, 542, e. Besieged by Philip, 547. Relieved by Phocion, ibid. War with the Rhodians, iii. 144, & seq. Forced to a peace, 145, f.
- † Byzantium betrayed to the Athenians, ii. 527, d. Made a Roman province, v. 650, d. Holds out against Severus, vi. 105, b. Garrisoned by Niger, 108, e, f. Besieged by Severus, 109, a. Its strength described, 110, & seq. Surrendered and burnt, 111, b, c. Rebuilt and called Antonina, ibid. c, d. Put to the sword by Gallienus, 181, c, d. Taken by Maximin, 252, c. Beautified by Constantine, 263. The rest see under Constantinople, ibid. & seq.
- Byzas*, Bijus, the supposed founder of Byzantium, iii. 787, a, b.
- † Byzantium, described, vi. 668, & seq. Whence called Libyphenice, 673, a, (B).
- Byzurge Mibir*, the wife tutor to Hormouz, iv. 395, a. His character, ibid. (L). Put to death for being a christian, 396, in fin. not.

C

- CABADES invades Armenia, vi. 520, b, d. Success against the Romans, ibid. e. Twenty years truce, 521, a. Embassy to Justin, 523, c. Wars with him, 524, c—e. Death, 525, e.
- Cabala* or oral tradition of Jews exploded, i. 597, b. A second kind maintained by some moderns, ibid.
- † Cabata, a city in Cappadocia, iii. 762, c.
- † Cabira, a city in Pontus, iii. 721, a. Surrendered to the Romans, 746.
- Cabiri*, who, ii. 300, b. iii. 238, (E). Their worship at Carthage, vi. 694, a, b.
- † Caboul, a famed city of Persia, ii. 29, (F).
- Cacanus's* horrid ravages in Italy, vii. 686, d—f.
- † Caccabe, Carthage whence so called, vi. 658, b, c.
- † Cadeb's Barneab, the fifteenth encampment of the Israelites, i. 527, e.
- † — Sbar, the names of two defarts, 429, c, (U).
- † Cadmea, the citadel of Thebes, iii. 372, a.
- Victoria, a proverb, ibid. (E).
- Cadmeis*, one of the old names of Boetia, iii. 370, c.
- Cadmus*, the son of Agenor, i. 408, b. Leads in Thrace 409, a. Goes into Boetia, and founds his kingdom there, ibid.

- ibid. & ii. 370, a. The fable of him, ibid. & not. Introduces learning into Greece, ibid. Retires into Illyria, ibid. &c.
- Cadmus, Lord of Los, his fidelity to Gelon, iii. ibid. (O).
- arrival at Samothrace, 240.
- expedition to Carthage, vi. 658, b, c.
- † Cadufians, a barbarous people, ii. 2, a. Revolt from the Medes, 13, c. Invaded by the Persians, 146, f. Betrayed by a stratagem, 147, a.
- Cæcilius Mag. falsely accused of treason, v. 405, b.
- sent to, and promoted by Honorius, vi. 53, d.
- Cæcilius, bishop, highly honoured by Constantine, vi. 251, d—f.
- the consul's success against the Carthaginians, 844, & seq.
- Cæcina's cowardice in Germany, v. 364, & seq. Severity to the mutineers, 368, c, d. Defeats the Marfi, 372. Ill success against Arminius, 376, pass. Narrow escape, 377, pass.
- Severus's motion against wives following the camp, opposed, v. 409, c, (G).
- Alienus sent against Otho, 599, e, f. Dreadful havoc in Helvetia, 600, & seq. Success in Italy, 606, b, c. Defeated before Placentia, ibid. e, f. At Caftores, 607, b—d. Defeats Otho, 610, d. Sent against Vespasian, 623, f. Declares for him, 624, b. Clapped in irons, ibid. e, f. Released, 627, c. Conspires against Vespasian, 634, c. His death, ibid. f.
- Cælius, consul, whence surnamed Calvus, v. 46, c.
- † — mount, all on fire, 431, e, & seq.
- Cæpio, Q. Serv. success in Gaul, v. 27, d. Fatal avarice, ibid. e, f. And rupture with Mallius, 28, c. Punishment, 29, b, (I).
- heads the discontented knights, 47, f. Defeated and killed, 50, a.
- Faun. his conspiracy and death, 305, a, b.
- Cæranus the philosopher, tortured to death, vi. 375, d.
- † Cæruerian, its antiquities, vii. 413, d, e.
- Cæsar, Jul. studies oratory at Rhodes, iii. 740. Compounds with Auletes, 666, e. Lands in Egypt, 673, e, f. Arbitrates between Ptolemy and his sister, 674, c, d. Besieged in Alexandria, 675. Burns Ptolemy's ships, 676, a. Defeats Ganymede, 677, a, b. Swims for his life, ibid. c, d. Victory at Canopus, 678. On the Nile, ibid. e. Settles the crown on Cleopatra, ibid. & seq. Defeats Pharnaces, 759, & seq. Releases Aristobulus, iv. 116, c. Assisted by the Jews in Egypt, ibid. & seq. Gratitude to them, 117, c, 120, pass. When born, v. 43, d. Chosen consul, 48, f. Defeated by Vettius, 50, c. Marries Cornelia, 68, f. Opposes Sylla, 82, a, b. Oration against Dolabella, 90, b, (F). Adventure with the pirates, ibid. c, d. Saves Bithynia, 95, c. Manilian law, 102, b. Profuse popularity, 103, & seq. Oration in favour of Catiline, &c. 107, b, c. Deposed and restored, 108, b, c. Accused of joining with Catiline, 109, b. Chosen pontifex max. ibid. c. Divorces Pompeia, 110, c. Unmeasurable ambition, 112, pass. Politic master-piece, ibid. d, e. Second consulship, 113, a. Quinquennial generalship, 114, d. Success against the Gauls, &c. 117, & seq. Germans, 118, d. Belgæ, 119, d. Nervii, 120, pass. Swift expedition against the Germans, 122, b, c. Into Britain, ibid. & seq. Confirmed by the Trebonian law, 123, b, c. His success in Britain, whether real, 124, (E). And in Gaul, 126—129 (See also vol. vii. 397, & seq.). Total of his Gaulish conquests, v. 129, a, b. Hot contests with Pompey, ibid. & seq. Letters to the senate, 130, & seq. Deprived of his government, 131, b, c. Passes the Rubicon, 132, c, d, (F). Takes several cities, 133, a, b. Summons the senate, 134, c. Visit to Cicero, ibid. & (H). Forces the treasury, 135, pass. Goes into Spain, ibid. & seq. Returns, 137, b. Chosen dictator, &c. ibid. & seq. Offers of peace, 138, e. Gets to sea in a boat, 139, c, (N). Joins M. Antony, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Pompey, 140, & seq. Retires into Macedonia, 141, & seq. Speech to his army at Pharsalia, 143, c, d, (Q). Defeats and pursues Pompey, 145, & seq. & (W). 148, & seq. Hears of his death, 150, e. Orders his head to be interred, 151, a. Passion for Cleopatra, ibid. e. Ends the Egyptian war, 152, b, c. Highly honoured at Rome, ibid. & seq. Swift victory over Pharnaces, 153, d. Universal clemency at Rome, 154, pass. Quells the tenth legion, 157, & seq. Success in Afric, 158, & seq. Against Pompey's party, 160, e, f. Behaviour at Utica, 164, c, (L). Success in Numidia, 165, b, c. Pompous arrival at Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Speech to the senate, 166, b. His four triumphs described, 167, pass. Their immense value, 168, a, b. His regulations and census, ibid. c, d, (Q). Sumptuary laws, 169, a. Reformation of the calendar, 170, & seq. (R). Success in Spain, 171, & seq. Against the Pompeii, 173, & seq. The Lusitanians, 175. Ends the Spanish war, 176, e, f. His triumph and new titles, 177, pass. Ambition, 178, 179, pass. Conspired against, ibid. & seq. Vast projects, 180, f. Threatened by prodigies, 181, b. Stabbed in the senate, 184, b, c. His character, 185, a, b. Last will publicly read, 189, e, f. Funeral obsequies, 191, & seq. Temple reared to his memory, 192, b. By the Lugdunenses, vii. 349, c.
- Sextus's friendship to Herod, iv. 119, & seq. Murdered by Bassus, 120, e. vi. 159, & seq.
- † Cæsarea by whom built, iv. 141, (R). Described, 142, 51. Finished, 148, c. Taken by Corbhoes II. 366, b. Rebuilt by Adrian, vi. 36, c. Its terrible fate under Sapor, 177, a. Taken by Firmus, 359, b. Razed by Basilus, 573, d.
- † — Philippi, 95, a. † Germanica, v. 461, f.
- Cæsarian, the son of Cæsar by Cleopatra, iii. 683, b. Made king of Egypt by M. Antony, ibid. & seq. Put to death by Octavian, 691, a.
- Cæsarius sent to judge the Antiochans, vi. 409. His severity to them, ibid. f. Softened, 410, d, e. 411, b. Chosen consul, 438, b.
- † Cæsan forest, where, and whence so called, v. 369, (O).
- Cæso, Fab. outwits the tribunes, iv. 506, a. Ill success against the Veientes, ibid. b, c. Betrayed by his men, 507, a. Chosen consul, 508, f. Proconsul, 509, d.
- Quintilius. Vid. Quintilius, 520, & seq.
- Cæsonia suspected of turning Caligula's Brain, v. 463, b. Made priestess to him, 468, d. Married to him, 477, b, (W). Murdered by Chærea, 481, & seq.
- Cæsionus Max. banished by Nero, v. 557, d.
- † Cæthius's mount, where situate, v. 313, (E).
- † Caffa, metropolis of Little Tartary, iii. 841.
- Caii at Rome, who, v. 194, a, b.
- Cain, when probably born, i. 72, c. The import of his name, 73, (N). His offering, why rejected, ibid. a, (N). Fratricide, ibid. b. Punishment, 74, a. Builds a city, 75, a. Traditions about him, 76, (N). Descent, 76, & seq. Wicked posterity, 77, b. Their inventions and improvements, 81, a, b. Their pedigree, according to Sanchoniatho, compared, 89, b, c.
- † — the city, built by him, 86, (N).
- Cainan, one of Seth's descendants, i. 78, a.
- † Canon, the Athenian court, its office, &c. ii. 444, c.
- Caipbas, Caiphas, made high-priest, iv. 194, b, (Y). Prophetic sentence against Christ, 227, b. Condemns him to death, 235, b.
- Caius sent to oppose the Parthians, iii. 709, c. Wounded, ibid. e. Dies, 710, a.
- made judge of Archelaus's title, iv. 186, e. Contempt of the Jewish religion, 192, a.
- Caligula persecutes the Jews, 258, & seq. Friendship to Agrippa, ibid. & seq. The rest see under Caligula, v. 294, & seq.
- Cæsar, born to Agrippa, v. 308, c, d. Adopted by Augustus, 312, c. Follows him to Aquileia, 323, a. New honours, 324, d, e. 326, b, c. Sent against the Armenians, 327, & seq. Interview with Tiberius, 328, c, d. With Phraates, ibid. & seq. Makes peace with him, 329, a. Chosen consul, 330, a, (M). Expedition into Armenia, 331, d. Death, 332, c, (Q).
- Gracchus acquitted, 419, a, (W).
- Comin, a lampooner, pardoned, 422, d.
- † Calabria, its territories, &c. vii. 721, b, c, (C).
- † Calacine, a province of Alfyria, i. 858, b.
- † Calab, city, where situate, 126, b.
- † Calaminta, where situate, vii. 144, b.
- Calanus burns himself alive, iii. 405, a.
- Calasiriz, the name of the Egyptian soldiery, i. 200, e.
- Calaxais, a king of the Scythians, iii. 386, sub not.
- † Calcedon, a city of Bithynia, iii. 822, d. Why called the city of the blind, ibid. Taken by the Persians, iv. 366, d. By the Scythians, vi. 174. 180, d. By the Romans, 369, a. Dismantled, ibid. d.
- Calcb, one of Moses's twelve spies, i. 526, a—c. Taken and burns Jerusalem, 738, c.
- † Caledonians, who, and where seated, vii. 414. Transplanted, 431, a. Invaded by Agrippa, v. 666, c, & seq. Brave defence, 668. Routed, 671, pass. Desperate state, 672, a. Recover their liberty, ibid. d. Defeated by the Romans, vi. 87, d, e. Peace with Severus, 118, d.
- Calf, golden, made by Aaron, i. 520, b, (B).
- Caligula, his extract, v. 294, c. Early policy and rise, 438, & seq. Marriage to Claudia, 449, b. Whether named Tiberius's successor, 454, & seq. Saved by Macro, 455, b. Reception at Rome, 459, a. When and where born, ibid. (H). Whence surnamed Caligula, ibid. &c. Declared emperor, 460, a. Mild and pious beginning, 461, pass. Speech to the senate, ibid. d, e. Sadly altered after his illness, ibid. & seq. Strange titles, 463, b, c. Cruelty to Tiberius, ibid. d, e. To Antonia, 464, b, c. To all, ibid. d, e. Grief for his incestuous sister, 466, & seq. Marriages and divorces, 467, b, c. Assumes divine honours, ibid. & seq. Signal impiety, 468, pass. Ridiculed by a Gaul, ibid. (M). Inhuman with, 469, c. Mad respect to his horse, ibid. d, e. Biting speech to the senate, ibid. & seq. Stupendous bridge, 470, e. Horrid extortions, 471, & seq. Deposes two consuls, 473, c, d. Mock invasion of Gaul, 474, pass. Boasting letter to the senate, 475, a. Cruelty to the Gauls, ibid. c. Turns broker, 476, a, b. Extravagance and luxury, ibid. (V). Defeats the Germans, 477, d, e. Splendid shows at Lyons, 478, b, c. Cruelty to Ptolemy, ibid. d. Mock expedition against Britain, ibid. & seq. Horrid batcheries at Rome, 479, pass. Cruelty to Proculus, &c. 480, b. Fickleness, ibid. & seq. & (B). Affronts to Chæreas, 487. Conspired against, ibid. & seq. Fondness for dancing,

- ing, &c. 483, (G). Assassinated, 484, d, (H). Burial and dishonours, 485, a, b.
- Calippus's murder of Dion punished, iii. 73, b, c.
- the cycle of, what, iv. 71, (K).
- Calisthenes's speech against adoring Alexander, iii. 378, & seq.
- His character, 380, (Y). Death, 381, d.
- burnt, iv. 60, b.
- Calisto deflowered by Jupiter, ii. 378, & seq. The fable of her, ibid. (F).
- Calixenus starved to death at Athens, ii. 529, a.
- Callias, Callas, branded for his cowardice, ii. 464.
- the Athenian, slain before Potidea, 497.
- success against Polysperchon, iii. 457, & seq.
- tyrant of Eubœa, wars with the Athenians, 251, d.
- † — a river in Eubœa, 247, c.
- Callistrates's success against the Athenians, ii. 601, & seq. Slain, 602.
- the Achaean deputy's treachery, 684, c. Chosen praetor, 685, b. A slave to the Romans, ibid. &c. Informs against all his rivals, 688, c. Detested by all his countrymen, 689. Prevents the Achæans succouring Egypt, iii. 579, (W).
- his writings and character, vi. 197, sub not.
- Callimachus killed at Marathon, ii. 462, f.
- favoured by Ptol. Philadelphus, iii. 699, b. His poems still extant, ibid. His writings and character, vii. 175, sub not.
- a famed engineer, 705, e. 747, d. Put to death, ibid. f.
- Callinus's speech to Alexander, iii. 407, a.
- Callinicus, Sutor, his writings and character, vi. 60, sub not.
- of Heliopolis, his invention of sea-fire, 546, b.
- patriarch of Constantinople, causes Justinian to be deposed, 547, & seq. His punishment, 549, c.
- † Callipolis, the metropolis of Naxos, iii. 219, f.
- † — the straits of, in Thrace, 788, a.
- Callirrhoe, the wife of Trus, her offspring, ii. 314.
- Callistratus, the Athenian general, his character, ii. 540.
- his writings and character, vi. 149, sub not.
- † Callicadmus promontory, where sited, iii. 657, (Q).
- Calcecius proclaimed emperor in Cyprus, vi. 266, b.
- † Culpe, a sea port in Bætica, vii. 301, c, d. And colony, 302, a.
- Calpurnius Flamma's noble exploit, iv. 661, a. Rewarded, ibid. b.
- Piso killed by the Lusitanians, 767, a.
- ill success in Afric, 774, c. Defeats the rebels in Sicily, 796, b. Why surnamed Frugi, ibid. (W).
- Piso, killed in Gaul, v. 19, d.
- his account of Carus's death, vi. 204, c, f.
- † Calvary, mount, iv. 249.
- Calvisia, Pliny's generosity to, vi. 29, sub not.
- Calvisius, C. defeated, v. 276, d. Disgraced, 278, c. Accusation against Antony, 287, c.
- Taurus, his writings and character, vi. 60, sub not.
- Flavius, sides with Cassius, 76, a. Banished, 77, c.
- † Calydon, the city and forest of, in Ætolia, ii. 410, c.
- Cambites, king of Lydia, ii. 332, d.
- † Cambray, taken by Clodio, vii. 560, f, (D).
- † Cambray, by whom so called, vii. 421, (A).
- † Cambridge built on the ruins of Camboritum, vii. 410, a.
- Cambyses married to Mandane, ii. 82, c.
- the son of Cyrus, succeeds him, 92, c. The Abasuerus of scripture, ibid. Conquers Egypt, 96. Expedition into Ethiopia, 97, a. Kills the Egyptian Apis, 98. Instances of his cruelty and madness, ibid. & seq. His death, as foretold by the oracle, 100, c.
- Camden's censure of Stonehenge confuted, vii. 341, a, b.
- Camene's a kind of ships built by the Romans, v. 381, (K).
- † Camérine, a city in Sicily, iii. 5, c, d. By whom built, 12, b. Destroyed, 15, c. Abandoned, 46, b.
- Camillus, Fur. triumphs over Tacfarinas, v. 393, d.
- plots against Claudius, 495, a. Assassinated, ibid. b.
- † Camirus, a city of Rhodes, described, iii. 129, c.
- † Campania, over-run by the confederates, v. 50, b. Ruined by an earthquake, 544, d.
- Campanians, their treachery to the Entellines, iii. 48, b. Assist Hannibal vi. 742, & seq. Discharged and displeased, 744, f, & seq. Left to guard Sicily, 755, a, b.
- knights, honoured by the Romans, iv. 602, & seq.
- † Campania, where situate, vi. 257, a.
- Campi, how formed among the Macedonians, iii. 269, e.
- Camulus, one of the Gaulish names of Mars, vii. 354, c, (O).
- † Cana in Galilee, the marriage of, iv. 199, b, (H).
- Canaan, the fourth son of Ham, i. 121, b, (C). His birth, crime, &c. 119, & seq.
- † — the land of, its extent, &c. 566, (A). Its fertility, &c. 706.
- † Canaanites, their extract, i. 322. Seven chief nations, ibid. b, c. Country, 323, a, b. Its division, ibid. Religion till Abraham, 325, b. Idolatry and human sacrifices since, ibid. c, d, (L). Government, 326, a. By whom peopled, ibid. c, (K). Excursions into Egypt, &c. ibid. d, c. Join the Amalekites against the Israelites, 330, a.
- Vol. VII. No. 10.
- Subdued by Joshua, 333. Whither they fled from him, ibid. & seq. The remainder invaded by the twelve tribes, 334, a, b. Their defence and fate, ibid. & seq. Reduced under David, 336. Into a state of slavery by Solomon, 337, pass. Whether blended with the Jews, ibid. c, (O). The coasters remained independent under the name of Phœnicians, 338, a. Retire to Carthage, vi. 658, b.
- † Canal still extant, cut from the Euphrates to the Tigris, i. 57, b.
- † Canaria, island, why so called, vii. 148, b.
- Candaules's success against the Romans, v. 302, d.
- Candaules dethroned for his folly, ii. 333, b.
- Candax and his subjects settle in Scythia minor, vi. 496, b.
- † Candia, by whom built, vi. 566, d.
- Candidi, candidates, whence so called, iv. 549, c. A law passed against, ibid.
- Candidianus put to death by Maximin, vi. 240, c, d. 253, e.
- command in the west, 470, b, c.
- Candidus's writings and character, vi. 517, (U).
- Candisfick of the sanctuary, described, i. 658, a. Whether it burnt all night, ibid. (Z). How fed, ibid. (A).
- † Cangt, in Britain, subdued, v. 510, a.
- Caninus put to death by Caligula, v. 465, b. His admirable intrepidity, ibid. d.
- Cannabaud slain by Aurelian, vii. 498.
- † Cannæ, taken by Hannibal, vii. 28, d. The battle of, ibid. & seq.
- Canopus, an Egyptian deity, how represented, i. 206, a.
- † Cantabri, who, and where sited, vii. 303, pass. Overcome by Augustus, v. 293, e. Their desperate end, 299, b—d. Severely punished by Varrus, 303, a, b. Totally destroyed by, 309, & seq.
- † Cantabrian sea, where, vii. 303, d.
- Cantacusanus, a wicked tool of Andronicus III. vi. 638, & seq. 642, d. Made guardian to young John, 643. Undermined by John the patriarch, ibid. b. Proscribed, ibid. c. Assumes the purple, ibid. d. Marches towards Constantinople, ibid. e, f. Over-reached, 644, a, b. Enters that metropolis, ibid. e, f. Crowned, 645, a. Resigns, and turns monk, ibid. c.
- † Cantile, where sited, vi. 667.
- † Cantii, where sited, vii. 408, c.
- Cantons, what, and whence, vii. 355, & seq. & not.
- † Canusius, where seated, vii. 114, b.
- † Canuinaum, often frequented by Christ, iv. 199, & seq. Where sited, 205, (P).
- † Capbtor, where situate, i. 166, a.
- † Capbtorim, from whom descended, i. 165. The progenitors of the Philistines, 338, b.
- Capito's flattery to Tiberius, v. 413, a. His character, writings, &c. ibid. & (K). Death, 414, c.
- Titin, his writings and character, vi. 29, sub not.
- Ignatius put to death by Commodus, 88, d.
- † Capitol, where sited, iv. 450, b. Whence so called, 463, b, (N). Described, ibid. c, (O), (P), (Q). Seized by the Nabines, 524, b. Besieged by the Gauls, 564, c. Famished, 566. Relieved, ibid. & seq. Re-fortified, 596, c. Seized by the conspirators, v. 42, f. Destroyed, 632, b. Re-built, 647, c. Forsaken, and left to ruin, vi. 415, c, f.
- Capitoline games exhibited, vi. 16, b.
- Capitolinus, Jupiter, the temple of, built by Tarquin, iv. 452. Consecrated, 477, d.
- the historian's account of Antoninus, vi. 55, & seq. Writings and character, 220, (C).
- Caponius, governor of Judea, iv. 192, c.
- † Cappadocia, in Asia minor, i. 166, a.
- the kingdom of, described, iii. 761, & seq. Its origin, government, &c. 762, & seq. Kings, 764, & seq. Subdued by Tigranes, 700, c. Invaded by Mithridates, 728. Made a Roman province, 768, c. Wasted by Colchæos, iv. 366, b.
- † Capraria, island, where situate, vii. 148, b. 309, a.
- † Caprea, island, described, v. 432, c, (H).
- † Capros, a river in Assyria, i. 859, a, (I). iii. 533, (T).
- † Capra, where situate, vi. 670, c. Razed, vii. 133, c.
- † Capua, surrendered to Hannibal, vii. 32, f. Began his assistance, 47, c. Surrendered to the consuls, 56, f. 58, c.
- Capuans give themselves up to Rome, iv. 596, b. Reduced by them, 602. Friendship to their routed army, 613, a. Conspirators kill themselves, 615, b. The rest submit, 617, c. To Hannibal, 714, e. Kill the Roman garri-fon, ibid. d. Besieged by the Romans, 726, f. Surrender 729, d. Severely used, ibid. e.
- Caracalla born to Severus, vi. 104, f. Created Cæsar, 111, f. Colleague, 114, c. Triumphs over the Jews, 116, b. Attempts his father's life, 119, d. And crown, f. Succeeds him, 121, a. Attempts Geta's life, 122, b—d. Cruel reign, ibid. & seq. Fratricide, ibid. f. Stratagem to gain the soldiery, 123, a—c. Speech to the senate, ibid. d. Massacre of Geta's friends, ibid. & seq. Horrid butcheries, 124, & seq. Extortions, 125, a. False coin, ibid. Cruelties in Gaul, ibid. e. Whence called Caracalla, ibid. e, f. Success in Germany, 126, a, b. At Pergamos, ibid. d. Changes his habit, &c. Every-where, ibid. e. Mimics Alexander the great, ibid. f. Goes to Antioch, 127, a. Treachery to the Armenians, ibid. b. Massacre at Alexandria, 129, d.

- ibid. c, d. Cruelty to the Parthians, ibid. e, f. Takes the title of Parthicus, 128, b. Conspired against, ibid. d, e. Stabbed, ibid. f. Funeral honours, 130, c, d. Deified, 131, a. Defeat of the Alemans, vii. 588, & seq.
- Caraciacus's bravery against the Romans, v. 510, pass. Defeat, 511, a. Noble speech to Claudius, ibid. c. Just reflections on the Romans, ibid. e.
- Caraites. See Karaites, iv. 174.
- † Caramania. See Cilicia, ii. 340, & seq.
- Caranus conquers Macedon, iii. 262, a. First king of it, 271.
- Carbani, their office, iii. 222, b, c.
- Carbo, Papyr. See Papyrius, v. 1, & seq.
- † Carbonaria Sylva, where, vii. 561, sub not.
- † Carbemisib, a famed city in Mesopotamia, i. 949, a. Taken by Nabopolassar, 950, a.
- † Cardia, in Chersonesus, where situate, iii. 788, a.
- † Cardifan, a province of Persia, described, ii. 35, b.
- † Cardu mountains, where some relics of Noah's ark are said to have been seen, i. 109, c.
- Cardueni, subdued by Trajan, vi. 21, b.
- Carfulius sharp engagement with Antony, v. 205, pass. Killed at the battle of Mutina, 207. His burial, 208, b.
- † Caria, part of Asia proper, ii. 288. Where sited, 289, (C). Invaded by the Romans, iii. 141, & seq. Taken from the Rhodians, 156, b.
- † Carians, whence so called, iii. 187, d. First inhabitants of Samos, 188. Dreadful revenge on Phanes, ii. 96, b.
- Carina defeated by Metel. Pius, v. 71, b. Beheaded, 74, c.
- Carinus created Cæsar, vi. 204, a. His lewd character, ibid. &c. Defeated and killed, 206, f, & seq.
- † Carlisle, old, where sited, vii. 413, a.
- † Carmania, a province of Persia, described, ii. 28, b.
- † Carmel, mount, its situation and fertility, i. 571, a. Frequented by Elias and Pythagoras, ibid. By devout Christians, ibid. (X). Famed for its melons, &c. 582.
- † — the town of, 571, (T).
- Carmelite monks, so called from M. Carmel, i. 571, a, & not.
- † Carmenalis, the gate of, why so called, iv. 430, a. And since Scelerata, 511, b, (O).
- † Carnion, where situate, iv. 67, b. Taken and burnt by the Maccabees, ibid. c. & iii. 587, b.
- Carnus, a soothsayer, killed by the Heraclidæ, ii. 359.
- † Carpathia, in Cyprus, by whom built, i. 416, c. Taken by Demetrius, iii. 183.
- † Carpathus's island described, iii. 213.
- † Carpi, where sited, vii. 493, c. 494, f. Ravage Mæsia, vi. 160, c. Defeated, 166, d. 169, d. Revolt, 171, c. Transplanted into Pannonia, 212, a. Baffled and repulsed by Menophilus, vii. 606, f, & seq. Fresh ravages, 607, c, d.
- † Carpis, where situate, vi. 666, d, e. Carpesii revolt, vii. 38, c. Submit to Afrubal, 39, c.
- † Carra, the famed battle of, iv. 305, .
- † — retaken from the Persians, 162, b—d.
- † Cars, a city in Armenia, described, iii. 693, (B).
- † Carteia, whether the same with Calpe, vii. 301, d, & seq.
- † Cartena, where sited, vii. 114, c. By whom built, ibid. d.
- † Cartenus, river, in Numidia, vii. 116, b.
- † Cartbage, founded by Dido, i. 415, c. vi. 657, & seq. 659, b, c. Its various names and etymons, ibid. & seq. Described, 661, & seq. Its extent, 663, c, d. Ruins, ibid. e. Division, 665, a. Situation, ibid. b. Government, 674, & seq. Senate, 675, & seq. & (G). Centumvirate & quinquvirate, 676, & seq. Other magistrats, &c. 678, & seq. Laws, 679, & seq. Their defects, 680, & seq. Ancient state very powerful, 723, & seq. Burnt by Maxentius, vi. 241, c, d. Submits to Arcadius, 428, f. Taken by Sigisvult, 481, a. By Genferic, 484, f, & seq. By Machæus, 725, c—f. Threatened by the mercenaries, 861, d, e. Relieved by Hannibal, 862, c.
- † — besieged and taken, vii. 100, & seq. Destroyed, 103, & seq. Rebuilt, 105, c. By whom, ibid. & seq. Destroyed by the Saracens, 106. Taken by the Vandals, 533, e.
- † — its square restored by Antoninus, vi. 59, a.
- † — new, described, vii. 59, c. Taken by Scipio, iv. 731, b. vii. 59, & seq.
- † Carthage seized by the Alans, vi. 463, a. By the Huns, 488, d. By the Suevians, 503, a. By whom built, 867, c, d. Destroyed by the Vandals, vii. 531, d.
- † Carthaginians, their origin, vi. 658, b, c. Various names, 661, b. Populoufness, 663, b. Extensive, 664, a, (1). Ancient Canaanites, 672, & seq. Sacrifice noble children to Saturn, 679, a, b. Forbid to learn Greek, ibid. c. Their religion and deities, 681, & seq. Portable temples, 682, c. Language, 697, & seq. Writing and coins, 703, & seq. Arts and sciences, 704, & seq. Customs, 705. Hospitality, ibid. e, f. Character, 706, & seq. Genealogy of their noble families, 707. Commerce and military discipline, 708, a, &c. Learned men, ibid. & seq. Expert artillts, ibid. (M). Writers, 709, pass. Trade and navigation, 710, & seq. Chronology, 712, & seq. Wars with the Etruscans, &c. 724. Sicilians, ibid. f, & seq. (Vid. & iii. 15, & seq.). First treaty with Rome, 727, pass. 774, b. 779, a. Vid. & iv. 594, d, e. Presents to the capitol, 598, b, c. Tributary to the Africans, vi. 728, c. Ill success
- in Sicily, ibid. f, & seq. League with Xerxes, 729, a, b. First footing in Spain, ibid. b, c. Expedition against Sicily, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Gelon, 732, f, & seq. (iii. 17, & seq.). Sue for peace, 735, a. Shake off the African tribute, 736. Quarrel with the Romans, ibid. & seq. (iv. 652, & seq.). Succour the Egestines, 738, a. Barbarity to the Selinuntines, 741, & seq. How repulsed before Himera, 743, pass. Take Agrigentum, 746, & seq. Way of encamping, ibid. (N). Destroyed by a grievous plague, 753, & seq. Ravaged by Dionysius, 756, a—c. 759, a. Defeated at sea, ibid. d. A plague in their army, 765, a, b. Described, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 766, b. 768, c, d. Ill success in Sicily, 770, a, & seq. Under a new pestilence, 773, b, c. Peace with Dionysius II. 774, c, d. Undermined by the Syracusans, ibid. & seq. & (F). Baffled by Timoleon, 775, & seq. Let into Syracuse, 779, c. Fresh preparations against Sicily, 782, a—c. Defeated by Timoleon, 783, & seq. Their terrible loss, 784, & seq. Peace with him, 786, c, d. Dread of Alexander, 788, b, c. War with Agathocles, 789, & seq. Invaded by him, 695, & seq. Ravaged and defeated by him, 797. Their horrid superstition, 798, d—f. & 811, c. Camp set on fire, ibid. d. End of the Sicilian war, 812, d—f, & seq. Renewed, 813, & seq. Defensive treaty with Rome, 814, & seq. Drive Pyrrhus out of Italy, 816, pass. War with the Romans, 819, & seq. Their reasons, 821, & seq. Driven out of Sicily, Sardinia, &c. 822, & seq. Sea preparations against the Romans, 835, c, d. Totally defeated, 836, pass. Anew, 838, a, b. Saved by Xanippus, 839, & seq. Ingratitude to him, 840, f. Fall into fresh disasters, 842, & seq. Defeated by Lutatius, 850, b, c. Peace with him, ibid. & seq. War with the mercenaries, 851, & seq. Causes of that war, ibid. e, & seq. 855, c, d. Preparations against them, ibid. & seq. Success in Spain, vii. 2, b, c. Answer to the Romans, 6, b, c. Success against them, 17, & seq. 19, & seq. Defeated in Spain, 20, c, d. Great joy at Hannibal's success, 34, d, & seq. Treaty with king Philip, 42, & seq. Their ambassadors sent prisoners to Rome, 43, c, f, & seq. Second treaty with him, 44, d, e. Driven out of Sardinia, 45, & seq. Defeated in Spain, 46, pass. Before Illiturgi, 48, e, f. Before Munda, 49, a, b. In Sicily, 61, & seq. In Spain, 63, b. Exasperate king Philip, 64, e, f. Defeated by the consuls, 65, & seq. In Spain by Scipio, 68, e, f. Their decline there, 69, & seq. Bad fate, 73, e, f. Buy king Philip's assistance, 74, a. Their terror at Scipio's landing, 75, e, f, & seq. Defeated in Italy, 76, f, & seq. Defeated by Scipio, 77, & seq. Sue for peace to him, 79, c. Their ambassadors suspected at Rome, 80, f. Treachery to the Romans, 81, a. Defeated by Scipio, 82, pass. Sue for peace, 83, b. Obtain a hard one, ibid. d, & seq. Send the first sum to Rome, 85, c. Discover Hannibal's designs to the Romans, 87, c. Offer them corn and ships, 89, c, d. Proscribe Hannibal, 93, d. Falls out with Masinissa, ibid. & seq. Abject appeal to the Romans, 94, & seq. Sue for peace to Masinissa, 96, e. Betrayed by the Romans, 97, & seq. Forced to send three hundred hostages, ibid. & seq. And to deliver up their arms, 98, b, c. To abandon the city, ibid. & seq. Make some fresh efforts, 101, & seq. Defeated at sea, 102, & seq. Overcome and destroyed, 103, & seq.
- Cartbalo sent admiral against the Romans, iv. 673, f. Recalled for indiscretion, 675, a. Repulsed by the senate, 684, b. See vi. 847, b—e.
- crucified for disobeying his father, vi. 795, d—f.
- success against the Romans, 847, b, c. Recalled for his indiscretion, ibid. e.
- slain at Tarentum, vii. 62.
- † Cartbea, a city in Coos, described, iii. 216, f.
- Cartimandua's treachery to Caraciacus, v. 511, a. To her own husband, 512, c, d.
- Carts, why worshipped by the Phrygians, ii. 301, d.
- Carvilius, Spur. subdues the Sardinians, iv. 683, d.
- Ruga, forced to divorce his barren wife, ibid. e.
- Carus proclaimed emperor, vi. 203, e. His rule and character, 204, a, b. Success in Sarmatia, ibid. c, d. Against the Persians, ibid. d, e. Death, ibid. f. Funeral honours, 205, e.
- † Caryssians worship Briareus, iii. 248.
- Casca, one of the conspirators against Cæsar, v. 180, b. 183, a. Gives him the first stab, 184, b.
- † Caslinum taken by Hamilcar, iv. 716, & seq. Retaken by Fabius, 722, a. vii. 47, f. Besieged by Hannibal, vii. 36, f, & seq. Its dreadful famine and surrender, 38, b, c. Put to fire and sword by Marcellus, 48, a.
- † Castota, part of lower Egypt, i. 176, b. And of Seleucia, in Syria, 361, a.
- † Casippia, where sited, iv. 12, a, & (V).
- † Casus island described, iii. 212.
- † Cassutim, who, and where settled, i. 165.
- † Caspian sea described, ii. 4, & seq. & not.
- † — streights, where sited, 3, e.
- † Caspis taken by Judas Maccabæus, iv. 66, c.
- Cassander opposed by Polyperchon, ii. 553. Subdues the Athenians, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Demetrius, 555, c.
- whether he poisoned Alexander, iii. 411, & seq. & (O).
- His post after his death, 423, f. Leagues against Antigonus,

- mus, 432, a. 463. Murders Roxana, and her son, 435, c. 462, a. Invades Peloponnesus, 462, b. His death, 464. Hated to Alexander, ibid. c.
- the son of Antipater, why he did not succeed him, 453, (B). Attempt against Polyperchon, 459, a, b. Outwits Antigonus, ibid. f. Wars with the Ætolians, 460, & seq. Ill success in Asia, 461, c, d.
- † Cassandra, by whom built, iii. 458, f.
- † Cassandria, Poridea, why so called, 257, a.
- destroyed by the Huns, vi. 526, e. vii. 483, e.
- † Cassian mountains divide Scythia from Seres, ii. 767, a.
- † Cassianus killed by the crusifadors, vi. 615, f.
- Cassibelan's* treason, vii. 421, (A). Heads all the Britons against Cæsar, 425, b. Defeated, ibid. c. Defence against him, ibid. & seq. Makes peace with him, 426, d.
- Cassiodorus* publishes the Historia tripartita, vi. 491, (S).
- sent ambassador to Attila, vii. 472, d.
- † Cassiope, a city in Epirus, 796, a.
- † Cassir, the ruins of, vii. 116, d.
- † Cassiterides, islands, where situate, vii. 146, (E). 308, a. Why so called by the Greeks, 402, c.
- Cassius's* success against the Rhodians, iii. 158, & seq. Against Mithridates, 730, & seq.
- success against Alexander, iv. 116, a, b, (D). Seizes on Syria, 121. Defeated by M. Antony, 133, pass.
- gives Crassus the slip in Parthia, 303, a. — f. Defeats the Parthians, 306, c, d. And Volages, 321, b. Reduces the Sabines, 479, d. Chosen magister equitum, 482, a.
- Spur. defeats the Hernici, 503, d. Condemned to death for his ambition, ibid. & 505, c.
- sent to fetch Jugurtha, v. 11, a.
- Longinus, left to command in Spain, 137, a.
- Scæva's valiant defence rewarded, 140, c, d. Submits to Cæsar, 148, f. Conspires against him, 179, a, b. Stabs him in the senate, 184, d. Sharp answer to Antony, 189, b. Made governor of Syria, 194, a. Supplanted by Dolabella, 200, d. Sent by the senate against him, 204, b. Retires into the east, 214, b, c. Joins Brutus at Athens, ibid. c. Goes into Syria, 215, c. Success in Asia, 217, & seq. In Syria, 218, a, b. Takes Laodicea, 219, d. Confirmed governor of Syria, 220, a. Proscribed, 221, a. Recalled from Egypt, 232, e. Meets Brutus at Smyrna, 233, f. Generosity to him, 234, b, c. Answer to the Rhodians, ibid. e, & c. Success against them, 235, d, e. In Asia, 236, & seq. Reconciled to Brutus, 239, d, e. Epicurean notion about spirits, 240, f, (I). Passes into Europe, 241, b. Speech and largess to the army, ibid. c, d. Against fighting the triumvirs, 243, d, (K). Last words to Medusa, 244, b. To Brutus, ibid. c. Defeated by Antony, 245, c, f. His death, 246, c, d. Character, ibid. & seq. Why an enemy to Cæsar, 247, a, (M).
- Parmen. opposes the triumvirs in Asia, 258, c. His character and writings, ibid. (A).
- Cæreas's bravery against the mutineers, 365, a. Conspires against Caligula, 481, & seq. Singular intrepidity, 483, & seq. Murders him, 484, d, (H). Conceals himself, 489, b. Put to death by Claudius, 491, d, (T).
- Longinus, chosen consul, 437, d. Marries Drusilla, ibid. (N). Banished by Nero, 550, & seq.
- Dion's judgment about Adrian's adoption, vi. 25, f.
- Avidius, success against the Parthians, 74, b, c. 65, c. Barbarity to the Seleucians, ibid. d. Success in Egypt, 70, a. Revolt and character, 73, & seq. Cruel severity, 74, a, b. Reforms the army in Syria, ibid. c, d, (F). Hatred of monarchy, 75, a, b. His character drawn by Verus, ibid. b, c. Assumes the purple, ibid. f. Proscribed, 76, b, c. His death, ibid. d, e.
- † — Jupiter, the temple of, iii. 796, a.
- † — mount, whence so called, i. 87, a.
- Cassius's* success and rashness in Spain, vi. 475, d, e. Stirs up John to revolt, 478, a. Banished, 480, a. Ill success against the Goths, vii. 531, c, d.
- Cassir* and Pellux, their fabulous original, ii. 401, (L). Arm for the recovery of their sister, 367, b. Bring her out of Aphidne, 402, b. Their other exploits and death, ibid. (O). Their temple consecrated at Rome, iv. 505, f.
- † Castra Alata, supposed Edinburgh, vii. 413, f.
- Castration* forbid by Nerva, vi. 5, a.
- † Castrum altum described, vii. 48, d.
- Cassulo* revolts from the Carthaginians, vii. 48, c. Betrayed to Scipio, 71, a.
- † Catabant, who, and where sited, vii. 231, e.
- † Catada, a river, described, vi. 671, d.
- Catalans* hired by the Greeks, vi. 636, a. Ravage their dominions, ibid. b. Invite the Turks to them, ibid. c, d.
- † Catana, in Sicily, described, iii. 3, b. How destroyed, ibid. c. Taken by the Athenians, 27, d. By Dionysius, 48, c. Delivered up to the Romans, 654, e.
- † Catanus Apollo, his temple at Daftacum, iii. 763, d.
- † Catbei defeated by Alexander, iii. 393, c, d, & seq.
- † Catani, who, and where sited, v. 639, d. Invaded by Domitian, 667, e, f.
- Catapulta* described, vi. 750, (O). 757, (H).
- Catim*, the last Amalekith king in Egypt, i. 281.
- Catigern* slain, vii. 444, e. His monument, ibid.
- Catiline*, L. S. a tool of Sylla's, his cruelties, v. 75, f. His impiety, 76, c, (T). Vile character, 102, d. Conspiracy, ibid. & seq. The names of his associates, 104, a. Accused by Cicero, 105. Retires to Fæfulæ, ibid. & seq. Proscribed, 106, b. Defeated and killed, 109, b.
- Cato's* pleasant speech in favour of the Achæans, ii. 690, c. Drives the Ætolians out of Oeta, 720, c. Sent against his will to take Cyprus, iii. 185, c. Speech in favour of the Rhodians, 158, & seq. Sent questor into Sardinia, iv. 750, b. Against the repeal of the Oppian law, 751, & seq. Success in Spain, 752, c. Frugality, ibid. b. — c. Serves as legionary tribune, 754, a. A secret enemy to Scipio Afric. 756, & seq. Plays the rigid censor, 759, a. His true character, ibid. b, c. Partiality against the Carthaginians, 766, & seq. Irreconcilable hatred against them, vii. 95, f, & seq. His death, iv. 774, a.
- Portius, expounds the Sibylline oracles, iii. 669, b.
- M. Port. dies in Numidia, 3, a.
- C. Port. ill success in Macedonia, 4, a. Banished, ibid. b.
- L. Port. chosen consul, 51, b. Killed by Marius, 52, b.
- Uticensis, his noble speech against Sylla, v. 76, e. Against Cæsar and his accomplices, 107, d, (N). Imprisoned, 113, c. Speech against the Agrarian law, ibid. & seq. Sent into Cyprus, 116, c, d. Wounded at the comitia, 121, e. Imprisoned, 123, b. Expedient against Pompey, 126, b. Sent propraetor of Sicily, 141, f. Forced out of it, 134, b. Goes into Afric. Saves Cicero, 155, e. Heads Pompey's party, 156, b. Through the African deserts, ibid. c, d, (T). His demeanour at Utica, ibid. & seq. Resigns the command to Scipio, 157, a. Severely repents of it, 166, b. Speech to the senate, 161, b. Care for his friends, 162, a, b. Prepares for death, 163, pass. & (K). Stabs himself, 164, b. His effigy carried in Cæsar's triumph, 167, f.
- his son, a debauched youth, 165, a. Death, ibid. & 252, e.
- Portius, a base senator, the betrayer of Sabinus, 433.
- Cats*, why had in veneration in Egypt, i. 208, & seq. 210, e. 221, b.
- † Catti, who, and where sited, v. 372, (T). Defeated by Drusus, 319, d. By Germanicus, 372, b, c.
- † Cattiacblani, who, and where sited, vii. 409, b.
- Catualda* driven from his kingdom, v. 396, e. vii. 541, d.
- Catulus's* treachery to the Jews punished, iv. 291, a, (G).
- Catulus*, Q. L. his consulship and character, v. 33, e, (K). Success against the Cimbri, 38, c, d. Triumph and temple, ibid. & seq.
- chosen consul, 83, e. Falls out with his colleague, 84, c. Artful speech against Pompey, 100, f. Strenuousness against the Manilian law, 101, f. Bold accusation of Cæsar, 103, e.
- Cavalry* not used in Persia till after Cyrus, ii. 18, (G).
- Cavades*, king of Persia, subdues Euthalites, iv. 343, & Deposed, ibid. d. His punishment, 344, b. Released by his queen, ibid. e, & seq. Wars with the Romans, 345, pass. Behaviour to the Amidians, ibid. c. Invaded by the Huns, ibid. & eq. Peace with Rome, 346, b. Success against them, 347. Death, 348, b.
- † Caucasus, mount, in Scythia, ii. 267, d. Called by the Arabians Raf, i. 102, (N). Its height, ibid.
- Caudex*, Appius, why so called, iv. 654, c.
- † Caudine forks, the Romans entrapped in, iv. 611, e.
- † Cayster, a river in Phrygia, ii. 294, (O). 329, c.
- Cayu Marras*, said to have been the son of Shem, i. 126, b.
- † Cea, Ceos, island, described, iii. 216. A barbarous custom in it, ibid. f.
- Cæulin's* success against the Britons, vii. 452, e, f. Driven out, ibid. e.
- Ceballinus* discovers a plot against Alexander, 364, pass.
- † Cecropia, Athens antiently so called, ii. 361, e. 737. Taken the Romans, 741, c.
- † Cecropes, the first order of Athenian citizens, ii. 438, a.
- Cecrops* introduces religion into Greece, ii. 348, b. 362, & seq. The fable of his naming Athens, 361, (C). The founder of that monarchy, 362, b. His reign, & c. ibid.
- bishop of Carthage, killed by an earthquake, vi. 304, & c.
- † Cedars of Libanus described, i. 362, b, & c.
- † Cedrus, river, in Cilicia, ii. 341, e.
- † Celene, where situate, ii. 292, c.
- Celeres*, Roman guards, why so called, iv. 427, c. Dismissed by Numa, 436, a.
- priests so called, their office, ibid. e.
- Celers*, A. R. a tribune, put to death, iv. 264, b.
- Publ. the murderer of Silanus, acquitted by Nero, v. 526, b.
- one of that monarch's architects, 548, c. His projected canal, ibid. d, e.
- Verien. his bloody orders against the Mæfians, 175, d.
- † Celeræ, a people of Thrace, iii. 795, a.
- Celibacy*, how punished by the Spartans, ii. 561. Condemned by Octavius, v. 337, e.
- Celjus*, Junius's death, v. 446, b.
- Mar. repelled at a revolt against Galba, 594, c. Saved by Otho, 596, c. Raised by him, 601, e. Sent against Vici-

- Vitellius, v. 605, e. Success against Cæcina, 607, c, d. Whol-some advice to Otho, 608, c, d. 609, e.
Celsus, L. Publ. whether put to death, vi. 34, c.
— his writings and character, 81, (H).
— Cornel. declared emperor, 182, f. His death, ibid. & seq.
† Celtes. See Gomerians, ii. 241, & seq. Sue to Alexander, iii. 310, f. Answer to him, 320, a. Settle in Italy, iv.
561, d. Raise a drunken uproar in Aladrubal's camp, vi.
835, a. Defeated in Spain, 866, (M). How far spread through Europe, vii. 322, d, e.
† Celtiberia, Spain antiently so called, ii. 243, in fin. (B).
244, not. 246, c. Described, vii. 303, d.
† Celtiberians, their treachery to Scipio, iv. 708, e. 725, b.
vii. 78, e. Defeated by Fulvius, 753, b. 760, a. Their signal bravery, v. 45, a. Outwitted by Didius, ibid. b.
Their religion, vii. 330, d. Where seated, 303, e.
† Celtic Gauls, defeated by Cæsar, v. 127, c.
† Cenchrea, one of the two ports of Corinth, ii. 391, a.
† Censors, first created, iv. 547, a. Confined to eight months,
549. Suspended, 576, c. Revived, 577, d. When first chosen out of the plebeians, 592, e. Restored by Decius, vi. 169, e. Its nature, &c. ibid. f, & seq.
— at Carthage, 678, & seq.
Censorinus beheaded, v. 74, c.
— his writings and character, vi. 164, (W).
— besieged, and taken prisoner, 485, c. Sent against Carthage, vii. 97, c. Repulsed before it, 100, c.
— sent ambassador to Emeric, 543, e.
Census, how regulated by Servius, iv. 457, b. Taken at Rome. Vid. sub Rome, 598, & seq.
Centaurus, the fable of, whence, ii. 382, c, & not. Lustful attempt, ibid. Killed by Hercules, 256, sub not.
Centonius defeated, vii. 22, d, e.
† Centum portæ, by whom built, vi. 13, c.
† columnæ, a Roman building burnt, 166, c.
† — vici, when first instituted, iv. 684, c.
† — at Carthage, vi. 676, & seq.
Centuries, how regulated by Servius, iv. 457, b.
Centurion, in Judæa, his singular humility, iv. 210, a.
† Centuripe, taken by the Romans, vi. 827. A city in Sicily,
iii. 9, a.
† Cephalonia. Vid. Samos, iii. 186. Described, 242, a.
Taken by the Athenians, ii. 501, c. By the Romans,
677, e. Given to the Athenians, vi. 42, d.
† Cephissus, river, in Phocis, ii. 387, f. The bridge over, built by Adrian, vi. 35, f, & seq.
† Cephren, Cephrenes, &c. king of Egypt, i. 262, b. His pyramids there, i. 84, & 262, b.
† Cerastis, Cyprus, why so called of old, iii. 172, & seq.
† Cerastus in Pontus, why so called, iii. 721.
† Ceraunian mountains in Epirus, 798, a.
† Ceraunus, where sited, iii. 214, a.
Cerberus fetched out of hell by Hercules, ii. 365, not. 396, not.
† Cercina, island, where sited, v. 60, b. vii. 176, f.
Cerdia's success in Britain, vii. 447, c, d. Sends for more Saxons, 449. Defeats the Britons, ibid. c. Found the West Saxon kingdom, ibid. d, e.
Cerialis's expedition against the Samaritans, iv. 272, b, c.
— Against the Idumeans, 277.
— Petilius, defeated by the Britons, v. 538, c.
— endeavours to save the capitol, 623, a, b. Success against the revolted Germans, 642, c, &c. Bravery against the Treverians, 644, a. Narrow escape and revenge, ibid. &
seq. Vainly tampered by Domitian, 663, f.
— Civicus put to death, 674, e.
Ceremonial law instituted, i. 516, a. Whether any borrowed from Egypt, ibid. (Y). Its distinctions, ibid. d, e, (Y) & (Z).
Ceremony, whence that word derived, iv. 563, d.
Ceres civilizes the Athenians, ii. 419, not. 731, not.
— her fests and mysteries, 731. Why and how performed,
ibid. & seq.
— her worship at Carthage, vi. 679, b. 689, c. Temple plundered, 764, a.
— statue in Arcadia burnt, ii. 380, b.
Ceretibes, the Egyptian name of the Philistines, i. 343, (G).
† Cerintus in Eubæa, by whom built, iii. 249, d.
Certus, a senator, indicted by Pliny, vi. 4, c. Dies of grief,
ibid. d.
Cestius Gallus numbers the inhabitants of Jerusalem, iv. 268,
b. Defeated by the Zelots, 269, & seq.
— Maced. burns Perusia, v. 267, a.
Cethegus's success against the Gauls, iv. 750, f.
— a senator, put to death, vi. 357, b.
— conspiracy and death, v. 104—107.
Cetheroupa, the first woman after the flood according to the Indians, i. 107, c.
† Cetii, a people mentioned by Homer, i. 168, f.
† Ceuta, its situation, vii. 139, c.
† Chabdanus's revenge on Leo, vi. 581, a, b. Defeated, 582, d.
Chabrias, the Athenian, his character, ii. 540, b. Success against the Spartans, ibid. c, d. Slain, ibid. f.
— success against the Persians, iii. 180.
— killed in the social war, 135, b, c.
† Chidaca, metropolis of Albania, 837, d.
Chagan, king of the Avari, invades the Romans, vi. 554.
Breaks truce with them, 555. Destroyed by a pestilence, ibid. Cruelty to his prisoners, 536, a. Peace with Hera-clius, ibid. b. Kindness to Justinian, 548, f. Bought off by Tiberius, ibid. &c.
Chaisles, post, by whom invented, vi. 26, b.
† Chalcaspides, whence so called, ii. 653, d.
† Chalce, where sited, vii. 143, c.
Chalcedon destroyed by the Goths, vii. 495, b.
† Chalcedon. See Calcedon, 822.
† Chalcidene, the kingdom of, described, iii. 834. Vid. vol. i.
361, b.
Chalcidians come into Sicily, iii. 11, d.
† Chalcidica, where situate, iii. 256, d.
Chalcidius's account of the star at Christ's birth, iv. 162,
not.
† Chalcis, the capitol of Chalcidene, i. 361, b.
— taken by Antigonus, ii. 780. Ruined by Cenchro, 734.
— capital of Eubæa, iii. 246, b. Described, 248, f. Plundered by Colchæes, vi. 527, b.
— the kingdom of, united to the empire, v. 681, f.
Chalcedon subdues the Thebans, iii. 250, d.
† Chaldea, whence so named, i. 905, c. Its division, &c. ibid. & seq. Product, &c. 906—908.
— the antediluvian kings of, 90, d. 905, e.
Chaldean cosmogony, according to Diodorus, i. 14, b. Bero-sus, ibid. c.
— account of the flood, 91, d.
Chaldeans, famed for owning one deity, i. 15, b. By whom founded, 127, a. Their language Syriac, 377, d.
Chaldees, or Babylonian priests, i. 912. Authors of the Sabean religion, ibid. Their learning not from Egypt, 929, b, &c.
Their institutions, 930, e. Cosmogony, 931, a. Astrology, ibid. b, c. Condemned, 932, a. Great valour, 967,
e. Subdued by Cyrus, ibid. f.
— character, when, and by whom brought into Judea, iv.
146.
— paraphrase, why first brought into use, 26, a.
† Chalonitis, where sited, iii. 534, (W). A province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
† Chalons, the famed battle of, vi. 495, d—f. Number of the slain, 496, b. Authors reconciled about it, vii. 475,
& seq.
† Chalybon and Chalbsinitis in Syria, i. 361, a.
† Chamaui, who, vii. 548, a. Defeated, vi. 239, d. By Julian, 304, a. Invaded by Eugenius, 423, c, d.
† Chasnia, a province in Epirus, described, iii. 795, f.
Chasus, absurd opinions about it confuted, i. 10, c, d. 30, &
seq.
† Capbenatba, part of Jerusalem, why so called, iv. 83, c.
† Characa, where sited, iv. 67, (F). Taken by the Jews, ibid. a.
Chararic, king of the Franks, vii. 566, c, d. Dethroned and murdered by Clovis, 579, e.
† Characene, described, iii. 852, & seq. By whom founded,
853.
† Charcorychii, mountains, where, vii. 115, e.
Chares's expedition against Chios, ii. 542. Repulsed by the Byzantines, 547, c. His noble death and character, 542,
& seq.
— the maker of the Colossus, iii. 130, (C). Mad expedition against Persia, 135, e.
Charidemus, put to death, iii. 332.
† Charidemus, the promontory of, where, vii. 301, c.
Charilaus, king of Sparta, his birth, ii. 558. Defeated by the Tegean women, 380. 560, a. His reign and character,
559, & seq.
Charilus, the Samian, his character, iii. 195, not.
Chariots, armed, when first introduced, iv. 308, d, e. vi. 783,
(B). Vid. vol. ii. 64, (I). 93, c.
† Charistius, a river in Colchis, iii. 833, c.
Charlemagne falls out with Desiderius, vii. 716, & seq. Invited against him by the pope, 717, a, b. Success in Italy, ibid. d, & seq. Grand reception at Rome, 718, b. Large donatives to the pope, ibid. f, & seq. Conquests, 719, & seq. Crowned king of the Lombards, 722. Second reception at Rome, ibid. & seq. Form of government, 723, & seq.
Charms, &c. severely punished, vi. 375, pass.
† Charon, lake Meris, why so called, i. 196, b.
Charonites, Antony's magistrates, why so called, v. 193.
† Charybdis, the famed rock of, iii. 2, c.
Chasleu, a Jewish month, 611, (K).
† Chasmena, when, and by whom built, iii. 12, b.
† Chauci, where sited, v. 334, (R). 366, (H). Subdued by Tiberius, ibid. b. By Drusus, 219, d, e. By Corbulo, 501, b. By the Romans, vi. 63, d. See vol. vii. [407],
b, c.
† Chazari, who, vi. 541, d. Forty thousand men join Hera-clius, ibid.
Chedorlaomer's wars, i. 294. Pillages Sodom, &c. 327, c.
Cheromocrates, architect of the temple at Ephesus, ii. 754, d.
† Chel, of Solomon's temple, what, iv. 45, (T).
Chelcias, a famed Jew of Alexandria, iv. 93, c.
Chelonis, her filial and conjugal piety, ii. 627, b, &c.
† Chemia, Egypt, why so called, i. 173, c.
Cheminis. Vide Chæpi, i. 261, & seq.

Chemia?

Cbemos, Basileus, idol of the Moabites, i. 285, e. 286, b. Whence so called, ibid. (N).
Cbops, king of Egypt, i. 261, f. Forbids all sacrifices, ibid. His tyranny, ibid. &c. † Stately pyramids, 184, b. 129, (G). Prostitution of his daughter, 185, b. 262, a. By which she also built a pyramid, ibid.
Cborea defeated and killed by the Jews, iv. 63, e.
† Cberetbites and Peletbites, who, i. 778, (C).
Cberries, whence called cerofa, iii. 721, f.
Cberfis, king of Salamis, iii. 177, b.
† Cberfon, the ruins of, iii. 841, a.
† Cberfonfus invaded by Demetrius, iii. 441.
† — Ibracian, described, 787, & seq. Kings of, 795.
† — Taurica, described, 840, & seq. Bequeathed by Agrippa, v. 318, d.
Cberfonians butchered by Justinian, vi. 549, d. Submit to Philippius, ibid. d.
Cberubim placed in paradise, i. 64, e, d. Of gold, over the mercy-seat, 654. Their form, &c. ibid. d. (V). Whence so called, ibid.
† Cberufi subdued by Drusus, v. 319, d, e. Stirred up by Arminius, 374, b, c. Defeated by Germanicus, ibid. & seq. 384, b, c. Oppressed by Italicus, 501, b. Defeated by Constantine, vi. 239, d.
Cbfnuts eaten for want of corn, vi. 463, c.
Cbian slaves, signal faithfulness, iii. 211, c.
† Cbians, their government, kings, &c. iii. 109, & seq. Fidelity to the Ionians, 197, c. Sndued by the Persians, 210. Revolt, and reduced, ibid. c, d. Join in the common confederacy, ibid. & seq. Subject to the Athenians, 211, a, b. Their various fates since, ibid. & seq.
Cbicabter built by Cilla, vii. 449, d.
Cbildebert's success against the Burgundi, vii. 587, d—f.
Cbildebert taken prisoner by Attila, vi. 494, e. vii. 473, c. Restored, 563, a. His reign and conquests, 564, a, b. Death, ibid. c. Tomb and character, ibid. d. Dethroning and restoration, ibid. & seq. & (F). King of the Franks, 550, e.
Cbilveric made magister militum, vii. 581, c. His conquests in Gaul, 583, & seq. Extract, 584, b. Death, ibid. c.
† Cbinaalpb, river, in Numidia, vii. 116, b.
Cbindasintbus, king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
Cbintila, king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Children, how educated among the Jews, i. 678, & seq. Solon's laws concerning them, ii. 334, a.
— at Rome, slaves to their parents, iv. 434, b.
— poor, how provided for by Constantine, vi. 255, a. Four eaten by their mothers, 462, c.
† Cbilmimar, in Persia, by whom adorned, ii. 224, c.
Cbilo, Vett. put to death by Galba, v. 583, d.
— L. Fab. doomed to death by Caracalla, vi. 124, b. Rescued and spared, ibid. c, d.
— accused of witchcraft, 356, e.
Cbilon stabs Marcellus and himself, v. 166, c.
† Cbimera, mountain in Lycia, ii. 338, a. The fable of, explained, 337, b. 394, (N). The hot baths of, iii. 796, b.
† Cbinese, a sect of philosophers among them, i. 24, a. Their notion of a god, &c. ibid. & 34, a—d.
— historians, mention the flood, 96, a. Whether their language be the primitive, 151, d.
Cbinzirus, king of Babylon, i. 945, b.
† Cbios, kingdom, by whom founded, ii. 369. Revolts from Athens, 521, a. Confederates against it, 542, e.
† — island, described, iii. 107, e, f. Famed for its wines, &c. 108. By whom peopled, 109, a.
† — the city of, described, 109, c. Destroyed by the Persians, 110. Taken by the Turks, vi. 611.
Cbloneris's parricide, vii. 578, b, c. Punished, ibid. d.
Cblotildis's character, vii. 567, c, d. Married to Clovis, ibid. & seq. Strives to convert him, 568, e. 570, b. Her retirement and death, 580, e, f. Extract, 584, d. Revenge on Sigismund, 586, b—c.
† Cboafpes, whether the same with the Euleas, ii. 59, (E).
† Cboasos in Phrygia. See Coloffus, iii. 293, c.
Cboassians subdued by Alexander, iii. 386, b.
† Cbomer, capital of Bactria, ii. 246, sub not.
Cborax stops the overflowing of the Tigris, iii. 852, f.
† Cborfa, a city in Armenia, iii. 693, d, (B).
Cbofe, an Idumean deity, whence so named, iv. 140, (O).
Cbofrobes. See Cofirobes, iv. 346, & seq.
Cbrocopide, what, ii. 429, c.
Cbrencris, the supposed Pharaoh at the Exod. i. 432.
† Christ, Jesus, his birth foretold, iv. 155, & seq. 157, a. (R, S, T). Born at Bethlehem, 159, a (V, 329, d, L). Year of his birth computed, ibid. (Z). Manifested to the magi, 160, & seq. Presented at the temple, 163. Not of the Edseman sect, 173, b, c. Conveyed into Egypt, 179, & seq. Whence called a Nazarene, 190, a. (H). Stay at Jerusalem, 193, d. First entrance into his ministry, 197, b. Baptism, 198, b. First miracle, 199, b. Answer to his mother explained, ibid. (H). Fresh miracles, 200, & seq. Sublime discourse to Nicodemus, 201, & seq. Miraculous cures in Galilee, 204, & seq. Vindicates his doing them on the sabbath, 206, 207, & (S). Chuses his twelve apostles, 208, c, d. (T). Sermon on the mount, 209, c. Raises the widow's son, 210, b. Absolves the sinful woman, 211, a. Condemns infidelity, ibid. (A). Why he spoke in parables, 212, b. Other miracles, 213, & seq. Why he ordered them to be concealed, 214, (G). Multiplies the loaves, 215, b. Walks on the sea, ibid. d, e. Reproves the Pharisees, 217, b, c. Goes to Tyre and Sidon, ibid. & seq. The Jews opinion concerning him, 218, d. Foretels his own death, 219. Transfigured, ibid. & seq. Acquits the adulteress, 223, e. Raises Lazarus, 226. Circumstances of the miracle examined, ibid. (Y). Entry into Jerusalem, 227, & seq. Foretels its ruin with tears, 228, & seq. (B, C). Silences the Sadducees, &c. 231, & seq. Washes his disciples feet, 232, d. Describes the last day, 233, b. Celebrates the passover, ibid. & seq. & (L). Agony in the garden, 234, & (O). Condemned by the sanhedrim, 235, pass. Brought before Pilate, 236, b. Herod, 237. Scourged, 238. Crucified, 239 (v. 449). The hour when, ibid. (Y). His promise to the penitent thief, 240, b, (B). Last prayer, 241, a. Expires, 242, a. Why pierced in the side, ibid. b. And buried apart, ibid. d. His tomb sealed and guarded, 243, b, (F). His resurrection, ibid. & seq. Appears to his disciples, 245, pass. & (B). Communion to them, ibid. & seq. Taken up into heaven, 248, & seq. & (D). Testimony of profane authors concerning him, ibid. (E).

Christians, primitive, their admirable lives, iv. 251, & seq. Persecuted in Judea, 253, e. Leave Jerusalem before its siege, 270, (O). Persecuted by Nero, 549, & seq. Confounded with the Jews by Tacitus, ibid. (D). By Domitian, 675, f. Tolerated by Nerva, vi. 3, d. Persecuted by Trajan, 27, b, c. By the Jews, 39, b. Parted and delivered from them, 41, a, b. Persecuted by Adrian, 48, d. Favoured by Antoninus, 58, c. Their prayers obtain a miraculous victory, 71, & seq. Favoured by M. Aurelius, 72, c, d. Why favoured by Alexander, 138, f. Grievously persecuted by Decius, 168, & seq. By Gallus, 171, b. By Valerian, 173, c, f. By Dioclesian, 216, pass. By Maximian, 250, c, d. Constantine's edicts in their favour, 248, a. 250, c. Forbid to turn Jews, 302, c. Joy at Julian's death, 335, a. Encouraged by Jovian, 345, f, & seq. Massacred by Geronius, 466, a. By the Alexandrian Jews, 471, b. Barbarity to Hypatia, ibid. d, e. Persecuted in Persia, 474, b. Restored, 475, d, e. Massacred by the Jews, 538, d. 539, c. By the Mohammedans, 551, d, e. By the Saracens, 557, a.
— women, exempted from stage-plays, 393, d.
Chronology of the patriarchs, according to the Hebrew, i. 70. Septuagint, ibid. Samaritan pentateuch, 71.
— from the creation to the flood, stated, 69. From thence to Abraham's departure, 110, a, b.
— of the Egyptians, 93, & seq. & (I).
— from the time of Alexander the Great, 228, & seq.
— of the Jews, 733, & seq.
Cbryor, the same with Vulcan, &c. i. 68, a. Inventor of iron weapons, &c. ibid. First sailor, according to Sanchoniatho, ibid. Worshipped, ibid. &c.
Cbryse, the wife of Dardanus, her dowry, ii. 312, a.
Cbryseantibus refuses Julian's invitation, vi. 326, b, c. Made pontif, ibid. c. His writings, &c. 339, not.
Cbrysephus's treachery to Attila forgiven, vi. 490, b, c. vii. 470, a—c.
Cbryfargyrum, falsely ascribed to Constantine, vi. 269, c. What tax it was, ibid. Abolished by Anastasius, 518, a—c. Various sorts of it, ibid. d, e.
Cbryfippus put to death for treason, iii. 634, a.
— witty sarcasm on Caesar's triumph, v. 177, b.
† Cbryforrobas, a river in Lydda, ii. 329, c. In Syria, iii. 361, c.
Cbrysofom, saint, his narrow escape, vi. 375, e, f. Excellent homilies to the Antiochians, 408, c. Dreadful account of their trial and punishment, ibid. & seq. Intercedes for them, 410, c. Piety to the prisoners, 411, b. Joyful speech on their being pardoned, 412, b. Panegyric on Eudoxia, 433, a. Banished by Her, ibid. & 437, c. Letters to Pen-tadia, ibid. d. Zeal for the church's ayla, 443, f, & seq. Saves three considerable lives, 445, c. Intrepidity against the Arians, 446, a, b. Banishment, 451, c. Manuscripts burnt, 558, c.
Cbryselia, a new tax raised by Anastasius, vi. 519, b.
† Cbunt, who, vii. 458, d.
Cburches, when first made ayla, vi. 421, f. Suppressed by Eutropius, 437, d. Restored, ibid. c. Respected by Alaric, 464, d. By the Goths, ibid. c. By Honorius, 470, b. Enlarged fifty paces round, 473, b.
Cbymical books, in Egypt, burnt by Dioclesian, vi. 213, d.
Cbnyludan, supposed the Nabuchadnezzar of Scripture, i. 397, a, (Q). 947, b. Calls in all his Assyrian subjects against the Medes, 898, a. Defeats them, and destroys their capital, ibid. b, c. His 120 days banquet, ibid. See also under Nabuchadonezzor.
Ciacconius's description of Trajan's column, vi. 26, d, e.
Ciaxares, his character and exploits, ii. 16, c. Driven out by the Scythians, ibid. & seq. Treachery to them, 17. War with the Lydians, 18. Resumes the siege of Nineveh, ibid. & seq. Other conquests with the king of Babylon, 19, 20.
— II. wars with Neriglissar, 21. The Darius of Daniel, 9 P ibid.

- Ibid. f. Destroys Babylon, ibid. & seq. Divides the empire into 120 provinces, 22, c.
- Cicero's injustice to Archimedes, ibid. 122, d, c. Discovers his tomb, 124, b. Letter to Lentulus, 696, c. Success against the Parthians, iv. 306, d. Character of Opimius, v. 12, f. Birth, 28, a. First campaign, 52, a. Retires to Athens, 82, d. Speech in favour of Pompey, 102, a. Judgment of Jul. Cæsar, 103, b. Consulship, 104, c. Unravels Catiline's plot, ibid. & seq. Accuses him, 105, & seq. Styled father of his country, 106, f. 108, a. Partiality to Cæsar, 109, c. Speech against Clodius, ibid. & seq. (O). Fatal satires against the triumvirs, 114, c, (S). Outwitted by Cæsar, 115, a. By Clodius, ibid. c, f. Leaves Rome, 106, b. Restored, 119, b, c. Bravery in Cilicia, 128, a. Guards the Italian coasts, 131, f. Rejects Cæsar's proposal, 134, b, (H). Goes over to Pompey, 136, c, (K). Repents of it, ibid. c, (L). Forgiven by Cæsar, 154, b. Intercedes for Marcellus, 166, d. Ill-timed jest on Cæsar's calendar, 171, a. And consulship of Caninius, 177, a. Speech on Cæsar's death, 188, c. Joins with Octavian, 196, b, (M). Severely reproved by Brutus, 201, d. Bitter speech against Antony, 203, a, b. Narrow escape from Ventidius, 205, a. Untimely zeal against Antony, 209, c. Vanity mortified, 211, b, c. By Octavian, 213, b. His character of Dec. Brutus, 222, b, c. Condemned by the triumvirs, 223, c, f. His flight, 227, c. Perplexities, 228, & seq. Death, 229, b, (E). Character, ibid. & seq. Wrong character of the Gaulish religion, vii. 347, b, (A).
- Cicero, his son, returns to Rome, 273, c.
- Q. bravery against the Gauls, 124, c. In Cilicia, 128, b. Forgiven by Cæsar, 154, c.
- Tullius, the son of Cicero. See Tullius, 215, & seq.
- † Cicones, a people of Thrace, iii. 790.
- Cidaris, a Persian diadem, described, ii. 58, c.
- † Cilicia, whence so called, ii. 339. Described, 340, & seq. Government, and various fates, 341, & seq. Kings, 342, & seq. Invaded by Alexander, 157, & seq. By Demetrius, iii. 441, d, c. Made a Roman province, v. 650, d. Cilician treachery and cruelty, a proverb, ii. 342, & not.
- Cilix, the pretended founder of Cilicia, i. 409, b.
- † Cimbri. Vid. Cimmerians, i. 166, & seq. Their origin, names, and territories, vii. [405], c, & seq. 490, c, f. Ill success in Italy, [435], c, & seq.
- women, their signal valour, 375, b. 436, (F).
- † — cherfoneus described, vii. 436, pass. When and by whom inhabited, 437, a.
- † Ciminian forest penetrated by the Romans, iv. 622.
- † Cimmerians, the descendants of Gomer, i. 166. The same with the Gauls of Asia Minor, ibid. Their invasion of it, ii. 303, d. Take Sardis, 334, a. Their character, 840, b. A colony of them in Italy, ibid. c.
- † — where seated in Europe, vi. 4, c. Invade Italy, ibid. Defeat the Romans, 28, c. March towards Rome, 34, c. Inject a panic through Italy, 37. Totally defeated, 38, pass.
- women, their desperate valour, vi. 38, c, d. vii. 375, b.
- † Cimolitis, island, described, iii. 219. Its earth, ibid.
- Cimon, admiral of Athens, ii. 482, c. His character, ibid. & seq. Conquests in Cyprus, 132, d. 482, & seq. In Chersonesus, &c. 483, & seq. Success against the Persians, 132. Aids the Lacedæmonians, 484. 494. Tried for treason, 486, & seq. Banished into Cyprus, 140, f. 487, b. Repulsed by the Athenian general, 488, a. Made admiral of Persia, 148, a. Recalled, 489, d. Descent into Cyprus, ibid. f. Death and character, 490, b, & not. Carries Theseus's bones to Athens, iii. 232, d.
- Cinados's conspiracy discovered, ii. 607, & seq.
- Cinacian law, what, v. 500, c, & (L).
- † Cinetii, who, and where sit, vii. 175, b.
- Cingetorix taken prisoner, vii. 426, c.
- Cinna, L. Corn. chosen consul, v. 56. His bad character, ibid. c. Falshood to Sylla, &c. 60, c, & seq. Heads the allies, 61, a, b. Treachery to Pompey, 63, a. Enters Rome, 64, b. Seizes on the consulship, 66, c. Opposes Sylla's return, 67. Third consulship and tyranny, ibid. & seq. Allies with Cæsar, 68, f. Marches against Sylla, 69, a. Stabbed to death, ibid. b.
- Cæsar's brother-in law, joins with his murderers, 186, f. Lays down his dignities, 187, a.
- another, mistaken for him, torn in pieces, 192, a, (H).
- Cornel. conspires against Augustus, 332, & seq. Pardoned by him, 333, b.
- † Cinype, district and city, vii. 175, a, b.
- † — river, 176, c.
- Cinyras, first king of Cyprus, iii. 175, c. His vast wealth, 176, a.
- Cipus, M. general, sent against the Boii, iv. 681, d. The fable of his two horns, ibid. (H).
- † Circassian Tartary, part of Scythia, ii. 267, c.
- Circæi revolt from the Romans, iv. 574, c.
- † Circeus, a river in Eubœa, iii. 247, c.
- † Circensian games instituted by Augustus, iv. 313, c. Why exhibited by Totila, vii. 673, d.
- Circumcisiſſion, very ancient in Egypt, i. 112. By whom first introduced, 427, (R). Why discontinued in the desert, 427, a. Renewed after the passage of Jordan, 554, c, d. How performed, 690, f, & seq. (A). Superstitious additions of the Jews, 691, (I). Used in Ethiopia, vii. 201, c, (D).
- Circumvallation-lines, when introduced, iv. 556, c.
- † Circus, Roman, built by Tarquin, iv. 448, a, (E).
- † Cirenceſter taken by the Saxons, vii. 452, f.
- † Cirta described, vii. 108, d, & seq. When and by whom built, 109, c. Surrendered to Jugurtha, 129, d, c.
- † Cisalpine Gaul described, iv. 408.
- † Cissa, river in Colchis, iii. 833.
- second king of the Saxons, vii. 449, c.
- Cissidas, the Gaul, assists the Spartans, ii. 618.
- Cithæra given to the Lacedæmonians, v. 307, c.
- † Cithærean mount described, ii. 358, d.
- Cities of refuge. See Refuge.
- how dedicated by the Hetrurians, iv. 424, b, (L).
- † Citium in Cyprus, whence so called, i. 168, f. By whom built, ibid. & iii. 173, d.
- Citizens, Solon's laws about them, ii. 433, c, f. Few at Athens, 427, d. How admitted, 438, a.
- of Sparta, their number, &c. 561, c. Of Rome, their privileges, iv. 576, (Q).
- † City, the great, razed by Agathocles, iii. 84, b.
- † Cius, in Bithynia, by whom built, iii. 822, a.
- Civic crown, on whom bestowed, iv. 573, f.
- Civis Maro, the Gaul, slain in Spain, vii. 49, b.
- Clælia's surprising flight across the Tiber, iv. 476, c, f.
- Clæſſes, how regulated by Servius, iv. 456, pass.
- Clæſſicus heads the revolted Gauls, v. 642. Success against the Romans, ibid. c, d. Total defeat, 644, b, c.
- accused of extortion, vi. 10, c. Kills himself, ibid.
- † Clæſſidium betrayed to Hannibal, iv. 700, c. vii. 18, f.
- Clædebold. See Clodebold.
- Clæudia fined by the Ædiles, iv. 675, f.
- the vestal, saves her father, 781.
- a miracle related of her, v. 331, c. 356, (L).
- Pulcher, accused of treason, 427, c.
- married to Caligula, 449, b.
- daughter of Claudius, disowned by him, 488, a.
- Claudian family, its origin, &c. v. 356, (L).
- Claudian's poem against Eutropius, vi. 435, f, & seq. & (N).
- On Honorius's marriage, 441, a. On Stilicho's exploits, ibid. b, c. On Manlius's consulship, ibid. c. Other writings, and character, 476, (R).
- Claudian's speech to the Mamertines, iii. 93, d, & seq. Takes Messana, 94, c. Besieged in it, 95, b. See also iv. 652, & seq. Ravages Syracuse, 654, d.
- Appius, comes over to the Romans, iv. 477, & seq. Chosen consul, 485, a.
- his son, opposes Valero, 514, c. Affronted by the tribunes, 515, d, c. Betrayed by his troops, 516, d. Severity to them, ibid. c. Cited by the tribunes, 517, b. Kills himself, ibid. c.
- Caius, chosen consul, 522, b. Noble speech against the tribunes, 523. Opposes his nephew's tyranny, 536, & seq.
- the hellish tool of Appius, 540. Stratagem against Virginia, ibid. & seq. Put to death, 444, f.
- Marcellus, divested of his dictatorship, 606, f.
- Pulcher, his attempt on Drepanum, 672, f. Defeated, 672. Deposed and tried, ibid. d, c.
- Glycias, chosen dictator in derision, 673, d. Shameful peace with Corsica, 682, d. His punishment, ibid. c, (I).
- M. Marcel, chosen consul, 689, b, c. Kills the Gaulish king in single combat, 690, b, c. Sent against Hannibal, 713. Defends Nola, 716, c. — c. Abdicates his second consulship, 718, b, d. Defeats Hannibal, 719. Third consulship, 720, d. Success in Sicily, 722, d. In Apulia, 730, c, d. Second defeat of Hannibal, ibid. d, f. Defeated by him, 732, c. Defeats him, 733, b. Surprised and killed, 735, a.
- Pulcher, triumphs over the Salassi, in spite of the senate, 780, c. Exhibits games, v. 43, d.
- Appius, betrays the Janiculum, 63, c. A brave young patrician, killed, 73, b.
- the emperor, his extract, v. 294, c. 321, c. Why neglected at first, 406, (E). Chosen consul by Caligula, 461, d. Despised by him, 463, f. Affronted by him in Gaul, 476, d. His character, pedigree, &c. 485, & seq. Why universally despised, 486, pass. His learning and writings, 487, & seq. Proclaimed by the soldiers, senate, &c. 489, & seq. His new haven at Ostia, 494, a, (X). Cowardice, 492, d, c. 494, d, (Y). Successful expedition against Britain, 496, & seq. Triumph, 497, pass. & (D). Wholesome laws, 498, b. — c. Apprised of his wife's lewdness, 502, c, f. Resolves to marry another, 505, c, (O). Marries Agrippina, 506, c. Enlarges the city, 507, c. Kindness to Caractacus, 511, c. Aqueduct, canal, and sea fight, 513, c, d. Omens before his death, 515, (Y). Poisoned, 516, c, d. His character vindicated against Seneca, 517, a, b. Funeral honours, ibid. d, c. Apotheosis, 519, c. His edict against the Druids, vii. 348, b, (C). Colony and temple in Essex, ibid. (L). Destroyed, 409, f. Expedition into Britain, 429. Success there, 429, b, c. Honours done to him for it, ibid. d.

Claudius

- Claudius Civilis* revolts in Batavia, v. 639, d, e. Joined by the Caninefates, &c. 640, c, d. Dissimulation to Vespasian, ibid. e. Resolves to shake off the Roman yoke, 641. Surprises their camp, ibid. & 643, f. Totally defeated, 644, a—c. Submits to Cerealis, and forgiven, ibid. e.
- enlarges Alexander's museum, vi. 37, f.
- Maximus, his writings and character, 60, sub not.
- Pompeianus marries L. Verus's widow, 68, c. Plots against Commodus, 87, f. Refuses the empire from Pertinax, 95, b. From Julianus, 106, b.
- the emperor's cautious letter to Regillianus, 175, f. Funeral of Gallienus, 185, e. Proclaimed emperor, 186, a. His extract and rise, ibid. b, c. Success against Aureolus, ibid. d. Against the Germans, &c. ibid. & seq. Letters on his signal victory, 187, a, b. Death and character, ibid. d, e.
- Appius, sent into Sicily, 822, d. Message to Hiero, 825, a, b. Stratagem to get to land, ibid. c, d, (F). Success, 826, d, e. Defeat at sea, 846, d, e.
- Claudius, Caius*, sent into Sicily, vi. 822, d, e. Gains over the Mamertines, 823, pass. Strengthens Messina, 824. Treachery to Hanno, ibid. c.
- the consul defeats Hannibal, vii. 65, e. Removes his colleague, 66, a. Defeats Asdrubal, ibid. f, & seq. Signal bravery against him, 67, c. Throws his head into Hannibal's camp, ibid. f, & seq.
- Clavi*, among the Romans, what, iv. 449, (G).
- † Clazomene, by whom founded, ii. 369, d. The state of, 752.
- Clazomenians* driven out of Abdera, iii. 786, d.
- Claxander* chosen prime minister, vi. 89. His wicked administration, ibid. & seq. Put to death with all his family, 91, b, c.
- Clarence*, Moses's laws for it, i. 688, c.
- Clearchus* tyrant of Heraclea's parricide and death, iii. 825, b.
- rise and character, 403, b.
- Clematis* put to death for his continence, vi. 290, a.
- Cleo*, a famous robber, ii. 293, c, (M).
- Cleobulina*, princess of Rhodes, her great learning, iii. 134, a.
- Cleobulus*, one of the seven wise men, iii. 133, & seq.
- king of Sparta's contempt of Meandrus's riches, 197, b. Success against the Achæans, 475, & seq. Defeated by Antig. Doson, 476, f. Kind reception from Euesgetes, 642. Ill treated by Philopator, 643. His sad catastrophe, 644, a, b.
- Cleodimir's* baptism and recovery, vii. 570, b.
- Cleombrotus* invades Boeotia, ii. 615, & seq. Slain, 616.
- II. deposes and succeeds Leonidas, 627, a. Banished, ibid. c.
- Cleomenes*, king of Sparta, invades Athens, ii. 446, c.
- wars with the Argives, 583. Interview with Aristagoras, 587, not. Runs mad, 584. Kills himself, ibid. & seq. & 459, b.
- the son of Leonidas, restores the Spartan glory, 629, & seq. Kills the ephori, 630, a. Invades Achaia, 631. Taxes Argos, &c. ibid. b, c. Defeated by Antigonus, ibid. d. His sad end, ibid. f.
- descent into Attica, 506, b.
- Cleonic war*, the causes of, ii. 630, & seq. 645. The success of, ibid. & seq.
- Cleomestra*, daughter of Tros, ii. 314, b.
- Cleon*, the orator, sent to Sphacteria, ii. 509. Descent into Thrace, 512. Defeated and killed, ibid. & 597, c.
- Cleopatra*, the common name of the Egyptian princesses, iii. 665, a.
- put to death by Antigonus, iii. 436, a.
- married to Ptolemy, 550, c. Wife of Demetrius, marries Sidetes, 606, c. Shares Syria with Zebina, 611. Murders her own son, 612, a. Her death and character, 613, c, d.
- wife of Phylcon, invites Demetrius against him, 610, & seq.
- daughter of Phylcon, marries Cyzicenus, 613, & seq. Murdered by her sister, 614, e. Her coin, 622, (W).
- wife of Philometor, left regent, 654, d. Cruelly used by Phylcon, 655, & seq. Divorced, 656, e. Takes refuge in Syria, 657, & seq.
- the wife of Phylcon, left regent, 658, f. Her ambition and partiality, ibid. & seq. Treachery to Lathyrus, 659. Drives him out of Phenice, 661, b. Murdered by her son, 662. Falsely confounded with the former, 664, (I).
- daughter of Lathyrus, succeeds him, 664, & seq. Marries Alexander II. 665, e. Assassinated by him, ibid. d.
- daughter of Auletes, married to her brother, 672. Driven out by her ministers, 673, b. Privately carried to Cæsar, reenthroned by him, 678, & seq. Goes to Mark Antony at Turius, 679. Her magnificence and profuseness, 680. Cruelty and avarice, 681, & seq. Takes the name of Isis, 683, c. Fatal counsel to M. Antony, 684, d, e. Treachery to him, 685, & seq. Surprised by Proculeius, 688, c—e. Buries M. Antony, 689. Outwits Octavian, ibid. & seq. Kills herself, 690. Her character and funeral, ibid. & seq. (See also vol. v. 151, & seq.).
- the wife of Antiochus Pius, put to death by Tigranes, 701, c.
- mother of Lathyrus, opposes him in Judea, iv. 98, c.
- Friendship to the Jews, ibid. & seq. Careless to Herod, 126, c. Intrigues against him, 133, & seq. Reception in Judea, 135, c. Her character, ibid. & seq. Hellish plot against Herod, 136, c, d.
- one of Herod's wives, 152, sub not. Supplants Archelaus, 186.
- Selene married to Juba, v. 167, e. 294, b.
- joins with the Triumvirs, 232, e. Shipwrecked, 236, b. Summoned by Antony, 261. Her learning, wit, &c. ibid. c, d. Captivates him, 284, b, c. Goes with him into Europe, 285, & seq. Treachery to him, 290, d. At Actium, 292, d. Carried in triumph in effigy, 294, f.
- her daughter made queen of Libya, 285.
- Cleopbes*, queen of India, subdued by Alexander, iii. 387, & seq.
- Cleopbon* assassinated at Athens, ii. 529, a.
- Clepbis* chosen king, and murdered, vii. 622, b.
- Clergy*, their immunities under Constantine, vi. 248, c, d. 251, pass. Under Constantius, 277, b. 279, a. 302, e. Rewarded by Jovian, 344, b, c. Curtailed by Valentinian, 357, c. Enlarged by Gratian, 382, c, d. By Honorius, 459, c. By Marcian, 501, d, e.
- British, their horrid degeneracy, vii. 439, f. 452, b, c.
- Clients*, at Rome, what, iv. 426, a.
- Clinias*, king of Sicyon, killed, ii. 643, (B).
- Clitander* put to death for oppression, iii. 473, & seq.
- Clitomachus's* writings and character, vi. 709, c, f.
- Clitor*, king of Arcadia, ii. 379.
- Clodebald*, the supposed elder brother of Meroue, vii. 562, d. Deprived by him of the crown, ibid.
- Clodia*, married to Octavian, v. 224, (A). Divorced, 263, e.
- Clodio*, king of the Franks, vii. 550, c. Settles afresh in Gaul, ibid. d. His character and reign, 559, & seq. Found the French monarchy, 560, a. Why surnamed Long-haired ibid. b. His conquests and death, ibid. & seq.
- Clodius, Pub.* his revenge against the king of Cyprus, iii. 184, & seq. Unjust decree against that kingdom, 606, f. Raises a mutiny against Lucullus, 706, b—f. Lewdness and sacrilege, v. 109, & seq. Courted by Pompey, 111. Chosen tribune, 114, c. Cabals against Cicero, ibid. & seq. Banishes him, 116, b, c. Opposes his recall, 118, & seq. How killed by Milo, 125, & seq.
- Clodomir's* success against Sigismund, vii. 586, pass. Defeated and killed, 587, a, b.
- Clondicus*, who, iii. 439, f. Outwitted by Perseus, ibid. & seq.
- Clotbilda*. See Chlothilda, vii. 567, & seq.
- Cloris*, Clodoveus, king of the Franks, vii. 550, c. Fixes his seat at Paris, ibid. f. His birth, 566, b. Dominions and conquests, ibid. & seq. Stratagems to gain Chlothilda, 567, & seq. Defeats the Alemans, 568, c, f. His conversion and baptism, 569, d—f. When, 570, a. The first christian king, ibid. d, e. Wars with the Burgundi, 571, & seq. Defeats them, 572, & seq. Falls out with Alaric, 573, & seq. Interview with him, 575, b, c. Defeats and kills him, ibid. & seq. Zeal for the catholics, 576, c. Conquests, ibid. & seq. Peace with Theodoric, 577, b, c. Made consul by Anastasius, ibid. d, e. Treachery to Sigebert, and his son, 578, b—d. Proclaimed king, ibid. e, f. Seizes on their dominions, 579, a—c. Dethrones and murders Chararic, and his son, ibid. d, e. And some other princes, ibid. & seq. His death and progeny, 580, d, e. Division of his kingdom, ibid. c, f.
- success against Theodoric, v. 521, d.
- Cluentius* defeated and killed by Sylla, v. 52, d.
- Cluilius*, king of Alba, outwitted by Tullus, iv. 439. His sudden death, ibid. d, e.
- † Clupea, taken and evacuated by the Romans, iv. 662, f. 666, d. Where sited, vi. 667, b. 837, a.
- † Cypsedra, the foundation of, at Athens, v. 274, (L).
- Clypeus*, at Rome, what, 401, (Z).
- Clytænes*, head of the Acmonian faction, banished, ii. 456, d.
- Clytemnestra*, her fabulous birth, 401. Agamemnon's wife, 357, c. Killed by Orestes, ibid.
- Clytus*, killed by Alexander, iii. 375, & seq. & (W).
- Cneii*, at Rome, who, v. 199, b.
- Cneius*, Pompey's son, hindered from killing Cicero, v. 155, e.
- Joins Cato at Utica, 157, b.
- Cneph*, the architect of the world, according to the Egyptians, i. 13, d. How represented, ibid.
- Cnidians*, enfranchised by Cæsar, v. 149, a.
- † Cnidus, whether in Cyprus or no, iii. 174, c.
- Cniwa*, a Bathian prince, vii. 492, d. Success and ravages in Thrace, 494, c—f. The murderer of Decius, ibid. c.
- Cnixus*, a Gaulish slave defeated and killed, v. 97, c.
- † Cœa's stiffs described, iii. 212, c.
- Coans*, their government, kings, wars, &c. iii. 213, a.
- Cocab*, the Cavades of the Persians, his treason, reign, and death, iv. 388, & seq.
- Cocalus*, king of Sicily, murders Minos, iii. 13, b.
- † Cocæus, the famed mountain of, iii. 839, c.
- Cocceus, Nerva*, accompanies Tiberius, v. 430, a. Starves himself to death, 448, e.
- Code* of Justinian, vi. 484, b. 530, pass. Of Theodosius, ibid. Gives way to a second, 530, f.
- † Cadropolis, where situate, v. 270, c, (H).

Codrus

Codrus sacrifices his life for his country, ii. 368, & seq.

— funeral of Pompey the great, v. 150, (B).

† Carlo-Syria, the same with Syria Cava, i. 361, c. Reduced by Alexander, iii. 337, & seq.

† Cælius, mount, whence so called, iv. 430.

† Cænacula, at Rome, described, iv. 427, c.

† Cænina, where situated, iv. 429, (X).

— taken by Romulus, ibid. c.

† Cænomanes settle in Italy, iv. 561, f. vii. 391, d.

Cænus, king of Macedon, iii. 273, a.

— wounded at Guagamela, 350, & seq. Made commander of Bactria, 382, d. Defeats the rebels there, 383. Speech in behalf of the soldiers, 394, & seq. His death, 396, in fin. (F).

Cæus, why made king of Lesbos, iii. 106, f. And stoned, ibid.

Cognomen, among the Romans, what, iv. 444, (Z).

Coborts, their division and office, v. 298, b. How regulated by Adrian, vi. 47, c. Their different stations in Britain, vii. 418, pass.

† Coimbra, taken and plundered by the Suevi, vii. 514, e. 546, c. 547, a.

Coin, first invented by the Lydians, ii. 531, b. And of iron by the Spartans, 565, c. Where first made, iii. 244.

— of Macedon, 267. Of Syria, 620, & seq. (W). When first coined at Rome, iv. 457, c. How ordered, v. 355, (I). False coiners severely punished, vi. 194, d.

Colæus's fortunate voyage to Thessaly, iii. 189, b.

† Colchi, whether the Cashluhim of Moses, i. 344, (K). Tributary to Persia, ii. 69, a.

Colchian war begun, iv. 352, & seq. Ended, 356, d.

† Colchis, an Egyptian colony, i. 256. Part of Scythia, ii. 267, c. Described, iii. 832. Its origin, kings, &c. 833. Gold mines, 834, c.—c. Subdued by Mithridates, ibid. f. Submits to Trajan, vi. 18, c.

† Collatia, taken by Tarquin, iv. 447, e.

Collatinus, whence so called, iv. 447, c. Defeated, 448, b. — chosen consul, 466. Partiality to the conspirators, 479, f. 481, (X). Deposed, ibid. c.

† Collipo, a city in Lusitania, vii. 297, b.

† Collops magnus, its ruins, vii. 109, c.

† — parvas, ditto, 110, a.

† Colonia, the strongest city in Armenia, 693, c.

— whence called Agrippina, v. 508, b. Declares for Vellutius, v. 599, a. Taken by the Franks, vi. 296, c. Retrieved by Julian, 297, c.

† — Cologn, the metropolis of the Ubii, vii. [407], e.

— taken by the Franks, 556, a. By Julian, ibid. c. By Clodio, 561, & seq. Destroyed by the Alemans, 591.

† Colophon, by whom founded, ii. 369, d. The state of, 753, b. Described, iii. 559, a.

† Colosse, a city in Phrygia, ii. 293, c. Colossus of Rhodes described, iii. 130, & seq. Overturned, 131, b. Its weight, ibid. c. Destroyed by the Saracens, 544, d, e.

Colour of white and black men, how accounted for, i. 47, d, e.

† Colpas, a river in Bithynia, iii. 827, b.

Colpias, a wind, and his wife Beau, the parents of the first men, i. 47, d, e, (N).

† Colpitis, Phœnice, whence so named, i. 391, d, (A).

† Colubraria, island, described, vii. 309, a.

† Columns of Hermes, in Egypt, i. 222, d.

† Comana, a city in Pontus, iii. 721, a. In Cappadocia, 762.

Combabus, the founder of the priests of the Syrian goddess; his story, i. 374, d, &c.

Combats, single, an ancient way of deciding, ii. 360, b.

Comes domesticorum, his office, vi. 171, b.

Comet, the traject of one supposed to have caused the flood, i. 101, a, (N).

— two large ones at the birth of Mithridates, iii. 727, a, (P).

— one in Nero's reign, v. 535, f. Under Theodosius, vi. 416, b.

— under Constantine, 155, f. Under Ducas, 603.

† Cominium, taken by the Romans, iv. 637, d.

Cominus defeats the Volsci, iv. 492, f. Generosity to Cai. Marcel, 493, b.

— Pontius, swims down the Tiber to the capitol, 564, e, f.

Comites, their office, vi. 271, c. 272, a.

— Britanniarum, ditto, vii. 417, a. Extensive power, 419, a, b.

Comitum, whence so called, 432, (E).

Comius, made king of the Atrebrates, vii. 421, c. Imprisoned, 422, f.

† Commagene, part of Syria, i. 360, d. The kingdom of, described, iii. 853, & seq. Subdued by the Romans, ibid. f. Restored to Antiochus, v. 461, e, f.

Commandments. See Decalogue, i. 514, & seq.

Commentariensis, a gaoler, his office, vii. 417, a.

Commentiolus's success against the Persians, vi. 535, a, b. Put to death by Phocas, 536, c. 538, c. See also vol. iv. 360, c. 364, a.

Commerce, the origin of, after the flood, i. 173, e, f.

† Commodiana Colonia, Rome whence so called, vi. 92, f.

Commodianus's writings and character, vi. 275, sub not.

Commodus, L. Ver. See under Verus, vi. 44, & seq.

— the emperor born, 62, c. Created Cæsar, 65, c. Takes the manly robe, 76, c. Tribuneship, 78, b. Legitimacy doubtful, ibid. d. & 85, b. Consulship, 79, c. Marries Crispina, 80, a. His character and bloody reign, 85, & seq. Herculean feats, 86, b, c. Rapines, ibid. & seq. Peace with the Marcomani, &c. 87, a. Triumph, ibid. Takes the name of Pius, ibid. b. Britannicus, ibid. d. Escapes being murdered, 88, a. His cruel prosecutions, ibid. & seq. Retires to Laurentum, 90, d. Assaulted in his palace, 91, b, c. New butcheries, ibid. & seq. Mad exploits, 92, d, e. Changes the names of the months, ibid. c. Conspired against, 93, b, c. Strangled, ibid. f. Burial, 94, a, b. His good deeds, ibid. Catamites sold to Pertinax, 97, pass. Letter to Albinus in Britain, 102, (K). Deified by Severus, 113, e.

Comneni, their residence at Trapezus, iii. 722, b. Their family, vii. 289, a, (B). Emperors of Trapezond, 290, & seq. Butchered by Mohammed II. 293, b—d.

Comnenus, Isaac, chosen emperor, vi. 601, f. Defeats Stratonice, 602, pass. Crowned, 603, a. Resigns, ibid. c, d.

— Alexius's success against Rufetius, 601, a, b. Stratagem against Bryennius, ibid. & seq. Against Basilicius, 608, a. Crowned emperor, ibid. & seq. Doth penance, 609, c. Peace with the Turks, ibid. d. Defeated by Guiscard, 610, pass. By the Scythians, 611, e. Signal victory over them, 612, a, &c. Peace with them, 613, a, b. Jealousy of the crusaders, 614, c, d. Treachery to them, 616, b. Success against the Turks, ibid. c. Quarrel with Bohemond, ibid. d. Peace with them, 617, a, b. Death and character, ibid. & seq.

— John, his son, proclaimed, ibid. d. His singular character, ibid. e. Victory and peace with the Turks, ibid. f. Success against sundry barbarians, 618. Reduces some provinces, ibid. b, c. Impious attempt upon Antioch, ibid. d, e. Death and character, ibid. & seq.

— Alexius II. See Alexius, 620, e.

Companies, Roman, erected by Numa, iv. 437, c.

Compitales Dii, who, iv. 455, c.

Compositus's revolt and death, vii. 687, b, c, (T).

† Compsa surrenders to Hannibal, vii. 32, d.

† Comum taken by the Romans, 690, d. The place of Pliny's birth, vi. 29, not. His benefactions to it, ibid.

Conacorex betrays Heraclea to the Romans, iii. 747, b.

† Concord, the temple of, why, and where built, iv. 582, c. A monument of Opimius's cruelty, 809, c. Repaired by Tiberius, v. 324, b.

Concetanus invades Rome, iv. 687, c, &c. Taken prisoner, 688, d.

Concubines suppressed by Constantine, vi. 256, e.

Confidius repulses Cæsar from Adrumentum, v. 158, d.

— Proculus put to death, 446, d.

Confusion of tongues. Vid. Tongues, i. 144, pass.

Congiaria, among the Romans, what, iv. 446, b.

† Conimbrica, a city in Lusitania, vii. 297, a.

Conon succeeds Alcibiades, ii. 528, b. His success against the Spartans, 143, d. 528, d. Engages Persia on the side of the Athenians, 536, b. 559, b. Rebuilds Athens, ibid. f, & 537, a. Defeated by Lyliander, 602, d. Accused before Artaxerxes, 144. Condemned, ibid. c.

— the Samian, his character, 195.

— the inventor of Berenice's coma, 639, f.

— Meriodox, comes into Britany, vi. 400, f.

— bishop, his bravery against the Romans, 519, c. Slain, ibid. d.

Cononeus, the betrayer of Tarentum, vii. 53, a—c.

† Conovium, Conoway, the ancient ruins of, vii. 411, f.

Constantia, the daughter of Constantius, vi. 226, c. Married to Licinius, 227, a. 250, c.

— the daughter of Constantine, born, 235, c. When converted, 244, c.

— daughter of Constantius, born, 314, a. Her narrow escape, 362, a.

Constantianus's rise and death, vi. 352, c.

Constantina, the widow of Annibalianus, vi. 266, a. Married to Gallus, 283, b. Instigates him by her pride and cruelty, 289, d, e. 291, c. Dies in her way to Italy, 292, d, e.

— the widow of Mauritius, racked and executed, 535, & seq.

— the city of, converted, 265, c.

† — Numidia, where sited, vii. 108, c. Described, 109, d.

Constantine, the family of, vi. 186, b. 226, c, f.

— the emperor, when and where born, 226, c. 227, b—c. Speech on Diocletian's abdication, 218, a. Censure of Porphyry, 224, sub not. Excellent character, 230, b—d.

Why hated by Galerius, 231, a—c. Outwits him, 232, b. Joins his father in Gaul, ibid. c, d. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. & seq. Severity to the Franks, 233, f. Bridge over the Rhine, 234, b, c. Allies with Maximian, 235, b.

Betrayed by him, 237, e, f. Forced to put him to death, 238, & seq. Whence furnished Maximus, 239, d, e. Marches against Maxentius, 242, d, e. 245. Miraculous conversion, 243, b, c, &c. Intrusted in the christian religion, 244, b, c. Success against Maxentius, 245, d, e. Singular dream and victory, 246, b—c. Mildness to the Maxentian, 247, a, b. Triumphal arch and honours, ibid. & seq.

- seq. Stops the persecution, 248, a. Cycle called indiction, 249, c. Whence intitled Franciscus, 250, f, & seq. Re-script in favour of the clergy, 251, & seq. Against schismatics, 252, a. Defeats Licinius, 254, c—e. Makes peace with him, ibid. & seq. His laws in Greece, 255, a. 256, pass. Success against the Sarmatians, 257, a. Against Licinius, ibid. & seq. Grants him a new peace in Asia, 258, & seq. Defeats and puts him to death, 259, a, b. Edict in favour of the christians, ibid. f. Against idolatry, 260, b—d. Heretics, ibid. e. At Nicomedia, ibid. & seq. Insulted at Rome, 261, b. Severity to Crispus and others, ibid. d, e. Fatal to his whole family, 262, a. Bridge over the Danube, ibid. c. Favours the Arians, ibid. e. Largestes to Constantinople, ibid. & seq. Defeats the Goths, &c. 262, d. 264, b, c. Generosity to Antioch, &c. ibid. d, e. Translation of the holy Scriptures, 265, c. Partiality to the Arians, ibid. & seq. Division of the empire, 266, a, b. Wars with the Persians, ibid. & seq. Last sickness, 267, a. By whom baptized, ibid. b. Death, ibid. d. Last will put into bad hands, ibid. e. Stately mausoleum, 268, b, c. And high encomiums, ibid. & seq. Vindicated, 269, & seq. Wholsome regulations, 270, & seq. Writings, 272, (F). The end of his family, 275, a.
- Constantine II. born, 235, c. Created Cæsar, 255, c. Share of the empire, 266, a. Proclaimed, 273, & seq. Title of Augustus, 275, a. Invades Constance, 276, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. d, & seq.
- III. chosen emperor in Britain, 454, b. Success in Gaul, ibid. & seq. In Spain, 455, c, d. Repulsed out of Italy, 465, c, d. Besieged in Arles, 466, c. Surrenders, and beheaded, 467, a, b.
- Constantine IV. the son of Heraclius, made Cæsar, 540, a. Meets his father's triumph, 542, b, c. Crowned and poisoned, 544, b, c.
- V. the son of Constance, proclaimed, 545, e. Why surnamed Pogonatus, ibid. f. Jealous of his two brothers, ibid. & seq. Makes peace with Mahuvias, 546, c, d. With the Bulgarians, ibid. e. Calls a council, ibid. Dies, ibid. f.
- VI. Copronymus, born, 551, e. Why so called, ibid. f. Proclaimed, 552, a. Marries Irene, 554, b. Deposed, ibid. d, e. His revenge, ibid. e, f. Success against the Saracens, ibid. & seq. Stopped by public calamities, 555, b, c. Invaded by the Bulgarians, ibid. c, d. Persecutes image-worshippers and friars, ibid. &c. Outwitted by the Bulgarian king, 556, a—c. His death, &c. ibid. & seq.
- VII. the son of Leo by Irene, made his colleague, 556, c. Crowned, 557, b. Conspired against, ibid. c. Confinned by his mother, ibid. & seq. Restored, and deposes her, 558, c. Cruelty to Nicephorus, and his friends, ibid. e. To the mutinous Armenians, ibid. f. Divorces Mary to marry Theodora, 559, a. Noble answer to Cordanes, ibid. b. Flight and death, ibid. & seq.
- VIII. the son of Michael, his Cæsarship and death, 573, e.
- IX. the son of Leo, born, 575. Kept under by Romanus, 577, a, b. 579, & seq. Resumes his power, 580. Severity to him and his family, ibid. f. Death, 581, f.
- X. the brother of Basilus, made his colleague, 585, b. Sole emperor after his death, 593. His wicked reign, ibid. & seq. Death, 594, b.
- XI. Monomachus, marries Zoe, 597, f. Crowned, 598, a. Success against the Saracens, ibid. b. Against the Turks, 600, pass. Death, 601, a.
- XII. Duca, chosen emperor, 603, c. His fatal avarice and death, ibid. & seq.
- XIII. Paleologus. See Paleologus, 649, & seq.
- Attilus's general, cut off in Africa, 461, d.
- the son of Andronicus, his narrow escape, 576, b. Timely warned by Leo, ibid. e. His treason and death, 578, b.
- Leo's high chamberlain, 576, e, f. Swears the Romans before the holy cross, 578. Poisoned by Romanus, 581, d. His character, ibid. & seq.
- the son of Andronic. Paleol. sent against his rebellious grandson, 639, d. Kept prisoner by him, ibid. e, f.
- the son of king Arthur, vii. 450, d. His wicked reign, 451, c, d.
- † Constantine's square burnt, 519.
- † Constantinople, when begun, vi. 262, d. Dedicated, ibid. e. Why built by Constantine, ibid. & seq. How adorned, 263, b—d. Consecrated, ibid. e. Governed, ibid. f. & 305. Beautified by Constantine, 315, e, f. By Julian, 327, b. In danger from the Goths, 433, d, e. Threatened with a fiery sky, 437, e. Shattered by an earthquake, 447, e. The great church of it, burnt, 451. In a tumult, for want of corn, 463, a, b. Surrounded with new walls, 469, c. Burnt by a three days fire, 482, f. Damaged by an earthquake, 489, b. By a six days fire, 508. The city and library burnt, 515. In a tumult through various factions, 525, f. Thirty thousand persons killed in it, 526, b, c. Laid waste by pestilence and the Huns, 529, pass. Besieged by the Saracens, 546, b. Surprised by Justinian, 549, a. Taken by Theodosius, 550, e. Noble defence against the Saracens, 551, b, c. Damaged by an earthquake, 554, c. Taken and plundered, ibid. e, f. Both seas of it frozen, 555, e. Damaged by a great fire, 558, b. And earthquake, ibid. c. Plundered and ravaged, 558, b.
- VOL. VII. N^o. 10.
- 608, e, f. Besieged by Alexius, 625, e, f. Set on fire, 526, d. Besieged by the Latins, 627, b, c. Taken and plundered, ibid. e, f. Retaken by the Greeks, 633, d, e. Rebuilt, 634, a, b. Besieged by Bajazet, 646, f, & seq. Relieved, 647, c, d. Blockaded by Mohammed II. 649, & seq. Besieged, 650, d. Taken, and put to the sword, 653, d. Made the capital of the Turkish empire, ibid. f, & seq.
- Constant I. the son of Constantine, born, vi. 235, c. Made Cæsar, 259, e. 264, d. His share of the empire, 266, a. Proclaimed, 274, a. Styled Augustus, 275, a. Defeats and kills his brother, 276, c, d. Marches against the Franks, ibid. e, f. And Scots, 277, b. His zeal for orthodoxy, 278, a. Murdered, 280, d. His character vindicated, ibid. & seq.
- Constant II. the son of the British Constantine, made Cæsar, 455, c. Conquers Spain, ibid. d. Driven out of it, 462, e. Chosen consul, 469, c. Married to Placidia, 472, b, c.
- III. the grandson of Heraclius, crowned, 544, c. Great disasters during his reign, ibid. d, e. Promotes Monethelism, ibid. e. Defeated at sea, ibid. f. Wars against the Slavi, ibid. & seq. Peace with the Saracens, 545, a. Fratricide, ibid. b. Dismal condition since, ibid. c, d. Extortions and death, ibid. d, e.
- why he invaded Italy, vii. 694, d—f. Repulsed before Benevento, 695, a—d. Other defeats, ibid. d—f. Enters Rome, ibid. & seq.
- Constantius Chlorus made Cæsar by Maximian, vi. 209, e, f. His share of the empire, 210, a, b. Success in Gaul, 211. Buildings and works there, ibid. e, f. Sails into Britain, 212, b, c. Up the Thames, ibid. e. Success against the Alemans, 215, d. Declared emperor, 218, d. His extract, 224, a. Rise and character, 225, a—c. Generous way of raising money, ibid. e, f. Protects the christians, 226, b, c. Discards the apostates, ibid. d, e. New share of the empire, 231, c. Success against the Britons, 232, d. Death and obsequies, ibid. & seq. The first wearer of a diadem, 279, a.
- the son of Constantine, 235, c. 256, a. His share of the empire, 266, a. Marries his uncle's daughter, ibid. e. Made executor to his father, 267, d. Performs his obsequies, 268, b, c. Proclaimed, 274, a. Whether the murderer of his relations, ibid. b, c. Wars with the Armenians, 276, a—c. Yields Constantine's share to Constance, ibid. e, f. Triumphs over the Persians, 277, c. Marches against Maxentius, 282, b—d. Artful speech to his army, ibid. & seq. Success, 283, e. Pity and clemency to the Maxentians, 285, b. Enters Italy, ibid. & seq. Affection for Eusebia, 286, c. Success against Magnentius, 287, e, f. Clemency to the revolted, 288, b. Contradicted by other authors, ibid. c, &c. Hates the orthodox, 289, b. Success against the Alemans, 290, c, &c. Enters Italy, ibid. e, f. Design against Gallus frustrated, 291, b—d. Puts him to death, 292, b—d. His abominable pride, ibid. f. Success against the Germans, 294, c, d. Directions to Julian, when made Cæsar, 297, a. Success in Rhetia, ibid. & seq. Grand entry into Rome, 293, a. Takes the honour of Julian's victories, 301, e, f. Answer to Sapor's haughty letter, 302, f, & seq. Success and cruelties in Sarmatia, 303, 305. Marches against Sapor, 308, c, d. Policy and menaces against Julian, 310, & seq. Stirs up the Germans against him, 313, e, f. Marries Faustina, 314, a. His death, baptism, &c. ibid. & seq. Library at Constantinople, 315, c.
- Julius, the son of Chlorus, his death, 186, f.
- the brother of Constantine, 266, e. Made a patrician, 271, f, & seq. Murdered by the soldiers, 275, a.
- Theodosius's general, his character and success against Constantine, 466, b, c. Succeeds him, ibid. d. Chosen consul, 469, c. Baffles Atulphius, 470, b. Raised to the purple, 473, d. His death, ibid. e.
- the Gaul, crucified by Attila, vii. 466, a.
- Consulars, among the Romans, their office, vi. 271, b, c.
- Consulate shortened to three months, vi. 10, b.
- Consul, when first chosen at Rome, iv. 466, c. Their office, dress, &c. ibid. (S). Oath against the Tarquins, 468, a. Suppressed by the decemvirs, 535, & seq. Restored, 543, f. 561, & seq. When first chosen from the plebeians, 582, e.
- in Italy, their office, &c. 721, b, (B).
- Consulships, reckoning by, abolished, vi. 526, d. Restored by Justin II. ibid. e.
- Contrasts, how made among the Scythians, ii. 273.
- Cooks, at Rome, reduced by Julian, vi. 325, e.
- Cooks, the son of Antenor, killed, ii. 315, b.
- Cos confederates against Athens, ii. 542, e.
- † Copais, the spring-head of the Alopis, ii. 361, d. Described, 317, d. 744, (G).
- Coptic letters, whether the modern be the same with the old Egyptian, i. 224, (M). The Coptic alphabet, 225. Tongue, how compounded, 226. Different from all other known ones, ibid. b, c.
- † Coptos, an ancient city of Thebais, i. 175, e. The residence of the ancient Egyptians, ibid. Destroyed, vi. 213.
- † Corax, a river in Colchis, iii. 833, c.
- Corban, the offerings of living creatures, why so called, i. 624, (A).
- Corbulo sent to quiet Armenia, iii. 713, c, d. His severe discipline, ibid. & seq. Success against Tiridates, 714, & seq. Interview with him, 716, d, e.

- Corbulo Domitius*, his success against Vologeses, iv. 318, & seq.
- † Corcyra island described, iii. 240, & seq. Invaded by the Corinthians, ii. 496, c. The dreadful sedition of, 506, & seq. 509, & seq.
- † — the metropolis of the island, iii. 240, d. Betrayed to the Romans, iv. 685, f. Taken by Manuel, vi. 619, c.
- † Corcyreans, a colony of Corinth, ii. 495. War with the Epidamnians, ibid. & seq. Treachery to the Spartans, &c. ibid. c. Their government, navigation, &c. iii. 240, d. Treachery to the Greeks, ibid. f. Protected by the Samians, 190, b. War with the Corinthians, 280, a.
- † Corduba, a city in ancient Spain, vii. 301, a.
- † Corfinium made the capital of the Marsi, v. 49, a. Of the Peligni, 133, a. Surrendered to Cæsar, ibid. b. (G).
- † Corinth, the kingdom of, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Described, 390, a. When, and by whom founded, 392. Subdued by the Heraclides, ibid. d. The whole duration of it, 393.
- † — the city of, by whom built, 390, c. Why so called, ibid. And Heliopolis, ibid. d. Described, 391, a, b. Its situation, opulence, and buildings, ibid. & seq. Besieged by Agesilaus, 612, f. Surprised by Aratus, 643. Accedes to the Achæan league, ibid. & seq. Taken and burnt by the Romans, 698, & seq. Burnt by the Heruli, vi. 184, d. Damaged by an earthquake, 523, f. In great joy at Timoleon's victory, 785, c, d.
- † — the citadel of, taken by Comatus, iii. 473, f. By Aratus, 474, b. See also Acrocorinth.
- Corinthian order*, whence, ii. 361, c.
- metal, what, 699, b, & not.
- † Corinthians given to traffick, ii. 391, a. 392, b. Their character, antiquity, and government, ibid. & seq. Kings, 393, & seq. Subdued by the Doræ, 394, d. Invade Corcyra, 496, c. Engage them at sea, 497. Their politic treatment of their prisoners, 506, & seq. Reject the Nicæan peace, 512, f. Joins with the Achæans, 643, & seq. Affront the Roman deputies, 695, a. Subdued and sold for slaves, 698, & seq.
- restore liberty to Syracuse, iii. 77, c, d. War with the Samians, why, 190, b. With the Corcyreans, 280. Their noble defence of Syracuse, vi. 775, a—d. And of its citadel, 779, c, d. Take Acradina, ibid. f.
- Corintus*, whose son he was, ii. 390, d, & not.
- Coriolanus's* bravery, iv. 492. Defeats the Antiates, 493. Falls out with the tribunes, 494, d. Speech to the Curiz, 495, b. Condemned to death, ibid. d, & seq. His noble defence, 497, b. Banished, ibid. & seq. Goes to the Volsci, 498, & seq. Stratagem and revenge, 499, pass. Answer to the deputies, 500, pass. To the priests, ibid. f. To his mother, 502, b. Accused by Attius, ibid. c. His death, ibid. & seq.
- Corioli* defeated by the Romans, iv. 493, a.
- † Coritani, who, and where sit, vii. 410, a, b.
- Coritus*, king of Samothrace, ii. 319, a, & not.
- his offspring, iv. 418, d.
- † Cornavii, who, and where sit, vii. 410, c, d.
- Cornelia* refuses Phylcon's offers, iii. 652.
- a poisoner, put to death, iv. 605, a.
- the mother of Gracchus, incites him to sedition, 789, d. Her two letters to Caius, 800, c, (X).
- Julia Paula, married to Helioagalus, vi. 135, a. Her excellent character, ibid. b.
- Cornelius Cetbegus* cabals against Marcellus, iii. 126, b. Subdues the rest of Sicily, 127, b.
- a centurion, converted by St. Peter, iv. 256, & seq.
- Malagin, defeats the Æqui, 526.
- Arvina, chosen consul, 595, f. Hemmed in by the Samnites, 596, f. Defeats them, 597, c. Second consulship, 635, c. Kills thirty thousand Samnites, 626, a.
- Barbatus, chosen dictator, 626, b.
- Scipio. See under Scipio, 629, & seq.
- Lentulus triumphs over the Lusitanians, 647, a. Over the Gauls, 682, b.
- Asina, his success in Sicily, 666. Triumph, 667, c.
- prætor of Sardinia, dies of the plague, 683, d.
- Tiber. Coruncian, a plebeian, chosen consul, 646. And pontifex maximus, 668. Degrades thirteen lewd senators, ibid. e.
- Cornicularii*, in Britain, their office, vii. 417, a.
- † Corniculum taken by Tarquin, iv. 447, c.
- † Cornwall, made part of the West-Saxon kingdom, vii. 449, c.
- † Coromæa plundered by the Romans, ii. 720, f. 744, f, & (H).
- Coromæ Silicius* stands alone in Brutus's defence, v. 221, a. Assassinated by Octavia, ibid. b.
- Correptors*, at Rome, their office, vi. 271, b, c.
- † Corfica conquered by the Romans, iv. 660, b. Revolts, 682, d. Reduced by Varus, ibid. c. Made a Roman province, 684, f.
- when invaded by the Carthaginians, vi. 731, a, b. Described, ibid. c. Reduced by Scipio, 833, & seq.
- † Cortona, and other leucumones, make truce with Rome, iv. 623, a.
- † Cortuosa taken and demolished, iv. 569.
- Corvilius's* success against Samnium, iv. 636, & seq.
- Maxim, quite subdues it, 647, c, f.
- Corvus*, a warlike engine, by whom invented, iv. 638, b. Described, ibid. &c. See also vii. 831, (M). Whether different from the manus ferrea, ibid. (N).
- † Corybantes, whence sprung, ii. 297, d, & (W). Among the Phœnicians, who, vi. 694, b.
- Corybas*, the son of Cybele by Jafus, 297, d, (W). Goes into Phrygia, iii. 240, a.
- Corycus*, the naval fight of, iii. 555, c, d.
- † Cos, island, described, iii. 272, d. Taken by Nicander, 205, c. Subdued by Mithridates, 213, b. By the Romans, ibid. c, d.
- † — metropolis, described, 212, d. Overthrown, 213, vi. 59, a. Repaired by Antoninus, ibid. b.
- † Cosentia surrenders to Hannibal, vii. 41, b. Revolts to the Romans, 50, d.
- Cossi*, prince of Albania, killed by Pompey, iii. 838, d, c.
- Cosmi* in Crete, their office, iii. 170, b.
- Cosmogony* of the Phœnicians, Egyptians, &c. See under their respective names, i.
- Cosroes*, king of Parthia, his success in Armenia, iv. 319. Driven out by Trajan, ibid. & seq. Recalled by the Parthians, 320.
- a great favourite of the Carites, iv. 176, (L).
- invaded by Trajan, vi. 16, e, f. Submits, 17, b. Gives him the slip, 21, a. His golden throne seized by him, ibid. b. Recalled by Adrian, 33, d.
- invades Syria, 526, c, f. Destroys Antioch, ibid. f. Makes peace with Justinian, 527, b. Treachery to him, ibid. c. Repulsed by Belisarius, ibid. c, f. Before Edessa, 528, a. Truce with Rome, ibid. f. Sees for peace, 529, c. Renews the war, 532, b, c. New truce made and broken, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated, and breaks his heart, 533, a, b.
- the son of Hormisdas, forced to depose him, 535, c. Driven from the kingdom, ibid. d. Restored by Mauritius, ibid. e. Wars against Phocas, 536, c. Devastations in Syria, 538, b, c. In Cappadocia, &c. 539, d. In Egypt, Palestine, &c. ibid. e. Blasphemous answer to Heraclius, 540, a. Defeated by him, ibid. & seq. Bloody revenge on the christians, 541, c. Deposed and murdered, 542, a, b.
- † Cossa, why forsaken by its inhabitants, vi. 477, not.
- Cossians*, why subdued by Alexander, iii. 408.
- Cossus, Cornel.* kills Tolomæus, iv. 548, f. Chosen consul, 550, c. General of horse, ibid. e. Consul, 554, c. Dictator, 571. Defeats the Volci, ibid. d.
- his singular secrecy, v. 449, a.
- † Cossyra, island, described, vi. 671, (E).
- † Cossyrus taken by Servilius, vii. 27, b.
- Costobares* put to death by Herod, iv. 140, d.
- † Cotes, promontory, where, vii. 145, c.
- † — port, 146, c.
- † Cotban, one of the three parts of Carthage, vi. 662. Its etymon, ibid. & seq.
- Cotta's* ill success against Mithridates, iii. 740, & seq. (v. 95, c, d). Against Hercules, 746. Returns to Rome, 747, c, d. Successful consulate, v. 1, a. Pleads for Dolabella, 90, b. Law in favour of the tribunes, 92, b. Made proprietor of Sardinia, 131, f. Driven out by the Caraceni, 134, b. Proposes making Cæsar king, 181.
- Messallinus's trial, 443, c, (S). Pardon by Tiberius, 444, a, (T).
- † Cotta, mount, in Mauritania, vii. 146, a.
- † Cottius, the kingdom of, where situate, iv. 408, a.
- M. Jul. advanced by Claudius, v. 497, c.
- Cotys*, second king of Lydia, ii. 332, b.
- I. king of the Odrysæ, assassinated, iii. 792, b.
- II. joins the Persians against Macedon, 485.
- III. allies with the Romans, 793, a.
- IV. made king by Brutus, ibid. b.
- V. murdered by his brother, ibid. d, e.
- king of the Sapæi, 794, f. Murdered, 795, a.
- king of Thrace, made king of Arabia, v. 464, d.
- † Coviat castle, its noble defence against the Goths, vii. 513, d.
- Council* of Arles, vi. 254, a, b. Of Nice, 260, c. Of Tyre, 265, c. Of Jerusalem, ibid. f. Of Sardica, 277, c. Second of Arles, 289, b. Of Milan, 294, b. Of Constantinople, 395, f. Of Ephesus, 482, c. Of Chalcedon, 498, a. Of Constantinople, 546, c. Second of Nice, 560, c. 570, e, f. Of Clermont, decrees the holy war, 613, f. Of Lyons, 635, c, f. Of Florence, unites the Greek and Latin churches, 649, a, b.
- Counts*, whence derived, vi. 172, b. Of Afric, their origin, v. 474, a.
- in Italy, their origin, &c. vii. 720, f.
- Cousin Germans* forbid to intermarry, vi. 404, c, d. That law, when put into the code, ibid. e.
- † Coway stakes, whence so called, vii. 448, c.
- Cowardice*, how punished by the Athenians, ii. 433, c.
- Coxbi*, a Midianitish prince, killed by Phineas, i. 303, b.
- Cranaus*, king of Athens, dethroned, ii. 363, c.
- Craffus* defeated and killed in Pergamos, iii. 782, d, e.
- succeeds Gabinus in Judea, iv. 115. Plunders the temple, ibid. c, d. Sent into Syria, 294, c. His motley character,

- rather, ibid. & seq. Invades Parthia, 296, b. Extortions and sacrilege in Syria, 296, & seq. Answer to the Parthian ambassadors, 297, b, c. March through Mesopotamia, 298, f. Betrayed by Abgarus, 299, d, e. Becomes infatuated, 300. Defeated by the Parthians, 302, & seq. Retires into Carrhae, 303. Betrayed to Surenas, ibid. & seq. His death, 305.
- Cassius's* son accompanies him into Parthia, 296, c. Defeated and killed, 301, & seq.
- Licinius impeaches Papyr. Carbo, v. 1, & seq. A severe judge, 4, d. See the rest under Licinius, 46, & seq.
- Pub. Marc. murdered, 65, a.
- M. defeats the Samnites, and saves Rome, 74, b, c.
- Licin. sent against the Spartans, 97, f. Kills twenty-two thousand rebels, 98, b, c. Defeats and kills Spartacus, and forty thousand rebels, ibid. d, e. Falls out with Pompey, ibid. & seq. Disbands his army, 99, b. His profuse popularity, ibid. c, & c. Favours Cætiline's conspiracy, 104, a. Strives to clear himself, 105, (M). Accused by L. Tarquin, 106, f. His immense riches, 111, b. Security for Cæsar, 112, a. Reconciled to Pompey, ibid. d, e. Chosen consul with him, 121, c. Passes into Asia, 123, c. Defeated and killed, 125, b.
- the son of the triumvir, his friendship to Cicero, 115, b, c. Success against the Veneti, & c. 120, d, (Z). Slain in Asia, 125, b.
- Frugi put to death by Messalina, 499, b.
- his conspiracy against Nerva, vi. 4, f. Banished, 5, a.
- against Trajan, 16, c. Banished, and put to death, 91, c.
- Cassius's* bravery at Pharsalia, v. 144, d. Honourable funeral, 146, a.
- Craterus*, protector after Alexander's death, iii. 417. Sent against Eumenes, 421. Defeated and killed, 422.
- assists Antipater, 450. His death, 451.
- treason against Archelaus, 284. Defeats the Massagetes, 382, c. And other rebels, 385, c. Made governor of Andacia, 386, d.
- defeated in Crete, vi. 566, e, f. Crucified, 567, a.
- Crates's* kind reception of Cantacusan, vi. 644, c. Falls out with him, 645, b.
- Cratæcia* queen of Sparta's signal love to her country, ii. 629, f. 631, f, & seq.
- Cratippolis*, her conduct and bravery, iii. 460, a.
- Cratippus's* interview with routed Pompey, v. 142, b.
- Cratimandus's* treachery to Caractacus, vii. 430, c. De-throned, ibid.
- Cratæion*, the true notion of, i. 2, b. Moses's account of, explained, 41, e. — c. Of man, 44, a. The time and season, 48, a, b. Whether complete in six days, ibid. & c.
- † Creacæford, the battle of, vii. 445, b.
- Creditor's*, their power on their debtors clipped, iv. 608. Hard laws against, revived, 641, & seq.
- † Cremena, given to the disbanded Romans, v. 262, d. Set on fire by Primus, 627, a. Surrendered to him, ibid. c, d. Plundered and burnt, ibid. e. When founded, ibid. (W). Rebuilt, 628, a.
- the battle of, 625, & seq.
- Creon*, prince of Thebes, his cruelty to his niece, ii. 374, d. The same with Glaucus, 398, b, & (L).
- the first annual archon at Athens, 418.
- Cres*, one of the Curetes, iii. 164, not. King of Crete, 165, a.
- Cresphontes*, made king of Mycene, ii. 360. Murdered by his nobles, ibid. & c.
- Cret*, the son of Jupiter, from whom Crete, ii. 263.
- Cretan historian's account of him, iii. 263.
- laws and polity, 596.
- † Cretan sea, the isles of, 214, & seq.
- † Cretans, whence, iii. 162, & seq. Their colonies, 164, a. Government, kings, & c. ibid. & seq. Come into Sicily, 126, c. 166, d. Their laws, 167, & seq. Degeneracy, 168. Reduced into a commonwealth, 170, b, c. Their civil war, ibid. d, e. Enslaved by the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- † Crete island, described, iii. 159, & seq. By whom first inhabited, ibid. The kings of, 164, & seq. & (K). Subdued by the Romans, 170, & seq. Whence called Candia, vi. 566, d. Recovered by the Romans, 582.
- Cretes*, king of Crete, iii. 164, d.
- Creteus*, king of Crete, 369, b. Killed, ibid.
- Crius*, king of Argos, ii. 353, a.
- Criminals* executed out of Jerusalem, iv. 239, (X). How buried, 242, d. A terrible sight of them exhibited at Berytus, 261, in fin. (U).
- at Rome inflicted, 615, e. Condemned to the mines, vi. 261, a. Released at the feast of Easter, 395, b. Condemned to death, respited for thirty days, 396, d, e.
- Crispina* married to Commodus, vi. 80, a. Banished and murdered, 88, a.
- Crispinilla*, one of Nero's bands, v. 589, d. Her plot to famish Rome, ibid.
- Crispinus, Ruf.* turned out by Agrippina, v. 508, e. Put to death by Nero, 561, d.
- a centurion, murders Capito, 589, d. Put to death, 599, d.
- Varus, the innocent cause of a sedition, 603, b. And of his own death, ibid. c.
- Crispinus, Tullius*, made prætor of the guards, vi. 100, f. Sent to assassinate Severus, 106, f. Cut in pieces, ibid. b.
- noble defence of Aquileia, 158.
- Quint. diverted from besieging Locri, vii. 64, b. Defeat and escape, ibid. d.
- Crispus, Marc.* joins Cassius in Syria, v. 218.
- the father of Claudia, vi. 186, b.
- the son of Constantine, born, 220, e. Made Cæsar, 255, c. His character, 256, a. Defeats the Franks, ibid. c. And Licinius at sea, 258, e, d. Falsely accused by Fausta, 261, b. Put to death, c.
- Critias*, one of the thirty tyrants of Athens, ii. 530, c. His treachery to Teramenes, ibid. To Alcibiades, 532, (N).
- Critolaus* inflames the Achæans against Rome, ii. 693, & seq. Declares war against it, 695, b. Defeated and killed, ibid.
- † Crobofi, a people of Thrace, iii. 794.
- Crocodyles* described, i. 181, c, d. Where found, ibid. Why worshipped by the Egyptians, 209, (N). 220, b, f. How taken, 181, b.
- of India lead Alexander into a wild notion about the Nile, iii. 396, (F).
- a large one mistaken for a monstrous serpent, iv. 663, f. First fought on the Roman Circus, v. 327, d.
- Croesus*, king of Lydia's conquests and wealth, ii. 335. Interview with Solon, ibid. d, & notes. Allied with the king of Babylon, 90, 336. Commands his army against Cyrus, ibid. & seq. Taken prisoner at Sardis, 91, & seq. Restored, 92, b. 336, & seq.
- his ambiguous threats to the Lampfacians, iii. 789, c.
- His treasure found and carried off by Heraclius, vi. 540, f.
- Cronos's* writings and character, vi. 83, sub not.
- Cronus* supposed the same with Ham, i. 121, a. 134, (H).
- son of Uranus, dethrones his father, 135, a. Found by blue, ibid. b.
- the younger, sacrifices his only son, 138, a, b. Consecrated to the planet Saturn, ibid. Circumcised with his auxiliaries, ibid. b.
- Baal, likely the Baal-berith of Berytus, 397, b.
- Cross* of Christ, carried off by Cosroes, iv. 366. Restored by his son, 369, d. See also vi. 539, e. 542, b. Brought to Jerusalem, ibid. e.
- several kinds of crosses used by the Jews, 726.
- Croset*, two rich ones presented by Cosroes, iv. 364, d, (D).
- † Croton, surrendered to Hannibal, vii. 41, b. The citadel of, abandoned to the Locri, 46, f, & seq.
- Crownates* enter into the Achæan League, ii. 642, a.
- Crown*, first used by Nimrod, i. 123, (O). Formerly not peculiar to princes, 669, (T). A mark of distinction in eastern courts, ibid. (V).
- Crucifixion*, not a Jewish punishment, i. 674, (D). Forbidden by Constantine, vi. 255, a. An account of that punishment, 726, (F). Inflicted at Carthage on the noblest persons, ibid. ad fin.
- Crumus's* success and indignities to Nicephorus, vi. 562, b, c. Defeated by Leo, 563, e, f.
- Crusade*, or holy-war, the beginning of, vi. 613, & seq.
- † Crustomium, where situate, iv. 429, (Y).
- Cryptia*, a barbarous Spartan custom, ii. 567, & not.
- Ctesias* of Cnidos, his character, i. 867, a, b, & c. Assyrian history, a fable, ibid. An abridgment of it, 871, e, & seq. See also ii. 218, not.
- † Cresphontes, where situate, iv. 289, b. Taken by Trajan, 320, a. Destroyed by Cassius, 321, b. See vi. 21, a. 65, c. By Severus, 114, b. Its dreadful fate, ibid. c. Closely besieged by Odenatus, 178, c, d. By Carus, 204, e.
- Cuma*, the Sibyl, her tomb, iii. 7, c. Her books brought to Tarquin, iv. 462, d.
- † Cumæ, by whom built, iv. 606. Damaged by an earthquake, v. 659, c. Noble defence against Hannibal, vii. 44, b. Ravaged by him, 47, d. Besieged by the Romans, 677, c. Surrendered, 679, b. Retaken by the Lombards, 701, a. Sold to the pope, ibid. b.
- Cumanus, Ventid.* sent governor of Judea, iv. 263, e. Sent to Rome, 264, a. Banished, ibid. b.
- † Cumberland, the coasts of, fortified by the Romans, vii. 412, f.
- Cumæi*, noted for their stupidity, v. 178, (Z).
- Cumulatus's* treachery to Brutus, v. 251, c.
- † Cunaxa, the famed battle of, ii. 139, a.
- Cuneglat's* wicked reign, vii. 451, f.
- Cunipert* dethroned by Alachis, vii. 697, e, f. Restored, 698, b. Defeats and kills him, ibid. d, e. Dies, ibid. f.
- seized on by Grimoald, vii. 693, d. Made colleague with his father, 697, d. Driven out by Alachis, ibid. f. Defeats and kills him, 698, a. — c. Dies, ibid. f.
- Cunobeline*, tributary to Augustus, vii. 427, d. His coin, ibid. (G).
- † Cupid, the famed statue of, at Parium, ii. 324, c.
- Curatores vicorum*, their office, v. 324, b, c.
- † Curdestan, the same as Ashur and Assyria, i. 163, a.
- † Cures, ancient metropolis of the Sabini, iv. 411, b.
- Curetes*, their office among the Celtes, ii. 251, c, & not. Plu-ronians called Curetes, 410, d. Ancient Cretans, iii. 162, e. Their origin, 163, c. The same with the Abantes, 250, b. Why called Curetes, ibid. not.

Curie,

- Curia* first appointed by Romulus, iv. 462, b, c. Their privileges, 427, c.
- Curia* killed by Horatius, iv. 440.
- Curia*'s dramatic works, v. 656, (D).
- Curia*, Caius, his noble speech to the comitia, v. 89.
- Scribon a young spendthrift, chosen tribune, 129, b.
- Bought over by Cæsar, ibid. & seq. Speeches to the comitia and senate, 130, a, b. Withdraws to Cæsar's camp, 131, b. Sent into Sicily, 134, b. Defeated and killed, 156, a.
- outwitted and killed by Juba, 136, a, b, (T).
- Curiones*, their office, iv. 436, b.
- Curios*, at court, who, vi. 325, c. Reduced, ibid. f.
- Curius*, one of Catiline's accomplices, betrayed, v. 104, b.
- Curtius* attacks the Persians, iv. 358, c.
- Metius, head of the Sabines, 431, c.
- Lacus, why so called, 432, (D).
- M. leaps into the gulph, 586, c.
- M. Dentat. ends the Samnian war, 640, e, f. Noble triumph over Pyrrhus, 646, f.
- Rufus, advanced by Claudius, v. 501, c. Whether the same with Quintus the historian, ibid. (M).
- † Curubis, where situate, vi. 667, b, c.
- Curule chairs*, how and on whom bestowed, v. 400, (X).
- Curules ædiles*, their office, iv. 583.
- † Cusab, wrongly supposed the land of the Cossians, i. 56, b.
- Ham's eldest son, where fixed, 164, b, c.
- the father of Nimrod, whether a king, 124, a, (R).
- what land it means in scripture, vii. 181, & seq. & (B), (C).
- † Cusham-rishataim defeated by the Israelites, i. 742, d.
- † Cushites defeated by the king of Judah, i. 807, c. Their extract, vii. 182, pass. 192, c, (P). 205, pass. Their kingdom in Arabia, 240, a, b.
- † Cushim, the progenitors of the Philistines, i. 338, b. Whether the same with the Colchi, 344, (R).
- Cutba* slain, vii. 453, a.
- † Cutbeans, the new Samaritans, why so called, i. 835, c.
- Cutbwalfe's* success against the Britons, vii. 452, c. Death, ibid. f.
- Cutlumses's* ill success against the Arabians, vi. 599, b. Revolt against Tangrolipix, 606, d. Makes peace with his son Azan, ibid. c. Wars against the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- † Cutyrgurian Hunns, why so called, vii. 456, b, c. Fall out with the Uturgurians, 483, e, f. Defeated by Belisarius, &c. 484, a—d.
- Cyadas*, the famous painter, where born, iii. 217, c.
- † Cyane, the fountain of, its spring, iii. 9, b.
- † Cyaneas, a river in Colchis, iii. 833, c.
- † Cybele, the chief deity of the Phrygians, ii. 297, a. How worshipped, 299. Different genealogies, ibid. & seq. Worshipped by the Trojans, 309, c. Her temple burnt at Smerdis, 109, d.
- the statue of, carried to the temple of Eleogabalus, vi. 136, c.
- temple of, enriched by Julian, 327, b. Worshipped by the Gauls, vii. 359, b.
- Cybernisus*, king of Lycia, ii. 338, & seq.
- † Cyclades islands, whence so called, iii. a. Described, 216, & seq. Invaded by Demetrius, iv. 691, b.
- † — the province of, what, v. 650, d.
- † Cycle, a new one introduced in Judea, iv. 71, (K).
- Cyclopes*, the fable of, iii. 9, (E). Who they were, 10, c.
- Cygnus*, king of Colone in Troas, ii. 307, c.
- Cycreus*, Cybreus, first king of Salamis, iii. 245, b.
- Cydon* reigns in Crete, iii. 165, c, & not.
- † Cydonia, a city in Crete, described, iii. 160, c. By whom founded, 193, a.
- † Cyllene, a mount in Arcadia, ii. 379, a, & not.
- Cylon's* insurrection at Athens, ii. 422, & seq.
- † Cyme, Cuma, metropolis of Æolis, ii. 759, a.
- † Cymenbore, the battle of, vii. 446, c.
- Cynæus* put in death by Perdiccas, 421, a.
- Cynæus's* excellent character, iii. 805, d. Advice to Pyrrhus, ibid. & seq. Sent to Tarentum, 806, c. Just judgment of the Romans, 809, not. Sent ambassador to Rome, 811. Ill success there, 812, a, b. Second embassy, 814.
- Cynegiras*, the Athenian, his signal bravery, ii. 462, f.
- Cynegus* ordered to suppress idolatry, vi. 404, a, b. His death and character, ibid. c, d.
- Cynics*, whence so called, ii. 437, b.
- philosopher, his speech to Commodus, vi. 88, f. Burnt alive for it, 89, a.
- † Cynocephalus, a large kind of ape in Egypt, i. 181.
- Cynomolgi*, why so called, vii. 184, c.
- Cynorta*, king of Lacedæmon, iii. 400, d.
- Cynofarges*, at Athens, their office, ii. 437.
- † Cynojureans, a colony of the Argives, ii. 404, c.
- † Cynthus, a mountain in Delos, described, iii. 331, c.
- Cyprian* women, prostitute themselves for a dowry, vi. 720.
- Jesus, two hundred and fifty thousand revolt, vi. 23, d. All destroyed, ibid. f.
- ambassadors, over-reached by the Philæni, 737, c, d.
- Cypriots* oppressed by the Persians, iii. 177. Make peace with them, 179, a. Subdued by Evagoras, 180. Invaded by Ochus, 181, & seq. By Ptolemy, 182, c, d. By Demetrius, ibid. & seq. Subdued, 183, f. Restored by Ptolemy, 184, c. Enslaved by the Romans, ibid. d. Assist Alexander against the Tyrians, 340, & seq.
- Cypria*, the wife of Antipater, her progeny, iv. 118, (H).
- † Cyprius vicus, whence so called, iv. 459, (R). Why called Sceleratus, ibid. c.
- † Cypron built by Herod, iv. 148, c.
- † Cyprus, the seat of the Kettim, according to Josephus, i. 168, f. First compared by Amos, 272. The island, described, iii. 172. How divided, 175. Its soil, government, &c. ibid. & seq. Kings and petty kingdoms, 176. Taken by Cyrus, ibid. d. By Ptolemy, 435, d. By Antiochus, 579. Sold by Archias to Demetrius, 653, c. Given to a bastard of Lathyrus, 666, d. Seized by the Romans, ibid. & seq. v. 116, d. Given by Cæsar to young Ptolemy, ibid. & seq.
- † — the mines of, given to Herod, iv. 148, (F).
- † — the castle of taken by the Zelots, 269, c.
- Cypsellus*, kills the tyrant of Mycene, ii. 388, a.
- a Lepitba, becomes king of Coriath, 392, & seq. & not.
- Cyres*, what, ii. 435.
- † Cyre, the fountain of, vii. 170, b, (C).
- † Cyrenaica described, vii. 169, & seq. Its soil, fruits, &c. 170, & seq. Various nations, 171, b, &c. Transactions and wars, 172, & seq. Invaded by Thymbrius, 173, d. Delivered up to Ptolemy, 174, a. Bequeathed to Rome, ibid. b, c. Under the Turks, ibid. d.
- Cyrene* ravished by Jupiter, ii. 383, (F).
- † — the fountain of, ibid.
- † — the kingdom of, by whom founded, iii. 215, c. Described, 662, c, d. Yielded to Phylcon, 651. Revolts from him, 652, & seq. Given to Apion, 658, f.
- † — a colony of the Greeks, i. 268, f. Drive out the Lydians, ibid. Defeat the Egyptians, 269.
- Jews, whence, iv. 31, (D). Relieved by Augustus, 141, d, (G).
- † — metropolis of Cyrenaica, vii. 169, c. Described, 170, a, b. By whom built, 172, b, c. Seized by Ariston, 173, d.
- † Cyrenians, their customs, &c. vii. 170, b.
- Cyrenius* sent to tax the Jews, iv. 192, c. See also Quirinus, v. 336, d.
- Cyriades* assumes the purple in the east, vi. 174, b—e.
- Cyril*, St. falls out with Oracles, vi. 471, b, c.
- Cyrillus Statius*, his writings and character, vi. 222, a.
- Cyrnus*, the Greek name of Corfica, vi. 731, b, c.
- † Cyropolis taken by Alexander, iii. 367, c.
- † Cyrrba, the sea-port of Delphos, ii. 389, d. Its famed arsenal, 427, c. Invaded by the Phocians, 388, & seq.
- Cyrrbeans*, their attempt on Delphos punished, ii. 426, & seq.
- † Cyrrbessica, a province of Syria, i. 361, a.
- † Cyrrbus, the metropolis of it, ibid. b.
- Cyrus* subdues the Chaldeans, i. 967, c, f. Defeats Neriglissar, 968, a. And Nabonadius, 970, d, c. Takes Babylon, ibid.
- his exploits under his grandfather, ii. 21, & seq. Fabulous birth and deeds, 82. Brought up by the king's herdsman, 83. Discovered, and sent to his parents, 85. Stratagem against the Persians, ibid. & seq. Conquers the Medes, 86. Imprisons his grandfather, ibid. & seq. Killed by the Scythian queen, 87, b. The more authentic account of him out of Xenophon, 87, & seq. Assists Cyaxares against the king of Babylon, 88, d. Kills him, ibid. & seq. Wars against Cræsus, 91. Takes him in Sardis, 92. Behaviour towards him, ibid. (K). Takes Babylon by stratagem, 93. Ascends the throne, 94. Favours the Jews, ibid. b, c. Death, 95. Edict in favour of the Jews, iv. 3. Confirmed by Darius, 9, c.
- the son of Dar. Nothus, his cruel government in Asia Minor, ii. 136. Conspires against his brother, 137. Sentenced to death, ibid. Raises a revolt, ibid. & seq. His fleet and army, 138, c. Slain, 139, c. Prophecies concerning him, 208, not.
- his rise and character, vi. 486, c, d.
- bishop of Constantinople, saves Egypt by a tribute, 543, d, c.
- † — camp abandoned to Alexander, iii. 334, a.
- † — tomb, described, 404, b.
- † — a river of Armenia, 694, a. Of Albania, 837, d.
- † Cyrberea, island, described, iii. 242, f. Whether in Cyprus, 174. Taken by the Athenians, ii. 510, d.
- † Cyrbereon, mount, in Phocis, iii. 387.
- † Cyrbnus island described, iii. 217.
- † Cyzicæus disfranchised, v. 424, a, (B).
- † Cyzicum, island, described, iii. 201, & seq. & (Q).
- † — city of Mysia, ii. 323, b.
- besieged by Mithridates, iii. 741, & seq. Relieved by Lucullus, 742, & seq. Plundered by the Heruli, vi. 184, pass. Taken by Procopius, 367. Part of, overturned by earthquake, 506, c.

Cynicus, king of Myſia, killed by the Argonauts, ii. 323, b, &c.

D

- † DACI, where ſituate, v. 10, c, (F). Deſeated by the Romans, ibid. d. Subdued by Tiberius, 320, c.
- † Dacia ſeized by the Goths, vi. 183, a. Re-joined to the empire, 209, a. Waſted by Attila, vii. 468, e, f. Subdued by the Goths, 495, c. Yielded to Theodorick III. 522, b. Deſcribed, 610, f, & ſeq. Made a Roman province, 613, e, f.
- † — New, by whom founded, vi. 195, a. Part of, yielded to Theodorick, 516, a. Where ſited, vii. 614, c.
- † Dacians. See Getae, ii. 268, a. Their revolt ſuppreſſed by Mucianus, v. 635, e, f. Character, 676, f. Where ſited, 677, a. Invade the Romans, ibid. e, f. Force them to make peace, 678, e, f. War with Trajan, vi. 11, d. Ravaged by him, 12, & ſeq. Subdued, 15, b, c. By M. Aurelius, 66, f. By Decius, 169, d. Ravaged by the Quadi, &c. ibid. & ſeq. Their origin, vii. 610, e, & ſeq. Cuſtoms, &c. 611, a, b. Wars, victories, and defeats, 612, a, b. Peace with Domitian, ibid. c, d. Subdued by Trajan, 613, a—d. Submiſſion and diſperſion, 614, a—d.
- † Dactyli, why ſo called, ii. 297, d.
- † Dadaſtana, where ſituate, vi. 345, d.
- † Daduchim, their dignity, ii. 464, not.
- Dædalus*'s treachery to Minos, iii. 167, b.
- Dæmons*, two kinds of, i. 82, (N).
- Dagalaſipbas* promotes Valentinian's election, vi. 346, c. Noble anſwer to him, 348, c. Succeſs againſt the Germans, 350, c. Treachery, 351, a. Remiſſneſs to the Alemans, vii. 292, e, f. 295, a.
- Dagobert*'s embaiſſy to Heraclius, vi. 542, f.
- Dagon*, Siton, the ſon of Uranus, i. 135, b. Worſhipped in Canaan, ibid. (N). At Azotus, 343, a. Learned conjectures about him, ibid. (H). His temple burnt by Jonathan, iii. 597, b. iv. 8.
- Dabarians*, a ſect of philoſophers among the Turks, i. 4, a.
- † Dalmanutha, where ſituate, iv. 218, (M).
- † Dalmatia ſubdued by Cotta, v. 1, b. Revolts, 335, b. Reduced, 337, c, d. Anew, 339, & ſeq. Deſtroyed by the Quadi, vi. 388, c. By the Goths, 433, d, e. Made a new empire, 507, b.
- Dalmatius*, the ſon of Conſtantius, vi. 226, e. His death, ibid.
- his ſon, born, ibid. f. Created Cæſar, 266, a. Murdered by the ſoldiers, 275, a.
- Daluzas*, a famed queen of Egypt, and great magician, i. 281, d.
- Damagetus*, king of Rhodes, iii. 133, a.
- Damaratus* deſpoſed by his colleague, ii. 583, paſſ. Retires into Perſia, 584.
- Damaratia*, a Sicilian coin ſo called, vi. 735, d, e, (C).
- † Damascus, metropolis of Syria, i. 361, d. By whom built, 163, e. A republic in David's time, 371, c. Its origin, ibid. Famous altar, 377, c. Chronology, kings, &c. 380.
- when founded by Rezin, 381, b. The end of that kingdom, according to the prophets, 390, b.
- † — the city, betrayed to Parmenio, ii. 166, & ſeq. Taken by Coſroes, iii. 366, c. By the Saracens, vi. 543, d.
- Damaſictum*, king of Thebes, ii. 375, c.
- Damatetis*, a Rhodian magiſtrate, killed, iii. 143, b.
- Damatris* ſuſpends the Ætolians' reſolutions, ii. 707, & ſeq. Sent to engage Nabſ, 712. Beſieged and taken at Heraclæa, 721.
- † Damea, river, falls into the Nile, vii. 187, b.
- Damianus* defeated and killed, vi. 566, d.
- Damias*, who, iii. 244, not.
- Damides*'s ſtratagem againſt Polyſperchon, iii. 456, b.
- † Damii, who, and where ſited, vii. 413, f.
- Damocles*'s ſurpriſing chaſtity, ii. 555, d.
- made ſenſible of a tyrant's happineſs, iii. 82, (A).
- Damophilus*'s cruelty to his ſlaves, iv. 794, f. His puniſhment, 795, c.
- his writings and character, vi. 83, ſub not.
- Dan*, the ſon of Jacob, born, i. 441, d. Jacob's prophecy to him and his tribe, 463, b. How verified, ibid. (L). Why likened to a viper, 464, a, b. His lot in the promiſed land, 569, a.
- † — the city of, i. 740, c. The idol ſet up there, ibid.
- Danae* debauched by Jupiter, ii. 354, e.
- Danaus*, his ſeverity againſt his daughter, ii. 354, c.
- Dances* uſed by the Phrygians in their worſhip, 300.
- Dandalo*, Henry's ſignal bravery, vi. 626, a.
- † Dandera, Tentyra, a city in Egypt, i. 197, a.
- † — the ſtately temple of, ibid. & ſeq.
- Daniel*, ſent captive into Babylon, i. 84, a. Interprets Nabuchadnezzar's dream, 950, e, &c. Raiſed by him, 951, c, d. Expounds Belſhazzar's viſion, 971, d. His writings depreciated by the Jews, 732, (O). Promoted under Cyaxares, ii. 22, d. Delivered from the lions, ibid. e, f. Sundry of his prophecies fulfilled, iii. 526, (O). 527, (P). 568, (R). 570, f. 571, f. 582, paſſ. 584, (B). A further account of them, iv. 8, (N). Shewn to Alexander the Great, 29, a. A ſignal one explained, 53, ſub not. His weeks, how computed, 153, (P).
- † Danes, their origin, vii. 487, b.
- † Dania, Denmark, by whom firſt peopled, vii. 487, a, b.
- † Danmonii, in Britain, who, and where, vii. 407.
- † Danube ſeparates the Celtes from the Scythians, ii. 226, 228.
- † — the famous bridge over, vi. 14, b, c. See vol. vii. [414], c.
- † Daphne's temple at Rome burnt, vi. 327, b.
- † — an infamous ſuburb of Antioch, 67, c. Heavily taxed by Proculus, 403, b.
- Daphneus*'s ſucceſs againſt the Carthaginians, vi. 747, & ſeq. (Vid. & iii. 41, d. Put to death, 45, c.)
- † Daphnine iſland in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b.
- Daphnomelus*'s deſperate attempt on Ibatzes, vi. 592, d—f.
- Dara*, princeſs of Perſia, married to a rich Jew, iv. 406, a.
- † — Daras, where ſited, vi. 521, d.
- † — a city, proof againſt Coſroes, 352, b. Reduced, 357, c. Reſtored to the Romans, 364, b. Retaken by Coſroes, 366, b (See vi. 532, d.).
- Darab* I, prince of Perſia, according to oriental writers, expoſed in a wooden ark, ii. 225. Owned by his mother, 226. His reign and wars, 227.
- II. his wars with the king of Macedon, 228, & ſeq. Murdered by his own ſubjects, 229, & ſeq.
- † Dardana, built by Dardanus, ii. 312.
- † Dardaneli, why ſo called, ii. 305, b, (B).
- † Dardania. Vid. Truas, ii. 288, & ſeq.
- Dardanians* invade Macedon, ii. 667, b. Expelled by the Baſtarnæ, iii. 483, c.
- Dardanus*, who, ii. 305, b. Marries Teucer's daughter, 311. His deſcent and reign, 312, a. iii. 239, f. Found the Trojan kingdom, ibid. & ſeq. See alſo iv. 418, d, e.
- Prefect of Gaul, his motley character, vi. 468, a, (O).
- Daric*, an antient gold coin, ii. 62, e.
- Darius*, the Mede, moſt likely Nerigliffar, king of Babylon, i. 968, b—c. And not Nabonadius, 971, f. See before Cyaxares II. 21, & ſeq. Various ſentiments about him, 23, (C). 93, e.
- one of Cambyſes's guards, his revenge on Syloſon, iii. 196, c, &c. Defeats the confederates, 197, c.
- of the Perſian nobles, choſen king, ii. 103, c. His revenue, 104. Takes Babylon, 105. Unſucceſſful expedition againſt Scythia, ibid. & ſeq. Fleet and conqueſts in India, 107, b. Firſt attempt againſt Greece unfortunate, 111, c. Second attempt, ibid. e. Numerous army, 112. Deſeated by the Athenians, ibid. f. His loſs at ſea and land, 113. Deſign againſt Greece and Egypt, 114. His death and character, ibid. & ſeq.
- the ſon of Xerxes, unjuſtly murdered, 119.
- Notbus, mounts the throne, 134, d. His ſevere and uneaſy reign, ibid. Loſs of Egypt, ibid. & ſeq. Too much ſwayed by his queen, 135, a. His death, and laſt words to his ſon, 136, f.
- Codomanus, raiſed to the throne, 154, c. His extraſt, &c. ibid. & ſeq. Invaded by the Greeks, 155. Deſeated at Granicus, ibid. & ſeq. Loſes ſeveral provinces, 156, & ſeq. And his beſt general Memnon, ibid. Goes to ſuccour Cilicia, 158. Deſeated near Iſſus, 159, & ſeq. Haughty letter to Alexander, 161, d. Offers for the ranſom of his family, 162, b. New army, 163, d. New offers of peace rejected, 164. Deſeated near Arbela, 165, & ſeq. Flees into Armenia, 166, c. Into Media, 168. Seized by his treacherous generals, ibid. & ſeq. Dying meſſage to Alexander, 170, c. Death, character, and burial, ibid. d, e. See alſo vol. iii. 335, & ſeq. An inſtance of his ſignal goodneſs, 353, in ſin. not. His treaſure at Suſa, 354, b, c, (P).
- the ſon of Pharnaces, made king of Boſporus, 760, c.
- king of Acrobatene, 844, f.
- Darkneſs*, during three days in Egypt, i. 498, f, g. At Chriſt's crucifixion, iv. 240, c. Over the Roman empire, vi. 426, b. A dreadful one under Conſtantine IV. 555, b.
- † Darod, river, where, vii. 145, (E).
- † Darrae, a tribe of Getulians, vii. 160, d.
- † Dascara, the heretic Manes's retreat, iv. 377, c.
- † Dascylus, a city in Bithynia, iii. 822, a.
- † Daffardæ, where ſituate, iii. 255, a.
- Datames*, king of Cappadocia, iii. 764.
- Dates*, Perſian, their ſyrup preferable to honey, ii. 40, d.
- Datban*'s conſpiracy againſt Moſes, &c. i. 529, b. Dreadful puniſhment, 530, b.
- † Datbema, where ſited, iv. 63, e. Relieved by Judas Maccabeus, 64, c.
- Dattis*, general of Darius, his expedition againſt Greece, ii. 111, & ſeq. Shameful defeat, 112, c.
- high reſpect for Diana's temple, 228, f. Deſeated by Miltiades, 276.
- Daughters*, Roman, puniſhable by their parents, v. 371, f.

- David*, sent to play before king Saul, i. 763, c. Kills Goliath, 764, b, c. Friendship with Jonathan, ibid. &c. Flees to the land of Nod, 766, a, b. To Gath, ibid. c. To Adullam, ibid. d. Generosity to Saul, 768, a—c. 769, c. Anointed by Samuel, 763, c. Covenant with Jonathan, 767, b, c. Marries Saul's second daughter, 765, b. Grief at the news of Saul's death, 772, c. Anointed king over Judah at Hebron, 773. Marries the daughter of Tolmai, ibid. & seq. Puts to death the murderers of Ishbosheth, 774, d. Reigns over the twelve tribes, ibid. c. Takes Jerusalem, and makes Zion his residence, 775. Removes the ark thither, 776, c. Defeats Hadadezer, 382, a, b. Brings Syria under tribute, ibid. & seq. Four victories over the Philistines, 356, 775. Narrow escape from a gigantic Philistine, 375, b. Brings them under tribute, 382, a, b. Allies with the king of Tyre, 775. Forbid to build the temple, 777, b. His economy, policy, &c. ibid. & seq. Kindness to Jonathan's sons, 778. Revenge on the Ammonites, ibid. c, d. Adultery and murder, 779, b, c. Punishment pronounced by Nathan, 780, a, &c. Ill-timed tenderness to the rebellious Absalom, 786, & seq. Forgiveness to Shimei, ibid. c. A fresh revolt against him, 787, c. Numbers the people, 788. Punished with a pestilence, 789. Causes Solomon to be proclaimed, 790. His last instructions to him, 791, c. Death, 792. Vast riches, burial, &c. ibid. b, &c.
- in what sense Christ is called his son, iv. 232, a, (N).
- the last emperor of Trapezond, vii. 293, b—d.
- Daulian* women's unnatural repast, ii. 389, not.
- † Daulis, a city in Phocis, ii. 389, d.
- † Daunia, where situated, iv. 412, d.
- Dauus*, king of Apulia, succours Diomedes, ii. 369, b.
- Days* of the week, from whom named in England, vii. 441, d, e.
- Deacons*, the first seven chosen by the apostles, iv. 253, c.
- † Dead-sea, whence so called, i. 576, b, (L). Its various names, ii. 266, a. Measured by Demetrius, iii. 434, d.
- Debir*, king of Eglon, joins against the Gibeonites, i. 332, a. Defeated by Joshua, ibid. b, c.
- † — the city of, retaken by the Canaanites, 534, a.
- Deborah's* success against Jabin, king of Canaan, i. 336, b. 743, a.
- Debtors* at Rome, cruel laws against, iv. 487, (G). Mitigated, 486, e. Eluded by Appius, 487, d.
- Debts*, the payment of, regulated, iv. 592, b. 608, c. 642, & seq.
- Decalogue*, delivered, i. 515, a. Explained, ibid. (X).
- † Decapolis, whence so called, iv. 217, (L).
- Decabalus*, made king of the Dacians, v. 677, b. Proud answer to Domitian, 678, a. Outwits him, ibid. b, c. Forced to a shameful peace, ibid. c, f.
- ill success against the Romans, vi. 11, d. 12, a, b. Revolt and treachery, 13, d, e. Subdued, and kills himself, 15. His vast treasures discovered, ibid. c, d. See vol. vii. 611, & seq.
- Decemvirs*, first instituted, iv. 505, a, &c. A new set chosen, 533, c. Speech to the people, 534. A third set of them, 535, d. Their tyranny, ibid. & seq. Abandoned by the army, 540, & seq. Deposed by the senate, 543, c. Trial and punishment, 545, c, d.
- their number augmented, v. 79, a.
- Decentius* created Cæsar, vi. 281, b, c. Defeated by the Franks, 282, d. Chosen consul, 285, c. Foiled before Treves, ibid. f. Hangs himself, 288, a.
- sent to fetch Julian's forces, 308, f. His fatal imprudence, 309, c, d.
- Decianus*, C. Plaut. banished, v. 45, c.
- Catus's extortions in Britain, 537, f. Cowardly flight, 538, d.
- Deiarcabæ*, at Samos, their office, iii. 200, c.
- Decimus* succeeds Ulpianus, v. 139, e.
- Decius's* answer to Pyrrhus, iii. 812. Killed, 813.
- rescued by Philopator, 646.
- speech against Coriolanus, iv. 496, a. Accusation against him, 497, c.
- L. Mus, noble exploits against the Samnites, 597, pass. Consulship, 599, c. Expedition against the Latins, 600. Devotes himself to the manes, ibid. & seq. The ceremony of it described, 602, a. His death, ibid. c.
- success in Hetruria, 624, e, f. Made pontifex, 628, a. Success in Apulia, 630, c. In Samnium, ibid. & seq. In Hetruria, 632, b, & f. Devotes himself to death, 633, c.
- Trec, succeeds the brave Castinus, vi. 132, c. Put to death by Helioabalus, 136, a.
- the emperor, sent governor of Mæsia, 167, b. Forced to accept the empire, ibid. c. Acknowledged, 168, a. A grievous persecutor of the christians, ibid. b—d. His death and character, ibid. d.
- his son defeats the Goths, 168, & seq. Cut off by them, 169, c. When surnamed Augustus, ibid. b. Bravery and death, 170, b.
- treachery to the Rhegians, 817, & seq. 820, c, d. Punishment, 821, pass.
- killed by Tacfarinas, vii. 158, c.
- Decuriae* appointed by Romulus, iv. 426, b, c.
- Dedalus* polishes the ancient Greeks, ii. 348, b.
- † Dedan, where seated, i. 164, d.
- † — the city of, in Edom, 309, b.
- Dedication* of the temple by Judas Maccab. iv. 61, d. The feast of, 62, a, & (W).
- Debot*, sixth king of Persia, his cruel reign, &c. ii. 179.
- Deianira* debauched by Achilles, ii. 385, c.
- daughter of Oeneus, married to Hercules, 410, c. Fatal jealousy and death, 411, & (K).
- Deidanica*, queen of Epirus, whether murdered, iii. 821, a, b.
- Dejoces*, the founder of Ecbatan, ii. 2, a, 14, & not. His reign, 10. Policy to get the kingdom, 14. Tyranny, ibid. & seq. Forbids his subjects to approach him, 15, b.
- Deiotarus* I. made king of Armenia minor, iii. 718, f. Fidelity to the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- II. his reign and successors, 719, c—e.
- accompanies Pompey in his flight, v. 147, c. Forgiveness by Cæsar, 153, c. Joins Brutus, 233, c. And Antony, 288, b. Abandons him, 289, f.
- † Deira, the province of, by whom founded, vii. 451, a.
- Delassenus*, Conf. sent into banishment, vi. 595, f.
- Delecanus*, chief of the revolted Bulgarians, vi. 596, c. Treachery to Teichomerus, 597, a. His reward, ibid. b, c. vii. 637, & seq.
- † Delians, their government, kings, &c. iii. 231, d, e. Conquered by the Athenians, ibid. c, f.
- Delias* & Deliasfi, what, iii. 230, e.
- Delilah*, Samson's mistress, i. 349, b. Treachery to him, ibid. c.
- Delium*, the battle of, ii. 511.
- Dellius*, Q. sent to Cleopatra, v. 261, b. His character, ibid. (C).
- narrowly escapes her resentment, ibid. & seq. ii. 511.
- † Delos, island, described, iii. 203, a. 227. Why so called, ibid. & seq. Its temples, 228. Reverenced, 229, a, b. Purified, 230, b, c.
- temple plundered by Archelaus, ii. 736.
- treasure seized by Pericles, 505, not.
- metropolis of the island described, iii. 231, b.
- † Delphi, Delphoi, the city of, described, ii. 388, a. Its immense riches, 389, c.
- the oracle of, how discovered, ibid. b.
- temple, described, ibid. c.
- besieged by the Cyrrhæans, 426. Defended by all the Greeks, ibid. &c. Plundered by Xerxes, 123, a, b. By Sylla, 738, a.
- Delphic* oracle corrupted by king Philip, iii. 307, a.
- answer to the two Tarquins, iv. 464, a.
- Delphidius's* writings and character, vi. 316, (G).
- Delphinus* defeated by Basilus, vi. 591, c, f.
- † Delphinium, a criminal court at Athens, ii. 444, a.
- † Delta, part of lower Egypt, i. 176, a. Formerly a bay of the sea, ibid. b. How divided by the Arabs, ibid. The most fruitful part of Egypt, 166, a.
- Deluge*, the changes it caused on the earth, i. 110, c—e.
- Demades's* speech to Philip, iii. 321, & seq. Successless embassy to Antipater, 450, f. His character, 452, c. Severe punishment, 453, c. See also ii. 552, & seq.
- Demarata*, the ambitious daughter of Hiero, iii. 100, c, d. Aspires to the throne, 104, & seq. Put to death, 106, e.
- Demaratus* the banished king of Sparta's gallant behaviour, ii. 120, c. & 459, c.
- sharp answer to Philip, iii. 311.
- valour against the Carthaginians, vi. 782, & seq.
- Demarchi* of Athens, their office, li. 443.
- Demaretia*, a Sicilian coin, whence so called, iii. 18, b.
- † Demetæ, who, and where situated, vii. 410, e, & seq.
- † Demetria, by whom built, iii. 447, b.
- † Demetrius, in Thessaly, iii. 382, b. Taken by Diocles, 713.
- Demetrius Phalereus*, the kind governor of Athens, ii. 554, a, b. Ungratefully put to death, ibid. & seq.
- Polyarchetes invades Athens, 554, a. Deified there, ibid. & seq. Initiated in the mysteries of Ceres, 555, d. Repulsed by the Athenians, ibid. & seq. Generosity to them, 556, c. Attempt against Sparta, 625.
- prætor of Achaia's attempt against Sparta, 692, b.
- invests Rhodes, iii. 138, & seq. Invents the helespolis, 140, a. Forced to raise the siege, 143, e. Instances of his clemency, 144, pass. Invades Cyprus, 182, & seq. Takes Salamis, 183, & seq. Loses it, 184.
- the son of Antigonus, left governor of Syria, 432, d, e. Defeated by Ptolemy, 433, a. Gallantry to him, ibid. c. Sent against Petra, 434, c. Measures the lake Asphaltites, ibid. d. Marches into Babylon, ibid. & seq. Recovers Sicily, 435, d. His conquests in Cyprus, 436, & seq. Saluted king by his father, 437, b. Ill success against Rhodes, 439, a. Degeneracy, ibid. & 467, c. Defeated at Ilus, 441, a, b. Becomes king of Macedon, 442, c. 466. Prepares for the conquest of Asia, 443, a. Driven out of Macedon, ibid. & seq. Ill success against Lysimachus, &c. 444, a, b. Against Pyrrhus, ibid. & 466. Retires to Callandria, 467. Surrenders himself to Seleucus, 445, & seq. His last letter to his son, 446, d. Death, ibid. c, f, & seq. Wives and offspring, 447, d, e. Coin, 622, (W).
- Demetrius*,

- Demetrius*, king of Cyrene, ii. 447, e.
 — the son of Gonatus, his early valour, 437, b. Troublesome reign, 474, c, d. 475, b.
 — the son of Philip, 478, d. Pleads for his father before the Roman senate, 479. Envied by his bastard brother, ibid. & seq. Suspected by his father, 481. Put to death, ibid.
 — prince of Macedon, marries Apame, 524, c. Murdered by her daughter, ibid. d.
 — the son of Antiochus, sent to Rome, 510, e.
 — the son of Seleucus, sues to the Roman senate, 585, & seq. Repulsed, 586, c, d. Second suit, 589. Escapes into Syria, 590. Letters to the senate, 592, b. Wars against Ariarthes, ibid. d. Degenerates, 493, c. Courts the friendship of the Jews, 595, a, b. Defeated and killed, ibid. & seq. See also iv. 70—79.
 — Nicator, repulsed by the senate, 593, e. Dethroned by Alex. Balas, 594, & seq. Allies with Philometor, 598, b, c. Restored, ibid. & seq. Degenerates, ibid. & seq. Saved by the Jews, 602, c, d. His treachery to them, ibid. e. Taken, and kept prisoner in Parthia, 605, & seq. 608, b. Restored, 610, d. Invaded by Zebina, 611, & seq. His death, ibid. Coin, 622, (W).
 — Eucherus, crowned at Damascus, 615, f. Defeated and killed, 616, b.
 — Phalereus, his character and office, 630, e, f. Persuades Ptol. Soter to build a library, 631, a. His great integrity, 633 (Promotes the septuagint version, iv. 37, & seq. & (O)). His death, iii. 633, e.
 — king of Bactria, his character, &c. 846, d, e.
 — Polioretes, his present to the Rhodians, 131, a.
 — Nicanor, a friend to the Jews, iv. 81, c, (V). Perfidy to them, ibid. e. Dethroned by Antiochus, ibid. & seq.
 — the Phazian, betrays Corcyra to the Romans, 685, f. Made regent of Illyricum, 686, c. Revolts, 691, a. Defeated, ibid. e.
 — a philosopher, with Cato, at Utica, v. 162, c.
 — a servant of Cassius, brings the news of his death to the triumvirs, 247, c.
 — a cynic, mortified by Vespasian, 648, b.
 — Alex. a disciple of Favorinus, vi. 49, sub not. Beloved by Adrian, 50, ibid.
 — Cythere tortured for idolatry, 305, a.
 † Demiat, Damietta, in Egypt, i. 166, a.
Demigods, said to have reigned in Egypt before the flood, i. 93. A table of them, ibid.
Demochares defeated and drowned, v. 276, c—f.
Democrates's brave death at Tarentum, vii. 62, d.
Democritus, the supposed author of the atomic system, i. 19, & seq. And of fatal necessity, 21. Said to have had his principles from a Babylonish pillar, 22, d. Where born, iii. 786, d.
Demoi, at Athens, their office, ii. 437, b.
Demon, or genius, of Carthage, worshipped there, vi. 693, d.
Demonax, a cynic philosopher, his excellent character, vi. 82, sub not. Noble answer to the Athenians, ibid. To M. Aurelius, ibid.
Demoniacs healed by Christ, iv. 204, f. What they were, ibid. (O).
Demosthenes chosen admiral of Athens, ii. 507, f, & seq. Defeated at Delium, 511. Taken by the Syracusans, 519. Put to death, 520. His character, Philipptic, &c. 544, & seq. See also iii. 29—36.
 — cowardly flight at Cheronæa, 548, d. Delivered up to Alexander, 549, c, f. Fined and imprisoned for bribery, 550, c. Poisons himself, 551, e. His character and writings, ibid. &c. See also iii. 292, & seq.
 † Demus, the temple of, what, iv. 113, (Z).
 † Denaba, the supposed city of Job, where fitted, i. 482, c.
Dengefic, the son of Artilla, slain, vii. 468, a.
 — wars with the Romans, 482, d—f.
Denmark, kings, why called Skjoldungar, vii. 489, e.
 † Denselæte, a people of Thrace, ii. 789, & seq.
Dentatus Sicanus's speech for the Agrarian law, iv. 530, a. Bravery against the Æqui, 531, & seq. Friendship to Romulus, 532, c. Betrayed by Appius, 538, e. Murdered, 539, a.
 — the tribune's project for repeopling the Volsci, 559, f, & seq.
Derceto, the goddess of the Philistines, i. 343, c. Also an Assyrian deity, 861. Whether the same with Dagon, ibid.
Dercyllidas's success against the Persians, ii. 140, & seq. 607, c, d. Noble speech to Pyrrhus, 622, d.
Dejcartes, his hypothesis, i. 35, d.
Desiderius created Cæsar by his brother, vi. 281, b. Murdered by him, 287, e. Said to have submitted to Constantius, 288, a.
 — king of the Lombards, vii. 715, c, d. Falls out with the pope, ibid. e. Allies with Charles of France, ibid. & seq. Falls out with him, 716, a. Falls out with, and invades Adrian, ibid. c—e. Invaded by Charlemagne, 717, b—c. Sent prisoner into France, 719, d. Heard no more of, ibid. & seq.
Deucaïon, king of Phthia, i. 95, (N). ii. 381. Saved from the flood on Parnassus, 387, c.
 — king of Crete, iii. 169, a.
Devil, the tempter of Eve, i. 61, a. Why in the shape of a serpent, ibid. b—d.
Devils, whether they really possessed men, iv. 205, (O).
 — scutt, a Gaulish altar, described, vii. 336, c.
Devoting, the custom of, in Spain, &c. v. 88, d, (D).
 † Denfona, the treacherous fight of, vi. 356, a, b.
Dexippus's victory over the Heruli, vi. 184, d.
 — writings and character, 197, not.
 — brave defence of Agrigentum, 146, b, &c. Justly censured, 147, e, f.
 † Dbafar, a sea port in the Arabian coasts, i. 169, f.
Dbalka, Zulka, queen of Egypt, i. 280, e.
 † Dia, a city in Eubœa, by whom built, iii. 249, d.
Diacris, one of the three contending parties at Athens, ii. 427, c.
Diad of Pythagoras, what, i. 25, d.
Diadem first worn by Aurelian, vi. 196, b.
Diadumenus created Cæsar, vi. 128, c. 130, b—c. Why surnamed Antoninus, ibid. f. His mild character, 131, f, & seq. Pretended letter to his father, 132, (P), b. Chosen colleague, 133, a. His flight and death, 134, a—c.
Diadus, Achæan prætor, raises new troubles in Achaia, ii. 692, & seq. Inflames them against Rome, 693, & seq. His edict to the Achæan cities, 696, a. Cruelties, ibid. & seq. Rats confidence, 697. Defeat, ibid. & seq. Desperate end, 698, b.
Diagoras I. king of Rhodes, iii. 133, b. Head of the Diagorids, ibid.
 — II. his reign and progeny, 134, b. Dies of joy, ibid. c.
 — the first atheist, where born, 218, f.
 — tyrant of Eretria, 251, e.
Dial of Ahaz, what, i. 832, sub not.
 — the first at Rome, iv. 627, (Z).
Diana, how worshipped at Bubastis, i. 208, a. By the Lydians, ii. 330, f.
 — at Syracuse, iii. 116, (W).
 — at Icaria, 211, f, & seq.
 — Perfica, worshipped in Cappadocia, 763, e.
 — at Carthage, vi. 686, pass.
 — her statue taken and restored by Philadelphus, iii. 637, b, c.
 — Triclaris, the feast and inhuman sacrifice of, ii. 763, b.
 — her medal, iii. 212, a.
 — temple built by Servius, 458, b.
 — adjudged to the Messenians, v. 426, e.
 — at Ephesus, described, ii. 754, & seq. Statue, 755, a. Plundered by the Scythians, vi. 180, d.
 — A strange one near Rome, vii. 372, (G).
Diapbanus invades Messenia, ii. 677, a. Recalled, ibid.
Diapha, a feast of the Athenians, ii. 423, b.
 † Diblatbaim, a city of Arabia Petrea, vii. 226, b.
 † Dibo, a city of Arabia Petrea, vii. 226, b.
Diistators at Rome, when first chosen, iv. 481, e. Their power and office, 482, (E). Abolished by Mark Antony, v. 193, c.
 † Diète, a mountain in Crete, described, iii. 168, b.
Diétyz, prince of Seriphus, brings up Perseus as his own, ii. 354. Raised to the throne by him, 355, a.
 — Cretenfis, an account of, iii. 169, c.
 † Diétyna, the temple of, by whom built, 193, b.
Didius, T. his success against the Scordisci, v. 4, b. Consulship, 44, d. Butcheries in Spain, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 87, b.
 — Caius, sent by Cæsar into Spain, 171, c. Defeats Pompey's fleet, 149. Puts him to death, 175, b. Slain by the Lusitanians, 176, c, d.
 — Av. success against the Brigantes, vii. 430, d.
Dido. See Eliza, vi. 658, & seq.
Didymus driven out of Spain, vi. 455, c, d. Put to death, ibid. d, e.
 † Die, in Dauphine, subject to the Burgundi, vi. 504, b.
Diegylis, king of the Odrysiæ, iii. 792, & seq.
Diet, among the Jews, very plain, i. 695.
Digesta of Justinian, when and by whom compiled, vi. 530, c.
 † Diklab, the son of Joktan, where seated, i. 170, a.
 † Dimas, the son of Dardanus, his colonies in Asia, ii. 313, a.
 † Dimelia, whence so called, vii. 411, d.
Dinab born, i. 442. Ravished by Shechem, 447, a, b. Cruelly revenged, ibid. d.
Dinarchus put to death, iii. 455, c.
Dinocrates, the Sicilian, defeated, iii. 87.
 — Macedonian, defeated by the Rhodians, 148, b, c.
 — head of the Messenian rebels, 681, d. Beats the Achæans, ibid. f. Kills himself, 683, b.
Dinomades's treachery to Hieronymus, iii. 103, d. Chosen magistrate, 105, b.
 † Diocæsarea, where situate, iii. 762, c. Burnt by Gallus, vi. 286, b.
Dioclea, the mother of Dioclesian, vi. 206, a.
Diocles's barbarity against the Athenian prisoners, iii. 35, d. Causes Hermocrates to be banished, 40, b.
 — put to death by Valentinian, vi. 353, f.
 — noble defence of Himera and Syracuse, 743, & seq.

Dioclesian

- Dioclesian* proclaimed, vi. 205, c. His extract, rise, &c. ibid. & seq. Kills Aper, 206, d. Success against Carinus, 207, a. In Gaul, ibid. b. Against the Persians, ibid. f. In Germany, 208, e. Against the Sarmatians, &c. 209, a. Interview with Maximian, ibid. b. Fatal division of the empire, 210, a—c. Goes into Thrace, 211, f. Success and cruelties in Egypt, 213, b, c. Allies with the Nubians, ibid. e. Contempt of Galerius, 214, c. Castles on the Persian frontiers, 215, c. Causes a famine by his avarice, ibid. f, & seq. Persecutes the Christians, 216, b—d. His terrors from that time, ibid. e, f. Cruelties to Antioch, &c. 217, b. Triumphs with his three colleagues, ibid. c. Long illness, ibid. c, d. Resigns to Galerius, ibid. e, f. Speech to the people upon it, 218, b. Retired life, ibid. c, d. Palace at Spalatho, ibid. &c. Death, 219, a. 250, c. Character, ibid. b, c. Baths and other buildings, ibid. d—f. Cruelty and vanity, 220, a, b. His history very imperfect, ibid. c. The first wearer of pearls, 269, a. His success against the Goths exaggerated, vii. 498, d, e. —era, what, 206, f.
- Diodorus*. See Tryphon.
- Diodorus's* doctrine of indivisible bodies, i. 20, a.
- Siculus*, how far preferable to Plutarch, iii. 435, (D).
- a Syrian, facilitates Demetrius's escape, 589, f.
- put to death by Valentinian, vi. 354, a.
- bishop of Tarsus, his confusion of Porphyry, 223, sub not.
- Diogenes*, Apoll. his notion of the air being endued with reason, i. 19, d.
- treachery to the Macedonians, iii. 475, d.
- furlines to Alexander, 323, a.
- Sadducee put to death, iv. 103, e.
- Laertius*, his writings and character, vi. 121, sub not.
- governor of Bithynia, put to death, 374.
- Anastasi's general, closely besieged in Isauria, 519, c. Relieved by crook-back John, ibid. d.
- Romanus*, raised to the empire, 604, pass. Success against the Turks, ibid. e, f. Defeated and taken by them, 605, c, d. Kindly used and released by the sultan, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Andronicus, 606, a. His miserable end, ibid. b.
- noble defence of Rome, vii. 672, e, f. Of Circumcellæ, 673, e.
- Diogenes's* writings and character, vi. 51, sub not.
- Diomedes's* writings and character, vi. 478, sub not.
- Diomedon* unjustly put to death, ii. 528, & seq. Speech to the Athenians, ibid.
- Dion*, his character, &c. iii. 63. Brave speech to Dionysius, 62, (C). Falsely accused to his son, 64, d, e. Banished, ibid. f. Returns to Syracuse, 66. Seizes on it, 67. Defeats Dionysius, ibid. & seq. Noble answer to him, 68, b. Forced to flee to the Leontini, 69, & seq. Recalled, 70, d. Speech to his soldiers, 71, a. Relieves the city, ibid. d, e. Takes the citadel, 72. Why he put Heraclides to death, ibid. a, & e. Bafely murdered by Calipus, 73, a, b.
- the philosopher assassinated by Pompey, 668, b.
- Cassius's* account of Arrian, vi. 49, sub not. Life of Antoninus lost, 55, c. Made governor of Smyrna, 132, a. Consulship and honours under Alexander, 140, c, d. Retirement, ibid. His account of the then Roman legions, ibid. e, f. His other writings, 149, sub not.
- Dionysian* festival, what, v. 174, b, (T).
- Dionysius I.* the tyrant of Syracuse, iii. 43, & seq. Chosen their generalissimo, 44, f. Obtains a guard, 45, b. Declares himself king, ibid. e. Makes peace with Imilcar, 46. Disarms the Syraculans, 47, & seq. Wars against Carthage, 48, & seq. His army and fleet, 49. Takes Motya, 50, b. Defeated at sea, 51, & seq. Besieged in Syracuse, 52, b, c. Defeats the Carthaginians, 54, & seq. And Rhegians, 55, f. Success in Italy, 56, & seq. Takes Rhegium, 58. Barbarity to Phyto, ibid. d, e. Affectation of poetry, ibid. & seq. Ill success at the Olympic games, 59, d, e. Against the Carthaginians, 60. Makes peace with them, ibid. c. His death and character, ibid. & seq. Offspring, 61, & seq. See also vol. vi. 750, & seq.
- II. succeeds his father, 63, a—c. Sends three times for Plato, ibid. & seq. Treatment of him, 64. Gives a loose to all vices, 66, a. Defeated by Dion, 67, b, c. Forced to flee into Italy, 69, b. Recovers Syracuse after ten years absence, 73, c. Surrenders himself to Timoleon, 76, a. Keeps a school at Corinth, ibid. c. See also vol. vi. 774, & seq.
- tyrant of Heraclea, iii. 824. His death and character, 825, a.
- of Halicarnassus, his opinion of the Aborigines, iv. 414.
- A famed geographer, v. 328, a. When he flourished, 458, sub not.
- the first created count, vi. 272, a.
- † Diopetes's oracle at Sparta, ii. 606, a, & not.
- Diophanes's* brave attempt against Seleucus, iii. 557, (L). 771, e, f.
- † Dioporias, a city in Colchis, iii. 833, a.
- Dioporidae*, where born, ii. 341, c.
- Murdered by Achilles, iii. 675, e.
- Diopocintibus*, the month of, explained, iv. 65, (C).
- Diopuri*, Cabiri, their extract, &c. i. 134, a. Build the first complete ship, ibid. &c. The first sailors after the flood, 136.
- Build the first temple, ibid. (K). Substituted to Bacchus, iii. 375, 377, b, c. Their worship at Carthage, vi. 694, d, c.
- † Diopopolis, a city in Lesser Thebais, i. 175, e.
- burnt by Gallus, vi. 286, b.
- Dis*, or Pluto, a prince of Celtic race, ii. 257, c. 263, a, & not.
- Disciples*, seventy, appointed by Christ, iv. 222, & (R). Their office and joyful return, 224, c.
- Dispersion* of mankind after the flood, i. 156, f. The time of it, 157, b, c. A double one supposed by some, ibid. The number of mankind at that time, 158, b, c.
- Distagerda*, the Roman prisoners and standards of, released by Heraclius, vi. 541, e, f.
- Diverfions* used among the Jews, i. 695, a.
- Divinations* various kinds of, used by the Jews, i. 693, e, (P). Among the Celtes, ii. 252, c.
- Divitiacus* gets footing in Britain, 421, (B). Resistance against the Romans, vii. 369, b.
- Divorce* permitted to the Jews, i. 682, a. Unknown to the patriarchs, ibid. In what cases allowed, ibid. b, c. The form of the bill, &c. 683, b. Whether women might divorce husbands, ibid. (X).
- become frequent among the Romans, iv. 683, e.
- † Dravidum, now Metz, plundered by Vitellius, v. 600, b.
- Drubius*, the murderer of Ataulphus, vi. 407, e.
- † Dobuni, where sited, vii. 409, a, b. Wars, ibid. o.
- † —in Britain, where sited, vii. 409, a, b. At war with their neighbours, ibid. c.
- Dodecatheon*, one of Octavius's feasts, why so called, v. 288, c, & (S).
- † Dodanim, the son of Javan, where seated, i. 169, a.
- the first peoplers of Epirus, iii. 798, b.
- † Dodona, the city of, described, ii. 796, c. The temple, grove, and oracle, ibid. (K). The temple plundered and burnt, ii. 653, c.
- Dodwell's* sentiment of Adrian's adoption confused, vi. 26, a, b. 46, (C).
- Doeg*, a Celtic prince, ii. 257, b. Places that bear his name, ibid.
- Doeg*, an Edomite, puts to death the priests of Najoth, i. 767, pass.
- Dog*, why worshipped by the Egyptians, i. 208, e. 210, b. Why hated by the Romans, iv. 565, f. Eaten by the Carthaginians, vi. 705.
- Dolabella*, Cornel. triumphs over the Lusitanians, v. 45, b. Chosen consul, 78, d. Accused and acquitted, 90, b. Made Cæsar's admiral, 135, b. Raises tumult in favour of debtors, 154, c, d. Supplants Cassius, 200, c, d. Cruel treachery to Trebonius, 203, e, f. Proscribed, 204, b. Ill success against Cassius, 218, c, f. Defeated at sea, 219, c. His death, ibid. d.
- rank flattery to Tiberius, 410.
- Pub.* success in Afric, 421, b, c. Turns informer, 432, b.
- Cornel.* confined at Aquitanium, 605, a. Accused of treason, 615, e. Maltreated by Vitellius, ibid. f.
- Doichenius*, Apello, why so called, vii. 356, d.
- † Dolonci, who, and whence, iii. 788, & seq.
- † Dolopes, where seated, ii. 381, d. Reduced by Perseus, iii. 483, e.
- Dolphins*, a battle between them and crocodiles, v. 578, (T).
- Domestics* forbid to inform against their masters, vi. 439, c.
- Domitia Longina* married to Domitian, v. 663, c.
- to Pricus, vi. 537, f.
- Domitian*, the son of Vespasian, v. 636, e. His narrow escape out of the capitol, 632, c, (Z). Saluted Cæsar, 635, a. First indices of his debauchery, ibid. d. Takes the praetorship upon him, 645, a. First appearance in the senate, ibid. c. Suspected of poisoning his brother, 662, c. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. f. His private character, ibid. & seq. Gallic expedition diverted, 663, e, f. Studies poetry, &c. 664, a, b. Public buildings, 665, a, b. Repairs the libraries, ibid. b, c. Diversion in catching of flies, ibid. c. Whollome laws, ibid. d, e. Cruelty to Sabinus, ibid. e, f. Sham triumph over the Cantans, 667, e, f. Treachery to Agricola, 673, a—d. Sham victories in Sarmatia, 674, a, b. Cruelties, ibid. c, d. Universal jealousy, 675, a—c. Extortions and rapines, ibid. d—f. Assumes divine honours, 676, c—d. Looses his armies in several provinces, 677, c. Marches against the Dacians, ibid. e. Treachery to the Quadi, &c. 678, d. Shameful flight, ibid. e. And peace with the Dacians, ibid. f. Mock triumph at Rome, 679, a. Butcheries there, ibid. & seq. Naval and land shews, ibid. f. Ghastly entertainment to the senators, &c. 681, b, c. Edict against the growth of vines, ibid. d. Of what duration, ibid. e. Expedition against the Sarmatians, 684, a. Horrid cruelties, ibid. & seq. Jealousy of Nerva, vi. 2, c. Death, ibid. e.
- pretext of the east, ill conduct and miserable end, 291, b—c.
- Domitilla*, the mother and sister of Domitian, v. 636, e.
- Domitius*, Cn. Calvin's success against the Senones, iv. 643, d.
- against the Gauls, 809, & seq. Treachery to the Avernian king, 810, c, d.
- L.* butchered by young Marius, v. 71, c.
- Cn. Abenubarb.* defeated and killed, 80, d, e.
- Luc.* defeated in Lusitania, 87, c.

- Domitius, Abenobarbus.* Vid. sub Abenobarbus, v. 121, & seq.
Calvinus defeated by Pharnaces, 153, b.
Pub. Corn. chosen consul, 186, c. Approves of Cæsar's murder, ibid. d, e.
 — treachery to Caius, 332, (P).
 — Lucius's death and character, 427, a, b.
 — Afer, the accuser of Claudia, 427, e. Of Q. Varius, 432, b. Cnei. betrothed to Agrippina, 435, b. His sad character, ibid. (L).
 — Corbulo kills Afer, and succeeds him, 469, (N). His politic escape, 472, (P). Made consul, 473. His success against the Chauci, 501, b. Stopped by Claudius, ibid. d. His long canal in Flanders, ibid. & seq.
 — Corbulo, his excellent character, 567, a, b. Put to death by Nero, ibid. c.
 — the son of Agrippina, marries Octavia, 506, f. Adopted by Claudius, 507, d, (R). Takes the name of Nero, 508, a. The rest see under Nero, 645, & seq.
 † Don, Tanais, river, ii. 266, e.
Donades, an Athenian prisoner, his bold speech to Philip, ii. 548, c.
Donatists suppressed by Constantine, vi. 252, a, b. By the council of Arles, 254, b. In Africa, 278, b. Court the revolted Firmus, 359, c. Suppressed by Gratian, 379, b. 389, b. Favoured by Honorius, 460, d.
Donatus, his writings and character, vi. 316, & seq. sub not.
 † Domes, or Little Tanais, river, ii. 268, c.
 † Dorians, where feated, ii. 413, b. Invade Peloponnesus, ibid. & seq. Their original, 759, e. Government, 761. Settlements in Asia, ibid. & seq. Religion, 762, d. Settle in Rhodes, iii. 132, e. In Crete, 163, d.
Dorias, the solemnity of, iii. 230, e.
 † Doric dialect and order, ii. 762, d, (C).
 — faction in Sicily, 505, c.
Doridas, king of Corinth, invaded by the Dores, ii. 394, c.
Dorius I. king of Rhodes, iii. 133, a. — II. his victories, 134, c.
Dorilaus defeated by Sylla, iii. 734.
Dorimachus, an infamous Ætolian robber, ii. 650, c. Invades Epirus, 693, c. Thessaly, 657, e.
 † Doris, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Its situation, names, &c. 413, b. Chief cities, 759, a. Invaded by the Phocians, 595, a.
 — the metropolis of the Dorians, by whom built, 413.
 — Antipater's mother, conspires against Herod, iv. 152, d. Banished, 153, b.
Doroteus, one of the compilers of the pandects, vi. 530, c.
Doryphorus poisoned by Nero, v. 544, b, c.
Doryllus, king of Sparta, ii. 404.
Dositheus's success against the Syrians, iv. 67, a. In Idumea, 68, b. The betrayer of Hyrcan, 137, (K).
Dove sent out of the ark by Noah, i. 106. Why chosen, ibid. (N). Why worshipped by the Affyrians, 875, (P).
Doxareas's presents and submission to Alexander, iii. 390, b.
Drachm of gold, its value, iv. 5, (I).
Drachon, archon of Athens, his bloody laws, ii. 419. Abrogated by Solon, 429, f.
 † Draconia, island, vi. 672, sub not. (B).
 † Dracumon, a city in Icaria, iii. 211, f.
 † Drangiana, a province of Persia, described, ii. 29, a.
 † Drepane, a city in Bithynia, iii. 822.
Drepanius Pacat's panegyric on Theodosius, vi. 415, c.
 † Drepanum, a city in Sicily, iii. 7, c. The siege of, iv. 675, c. Raised, 676, c. Refused, 677. Whence called Helicopolis, vi. 262, b. Relieved by Carthalo, 843, c. Besieged by Fabius, 849, b.
Drest, laws concerning that of the Jews, i. 688, b. How regulated by Lycurgus, ii. 562, f.
 † Drilli, a fierce northern people, vi. 41, a.
Droctus's treachery and promotion, vii. 681, c. Narrow escape, ibid. e.
Drogo heads the Bulgarians into Mæsia, vii. 623, f.
Druids held the dissolution of the world by fire and water, i. 31, c. Encourage the Gauls to revolt, vi. 641, f.
 — Gaulish, whence they had their religion, vii. 328, d, e, & seq. Veneration for oaks, 331, & seq. For the mistletoe of it, 332, pass. & not. Under a grand druid, 334, a, b. Offer up human victims, ibid. c—e. Officiate in white, 335, c, (K). Threatened into polytheism, and forced to it, 336, & seq. 341, & seq. Their overgrown power in Gaul, 348, b, (B). 361, a, b. How long it lasted, 349, a. Suppressed by the Romans, 348, & seq. 350, a, b. Take the name of Senani, ibid. c. Whether they had any oracles, 356, b, c. Their antiquity, doctrines, &c. 360, & seq. Presides at councils, elections, &c. 361, c, d. Celebrity, ibid. e. Three grand doctrines, ibid. & seq. Skill in physics, astronomy, &c. 362, pass. & notes. Believed a general dissolution by fire, &c. 363, &c. Contempt of writing, 381, a, b, (Q). Did not believe transmigration, 390, c, (E).
 — in Germany, their power, doctrines, &c. [417], a, b.
 — in Britain, whence so called, 406, b, c. Their office, power, &c. ibid. & seq. Arch or grand druid resided in Britain, vii. 361, b, c. How chosen, ibid. d.
 VOL. VII. N°. 11.
Druides, in Gaul, believed inspired, 363, d. Three orders of them, 364, a, b. Inhuman auguries, ibid. d, & (I).
Drums, how used by the Parthians, iv. 290, d.
Drunkennes abhorred by the Scythians, ii. 277. By the Lacedæmonians, 562, d.
 † Druvia river, whence it springs, iv. 413, d.
 † Drusian weapons, whence so called, 418, (T).
 † Drusiana fissa, by whom made, vi. 319, f. Described, 382, (Q).
Drusilla, daughter of Herod Agrippa, iv. 262, d. Married to Azizus, 265, a. To Felix, ibid. b.
 — married to L. Cassius, v. 437, (N). 446, c. Privileged by Caligula, 460, c, d. Her death, and incest with him, 466, d, e. Apotheosis, ibid. & seq.
 — the pretended daughter of Caligula, born, 477, b, (W). Presented by him to the gods, ibid. c, d.
Drusus, M. ends the war with the Scordisci, v. 5, e. The innocent cause of the social war, 47, b. His noble scheme to quell the public discontent, ibid. & seq. Stabbed to death, 48, d. His character, ibid. e. & 47, d.
 — the father of Livia, kills himself, 257, d.
 — her son's bravery against the Germans, 314, a. In Gaul, 319, a—d. Chosen consul, 320, d. Subdues the Germans, ibid. e. Stopped by prodigies and death, ibid. f. Funeral honours, 321, pass. Altar destroyed, 381, c, (M).
 — Germanicus. See under Germanicus, 321, & seq.
 — the son of Tiberius, advanced by Augustus, 340, b. Made questor, 344, b. Insulted by the revolted legions, 362, & seq. Punishes them, 364, a. Second consulship, 372, a. Success in Illyricum, 391, d. In Germany, 396, b, c. Meets the ashes of Germanicus, 403, c. Returns to Illyricum, 404, b. Behaviour to Piso, ibid. c, d. Third consulship, 408, a. Government during Tiberius's absence, 409. Tribuneship, 412, b. Just complaints against Sejanus, 416, c, (R). Poisoned by him, 417, a. His funeral, 418. Character, offspring, &c. ibid. b, (T, V).
 — nephew of Germanicus, choiced with a pear, 488, a.
 — son of Germanicus, takes the toga, 416. Recommended to the senate, 417, c, d. Made governor of Rome, 424, a. Supplanted by Sejanus, 430, & seq. Accused to the senate, 436, pass. Imprisoned, 437, a, b. His singular precaution, 440, b, c. Cruel death, 447, e, & seq.
 — an impostor, detected, 459, a, b.
 † Dryopis, where seated, ii. 412, & (F).
Drypetis married to Hephestion, iii. 405, a. Murdered by Roxana, 418, d.
 † Drypbis, the temple of, in Eubæa, iii. 247, e.
Dædrius driven out by the Syracusans, iii. 13, & seq.
 † Dubris, Dover, port, vii. 408, e, f.
Ducas, John, sets his nephew upon the throne, vi. 605, f. Governs him, 606, a, b. Taken prisoner, ibid. c, d. In-veteracy against Volonates, 609, a.
 — success against the Turks, 611, f. Makes peace with Tzachas, 612, b. Defeats him, ibid. d.
 — Murtzuphis's treachery to Alexius, 626, f. Proclaimed emperor, 627, a, b. Wars with the Latin emperor, 629, & seq.
 — Vataces, succeeds Lascaris, 630, b. Success against the Latins, ibid. c. Allies with Azem, ibid. d. Ravages Thrace, 631, c. Dies, ibid. f.
 — his account of the taking of Constantinople, 652, & seq.
Duces, their office, vi. 271, e.
Duels, among the Gauls, the dernier resort, vii. 371, pass. Reflections on them, ibid. & seq. Brought thither by the Burgundi, 581, f. Edict to enforce the use of them, 582, a—c.
Dulcius, Caius, commands the Roman army, iv. 657. The fleet, 658. Defeats the Carthaginians, ibid. e, f. His triumph, 659.
 — his columna rostrata, explained, vi. 660, (D).
 — the consul, repulsed before Mytilstratum, 830, b. Forced to command the fleet, ibid. c. Defeats the Carthaginians, 831, c, d.
Dukes in Lombardy, their rise, vii. 679, c, & seq. Their power curtailed, 681, f. Succession suppressed, 684, c, d.
 † Dulichium, the island of, ii. 408, (M). One of the Echinades, iii. 241.
 † Duma, a city of Arabia Petraea, vii. 226, b, c.
Dumrox's treachery to the Romans, v. 117, c. Defeated and killed, 123, e.
 † Duncala, metropolis of Nubia, vii. 185, c.
 † Dumavad, a remarkable mountain in Persia, ii. 221.
 † Dura, where situated, iii. 533, (V).
Duras resigns his crown to Decabalus, vii. 611, e.
 — resigns the Dacian crown, v. 677, b.
 † — the city, overturned by an earthquake, vi. 277, d. Taken by the Ostrogoths, 515, c. Abandoned by them, ibid. f. See vol. vii. 521, d.
Duration, an essential distinction between God and his creatures, i. 5, 6.
 † Durdus mount, where sited, vii. 115, c. 145, (D).
 † Durius, river, in Lusitania, vii. 299, a.
 † Durnum, Dorchester, vii. 407, e.
 † Durocoravinum, where situated, vii. 409, a.
 9 S † Duro-

- † Duratrige, who and where sited, vii. 407, c.
Duumviri, their office, iv. 462, c. (M).
 — navales, 621, b.
 † Duut, and other rivers in Tangitania, unknown, vii. 145, a.
Dux Britannarum, his office, vii. 417, c. — e.
 † Dwarfs, their fights on the Roman stage, described, iv. 805, not. The region of, in Libya, vii. 178, a. (H).
 † Dwina, river, in Scythia, ii. 268.
Dymnus conspires against Alexander, iii. 364, a. Dies, ibid. d.
Dynames's treachery to Sylvanus, vi. 294, f. To Malaricus, 295, b, c.
Dynamis forced to marry Scribonius, v. 315, b. And Polemon, ibid. d.
Dynasties of Egypt, i. 92, d. Tables of them, 228, & seq.
 — the third and fourth of the Persians discussed, iv. 371, & seq.
 † Dyrrhacium, whether the same with Epidamnus, iii. 254, in fin. (G). Revolts, vi. 556, f. Taken by Guiscard, 609, f, & seq. Abandoned by his son, 611, c, d. Opens her gates to young Alexius, 625, e. Taken by the Romans, vii. 634, c. By the Bulgarians, 638, b.
Dysæ, inferior goddesses of the Saxons, their office, vii. 442, c, & seq. & (X).
 † Dyspargum, where situate, vii. 549, b.
Dyscoles. See Apollonius, vi. 84, not.

E

- EAGLE, a golden, set up by Herod, pulled down, iv. 182, c.
Eagles, Roman, a sanctuary, iv. 135, (D). By whom first borne, 424, b.
Earth and water, demanded in token of subjection, ii. 65, a, & not.
Earthquakes in Greece suspend the Peloponnesian war, ii. 507, f.
 — a dreadful one in Judea, iv. 137, a, (H). At Christ's crucifixion, 242, a.
 — twelve cities destroyed by another, v. 392.
 — in Asia, vi. 14, c. In Galatia, 19, f. At Antioch, 21, c, d. In Gallienus's time, 180, b. A dreadful one under Constantine, 276, f. Another in Pontus, Campania, &c. 277, c, d.
 — destroys one hundred and fifty cities, 304, c. Under Julian, 328, a. Under Valens, 366, b, c. 371, a. Under Theodosius, 426, b. In the east, under Arcadius, 437, c. Under Theodosius II. 489, a, b. At Antioch, 506. At Cyzicus, ibid. c. At Neocæsarea, &c. 520, b. At Antioch, &c. 523, f. Under Justinian, 529, c. At Antioch, 534, f, & seq. Constantinople, 554, c. Dreadful ones under Constantine IV. 555, b. Under Michael Balbus, 567, a. Under Romanus II. 595, b. 596, c. Under Ducas, 603, c.
Easter, Jewish. See Passover, i. 500, a, & seq.
 — Christian, settled by Gratian, vi. 397, a. Criminals released at the solemnity, 408, a. Whence so called, vii. 442, c.
Eating regulated by Lycurgus, ii. 562, a.
 † Ebal, mount, i. 573. The curses and blessings set upon it and Garizzim, 540, c.
 † Eber, who, i. 118, a, b, (N). From whom descended, 162, e. Where settled, 163, c. The etymon of that name, 128, (K). Whether concerned in the building of Babel, 129, (M). Hebrews believed to derive their name from him, ibid. & seq. & (L).
 † Ebesus, a Carthaginian colony, where situate, vi. 729, c, f.
Eblis, prince of the fallen angels, among the Turks, i. 51, a.
 † Ebora, a city in Lusitania, vii. 298, b.
 † Eboracum, York, the metropolis of the Brigantes, vii. 412, b. Its court, ibid. c, d. Whence styled Legio VIa. 419, b.
 † Eburodunum, Brin, cities of the Quadi, vii. 602, d.
 † Eburum, Olmuz, cities of the Quadi, vii. 602, d.
 † Ebusus, island and city, vii. 309, a.
 † Ecbatan, the metropolis of Persia, described, ii. 2, a. By whom built, ibid. not. Not razed by Nebuchodonosor, 16, a.
 † Ecclesia, the grand court of Athens, its power, &c. iii. 439, a, &c.
Ecclesiastics, their immunities. See Clergy, vi. 248, & seq.
 † Ecdipon, where situate, iv. 125, (R).
Ecbemus assists the Athenians against the Heraclidæ, ii. 379, c.
Ecbmis, king of Arcadia, ii. 380.
Echinades islands described, iii. 241.
Eilestus doomed to death by Commodus, vi. 88, b. 93, b. Conspires against him, ibid. c. Dies in defence of Pertinax, 99, a.
Eclipses, first foretold by Thales, i. 218, d. ii. 18, c.
 — of the moon, scares the Macedonians, 163, e. How interpreted by the soothsayers, 164, a.
 — foretold by Sulpit. Gallus, iii. 492, b. Throws the Gauls into a panic, 776. Dreadful to the Sicilians, vi. 739, & seq.
Eephanas, the Syracusan, his principles of a vacuum, &c. i. 20, a.
 † Ecron razed by Judas Maccabeus, iii. 587, c.
Erebe's treachery and punishment, vi. 466, f.

- Edecon* sent ambassador to Constantinople, vii. 469, e, f. Discovers Theodosius's treachery to Attila, 470, b.
Edemon's revolt in Mauritania, v. 478, d.
 † Eden, its situation, i. 53, b, c. Extravagant notions about it, whence, 54, a. A local paradise, ibid. c. Ill placed in Syria and Armenia, 55. And Chaldea, 56, b—d, e, f. A new scheme proposed, 57, a, b. The Molait account of it imperfect, ibid. c, d.
 † Edenburgh's frith fortified, vii. 414, a.
 † Edessa, the kingdom of, described, iii. 847, & seq. Made a Roman province, 848.
 † — metropolis of that kingdom, 847, a. Taken by Saporis, iv. 327, b. Besieged by Cosroes I. 354, a, & (X). Taken by Cosroes II. 366, b (See also vi. 539, c.). Burnt by the Romans, vi. 24, b. Taken by Calius, 65, c. Made a Roman colony, 127, b. Sells a dear passage to the Persians, 178, b. Forgiven by Constantius, 316, a. Narrow escape from the Saracens, 596, d, e.
Edessans, their singular prayer against Alaric, vi. 449, c.
Edictum perpetuum, when first published, vi. 37, c.
Edobie, general of the Franks, vii. 558.
 † Edom, whence so called, i. 308, a. By whom first inhabited, ibid. b. Described, ibid. & seq. Transferred into Judea, 316, c.
 † Edomites, whence so called, i. 305. Their country, cities, &c. 308, b—d. 309, b, c. Government, &c. 310, c—e. Arts and sciences, 311, d, e. Religion, ibid. Grant a passage to the Israelites, 313, c. 314, a—c. Their trade, navigation, &c. ibid. c. Defeated by David, ibid. d. Massacred by Joab six successive months, ibid. & seq. Retire to Azotus and the Persian gulf, 315, a. Subjection to Judah till the reign of Jehoshaphat, ibid. c, &c. Make themselves a king, 316, a. Defeated by Amaziah, ibid. b. War with the Moabites, ibid. c. Subdued by the Babylonians, ibid. d. Revenge on the Jews, ibid. Whence called Nabateans, ibid. e. Oppressed by the Jews, 317, b. Fall under the Seleucidae, ibid. War with the Maccabees, ibid. c, d. Subdued by Hyrcan, and forced to be circumcised, ibid. & seq. When admitted into the congregation, 665.
 † Edoni, a people of Thrace, iii. 790, f. Their kings, 791.
 † Edonia, where sited, iii. 257, b.
 † Edri, the residence of the king of Bastan, i. 330, d.
Etion killed by Achilles, ii. 342, & seq.
 † Ege, taken by Pyrrhus, iii. 816.
Egeria the nymph's fabulous intercourse with Numa, iv. 435, a.
Egerius Cellatinus, why so called, iv. 446, d. See Cellatinus, 447, & seq.
 † Egesta, Segesta, a city in Sicily, iii. 7, f.
 † Egissinus invite the Athenians to them, iii. 25, & seq. And the Carthaginians, 37, & seq. Massacred by Agathocles, 87, a. Invite the Carthaginians against the Selinuntians, vi. 737, f. Their bravery against the Syracusans, 759, a, b.
Egg, in the Egyptian cosmogony, the symbol of the world, i. 13, d. Worshipped by the Phœnicians, 17, a. Image of the world among the Chaldeans, Chinese, &c. ibid. First egg laid in the bosom of Erebus, 18, a. Serpentine egg among the Gauls explained, vii. 362, c, & seq. & notes.
Eglon, king of Moab, stabbed by Ehud, i. 290, a, b. 742, c.
Egregori, watching angels, i. 82, (N). Their love to the daughters of men, ibid.
 † Egypt, whence named Chemia, i. 174, b. Its other names, ibid. c. Origin, situation, &c. ibid. & seq. Division, 175, & seq. Climate, soil, &c. 176, d. Fertility from the Nile, 179, f. Different appearance in two seasons, 180, b, c. Its animals, 181, b, c. Chief cities, 175, & seq. Vegetables, 182, c, f. Artificial rarities, 183, d, e. Ruins near the cataracts, 196, & seq. At Dandera, 197, b. Divided into twelve kingdoms, 205, & seq. United under Pliamaticus, ibid. f. Becomes a Persian province, 279, a. Submits to Alexander, ibid. b. Invaded by Cosroes, iv. 366, d. How become habitable, vii. 194, b, c.
Egyptians, their extract, i. 198, a. Warlike genius, 201, c. Their government, kings, &c. 198, & seq. Honours paid to their dead ones, 199, c—g. Political division of their kingdom, 200, a—c. Reverence to their priests, ibid. c. Their military men, ibid. e, f. Skill in horsemanship, &c. ibid. & seq. Husbandmen and shepherds, 201. Courts of justice, 202, b—d. Remarkable laws, ibid. e—g. Religion, 203, g, & seq. Affirmed the first rearsers of altars, &c. 204, a. Worship animals and vegetables, ibid. c, f. The former maintained, fed, and buried, at a vast charge, 208, c—g. 209, c—e. Reasons alleged for their worship, 210, a, b. The origin of it, ibid. & seq. Human sacrifices, 211, f, & seq. Temples, 212, d. Education, ibid. e, f. Dislike of music, wrestling, &c. 213, a. Diet, ibid. b. Aversion to swines flesh, ibid. c. Entertainments, ibid. d—f. Circumcision, ibid. & seq. Dress, 214. Womens employ, ibid. Belief of the immortality of the soul, ibid. d. Funerals, embalming, &c. ibid. f, & seq. Sepulchres, 216, & seq. Early wisdom and learning, 217, d. Geometry, astronomy, &c. invented and cultivated by them, 218, a—d. Natural philosophy, 219. Physics, 220, a. Magic, ibid. c, d. Painting, carving, &c. 221, c, f. Method

- Method of preserving learning, 222, c. Literary monuments, ibid. d—f. Hieroglyphics, &c. 223, & seq. 224, & seq. Three different ways of writing, 225. Three sorts of characters explained, ibid. & seq. & (L), (M). Trade, navigation, and aversion to the sea, 226, & seq. Their chronology, 227, & seq. Dynasties, 228, & seq. Kings, 231, & seq. Their theology according to Eusebius, 13, & seq. The cause of their aversion to the Jews, 473, d. Famine under Joseph, 459, & seq. Reduced by the Persians, 274, & seq. To the lowest slavery, 275, e, f. Their fabulous history, 241, b, & seq. Table of their gods, demigods, before the flood, 92, 93, & seq. Plagues under Moses, 496, & seq. First-born slain, 501, c. Drowned in the Red-sea, 502, & seq. When to be received into the Israelitish congregation, 665. The state of it under the Ptolemies, iii. 623, & seq. A list of them, ibid. Why disaffected to the Persians, 345, c.
- Egyptian* astronomers, their flattery to Alexander, 350, a.
- Ehud*, second judge of Israel, stabs Eglon, i. 289, d, e. 742, e. Whether the action is justifiable, 290, (R).
- † Ekron, Accaron, a city of Palestine, 341, c. The worship of Baalzebub there, ibid.
- Elab*, king of Israel, murdered by Zimri, i. 358, b. 808, d.
- † — the valley of, where David slew Goliath, 574, b.
- † Elam, one of the chiefs of the line of Shem, i. 163, e, f. The father of the Persians, ii. 26, & seq. & (A).
- † — the kingdom of, where situated, i. 952, c, (G). ii. 20, (A). 57, a. 81, c. Subdued by Nabuchadnezzar, ibid.
- † Elatea, taken by Philip, ii. 548, a. iii. 36, c.
- † Elatib, a sea-port on the Arabic gulph, i. 310, a. Taken by David, ibid. b. By Hazael, 389, (D). By Azariah, ibid. Retaken and colonized by Rezin, 389, c.
- Elbis*, the devil, according to the Mohammedans, i. 46, b.
- † Elbo, island, how formed, i. 264, a.
- Elbeus*, Sanctoniatbo's history dedicated to, i. 410.
- Eldad* and Medad prophesy in Moses's camp, i. 525, (H).
- a spurious book quoted by Hermes, ibid.
- Eldod*'s inveteracy against Hengist, vii. 446, & seq. & (A).
- † Elea, where situated, iii. 551, (I).
- Eleans* league with the Athenians, ii. 514, & not. Invaded by the Spartans, 598, & seq. Make peace with them, 600, a. Join with Antiochus, 718, d.
- Eleatic* sect, an account of, i. 6, c.
- Eleatus* settles in Phocis, ii. 379, a. The founder of Elateas, 389, c.
- Eleazar*, the son of Aaron, i. 490, a. Makes the censers of Korah into a covering for the altar, 530, c. Installed by Moses into his father's dignity, 532, c.
- reproves Izates's hypocrisy, iii. 849.
- made high-priest, iv. 36, a, b. Sends the seventy interpreters to Ptolemy, 38, not.
- a venerable Jew, martyred, 54, a, b. A furly Pharisee's affront to Hyrcan, 95, b, (W).
- a foolish priest betrays the sacred treasury, 115, d.
- the son of Annas, made high-priest, 194, b. Carried off by the sicarii, 267, b. Murdered by the Zelots, 269.
- head of the Zelots, defeats the Romans, 269, c. Made governor of Idumea, 270, d.
- a worthy priest, opposes the Zelots, 278, b. Surprised by Gischala, 280, a, b. His desperate end at Massada, 290, b.
- a gigantic Jew, sent to Rome, v. 462, c.
- Eletra*, the mother of Dardanus, ii. 312, & seq. & (I).
- Elements*, all revered by the Persians, ii. 74, c. Laws and method for preserving them pure, ibid. &c.
- † Elephantis, where sited, vii. 213, a, (E). 217, c.
- † Elephantopbagi, who, and where sited, vii. 184, c.
- Elephantis* rout the Romans, iii. 309, e, f. A remedy found against it, 813, a. 815, c, d. When first led in triumph at Rome, iv. 646, f. One hundred and four follow that of Metellus, 669, a. Baited to death afterwards, ibid. b. Taught to walk upon the rope, v. 281, c. Long dreaded by the Romans, vi. 844, a. Brought at first with Indian leaders, ibid. c, (Y). When first used by the Carthaginians, 856, (G). How forced over the Rhosne, vii. 11, d, e. Remarks on that docile animal, ibid. (F).
- Elepbemr* kills his grandfather, iii. 250, d. Banished, ibid. d. Killed before Troy, 351, a.
- Elieir*'s stratagem to find out his treacherous subjects, vi. 556, b. Turns christian, and abdicates, ibid. f.
- Elephaan* subdues the Homerites, vii. 219, c. Turns christian, ibid. & seq. His character, ibid. (N).
- Eleus*, king of Elis, ii. 407, d.
- Eleusians* murdered by the thirty tyrants, ii. 531, b.
- † Eleusina damaged by the overflow of the Cephissus, vi. 35, f.
- the high-priest of, his magical tricks with Julian, 323, a.
- † Eleusis, a sea-port of Attica, ii. 361, b, (A). The rites of Ceres performed there, 732, not.
- † Eleuthera, a city in Crete, described, iii. 161. Taken by Metellus, 171. Her walls broken with vinegar, vii. 16, a.
- Eleutherus* sent exarch into Italy, vii. 687, b, c, (T). His treason and death, 688, b—d.
- Elis* sacrificed to by the Saxons, vii. 442, c.
- Eli*, high-priest and judge of Israel, i. 754, c. Shameful remissness to his sons, ibid. d. Threatened by a prophet from God, 755, pass. His unhappy end, 756, b.
- Eli*, Eli, &c. pl. xxii. in what sense to be understood, iv. 241, (D). In what language, ibid.
- Eliakim*. See Jebaiakim, i. 848, b, c.
- Eliat*, the Bolporan king, defeats and kills Justinian, vi. 549, f.
- Eliabib*, an unworthy jewish priest, iv. 24, a. His death, 26, c.
- Eliab*, the prophet, many particulars relating to him, i. 809, (D). Meeting with Ahab, 810, b. Zeal against Baal, ibid. &c.
- † Elim, one of the Israelitish encampments, i. 508, f.
- † Eli, the kingdom of, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Whence so named, 405, b. Its situation, extent, &c. ibid. c, d. By whom founded 407, b. Its kings, &c. ibid. & seq. Ruined by war and pestilence, 409, a.
- † — metropolis of that kingdom, 405, c. See also vol. i. 168, a.
- Elija*, the eighth son of Japhet, i. 118, b.
- Dido, her husband murdered by Pygmalion, i. 415, & seq. Flees into Africa, 416, & seq. The time of her coming to Carthage, 658, & seq. Whether she founded it, ibid. Worshipped there, 692, b, c. Her flight from Tyre, 719, c. Touching at Cyprus, 720, d, e. Settling in Africa, 721, pass. Death, 722, c—e. Character, 723, pass. Whether cotemporary with Aeneas, ibid. d, e.
- Elijubeth*, the wife of Aaron, i. 490.
- the mother of John the baptist. Her pregnancy, iv. 154.
- † Elijka, eldest son of Javan, where settled, i. 168.
- the prophet, cures Naaman of his leprosy, 385, & seq. Persecuted by Benhadad, 387. Foretells his death, and Hazael's treason, 387, d.
- Elium*, in the Phœnician history, the same with Lamech, i. 88, b. Why that name given to Noah, 89, (N).
- Ella* defeats the Britons, vii. 446, c, d. Defeated, ibid. c. Enlarges his kingdom, 447, b, c. His death, 449, c.
- Attila's son, made king of the Acatzini, 465, a.
- Eleibichus* sent to judge the Antiochians, vi. 409. His severity softened, ibid. & seq.
- † Ellopta, in Eubœa, by whom built, iii. 249, c.
- † Elon, not a plain, but an oak, i. 424, (G).
- one of the judges of Israel, 753, d.
- Elpidius* preserves Symmachus's writings, vi. 428, not.
- Eiul*, the twelfth month of the jewish year, i. 611, (K).
- the fast of, in memory of the ill report of the ten spies, 527, a.
- Elulacus*, king of Tyre, takes Gath, i. 416, d. Defends Tyre against the Assyrians, ibid. c. Disperses their fleet, ibid. & seq.
- † Elyma, Elymais, where placed, i. 416, f. Whence so called, ii. 314, d.
- † — a city of Macedon, iii. 255, a.
- † — the kingdom of, 852.
- † — metropolis of, ibid.
- † — the temple of, plundered, ibid. c.
- Elymas* assists Agathocles, vii. 800, b. Turns tail, and defeated by him, ibid. c, d.
- Elymean* kings, unknown by name, iii. 852, d, e.
- † Emathia, from whom so called, ii. 316, f.
- † Emerita Augusta, by whom built, v. 299, c. New-colonized by Octo, 602, c. Described, vii. 298, b.
- † Emeriti, veterans, why so called, v. 366, (G).
- † Emessa, the kingdom of, described, iii. 848. The cathedral of, built by Constantius, vi. 316, b.
- † Emessini kill young Quietus, vi. 180, c. Put to the sword, ibid. f. Surrender to Aurelianus, 190, d, e.
- Emilianus*, Scipio, passes mount Olympus, iii. 491, c.
- Emilius*, Paul succeeds against Perseus, iii. 490, & seq. 492. Speech to him, 495, c. Treatment of him, 496, & seq. New-models the Macedonian government, ibid. & seq. Triumph, 499.
- † Emis, the powerful descendants of Ham, i. 236, c. Why called Moabites, ibid. d. Driven out by them, ibid.
- † Emmaus, whence so called, iv. 189, (T). Where situated, 194, (A). Fortified by the Syrians, 76, c. Whence called Nicopolis, 290, (E).
- Empedocles* believed the world to be compounded of minute particles, i. 20, a. His two masters, 29, a. Physiology explained, ibid. &c. Turns the stream of two rivers, iii. 7, a. His famed saying of the Agrigentines, vi. 749, c.
- Emperer*, the import of that title changed, v. 295, a. In Italy, their territories, vii. 721, b.
- Emponia*'s fidelity to her husband, v. 654, pass. Put to death, ibid. d.
- † Emporium taken by Hannibal, vi. 741, a.
- † Empulum taken by the Romans, iv. 591, c.
- En Sopb*, of the Jews, i. 25, b.
- Enceladus*'s avarice raises a revolt in Gaul, v. 312, f. Buys his pardon, 313, d.
- † Encella taken by Dionysius, vi. 773, d. By Timoleon, 781, d.
- Encbele* chuse Cadmus their general, ii. 372, b.
- Encratite Manichees*, whence so called, vi. 397, a.

Endrites,

- Endortes*, a Celtic general, taken and crucified, vi. 866, (M).
Endymion, king of Elis, the fable of, ii. 407, b, (H).
 † England. See Britain, vii. 400, & seq. Whence called Anglia and Saxony, 441, d, e.
 † English take some provinces from the Welsh, vii. 454, a.
 † Engoulesme taken by the Franks, vii. 576, d.
 † Engyuma, city in Sicily, iii. 9, c. Spared by Marcellus, 124, c.
 † Enna, the city of, iii. 9, a. Taken by Dionysius, 48, c. Attempted, 114, e. Taken by Sicilian slaves, iv. 795, b. By the Agrigentines, vi. 802, (P). By Hamilcar, 832, c. Betrayed to the Romans, 833, d.
Ennius, the poet, his writings, &c. iv. 680, d. Instructs Cato in Sardinia, 750, b.
 — Lucius, his frivolous trial, v. 412, b.
Ennon, the supposed son of Job, i. 481, a.
Enoch translated into heaven, i. 78, b, (N). Various opinions concerning him, ibid. & seq.
 — the spurious book of, 79, a. Some fragments of it, 80, (N).
Enos, the son of Seth, when born, i. 77.
 † Entella surprised by the Campanians, iii. 48, b.
 † Eordians, where seated, iii. 255, a.
Eoric settles upon the Loyre, vi. 485, c.
Eoster worshipped by the Saxons, vii. 442, e.
Epaminondas defeats the Spartans in Bithynia, ii. 616, b — e. Invades Laconia, 617, d. Rebuilds Messene, ibid. f. Breaks into Peloponnesus, 618. Frustrated in his attempt against Sparta, 619, c. Against Mantinea, ibid. e. Slain, ibid. f. — guardian to Philip, iii. 287, c. His character, 288, a.
 † Epanteis, who, vii. 73, a.
Epaphroditus sent to watch Cleopatra, iii. 689, & seq.
 — Sylla, why so called, v. 80, (W).
Epeus, the pretended contriver of the Trojan horse, ii. 407, c.
Ephebian letters, a proverb, ii. 756, a, & not.
Ephefians, their pride, iii. 317, d.
 † Ephefus, a city of Lydia, ii. 289, c. Metropolis of Ionia, by whom built, 369. Opens its gates to Alexander, 156. Greatly enriched by him, ibid. d. The ancient and modern state of it, 753, & seq. Tyrants of it, 755, e. How devoted to Diana, ibid. f. Ruined by Sylla, 766, & seq.
 — taken by Antiochus, iii. 545, a.
 — the temple of, the only one that escaped the Persian fury, ii. 117, e. Spared by Demetrius, iii. 441. Plundered by the By the Goths, 495, b.
Epheia, the court of, why instituted, ii. 368. Their power, &c. 421, c. 430, c.
Epheletes, head of the Athenian party, ii. 485. His character, ibid. & seq. Assassinated, 487, b.
 † Epheira, by whom built, ii. 321, f. The old name of Corinth, 390, c.
Epheod of the Jewish high-priest described, i. 637, a — c.
Ephevi of Sparta, by whom instituted, ii. 574, a, & not. Their office, ibid. &c. Become tyrants, 626, d. 630, (V). Murdered, ibid. & 634, d. How like the Carthaginian quinquevirs, vi. 677, a — c, (H).
Epheorus's writings and character, vi. 185, (Y). 739, (E).
Ephebraim born, i. 453, b. Presented to and blest by Jacob, 460, d.
 † — the tribe of, their lot in the promised land, 560, b.
 † — the wood of, 576, a.
Ephebraimites defeated by Jephtha, i. 753, a, b.
 † Ephebron, the Hittite, his generous behaviour to Abraham, i. 329, a, b.
 — taken by Judas Maccabeus, iv. 67, d.
 † Ephebraites, who, and where sited, vi. 402, c. Besiege Edessa, ibid.
Epheira, sister and concubine of Cimon, ii. 406. 490, sub not. Her brave speech to Pericles, 495, c.
Ephebris forwards the conspiracy against Nero, v. 551, e, f. Imprisoned, 552, a. Her signal constancy on the rack, 553, c. Death, ibid. d.
 † Ephecnemidia, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Whence so called, 412, a.
Epheetus, the famed philosopher, his character, &c. vi. 50, sub not.
 † — part of Phrygia Minor, ii. 304, c.
Epheurus's atomic system, &c. considered, i. 20, & seq. Notion of the gods, 21, e.
Epheides plots against Syracuse, iii. 105, d. Chosen prætor, 107. Cabals with the Leontines, 109, b. Commands in Syracuse, 114, a. Retires to Agrigentum, 119, d. Defeated, 125, a.
 † Epheidamians, a colony of Corinth, ii. 495, d, &c.
 † Epheidamnus, in Macedon, described, iii. 254, (C). Taken by the Corcyreans, 280, a, b.
 † Epheidaurians, first peoplers of Ægina, iii. 243, d. Subdue it, 244, & not. Submit to Glaucias, 461, c.
 † Epheidaurus, a famed sea-port in Lacedæmon, ii. 396, d. Invaded by the Athenians, 515, d.
 † — the temple of, plundered by Sylla, 738, c.
Epheides envied by Hermias, iii. 530, & seq. Murdered by him, 532, d.
Epheus, Autobolus, Uranus, i. 83, e. The heavens named from him, 89, c.
Epheoni, whence so called, ii. 375. The war of, ibid. & seq. iii. 406.
Epheonides expiates the Athenians, &c. ii. 423, e.
 † Ephebania, a city in Cilicia Propria, ii. 341, b.
 † Ephepole, the hill of, described, iii. 4, e. Surprised by the Athenians, 28, c. Taken by the Romans, 117, b. Fortified by Dionysius, vi. 754, b.
 † Epheists join with Antiochus, ii. 718. Subdued by the Romans, 746, pass. Sold for slaves, ibid. & seq. Their character, iii. 798, b. Defeated at Argos, 818. Surrender, 819, f. Their commonwealth, 821, c, d.
 † Epheus, the kingdom of, described, ii. 746, c. Subdued and plundered by the Romans, ibid. & seq. Its various fates since, 747, a, b. By whom peopled, iii. 795, & seq. 798, b, c. Its government, ibid. e, f. Plundered by the Gauls, vi. 435, e. Seized by Michael Angelo, 629, e.
Epheistes, their office at Athens, ii. 429, c.
 † Epheistopos, king of Lyncestus in Cilicia, ii. 343, a.
Epheus I. king of Arcadia, killed by a viper, ii. 379, b.
 — II. struck blind for his presumption, 380, a.
Ephezelus, a surprising story of him, ii. 463, a.
Epheymos, first archon of Athens, why so called, ii. 442, d.
Epheus, king of Sicyon, ii. 350. Ravishes Antiope, 372, c. Dies of his wounds, 473, a.
Epheptai, at Athens, what, ii. 732, not.
 † Epheordia, when built, iv. 429, b.
 † Epheordian, Iycean slaves, whence so called, v. 299, f.
Epheones, their first institution, iv. 751, c.
Ephestrian order forbid the arena, v. 344, a.
Epheisco taken prisoner by the Goths, vi. 383, e. Escapes, and is slain, 384, b.
Epheitus, why set aside from the empire, vi. 346, b. Extortions in Illyricum, 350, d. Moderation to the Quadi, 361, d, e. Pursued by them, 362, b, c.
 — chosen tribune by force and murder, v. 42, b. 43, c.
Er, Judah's son, cut off for his wickedness, i. 450, c.
 — the name of the Pamphylian Zoroaster, ii. 205, b.
 † Era fortified by the Melianians, ii. 579. Betrayed to the Lacedæmonians, 580.
Eraric, king of Italy, vii. 493, a. 664, e, f. Murdered, 665, b.
Erasthratus's stratagem in favour of young Antiochus, iii. 519, & seq.
Erastides, king of Rhodes, iii. 134, a.
Erastobenes's list of Theban kings considered, i. 239, d, e.
 — made keeper of the Alexandrian library, iii. 640, c, (G).
 His writings and character, vii. 175, sub not.
Erato, the nymph, mother of king Azan, ii. 379, a.
 † Erbeffa made a Roman magazine, iv. 655, e. Delivered up to the Carthaginians, 656, a.
 † Erchemwin founds a fourth Saxon kingdom, vii. 450, d.
Erdevirath, the story of, iv. 375, (B).
Erebus, in Aristophanes, what, i. 18, a.
 † Erechb, a city in Chaldaea, i. 123, (P).
Erechtbeus, king of Athens, ii. 363, d. Founder of the rites of Ceres, 731, sub not.
 † Eretria taken and destroyed by the Persians, ii. 112, a. 460, c.
 † Eretrian prisoners sent to people Cissia, ii. 113, c.
 — betray the Athenians, 525, b.
 † Eretria, a city in Eubœa, described, iii. 248, c.
 — the New, taken by the Romans, ibid. e. 147, e. By Philip, 251, f.
 † — taken from the Athenians, v. 307.
 † Eretrian pillar, 248, d.
Eretrionus, king of Troas, ii. 313, b.
 — of Athens, 363, c. The fable of his birth, ibid. (F).
Erengenes, a copier of Macrobius, vi. 477, sub not.
 † Ereigon, river, in Thessaly, iii. 382, a.
 † — in Macedon, 260, d.
 † Ereitra, by whom founded, ii. 369, d. Described, 752, d.
 † Ereix, in Sicily, described, iii. 7, d. 89, c. Surprised by the Romans, iv. 674, d. Retaken by Hamilcar, 676, d. Taken by Dionysius, vi. 773, d. By Pyrrhus, 815, c. Razed by Hamilcar, 832. Taken by Bircas, 849, c.
Ermenegild, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.
Ermenric invades by the Huns, vi. 379, d. Kills himself, ibid. See vol. vii. 459, a, b.
Ermeric, king of the Suevians in Spain, vi. 463, a. His vain attempt on Galicia, ibid. b. Driven out by Gonderic, 473, b, c. His treaty with the Galicians, 484, a. See vol. vii. 530, & seq.
Erna, and his Huns, settle in Scythia Minor, vi. 496, d.
Errius Potitus discovers a conspiracy, iv. 660, b.
 † Erycina, Venus, rebuilt by Tiberius, v. 426, f.
Erylus, king of Byblus, i. 410, d.
Eryfichton, the son of Cecrops, his death, ii. 363, b.
 † Erythia island, where sited, vii. 146, e, (E).
Eryxias, the last archon of Athens, ii. 369, f.
Esarhaddon succeeds Sennacherib in Assyria, i. 895, b. Unites Babylon to it, ibid. c. Reduces Israel and Syria, 896, a. And Judah with king Manasse, ibid. Egypt and Ethiopia, ibid.

- ibid. & seq. His death, 396, b. Styled the great Anshar, ibid. (M).
- Esau born to Isaac, i. 205, c. Sells his birthright, ibid. d. Whence called Edom, ibid. e. In what his birthright consisted, 306, (C). Supplanted by his brother, ibid. a, b. Removes to mount Seir, ibid. Assists with Jacob at his father's funeral, 308, a. His character, 307, (H). Descendants dukes of Edom, 437, (R).
- † Escadæ, where situated, iv. 781, (T).
- † Esdraon, Segion, the plain of, i. 574, b.
- Esdra, the apocryphal book of, iv. 20, (E).
- † Eterna made the magazine of the allies, v. 52, c.
- † Esfongeber, a sea-port in Edom, i. 210, a.
- Esh, partner with Mengik, vii. 445, c. Succeeds him, 446, c. His death, 449, c.
- † Eshibfar. See Laodicea, ii. 292, d.
- Estatæ, laws against dissipating them, ii. 432, c.
- † Etiolis, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344.
- † Esguilian hill added to Rome, iv. 455, a.
- a tribe, added to the other three, ibid. b.
- † Ella taken by Janneus, iv. 102, a.
- Essenæ, why favoured by Herod, iv. 132, in fin. not. Oppose his oath of fidelity, 144, a, b. A famous sect among the Jews, 169. Why not mentioned by the evangelists, 170, a, b. Etymon of their name, ibid. (A). Their rise, ibid. c, d. Austere life, ibid. & seq. Faith and peculiar tenets, 171, & seq. Degeneracy and end, 173, c, f.
- † Ester, &c. seized on by the Saxons, vii. 445, d.
- Ester married to Ahasuerus, iv. 11, c.
- Estus, Hesut, the supreme deity with the Gauls, vii. 328, a, b. Whence that name, 329, (E). How worshipped, 330, & seq. When exchanged for Jupiter, 333, a, b. Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.
- Esarchus, king of Crete, iii. 269, c.
- Esacles, king of Thobas, his injustice to his brother, ii. 358. The cause of a bloody war, ibid. & seq. 373, & seq. Kills him, and is killed by him, 374, d.
- † Ethan, the second encampment of the Israelites, i. 503, b. Supported the Bonec of Herodotus, ibid. (O).
- Ethbaal. See Isobal, i. 415, & seq.
- † Etefian winds, whence so called, v. 151, b, (D).
- Ethelbert raises civil wars among the Saxons, vii. 451, b.
- † Ethiopia, how divided, vii. 197, d.
- † — Propria, its extent, 180, a. Names, ibid. b, c, (A). Why called Cush in Scripture, 181, & seq. & (B, C). Its various nations, 182, & seq. Cities, 184, & seq. Mountains, 185, d. Met climate, 186, b. Season, ibid. c, d. Soil, &c. ibid. e. Beer, ibid. f, (D). Lakes, &c. 190, a. Promontories and commerce, ibid. & seq. Gold, and other minerals, 191, b, c. Divided into forty-five kingdoms, 193, c. Its antiquity, kings, &c. 205, & seq. Subdued by Sefac, 207, & seq. By Cambyfes, 213, d, (F). Penetrated by Ptolemy, 214, b, (G). By Augustus, 215, & seq. By Probus, 216, & seq. The Egean usurpation, 221, & seq.
- † Ethiopiæ, how seated and divided, 197, d. Why black, 182, & seq. From whom descended, 192, d. Whence, and where settled, ibid. & seq. Their antiquity, 193, b, c. Kingly government, ibid. & seq. Laws, 194, & seq. Kings, how chosen, 193, d, c. 195, a. Their religion, deities, &c. ibid. & seq. Worship of the sun, &c. 196, d. Language, 197, b, c. Its affinity to the Hebrew, &c. ibid. e, (Y). Its changes, 198, a—c. Hieroglyphics, ibid. (Z). Alphabets, 199, a, b. Customs, ibid. & seq. Weapons, 201, c, (C). Way of fighting, 202, a, b. Of preserving their dead, ibid. & seq. Food, 203, b. Deify their kings, ibid. c, (H). Character, ibid. d, e, & seq. Kings, whether descended from Solomon, 206, & seq. Conquer Egypt, 210, d. History, to the expulsion of the shepherds, ibid. & seq. To the death of Sethon, 211, & seq. To Xerxes, 212, & seq. Serve under him, 213, d, (F). When converted, 216, c, & seq. Reject Arianism, 218, d, c.
- Ethiarchy, what, iv. 190, c.
- † Etra, where situated, iv. 487, c.
- † Etruria, part of Italia Propria, iv. 410, d. Described, ibid. See the rest under Hetruria, 405, & seq.
- † Etruscan, the ancient language of Magna Græcia, vii. 9, (D).
- † Etruscians, their treachery to the Romans, vii. 64, c. See Hetruscians, iv. 430, & seq.
- Etrusilla, Heret, the wife of Decius, vi. 168, b.
- his daughter, married to Gallus, 170, c.
- † Etrusius, king of Etruria, iv. 418, c.
- the son of Decius, 163, b. His death, 170, d.
- Evagoras I. king of Cyprus, invaded by the Persians, ii. 145. Forced to yield, 146. His attachment to them, iii. 178, & seq. Banished, 179.
- II. his noble character, 179, d, c. Subdues the whole island, 180, b, c. Invaded by the Persians, ibid. & seq. Forced to a peace, 181, c. Murdered, ibid. d.
- III. driven out by his uncle, 181, f. Put to death, 182, b.
- king of Rhodes, iii. 133, b.
- Evagrius's account of the Justinian war, iv. 357, (Z). Vain apology for Constantine IV. 261, c.
- Evander, a cowardly Cretan, his unlucky advice to Perseus, iii. 487. Hated by the Macedonians, 493, d. Put to death by Perseus, 494.
- introduces letters into Italy, iv. 414, & seq.
- Vol. VII. N^o. 11.
- Evastus burnt alive, vi. 360, f.
- † Evæa, island, described, iii. 246, & seq. By whom first inhabited, 249, f. Its government, 250, & seq. Invaded by Philip, 299, b.
- invaded by the Athenians, ii. 457, c. 492, a. By the Persians, 460, c. Revolt, 525. Joined to Boeotia by an isthmus, 526, c. Taken by the Spartans, 601, d. By Antiochus, 718.
- Eubæans great mariners, iii. 250, c. Their tyrants, 251, c. By whom subdued, 252, b, c.
- Eubæus succeeds Mohammed, vi. 543, b. His conquests and death, ibid.
- Eubia, a Colchite beauty, married to Antiochus, li. 719, b.
- Eucberius, the son of Stilicho, born, vi. 431, e. Vain threats against christianity, 456, e, f. Put to death, 457, a.
- Euclidæ defeated at Selaia, ii. 649, b.
- Euclypius's writings and character, vi. 148, (Q).
- Eucratides I. his character and death, iii. 846, c.
- II. murders his father, ibid.
- Eudamæ's success against Antiochus, iii. 150. Defeats the Syrian fleet, 151.
- Eudamidas's ill success in Thrace, ii. 614. Succeeds Agis, 622, a.
- Eudemus, agent of Sejanus with Livia, v. 416, d. His punishment, 417, e.
- Eudocia's extract and character, vi. 473, e, f. Marriage to Theodosius, ibid. & seq. Excellent poems, 474, a, (Q). Declared Augusta, 479, b. Journey and largess to Jerusalem, 485, a, b. Retires thither, ibid. f, & seq. Her death, buildings, &c. 486, b—d.
- Eudoxia's daughter, carried prisoner, 501, c. Married to Hunneric, ibid. d. & 507, vii. 534, e, f.
- the wife of Heraclius, crowned, 539, b. Delivery and death, ibid. d.
- widow of Ducas, made regent, 603. Invaded by the Turks, 604, b. Forced to marry, ibid. c, d. Deposed and confined, 605, f, & seq.
- Eudoxia, the wife of Arcadius, her extract, &c. vi. 432, f. Her imperious and wicked sway, 445, b, c. Assumes manly titles, 447, c. Banishes St. Chrysostom, 451, c. Dies in childbirth, ibid.
- Licinia, betrothed to Valentinian III. 479, c. Married to him, 483. Forced to marry Maximus, 500, c. Hatches his death, ibid. & seq. Carried off captive, 501, c. Sent back to Leo, ibid. d. 507, c. See also vol. vii. 584, d—f.
- Eudoxius, the Arian bishop, swears Valens to Arianism, vi. 370, b. His death, 371, f.
- Eve, by whom tempted, i. 61, a. The time of her death uncertain, 80.
- Euelthon's treatment of Pheretima, iii. 177, b.
- Euenus, king of Lyncestis in Cilicia, ii. 343, a.
- † — river of Ætolia, 409, & seq.
- the Apollonian shepherd's story, 255, (D).
- Euephnus's treachery, the cause of the Messenian war, ii. 570, c.
- † Euergetæ, whence so called, iii. 367, a, b. Favoured by Alexander, ibid.
- Eugenius proclaimed emperor, vi. 216, f. Killed at Antioch, 217, a.
- created emperor by Arbogastes, 421, a. His proud embassy to Theodosius, 422, b, c. Success against the Franks, 423, c, d. Restores paganism, ibid. d, e. Defeated, 424, pass. Put to death, 425, a.
- the father of Themistius's writings and character, 429, not.
- defeats the Scenitæ in Syria, 520, a.
- Evi, prince of Midian, i. 303, a.
- Evimerodach, succeeds his father, i. 964, d. Governs during his delirium, ibid. & seq. Defeated by the Medes, 965, a—c. Imprisoned by him for it, ibid. d. Kindness to Jehoiachim, ibid. Murdered by Neriglissar, ibid. c. Probably the Belshazzar of Daniel, 966, a, b. See also ii. 21, 24, & seq.
- Eulæus, regent of Egypt, iii. 573. Corrupts the young king, 576, b.
- † Eulyfian region, the antient seat of the Hunns, vii. 456, b.
- Eumelus's war with his two brothers, iii. 842, b, c. His character and death, ibid. f.
- Eumenes I. succeeds in Pergamus, iii. 769.
- II. wars with Antiochus, 556, & seq. 770, & seq. His valour at Magnesia, 564, 772. Opposed by the Rhodians, ibid. & 151. Wars with Prusias, ibid. & 772. Makes peace with him, 773, & seq. Defeated by Hannibal's stratagem, ibid. f. Invaded by Pharnaces, ibid. & seq. Makes peace with him, 774, b. Assists Antiochus, 571, f. 774, d. Speech to the Roman senate, ibid. c. Wounded by Perseus's assassins, 484, & seq. 775, a. Allies with Rome against him, ibid. c. Repulsed from Cassandria, 488. Accused to the senate, 776, & seq. His death, 778, b. 494.
- Alexander's secretary, his moderation towards Hephæstion, 407, c. 408, a, b. Declares for Arideus, 415, e. 419. His signal fidelity, 420, a, b. Sent against Ptolemy, 421. Defeats Neoptolemus, 422, a. Proscribed, 423, d. His defeat and bravery, 424, & seq. Loyalty, 425, & seq. Repulses Antigonus, 427, b. Marches to Persepolis, ibid. c. Speech to his officers, 428, (C). Defeats Antigonus, 428, & seq. Betrayed to him, and put to death, 429.
- assists Scipio against the Syrians, iv. 755, c. Stabbed for his friendship to Rome, 761.

- Eumenius's* flattery to Constantius, vi. 212, f. Panegyric on Constantine, 238, c. Other writings, &c. 272, (F).
Eumolpidae, Ceres's rites in their family, ii. 733, not.
Eumolpus, the supposed institutor of Ceres's rites, ii. 732, not.
Eunapius's writings and character, vi. 272, (F). 338, sub not. 430, not.
Eunomia, a great oratrice, vi. 272, (T).
Eunomians suppressed by Gratian, vii. 389, a. By Theodosius, 396, a.
Eunonius, king of Sparta, killed, ii. 404, d, e.
Eunuchs of all nations excluded the Lord's congregation, i. 665, & seq.
 — by whom first made, ii. 7, & (I). 62, b. Suppressed by Domitian, v. 666, b.
 — the number of, regulated by Aurelian, vi. 194, b. Privileged by Constantius, 285, c. Excluded from being patricians, 488, f.
Eunus chosen chief of the revolted slaves, iv. 794, d. Proclaimed king, 795, d. Success against the Romans, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 796, c, d. His death, ibid. c.
Evocation among the Romans, what, iv. 489, (K).
Evodius sent to kill Messalina, v. 504, d, e. Put to death by Caracalla, vi. 122, b.
Euphaes invaded by the Spartans, ii. 571, & seq. His death, 573, d.
Euphemia married to Anthemius, vi. 493, e.
Euphemius's sacrilege, vi. 567. Treason, ibid. c. Death, ibid. d.
Euphrates killed by an earthquake, vii. 523, f.
 † Euphrates, river, i. 55, d. Its course, 909, c, d. The ancient way of navigating it, 910, a, b. iii. 694, a.
 † Euphratesiana, the kingdom of, whence so named, v. 650, b.
Euphrosyna forced out of a monastery by Balbus, vi. 567, d. Sent back by his son, ibid. f.
Euratus, the Achean, his speech to the Roman senate, ii. 689, c.
Euric murders his brother, and mounts the Gothic throne, vi. 508, b. Seizes some provinces in Gaul, 510, c. Makes peace with them, 512, c. See also vii. 492, a. Ravages Lusitania, 514, c. — Conquests in Spain, ibid. & seq. In Gaul, 515, pass. Vain attempt on Auvergne, ibid. d, e. Enmity to the orthodox, ibid. f. His territories, 516, c. Death and character, ibid. & seq.
 † Euripus. See Negropont, ii. 370, d. The straits of, described, iii. 246, not. The isles of, 252, c, d.
Europa, stolen by Jupiter, i. 478, b. Carried into Crete, ibid. & iii. 163, c. 166, a.
 † Europus, a city in Macedon, iii. 256, a.
Eurotas, founder of Lacedaemon, ii. 395.
 † — a famed river there, ibid. b, c.
Eurybiades surprises the Persian fleet, ii. 123, c. 589, b.
Euryclates, first and second, kings of Sparta, ii. 576, c. 582, d.
Eurydice's precaution against Olympias, iii. 456, & seq. Put to death, 457, b, c.
 — speech to the Athenian general, 286, d, e.
Euryleon, the son of Aeneas. See Ascanius, iv. 420, c.
Eurylochus betrays Demetrias to the Aetolians, ii. 715, d.
Eurymedon, sent into Sicily, ii. 510, & seq. Slain at Syracuse, 519, d. See also iii. 29, 32.
Eurypylius, king of Mysia, ii. 327, c.
Euryfacer, king of Salamis, iii. 245, c.
Euryfenes and Procles, joint kings of Sparta, ii. 398, a.
Euryfenes's hatred to Hercules, ii. 355, & seq.
Eurytus robbed by Hercules, ii. 400, c.
 — a blind Spartan's brave death, 589, not.
Eurytionidae and Eurypontidae, whence so called, ii. 404.
Euzibia married to Constantius, vi. 286, b, c. Friendship to Julian and the Arians, ibid. d, e, & 296. Unnatural jealousy of Helena, 287, b. Journey to Rome, 298, c. Barrenness and death, 287, c.
Euzibius of Caesarea's observations on the Phoenician cosmogony, i. 12, a. On the Egyptian, 13, d, e. Partiality against the pagans, 12, b.
 — account of the Thundering legion, vi. 72, c, d. Account of Constantine's conversion vindicated, 244, b, c. Speech on the holy sepulchre, 265, c. Book on Easter, ibid. Character of Constantine, 270, a. His writings, &c. 272, (F).
 — bishop of Nicomedia, banished, vi. 260, c. Recalled, 262, c. Imposes on Constantine, 265, c, f. His hypocrisy, 267, c. Education of young Julian, 320, b.
 — Constantius's high chamberlain, quells a mutiny in Gaul, 290, d. Undermines Gallus, 293, b. — d. Cruelty to all his friends, ibid. & seq. Treachery to Urfinus, 306, b, c. 307, f. Deputation to Julian, 324, d. Put to death, 325, b.
 — a professor of eloquence, succeeds Proerces, 338, not.
 — brother-in-law to Constantine, fined and banished, 374, e.
 — the author of Gainas's war, his poem lost, 478, not.
Eustatius banished by Constantine, vi. 265, f.
 — his writings and character, 517, (U).
 — bishop, his learned comment upon Homer, 620, d.
Eutarc's marriage and promotion, vii. 647, b. Reception at Rome, ibid. c. Death, ibid. d.
 † Eutaliter, whence so called, iv. 342, b. Defeat the Persians, ibid. & seq. Who they were, 343, (P).
Eutherius sent to disculpate Julian, vi. 298, f.
Eutbria, taken by the Greeks, burns herself, ii. 317, d.
Euthymius absolves the emperor for marrying a fourth wife, vi. 575, d, e.
Eutropia, the wife of Maximian, vi. 207.
 — daughter to Constantius, 226, c. Whether a christian, 244, c.
 — the sister of Constantine, murdered, 281, d, c.
Eutropius's abridgment imperfect, vi. 19. Character of Constantius, 226, b, c. Writings and character, 386, not.
 — sent to consult the hermit John, 412, c. Great sway with Arcadius, 432, f. Envied by Rufinus, 433, b, c. Succeeds him, 434, f. His extract and sad character, 435, a. Hatred to Stilicho, ibid. & seq. Treachery to Abundantius, 436, b, c. To Timasius, ibid. & seq. To Barbus, 437, d. Stirs up Gildo to revolt, 438, c. His gripping consulship, 441, b. Disfellowed by Honorius, ibid. d, e. Undermined by Gainas, 442, & seq. Degraded and deposed, 443, d. Banished, 444, b, c. Beheaded, ibid. d, c. See also vol. vii. 506, & seq.
Eutychians suppressed by Marcian, vi. 501, c. Raise a tumult at Alexandria, 504, c. And a massacre at Constantinople, 521, f.
Eutychianus, a buffoon, made consul, vi. 136, f.
Eutwates among the Gauls, their office, vii. 365, b.
 † Euxine sea, said to be so called from Aëkinas, i. 166, f. ii. 309, a. How formed, iii. 239, d, e. Described by Arrian, vi. 41, f, & seq. Frozen twenty days, 448, f.
Euzois, an Arian bishop, baptizes Constantius, vi. 314, f.
Exarche, their rise and office, vii. 679, c, f. Number, names, and duration, 680, a, b.
Exaufloration, among the Romans, what, v. 359, (Q).
Excommunication, a dreadful punishment among the Jews, i. 674. Transmitted to the christians, 675, a. Yet not in a damning sense, ibid. &c. Three kinds of it among the Jews, 674, (E).
Exercises in Sparta, how regulated, ii. 564, & seq.
Exbilaratus, duke of Naples, murdered, vi. 553, b. vii. 705, a.
Exiles, Roman, put to death by Caligula, v. 472, in fin. (P).
 † Exiliffa, where sited, vii. 142, d. Whether the same with Ceuta, ibid. c.
Exipodras put to death by his father, iii. 755, b.
Exodares resigns his crown to Trajan, vi. 16, c, f.
Expiation day, among the Jews, the only fast of divine appointment, i. 617, c. Why ordained, 618. How strictly kept, ibid. d, &c. Other expiations performed by them, 621, a.
 — among other nations, ii. 424, not.
 † Exion Geber, a famed port in Petrea, vii. 227, c.
Exra sent into Judca, iv. 11, d, (T). His commission in favour of the Jews, 12, a, b. Reforms the church and state, ibid. & seq. And Jewish canon, 13, & seq. Whether the inventor of Hebrew points, 14, (Z). His insertions to the Hebrew text, 15, pass. & (A). Character and writings, 18, & seq. Reads the law to the people, 22, & seq. Whether the founder of the Caraites, 174, & seq. & (H).

F

- FABIA betrothed to M. Aurelius, vi. 62, b. Suspected of poisoning Verus, 68, a.
 — Orestilla married to Gordianus, 156, b. Eudocia. See Eudocia, 473, c, & seq.
Fabian martyred at Rome, vi. 168, d.
Fabiani, Lupercalian priests, why so called, iv. 422, (H).
Fabii, why so esteemed by the Romans, iv. 508, c. Their valour, 509, & seq. Sad catastrophe, 511, b, c. Treachery to the Celtes, 562, c. Defeated by them, 563, b.
Fabius's writings and character, vi. 165, sub not.
Fabius mounts the breach at Jerusalem, iv. 111, d.
 — Quintus defeats the Volsci, 505, c. Whollome advice to the senate, 517, c. Success against the Arpi, 723.
 — Quintus, chosen master of the horse, 608, c. Condemned by the dictator, ibid. c. Pardoned, 609, f. Success against the Samnites, 610.
 — Quintus Maximus, why so called, 627, c. Chosen dictator, 617, f. Defeats the Samnites, 618, b, c. Before Sora, ibid. f. And the Hetrurians, 622, b. Opens a way through the Ciminian forest, 622, c, d. Defeats the Umbrians, 623, c. The Hetrurians, 624, b. Umbrians and Samnites, 625, a. — d. Reforms the state, 627, c. Defeats the Marfi, &c. ibid. & seq. Hetrurians, 632, & seq. Gauls, 633, & seq. Opposes his son's election, 638, a. His death and character, 642, d, e.
 — Maxim. Verrucosus, his character, 683, f. Chosen prodictator, 700. Why surnamed Cunctator, 706, b. Success against Hannibal, ibid. Outwitted by him, ibid. & seq. Recalled, 707. See vol. vii. 8, 23, 44, & 62. Speech to the senate, ibid. d, e. Defeats the Carthaginians, 708. Whollome advice to the senate, 712, f. Wastes the Campanians, 719, f. Success in Campania, 721, & seq. Merry judgment of the Tarentine pictures, 732, & seq.
Fabius

- Fabius Pictor*, why so called, iv. 627, b.
 — Gurges. See Gurges, 638, & seq.
 — Q., success in Spain, v. 135, e, f.
 — Maxim. takes Munda, 174, c. 176, d.
 — chosen consul, 319, d. Disgraced by Augustus, 347, c.
 — Kills himself, ibid. d.
 — Ruficus, his writings and character, 578, (T).
 — betrayed by the Thracians, ibid. 749, a, (P).
 — Hispalus, banished for extortion, vi. 10, f.
 — Marcel. history lost, 19, c. Consul besieges Drepanum, 848, b.
Fables, why mixed with ancient history, ii. 343, not.
Fabritius sent ambassador to Pyrrhus, iii. 811, b. His intrepid gallantry there, ibid. e, f. Sent against him, 813, c.
 — Generous letter to him, 814, a, b.
 — success against the confederates, iv. 643, (B).
 — Peisento, banished for his satire against the senate, v. 541, c.
Fabulous and heroic times, a general review of, ii. 343, pass.
Faction, blue, at Constantinople, beaten by the green, vi. 520, b.
Fadilda, Antoninus's daughter, vi. 53, a. Betrothed to Maximus, 152, a.
 — Julia, married to Fabilius, 165, sub not.
Fadus Cuspis, sent governor of Judea, iv. 262, & seq. Quells an insurrection there, 263, c, d.
 † Fajula, the colony of, conspires against Caligula, v. 104, f.
 † Fair, the promontory of, where sited, iv. 594, f.
Fala and Falarica, a weapon described, vii. 3, (A).
Falco, Q., bold speech to Pertinax, vi. 95, & seq. Named to the empire, 98, b. Retires, ibid. c.
 † Faleria surrendered to Camillus, iv. 560, d.
 † Falisci fall on the Romans before Veii, iv. 557. Defeated, 558, e. Their speech to the senate, 560, c, d. Ally with Rome, 598, b. Defeated by Brutus, 638, b. Subdued by Cero, 679, b, c.
Falling-sickness, the Romans bloody remedy against, iv. 804, (Z).
 † Famagosta in Cyprus, how built, iii. 173, c, (M).
Famine, averted by the death of seven of Saul's sons, i. 788, b.
 † Fanagoria, a city in Pontus, iii. 721, a.
Fannia's gratitude to Marius, v. 58, c, d.
Faramond, whether he had any sway over the Franks, vi. 472. His extract, ibid. & c.
 † Fargana, where situated, iv. 392.
Faro de Messina, iii. 2, a.
Fastes, why worn reverse at funerals, v. 403, c, (B).
Fasida, king of the Gepidae, defeated, ibid. 494, b.
Faventius raises a revolt in Vitellius's fleet, v. 630, a, b.
Faunius, a fabulous king of Latium, iv. 419, a. His reception of Evander, ibid. & 414.
 — Caius, saves the Roman camp, 781, c.
 — C. Serrabo, chosen consul, 802, c. Opposes Gracchus, ibid. & seq.
Favonius's severe taunt to Pompey, v. 132, c. 142, b. Goes with him in his flight, 147, pass. Answer to Brutus, 180, e. Merry interposition between him and Cassius, 239, e, f. Just invectives against Octavius, 253, b, (Z).
Favor, the pantomime taunt at Vespasian's funeral, v. 655, c.
Favorinus's pleasantry to Adrian, vi. 31, b. His writings and character, 49, sub not. Sarcasm against the Athenians, ibid.
Fausa and Faufus, Sylla's twins, why so called, v. 80, (W).
Fausa, the wife of Constantine, born, vi. 207, d. Married, 235, b. Her issue by him, ibid. c. Fidelity to him, 238, c. Delivered of a son, 255, d. Treachery to Crispus, 261, c. Death, ibid. d, e.
Fausina, Anna, married to Antoninus Pius, vi. 53, a. 55, a. Her avarice checked by him, ibid. c. Death and lewd character, 57, c.
 — daughter to Antoninus, married to M. Aurelius, 53, a. 57, b. Whether accessory to Cassius's treason, 75, f, & seq. Her two letters to the emperor about it, 76, (G). Death and undervalued honours, 78, d, e.
 — Annia, put to death by Commodus, 91, e.
 — married to Heliogabalus, 135, a. Murdered by him, ibid.
 — widow of Constantius, comes to Procopius, 367, f.
Faustian society of women founded by M. Aurelius, vi. 78, f.
 † Faustopolis, whence so called, iii. 762, e. vi. 79, a.
Faustinus executed for a jest, vi. 364, c.
Faustulus educates Remus and Romulus, iv. 422, (F).
Faustus, Cornel. mounts the breach at Jerusalem, iv. 111, d.
Fausts, now celebrated among the Jews, i. 691, & seq.
 — of Asia, kept at Philadelphia, ii. 328.
 — at public meals, appointed by Solon, 442. How regulated, ibid.
February, why counted unlucky at Rome, iv. 437, f.
Feciales, at Rome, their office, iv. 436, b, c. How they ratified treaties, 441, (S). And declared war, 445, (A).
Fecissimus, his revolt and death, vi. 194, d, e.
Felix driven out of Jerusalem, iv. 122, e. Made procurator of Judea, 264, b. His sad character, ibid. & (B). Murderers the good high-priest, ibid. & seq. Answer to St. Paul, 275, b.
Felix, great sway with Claudius, v. 488, b. Who he was, ibid. (O).
 — Sentilius, defeats the revolted Treverians, 643, d.
 — a faithless tool of young Gordian, vi. 162, (V).
 — a famed rhetorician, 478, not.
 — murdered by the soldiers, 481, c.
Fencing-masters, when first introduced, v. 29, d.
Fenestella, the poet, when he flourished, v. 458, sub not.
Fenius Rufus conspires against Nero, v. 551, & seq. His treachery and cruelty to his associates, 553, & seq. Accused by Scaevinus, 556, a. His unmanly death, ibid. d.
Feramos, the son of Rustan, killed by Ardahir, ii. 223, e.
Feretrius, Jupiter whence so called, iv. 429, d. His temple rebuilt by Ancus, 446, c.
Feridon, king of Persia. See Pberidon, ii. 181.
Ferok Hormoz put to death, iv. 403, c.
Feronia, the goddess, whence so called, iv. 443, (W).
 † — the temple of, where, ibid. d. Plundered by Hannibal, 728, e. vii. 58, a.
Fescen, their rude plays, iv. 584, f.
Festivals appointed by Romulus, iv. 427, e, f.
Festus, Port. sent governor of Judea, iv. 265. Severity to the turbulent Jews, 266, a.
 — Pompon. writings and character, vi. 317, sub not. Made proconsul of Asia, 374, f. Cruelty there, 375, c, d.
 † Fez, the extent of, vii. 139, c.
 † Fidena besieged by the Romans, iv. 479, e. Taken by Curtius, 481. By Q. Sp. Priscus, 549, b.
 † — the amphitheatre of, kills and hurts fifty thousand people, v. 431, c.
 † Fidenates, their origin, iv. 415, c. Conquered by Romulus, 433, c. Treachery to the Romans, 442, d, e. Subdued and punished, 443. Defeated by Ancus, 445, e. Severely used by Tarquin, 448, b. Fresh revolt and defeat, ibid. c, f, & seq.
Filii Augustorum, who, vi. 237, b.
Fiefs, their origin, vii. 681, f, & seq.
Filimer the Great settles near Palus Mæot. vii. 487, d. His reign there, 492, d.
Fimbria discarded by Flaccus, iii. 735, c. His revenge and cruelties, ibid. d, (V). Success against Mithridates, 736, a, b. Kills himself, 738, b. See also v. 67, & seq.
Fines, how regulated by the Romans, iv. 532, c. 550, b.
Fire, in what sense worshipped by the old Persians, ii. 71, d. How fed and preserved, 73, a. The ceremony of praying to it, 78, c.
 — when and how discovered after the Babylonish captivity, iv. 23, (M). Worshipped by the Carthaginians, vi. 692, a.
 — ships, invented by the Rhodians, iii. 559, d, e.
Firmicus's writings and character, vi. 318, sub not.
Firmilianus put to death, vi. 253, d.
Firmus Catus's treachery to Libo, v. 386, d, e. Banished, 422, f.
 — his revolt in Egypt, vi. 192, b. Executed, ibid. c.
Firmus's revolt in Moria, vi. 358, & seq. Submission and pardon, 359, & seq. Revolt and flight, 360, c. — e. Betrayed, 361, a. Hangs himself, ibid. b.
Firouz I. II. & c. kings of Persia, according to Oriental writers, iv. 372, & seq.
First-born, why to be consecrated to God, i. 501, c. How redeemed, ibid. d. Not restrained to the eldest, 626, b. Whether Christ was subject to that law, ibid. (F).
 — of the beasts, how consecrated or redeemed, ibid. c, & seq. & (G).
 — of Egypt, killed, 501.
First-fruits to be offered to God, i. 625, a. The laws concerning, and the ceremonies of offering them, ibid. & seq. Traditions out of the Talmud, 625, (C). The extent of those offerings, 626, pass. At the dedication of cities, iv. 424, b.
Fishes, a strange kind of, caught, vi. 510, c.
Flaccus's cruelty to the Alexandrian Jews, iv. 258, d. Punished, ibid. e.
 — Valerius's law in favour of debtors, v. 67, c. Sent to succeed Sylla, ibid. d. Killed by Fimbria, 68, b.
 — Sylla's friend, chosen inter-rex, 77, e, f.
 — M. Lænius's friendship to Cicero, 116, (S).
 — Minutius surrenders to Cæsar, 172, d.
 — Vesicular. the betrayer of Libo, 386, e, f. Put to death, 445, c.
 — Pomponius betrays Rhescuporis, 396, d, e, (Q).
 — Verrius the grammarian, his writings, & c. 458, not.
 — Herdonius succeeds Virginius in Gaul, 583, b. Opposed by the German troops, 590, b. His cowardice, 598. Murdered, 641, d, e.
Flacilla, the wife of Theodosius, her extract and character, vi. 390, d, e. Death, 406, e, f.
Flamines, priests, whence so called, iv. 436, b, (L).
Flaminius, Quint. sent against the Spartan tyrant, ii. 636, & seq. Brings over the Achæans, 669. Vain attempt on Corinth, 671, a. Shameful alliance with Nabis, 672. And peace with Macedon, 673. Causes the universal freedom of Greece to be proclaimed, ibid. & c. Withdraws his garrisons, 674. Speech to the Achæans about Zacynthus, 677. Affronted at the Ætolians, 709, c. Makes peace with Philip, 710. Speech to the Ætolian assembly, 713. Exploded by the Ætolian deputy, 717, a, b. Pleasant speech to the general

- general assembly, ibid. c, d. Rebukes the consul at Neopactus, 724. Raises the siege of it, 725, b. Subdues the Boeotians, 743, & seq.
- Flaminius the tribune's father silences him at the rostrum, iv. 684, c.
- Nepos's unsuccessful expedition against the Insubres, 688, & seq. Retrieved by his brave tribune, 689, c.
- C. sent against Hannibal, 702, c, (K). His rash character, vii. 21, pass. Death, 22, b. Threatened by ill omens, ii. 703, & seq. Defeated and killed, 705, a.
- Quinct. succeeds in Macedonia, 750, d. Secures the freedom of Greece, 752, f. Success in Gaul, 553, pass.
- Flavia Titiana's character, vi. 96, c. Divorced by Pertinax, ibid.
- Flavian family, the origin and rise of, v. 636, c, d.
- colony, by whom founded, 655, c.
- Flavianus, bishop, sent to intercede for the Antiochians, vi. 411, c. Excellent speech to Theodosius, ibid. d, c. Succeeds in his suit, ibid. & seq.
- dies in defence of the Alps, 234, c, f.
- Flavius Nepos, a turbulent tribune, v. 111.
- deposed by Cæsar, 178, d.
- the brother of Arminius, his sharp contest with him, 382, & seq.
- Subrius conspires against Nero, 551, c. Discouraged by the coward Sennus, 553, f.
- Sabinus made governor of Rome, 596, f.
- Severus conspires against Nero, 551, c. Betrayed by his servant, 552, c. Noble confession, 553, b. Brave speech at his trial, 556, a, b. Intrepid death, ibid. c.
- Vespasian. See Vespasian, v. 476, & seq.
- Flax, of Egypt, exceeding fine i. 183, a.
- Flete, the golden, what, ii. 383, (G). 385, (K).
- Fleet, the first Roman, unsuccessful, iv. 623, b. Polybius's account of it confused, 653, (E). A new one built, 657, b. Another by private persons, 673, d.
- † Flemburg, metropolis of the Angles, vi. 441, b.
- Flesh, whether permitted before the flood, i. 122, b, c.
- human, sold publicly during the famine, vi. 463, c.
- Fine, said to have been cut by a razor, iv. 450, d.
- Flood, the profane account of it, i. 86, a. From the Phœnicians, Chaldeans, 91, d. From the Greeks, 95, (N). Why Phœnician historians suppress it, 88, (N). Short history of it, 95, d, & seq. Whether topical, 96, b. Reasons for its having been general, 97, a—c. Conjectures how it came, ibid. & seq. Burnet's theory of it, 99, f, & seq. Whiston's, 101, a, & seq. The most rational account of it, 102, c, d. The height of the waters, 106, a. Its beginning and end, ibid. &c. Persian and Indian traditions of it, 107, a, b, &c.
- account of some particular floods, 96, & (N).
- † Florentia, Florence, plundered by Sylla, v. 76. Relieved by Stilicho, vi. 452, & seq.
- Flurentius, an enemy to Julian, vi. 309, a. 523, d. Runs away from him, 311. Consulship and flight, 123, d. Narrow escape from death, 325, c.
- another put to death by Julian, ibid.
- the betrayer of Procopius, 368, b, c. Put to death, ibid. d.
- Fidrianus, the brother of Tacitus, 198, f. Repulsed from the consulship, 199, b. Assumes the purple, and murdered, ibid. e, f.
- succeeds against the Goths, vii. 498, c.
- Florus, Gessius, governor of Judea, his sad character, iv. 267, d. His rapines and cruelties complained against, 268, b. Horrid butcheries, 269, a. Brutishness to Berenice, ibid. b.
- Julius, stirs up a revolt in Gaul, v. 409, d, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. f.
- Luc. his writings and character, vi. 52, sub not. Verres to and from Adrian, ibid.
- the son of Evastus, burnt alive, 360, f.
- the consul's success in Italy, 833, pass.
- Flutes, a martial instrument of the Greeks, ii. 403, c.
- Fobi, first king of China, i. 116. Whether Noah, ibid. (N).
- † Folthone, the battle of, vii. 444, e, f.
- Follis, the tax of, unjustly fathered upon Constantine, vi. 269, d, e.
- Fontanus murdered by the Aufculans, v. 49, b.
- Copito, chosen consul, 344, d.
- murdered in Germany, 589, d, e.
- † Fornia, river, a boundary of ancient Gaul.
- Fornication, how punished among the Jews, i. 676, a.
- † Fortunate islands described, v. 86, (Z). Where sit, vii. 147, a, (H). Their number, 148.
- Fortunatianus's writings and character, vi. 165, sub not.
- † Fortune, the temple of, at Elis, ii. 405, d.
- several erected to her by Servius, iv. 453, f. One by Sempronius, 740, f.
- † — Valiant, the temple of, v. 389, f.
- † Forum Vibii, where situate, iv. 408, f. Beautified by Tarquin, 449, & seq.
- † Fosseway, in Britain, described, vii. 419, & seq.
- † Fountains, &c. worshipped by the Gauls, vii. 350, b, (F). 351, (G).
- † Fourtiffar, river, mistaken for the Oranicus, ii. 325, not.
- † Franci iudi, why, and by whom instituted, vii. 554, f.
- Franci, the festival of, whence, vi. 234, c.
- † Franks, who, vi. 173, b. Defeated by Aurelian, ibid. c. Ravage Italy, 175, a. Invade Spain, 183, a. Go into Africa, ibid. b. Transplanted by Constantius, 211, c. 213, b, c. Defeated by Constantine, 234, a. Outwitted and cut in pieces, 250, f. By Crispus, 256, c. Submit to Constantine, 277, b. Defeated by Julian, 304, a, b. By Theodosius, 353, f. By Maximus, 413. Ravage Gaul, 468, c. Permitted to settle in it, ibid. d. Embrace the catholic faith, ibid. Allowed to settle in Thongria, 472, d. Defeated by Attila, 494, c. Waste Germany, 499. Settle along the Rhine, 508, a. Their origin and first settlements, vii. 441. a. 447, f. Furious onset on the Gepidae, 476, a. When converted, 500, (A). Why called Franks, 547, f. And Sicanians, 548, c. Opinions about them confused, ibid. pass. Settle at Mentz, ibid. f. Their extent, 549, a, b. Motley character, ibid. e, f. Government, kings, &c. 550, a—c. Driven out of Gaul, ibid. d. Ravage it, 551, e, & seq. Hired by Gallienus, 552, a—c. Horrid ravages in Italy, ibid. d. Spain, ibid. & seq. Driven out of Gaul, 553, b, c. Ravage Africa, &c. ibid. d. Defeated by Ceraufius, ibid. & seq. Settle in Low-Germany, 554, b. Transplanted into Gaul, ibid. c. Defeat and punishment by Constantine, ibid. & seq. Peace with Constantine, 555, e, f. New ravages, 556, a, b. Suppressed by Julian, ibid. c—e. By Theodosius, ibid. & seq. Cut in pieces by Nonius, 557, d. Irruption into Gaul, 558, d—f. Drefs, 560, a, b. Settlement in France, ibid. & seq. The time when, 561, sub not. Enmity to the churches, 562, a, b. Conversion, 569, e, f. Strengthened by the Armoric, 570, f, & seq. Treaty with the Ostrogoths, 572, c, d. Enlarge their dominions, 576, & seq. Defeated by Theodoric, 577, b. Succeed the Burgunds, 587, & seq. Their horrid superstitions long after their conversion, 585, d.
- Fraomarius made king of the Bucinobantes, vi. 358, a. vii. 594, a.
- † Fratres, Septem, Heptadelpi mount, where, vii. 145, a.
- Fravilius's fidelity to the Romans, vi. 447, b, c. Consulship, 448, c. Repulses the Huns, 449, a.
- Frea worshipped by the Saxons, vii. 442, d.
- Frederic the Visigoth slain, vi. 507 vii. 514, (A).
- Barbarissa betrayed by Isaac Angelus, 623, f. Invades him, 624, a, b. Answer to his ambassador, ibid. c.
- treachery to Theodoric, vii. 524, b.
- Freedom, how bestowed on Roman slaves, iv. 470, (U).
- Freemen at Rome enlisted, v. 51, a.
- Freedmen of Claudius, their great sway, v. 515, b, c.
- † Fregellæ, colonized by the Romans, iv. 605, a. Seized by the Samnites, 615, a. Revolts, and razed, 800, a, b.
- French assist Alexius III. vi. 625, & seq. Take Constantinople, 627, d, e.
- † Fretan Leagb, the battle of, vii. 453, a.
- † Fretani, where seated, iv. 412, a.
- Friday ordered to be kept holy, vi. 256, f.
- Good, criminals released on, 405, d.
- Friga, Fria, &c. who, vii. [420], pass. & notes. Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.
- Frigerid defeats the Romans, vi. 382, c.
- † Frigidum, the river and battle of, 423, f, & seq.
- † Frisii, a tribe of Franks, vii. 543, a. Subdued by Drusus, v. 319, d, c. Where sit, 374, (C). Recover their liberty, 434, c, (K). Seize on some Roman lands, 523, d. Driven out, ibid. f.
- Fritigern leads the Goths into Thrace, vi. 380, d. Fells foul on the Romans, 381, b, c. Defeated by Sebastian, 383, b, c. Amules Valens, ibid. d, e.
- Fritigil converted to christianity, vi. 438, a. vii. 602, a. Submits to the empire, ibid. b.
- † Friuli erected into a dukedom, vii. 619, c, f. Dukes of, 701, b. The end of them, 724, b.
- Frontinus, Jul. convenes the senate for Vespasian, v. 644, f. Relinquishes his office, 645, a.
- treatise on aqueducts, vi. 10, b. His writings and character, 27, (A). Success in Britain, vii. 431, a.
- Fronto's bold speech against Nerva, vi. 5, a. Consulship, 10, b. Writings and character, 60, sub not.
- Saturn. his bravery in Syria, 64, b, c.
- Freft, a long and terrible one in the East, vi. 555, e.
- Frumentarii, their office, vi. 219. Suppressed, ibid. c.
- † Fucinus, the lake of, drained by Claudius, v. 513, & seq.
- Fuffetius, made king of Alba, iv. 439, & seq. Submits to the Romans, 442, a. Treachery to them, ibid. c. Severe punishment, 443, b.
- Fulgentius Planciades, an ignorant trifler, vi. 478, not.
- Fullosaudes killed in Britain, vi. 353, c. vii. 435, c.
- Fulvinius Trio turns evidence against Libo, v. 337, a.
- Fulvia discovers Catiline's conspiracy, v. 104, b.
- cruel revenge on Cicero, 209, c, d.
- the wife of Antony's unbounded ambition, 262, b. Opposes Octavian, ibid. & seq. Heads an army against him, 264, c. Driven from Pernefte, 267, b. Her death, 269, c, d.
- Fulvius, L. Corvus, triumphs over the Samnites, iv. 610, f. Made general of the horre, 617, c. Second triumph, 626, f.
- Petinus's success in Umbria, 628, c, d.

Melvinus Centuman, defeats the Samnites, &c. iv. 629, d. Sails against the Illyrians, 685, e. Proconsulship there, 686, e. Ends that war, ibid. d, e. Reception of, 112. Capuan nobles, 723, b. Besieges Capua, 726, e, f, & seq. Goes to the relief of Rome, 727, & seq. Surprises Hanno's provisions, vii. 53, e, f. Blockades Capua, 55, & seq. Severity to the Capuans, 729, d. Defeated by Hannibal, 730, d.

— Flaccus, triumphs over the Volturni, 651. Entangled in Gaul, 682, b. Chosen consul, 732. Great sway in Greece, 756, a. Inveighs against Scipio, 798. Against the patricians, 799, e. Sent to relieve Masilia, ibid. & seq. Exasperates the Gracchian faction, 806, d. Seizes mount Aventine, 807, a. — Killed, 808, a.

— L. Nobilis, triumphs over Ætolia, 758, b. Exhibits games, ibid. c. Ill success in Spain, 767, c.

— young Fulvius, why imprisoned, 807. Put to death, 809, b.

— Marc. success in Spain, v. 33, b.

† Fundi invaded by the Romans, iv. 605, c.

Funeral ceremonies used by the Jews, i. 696, a.

— among the Scythians, ii. 272, 277. How regulated by Solon, 433.

— to the slain at Athens, 501, & seq. How regulated by Lycurgus, 560, & seq.

— how performed by the Thracians, iii. 738, d.

— verses on such occasions, 217, b.

— orations, the first instance of, at Rome, iv. 472, d.

Furca of the Romans, vi. 726, (F).

Furian law, what, v. 338, (X).

Furius mounts the breach at Jerusalem, iv. 111, d.

— Spur. success against the Equi, 507, d. Defeated by them, 518, a.

— L. defeated by the Volsci, 575, d.

— Pacilus recalled from Sicily, 668, e, f.

— Purpur. defeats the Gauls, 749, & seq.

— Camillus's consulship, why crazed, v. 443, (R).

— Celjus's success in Mauritania, vi. 140, c.

Furnilla, Mart. divorced by Titus, v. 657, c.

Furtius dethroned for his fidelity, vi. 63, b.

Fuscus, Corn. penetrates into Umbria, v. 629, d. Chosen prætor, 635, d. His character, 677, f. Ill success against the Dacians, 678, a. Slain, ibid. b. His stately monument, 679, a.

— put to death by Adrian, vi. 44, b. His dreadful wish on him, ibid. c.

G

† GABALA, by whom built, iv. 141, (R).

Gabalus, count, his notion of the sin of Ham, i. 120, (N).

Gabases invites Coirhoes against Justinian, iv. 353, c.

† Gabene seized by Eumenes, iii. 429, a. By Antiochus, ibid. & seq.

† Gabinus war against Tarquin the proud, iv. 461, & seq.

Gabinian law against pirates, v. 100, & seq.

Gabinus's extortions in Syria, iii. 670, b, c. Restores the Egyptian king, 671, pass. Banished, 672, d. See also iv. 113, & seq. Treachery to Aristobulus, iv. 108, a. To Mithridates, 294, a.

— conspires with Catiline, v. 104, a. Seized, 106, c. Put to death, 107, a. — Cæsar's general cut off by the Illyrians, 139, e.

— Secund. success against the Chauci, 492, c, &c.

— king of the Quadi, treacherously murdered, vi. 361, e, f. vii. 603, f.

Gabriel, the angel, sent to Zechariah, iv. 153, a. To the virgin Mary, ibid. & seq.

† Gad, Jacob's son by Zilpah, i. 441, d. His blessing how verified, 464, a, b, (M). His lot in the promised land, 569, c.

— the prophet sent to David, 789, a.

† Gadara taken by Janneus, iv. 98, f. Made one of the five Jewish courts, 114, b. Disinherited from Judea, 130, f. Taken by the Romans, 277, c.

† Gades, its situation, vii. 301, b, (G). Temple and port, when first founded, vi. 730, a, b. Stripped by Mago, vii. 72, e. Surrendered to Scipio, ibid. c, f.

Gadir, the Punic name of Cades, its etymon, vi. 730, a.

† Gadresi subdued by Alexander, iii. 402, d.

† Gafara, whence so called, iv. 687. Ally with the Gauls, ibid. b. Fight naked, 688. Defeated, ibid. & 690, vii. 392, c. —

† Gæculia, its boundaries, vii. 159, & seq. Whence so called, 161, d.

— part of, given to Juba, 163, a, b. Seized on by Geneseric, 533, f.

† Gætulians, who and where sit, v. 20, d. vii. 159, & seq. Their cities, territories, &c. ibid. & seq. Origin, 161, c. Government, manners, &c. 162, a, b, (B), (C). Defeated before Cælinum, 37, a. 162, & seq. Serve under Jugurtha, 163, a. Go over to Cæsar, ibid. b. Subdued by C. Cossus, ibid. c. See also vol. v. 334, d.

Vol. VII. No. 11.

Gaiabomarus murdered by Caracalla, v. 126, c.

† Gaieta, the port of, built by Antoninus, v. 56, c.

Gaius, a Gaulish general, vi. 424, a. Assassinate Rufinus, 434, d. Stirs up a revolt against Eutropius, 442, & seq. Marches against Constantinople, 445, c. Arrogant demands granted, ibid. d, e. In favour of the Arians, refused, 446, a. His design on that city defeated, ibid. pass. Driven out of Thrace, 447, a, b. His death, ibid. d, e. See also vol. vii. 506, & seq.

Gaiso, the murderer of Constant, vi. 280, d.

Gaisus, antient king of the Franks, vii. 550, e. When, 551, a. His dismal end, 554, e.

† Galapa, where fired, vii. 143, a.

† Galata island, 672, note 7.

† Galatia, whence so called, iii. 522. Invaded by Phraartes, 725. Becomes a Roman province, v. 300, c. Where situated, vii. 322, b, c.

† Galatians, or Gauls of Asia minor, descended from Gomer, i. 166, d. Thence called Gomerians, ibid. & ii. 245, & seq. 295, d. Their origin, &c. iv. 755, e. Invaded by the Romans, ibid. f. Make peace with them, 756, a. Defeated by the Jews, vii. 322, b.

Galatius defeated and killed, iv. 682, c.

Galba Sulpit. horrid cruelty to the Lusitanians, iv. 769, b. Success against the Gauls, v. 120, e. Killed by Cæsar's 10th's legion, 157, c.

— Serv. Sulpit. chosen consul, 446, b, (X). Highly valued by Claudius, 492, (U). 497, (B). Defeats the Catti, 493. Encourages a revolt in Spain, 507, b, c. His speech against Nero, ibid. & seq. Saluted emperor, 571, b. Proscribed, 572, c, d. In a dangerous case, 574, a, b. His progenitors, 580. Adoption by Livia, ibid. c, (U). Severity in Spain, 581, e, f. Saluted emperor afresh, 582, c. By ambassadors in his way to Rome, 583, pass. Severities in that capital, 585, pass. Swayed by three gripping ministers, ibid. & seq. Instances of his own parsimony, 588, pass. Resumes Nero's profuseness, ibid. d, e. Hated by the soldiers, ibid. & seq. Severity to false informers, 589, a. Appoints Pilo his successor, 590. Speech to him on that occasion, 591, & seq. Conspired against by Otho, 592, f, & seq. Warned by the augurs, 593, d, e. Strives in vain to quell the revolt, 594, & seq. Forsaken by his guard, 595, c. Murdered, ibid. f. His head carried in triumph, 596, c, d. Buried, 597, d. His character, ibid. & seq.

— Caius, brother of the former, put to death, 451, c.

Galbus's success against Aldrubal, vii. 38, f, & seq.

† Gileagrea, the tower of, described, iii. 116, (U). Surprised by the Romans, 117, a.

Galen, born at Pergamos, ii. 325, f. Great skill in physic, vi. 69, a. His and his son's writings, 120, & seq. not.

Galera, Annia, married to Antoninus, vi. 53, a.

— Valeria, married to Galerius, 209, f.

— the daughter of Dioclesian, a christian, 206, c. Banished, 218, f.

Galerius, Max. chosen Cæsar, vi. 209, e. Adopted by Dioclesian, ibid. f. His share of the empire, 210, a. Mean extract and character, ibid. c. — c. Works in Pannonia, 211, a. Defeated by Narses, 214, a, b. Retrieves his honour, ibid. c, d. Behaviour to the Persians, ibid. e, f. Suspected by Dioclesian, 215, c. Exasperates him against the christians, 216, b. — c. Forces him and Maximian to resign, 217, d. — f. Proclaimed, 218, d. Tyranny over Dioclesian, 230, e, f. Shares the empire with Constantus, 231, c. Hatred and treachery to Constantine, ibid. & seq. Repelled from Rome, 235, d, e. His dreadful sickness, 239, b, c. Edict in favour of the christians, 240, a, b. Death, ibid. c.

Galerus's success against the Persians, iv. 330, & seq.

Galefis's usurpation and defeat, vii. 645, a. — d.

Galgalus's noble speech to the Caledonians, v. 668, & seq.

† Galicia seized by the Vandals, vi. 462, f. Ravaged by the Goths, 505, b, c.

Galileans massacred by Pilate, iv. 217, a.

† Galilee, the sea of, i. 577, f.

† — the country of, invaded by Antiochus, iii. 527. By Demetrius, 603, c, d. By Timotheus, iv. 64, a. Reduced by Herod, 128, c. Revolts to Antigonus, 129, e. Its conversion foretold, 204, f. Subdued by the Romans, 271, & seq. Defence against the Suevi, vii. 531, a.

Galla married to Jul. Constant, vi. 266, d.

— to Theodosius, 407, d.

— Placida, born, 407, d. Dies in childhood, 420.

— the wife of Dardanius, 468, (O).

† Gallagum, the Roman cauleway of, vii. 412, e.

Gallicanus's rathnels, and the dreadful effects of it, vi. 153, a, b.

Gallienus created Cæsar, vi. 172, f. His father's colleague, 173, a. Success against the Germans, &c. ibid. & seq. Treachery to his father, 174, f. Success against Ingenuus, 175, b. Cruelty to the Mærians, ibid. & seq. Commits his eastern forces to Odenatus, 178, b. Compounds with Aureolus, 179. Marches against Posthumus, 181, b, c. Cruelty to the Byzantines, ibid. c. Mock triumph, ibid. d. Gratitude to Odenatus, 182, b. Success in Gaul, 184, d, e.

9 U

His

- His death, 185. Relations murdered, ibid. c. Abhorred character, ibid. Denied, ibid. d, e.
- Galli, the eunuch priests of the Syrian goddess, i. 374, a. How first introduced, ibid. & seq. Ceremonies at their funeral, 376, c, f. Their female attire, &c. ibid. c. Among the Gauls, vii. 359, b, c, (B), (C).
- Gallus, a fight of, in the Circus, v. 327, d.
- merry jest on Claudius's apotheosis, 515, c.
- speech to the Britons, vii. 437, e. Departure from them, 438, b.
- Gallus, the first governor of Egypt, iii. 690, f.
- Sulpit. sent to hear the complaints against Eumenes, 778, b.
- Q. Luper. a friend to Octavian, v. 212, f, & seq.
- Cornel. banished, 300, a, b. Kills himself, ibid. c.
- Ætius's expedition into Arabia, 301, c. Betrayed by Syllæus, ibid. & seq. Forced back into Egypt, 302, b, c. Second expedition, 316, f, & seq. See also vol. vii. 281, f, & seq.
- Asinius's speech to Tiberius, 355, b. Extract, &c. ibid. (1).
- Caninus reproved by Tiberius, 445, d, (U).
- Asinius's treason and punishment, 498.
- A Did. ill success in Britain, 512, & seq.
- Glycius impeached by Quintilian, 553, c.
- Cyllius defeated by the Jews, 566, b.
- Rubr. gets the Othonians pardon, 613, c.
- Herenn. defeated by the Barbarian cohorts, 640, c.
- his success against the Goths, vi. 269, b. Treachery to Decius, 170. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. c. His extract, 186, &c. ibid. & seq. Shameful peace with the Goths, 171, a. Persecution of the christians, ibid. b. Revels at Rome, ibid. c. Killed by his men, ibid. d.
- the son of Jul. Constant. 226, f.
- of young Constantius, born, 266, d. How preserved from massacre, 275, b.
- created Cæsar, 283, b. Success against the Persians, ibid. c, d. Chosen consul at Constantinople, 285, c. Success against the Jews, 286, b. The Isaurians, 289, c. His suspicious and cruel temper, ibid. & seq. Causes a revolt at Antioch, 290, f, & seq. Cruelty to Mentiur, &c. 291, d, e. Trepanned by Constantius, 292, c, d. Put to death, 293, & seq. His zeal for christianity, 320, & seq.
- † — a river of that name, ii. 297, 299.
- † Gamala, taken by the Romans, iv. 272, & seq.
- Gamaliel's advice to the Sanhedrin, iv. 252, f, (K).
- Games of no kinds among the Jews, i. 694, a, (Q). Of hazard, esteemed a kind of theft, ibid. b.
- instituted by Herod, iv. 141, b. At Rome, introduced by Tarquin, 448, a, (E). How performed, 562, a. The greatest, 583, b. Of hazard, forbid there, v. 3, e. Encouraged by Caligula, 472, a, b.
- secular, exhibited, 312, c, d. Under Domitian, 679, c.
- † Garmen, in Persia, its deadly heats, ii. 36, not.
- † Gangaridæ, where situate, iii. 396, in fin. (E).
- Ganymedes, the son of Troe, abused by Tantalus, ii. 323, & seq.
- supplants Achilles, iii. 676. Distresses Cæsar in Alexander, ibid. e, f.
- † Garamantes, where situate, v. 310, a, 421, c. Subdued by the Romans, ibid. Trade with the Carthaginians, vi. 711.
- Why so called, vii. 280, (A). Their history, 165, & seq.
- † Carba, island, where situate, vi. 170, f.
- † Gardens, hangings, of Babylon, described, i. 962, & seq.
- Gargilius Murs's writings and character, vi. 149, sub not.
- Garibald dethroned, vii. 697, c, d.
- † Garizim, the temple of, by whom built, iv. 29, b. An asylum, for renegade Jews, 30, a. Destroyed by Hyrcan, 92, b, (O).
- Garshasp, prince of the Turks, assassinates that of Persia, ii. 197, c. Put to death by Rustan, ibid. f.
- † Gascony invaded by the Vandals, vi. 453, f.
- Gastendi revives the atomic system, i. 22.
- † Gath, a famed city of Palestine, i. 341.
- Gauda's treachery to Metellus, v. 18, a.
- a German prophetic visits Domitian, 673, f.
- Gavius Man. twenty years captain of the guard, vi. 55, f. Monumental inscription on Antoninus, 57, b.
- † Gaugamela, the battle of, ii. 165, & seq. Taken by Trajan, vi. 2, d.
- † Gaul, described, iv. 408. Cispadana, whence so called, 410, b. Transpadana described, ibid. c. How divided, 561, c. Made a Roman province, v. 209, a. Its districts, vi. 270, c, f. Ruined by the Franks, 283, 280, b. Vandals, 443, & seq. By Attila, 494, c, f. Split into several kingdoms, 514, a.
- ancient, described, vii. 322, & seq. Its extent, 322, & seq. Lessened, 322, b, c. Its climate, soil, &c. ibid. & seq. How become warmer, 326, a, b.
- † Gaulana taken by Alex. Jannæus, iv. 102, a.
- Gaulish church, its original state under the Visigoths, vii. 527, pass.
- † Gaulonia besieged by the banditti, vii. 62, a.
- Gaulonites, the sect of, iv. 169. Insurrection, 192, & seq. The rest see under Zeloti, 193, & seq.
- † Gauls, from whom descended, i. 166, ii. 242, & seq. Sent to aid the Lacedæmonians, 618, c. First invasion of Macedonia, iii. 470, a. Second, ibid. d. Third, 171, a. Rise the royal tombs, ibid. f. Defeated by Comæus, 472, f. Settled in Asia minor, 522. Treachery to Hierax, 528, c. Scared at a lunar eclipse, 770. Their avarice and sacrilege, 816, c.
- Gauls, their first invasion of Italy, iv. 561, & seq. Sackage of Rome, 563, f. Defeated by Camillus, 564, c, d. At their assault on the capital, 565, d. Fresh descent, 566, & seq. Second irruption, 581, & seq. Defeated, 582, 588, b—d. By Sulpitius, 589, e. Enter Latium, 593, a. Defeated by Popilius, ibid. b—d. By Valerius, ibid. f. Join with the Hetrurians, 612, a. Defeated by Fabius, 633, & seq. Plot against Hannibal, 676. Fresh invasion, 686, & seq. Repulsed by Æmilius, 687, d, c. Defeated, 688, c, d. By Marcellus, 690, b, c. Assist Hannibal over the Alps, 695, d, e. Treachery to the Romans, 694, f. Renew their hostilities, 749, c. Thirty thousand of them cut off, 750, a. The same number by Cethegus, ibid. f. Eleven thousand by Sempronius, 753.
- defeat the consular army, v. 28, f. Defeated by Pompey, 70, d. Declare for Sylla, 71, a. Raise a new revolt, 126, & seq. Defeated, 127, a. Fight separately, and subdued, 128, d, c. 129, a. Undergo a census, 208, d. Rear an altar to Augustus, 319, b. Greatly oppressed by Caligula, 475, b, c. Revolt against Nero, 569, & seq. Defeated, 573, b, c. Declare for Vitellius, 599, & seq. Revolt from Vespasian, 641, & seq. Agree upon a peace, 643, b, c.
- visited by Adrian, vi. 35, b. Declare for Severus, 105, c. Reduced by Aurelian, 192, d, 194, e. Sacrificed to Hannibal's jealousy, 830, b, c. Obfrust Hannibal's crossing the Rhosne, vii. 9, c. 11, & seq. And the Alps, 15, a, b. Lift in his service, 16, d. 18, b, c. Their prisoners dismissed by him, 20, c, f. Reinforce Mago, 73, b. Answer to him, 74, b.
- ancient, their origin, vii. 241. misprinted for page 321.
- Various names, ibid. b, (A). Spread through Europe, 322, d—f. Way of living, 325, & seq. & notes. Religion, 326, & seq. Misrepresented by ancient authors, 327, sub notes, (A), (B), (C). Worship one deity, 328, a, b. Their ceremonies, &c. 329, & seq. Games, 331, & seq. Described, 332, b—d. Their worship like that of the ancient Hebrews, 333, b—f. Bloody sacrifices, 334, c—e. Funeral victims, ibid. f. Auguries, 335, a—c. Other cruel superstitions, ibid. & seq. Altars, described, 336, a—c. Aversion to temples, ibid. & seq. & (M). 346, c. Consecrated treasures, ibid. & seq. Polytheism, when introduced, ibid. pass. Temples, when first built, 347, a, b. Human sacrifices forbid by the Romans, 348, c. 350, b. Run into numberless superstitions, ibid. & seq. & (F). 351, pass. & (G). Some of their temples described, ibid. & seq. Male deities, 352, & seq. Barbarous rites to them, 354, pass. Senseless ones, 355, b, (Q). Female deities, 359, & seq. Believed a futura life, 361, c, & seq. Their mixt government, laws, &c. 366, pass. Grand council, ibid. f, & seq. & (A). Fatal discords, 367, b, c. Kings, how chosen, 368, a, b, (D). Their limited power, ibid. c, (E). Their laws, councils, &c. 369, & seq. Fondness for duels, 372, & seq. For liberty, 372, & seq. Valour drained, 374, pass. Discipline, 375, & seq. Language, 377, & seq. Universities, 379, pass. & (N), (O). Contempt of writing, 381, a, b. Fond of poetry, 382, a, & e, (T). Arts, ibid. & seq. Trade, 383, & seq. Feasting, 385, & seq. Described, 386, a—c, (A). Contempt for trades, &c. ibid. & seq. Drunkenness, 387, & seq. (B). Idleness, 388, b, c. Ferocity, ibid. d. Hospitality, ibid. & seq. Frugality and fidelity, 389, & seq. Earliest expeditions, 391. Into Greece, 393, & seq. & (E). Overspread Asia, 395, a, b, (F). Conquest by the Romans, ibid. ad fin. esp.
- † Gauri, Gabrus. See Persia, ii. 69, & seq.
- Gaus revolts to the Egyptians, and slain, i. 276, f.
- Gautier defeated by the Illyrians, vi. 614, a, b.
- † Gaus, metropolis of Media, described, ii. 1. Taken and put to the sword by Alexander, ibid. c. iii. 344, & seq. By Antigonius, 432, b. By Antiochus, 543, d, e.
- † — in Bactria, taken by Alexander, 372.
- † — metropolis of Atropatena, 844.
- destroyed by Alexander Jannæus, iv. 99, b—d. Dismembered from Judea, 290, f.
- † — the temples of, destroyed, vi. 404, c.
- † — the famed church, built by Eudoxia, 433, a.
- Ga, sister and wife to Uranus, i. 89, & 135, a.
- Geberic's success against the Sarmatians, vi. 265, b.
- Gedabab, the Jewish deputy, murdered by Ithamar, i. 851, b.
- † Gedrosia, a province of Persia, described, ii. 23, a.
- Gedre the capital, iv. 565, c. Harboured by the Romans, ibid. f.
- Gedre, the servant of Elthas, smitten with leprosy, i. 386, c. 877, c, & (O).
- † Gela, a city in Sicily, ibid. 5, d. By whom built, 11, f. Enslaved by Gelon, 15, a. Taken by the Carthaginians, 45, & seq. vi. 750, & seq.
- † — the river of, iii. 5.
- Gelaan women, their bravery, iii. 45, f. vi. 750, c, & d.

- Gelimer*, last king of the Vandals in Africa, vii. 527, d.
Gellias burns himself in Minerva's temple, iii. 41, d. His character, ibid. (X).
Gellius his ill success in Arabia, iv. 142.
 — Papiscus defeated by the slaves, v. 97, d, &c. Chosen consul, 99, d.
 — Q. treacherously murdered by Octavian, 132, b.
 — his treason pardoned, vi. 132, a.
 — the Agrigentine, his immense wealth and profusion, 349, (M). His stratagem and fatal end, ibid. b.
Gelon becomes tyrant of Syracuse, iii. 15, b, &c. Defeats the Carthaginians, 17, b, c. Moderation towards them, 18, a. Towards his subjects, ibid. c, d. Made king, ibid. c, f. See also vi. 728, f. Vast donations, 736, a, b, (D). His tomb demolished by Hamilco, 764, b. His statue, how preserved, iii. 18, e, & not. Death and character, &c. 20, pass.
 — the son of Hiero, his treachery to his father, 100, a, b.
 † Gelonius Scythianus described, ii. 238, 278.
 † — in Europe, their extracts, &c. vii. 604, e, & seq.
Geminii, their consulship, v. 435, b. Whether Christ suffered under it, ibid. (M).
Geminus in search after Marius, v. 56, e. Brings him bound to Maturanz, 58, b.
 — sent to reclaim M. Antony, 287, c. Forced to flee Cleopatra's resentment, ibid. d, e.
 — Livius's impious flattery to, 467, a.
 — twin of Commodus, born, vi. 62, c.
 † Gemonia seals, what, iv. 682, (I).
 † Gemology of the antediluvians, i. 76. Of Jesus Christ, iv. 155, (M).
Generation, the scriptural meaning of that word, iv. 288, not.
 † Genesart, Genesarteb, the lake of, i. 577, b. Why called the sea of Tiberias, iv. 194, d.
Genesi, when written by Moses, i. 484, (R).
 † Genesio, the lake of, described, ii. 249, a.
Genetides, general of Rhetia, his character, &c. vi. 460, d.
Genialis made pretor of the guards, vi. 100, f. Shuts himself up with Julianus, 105, f.
Genii, their nature and office, according to the Orientals, i. 51, b, c.
Genius. Vid. Demon, vi. 693, d.
Genobald, king of the ancient Franks, vii. 550, b. Submits to Maximian, vi. 208, d. vii. 550, f.
Genose settled at Constantinople, vi. 634, b, c. Removed to Galates, ibid. d. Seize on several islands, 645, b, c.
Genesio's advantageous peace with the Romans, vii. 466, b, c.
 — carries his Vandals into Africa, 527, d.
 — succeeds Gonderis in Spain, 531, f. His character, ibid. & seq. Treaty with Bonifacius, 532, b. Conquers Africa, ibid. c, f. Repulsed before Sicily, 533, d. Peace with the Romans, ibid. d, e. Breaks it, ibid. e, f. Ravages Sicily, 534, b, c. Invited into Italy by Eudoxia, ibid. e. Plunders Rome, ibid. f. Defeated by Eudoxia, 535, b, c. Ravages Italy, ibid. d, e. Slight the emperor's embassy, ibid. e, f. Surprises Majoranus's fleet, 536, c. Makes peace with him, and breaks it, ibid. d. Ravages Italy, &c. ibid. & seq. And Greece, 537, b. Haughty answer to Leo, ibid. c. Defeats his fleet, 538, e, f. New conquests and ravages, 539, c, d. Treaty with the Romans, ibid. c. Death, 540, a. See also vol. vi. 481, & seq. Succeeded by Huneric, 515.
 — cruelty to his — in-law, 472, (F).
Genites, when their conversion first began, iv. 256, & seq.
 † Genitici subdued by the Romans, v. 33, f.
Genius, king of Illyria, ill-treated by the Romans, iii. 485, d. Outwitted by Perseus, 489, c, d. Sent prisoner to Rome, 498, a, (E). See also iv. 760, d. 763, b.
 † Genia, metropolis of Liguria, iv. 409, c.
Geniades's writings and character, vi. 316, (G).
Genubath, king of Edom, i. 315, b.
Genus and Genes, who, i. 86, c.
Genitius, Cn. summons the consuls, iv. 513, d. His sudden death, ibid. e.
 — the consul, joins the plebeian interest, 533, pass. Chosen decemvir, 534, a.
 — the tribune, killed by the Meturians, 558, f.
 — a plebeian, chosen consul, 583, e. Slain, 586, c.
 † Geography, the first rise of, i. 256, b.
Germani, at Samos, their office, iii. 189, a, d. Murdered, ibid.
Geometry first found out by the Egyptians, i. 217, e.
Gerger, the Arian bishop, where born, ii. 341, b. Succeeds Athanasius, vi. 298, c.
 † Georgia, a province of Scythia, ii. 267, c. Why so called, iii. 837, a, b. Described, 839, d. The rest see under Georgia, 835.
German women, famed for their beauty, iii. 857, c. 839, d, e.
Germanus defeated by Judas Maccabeus, iv. 58, & seq. In Idumea, 63, b. By Dositheus, 68, b.
 † Germanus, Athenian farmer so called, ii. 438, a.
 † Germanus revolt against Probus, v. 201, d. The same with the Lombards and Franks, 391, e, f. Kill each other in the dark, 495, d. Join with the Avari, 535, e. Their origin, vii. 211, & seq. 494, b. Submit to Attila, 466, c. Regain their liberty, 481, f. Obtain a pension from Rome, 182.
 Defeated by the Goths, 494, b. By Theodoric, 529, c. Settled in Thrace, 529, a. Defeated by Probus, ibid. b. Their settlements, 595. Defeat the Burgundi, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Claudius, 596, b. Their war with the Huns, ibid. c. Settled in Dacia, ibid. d. Defeated by Justinian, ibid. c. Fall out with the Lombards, ibid. & seq. Defeated by them, 597, a, b. Subdued, ibid. d, c. The end of their kingdom, ibid. f.
 † Gerar, once the metropolis of the Philistines, i. 341, c.
 — the valley of, where Isaac sojourned, i. 576, a.
 † Gerastus, a promontory in Euboea, iii. 247, a, d.
 — a city in the same island, 248, a.
 † Gerastus in Canaan, where situated, i. 323, c.
 † Gerastus of Canaan, where situated, iv. 212, (D). Probably fled into Africa, i. 335, a, (D).
 † Gerizim mount, i. 540, c. 573, a.
 † Germa destroyed by an earthquake, vi. 371, a.
German women, their signal bravery, vii. 375, c, d.
 — old, why supposed prophetic, [417], a, (B).
 — married, their fidelity, diligence, &c. 430, b—d, & (W). Some hard laws against them, ibid. & [432], b.
 — poetry, its roughness, 380, (P). [427], a, b.
 — legions revolt, v. 364, & seq. Quelled and punished, 367, d—f.
Germani, an ambiguous word, punned upon, v. 230, e.
 † Germania, how divided, vii. [407], & seq. Its extent, ibid. & seq. Described, 409, &c. Its nations, forests, rivers, towns, &c. ibid. & seq. Soil and produce, [423], pass.
 † — Prima, invaded by the Vandals, vii. 529, d.
 † Germanicopolis, the capital of Mauria, vi. 370, d. When made a bishop's see, ibid. e.
Germanicus, Druf. his descent, v. 294. Adopted by Tiberius, 332, c. Success against the Pannonians, 335, d. In Dalmatia, 337, b. Over-reached at Rhetium, 338, & seq. Triumphs over the Dalmatians, 339, b, c. 340, b. Consulship, 344, d. Recommended to the senate, 345, b. Promoted by Tiberius, 358, d, (N). Inflicted by the German legions, 365, pass. Quells them, 366, b. And a fresh revolt, 367, c. 368, c, d. Refuses the empire, 365, c, f. 369, a. Severe expedition against the Marci, ibid. & seq. Against the Catti, 372, & seq. And the confederate Germans, 374, & seq. Piety to the slain Romans, 375, b, c. Ill success against Arminius, 377, pass. Retires to the Rhine, 378, a, b. New expedition into Germany, 381, & seq. Speech to his army, 383, d, e. Gains two complete victories, 384, & seq. His monumental inscription, 385, b. Danger at sea, ibid. d, e. Recalled by Tiberius, 386, a, b. His reception and triumph, 389, & seq. The eastern provinces given to him, 391, b. Sets out towards them, 394. Infected by Plague, 395, pass. Goes into Egypt, 396, b. Taken ill at Antioch, 397, b. His last words, ibid. & seq. Death and obsequies, 398, & seq. Posterity, ibid. (S). Character, ibid. & seq. (V). Funeral honours, 401, a, b, (V, Z). 403, b, c, (B).
 — the legend of, why so called, 401, b.
Germanus, ancient, when first mentioned by Roman authors, iv. 690, e. And known to them, 404, c, & seq. Their extracts, vii. 324, b, (F). [404], pass. Ancient names and etymons, [405], c—e, (A). Several nations, where fitted, [407], & seq. Religion, [426], & seq. Cruel rites, [417], b, c. Had no temples, [428], a. Their deities, ibid. b, & seq. Horrid superstitions, [421], & seq. Priests, [422], pass. Laws, government, &c. ibid. & seq. Councils, [423], a, (K). Kings, ibid. b—d. Military discipline, ibid. & seq. & (L, M). Cavalry, &c. [424], & seq. & (N). Weapons, [425], pass. & (O). Arts, sciences, &c. ibid. & seq. & notes. Dialects, [427], c, d, (R). Writing, [428], a, (T). Strength, &c. ibid. & seq. Fidelity, [429], a, b. Money, ibid. c. Marriages, ibid. e. Promiscuous commerce confuted, ibid. & seq. Funerals, [430]. Notions of a future state, [431], pass. & notes. Unnatural customs, [432], a—c. Drunkenness, ibid. c—e. Ancient history, why dark, [433], pass. Invaded by the Romans, ibid. d, & seq. Wars with them, ibid. & seq. Repulsed by Agrippa, v. 309, c. By Lollius, 313, c. By Drusus, 319, c, f. Massacred by Germanicus, 374, & seq. By the Gauls, [434], & seq. 364, & seq. Revolt from the Romans, 641, e, f. War against M. Aurelius, vi. 66, pass. With fresh vigour, ibid. f, & seq. Against Alex. Severus, 145, b. Against Valerian, 173, b, c. Against Aurelius, 288, c. Against Probus, 199, & seq. Constantius, 294, d. Julian, 301. Valentinian, 350, & seq.
Germanus forced to heed the mutinous Romans, vi. 534, d. Totally defeats the Persians, ibid. c. Defeated by Naries, 537, c. His death, ibid.
 † Germanus invaded by Caesar, v. 122, b, c. Visited by Adrian, 35, b. Ravaged by Maximian, 152, d, e.
Gerontius cruelly treated by Constantius, vi. 288, d.
 — betrays the freight of Thermopylae, 433.
 — sent to guard the Pyrenees, 455, c—e. Sets up Maximus in Spain, 462, b. Succeeds against Constantine, 465, d. Desperate end, 466, c, d.
Gerstratus, king of Arad, submits to Alexander, i. 421, a.
 † Gerrai, who, and where fitted, vii. 231, b.
Gerphon,

- Gershon*, a chief branch of the Levites, i. 633, b.
Geryon's oxen fetched by Hercules, ii. 356, not.
† Geshur, the kingdom of, more ancient than that of Damascus, i. 380. Whether Abraham reigned in it, ibid. (B). Their petty princes, 381, & (L). Allied to David, ibid. b, c. Transplanted by the Syrians, ibid. c.
† Geshurites unite with Amalek against the Israelites, i. 321, a. Who they were, ibid. (L).
Gesuuld's noble fidelity and death, vii. 695, b, c.
† Gessoriacum, Bologne, the triumphal arch of, vii. 429, b.
Geta's success in Mauritania, v. 493, d, (W).
— sent to seize on Silius, 505, a. Turned out by Agrippina, 508, c.
— Severus, the father of Alexander, vi. 104, b.
— the son of Severus, by Julia, ibid. f. Chosen Cæsar, 114.
Tribune, 118, b. Styled Britannicus, ibid. d. Succeeds with his brother to the empire, 121, a. His lovely character, ibid. & seq. Murdered by Caracalla, 122, b—f. Declared a traitor, 123, b, c. Deified, ibid. d, e.
— triumphs over the Britons, vii. 428, f.
† Geta, where sited, ii. 268, a. Defeated by Alexander, iii. 319, d, e. Different from the Dacians, v. 677, a. Their terrible inroads, vi. 522, c. The rest see sub Gutis, vii. 486, & seq.
† Gether, one of Aram's sons, prince of Bactria, i. 163, c. Where located, ibid.
† Getsemane, the vale of, i. 587, a. Whence so called, iv. 234, (N).
Getulicus Lentulus, accused, v. 449, c. Noble letter to Tiberius, ibid. f. Put to death, 475, d.
† Gezandan taken by the Visigoths, vii. 515, c.
† Gezer, in Canaan, put to the sword by Pharaoh, i. 337, a. Given in dowry to Solomon, ibid. & 793, b.
† Gezerites, who, i. 321, (I). Ally with Amalek against the Jews, ibid. a.
† Gezira, Jezira, island, where, vii. 146, c.
† Ghaffan, the kingdom of, by whom founded, vii. 275, d. List of its kings, ibid. e, & seq.
Ghost, Holy, the sin against, what, and why unpardonable, iv. 211, a.
— miraculous descent on the apostles, 249, & seq. The truth of the fact, 250, (H).
Giameff made regent of Persia, iv. 389, c. Resigns to Cobad, 390, a.
— a famed Persian astrologer, ii. 221, f. Foretells the coming of the Messiah, 222, not.
Giants, probably Cain's race, i. 82, c. Absurd opinions about them, ibid. (N). Their origin, ibid. The probability of them, 84, post. & (N). Continued until the flood, ibid. Their war with Jupiter, ii. 261, & seq.
† Gibeath, their inhospitality and punishment, i. 740, d, & seq.
† Gibbeton besieged by the Israelites, i. 358.
† Gibel, mount. See Ætna, iii. 9, d.
† Gibeon, a city of the Hivites, make a league with Joshua, i. 331, d—f. Made a kind of slaves, 332, a. Besieged by the confederate Canaanites, 558. Relieved by Joshua, ibid. & seq. Its situation, iv. 269, (N).
† — the valley of, i. 575, b.
† Gibeonites, their revenge on Saul, i. 788, b. Those who returned from the captivity, iv. 51, b.
Gideon saluted saviour of Israel, i. 743. The miracle of his fleece, ibid. & seq. Why surnamed Jerubaal, 744. Miraculous victory with his three hundred men, ibid. d, & seq. Severity to Succoth and Peniel, ibid. & seq. Makes an ephod of the golden plunder, 746, b, c. Refuses to reign over the Israelites, ibid. d. His death, e.
Gigantomachia, at Athens, what, v. 288, (R).
† Gibon, river, supposed the same with the Ganges, i. 56, a.
† Gilboa, mount, i. 573, a.
† Gilda's account of Britain, vii. 420, (A).
Gildo revolts from Honorius, vi. 438, c. His rise and character, ibid. d—f. Defeated and taken, 440, b, c. Hangs himself, d.
Gilead, the monument, reared by Jacob, i. 444, d.
† — mount, 553.
† — where sited, 143, b.
Gileadite Jews oppressed by the Syrians, iv. 64, a, b. Relieved by Judas, 67, b, c. Subdued by Jannæus, 100, b.
Gileadites removed into Judea, 67, c.
† Gindones, who, and where sited, vii. 175, b.
† Gijchala, the city of, taken by the Romans, iv. 273, f.
— John de, outwits Vespasian, ibid. Treachery to Ananus, 274, c, d, (Z). Desperate defence against the opposite parties, 278, b, (H). Against Simon, 283, a. Plunders the temple, 283, d. Horrid hypocrisy, 284, a, b. Taken prisoner, 288, f. Punishment, 289, c.
Gisco, the son of Hamilcar, banished, and left to starve, vi. 736. Recalled into Sicily, 785, c. Made governor of Lilybæum, 851, e. Sent to treat with the mercenaries, 853. Clapped in irons by them, 855. His miserable end, 860, c, f.
Gjulpb, first duke of Friuli, vii. 619, c.
— of Benevento, his reign and death, 700, c.
† Gjudda, a sea-port near Mecca, vii. 238, a.
Glabrio sent against Mithridates, iii. 750, c, d.
Glabrio, the consul, forced to fight a huge lion, v. 630, c. Banished and murdered by Domitian, ibid. f.
— refuses the empire, vi. 95.
Gladiators, when first introduced at Rome, iv. 804, (Z). Their manner of fighting, &c. ibid. &c. Reward, 805 sub not. Their several classes, ibid. &c.
— sent out of Rome, v. 333, f. By whom maintained in the army, 361, (X). Their number stinted by Tiberius, 371, c. Restrained by M. Aurelius, vi. 80, a. Forbad by Constantine, 261, a. By Honorius, 451, b.
Glaphyra obtains Cappadocia for her son, iii. 768, b.
— married to Alexander, iv. 147, a. Sent back to her father, 151, d. Illegally married to Archelaus, 192, a.
† Glass, the first and best, made with Tyrian sand, i. 394, d.
— made at Schiras in Persia, iii. 34, not.
† Glauce, the fountain of, whence so called, ii. 393, c.
Glaucia, a creature of Marius, v. 40. Conspires with Apuleius, 42. Put to death, 43, b.
Glaucias, king of Illyricum, defeated, iii. 320, b, c.
— makes peace with Cassander, 460. Murders Roxana and her son, 462, a.
Glaucus, king of Corinth, ii. 393, b.
Glaucæ invaded by Alexander, iii. 393, b.
† Glecester taken by the Saxons, vii. 452, f.
Glycerius takes the purple on him, vi. 511. Deposed, and made archbishop, 512, b, c. Reception of Nepos in his flight, ibid. d.
Glyco suspected of poisoning the two consuls, v. 208, (P).
Gnephadius, king of Egypt, i. 203, a. Leaves a monumental curio on luxury, ibid.
Gneffis, among the Athenians, what, ii. 437, d.
Gnaffians assist the besieged Rhodians, iii. 139, f. Subdue part of Crete, 170, d.
Gnoffis, Ariadne, why so called, iii. 160.
† Gnosius, Jupiter's tomb shewn at, ii. 263, b. The ancient metropolis of Crete, iii. 160, b.
Goats, why worshipped by the Egyptians, i. 211, b. Why painted on the Macedonian standards, iii. 271, c, d.
God, the Creator of matter and form, i. 2, a. A free agent, 5, a. The world not involuntarily created by him, ibid. & seq. The sole principle of matter and motion, 11, c. How free from the imputation of evil, 29, d, e. The hundred and twenty years of his forbearance, 82, t. Not the hardener of the heart, 494, (D).
Godegislaus leads his Vandals into Gaul, vii. 527, d. Allies with Clovis, 571, b. Treachery to Gundebald, ibid. c, d. Put to death by him, 572, b.
Godemar, king of the Burgundi, vii. 586, c. Hires the Ostrogoths, ibid. f. Success against the Franks, 587, a. Peace with them, ibid. b, c. Driven out, ibid. d—f. Taken prisoner, 588, a, b.
Godfrey's hostile march against Constantinople, vi. 614, d, c. Treaty with Alexius, ibid. c, f.
Gods, Egyptian, reigning before the flood, i. 94, d, c.
— tutelæ, how evoked at a siege, iv. 777, b.
Gog and Magog, probably the same, i. 167, c. A fabulous prince of British Gaul, vii. 421, sub not.
† Gogarene derives its name from Gog, ibid.
† Gold first coined by the Lydians, ii. 331, b.
— sand of the river Hermus, 294, d.
— mines seized by the Thasians, 493, & seq.
— by Philip, 290, f. Despised by the Ethiopians, vii. 202, c. By the ancient Gauls, 384, b, (X). By the Germans, 429, d.
— the sand of, in Lusitania, 299, b.
Golden fleece. See Fleece, ii. 383, (G). 385, (K).
† Golgi, a town in Cyprus, iii. 174, b.
† Golgotba, mount, described, iv. 239, (X).
Goliath, the gigantic Philistine champion, described, i. 353, (N). Killed by David, 354, a—d.
— his son, another giant, killed by Jonathan, 357, b, c.
† Gomer, Japhet's eldest son, the father of the Gomerians, ii. 243, a. Whether he came into Europe, 241. Whether the father of the Phrygians, 295, d. Their language described, 253. Still preserved by the Welsh, ibid. & seq. Its affinity to the Hebrew, ibid. sub not. Their descent, ibid. c.
† Gomerians, called by the Greeks Galatians, the Gauls of Asia Minor, i. 166, b, c. Called also Celtes, &c. Other names, ii. 241, & seq. & (B). & 245. Different from the Scythians, 243, & seq. Their migrations into Europe, 244, & seq. 246. Extent of their territories there, ibid. & seq. The names of their rivers, cities, &c. of Celtic extract, 249, c. Their government, laws, religion, &c. 250, & seq. Military discipline, language, &c. 253, & seq. Diet, 254, d. Why confounded with the Scythians, 256, note. Their kings, 258, & seq. Kingdom dismembered, 265.
Gonderic, king of the Vandals, invades Gaul, vi. 453, d. And Spain, 462, f. Driven out of Biscay, 473, b, c. His kingdom in Spain, vii. 530, f. Defeats the Suevi, 531, d. Defeated by Asterius, ibid. e. His miserable end, ibid. c, f.
Gondiac defeated by Ægidius, vi. 507, a.
Gondibal supports Glycerius's usurpation, vi. 511, c.
Gondicarius, king of the Burgundi in Gaul, vi. 468, d. Defeated by the Huns, 483. vii. 463, c.
Gondomarus makes peace with Constantius, vi. 298, b, c.
Gongilas defeated by the Saracens, vi. 581, c.

- Good Goddess*, the sacrifices of, v. 109, c, (O).
- Gopher*, what, i. 104, (N).
- Gordas*, king of the Hunns, converted, vii. 483, b. And murdered by his subjects, ibid. c.
- † Gordian mountains in Armenia, iii. 695, b.
- Gordian* knot, the origin of, iii. 333, b, c. Cut by Alexander, ibid. d, c.
- Gordianus*, Alexander's counsellor, vi. 138, d. Proclaimed emperor in Africa, 153, c. Enters Carthage, ibid. d. Letters to the senate and consuls, ibid. e, f. Acknowledged by them, 154, a—c, (S). Defeated, 155, c. Kills himself, ibid. d. His extortions, &c. ibid. & seq. Poems and success in Africa, 156, b, c.
- his son and colleague, defeated and killed, 154, & seq.
- his grandson, chosen Cæsar, 157, d. Quells an uproar in Rome, 158, d. Chosen sole emperor, 161, b. His character, ibid. c. Magnificent games, ibid. e. Marries Sabina, ibid. f. Submissive answer to his father, 162, (V). Success against Sapor, ibid. b, c. In Syria, d. Letter to the senate, 163, a, b. Deposed by Philip, ibid. f. And murdered, 164, a. His stately tomb and epitaph, ibid. b, c.
- † Gordium, a city of Phrygia, ii. 293, b. By whom built, 302, c.
- Gordius* I. ii. 296, c. 302. How raised to the throne, 301, b. Ties the Gordian knot, ibid. d.
- II. 302, c.
- III. invaded by the Cimmerians, ibid.
- Gorgo*, queen of Sparta, her character, ii. 587, not.
- Gorgopbone* married to Oebalus, king of Sparta, ii. 40, d.
- Gorgopus*, the Spartan, defeated and killed, ii. 558, d.
- † Gorgus, a river of Assyria, i. 859, a, (I).
- king of Salamis, expelled by his brother, iii. 177, c. Recalled, 178, b.
- † Gortyna, in Crete, iii. 160, d. Its ruins described, ibid. & seq.
- its temple, by whom built, 161, a.
- † Gortynians subdue part of Crete, iii. 170, d.
- † Gortys, where situated, vi. 858, (E).
- † Goshem, in Egypt, its situation, &c. i. 457, d, (A).
- Gotarzes* resigns his sceptre to Bardanes, iv. 316, c—e. Mounts the Parthian throne, 317, b. Wars with Mithridates, ibid. & seq. His death, 318, b.
- Gotofredus*'s account of post-chaises, vi. 26.
- † Gothi invade the Roman territories, vi. 160, d. Repulsed by Gordian, 163, c. Make new inroads, 169, b. Defeated by Decius, ibid. & seq. Defeat him, 170, c, d. Sad defeat by Aurelian, 173, f. Driven out of Asia, 183, b, c. Ravage it afresh, 184, b, c. Three hundred thousand of them killed or taken, 187, b. Make peace with him, 188, c. With Probus, 201, b. Defeat the Burgundi, 209, c. Defeated by Constantine, 257, a. 262, d, e. An hundred thousand cut off by him, 264, b. Embrace Christianity, ibid. c. Assist Procopius, 269, a, b. Defeated by Valens, ibid. d—f. 371, b. Obtain a peace, ibid. c—e. Driven out by the Hunns, 379, c, d. Two hundred thousand settle in Thrace, ibid. f. Some encamp about Adrianople, 380, f. Successful revolt, 381, & seq. Plunder the suburbs of Constantinople, 382. Repulsed before Adrianople, 387. Cruelties in Thrace, &c. 388, a. Cut off in Asia, ibid. c, d. By Theodosius, 392, & seq. Make and break peace with Rome, 393, & seq. Defeated afresh by him, 396, b. Settled in Thrace and Mœsia, 397, b, c. Transplanted thither from Pannonia, 480, c, d. Settled in Spain, 481, d, e. In Aquitania, ibid. & seq. Defeated before Narbonne, 483, c. By Ætius, 484, b. How divided and settled, 496, b, c. Treachery to the Spanish cities, 505, b, c. Ravage Lusitania, 510, c. Strive to revenge Alpar's death, 511, a. Make war against both empires, ibid. c. Seize on Gothland, vii. 441, c. Defeated at Chalons, 476, & seq. Number of the slain, 477, c. Their origin, 486, b. 491, pass. The same with the Cimbri, ibid. c. & 487, & seq. Sundry settlements, ibid. pass. Names and countries, 488, a—d. Language and writing, 489, f. Coming into Germany, 491, pass. Allow polygamy, ibid. f, & seq. Why called Goths, 492, b. Their customs, kings, &c. ibid. & seq. Drefs, 493, b. Wars with Caracalla, ibid. c. Become pensionary to Rome, ibid. d. Ravage Mœsia, ibid. & seq. Driven out of Thrace, 495, a, b. Ravage Asia, ibid. c, d. Invade the empire, ibid. a—d. Defeated, ibid. c. By pestilence, 497, b. Surrender to Claudius, ibid. d. Driven out of Pannonia, ibid. f. And Thrace, 498, a. Dacia, &c. ibid. b, c. Various defeats, vi. 257, & seq. vii. 298, & seq. An hundred thousand of them destroyed, 499, c, f. When and how converted, see, a, (A). Serve under the Romans, ibid. pass. Defeated by Valens, 501, & seq. By the Hunns, 502, pass. Settle in Thrace, ibid. & seq. Submit to Theodosius, 503, pass. Ravage Greece, 505, pass. Italy, 507, c, f. Their conquests in France. See sub Visigoths, 509, & seq. And Italy, sub Ostrogoths, 518, & seq.
- Gothif* women fight in men's apparel, vii. 498.
- Government*, at first patriarchal, i. 171, b. Changed, ibid.
- Gracian* law, what, iv. 801, d. Repealed, 809. Revived, v. 40, f. 43, c.
- Gracchus*, Tib. his noble speech in favour of the two Scipios, Vol. VII. N°. 11.
- iv. 757, a. 758, a. Marries Cornelia, ibid. b. 788, & seq.
- Gracchus*, his son, raises a dreadful sedition, 789, & seq. Revives the Licinian law, ibid. & seq. Submits it to the senate, 790, f. Passes it in spite of them, 791, & seq. Killed, 793.
- Cai, chosen questor, 799. His popularity becomes dangerous, ibid. & seq. His character, 801, a, (Y). Laws and public works, ibid. & seq. Outwitted by the senate, 803. Affronts the tribunes, 804, & seq. Mad speech to the senate, 806, c. Retires to mount Aventine, 807, c. His flight and death, 808, c, d.
- success against the Carthaginians, vii. 47, c. Sent to rebuild their city, 105, c, d.
- Gradual* psalms, why so called, iv. 16, (C).
- † Graici, Grati, antient Greeks, ii. 344, not.
- Gramen* or grass crown, why given to Scipio, iv. 773, f.
- † Grampius, river, the battle of, v. 667, & seq.
- † Granius, mount in Mysia, ii. 325, c.
- the battle of, iii. 325, & seq.
- Granius* accompanies Marius in his flight, v. 56, & seq. Parted from him, 57, c. Rejoins him, 59, b.
- strangled by Sylla, 840, a.
- Martian, accused, 450, d. Kills himself, 451, a.
- Grata*, the daughter of Valentinian, vi. 352, f. Turns nun, 420.
- Gratedius*, stoned to death by the soldiers, v. 54, c.
- Gratian*, the father of Valentinian, his rise, merit, &c. vii. 346, c, d. Retirement, ibid. c.
- the son, born, 346, f. Chosen consul, 350, d. Emperor, 352, d. Goes with Valentinian into Germany, 354, d. His famous bridge, 355, c. Left to awe the Germans, 362, f. Divides the empire with his brother, 377, pass. Injustice to Theodosius, 378, pass. Remits his father's dues, 379, a. Some of his laws, ibid. b, c. In favour of the clergy, 382, c, d. Courage and success against the Germans, 386, & seq. Hastens to save Constantinople, 388, d. Recals the orthodox, 389, a. Laws against heretics, ibid. b, c. Divides the empire with Theodosius, ibid. e, f. Goes into Gaul, 391, b. Into Illyricum, 393, b. Makes peace with the Goths, ibid. c. Success against the Barbarians, 396, c. Some excellent laws of his, ibid. d. 397, d, e. Marches against Maximus, 398, c. Abandoned by his troops, ibid. d, e. Put to death, ibid. e, f. Interred at Milan, 399, c. His excellent character, ibid. c, d. Refuses the title of pont. max. ibid. &c.
- the son of Theodosius, 390, f.
- Gratus* defeats the seditious Jews, iv. 189.
- Valer. made governor of Judea, 194.
- † Grecia Magna, described, iv. 412.
- Grecinus*'s excellent character, v. 466, (K). Put to death by Caligula, ibid.
- † Greece, antient, described, ii. 344, & seq. Its various names, ibid. Contended for by the gods, 390, d, & not. Engaged in the Peloponnesian war, 501. Shattered with dreadful earthquakes, 507, & seq. Quietened by the Nicæan peace, 512. Under new disasters, 513. Divided between aristocracy and oligarchy, 541, b. Its various states after the Achæan league, ibid. & seq. Invaded by Philip, ibid. & iii. 306, & seq. Throws off the Macedonian yoke, 549. After Alexander's death, 550, & seq. Subdued by the Romans, ibid. ii. 747, & seq. Made a Roman province, v. 650, d.
- the democracy of, restored, iii. 325, c.
- † — the islands of, described, 240, & seq. Forced to submit to Antipater, 358, c, d. 450, c. Proclaimed free at the Isthmian games, iv. 751, b. Over-run by the Castobochi, vi. 69, b. Under a grievous pestilence, 180, b. Ravaged by the Goths, ibid. c. Damaged by an earthquake, 318, c.
- Greek* philosophers have their learning from Egypt, i. 12, (N). Their account of the flood, 95, (N). Settle in Egypt, 266, a.
- historians, their partiality against the Scythians, ii. 273, b.
- tongue, affirmed to be the language of the gods, 296, f. Forbid by the Carthaginians, vi. 679, (K). 773, f.
- letters, when brought into Italy, iv. 414, & seq. & (G).
- mercenaries, how used by Alexander, iii. 360, & seq. Revolt after his death, 419, a. Massacred, ibid. & 449, & seq.
- † Greeks, the first foreigners allowed to dwell in Egypt, f. 266, a. Their lands near Bubastis, ibid. Growth in the time of Amasis, 271, d. Pride in slighting foreign records, 863, f, g. Who were the most antient among them, ii. 344, & seq. Their rude beginning, 345, & seq. Antient government, 346, & seq. Religion, 348, a. Antiquity, ibid. c. Various states, ibid. & seq. After the Achæan league, 6:9, & seq. Expedition against Troy, 318. Fleet, &c. 319. First eight years war, 320, & seq. Infected with pestilence, 321, d. Burn Troy, ibid. d. Various fates of their chiefs, ibid. & seq.
- their brave defence against Xerxes, ii. 118—120. Defeat at Thermopylæ, 121, & seq. Fleet, 123, c. Victory over the Persians, 124, d. 126, d. By sea and land on the same day, day, ibid. & seq. Peace with Artaxerxes, 132, & seq. Assist Cyrus, 133. Advance into Persia, ibid. Noble retreat after his death, 139, f. Invade Persia, 155. Chase Alexander their general, ibid. Battle of Granicus, ibid. & seq. Greeks, their first coming into Sicily, iii. 11, d, e. Invade Africa, 83. Make peace with Carthage, 86, & seq. War with Persia, 275, & seq. Arm against Philip, 306, & seq. Defeated at Charonea, 307. Revolt from Alexander, 118, c. 120. Their treachery to the Parthians, iv. 293, b. Descend into Latium, 593. Retire, 594. Flattery to M. Antony, v. 259, pass. To Nero, 564, e, f. Infranchised by him, 565, a, b. Plundered and famished by him, ibid. & seq.

— horrid flattery to Adrian, vi. 38, d. High encomiums on Constantine, 268, e. Invade the eastern empire, 433, d. Allowed a church at Constantinople, 446, b. Massacred and burnt in it, ibid. e, f. Ravage Italy, 448, pass. Take and destroy Rome, 464, c—e. Ravage Gaul, 467, d. Invite the Bulgarians against Rome, 628, e. Submit to the pope, 625, a. Shake him off, ibid. c.

Greeks that came to see our Saviour, who, iv. 229, (D).

— of Asia, their history, ii. 748, & seq.

Gregory's writings and character, vi. 274, not.

— bishop of Antioch, quells the mutinous Romans, 534, e, f.

— I. pope, his flattering letter to Phocas, 536, f.

— prefect of Afric, defeated, 554, d.

— II. stirs up the Venetians, 552, d, e. Attempted by Leo, ibid. e. Letter to the Lombards, &c. ibid. & seq. Whether he assumed the supreme power, 553, d. See also vol. vii. p. 702—708.

— Michael's general, defeated and killed, 565, e, f.

† Grutubongi, who, vii. 459, a. Defeated by Valens, 500, f. Treachery to Tato, 688, d, e. vi. 371, b, c. Invaded by the Hunns, 379, d. Defeated by Theodosius, 417.

Grimoald defeats Contans II. vi. 545.

— refuted in Lombardy, vii. 692, a.

— made duke of Benevento, ibid. c. His conquests, ibid. d, & seq. Seizes on Lombardy, 693, pass. Treachery to Partharit, ibid. f, & seq. Stratagem against the Franks, 694, c. Drives out the Romans, 695, & seq. New conquests, 696, b. Stratagem against the Hunns, ibid. d, e. Corrects the Lombard laws, 697, a. His death and character, ibid. b, c.

— II. succeeds his father, and dies, 700, c.

Grotius Hugo's notion about the standing of the sun confuted, i. 559, d. Account of the, vi. 391, e, f.

† Grottos, near Olynt, in Egypt, described, i. 196, f.

— reforted to by the Romans in summer, v. 430, (B).

† Groves, sacred among the Scythians, ii. 272. Among the ancient patriarchs, vii. 331, a, b. Among the Gauls, ibid. & seq. And Germans, [413], & seq. That of Marcellus described by Lucan, 331, (F).

† Guaguamela, the battle of, iii. 350, & seq.

Guardians, Solon's laws concerning, ii. 432, f.

Gubases invites the Romans against Cofrohes, iv. 355, e. Assassinated, 356, d. See also vi. 527—529.

Gulfeard, Robert, his extract, &c. vi. 609, e. Success against Alex. Comnenus, ibid. & seq. Against the emperor Henry, 611, a. His death, ibid. c.

— his son relinquishes all his conquests, ibid. d.

† Gulph, Persian, described, ii. 37, (P).

— a dreadful one opened in the Roman forum, iv. 586.

Guluffa's extract, v. 6, a. Begs the Numidian crown of the Romans, 11, e, f.

— treachery and cruelty to the Carthaginians, iv. 769, b. 780, d. Vindicates his father to the Roman senate, vii. 95, b. Insulted at Carthage, 96, c. His share of the Numidian kingdom, 127, a. Death, ibid. b.

Gundabunus revolts to the Romans, iv. 368, e. Helps to dethrone Cofrohes, 369, a.

Gundamond, king of the Vandals in Afric, vii. 527, d.

Gundebald defeated by Clovis, vii. 571, b, c. Besieged in Avignon, ibid. d. Success against his brother, 572, a, b. Made magister militum, 518, e. His law in favour of duels, ibid. & seq. Fratricide, 584, c. Conquests and ravages, ibid. & seq. Death, 585, b.

Gundebert's treachery to his brother, vii. 692, f. Death, 693, c.

Gundemar, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.

Gunderic settles in Galicia, vii. 527, d.

Gundiac, king of the Burgundi, made magister militum, vii. 581, d, e. His success in Spain and Gaul, 583, pass.

Gurgenes, Gyrgenes, turns christian, iii. 835. Invaded by the Persians, vi. 523, d.

Gurges, Quin. Fab.'s gallantry at Ptolemy's court, iii. 634, c, d (vi. 647, d.) Builds a temple to Venus, iv. 634, b. Defeated by the Samnites, 638. Relieved by his father, ibid. d. Regulates the public revenue, 650, c. Killed before Volturni, ibid. & seq.

Gusanafades's advice to the Persian council, iv. 344, b. Declared a rebel, 345, f. Put to death, 346, a.

Gustaph, prince of Persia, according to the Orientals, his fabulous reign, ii. 203, & seq. Whether the same with Hyksos, 221, c, d.

† Guxula, where sited, vii. 160, b.

Gyants. See Giants, i. 82, & seq.

† Gyarus island, why uninhabited, iii. 227, c.

Gyges's treason against Candaules, ii. 333.

Gylippus, the Spartan, relieves Syracuse, ii. 518. His success in Sicily, 600, d. Takes the Athenian generals prisoners, 520. Whether chargeable with their death, ibid. sub not. Banished for theft, 604. His character, ibid. not. See also iii. 29, & seq.

Gylpus, Gylus, receives Woden in Sweden, vii. 489, e.

† Gymnic games instituted by Alexander, iii. 342, a.

Gymnophists burnt themselves when weary of life, v. 309, a.

† Gylone, metropolis of the kingdom of Orestes, iii. 255, a.

Gythians subdued by the Lacedemonians, ii. 396, b.

† Gythitis, island in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b.

† Gythium, the sea-port of, by whom built, ii. 396, d, (D). Taken and burnt by the Athenians, 489, c. By Nabiz, 637, f. By the Romans, iv. 752.

H

† HABRAH, the spring of, in Numidia, vii. 116, d.

Hadad, the Horite, defeats the Midianites, i. 300, e. 312, c.

— king of Edom, flees from David into Egypt, i. 314.

Marries Pharaoh's sister, ibid. Proves a thorn in Solomon's side, 315. Probably settled in Syria, ibid. e.

Hadadezer, or Hadarezer, the first king of Zobah in Syria, i. 382, a. Defeated by David, ibid. Assists Hanun against him, ibid. b. Defeated, ibid. c. And becomes tributary to him, ibid. d.

Hadar, king of the Horites, i. 312, c.

† Hadramant, a province of Arabia Felix, why so called, i. 170, a.

† Hadoram, one of Joktan's sons, where settled, i. 170, a.

† Hadrumentum. See Adrumentum, vi. 668, c.

† Hæmus, mount, where situated, vi. 169, b.

Hagar, forced to flee from Sarah, i. 425, d. Returns and submits, 426, a. Brings forth Ishmael, ibid. &c. Sent away with him, 430, b.

† Hagareni, where situated, vii. 226, d, e. Why so called, 240, d. Brave opposition against Trajan, 282, b—e.

† Hagerim, Malcutb, what is meant by, iv. 92, (P).

Haggai, the prophet, reproves the Jews, iv. 9, e. One of Ezra's assistants, 13, (Y).

† Hajabelites, who, iv. 386, e. Repelled by Cofrohes, 391, f.

† Haik, the son of Togarmah, gives his name to ancient Armenia, i. 167, c.

Hail-stones destroy the confederate Canaanites, i. 564, a, b. Remarks on that miraculous transaction, ibid. & seq. & not. One of the Egyptian plagues, 497, & seq.

Hali murdered by Mahuvias, vi. 545.

† Halicarnassus, capital of Caria, ii. 759, a. Why excluded the Dorian confederacy, 762. Taken by Alexander, 156, & seq. iii. 328, & seq. Demolished, 330, b.

Halicus, in the Phœnician cosmogony, who, i. 87, c. The first hunter and fisher, ibid.

Hallel, among the Jews, a set of eucharistical psalms, iv. 334, (M).

Halelus, Claudius's taster, poisons him, v. 516, c. His crimes and extortions, 587, c. Screened by Vibius from punishment, ibid. f.

† Halmesus, one of the Cyclades, iii. 283. Taken from the pirates by Philip, 302, b, c. By the Paphlagonians, ibid. d, e.

Haly, a private friend to the christians, vi. 652, b—d.

† Halycus, a river in Sicily, iii. 10, a.

† Halys, river, described, iii. 567, in fin. (Q). Divides Pontus from Paphlagonia, 722. Runs through Cappadocia into the Euxine, 762, c.

† Ham, the youngest son of Noah, i. 118, c, (N). Why and how far cursed in his posterity, 119, a, b, & (N). Crimes laid to his charge, 120, & not. Held the inventor of magic, ibid. And of idolatry, ibid. His issue more numerous than his brethren, 121, a. The true reason of Noah's discarding him, ibid. Whether the same with Chronus, ibid. Or with Menes, ibid. (B). Where he first settled and reigned, 164, a. His descendants, where settled, ibid.

† Hamadan, an opulent city in Parthia, ii. 31, & seq.

Haman called an Agagite, or Amalekite, i. 321, e.

† Hamath, the kingdom of, from whom so called, i. 370, f. Chronology of its kings, 380.

† — the Great, where sited, 390, (H). The uncertainty about its kings, &c. ibid. &c. Subject afterwards to Damascus, 391. And lastly to Assyria, ibid.

† Hamathites transplanted by the Assyrians, i. 391, d.

Hamilcar serves under Xerxes, ii. 116, e.

— his fleet and army, iii. 16, e. Defeated and killed, 17.

— sent into Sicily, 78, b. Taken prisoner at Syracuse, and killed, 85.

— besieges Segesta, iv. 659, a. Repulses the Romans at Lipara, 661, c. Defeated before Heraclea, 662, c. Sent for to

- to command at home, 663, d. His cruel death at Rome, 670, e.
- Hamilcar worshipped at Carthage, vi. 692, e, d. His effigy and name upon their coin, 704, c, d. Succeeds his father, 728, a. Ill success against the Sardinians, ibid. b.
- the father of Hanno, repulsed by Scipio, iv. 743, b.
- the son of Hanno, his expedition against Sicily, vi. 732, a, b. Over-reached by Gelon, ibid. & seq. Defeated and killed, 733, pass. Deified, ibid. c.
- sent against Timoleon, 782, b. Defeated, 783, & seq. Betrays the Syracusans, 790, d. His death, ibid. f.
- Rodanus, sent to found Alexander's designs, 788, f. His method of sending notice of them to Carthage, ibid. & seq. Ungratefully put to death, 789, f.
- the son of Gisco, shipwrecked, 791, d. Defeats Agathocles, ibid. & seq. Recalled from Sicily, 799, a, b. Raises the siege of Syracuse, ibid. c, f. Defeated by them, 801, c. His dismal end, ibid. d. Head sent to Agathocles, ibid. & seq. Throws Carthage into despair, 802, d, e.
- the successor of Hanno, outwits the Romans, 830, b—c. Defeats them, 832, b, c. Defends Lipara, 834. Defeated by the Romans, 835, c. His offers of peace rejected, 836, e. Recalled, 837, c. His miserable end, 842, b, (W).
- cruelty to the Mauritanians, 843, c. Brave defence of Lilybæum, 845, b, c. Prevents the revolt of the mercenaries, ibid. & seq.
- Barcas, success against the Romans, iv. 675, a, b. Sends provisions to Lilybæum, 676, a. Defeated, 678. Sues for peace, ibid. & seq. Forms two schemes against Rome, 680, f. His character, and manner of encamping, vi. 848, pass. Makes peace with the Romans, 850, & seq. His invincible hatred against them, 858. Refrains at the Libyan war, 853, pass. Sent general against them, 858, b. Bold passage, of the Macra, ibid. c, d. Defeats the Libyans, 859, a—c. 860, a, b. Severity to the bloody mercenaries, 861, c, d. Incloses them on all sides, 862, d—f. Puts them to death, ibid. & seq. Besieges the rest in Tunes, 863. Concludes the Libyan war, ibid. & seq. Reduces the Numidians, 865, c. Expedition and success in Spain, 866, pass. (See also vol. iv. 684. & seq.) Death, 867, a, b. Inspires his sons with hatred against the Romans, vii. 2, b.
- Hamilco sent into Sicily, iii. 113, f. To the relief of Syracuse, 118, d. Dies of the plague, ibid. & seq.
- commands in Lilybæum, iv. 671.
- † Hannan lef, a hot water, described, vi. 671, (D).
- † Hannan, Jupiter, the temple of, 347, d, e.
- Hamor, king of Shechem, intercedes for his son to Jacob, i. 329, c.
- † Hambire inhabited by the Jutes, vii. 441, c.
- Hamyar, the chief king of Yaman, vii. 245, c. His reign and successors, 267, d, & seq. The end of it, 271, c, f.
- Hanani, the prophet, reproves king Afa, i. 808, b.
- made governor of Jerusalem, iv. 12, b.
- † Hance-towns, whence so called, vii. 549, d.
- Hannab, the mother of the seven martyred Maccabees. See Solomena, 546, iv. (I).
- Hannibal sent into Sicily, iii. 37, & seq. His army and fleet, 38, a. Takes and burns Selinus, ibid. c, f. And Himera, 39. His second army, 40, d. Invades Sicily, ibid. & seq. Defeated by the Rhodians at sea, 151. Takes refuge with Antiochus, 547. Sends Aristo to Carthage, 549. Outwitted by the Romans, 551, c. His advice to Antiochus, 553, a. Untimely rejected, ibid. b. Forms the plan of Artaxata, 692. Stratagem against the Pergamenians, 772. Poisons himself, 773, c, (B). His judgment of Pyrrhus, 818, (P). Tomb at Libya, 825. (See also vol. iv. 735, & seq. vol. vi. 706, (K). His writings and character, ibid. 709).
- commands in Agrigentum, iv. 655, c. Steals out in the night, 656, e. Defeated at sea, 657, f. 658, f. Degraded, 659, c. Defeated and crucified, 661, e.
- a Rhodian's bold attempt through the Roman fleet, iv. 671, e, f. Taken prisoner, 672, c.
- saves Messina from the Syracusans, vi. 819, a, b. Brave defence of Agrigentum, 829, c, d. Repulsed by the consular army, ibid. e, f. Abandons the place, ibid. & seq.
- sent to coast about Sicily, 830, a. Destroys the Roman fleet, ibid. c, f. Defeated by them, 831, a—c. His punishment, 832, a, d.
- his son, sent to secure the Gauls, 845, e, f. Brings new supplies to Lilybæum, 846. Sent to assist Hamilcar, 861, d. Crucified by the mercenaries, 863, b.
- the child of Hamilcar, taken by him into Spain, 865, c, d. Sent thither afresh, when grown up, 868. Becomes the darling of the army, ibid. & seq. His success and conquests, 869. Besieges Saguntum, 870, vol. vii. 2, & seq. Whether he denied audience to the Romans, 3, & seq. Takes the place, 5, & seq. His motives for it, 7, & seq. Regulations in Spain, 8, f, & seq. His journal left at Lacinium, 9, b, (D). Odd dream, 10, a, b. Speech to his army, ibid. c, f. Crosses the Rhodæ, 11, b. Marches towards the Alps, 14, b, c. Difficulties in crossing them, ibid. f, & seq. And in his descent, 15, & seq. His army greatly dwindled, 16, b, (G). Speech to them, 17, b, c. Defeats the Romans, ibid. f, & seq. Second victory, 19, & seq. March into Etruria, 21, a. Defeats Flaminius, 22, b. Wastes Italy, ibid. c, & seq. Entrapped by his Italian guides, 23, d, & seq. Stratagem against Fabius, 24, e, f. Repulsed by him, 26, b, c. In great distress, 27, f, & seq. Speech to his army, 28, f. Signal victory at Cannæ, 30, & seq. His not marching to Rome justified, 31, f, & seq. Success in Campania, 32, f, & seq. Enters Capua, 33, & seq. Treatment of the Roman prisoners, 34, b, c, (N). Repulsed before Naples and Nola, 35, e, & seq. Captivated by the delights of Capua, 37, pass. Betrayed by the Barcan faction, ibid. f, & seq. Stratagem against the Roman dictator, 41, d, c. Repulsed before Cumæ, 44, a, b. Haughty answer to the Hirpini, &c. ibid. f, & seq. Repulsed before Nola, 45, a, b. Raises commotions in Sicily, 47, a. Repulsed before Putoli, ibid. & seq. Plunders Apulia, 48, b, c. Private treaty with the Tarentines, 51, pass. Enters their city, 52, pass. Stratagem to furnish the citadel, ibid. e, f. Fresh successes against the Romans, 54, & seq. Goes to the relief of Capua, 57, b, c. Stratagem against the consuls defeated, ibid. d. Marches towards Rome, ibid. e. Ill success, 59, a, b. Engages Marcellus several times, 61, & seq. Defeats the banditti, 62, c. The Romans, 64, b, c. Delays joining Afrubal, 65, c. Sundry defeats, ibid. & seq. Retires to Canusium, 66, a. Behaviour at hearing of Afrubal's death, 68, c, d. Wasted by pestilence and famine, 73, b. Wounded by a scorpion, 74, e. Defeated by Sempromius, 76, f, & seq. Recalled to Carthage, 79, c. Massacres some Italians, 80, c, d. Lands in Africa, 81, b. Speech to Scipio, 81, d. Defeat at Zama, 82, pass. Noble speech to Hædus, 84, e, f. Recalled, and chosen prætor, 85, f, & seq. Envied by the Romans, 86, c. Reception from Antiochus, ibid. & seq. Noble speech to him, 87, b, d. 88, d, e. Artful answer to Scipio, ibid. b, c. Advice to Antiochus, ibid. f, & seq. Routes him up, 90, d, e. Defeated by the Rhodians, ibid. & seq. Flight into Crete, &c. 91, a, b. Stratagem to save his treasure, ibid. b. Against Eumenes, ibid. b—d. Poisons himself, ibid. & seq. Last words and character, 92, a, & seq.
- Hannibal Paffer, head of the Mafiniffan faction, vii. 96.
- † — the port of, where, 298, f.
- † — tower, where situated, vi. 670, a.
- Hanno's design of enslaving Carthage frustrated, vi. 679, e, & seq. 787, a. His dreadful end, ibid. b, c. Unmeasurable arrogance, 707, a. Writings and navigation, 709, c, d. Tames the first lion, ibid. f, & 710, (N).
- sent against Sicily, 773, f. Undetermined by Suniates, ibid. & seq. Sent against Agathocles, 796. Defeated and killed, 797, c, d.
- success against Æscron, 810, a. Sent to succour Sicily, 823, & seq. Over-reached by the Roman consul, 824, b, c. Crucified, ibid. c, d.
- defeated at sea, iv. 662, c. Ventures an interview with the consuls, ibid. c. Father and son repulsed by the Romans, 666, d.
- the Carthaginian admiral, defeated, iv. 678, a. Haughty answer to the Roman senate, 682, b.
- the son of Bomilcar, sent to surprise the Romans, 695, a. Taken prisoner by them, 704, a.
- the son of Hannibal, sent in his stead, 824, d. His success, ibid. & seq. Outwitted by Appius, 825, b, c. Suspected by Hiero, 826, b, c. (Massacres all the Italians in his army, iv. 654, a. Commands the Carthaginian fleet, 655. Defeated by the Romans, 656). Sent to relieve Agrigentum, vi. 829, b, c. Defeated, ibid. e, f. Fined and degraded, 830. Killed in defending Olbia, 834, (R). See also vol. iv. 660, b.
- speech to the Carthaginians, iv. 715, b. Hatred to Hannibal, vii. e, f. Left to command in Gaul, 11, a, b. Defeated by Cn. Scipio, 20, b, c. Sharp answer to Himilco, 35, a, b. And to Mago, ibid. c. Obstructs Hannibal's success, 37, f. Defeated by Sempromius, 44 (See vol. iv. 719, a, &c.). By Marcellus, 47, e, f. Sent to throw fresh provisions into Capua, 53, e. Defeated, and stripped of them, ibid. f. Defeated in Spain, 68, e. Taken prisoner, ibid. f.
- defeated by Scipio, 76, a. By Masinissa, ibid. c, d. Head of the Roman faction, 96, b.
- † Hanun, king of Ammon, his ill treatment of David's ambassadors, i. 296, a, b. Routed by him, 297, a. Besieged in his capital, and slain, ibid.
- Haran, the son of Terah, dies in Ur, i. 132. Various opinions about his death, ibid. (Y).
- † — a city of Mesopotamia, 133, b.
- Hardouin's pedigree of Herod confused, iv. 104, (K). And his notion of the Herodians, 168, f.
- Hare bishop's metrical edition of the Hebrew psalms examined, iv. 16, & seq. sub not.
- † Hareth, the forest of, whither David retired, i. 576, a, & (G).
- Haribandus submits to Julian, vi. 305, a.
- Harmatius betrays Basiliscus, vi. 514, e. Promoted by Zeno, 515, a. Murdered by him, ibid. b.
- Harmocles's bravery against the Persians, ii. 476, a.
- Harmodius, why honoured by the Athenians, v. 214, e, & seq.
- Harmonia, princess of Samothrace, ii. 312, a. Married to Cadmus, 313.
- where born, iii. 239, f.

Herpagus

- Harpagus bravely opposed by the Xanthians, ii. 338, & seq. Takes Phocas, 749.
- commanded to kill young Cyrus, 83. Severely punished by Astyages, 84. His bloody revenge against him, 85, & seq.
- Harpalus, Alexander's treasurer, why favoured, iii. 368, b. His treachery and punishment, 407, a, b.
- Harpocrates, the son of Isis and Osiris, how represented, i. 205, f.
- Harpocrates's writings and character, vi. 84, sub not.
- Harpyes, a fabulous kind of birds, ii. 383, (H).
- Harpischoras's embassy to Carthage, vii. 42, a. Abandoned by his men, 45, d. Defeated, and kills himself, ibid. e, f.
- Hassideans, at Asdanim, repair to Mattathias, iv. 55, d. Their sect, ibid. (M). Murdered by Bacchides, 70, c. Whether the same with the Essenians, 170, d.
- Hastati, among the Romans, whence so called, iv. 600, (T).
- Haterus, Qu. disgraced by Tiberius, v. 355, d. His death, 431, (E).
- Agrippa, opposes the whipping of players, 380, b.
- † Havilah, where situate, i. 164, d. Two places, and two persons, of that name, 170, f.
- the son of Cush, the father of the Gætulians, vii. 161, c.
- Haumar, the Saracen, his conquests in Arabia, vi. 543, b, c. Success against Heraclius, ibid. c, d. Begins a temple at Jerusalem, 544, c. Subdues Afric, ibid. d, & seq. Persecutes the christians, 551, d.
- Hawks, worshipped by the Egyptians, i. 208, f. 209, e. Why, 210, e.
- Hamael sent by Benhadad to Elifha, i. 387, d. Foretold that he should prove a cruel tyrant, ibid. e. Murders the king, and mounts the throne, 388, a. Success against the kings of Israel and Judah, ibid. b—d, & (Y). Treachery to Jehoash, ibid. d. Takes and plunders Jerusalem, ibid. e. Seizes on Elath, 389. Dies, and is deified, ibid. His and Benhadad's statues carried about, ibid. (A).
- Haxazel, or Scape-goat, its etymon, i. 618, (T). The ceremony of an expiation day, 619, (V).
- † Hazor, taken and burnt by the Israelites, i. 333, b. Rebuilt by Jabin II. and made his capital, 335, b.
- † Hebdomon, the christian emperors crowned at, vi. 348, c.
- Hebrew character exchanged for the Chaldee, iv. 14, b.
- † Hebrews, whether derived from Eber, i. 128, b. 129, a. Their language, whether so named from him, ibid. b. Whether the most antient, 152, e, & seq. And the mother of the rest, 154, a—c. Its purity, simplicity, &c. 718, a, b. Characters, 719, & seq.
- † Hebron, the capital of the Edomites, who settled in Judea, i. 317, b. Taken and razed by Judas Maccab. ibid. (See vol. iv. 64, f.) Whence so called, 424, (G). Its antiquity, ibid. Why called Kirjath Arba, ibid. Retaken by the Canaanites, 334, a.
- † Hebrus, a river in Thrace, iii. 787, e.
- Hecataeus, an account of, iii. 235, (C). Instructed by a Jewish priest, iv. 35, (M).
- Hecatomponia, what, ii. 579, f.
- † Hecatompylos, metropolis of Parthia, ii. 31, c. 32, (I). The same with Hispahan, ibid. Where situate, iv. 289, a.
- † — Thebes, why so called, i. 175, c, & (A).
- Hector, the son of Priam, killed, ii. 318.
- Hecuba, Priam's wife, ii. 317, & seq.
- Hegesandrides takes Eubœa, ii. 601, d.
- Hegesianax's speech to the Roman commissaries, iii. 548, e.
- Hegesistratus's speech to Leutichides, iii. 198, e.
- † Hejaz, the province of, described, vii. 236, a, b.
- † — kingdom, founded, 245.
- Heifer, red, the ceremony of burning of it, i. 621, d. The ashes of it, why purifying to the unclean, and defiling to the clean, 622, (L). Jewish traditions about it, ibid.
- Heireffes, Moses's law concerning them, i. 538, a, b. Solon's on the same, ii. 431, a.
- Hela, the goddess of hell, vii. 441, a.
- † Helanus's lake, the worship of, vii. 351, a, b.
- Helen, the fatal Grecian beauty, her fabulous birth, ii. 401, (L). Whose daughter she was, 366, e. Stolen by Theſeus, ibid. & seq. Married to Menelaus, 318, b. Stolen by Paris, ibid. e. Causes the Trojan war, ibid. &c. Whether detained in Egypt, 320.
- † Helena, island, described, iii. 216.
- queen of Adiabene, embraces Judaism, 849, a, b. Journey to, and piety at Jerusalem, 851, b. Turns christian, ibid. c.
- the mother of Constantine, divorced, vi. 226, e. Her birth and extract, 227, f. Really married to Constantius, 229, & seq. Whether a native of Britain, 230, a. Converted by her son, 244, e. Finds the cross of Christ, 262, b. Her death and character, ibid. c.
- the wife of Julian, rendered childless by Eusebia, 287, b. Her death, &c. 312, b.
- the daughter of Constantine, 235, b.
- † Helenopolis, whence so called, vi. 262, b, c.
- Heleneus, the son of Priam, ii. 318. Retires into Macedonia, 322, c.
- the son of Deucalion, the supposed father of the Helenes, 759, c.
- fruitless attempt to succour his father, iii. 818, b. Taken prisoner, 819, f. Released by Antigonus, ibid. & seq.
- Helepolis, a warlike machine, described, iii. 140, a. 742, (B). Whence so called, iv. 285, (W).
- Heliades settles at Rhodes, iii. 131, & seq. Admits Phobas, 132, b.
- † Heliæan court at Athens, ii. 444, d, & seq.
- Helicaon, son-in-law to Priam, ii. 315, c.
- † Helice, metropol. of Achaia Propria, ii. 416, c.
- Helico, bought by the Alexandrians against the Jews, v. 703, d.
- Helicon foretels an eclipse, iii. 65, sub not.
- † — a mountain in Phocis, ii. 387, e. In Boetia, 371.
- Helicrates's moderation to Stilicho, vi. 457. Narrow escape, ibid.
- Heliodorus, sent to seize the treasure of the Jewish temple, iv. 46, b. His miraculous punishment, ibid. c.
- Heliogabalus's extract, vi. 132, & seq. Declared emperor, 133, b. Valour and success, ibid. f, & seq. Acknowledged by the senate, 134, e. His vile character, ibid. & seq. Horrid butcheries, 136, pass. Appoints the worship of his horse, ibid. d, e. Whence surnamed Comazon, ibid. f. Adopts young Alexus, 137, a. Plots his death, ibid. b—d. Murdered by the soldiery, ibid. e, f.
- † Heliopolis, now Balbec in Cœlosyria, described, i. 361, c.
- a name given to several Greek cities, ii. 390, & seq.
- Helots, alias Helotes, enslaved by the Lacedæmonians, ii. 596, b. Their grievous punishment, 397, b, & (E). Miserable slavery, 507, & not. Revolt, 594, d. Butchered by Nabis, 637, a.
- Helius, king of Colchis, iii. 834.
- the murderer of Silanus, v. 518, c. Tool of Nero's cruelties, 566, 568, a.
- Heloris saves Rhegium, iii. 56, a. Defeated by Dionysus, 57, b.
- † Hella, an antient city, i. 147, a.
- † Hellas, Elis, whence so called, ii. 405, b.
- † Hellenes, antient Grecians, ii. 344, c.
- † Hellepont, what, iii. 305, (B).
- † Hellepontiac, part of Phrygia minor, ii. 304, c.
- Helpius, put to death by Phocas, vi. 538, a, f.
- revolt and defeat, 557.
- † Helvetii, who, v. 5, (D). Invaded by the Cimbri, ibid. c. Repulsed by J. Cæsar, 117, a, b. Defeated, 118, a. Ravaged by Cæcina, v. 600, & seq. Pardoned by Vitellius, 601, a.
- † Helvidius Priscus, banished by Vespasian, v. 650, c, & seq. Put to death, 651, a.
- his son put to death by Domitian, 684, c.
- Helvius, the father of Pertinax, vi. 90, c.
- † Helum, a river in Scythia, ii. 267.
- Hemeris's cruelty to his wife, vi. 494, c. Stirrs up Antia against her father, ibid. d.
- Hemestris, Xerxes's queen, instances of her cruelty, ii. 128, & seq.
- Henda educates young Baharam, iv. 383, d.
- † Heneti chuse Antenor their head, ii. 315, a.
- Hengist and Horsa, who and whence, vii. 441, b. Help to defeat the Picts and Scots, 143, b. Settle in Lincolnshire, ibid. c. Treachery to Vortigern, 145, c. Defeated by Ambrosius, 446, c, d. Death, ibid. e. When came into Britain, 490, d.
- Henna, Alcanna, an Egyptian shrub, described, i. 183, c.
- Henry succeeds Baldwin, vi. 629, e. Wars against the Greek emperors, ibid. c, d. His death, ibid. f.
- † Hephestias, metropolis of Lemnos, iii. 234, a.
- Hephestion's writings and character, vi. 84, sub not.
- Alexander's general, wounded at Guagamela, iii. 351, f. Made general of the horse, 367, a. Sent towards India, 386, a. Rewarded by Alexander, 405. Reproved for his treatment of Eumenes, 407. His death and obsequies, ibid. & seq.
- † Heptanomis, or the middle Egypt, i. 175, c, f. Whence so called, ibid. Its extent, &c. 176, a.
- † Heptapylos, Thebes, why so called, ii. 371, b.
- † Heptastadium, by whom built, iii. 627, b.
- † Heraclea Herod's daughter's speech to her murderers, iii. 106, f, & seq.
- a republic in Bithynia, described, iii. 823, a, b. See below Heracleans.
- † — a city in Sicily, described, b, c. Why called Minoa, ibid. &c. Capital of the Lyncesti, 257, b.
- † — in Pontus, betrayed to Mithridates, 744. Taken by the Romans, 747, a. Burnt, ibid. c.
- † — in Crete, described, 161, d.
- † — taken by the Romans, iv. 762, d. By Maximian, vi. 252, c. Burnt by the Persians, 532, d. By Michael, 566, b. Submits to Hannibal, vii. 541, a. Taken by Theodoric, 520, b.
- Heracleans, their bravery, iii. 823, b, c. Generosity to Lamachus, ibid. e. Their government, tyrants, &c. 824. Recover their liberty, 825, d. Ally with Rome, ibid. f. Massacred by Adiatorix, 826, a, b. Subdued by the Romans, ibid. d.
- Heracleonius defeats the Romans in Afric, vi. 461, d. 462, a. His consulship erased for his revolt, 468, a. His great fleet, ibid. b. Defeat and death, ibid. c.
- Heracleide, a race of Lydian kings, ii. 330, a. Descended from Hercules, ibid. c. Invade Peloponnesus, 359, c. Plagued

- Plagued by Apollo, ibid. c. Subdue the Corinthians, 392. And the whole peninsula, ibid. & seq. See also pag. 759, & seq.
- Heracles, his principle of indivisible bodies, i. 20, a.
- his character, iii. 68, c. Cabals against Dion, ibid. & seq. Defeats Dionysius at sea, 69, a.
- banished for oppression, 591, c. Plots against the king of Syria, 593, & seq. His speech to the Roman senate, 594, b.
- Heracles's notion of the world's creation, i. 22, b. His principles of the universe, ibid. c. Why furnished the obscure, ibid. Held fire the first principle of all things, ibid. b.
- Clemaus, tyrant of Heraclea, 825. Imprisoned, ibid.
- made governor of South Britain, vii. 433, b.
- Heracles's treachery to Ætius, vi. 498, c, & seq. His death, 500.
- the Edessan, his success in Libya, 509, b. Forced to retire, ibid. e, f. Conspires against Phocas, 538, c, d.
- his son declared emperor, 538, f. Puts him to death, 539, b. Crowned, ibid. c, d. Marries his brother's daughter, ibid. f. Success against Cosroes, 540, & seq. Releases fifty thousand Persian prisoners, 541, b. Gains fresh victories, ibid. & seq. Returns in triumph, 542, b. Thankful journey to Jerusalem, ibid. d. e. Receives embassies from all parts, ibid. f. Turns Monothelite, 543, a. Invaded by the Saracens, ibid. c. Retires to Constantinople, ibid. d, e. Persecutes the orthodox, and neglects the Mohammedans, 544, a, b. His death, ibid. c.
- the brother of Constantine III. disfigured by him, 545, f, & seq.
- brother of Tiberius, defeats the Saracens in Syria, 548, c. In Cilicia, ibid. f. Put to death by Justinian, 549, b.
- recovers Tripoli from the Vandals, vii. 538, c.
- Heracles put to death for oppression, iii. 404, a.
- † Heracles taken by the Agrigentines, vi. 802, a. Its origin, ibid. (P).
- † Heraculum, destroyed by an earthquake, v. 659, b, c.
- Hermes, antiently represented in no form, i. 400, a. No images in his temples, ibid. His antiquity according to the Egyptians, ibid. (R). The chief god of the Tyrians, 400, a. Why called Malcartus, ibid. (P). A great navigator, and first fetcher of lead from the British isles, ibid. The casual inventor of shell purple, ibid. Highly honoured by the Phenicians and Tyrians, 402. How worshipped, ibid. b.
- how many of that name, ii. 355, (H).
- the son of Jupiter by Alcmena, ibid. c. Kills a lion when a child, ibid. d. His twelve labours, ibid. & seq. & (I). Loves his boy Hylas in the Argonautic expedition, 383, & (H). His revenge upon the Oechalian king, 400. And upon Hippocoon, king of Sparta, 401, a. Leaves his kingdom in trust to Tyndareus, ibid. & c. Kills the son of Actor, and dethrones Agaveus, 408. Kills Laomedon, and four of his sons, 317, c. His last exploits and death, 401, & (K). Kills Antæus, ibid. f. & seq. The fables of, explained, 154, a, & c. The time in which he flourished, ibid. d, f. 162, b. Confounded with Mercury in Gaul, 357, b, (T). His coming into Spain, 319, d, & seq.
- the print of his foot on a stone, ii. 269, f.
- his cave near Heraclea, iii. 825, c.
- whether and when he passed the Alps, iv. 409. His arrival in Italy, 415, a.
- † — his temple at Rome, destroyed by lightning, v. 288, (R). Burnt, 548, a.
- his worship at Carthage, vi. 690, a, b. Forty-five heroes of that name, ibid. b, (W). When that title ceased to be assumed, 220.
- the son of Alexander murdered by Polysperchon, iii. 413, a. 462, c.
- Diodas, when he flourished, vii. 121, d.
- † Hercynian forest described, v. 335, (T). 372, (T).
- † Herdones, burnt by Hannibal, vii. 61, b.
- Herdones's noble speech against Tarquin, iv. 460, d. Unjustly put to death, ibid. f.
- a Sabine's bold attempt on Rome, 524. Slain, 425, b.
- † Hercan games, described, ii. 705, not. At Samos, iii. 187, f.
- Herebus, worshipped at Carthage, vi. 691, d.
- Heretas, a politic Samnite, iv. 611. His opposite answers to his son, 612, a.
- Herenianus, the son of Odenatus, vi. 183, d. His reign, 189, d. Death, 192, e.
- Herenius, sent in pursuit of Cicero, v. 228, f. Puts him to death, 229, b.
- Senecio, the accuser of Maffia, 683, d, e.
- Pbilo, his writings and character, vi. 51, sub not.
- Modestinus, writings, &c. 149, sub not. Hereticks suppressed by Gratian, vi. 379, b. 391, c. By Theodosius, 395, b, c. 404, e. 415, a. — c. 418, c. By Arcadius, 435, c, d. By Honorius, 454, e. By Leo, 511, a.
- Hermæ of Athens, defaced in one night, ii. 517, b.
- Hermæ books, now extinct, containing some of the old Egyptian and Hermetic doctrines, i. 14, a. A further account of them, 218, c.
- Hermanaric, king of the Goths, vii. 492, d. 500, c. His great conquests, 502, c. Kills himself, ibid. d.
- Hermaphrodites mentioned by Plato, i. 45, c.
- Hermes Trifucigifus, secretary to Chronus, i. 135, a. The first inscriber on columns, 222, d. His pillars in Egypt, ibid.
- Mercury, Thor, &c. supposed the same person, 242, c.
- His inventions, ibid. Why called Hermes, ibid. Author of thirty thousand books, ibid. d.
- a great philosopher and counsellor to Saturn, ii. 260, b.
- Mercury, why called by that name, 265, d.
- Hermias, a Syrian first minister, his brutish character, iii. 530, e, f. Treacherous advice to Antiochus, 331, pass.
- Treachery to Epigenes, 532. Tragical end, 534, & seq.
- Hermigerius's defeat and death, vii. 532, d.
- † Hermionius monts, in Lusitania, vii. 299, a.
- Hermione, the wife of Cadmus, her extract, ii. 371, & seq.
- Hermippus's writings and character, vi. 51, sub not.
- Hermits leave their cells to intercede for the Antiochians, vi. 410, c, d. 413, b, c.
- Hermocrates's successful stratagem against the Athenians, iii. 33, & seq. His moderation towards their prisoners, 35, c.
- the sophist's advice to Pausanias, 313, d. 314, not.
- his writings and character, vi. 121, sub not.
- Hermodica, the wife queen of Midas, ii. 302, b.
- Hermogenes asserts the self-existence and production of matter, i. 29, d.
- put to death by Domitian, v. 685, f, & seq.
- the Sophist, his excellent character, vi. 83. 149, sub not.
- Hermogenianus's writings and character, vi. 274, sub not.
- Hermolaus, why he conspired against Alexander, iii. 387, b.
- His speech to the army, 331, a, b. Death, ibid. d.
- † Hermion mount, remarkable for its dew, i. 571, a.
- † Hermotibis, an antient city of Thebais, i. 175, c.
- † Hermotibians, the name of a kind of soldiers in Egypt, i. 200, b.
- † Hermundur, who, and where sited, vii. 408, c.
- Herna, Attalus's son, his character, vii. 468, a, b.
- † Hernici, ally with Tarquin the proud, iv. 461, a. Defeated by the Romans, 503, d. Ally with them, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 518. Defeat them, 586, f. Defeated, 587, c. By T. Ambullus, 588. Made slaves at Rome, 625, d. Subdued by Marcius, ibid. e, f. Their fate how determined, 626, c.
- Herod, when born, iv. 104, (K). His pedigree, ibid. pass.
- Made governor of Galilee, 118, b. His success against the banditti, ibid. & seq. Intolerance to the Sanhedrin, 119, b, c. Government of Cœlisyria, 121, d. Politic revenge on Malichus, 122. Ceceles his faction, ibid. & seq. Contracted to Mariamne, 123, a. Defeats Antigonus, ibid. b. Favoured by M. Antony, ibid. & seq. Made tetrarch by him, 124, b. Bescapes Pacorus's trap, 125. Ill success in Arabia, ibid. & seq. Better luck at Rome, 126, d. Made king of Judea, ibid. & seq. Relieves his family at Massada, 127. Amnesty to the Antigoniens, 128, a. Engines to destroy the banditti, ibid. c. Allists M. Antony at Samofata, 129, c. Defeats Antigonus, 130, a. Marries Mariamne, ibid. b. Takes Jerusalem, ibid. & seq. Begins his reign with cruel exactions, ibid. & seq. Decoys Hyrcan into Judea, 132, & seq. Murders Aristobolus, 134. Absolved by Antony, ibid. f. Bloody orders concerning Mariamne, ibid. & c. Noble reception of Cleopatra, ibid. & seq. Betrayed by her, 136, c. Defeats the Arabians, 137, b. Treachery to Hyrcan, ibid. d, & (K). Bold speech to Augustus, 138. Grand reception of him in Judea, 139, pass. Puts Mariamne to death, ibid. & seq. His remorse turned into cruel madness, 140. Profane buildings, games, &c. displease the Jews, 141, b. Generosity to them during the famine, 142. His palace described, ibid. c. Sends his sons to Augustus, 143, a. Rebuilds the temple of Jerusalem, 144, & seq. Goes to fetch his sons home, 146. Marries them, 147, a. Accuses them before Cæsar, 148. Plunders David's tomb, 149, a. His horrid butcheries, ibid. & seq. Accused to Cæsar, 150, c. Gets his two sons condemned, 151. His wives, and offspring by them, ibid. c, (N). Falls out with Pheroras, 152, & seq. Discovers Antipater's conspiracy, ibid. & seq. His dread at the arrival of the eastern magi, 162, a. Distracted condition at the birth of Christ, 178, c, d. Overreaches Antipater, 179, a. Murders the children of Bethlehem, ibid. & (G). Readiness to assist Cassius, v. 218, d. Sends a thousand men to Augustus, 301, d. Grand reception of Agrippa, 315, b. Follows him to the Bosphorus, ibid. c. Arrests Antipater, iv. 181, a. Pleads against him, ibid. b. Finds new proofs of his treason, 182. His sickness and testament, ibid. d. Affronted by the Jews, ibid. & seq. Speech to them at Jericho, 183. Dreadful disease, ibid. (M). Bloody orders against the Jews, ibid. d. Death and character, 184, a, & (N). Pompous funeral, ibid. d. Last will canvaſed by the senate, ibid. & seq.
- Antipas, his share of the Jewish kingdom, iv. 190, f. Cities built by him, 194, d. Veneration for John the Baptist, 203, a. Imprisons him at Macheron, ibid. b, c. Beheads him, ibid. e, f. Contempt of Christ, 237, c. Wars with Aretas, 255, a. Comes to Jerusalem, ibid. Disobliges Vitellius, ibid. & seq. Affronts Agrippa, 258, b. Accused and banished, 259, a, b, & (Q).

- Herod Agrippa* advanced by Caligula, iv. 257, & seq. His various fortunes before it, 258, & seq. Affronted at Alexandria, ibid. c, d. Supplants Antipas, 259, a, b. Intercedes for the Jews, ibid. & seq. His letter to Caligula, 260, (R). Advancement under Claudius, 161, a. Attachment to the Jewish religion, ibid. b. Generosity, ibid. c, & (U). High credit, ibid. d. Persecutes the christians, 262, a, b. His dreadful end, ibid. c, & (X). Indignities offered to his memory, 263, a, & (Y).
- brother of Agrippa, made king of Chalcis, 261, a. And superintendent of the temple, 263, c. His death, ibid. d.
- the son of Agrippa, deprived of his kingdom, iv. 262. Succeeds his father, 263, d. Interest at the Roman court, 264, (A). Hears Paul's defence before Festus, 266, c. Affronts the Jews at Jerusalem, ibid. d. Becomes odious to them, 267, c. Driven out of the city, 268. His palace burnt by the Zelots, 269, d. Joins forces with Cestius, 270, b. With Vespasian, 271, a. Accompanies him to Rome, 277. Cared for by him, 291, b. His death, ibid. d.
- the son of Aristobulus, and grandson of Herod the great, 152, sub not.
- king of Batanea, accompanies Caligula into Gaul, v. 479.
- Herodes Atticus*, a disciple of Favorinus, vi. 49, sub not. Generosity to Polemon, 51, sub not. Consulship and high character, 57, d. Ill language to M. Aurelius, 70, c, d.
- the son of Odenatus, killed with his father, 183, d.
- Herodian's* writings and character, vi. 164, (W). Account of the Persian war, iv. 326, (G).
- Herodian line*, its short duration, iv. 291, d.
- Herodians*, a real sect in Christ's time, iv. 168, a, b. Their tenets confuted by Christ, 231, a—c.
- Herodias*, grand-daughter of Herod the Great, iv. 152, sub not. Incestuous marriage with Antipas, 203, b. Repentment against the Baptist, ibid. & seq.
- the wife of Antipas's untimely ambition, 258, & seq. Goes with him into exile, 259, b.
- † Herodion, by whom built, iv. 142, c. Described, ibid. (T). Taken by the Romans, 289.
- Herostates* raises the Macedonians in favour of Brutus, v. 215, c.
- † Herpidani, who, and where sit, vii. 140, d.
- † Herpis, where situate, vii. 143, b.
- Herrus* defeated and killed, v. 50.
- Hersa* seized by Mundon, vi. 521.
- Herse*, the daughter of Cecrops, punished for her curiosity, ii. 363, (F).
- Herfilia*, whether married to Romulus, iv. 429, (W). Speech to the Sabine king, 431, d.
- Heriba*, Earth, how worshipped by the Germans, vii. [418], b. By the Saxons, 443, a.
- † Heruli, their vast depredations in Asia, vi. 184, a, b. Defeated, ibid. d. Settle in Thrace, 521, c, f. Submit to Attila, vii. 466, b. To Hermanaric, 502, c. Their origin and settlements, 598, & seq. Ravages and defeats, 599, & seq. Dispersion, 600, a. Regicide, ibid. b. Conversion, ibid. c. Sad character, and reduction by the Lombards, ibid. d.
- Hesiod*, his cosmogony examined, i. 18.
- Hesione* taken by Hercules, ii. 317, b. The supposed cause of the Trojan war, 318.
- Hesperian apples* fetched away by Hercules, ii. 356, sub not.
- Hesperus*, the son of Ausonius, his rise, &c. vi. 401, sub not.
- † Hestia, in Eubœa, taken by the Athenians, ii. 492, a.
- Hesut*. See Efus, vii. 328, & seq.
- Hateria*, at Rome, what, vi. 27, c.
- † Hetruria described, iv. 410. Wasted by Hannibal, vii. 21, b.
- † Hetrurians submit to Romulus, iv. 430, b. War against Tarquin, 448, a. Submission and presents to him, 449, a, b, (G). Defeated by Servius, 454, d. 455, b. Abandon Tarquin, 472, c. Invade the Romans, 507, c. Defeated, 508, pass. By Æmilius, 509, c. Cut off the Fabii, 510, & seq. & (O). Defeated by Horatius, 511, d. By Camillus, 568, & seq. Repulse Fab. Ambustus, 590, c. Defeated by M. Rutilius, ibid. & seq. By Fabius, 621, & seq. 624, b. 627, pass. Over-run by Valer. Corvus, 629, a. By Fulv. Centumanus, ibid. & seq. By Volumnius, 631, c. Join with the Gauls, 623, & seq. Invaded by the Senones, 643, b. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. c. Revolt from them, v. 51, a. Defeated, ibid. b.
- † Hetrusci, their original, iv. 415, d. Conquests, ibid. e. Government, history, &c. 417, & seq. Defeated by Hiero, iii. 21, b.
- Exometers*, by whom invented, iv. 680, d.
- † Exapylum described, iii. 115, sub not. Taken, 117, b.
- Hezekiah* king of Judah's success against the Philistines, i. 359, b. Causes the temple to be opened and purified, 833, d. Celebrates a solemn passover, ibid. e. Miraculously recovered, 837, & seq. His vanity punished, 839. His death, ibid. c.
- a chief of the Palestine robbers, put to death, iv. 118, d.
- Hexion*, the second king of Damascus, the same with Rezin, i. 382, c. In friendship with the kings of Judah, ibid.
- Hiarbas*, cotemporary with Dido, vii. 138. His successors in Numidia, ibid. & seq.
- Hiarbas* joins the Marian faction, v. 87, c. Taken prisoner, ibid. c.
- Hiel*, the Bethelite, rebuilds Jericho, i. 555, b.
- Hiemfal* murdered by Jugurtha, vii. 127, d. 129, a.
- made king of part of Numidia, 135, c.
- his descent, v. 6, a, b. Murdered by Jugurtha, ibid. c.
- treacherous reception of young Marius, 59, c. Outwitted by him, ibid. & seq.
- † Hiera, island, how increased, iii. 215, c, f. Taken by Agrippa, v. 279, b.
- † Hieracon, island, in the Arabian gulph, i. 170, a.
- a town on the river Lar, ibid.
- † Hierapolis, Magog, a city of Cyrrhestica in Syria, i. 361, b. Famous for the temple of the Syrian goddess, 372, c. The temple, &c. described, 373, a, &c. Its sacred lake, oracle, riches, priests, &c. ibid. & seq. Their tradition about the flood, 95, c. & 96, (N).
- † — in Phrygia, described, ii. 293.
- † Hieraptyna, a city in Crete, described, iii. 161, c.
- Hierax*, prime minister to Phylcon, his character, iii. 656, & seq.
- Hiero*, king of Syracuse, iii. 20, c. Wars with the Argentinæ, ibid. & seq. Defeats them, 21, c. His death, ibid. f. Character, 22.
- general of Syracuse, his character, 91, a, b. Discards his auxiliaries, 92, b. Defeats the Mamertines, 93, d. Outwitted by Hannibal, ibid. & seq. Treaty with Carthage, 94, f. Defeated by the Romans, 96, b. Allies with them, 97. His wife government, ibid. & seq. Generosity to the Romans, &c. 98, & seq. Death, 100, d, e. See also vol. iv. 64, & seq. & vol. vi. 824, & seq. By whom dispatched, vii. 34, a, b. 41, c.
- Hierocles*, Heliogabalus's beakly husband, vi. 135, c. Killed, 137, c.
- Hieroglyphical* figures of Egypt, by whom invented, i. 223, c. Their use, ibid. c.
- Hieromneme*, wife of Assaracus, king of Troy, ii. 374, b.
- Hieronimus* succeeds Hiero, iii. 100, c, f. His wicked reign, 101, & seq. Beaks with the Romans, 102, c. Allies with Carthage, ibid. c, & seq. Assassinated, 103, d, e. See vol. iv. 720, & vol. vii. 47, a, b.
- Hierophantes*, the priests of Ceres, why so called, ii. 733, sub not.
- High places* forbidden to the Jews by God, i. 693, b. 662, (H). Abominations committed on them, ibid. c, d.
- High-priest*. See Priest and Priesthood, i. 633, & seq.
- Hilarius*, bishop, banished, vi. 298, c.
- a magician, burnt, 375, a.
- the philosopher, put to death by the Goths, vii. 505, c.
- Hilderic*, king of the Huns, born, vi. 501, d.
- Hillel*, the famed Jewish doctor, whether the Pollio of Josephus, iv. 132, in fin. not. When he flourished, 164, d.
- Hilernus* taken prisoner, iv. 753, b.
- Hilperic* assists the Franks in Spain, vii. 512, c.
- † Himera, in Sicily, described, iii. 8, c. When and by whom built, 12, b. Besieged by Hamilcar, 17, a. Relieved by Gelon, ibid. c. Taken by the Romans, iv. 666, f. Noble Defence against the Carthaginians, vi. 732, c—c. Taken, 744, d, e. Razed, 745, a.
- † — a river in Sicily, 8, (G). 102, a. 102, note.
- † Himeras bravery against Hannibal, vi. 743, pass. Cruelly butchered by him, 744.
- Himerus's* character and writings, vi. 339, not.
- Leo's general, defeated, 576, f.
- Himilco's* insulting speech to the brave Hanno, iv. 715, a, b. Sent into Spain, ibid. d. (See vol. vii. 39, a.) Preparations against Dionysius, vi. 756, & seq. Sinks the Syracusan ships, 757, a, (G). Repulsed by them, 758, c. Takes and razes Messana, 760. Invests Syracuse, 763, & seq. Builds three forts against it, 764, a, b. Defeated at sea, ibid. c, d. Reduced by a grievous pestilence, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 766, c, d. Buys his night, and retires, 768, c, f.
- succeeds against Eumachus, vi. 810, b, a.
- journal, vi. 709.
- Hind*, white, how used by Sertorius, v. 89, a, b.
- † Hinnon, the vale of, near the walls of Jerusalem, i. 574, a. Superstitious cruelties practised there, 522, (N).
- Hippæra* revolts to the mercenaries, vi. 861, c, d.
- Hippadatelotes*, second rank of Athenians, ii. 429, & seq.
- † Hippagrela besieged by the Romans, iv. 774, f.
- † Hippana taken by the Romans, vi. 833, a.
- Hipparchus*, the son of Pisistratus, ii. 451, & seq. His reign and character, 453. Slain, ibid. & seq.
- where born, iii. 256, c.
- Hipparchus* seizes on Syracuse, iii. 773, d, e. 774.
- Hippasus* held fire to be the first principle, i. 22, b.
- † Hippi, the promontory of, in Numidia, vii. 111, d.
- Hippias*, the son of Pisistratus, ii. 451, f. Whether the eldest, 452, a. His cruel reign, 454, & seq. Expelled, 455, & seq. Retires to Sigeum, 458. Cabals with the Persians, ibid. His dream and death, 463, c, & not. Goes over to Darius, iii. 275, d.
- Perseus's general, opposes the Romans, 487, f. Surrenders to them, 495, f.
- † Hippo, in Africa, described, vi. 667, c. Taken by Sigilvult,

- vult, 481, a. Taken and destroyed by the barbarians, 482, a, b. Restored, 772.
- Hippe*, the ships of, destroyed by the Romans, iv. 675, d. Taken and burnt by the Vandals, vii. 533, c, d.
- † Regius, described, vii. 110, b, c.
- † Hippobolus, Hippim, the ancient name of Argos, ii. 750, f.
- † Hippocentaur, caught, and brought to Adrian, vi. 49, sub not.
- Hippocles*, king of Chios, murdered, iii. 109, a.
- Hippocoon*, king of Sparta, killed by Hercules, ii. 400.
- Hippocrates* held fire to be the deity, i. 22, c. His writings, by whom brought to light, iv. 328, b. Where born, iii. 212, f, (T).
- the father of Pifistratus, ii. 452, (O).
- tyrant of Gela, iii. 15, a. Treachery to the Zancleans, 198, b.
- the Syracusan, dissuades that king from allying with Carthage, 102, c. Forms a plot against the republicans, 105. Chosen praetor, 107, f. Cabals against the Romans, 108. Chosen general of the Leontines, 109, d. His stratagem against the Syracusans, 110, b. Enters the city, 111. Defeated by Marcellus, 114, b. Dies of the plague, 118, a.
- † Hippodamus builds Rhodes, iii. 130, (B).
- † Hippodrome at Constantinople, burnt by the mob, vi. 519.
- Hippokas*, Kaires, whence so called, ii. 369, note.
- Hippolyte*, queen of the Amazons, her contest with Theseus, ii. 279, note. Married to him, 366, note.
- Hippolytus*, the son of Theseus, his chaste fatal, ii. 367, note.
- Hippomedes*, archon of Athens, reduced, ii. 369, c. His cruelty, ibid. (N).
- Hippon*, tyrant of Messana, put to death, iii. 79, c.
- † — the city dismembered from Judea, iv. 190, f.
- † Hippocraca, taken by Agathocles, vi. 808, a.
- † Hippocritus, the lake of, described, vi. 670, c, & seq.
- † Hippocritus, why so called, 268, (E).
- Hippocratus*, made general of Media, iii. 431, b.
- † Hippotamus, or river-horse, common in upper Egypt, i. 181, d, e.
- Hippobous*, king of Arcadia, ii. 379, c.
- † Hira, where situated, iv. 382, c.
- the kingdom of, founded, vii. 272, c, d. Series of kings, ibid. & seq. The end of it, 275, c.
- Hiram*, king of Tyre, alliance with David, i. 413, d. Furnishes him with cedars, &c. ibid. Solomon's letter to him, ibid. c. 414, a. His embassy and treaty with him, 794, b. Furnishes him with wood artists, &c. ibid. b. — c. Improvements at Tyre, ibid. c, f. Said to have given his idolatrous daughter to him, 415, a. His death, ibid.
- one of the four Jewish priestly classes, iv. 5, a.
- † Hirpinus, who, iv. 412, a. Reduced by the Romans, 719, a, b. Revolt from the Carthaginians, vii. 44, c. Complains against Hannibal, ibid. f. Submit to the Romans, 62, b.
- Hirtius*, chosen consul, v. 202, f. Success in Gaul, 204, c. Against Antony, 205, & seq. Killed, 206. Whether by Octavius, 208, (P).
- disgraced by Tiberius, 355, d.
- Hirtulius* defeats the Romans, 27, c. Defeated and wounded, 92, c.
- † Hispal, Seville, colonized by Otho, v. 602, a. Recovered by Caesar, 175, & seq. Described, vii. 300, d, & seq.
- Histiatus*'s treachery to the Chians, iii. 210, d, e. Partiality for Darius, 274, b, c.
- History*, profane, why so corrupt with respect to Assyria, i. 862, b.
- Histrion*, stage-players, whence so called, iv. 584, f.
- † Hit, It, a city near Babylon, i. 144, c, & (I).
- † Hittites, the descendants of Ham, i. 322, a. Dwelt about Hebron, 323, c. Generosity to Abraham, 329, a. Why suffered to remain among the Jews, 335, a. Enslaved by Solomon, 337, b. Settle in Africa, vi. 703, b, (H).
- † Hivites, ancient Canaanites, i. 323. Why left to dwell among the Israelites, 335, a. Enslaved by Solomon, 337, b.
- Hobab*, the son of Jethro, guides the Israelites through the wilderness, i. 302, b.
- Hobbes*'s absurd notion of nature confused, i. 9, b, c.
- † Hæmus, mount, in Macedonia, iii. 257, c.
- † — in Thrace, 787.
- Hog*, a carved one, set over Jerusalem's gates, vi. 41, a.
- Hobam*, king of Hebron, one of the allies against the Gibeonites, i. 332, a. Cut off by Joshua, ibid. b, c.
- Holopernes*, Nabuchodonosor's general, his vast army and conquests, i. 899, pass. Marches against the Jews, 900, b, c. Killed by Judith, 901, c.
- his pretensions on Cappadocia, iii. 592, d. Supported by Demetrius, 593, b.
- Holstein*'s account of Porphyry, vi. 222, sub not.
- † — the ancient seat of the Saxons, vii. 441, a.
- Homajum* Name, a Persian book so called, iv. 392, c.
- Honay al Khamani*, a Persian queen, according to oriental writers, ii. 225, c. Leaves the crown to her son Darab, 226. Her stately palace at Isfahar, ibid.
- Homer*, where born, iii. 108, d. His poems, why so valued by Alexander, 307, c.
- his writings found by Lycurgus, ii. 559. Burnt at Constantinople, vi. 515, c.
- a Jewish measure of about five pints, i. 509.
- † Homerites, who and where sited, vii. 232, b.
- † Hon, a chief of the house of Reuben, in Korah's rebellion, i. 259, a. Destroyed, 530, b.
- Honoratus* defeats Gallus's cruelty, vi. 290, & seq. Made first prefect of Constantinople, 305.
- Honorio*, taken with her mother at Constantinople, vi. 475, f.
- sister of Valentinian, her incontinence and treason, 482, f, & seq. Demanded in marriage by Attila, 494, b. Stirs him against her brother, vii. 471, c. Her lewd character and imprisonment, ibid. d, e.
- Honorius*, whether the father of Theodosius, vi. 390, b.
- the son of Theodosius, born, 405, b. Chosen consul, 407, a. Declared Augustus, 423, b. Proclaimed emperor of the west, 425, d. 426, c. Under the guardianship of Stilicho, 430, f. Comes very young to the empire, 428, f. Stripped of Africa, 428, f. Recovers it, 439, & seq. Laws against false informers, 440, c. Marries Maria, 441, a. Demolishes the heathen temples, 444, f. Retires to Ravenna, 449, d, e. Triumphant entry into Rome, 451, a, b. Fixes at Ravenna, 452, a. Marries Thermania, 456, c. Laws against heretics, 457, c. Invaded by Alaric, 459, f. His troops intercepted, and cut off, 460, a. Rejects Alaric's fresh proposals, ibid. f, & seq. His to Attilus rejected, 461, d, e. Supported by Theodosius, ibid. f. By Heraclian, 462, a. Agrees with Alaric, 463, c. Falls out with him, ibid. & seq. Breach of faith to Constantine, 467, b. Irreconcilable to Ataulphus, 470, a, b. Confirms the church's assyla, ibid. c. Enters Rome in triumph, 472, c. Makes Constantius his colleague, 473, d. Attempts the recovery of Spain, 475, d. Falls out with Placidia, ibid. c, f. His death, 476, a.
- resignation of Britain, 437, b. Assists it against the Picts, ibid. c. Falls out with Alaric, 508, & seq.
- † Homoia, taken and razed by Scipio, vii. 27, c.
- † Hony of Pontus, its excellent qualities, iii. 712, f. Of Hybla famed, 3, f.
- Hopni* and Phinebas, their vile character and punishment, i. 755, b, & seq.
- † Hor, mount, in Edom, where Aaron died, i. 310, b.
- Horace* writes his Carmen Seculare, v. 312, d. His death, 323, c.
- Horatii*, their bloody fight against the Curiatii, iv. 440, & seq.
- Horatius*, the only surviving conqueror of the Curiatii, iv. 441. Kills his weeping sister, 442. His punishment, ibid. c, d.
- Cocles, his valour and reward, 474, c. Victory over the Hetrurians, 511, d.
- Publius, chosen decemvir, 534.
- Barbasus's noble speech against the decemvirs, 542, d. Chosen umpire between the senate and malecontents, 543. Chosen military tribune, and consul, ibid. f. Defeats the Sabines, 545, a.
- † Horeb, mount, described, i. 511, a.
- † Horstians, who and where situated, v. 672, b. vii. 414, a.
- † Horites, ancient Canaanites, i. 308, b. Their government, &c. 310, c. Kings, 312, a. Dwindled into small principalities, ibid. c. Driven from Seir by the sons of Esau, 313, a.
- † Hormab, Arad defeated at, by the Israelites, i. 531, c.
- Hormisdas* king of Persia's short reign, iv. 328, & seq.
- II. crowns his son before he is born, 331, c, & (G).
- III. his character, 359, a, (B). Defeated by the Romans, 360, b, c. Fatal treatment of Varamus, ibid. c, f. Imprisonment, 361, c. Speech to the Persian states, ibid. e. Ill treatment and death, ibid. f.
- IV. Vid. Isdigerdes II. 370.
- a revolted prince, directs the Romans, 335, c, e. Forfeits his succession, 337, c.
- a Christian nobleman, persecuted, 340, b.
- sumptuous presents to Aurelian, vi. 191, f. Revolts against Varanes, 209, c.
- Sapor's brother, made general of Julian's horse, 329, c. Narrow escape, 332, b. Made governor of Hellepont, 367, d.
- successor of Cosroes, defeated by the Romans, 533, d, e. Sues for peace, and breaks it, 534, b. Defeated by Philippicus, 534, & seq. Dethroned and imprisoned, 535, a, b. His proud, yet miserable end, ibid. c.
- the last king of the Persians, 542, f.
- Hormoux*, the Hormisdas of the oriental writers, iv. 377, b. His reign and character, ibid. c, d. Why a patron to the heretic Manes, ibid. e.
- II. his reign and character, 379, d, c.
- III. dethroned by his brother, 386, & seq.
- IV. by whom brought up, 395, a. Degenerates, ibid. & seq. Invaded by the Turks, 396. Ingratitude to Baharam, 397, d, c. Deposed and strangled, 398, a, b.
- Hormus*,

- Hormus*, Vespasian's freedman, knighted, v. 645, a.
† Horonaim, a city of Moab, i. 285, c.
Horfa, the brother of Hengist, vii. 442, & seq. Slain, 444, d.
Where buried, ibid. c.
Horfe, general of, when first created at Rome, iv. 482, a, (F).
Horfe's head, why stamped on the Carthaginian coin, vi. 721, c.
Horfe, esteemed among the Scythians, ii. 272, f.
— a fine breed of them in Argolis, 350. And in Thessaly, 382, d.
Hortarius sues Julian for peace, vi. 304, b.
Hortatus, M. his petition to Tiberius rejected, v. 388, f.
Hortensia's noble speech to the triumvirs, v. 231, b.
Hortensius, Q. chosen to quell the plebeians, iv. 642, b.
— a famed orator, v. 90. Chosen consul, 99, c.
— his son made Cæsar's admiral, 135, b. Goes over to Brutus, 216, a, b. Put to death by Antony, 257, d.
Hofea succeeds Peca in Israel, i. 830, d. Success against Ahaz, 831. Troublesome reign, 833, a.
Hofitius, Cai. saved by his son, v. 226, a.
Hofilia, Severa, the supposed wife of Gallus, vi. 170, f.
Hofilianus, the son of Decius, vi. 168. Declared Cæsar by Gallus, 170, c. His death, 171, b.
Hofilius, A. Manc. ill success against Perses, iv. 762, c.
— C. Manc. defeated by the Numantines, 784, e. Delivered up to them, 785, d, e.
Hofus's signal bravery, iv. 429, (R).
Hozannab, what is meant by, iv. 228, a.
Hud, of the Mohammedans, supposed the same with Eber, i. 130, a, b.
Hugb, prince, sent prisoner to Constantinople, vi. 614, a—d. Success against the Turks, 615, c. Shameful return into France, 616, b.
† Hul, the grandson of Shem, where seated, i. 163, e.
Hulmul, a Bathian prince, vii. 492, d.
Humar's ill success in Thrace, vi. 551, c. Before Constantinople, ibid. d.
† Humbri. See Umbri, vii. 323, d, (E).
Hunda, married to Bonofus, vi. 202, c. Favoured by Probus, ibid. f.
Huneric makes peace with Zeno, vi. 515, f.
† Hungarians, whence descended, vii. 485, d. Why so called, ibid. & seq.
Huneric, king of the African Vandals, vii. 527, d.
Hunniades, John, signal victories over the Turks, vi. 648, c—e. Defeated at Varna, ibid. e.
Hunimond, king of the Ostrogoths, vii. 493, a. Submits to the Romans, 518, c.
† Hunns, their first sally, vi. 379, c. Ally with the Alans against the Goths, ibid. c, d. Incursions into the eastern empire, 433, c. Ravage Thrace, &c. 451, d, e. (See also vol. iii. 846, f.). Cut off by the Romans, 459. Invited by the usurper John, 478, b. 479, a. Dismissed by him, 480, a. Assist the Romans against the Goths, 483, pass. Re-enter Thrace, 487, b, c. Defeated before Orleans, 495. The end of their kingdom, 497, f. Defeated in Dacia, 508, e. Dreadful inroads into Illyricum, 526, d, e. About Constantinople, 529, d. Put to flight by old Belisarius, ibid. e. By John Comagene, 618, a, b. Whence they came, vii. 456, a. Their tribes names, &c. ibid. b, c. Their kings or chiefs, 458, a. Extract, &c. ibid. c, d. Cross the Palus Mæotis, ibid. e, f. Subdue the Alans and Goths, 459, pass. Hired by Theodosius, 460, a. Horrid devastations. ibid. & seq. & (A). In Thrace, Illyricum, &c. 461, b, c. Assist Stilicho against Rhadagaisus, ibid. & seq. Second irruption into Thrace, 462, a. Defeat, ibid. b. When possessed of Pannonia, 463, a, b. Dreadful slaughter of the Burgundi, ibid. c, d. Defeated by them, ibid. Defeat the Goths at Narbonne, ibid. e, f. Defeated at Tholouse, 464, a. Receive tribute from the Romans, ibid. b. Advantageous peace with them, ibid. b, c. New conquests, ibid. & seq. Under Attila, 464, & seq. Their power ends with him, 481, d—f. Defeated by the Goths, 482, b, c. In Dacia, ibid. c, d. Fresh irruption into the empire, 483, d. Vast plunder, ibid. & seq. Defeated and stripped, 484, pass. By Sigebert, ibid. f, & seq. The extent of their dominions in Charles the great's time, 485, a. Embassy to him, ibid. b. Totally reduced by him, ibid. c, d.
Hunting, in great esteem after the flood, i. 112, c. Among the Persians, made part of a noble education, ibid. &c.
Hur, prince of Midian, i. 303, a.
— ascends with Moses and Aaron up the mount, 511, c. Helps to support Moses' hands, 512, a. Some conjectures concerning his family, ibid.
Hushai, his fidelity to David, i. 783. Disappoints Abfalom's designs, ibid. e. & 784, c, d.
Husham, the Temanite, king of the Horites, i. 312, c.
Hushang, king of Persia, according to oriental writers, ii. 176, c.
† Huz, the son of Nachor, peoples the land of Huz, i. 431, (D).
† Hyampolis, the battle of, ii. 386, c.
† Hyambes, whether ancient Greeks, ii. 345, b. Expelled Ætolia by Cadmus, 372, a.
Hyantidas, king of Corinth, invaded by the Doræ, ii. 394, c.
† Hyantidis, one of the ancient names of Bœotia, ii. 370, c.
† Hybla, in Sicily, described, iii. 3, f. Several cities of that name, ibid. & seq.
† Hyblea Megara, by whom founded, iii. 11, f.
Hybreas's bold speech to Antony, v. 260, c, (B).
Hycetas, tyrant of Syracuse, iii. 88, d, e.
Hycfos, king of the Shepherds in Egypt, i. 247, b, & seq.
† Hydaspes, passed by Alexander, iii. 390, & seq. Repassed, 395, b.
Hydra, killed by Hercules, ii. 356, note.
† Hydraotes, river, passed by Alexander, iii. 393, c. Repassed, 396, a.
Hydroparastata, a set of Manichees so called, vi. 397, a.
† Hydrusia, island. See Tenos, iii. 225, d. And Andros, 226, c.
Hyle, the same with matter, i. 31, b.
† Hylinus settles in Thermopira, ii. 279, note.
† Hylapbagi, who, vii. 184, c. Their great activity, 200, c.
Hyllus, the son of Hercules, killed, ii. 356, b.
Hymæus, tried for treason, vi. 358, b. Banished, ibid. e.
† Hypatba, metropolis of Thessaly, ii. 382, b. The general assembly of the Ætolians, 722, c. 726, d.
Hypatia, her excellent character, vi. 471, d. Murdered by the christians, ibid. e.
Hypatius, fined and banished, vi. 374, c.
— Anastasius's general, defeated by the Persians, 520, d, e. Taken prisoner by Vitalianus, 522, a. Released, ibid. b. Forced to revolt, 526, a. Defeated, and put to death, ibid. c.
† Hyperborean sea. Vid. Drad-sea, ii. 266, a.
† Hyperboreans were men-eaters, ii. 269, a.
Hyperectius basely given up by his troops, ii. 367, c.
Hyperion, the Titan, a great astronomer, iii. 163, a.
Hypermetra, daughter of Danaus, saves her husband, ii. 353, d.
† Hyphasit, river, the boundary of Alexander's conquests, iii. 394, & seq. & (E).
† Hyppius, a river in Bithynia, iii. 827, d.
Hyppæus, C. Plaut. reduces the Privernians, iv. 599, a.
Hyppuratus, in the Phenician history, who, i. 89, a.
Hyrcan, the son of Joseph, a worthy youth, iv. 42, & His profeness in Egypt, 45, (V). Persecuted by his brethren, and kills himself, ibid.
— the son of Simeon, why so named, 88, (H). His reception at Jerusalem, 89, b. Besieged by Antiochus, 90, b. Makes peace with him, ibid. d. Rifles David's tomb, 91, b. Takes Aleppo, 92, a. Invades Syria, ibid. And Samaria, &c. ibid. Sends presents to the Romans, 92, c. & (Q). Besieges Samaria, 94, a. His high character, ibid. c. Prophetic spirit, ibid. & (U). Falls out with the Pharisees, 95, b, & (W). His death, ibid. & (X). See also vol. iii. 608, & seq.
— the son of Janneus, made high priest, 103, b. Abandoned by his subjects, 105, c, & seq. Deposed, 106, b, c. The time when, ibid. (N). Pleads his cause before Pompey, 109, b, c. Restored, 112, a. Honoured by the Athenians, 113, b. Reinitiated by Gabinius, 114, b. Confirmed by Cæsar, 117, c. Allies with him, 118, a. His partiality to Herod, 119, b, c. Fatal cowardice, 122. Carried to Barzapharnes, 125, b. Both his ears cut off, 126, b, & (T). Carried off prisoner by the Parthians, ibid. c. Highly honoured there, 132, b, c. Decoyed into Judea, ibid. & seq. Beheaded by Herod, 137, d.
† Hyrcania, a province of Persia, described, ii. 30, d. Abounds with wild beasts, 43, d. Sends an embassy to Antonines, vi. 56, f. Invaded by Alexander, iii. 360, b, c.
Hyssus, who, i. 88, c. 89, a.
Hythalpes introduces learning into Persia, ii. 62, e.
Hythæus's treachery to the Scythians, ii. 106, c. Punished by Darius, 107, (T). Crucified, 111, a.

I

The letter, wrongly used by the interpreters of scripture, instead of Y, i. 55, (N).

† Jabal, supposed the Apollo of the heathen, i. 77, a.

† Jabesh, besieged by the Ammonites, i. 295, d. 759, c. Relieved by Saul, ibid. Put to the sword by the other tribes, 742, a.

† Jabin, king of Hazor, defeated by Joshua, 332, c. 333, a. — II. rebuilds Hazor, 335, b. Enslaves the Israelites, 336, a. Defeated by Deborah and Barac, ibid. b, c. Slain, ibid. & (R). & 743, a.

Jacob born, i. 437, a. Why so called, ibid. (R). Buys his brother's birth-right, 438, a. Sent to Padan-Aram, 440. Marries Leah and Rachel, 441, a. His children by Leah, ibid. & seq. His stratagem of the speckled sheep, 442, c, d. Ill used by Laban, 743, a. Steals away from him, ibid. b. &c. Overtaken by him, 444, a. Interview and covenant with him, ibid. & seq. Presents to Esau, 445, a, b. Wrestling with an angel, in what sense, ibid. b, c, & (D). Greeting with Esau, 446, b, c. Buys a field at Shechem, 447, a. His sons cruel treachery there, ibid. d. Goes to Bethel, 448, a, b. Benjamin born by Rachel, 448, e. Grief

- Grief for Reuben's incest, ibid. d. Goes to Isaac, and buries him, ibid. & seq. Grief for the loss of Joseph, 449, c. Sends his sons into Egypt for corn, 453, d. Sends them a second time with Benjamin, 445, pass. What presents he sent with them, ibid. (Y). Goes down into Egypt, 457, pass. Introduced to Pharaoh, 458. A list of his family, 459, a, (B). Request to Joseph before his death, 460, b. Blesses his two sons, ibid. & seq. His prophetic blessing to his twelve sons, 461, & seq. Death, 466, a. Pompous funeral, 467, a—c. Writings ascribed to him by the Jews, ibid. (V).
- † Jacob, his well, where situate, 588, d. Described as it is at present, ibid.
- † —ford, 466, a.
- † —stone pillar worshipped by the Canaanites, vi. 693, b.
- his prophecy of the sceptre not departing from Judah explained, iv. 25, b. 256, b, & seq. & (O).
- Jaddai's* fidelity to Darius, iv. 28, b, c. Highly revered by Alexander the Great, ibid. & seq. His death, 30, d.
- † Jadit, the tribe of, whence, vii. 243, c, d. Destroyed, ibid. d.
- Jael*, the wife of Heber, kills Sisera with a tent nail, i. 336.
- defeats the Canaanites, 743, b.
- Jair*, the seventh judge of Israel, his twenty years reign, i. 750, b.
- † Jaliffus, an ancient city of Rhodes, iii. 129, d.
- Jamblicus's* answer to a passage in Porphyry about Chæremon, i. 13. Contemporaneous with Eusebius, 14. Refutes Julian's invitation, vi. 326, d. His writings and character, 84, sub not. Three of that name, 273, sub not.
- I. king of Emessa, iii. 848, b.
- II. restored by Octavius, ibid. d.
- king of Arabia, racked to death by Antony, v. 290, a.
- Jambres*. See below, Jannes.
- † Jambrians, who, iv. 75, (M). Punished by Jonathan, ibid. c, f.
- Janes*, the Greater, made an apostle, iv. 208, (T).
- the son of Zebedee, beheaded by Agrippa, 262, a, (W).
- the Lesser, chosen apostle, 208, (T). Why styled the Lord's brother, ibid. Why made bishop of Jerusalem, 256, a, & (N).
- the son of Judas Galileus, crucified, 263, d.
- of Edessa, inventor of the seven Syriac points, i. 378. Restores that tongue to its ancient purity, 379, a. The first that wrote a grammar in Syriac, ibid.
- bishop, saves Nisibis by his prayers, vi. 279, b.
- † Jannab, where sited, iv. 64, c, & (B). Burnt by Judas Maccabæ. ibid. c. Given to Salome, 191, a.
- Jancyrus*, king of Scythia, his answer and presents to Darius, ii. 283. Defeats him, 284, & seq.
- † Janculum, the hill of, where sited, iv. 446, a. Made a citadel to Rome, ibid. Taken by Porcenna, 474, b. Seized by the Hetrurians, 511, c. Blocked up by Marius, v. 62, f.
- Jangæ*, or descendants of Janus, iv. 418.
- Janneus*. See Alexander, iv. 98, & seq.
- Jannes* and Jambres, who resisted Moses, conjectures about them, i. 430, (P). Mentioned by Pliny, 494, (E). Celebrated in the Jewish books for great magicians, ibid.
- Januarius*, why not chosen emperor, vi. 346, b.
- January*, whence called Amazoniæ, vi. 92, c, f. Appointed for the Roman elections, iv. 767, e.
- † Janus, king of the Aborigines, ii. 261, b. Whether the Noah of Moses, iv. 417, & seq. Worshipped by the Hetruscans, 418, c. His temple built by Numa, 436, c. Shut up the first time, 683. At the birth of Christ, 160. How often between, ibid. (A). See also vol. v. 329, d, (K). Under Nero, 564, c. And Vespasian, 649, c. Opened by Gordian, vi. 162, c.
- † Japanese, their doctrine about the origin of the universe, i. 8, a. Some acknowledge the creation of the world, 34, d.
- † Japhet, the eldest son of Noah, i. 117, d, & (N). The import of his name, ibid. His posterity, ibid. & seq. The Persians give him eleven sons, 118, not.
- † Japhia, king of Lachish, allies against the Gibeonites, i. 332, a. Defeated by Joshua, ibid. & seq.
- Japhians* put to the sword, iv. 278, b.
- Japidians* revolt from the Romans, iv. 798, c. Quelled by Sempronius, 799, b.
- Jarbas's* embassy to Dido, vi. 722, b, c.
- Jared*, a descendant of Seth, i. 78, a.
- † Jasar plundered and burnt by the Jews, i. 298, e.
- Jasber*, or The upright, the book of, i. 561, c—e.
- Jastus* the husband of Cybele, ii. 297, (W).
- prince of Samothrace, his deities, 312, b.
- Jason* sent to fetch the golden fleece, ii. 383, c. Assisted by Medea, 384, a, b. Banished by Pelias's son 385, a. Goes to Corinth, 393, a. Marries Glauce ibid. c.
- prince of Thessaly, assists the Thebans, 616.
- where born, iii. 239, f. Marries Cybele, 240, a.
- al. Jesus, buys the Jewish high-priesthood, 578, c, f. Supplanted by his brother, 573, & seq. Drives him out, 576, c. vol. iv. 47, e. Erects a gymnasium at Jerusalem, ibid. c. Raises a new rebellion, 50, a, b. His tragical end, ibid. B).
- Jason*, his history of Greece, vi. 51, sub not.
- † Jasar, Jazar, a city of Ammon, burnt by the Jews, i. 298, c. iv. 63, d.
- Jathanites* assist Alex. Angelus, vi. 629, a, b. Defeated and killed by Lascaris, ibid. c, d.
- † Javan, where settled, i. 168, d. The first peopler of Greece, ii. 345, (E).
- † Jaxartes, a river in Scythia, ii. 267, d.
- † Jazyges, who, v. 623, b. Taken into Vespasian's pay, ibid. Join the Suevians against Domitian, 674, a. Invaded by Decebalus, vi. 13. Join in the German war, 66, b, c. Twice defeated, 69, c, d. Join against the Romans, 73, b. Defeated, ibid. c, d. See also vol. vii. 604, & seq.
- † Jberia. See Spain, ii. 244, (E).
- another in Scythia, 266, d.
- the kingdom of, described, iii. 835. Its origin and government, ibid. & seq. Invaded by Pompey, 836, b, c. By the Persians, 837.
- † Jberians submit to Scipio, iv. 708, c.
- to Trajan, vi. 18, d. Refuse to come to Adrian, 37, b. Their cruelty to the Himerians, 744, d, c. In Spain, who, and whence, vii. 323, b.
- Jberus*, a fabulous king of Spain, vii. 320, a.
- † —river, divides Tarracon through, 303, d.
- Jbis*, a bird, frequenting only the Nile, i. 182, b. Destroys the flying serpents, ibid. Two kinds of it described, ibid. c. Why worshipped by the Egyptians, 210, b, c.
- Jboreus* heads the Lombards into Germany, vi. 391, d, c. One of their kings, vii. 614, c. 615, d.
- † Jbrons, who, and where sited, vi. 495, b.
- Jbrion*, tenth judge of Israel, i. 753.
- † Jcaria, island, described, iii. 211, c. Whence so called, ibid. f.
- Jcarus's* severe proconsulship, vi. 403, c. Cruelty to the poor, ibid. d.
- † Jceland, island, discovered by Agricola, v. 672, c.
- † Jceni, in Britain, who, v. 509, c. Where sited, vii. 409. Defeated by the Romans, v. 509, f, & seq. Revolt, 557, & seq.
- submit to Cesar, vii. 426, b, (F). Oppose Ostorius, 430, b.
- † Jcenian, Jcening, street, on Salisbury plain, described, vii. 342, (R).
- Jceus's* inhumanity to Dion's family, iii. 73, d. Tyrant of the Leontines, ibid. & seq. Attempt against Syracuse, 74, a. Defeated by Timoleon, 75, a—d. Besieges the citadel, 76. Deposed by Timoleon, 77, c. Put to death with his whole family, 79, b. See also vol. vi. 774, & seq.
- defeats Memon, vi. 813, d. Defeated by the Carthaginians, ibid. & seq.
- a favourite of Calba, executed, v. 586, c. 597, b.
- Jebreum*, or Egyptian rat, described, i. 181, f. Destroys the crocodile's eggs, ibid.
- † Jebtyphagi, who, and where seated, i. 165, d. Why so called, ii. 176, c. vii. 184, b. 199, d.
- Jelitan* law, what, iv. 533, f.
- Jelilians* oppose the election of consuls, 554, d.
- Jelius*, Spur. renews the contest of the Agarian law, iv. 506, f. Bold push against the senate, 529, a. Noble defence of Virginia, 540, c. Chosen head of the malecontents, 543, d.
- † Jecnium taken by the Turks, vi. 605, a.
- Jconoclasts*, who, vi. 553, a. Raise a revolt in the empire, ibid. The rest see under Images, 552, & seq.
- † Jcofum delivered up to Theodosius, vi. 260, a.
- † Jcus, islands, described, iii. 233.
- † Jda founds a Saxon kingdom, vii. 450, e.
- † —mount, in Crete, described, ii. 297. 305, b. 307, c. iii. 165, f, & seq.
- † Jdai, Dastyl, inhabit mount Jda, iii. 162, d.
- Jdeus*, the son of Dardanus, ii. 313, a.
- † Jdatavitus, the plain of, where, v. 383, (W). The battle of, 384, a, b.
- Jdatius's* writings and character, vi. 501, (T). Account of the Vandals' irruption, vii. 530, c, d.
- bishop, taken prisoner, 506, c.
- Jdmæ*, the Argonaut, killed by a boar, ii. 384, (H).
- Jdolatry* first introduced, i. 86, (N). To men, 88, (N). By whom introduced, 130, a. Opinions about its rise and progress, 851, c. What was probably its origin, 852, d. Its steps and progress, 913, c, f.
- forbid by the christian emperors, vi. 277, a. 298, d, f. By Theodosius, 403, d, e. 417, c, f. By Arcadius, 444, c, f. Whether revived during the siege of Rome, 458, c, d. Through the whole empire, 483, d. Rooted up by the Goths in Greece, vii. 503, c, f.
- Jdomeneus* goes to the Trojan war, iii. 169, c. Forced into Calabria, ibid. & not. Adored by the Cretans, ibid.
- † Jdumea mentioned by Pliny, Strabo, &c. i. 316, e. The lot of Simeon and Judah, ibid.
- † —Jdum, described, iv. 62, (Y). Conquered by Hyrcan, 92, b.
- † Jdumeans, the Edomites in Judea, i. 316, e. Incorporated with the Jews, 317, c. Their name, when lost, ibid. (Y). The Jews, why called by that name, 568, a, (E). ibid. 92

- to be circumcised, 92, c. (P). Invited to Jerusalem, 274, d. Return home, 275, b. Betrayed to Simon, 276, d.
- Jealousy*, the waters of, appointed by God, i. 676, c. How administered, ibid. & seq.
- † Jebus, a city in Canaan, i. 324, a. Since called Jerusalem, 323, c.
- † Jebusites, where situate, i. 323, c. Defend it against the Benjamites, 334. Why suffered to live with the Israelites, 335, a. Defend Sion against David, 336, a. Who the lame and blind in it were, ibid. (L). Subdued, 337, a. Enslaved by Solomon, ibid. t.
- Jedaiab*, one of the four sacerdotal classes, iv. 5, a.
- Jehoahaz*, king of Israel, reduced by the Syrians, i. 388. His short reign, 846, a. Carried captive into Egypt, ibid. b.
- Jehoash*, king of Judah, buys off Hazael, i. 388, d. Plundered by the Syrians, ibid. c.
- the son of Jehoahaz's success against Benhadad, i. 389, a.
- Jehoash's* wicked reign, i. 848. Captivity, ibid. d.
- Jehoiada* places Joash on the throne, i. 822, d. Puts Athaliah to death, 823, b. His death, ibid.
- Jehoiakim's* wicked reign, i. 846, b—d. His tyrannies and bloodshed, 847, d. Unhappy death, 848, d.
- Jehoram*, king of Judah, invaded by the Philistines, i. 358, c. Falls into idolatry, 814, d. Punished, 815, c. His death, ibid. d.
- king of Israel, seduced into idolatry by Jezebel, i. 814, d. Fatal expedition against Ramoth, 818, b, c. Wounded, and dies, ibid. & seq.
- Jehoshaphat* brings the Philistines under tribute, i. 358, b, c. His piety and success, 809. Reproved by Jehu, 813, b. Miraculous success against Ammon, &c. 814, b. His death, ibid.
- † — the valley of, where, 574, (Q). Why supposed the place of the general judgment, 574, a, (R).
- Jehovah*, the ineffable name of God, why never pronounced by the Jews, i. 484, (T). Various notions about it, ibid. & seq.
- † Jehova-Nissi, the name of an altar, erected by Moses, i. 512.
- Jehu* kills the kings of Israel and Judah, i. 818, c, & seq. Jezebel, and Ahaz's seventy sons, 819, f. And forty princes of Judah, 820, a. Destroys Baal's priests, temple, and worship, ibid. & seq. Ill success against Hazael, 388.
- the prophet, reproves Baasha's idolatry, 808, d.
- † Jerphorina, a city in Thrace, iii. 787, c.
- Jephthah*, the fugitive son of Gilead, i. 750. Heads Israel against Ammon, ibid. His rash vow, ibid. c. How executed on his daughter, 751, b, & not.
- † Jerab, Joktan's son, where settled, i. 170, a.
- Jeremiah* denounces God's judgments against the rebellious Jews, i. 846, b. Foretells the Babylonish captivity, 847, a. His prophecy burnt by the king, ibid. Imprisoned, 850, b. Well used by the Babylonish king, ibid. d.
- his lamentations, on what occasion composed, i. 845, d. The only piece of that kind in holy writ, ibid.
- † Jericho, why so called, i. 324, a. 556, c. Taken miraculously by the Israelites, 330, c. 556, b. Put under an anathema, ibid. & seq. By whom rebuilt, ibid. (C). Taken by Bacchides, iv. 76, c. Made one of the five courts of Palestine, 144.
- † — the palace of, burnt, iv. 188. Rebuilt, 192, a.
- † — the baliim of, famous, i. 580.
- † — the roses of, said to be somewhat miraculous, 583, c.
- Jerobeam*, made king by the ten tribes, i. 805, b. His idolatry, ibid. c. Defeated by Ahijah, 807, b. His death, ibid.
- II. king of Israel, 827, a. Takes Damascus, &c. ibid. His glorious reign, ibid. b. Death, ibid. c.
- Jerom*, St. his account of the Gothish cruelties, vi. 388, a, b.
- † Jerusalem, said by the Arabians to have been built by twelve kings, in honour of Melchizedek, i. 328, (Q). When built, 258, f. Sacked by Hazael, 388, d, e. Taken by David, and made his metropolis, 775, a. Taken by Nebuchadnezzar, 848, c. A second time, ibid. & seq. A third time, and destroyed, 849, f. Described according to the sacred historians, i. append. after pag. 796, xv. & seq.
- taken by the Persians, according to oriental writers, ii. 202, b. Rebuilt and re-peopled, iv. 22, b, c. Taken by Ptolemy, 30, c, & (C). By Antiochus, 50, c. Burnt and razed by Apollonius, 51, c, d. Rebuilt by Judas Maccab. 61, b. Fortified, 83, c. Dismantled by Antiochus, 91, a. Besieged by Pompey, 110. Taken, 111, d. How oft on the same day, ibid. (T). Made one of the five courts, 114, b. Rebuilt by Antipater, 118, a, &c. 120, b, c. Taken by Herod, 130, & seq. Its destruction foretold by Christ, 228, & seq. & (B). (C). Enlarged by Agrippa, 261, c. The number of its inhabitants taken by Cestius, 208, c. Forsaken by multitudes of Jews, 270, d, e. (O). Torn by three factions, 278, a, b. Besieged by Titus, 279, & seq. Its first wall entred, 280, e. Second taken, 281, a. Under pestilence and famine, ibid. &c. Circumwalled, ibid. d, e. (N). Famished, 282, b, & (O). Taken and destroyed, 283, & seq. 286, & seq. Visited by Adrian, vi. 33, c. And profaned by him, 39, a. Razed, ibid. e, f.
- How rebuilt and altered, vi. 41, a, b. Plundered by the Haurians, 451, f. Taken by the Persians, 539, c. Hard fate of the Christians taken in it, ibid. & seq. Taken by Haumar, 543, f.
- † Jerusalem, the high city taken by the Romans, iv. 287, a. The number of Jewish prisoners made in it, ibid. b, c. Prodigious forerunning its ruin, 288, c.
- † — the great church of, built by Constantine, vi. 262, c.
- Jeshurun*, why that name given to the Jews, i. 666, c.
- Jesua*, the high-priest, returns from Babylon, iv. 4, b. His genealogy, ibid. (D). Death, 11, b.
- al. Jesus, killed by his brother, 27, b.
- Jesús*, the son of Sirach, when he flourished, iv. 51, (F). An account of his writings, ibid. & 91, (N).
- Christ, the world's Redeemer. See Christ, 157, & seq.
- the son of Damneus made high-priest, 226, c. Goes over to Titus, 284, b. The son of Gamaliel put in his place, 267, b. Their fatal enmity against each other, ibid. Opposes the Zelots, 274, b. Put to death by them, ibid. d.
- the son of Ananus, a dreadful prophet against Jerusalem, 267, f. His sufferings and death, 268, a. 280, c.
- Jethro*, who, i. 301, a. Gives his daughter to Moses, ibid. b—d. Comes to him after the exod, ibid. & seq. His wholesome advice to him, 302, a. His descendants called Kenites. See Kenites, ibid. & seq.
- Jedud*, son to Chronus the younger, i. 83, b.
- Jewish* government, how altered by Pompey, iv. 112, a. By Gabinus, 114, b, & (A). Restored by Cæsar, 117, c, & (F).
- writers, wretched chronologers, iv. 44, (R).
- † — camp, the battle of, 117, b.
- rites, extirpated at Rome, v. 402, a, (A).
- Jews*, not so called till after the captivity, i. 421, (A). Their doctrine about the creation, 48, d, &c. How long they dwelt in Egypt, 425, (K). The religion, manners, &c. of their forefathers, impartially considered, 469, & seq. Their great increase in Egypt, 473, a, b, & (B). Oppression, and the cause of it, ibid. & seq. Their bondage, when begun, 474. The reasons of it, 475, (E). Obligated to drown their male issue, 477, a, b. Their slavery hardened, 493, b, c. Celebrate the first passover, 499, d. Depart out of Egypt, 501. Their number calculated, ibid. & note. First encampment at Succoth, 502, a. Their first-born; how and why consecrated, ibid. c, d. Order of their march, 503, b. Arrival at Etham, ibid. & seq. Guided by the miraculous pillar, 504, a. Overtaken by the Egyptians, ibid. d, e. Pass the Red-sea, 505, &c. That transaction impartially examined, 506, & seq. & (P). Murmur for want of water, 508, d, e. And for want of food, 509, a. Gather the manna and quails, ibid. & seq. Supplied with water from the miraculous rock, 511. Whether the rock accompanied them, ibid. (T). Defeat the Amalekites, 511, c. Come to Sinai, 512, & seq. Receive the ten commandments from thence, 514, & seq. Whether their ceremonies were borrowed from the Egyptians, 516, pass. & (Y). Ratify the covenant with God, 518. Set up the golden calf, 520, & seq. Punished for it, 521, pass. Offerings made by them, ibid. & seq. 523, c. Rebellion and punishment at Teberah, 524, b. A fresh supply of quails, 525, & seq. A new murmur and punishment, 526, a. Send spies to view the promised land, ibid. b, c. Murmur at the ill report which they brought, ibid. & seq. Defeated by the Amalekites, 527, c, d. God's care of the new generation, 528, a, (L). Conspire against Moses, 529, d. Punished, 530, b, c. Their idolatries, 531, pass. Repulsed by king Arad, ibid. & seq. New murmur, 532. Punished by fiery serpents, ibid. & seq. Forbid to hurt Ammon and Moab, 533, b. Seize on the land of Sihon, 534. And Bashan, ibid. & seq. Debauched by the women to idolatry, 535. Punished, ibid. & seq. Success against the five kings of Midian, 536, & seq. Offer part of the spoils to God, 539, a. The limits of the promised land appointed, ibid. & seq. A form of confession appointed for them, 540, b. Renew their covenant with God, 541, a, b. Why they discontinued circumcision, 545, a. Their excellent manner of encamping, ibid. & seq. Standards, &c. 547, & seq. Manner of decamping, 549, b, c. Of engaging the enemy, 550, d. The state of their host, at their entering the promised land, 551, b.
- cross the Jordan, 553, & seq. Renew the circumcision, 554, & seq. And passover, 555, a. The manner of their taking of Jericho, 556, a. Why repulsed at Ai, 557, a, b. Defeat the confederate Canaanites, 558, a. Remarks on the miraculous transactions of that day, ibid. & seq. And on the rain of stones, 564, & seq. Finish the conquest of the land, 568, a. Description of it, ibid. & seq. Their government a theocracy, 594, a. Their laws against idolatry, 597, e. For the worship of the true God, 598, c. Positive and negative concerning their grand festivals, fairs, &c. 600, & seq. Concerning vows, 630, & seq. The priests, levites, &c. 631, & seq. Cities of refuge, 647, & seq. Judges and courts, 669, & seq. Against murder, 675, & seq. Against adultery, &c. 676, & seq. Against theft, 683, c. Against false witnesses, &c. coveting others property, 686, & seq. Their customs, arts, and trade, 690, & seq. Their wars, alliances, &c. 701, & seq. Agriculture,

- Agriculture, 705, & seq. Trades, manufactures, and dress, 707, & seq. Poetry, 709, & seq. Music, 714, a, & (O). Language, 717. Writing, 727, a. Education, ibid. & seq. Measure of time, 729, d, e. Contempt of foreign languages, 730, c, d. Synagogues, ibid. & seq. Schools, 731, a. Prophets, ibid. & seq. Chronology, 733, & seq. Table of their judges, 737. Kings before Jeroboam's revolt, ibid. Judges from Joshua to Saul, 738, & seq. Idolatry in Canaan, 739, a, b. Midianitish bondage, 743, b. Delivered by Gideon, ibid. & seq. New idolatries and slavery, 747, & seq. Delivered by Jephtha, 751, b. Forty years slavery under the Philistines, 754, a. Lose the victory and the ark, 756. Insist upon having a king, 758, a, & seq. Division of the two kingdoms, 773, a. Reigns of their kings, ibid. & seq. Their city and they carried into captivity, 850, c, & seq.
- Jews restored by Cyrus, ii. 94. His decree in their favour, ibid. (L). & vol. iv. 2, & seq. Why they always sided with the best bidder, iii. 611. Persecution under Philopator, 644, d. Miraculous deliverance, 645, d.
- their return from the captivity, iv. 1, & seq. Their number, 2, b. Change of condition, ibid. d, e. 4, b, c. Renew their feasts, 5, d, e. Blamed for rejecting the Samaritans, 7, (M). And for their strange marriages, 12, & seq. Oppressed by their rulers, 21, & seq. Reformed by Ezra, 23, b, c. Degenerate, 24, pass. Fidelity to the Persians, 28, b. Favoured by Alexander, 29. Their fatal superstition about the sabbath, 30, f. Flee to Alexandria, 35, b. Their different opinions of the septuagint version, 38, a. Attachment to the Egyptians, 43, pass. & (P). Apostasy under Jason, 47, f. Threatened by dire prodigies, 49, c. Maffaced by Antiochus, 50, c. By Apollonius, 51, c. Fresh persecution, 52, & seq. Forbid the sacred books, 53, d. Butchered in sundry places, 66, c, d. Idolatrous superstition punished, 68, c, & c. In high credit in Egypt, 79, d. Build a temple there, ibid. & seq. & (T). Their superstition fatal to Jerusalem, 111, b. Horribly butchered there, ibid. & seq. Highly favoured by Julius Cæsar, 118, 120. Complaints against Herod rejected, 123, c. And punished, 124, b. Conspire against him, 141, c. Frivolous answers to the christians, 157, (S). 159, (Z). Causes of their infidelity and ruin, 163, & seq. Their various sects, 164, & seq. False notions about the Messiah confuted, 181, sub not. Mutiny against Archelaus, 185, c—e. Take up arms against Sabinus, 187, & seq. Two thousand of them crucified, 190, a. Send an embassy to Rome, ibid. b, c. Deceived by a pseudo Alexander, 191, b. Revolt under Judas Galileus, 192, d. Expelled Rome, 195, b. Petition Pilate against the Roman standards and shields, ibid. & seq. Their insatiation at the coming of Christ, 196, c, f. The cause of their rejection and ruin, 197, a, b, & (E). Incredulity accounted for, 200, (I). Offended at Christ's spiritual doctrine, 215, & seq. Had still the power of life and death in his time, 235, (R). 257, a, & (O). Persecuted at Alexandria, 258, d. Raise new troubles, 263, & seq. Deluded by false prophets, 264, c. Break out into open rebellion, 268, & seq. Maffaced every-where, 269, & seq. Fit themselves for a stout defence, 270, c, d. Divided into two factions, 273, & (X). Cruelly butchered, 281, c, & seq. Famished, 282, a, b, (O). 283, (P). Set fire to the temple galleries, 283, & seq. Maffaced by the Romans, 286, a, b. Their strict fast for Jerusalem, ibid. c. Sum total of their slain in that war, 287, & seq.
- their gratitude to Cæsar, v. 192, b, (I). Favoured by Agrippa, 315, c. Why banished by Tiberius, 402, a, (A). Refuge to worship Caligula, 468, & seq. Persecution and embassy from Alexandria, 699, & seq. Commit horrid cruelties under Trajan, vi. 23, a, c, d. Revolt against Adrian, 38. Dreadful punishment, 39, & seq. Whether excluded Judea, 40, c, d. Join with Cassius, 76, a. Subdued by Caracalla, 116, b. Forbid to molest christian converts, 255, c. New revolt and punishment, 286, b. Forbid to buy christian slaves, 404, f. Privileged by Arcadius, 439, c. Maffacre the christians at Alexandria, 471, b. Expelled by St. Cyril, c. Maffacre them again at Antioch, 538, d. Forbid to come within three miles of Jerusalem, 532, c.
- in Arabia, converted by a miracle, vii. 285, a, b.
- in Spain, their apostasy, iv. 32, a, (G).
- Jezdegerd defeated by the Arabs, i. 405, b.
- Jezabel, the impious wife of Ahab, i. 809, a. Her idolatries, ibid. Murder of Naboth, 812, a. Dreadful end, 819.
- Jezid, the son of caliph Abdammalech, his title to the Persian crown, iv. 406, a.
- † Jezreel, the plain of, in Palestine, i. 575, a.
- † Jigilil, where situate, vii. 113, a.
- Illius, king of the Vandals, taken prisoner, vii. 529, a.
- Ignatius, St. martyred, vi. 19, d.
- patriarch, deposed and imprisoned for his great zeal, vi. 552, a, b.
- Ignobiles, at Rome, why so called, v. 46, (M).
- Ignomen betrays Firmus to the Romans, vi. 361, a, b.
- † Jibell-Had-Diffab, a salt mountain, described, vi. 671, d.
- Jin, or Genni, among the Turks, what, i. 51, b.
- † Jie Abarim, the thirty-eighth encampment of the Israelites, i. 533, a.
- † Jiel, where situate, vii. 107, c. 113, b.
- Ildebold, cholen king of the Ostrogoths, vii. 664, b. Defeats the Romans, ibid. c, d. Murdered, ibid. e.
- † Iltergetæ submit to Hannibal, vii. 10, f. Treachery to Scipio forgiven, 26, c, d. New revolt, 71, f.
- † Illeses fined by Agrippa, v. 315, c. Forgiven at Herod's suit, ibid. f. Immunified by Nero, 514.
- † Ikenild, street, described, vii. 420, a.
- † Iltum, in Phrygia. See Troy, ii. 305, & seq.
- † Illiturgi revolts to the Carthaginians, vii. 46, c. Retaken and razed by Scipio, 71, a. iv. 738, a.
- Illus's revolt, vi. 514, d. Death, 516, b, f. vii. 522, c.
- † Illyria subdued by Cadmus, ii. 372, b. Invaded by the Romans, iii. 487, d. 483, f.
- † Illyrians go over to the Lyncesti, iii. 282, d. Subdued by Philip, 290, a, b. 298, b. The cause of their war, iv. 685, b, & c. Reduced, 691, f. By Sempronius, 760, c. By Æmilius, 763, b. By Anicius, 764, & seq.
- troops, declare for Vespasian, v. 621, d. Their untimely march into Italy, 622, c, f.
- † Illyricum, the district of, with its provinces, vi. 270. Ravaged by the Quadi, 361, & seq. By the Goths, 388, c. How divided, 389, e, f. Ravaged by the Hunns, 451, d. The frontiers of, fortified, 468, a. The western part yielded to Theodosius, 483, c. Its extent, ibid. f. Repeopled by barbarian nations, 498, b. Ravaged by the Hunns, 526, vii. 467, c. 468, c, f.
- Ilus, the son of Tros, builds Ilium, ii. 310. Subdues Tantalus, 313, d. Saves the Palladium from the flames, ibid. e.
- Images destroyed at Constantinople, vi. 552, c. By Leo, 553, b, c. By Constantine, iv. 555, d, e. By Leo III. 557, a, b. By Leo X. 563, c, f. Allowed by the second council of Nice, 570.
- † Imaus, mount, parts the two Scythias, ii. 267, b.
- † Imbrian festivals described, iii. 236, c.
- † Imbros, island, described and subdued, iii. 336, d—f.
- Immer, one of the four sacerdotal classes, iii. 5, a.
- Imilcar sent with Hannibal into Sicily, iii. 40, & seq. iv. 745, b. Becomes sole commander, 747, a. Defeated by the Syracusans, ibid. c, d. Intercepts their provisions in a lucky hour, 748, c, d. Horrid butchery of the Agrigentines, 749, pass. Takes Gela, 752, pass. Makes peace with Syracuse, ibid. f. & iii. 46.
- sent general against Demetrius, 50. Takes Eryx and Morya, ibid. f. And Messina, 51. Besieges Syracuse, 52, & seq. Defeated by sea and land, 54. Kills himself, 55.
- Imperator, the import of that title, v. 50, d, (O).
- Inachus, founder of the Argolic kingdom, ii. 351, & seq.
- † — metropolis of Argos, ibid. b.
- † — river, ibid. a.
- Inarus cholen king of Egypt, i. 275, b. Ill success against the Persians, ibid. c, f. Against Memphis, ibid. & seq. Dreadful end, 276, a. See also vol. ii. 131—133.
- Inense, how offered by the Jews, i. 629. The altar of, where seated, ibid. (N). The time and reason of that offering, ibid. The altar described, 656, c. 657, a, b.
- Incestuous marriages, a law against, vi. 294, b.
- Incitatus, Caligula's horse, made high-priest, v. 468, d. Extravagant honours paid to it, 469, d, c.
- Incubi, demons, whence that notion, i. 82, (N).
- Indatyrfus, king of Scythia. See Madyes and Jancyrus, ii. 283, & seq.
- † India conquered by Darius, ii. 107, c. Whether any part conquered by Trajan, vi. 22, f. Embassies to Antoninus, 56, f. Traded with the Carthaginians, 844, (Y).
- Indians, their traditions about the flood, i. 107, a, b.
- defeated by Alexander, iii. 387. Treacherously used by him, 388, b.
- Indibilis defeats the Romans, iv. 725, c, d. Defeated by Scipio, 738, d. By the proconsul, 739, f. Assists Afrubal in Spain, vii. 56, c. Gained by Scipio, 62, f. 63, c. Takes up arms against him, 71, f. Defeated, 72, a, b. Punished for a new revolt, 73, c, d.
- Indition, at Rome, what, vi. 249, b. When and by whom begun, ibid. & seq.
- Indus's success against Florus, v. 409, c, f.
- † — river, passed by Alexander, iii. 390, a.
- Indutimarus defeated and killed, v. 124, c.
- Informers prosecuted by Nerva, vi. 3, c. 10, a. By Macrinus, 130, f. 131, f. Whence called Quadruplatores, ibid. Encouraged by Maximin, 149, a. Discouraged by Diocletian, 214, b. By Constantine, 247, c. Revived by Constantius, 288, d, e. Suppressed by Theodosius, 394, b. By Gratian, 397, d. By Anastasius, 515, d, e.
- † Ingauni defeated by the Romans, iv. 758, f. Reduced, 759, f. Assisted by Mago, vii. 72, a.
- who, vii. 73, a. Assisted by Mago, ibid.
- Ingenius proclaimed emperor in Pannonia, vi. 175, b. Defeated by Gallienus, ibid.
- Ingomer's baptism and death, vii. 570, b.
- Ingratitude punished by the Persians, ii. 66, a.

Ingomerus

- Inguimerus* goes over to the Persians, v. 374, c. Defeated by the Romans, 377, c. Narrowly escapes them, 384. Bravery on a second fight, ibid. f.
- Innocence*, the state of. See Adam, i. 48, & seq.
- Innocent*, pope, sent to treat with Alaric, vi. 460, d.
- Ino*, one of the daughters of Cadmus, ii. 372. Her cruelty and fate, 391, (G).
- † Inopus, a river in Delos, iii. 231, b.
- † Insulæ tres, where, vii. 146, d.
- Inscription*, on the Egyptian pyramids, i. 184, c. A famed one on the temple of Neith at Sais, 204, d. One still extant to Isis at Capua, ibid.
- Institutes* of Justinian, vi. 530, c.
- † Insulæ frighten the Romans away, iv. 688, f. Defeated by them, 689, d, c. Subdued, 690. Made a Roman province, ibid. c. Revolt, 694, c.
- Intaphernes*, one of the seven Persian conspirators, ii. 103, & seq. Put to death by Darius, 104, b.
- † Intelene, the province of, yielded to the Romans, vi. 215, a. Where sited, ibid. c.
- Interamna* confiscated by Sylla, v. 76, d.
- Intercessio*, among the Romans, what, iv. 492, c.
- Interest* of money settled at Rome, iv. 590, b. Lowered, 595, c. Abolished, 599, a.
- Io*, the daughter of Inachus, whether ravished by the Phœnicians, ii. 318, c. Why surnamed Phoronis, 352, c.
- Joab*, David's general, i. 773, b. Defeats and kills Abner, 774, a, b. Set over all Israel for his bravery, 775, a. Succeeds against the Ammonites, 779, a, & seq. Gets Absalom recalled by a stratagem, 782, a. Treacherously murders Amasa, 787, c. Kills Absalom, 789, a. David's advice concerning him, 791, d. Put to death by Solomon, 792, d.
- Joash* preserved from Athaliah's bloody hands, i. 822, d. Crowned, 823, a. Zeal and piety, ibid. c, d. Defection, 824, c. Death, ibid. & seq.
- Joaz*, king of Israel, i. 825, f. Defeats Amashiah, 826, b.
- Joazar* made high-priest, iv. 183, c. Deposed by Archelaus, 191, f. By Cyreneus, 192, (W). Vid. & vol. v. 337, a.
- Job*, divers opinions about him, &c. i. 312. Conjectures concerning the exod, ibid. & seq.
- the book of, by whom writ, 483, b, c. Cleared from the slander of a modern critic, ibid. c. Particulars added to his history, ibid. c, f.
- † Jobab, the twelfth son of Joktan, where settled, i. 171, a.
- the son of Zerah, by some taken for patient Job, 312, a. 482, a.
- king of Madan, defeated by the Israelites, 332, c.
- Jobates* king of Lycia's behaviour to Belkerephon, ii. 339, c. 353, c.
- Jocabed*, the mother of Moses, i. 477, b. Conceals him for three months, 478, a. Brings him up for Pharaoh's daughter, ibid. c, d.
- Jocasta*, the unhappy mother and wife of Oedipus, ii. 373, & seq.
- Jobanan*, the high-priest, kills his brother, iv. 27, b. His death, 28, b.
- John the baptist*, his birth foretold, iv. 154, a. Fulfilled, 158, b, (V). Brought up among the Essenians, 173, b. His life, preaching, and testimony of Christ, 198, a, b, & (F). Imprisoned by Herod, 703. Beheaded, ibid. & seq. Josephus's character of him, 204, a, b.
- the beloved evangelist, takes the virgin Mary to his home, 240, d. Outruns Peter to the sepulchre, 244, b. Banished into Pathmos, v. 638, d. Writes his apocalypse there, ibid. &c.
- the Maccabee, killed by the Jambricans, iv. 75.
- the son of Simon, made general, 86, c. Defeats the Syrians, 88, c. Why surnamed Hyrcan, ibid. & 91. The rest see under Hyrcan, ibid. & seq.
- a pious hermit, his answer to Theodosius, vi. 422, c, d.
- Arcadius's secretary, delivered up to Gainas, 445, d. Escapes to Constantinople, ibid. c, f.
- secretary to Honorius, sent to treat with Alaric, 458, d. Affirms the purple, 476, a. Taken and beheaded, 479, d—f.
- a deacon, put to death, 486, b.
- two historians of that name, 492, sub not.
- Basilus's admiral, his bravery and death, 509, a—e.
- Zeno's general, his success against Leontius, 516, c.
- the Scythian, and the crook-backed, their bravery against the Isaurians, 519, a, d. Against the Sarmatians, 548, b, c.
- the deacon, made admiral, 550, d. Killed for his severity, ibid. c.
- Zimiscus. See Zimiscus, 553, & seq.
- Comagen. 617, & seq.
- bravery against the Vandals, vii. 528, f. Death, ibid. & seq.
- Belisarius's general, success against the Ostrogoths, 658, b. Besieged and relieved at Rimini, 659, a, b. Treachery, 660, a, b. Releases the Roman senators, 671, b. Defeated by Totila, ibid. c, e. Sent into Italy, 674. Defeats the Gothic fleet, ibid. f, & seq.
- Joiakim*, high-priest of the Jews, iv. 11, b.
- † Joktan, the son of Eber, i. 130, c. Thirteen sons given him by Moses, and thirty by the Arabians, 131, a. His descendants, where settled, 169, d. vii. 232, c.
- † Jokbeel, in Edom, whence so called, i. 316, c.
- † Jol, in Numidia, the seat of Juba, vii. 114, a, b.
- Jole*, princeps of Oehalia, stolen by Hercules, ii. 401, (K). Given to his son Hylas, ibid.
- Jolopianus*'s revolt and death, vi. 167, a.
- Ion*, the son of Xuthus, the supposed father of the Iones, ii. 345. Succeeds Selinus in Ægiale, 414, d. His death, ibid. f.
- treachery to Perseus, iii. 495, c. Where born, 108, note.
- Jonadab*'s wicked advice to Ammon, i. 781, a. The father of the Rechabites, 820, & (T).
- Jonab*'s whale described, iv. 212, (C).
- Jonathan*'s intimate friendship with David, i. 764, c. Signal victory over the Philistines, 762, a (& 359, b). Saved by the army, ibid. d. Oath of friendship with David, 767, d. Death, ibid. & seq. & 366, d.
- the brother of David, kills a son of Goliath, 357, c.
- the brother of Judas Maccabeus, succeeds him, iii. 591, & seq. iv. 75, d. Defeated at Tekoah, 76, b. Defeats a conspiracy, 77, a. Beats and makes peace with Bacchides, ibid. c, d. Made high-priest, 78, c, & (R). Sides with Alexander, 79, b. His reception at Ptolemais, ibid. & seq. Defeats Apollonius, 80, & seq. Besieges Acra, 81. In high favour with Nicator, ibid. c, (D). Joins with Antiochus, ibid. e, & seq. Repulses the Demetrians, 82. Courtied by the kings of Syria, iii. 595, b, c. His victories, 597, & seq. Betrayed by Tryphon, iv. 83. Murdered, 84. His sepulchre described, ibid. (Z).
- the son of Absalom, takes Joppa, 85.
- a Sadducee, sets Hyrcan against the Pharisees, 95, (W).
- the son of Ananus, made high-priest, 254, c. Refuses a second pontificate, 261, b. Ill used by Felix, 264, & seq.
- a Jewish impostor, his punishment, 291, a, (C).
- Iones*, the most ancient name of the Greeks, ii. 345, b.
- Jones*, Inigo, his notion about Stanchenge confused, vii. 339, & seq.
- † Jonis, part of Asia Proper, ii. 288, & seq. Described, 748. Its various fates, ibid. ad fin.
- † — Panionium, what, 761, c, & not.
- † Ionian confederacy, ii. 369. 761, & seq.
- † — faction in Sicily, 507, c. Gulf described, iii. 240, (P).
- † Ionians, their origin, ii. 345. 369. 759. Follow Nileus in quest of new settlements, 369, d. Drive the Carians, &c. out of Ephesus, 755, d. Their government, 761. Cantons, cities, &c. ibid. & seq. Seize on all the Carian women, ibid. d. Their religion, trade, &c. 762, & seq. Degeneracy, 763, d. Driven out of Achaia, 414, & seq. Retire into Attica, 415, b. Treachery to the Scythians, 285, a. Revolt from the Persians, 107. Succoured by the Athenians, 139, a. Destroyed by the Persians, ibid. & seq. Invaded by Cyrus, 763. Settle in Abdera, 764, d. Courtied by Themistocles, &c. ibid. & seq. Shake off the Persian yoke, 128, b. 765, & seq. Their various fates since, 766, ad fin. Settle in Samos, iii. 188, c. Treachery to the Chians, 210, c. Submit to Cæsar, v. 149, a.
- Ionic* sect, an account of, i. 18, a.
- † Joppa destroyed by Judas, iv. 66, b. Taken by Simon, 81, b. Described, 85, b, c. Taken by the Romans, 272, c. By Antigonus, 432, b. Retaken by Jonathan, 597, b.
- Joram*, son of Hamath, sent with presents to David, i. 390, d.
- king of Israel, confederates with Ahaziah, i. 388, a, b. Ill succeeds against Syria, ibid.
- † Jordan, river, its source, i. 578, a. 577, (S). Course, ibid. Why so called, ibid. (T). Thought to have a subterranean communication with the Nile, ibid. (X). Described, ibid. d, & seq. How crossed by the Israelites, 552, c, &c. Two monuments of that miraculous passage, 554, b.
- † Jorham founds the kingdom of Hejaz, i. 131. Where sited, ibid. b.
- † Joria, the region of, where sited, iii. 257, b.
- Jornandes* confounds the Dacians and Goths, v. 677, b. His account of the Dacian war, ibid. & seq.
- Joseph* born to Jacob, i. 442. Why his darling, 443, c, & not. Hated by his brethren, 449, a. His two dreams, ibid. b, &c. Sold into Egypt, 450, a. Imprisoned for his continence, ibid. c, d. Interprets the butler and baker's dreams, 452. And those of Pharaoh, ibid. & seq. Raised by him, 452. Marries Potiphera's daughter, ibid. & seq. Rough behaviour to his ten brethren, 454, & seq. Stratagem on his brother Benjamin, 456. Sends for his father, 457, a, & seq. Buys all the lands of Egypt for Pharaoh, 459. Settles one fifth part on him, 460, b, c. Presents his two sons to dying Jacob, ibid. & seq. Receives his blessing from him, 465, a, b. Sumptuous funeral of him, 467, a—c. Kindness to his brethren after it, ibid. c, d. Last prophetic speech to them, ibid. & seq. His death, ibid. c. Rabbinic

- Rabbinic additions to his history, ibid. (W). His bones carried out of Egypt, 502, d.
- Jeseph, a noble Jewish youth, saves his nation, ibid. 640. Farms the revenue of Cæsarea, 641, iv. 41, & seq. His success in Egypt, 42, a. Progeny, ibid. c.
- the Maccabee left governor of Jerusalem, 64, a. Defeated by Georgias, ibid. d.
- the third son of Antipater, 118, (H). Left with the care of Herod's family, 125, c. Besieged in Massada, 127, b. Defeated and killed, 129, c.
- Herod's uncle's fatal indiscretion, 135, a. Put to death, ibid. d.
- the spouse of the virgin Mary, his genealogy, 155, a, & (Q). Death, 193, (X).
- of Arimathea, buries the body of Christ, 242, c.
- the son of Canni made high-priest, 263, c.
- his treachery to Nicæphorus, vi. 582, a. Banished, 583, b.
- refuses to submit to the pope, 635, a. Banished, ibid. b.
- Jesephus, the Jewish historian, censured for differing from the book of the Maccabees, iv. 88, (G). 89, (I). Another error of his corrected, 93, (R). His testimony of Christ discussed, 248, (E). Releases some Jewish priests at Rome, 265, in fin. (F). Made governor of Galilee, 270, c. His brave defence of Jotapa, 271, b. Surrender, ibid. e, & (R). Speech to Vespasian, ibid. d. Promotion, 278, a, (F). Sent with offers of peace to the Jews, 280, c. Speech to the besieged, 281, c. Wounded by them, 283. Suspected by the Romans, ibid. (R). Beloved by Titus, ibid. & seq.
- Ben-gurion, made governor of Jerusalem, iv. 270, d.
- a fabulous one trumped up by the Jews against the historian, 292, b.
- Jotham, one of those who searched the land of Canaan, i. 526, a. His good report of it, ibid. c. Deputed to fight against Amalek, 511, c, d. Defeats them, 512, a. Solemnly appointed Moses's successor, 537, d. How far inferior to him and other prophets, ibid. (C). Enters Canaan in the ninety-third year of his age, 551, b, c. Sends two spies to Jericho, ibid. d. Proclaims his passage over Jordan, 553. Encouraged by the divine appearance, 555, a. His miraculous taking of Jericho, ibid. & seq. Prophetic anathema on the rebuilders of it, 556, a, b. Punishes Achan's sacrilege, ibid. c, (E). Causes the sun to stand still, 558. Some authors notion of that transaction examined, 559, & seq. Defeats the confederate Canaanites, 562, f. Conquers and divides the land by lot, 560, & seq. His death, 578, a.
- Jothab, king of Judah, miraculously foretold, i. 841, c. His good reign, ibid. & seq. And total reformation, 842, b—d. Repairs the temple, 843, b. The book of the law found in his reign, ibid. c. Keeps a grand passover, 844, c, d. Mortally wounded, 845, b. Dies at Jerusalem, ibid. c.
- † Jotapa taken by the Romans, iv. 271, e, (Q).
- † Jotbam, an old tribe of Arabs, vii. 243, d.
- Jothan, the only son of Gideon, that escapes the massacre, i. 747. His excellent apologue against Abimelech, ibid. c, d. The antientest piece of that kind, ibid. not. Flees to Beer, 749.
- succeeds Azariah in Judah, i. 830, a. Dies after a glorious reign, ibid. c.
- Jou, Jouis, the Gaulish name of Jupiter, vii. 353, c, (L).
- † Jougous, mountain, its poisonous weed, iii. 251, d.
- † Joviani, who, vi. 347, a.
- Jovianus sent into Pannonia, vi. 313, d. Proclaimed, 340, a. His excellent character, ibid. b, c. Zeal for christianity, 341, a, b. Disadvantageous peace with Persia justified, ibid. & seq. Faithfulness vindicated, 342, d, e. Repasses the Tigris, ibid. f. Edict in favour of christianity, 343, & seq. Of orthodoxy, 344, d, e. Death, 345, d. Whether natural or violent, ibid. e, f.
- Jovinus sent into Pannonia, vi. 313, d. Into Gaul, 345, b, c. Success and bravery there, 351, a—c. Signal piety, ibid. e, f. Different from the consul of that name, 352, a. Sent into Britain, 353, b (vol. vii. 435, d. 533, b, c). Against the Alemans, 354. Takes the purple, 467, a. His extract and character, ibid. c. Falls out with Ataulphus, ibid. & seq. Put to death, ibid. & seq. 349, f, & seq.
- Jovius made prime minister to Honorius, vi. 460, b, c. Interview with Alaric, ibid. c. Swears perpetual war against him, ibid. & seq. Sent to treat with Attalus, 461, c. Treachery to Honorius, ibid. & seq.
- Journandes's fabulous account of the Huns, vii. 458, b, c.
- Jpbicles, the philosopher, informs against Probus, vi. 363, c, d.
- Jpbicrates, the Athenian, his character, ii. 537, b. Succeeds Thrasybulus against Rhodes, 538. Commands the auxiliaries against Egypt, 147, c. Falsely accused by the Persian general, 148, f. 541, a. Acquitted, ibid. b. Raises the siege of Corinth, 613, a.
- his friendship to Perdiccas, iii. 286, d.
- Jpbidamus, the son of Antenor, killed, ii. 315, b.
- Jpbigenia, the fable of, probably from Jephtha's sacrifice, i. 751, (O). Worshipped by the Taurian Scythians, ii. 278, a.
- Jpbimedia carried off by the Naxians, iii. 220, d.
- Jpbitus, prince of Oebalia, killed by Hercules, ii. 400, c.
- king of Elis, restores the Olympic games, 409, b.
- Vol. VII. No. 11.
- Irege, king of Persia, according to oriental writers, ii. 181, c. Murdered by his two brothers, 182, b.
- † Irem, the famed garden and city of, vii. 242, a.
- Irene converted, and married to Constantius, vi. 554, b. Disgraced for her devotion to images, 557, a. Takes the reins during her son's minority, ibid. c. Allies with Charles of France, ibid. d. Breaks off, and marries her son to Maria, ibid. e, f. Stripped of her power, 558, b. Restored, ibid. d. Undermines her son, 559, a—c. Causes him to be murdered, ibid. d. Enters Constantinople in triumph, ibid. e. Her popularity, ibid. f, & seq. Courtied by Charles the great, 560, a, b. Deposed and confined, ibid. c, d. Her death, ibid. e.
- encourages Alexius to regain the empire, 625, b—d.
- Irenæus pleads Antipater's cause before the senate, iv. 186, & seq.
- bishop, martyred, vii. 403, c.
- Irens, in Sparta, their office, ii. 563, d.
- † Iris, a river in Pontus, described, iii. 720, d. 722, c.
- Irom, king of Tyre, i. 417, c.
- Iron, the melting of, where first found out, iii. 162, b.
- Isaac born, i. 429, d. Why so called, 427, (Q). Mocked by Ishmael, 430, a.
- his age, when offered up by Abraham, 431, b. Marries Rebecca, 433, d. His two sons by her, 437, a. Goes to Gerar, 438, b. Covenant with the people, ibid. d. Over-reached by Jacob, 439, b. Blesses Elau, 440, a. His death and burial, 448, d.
- Comnenus, seizes upon Cyprus, vi. 622, a. His cruelties there, ibid. b. Defeats Angelus's fleet, 623, c.
- Angelus's narrow escape, 622. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. d. Severity to Andronicus, ibid. e, f. Success in Sicily, 623, a. Vain attempt on Cyprus, ibid. c. Treachery to Barbarossa, ibid. f, & seq. Forced to submit to him, 624, b—d. Defeated by the Scythians, ibid. e. Loses his eyes and liberty, ibid. & seq. Released, 626, b, c. His death, ibid. e.
- Isaïenses protect Firmus, vi. 366, e.
- Isagoras, head of the Athenian faction, ii. 466, d. Assisted by the Spartans, ibid. & seq.
- Isaiah, the prophet, heartens the king of Judah, i. 831, a. His prophecy of a virgin's conceiving, ibid. Turns back the shadow, to confirm Hezekiah, 838, c. That transaction discussed, ibid. (T). His prophecies concerning Christ, explained, iv. 157, a, & notes.
- † Isantus, a king of the Crobyzi, iii. 794, b.
- Isarna, a Bathian prince, vii. 492, d.
- † Isaur taken by Servitius, v. 95, a. Where situate, ibid. (I).
- † Isaurians, their desperate defence, iii. 420, c. Revolt and bravery, vi. 182, e, & seq. Reduced by Probus, 201, b. By Gallus, 289, c. Stripped of their plunder, and forced to submit, 370, c, d. Ravage several provinces, 451, e, f. Banished out of Constantinople, 518, e. New revolt, ibid. f. Defeated, 519, a. Maintain a six years war, ibid. d. Forsake their country, ibid. e, f.
- † Isca, Ufa, a Roman garrison, vii. 411, b. The antiquities of, ibid. c.
- Isdigerd I. king of Persia, according to oriental writers, iv. 382. Why surnamed the wicked, ibid. Sends his child to Arabia, ibid. e. Killed by a sea horse, ibid. f.
- II. his excellent character, 383, & seq. Expedition against the Greeks, 386, b.
- Isdigerdes, Isdegerdes, the Isdigerd of the oriental writers, iv. 403. His character, 338, b. Made guardian of Theodosius, ibid. c, (N). A favourer of the christians, 339. His genealogy according to oriental writers, 403. Invaded by Omar, 404. Defeated and killed, 405, b—c.
- the last king of the Persians, ibid. & seq. & (M).
- Isdegerdes, king of Persia, persecutes the christians, vi. 442, b. Whether left guardian of Arcadius's children, 459, c, d.
- Isbibenoth, the son of Goliath, very near killing David, i. 357, b.
- Isboseth proclaimed king of Israel, i. 773, a. Barbarously murdered, 774.
- Ishmael born, i. 426. Why so called, ibid. (L). The prophecy of his descendants verified in the Arabs, ibid. (M). Sent away with his mother, 430, a, b.
- the murderer of Gedaliah and his Chaldeans, 851, b.
- made high-priest, iv. 194, b.
- the successor of Ananias, 265. Deposed for his zeal, 226, d.
- outwitted by Manuel, vi. 568, d. Fury against Theophilus, 569, e.
- † Ishmaelites, who, and where sited, vii. 226, d.
- Isidorus, Cains Cæcil, his immense wealth, v. 325, f, & seq.
- raises a revolt in Egypt, vi. 69, f.
- the supposed forger of Constantine's grant, 248, d, e.
- † Isis of the Egyptians, the same with the moon, i. 13, c. And Osiris, the chief deities of Egypt, 204, a. How represented, 205, d. Her festival solemnly celebrated, 207, a. Why called the goddess of health, 218, e. The supposed daughter of Mercury, 241, d. Her history, ibid. & seq.
- † — stately temple at Busris, 245, d. Its ruins described, ibid. (C).
- 10 A
- † Island,

- † Island, sacred, or holy, how formed, iv. 470, d.
† Ismenus, river, in Boeotia, ii. 370, c.
† Isocrates's orations to Nicocles, iii. 181, c.
† Isphahan, a city in Parthia, iv. 289, c.
† Ispara, a deity among the Malabarians, i. 33, d.
† Ispar, the first principle among them, ibid. c.
† Ispendyar defeats the king of Touran, ii. 219, b. Takes and kills him by an odd stratagem, 220, c. Killed in single combat by Rustan, 221, a.
† Israelites. See Jews, i. 421, & seq.
— blended with the Jews, iv. 2, c. 4, (F).
† Israelitish kingdom ended, i. 835.
† Issa, or Amiffa, a city in Lesbos, iii. 203, & seq. Besieged by the Illyrians, iv. 685. Taken by the Romans, 686, a.
† Issachar, born of Leah, i. 442, a. Jacob's prophetic blessing to him, 463, b, & (K).
† Ister, river, in Numidia, vii. 116, c.
† Iusus, a city in Cilicia Proper, ii. 351, c.
— the gulph of, ibid.
— the battle of, iii. 335, & seq. 440, & seq.
— won by Severus, vi. 109, c.
† Istacbe, in Persia, the same with Chilminar, ii. 226, c.
† Ister, the ancient name of the Danube, ii. 266, 268.
† Istbian games, their origin, &c. ii. 391, (G).
† Isthotis, part of Thessaly, ii. 381, a.
† Itria conquered by the Romans, iv. 690, c.
† Istrians subdued, iv. 360, c.
† Istrum Brigantium, where sited, vii. 412, b.
† Itabyr, mount, described, iv. 272, (W).
† Itaca, the ancient name of Utica, whence, vi. 665, d.
— island, described, iii. 241, f.
† Italian allies, their representation to the senate, v. 47, d. Somewhat cooled by the Julian law, 51, b. Made into a new tribe, ibid. f. Cared for by Sulpicius, 53, c.
† Italicus, made king of the Cherusci, v. 501, a.
— king of Suevia, declares for Vespasian, 623, b.
— Silius, the poet, his writings and character, 693, sub not.
† Italy, whence so called, iv. 407, b. Described, ibid. & seq. Its division, 408.
— Propria, its territories, iv. 410, & seq. Chief rivers, 413, b. Mountains, ibid. c, d. Ancient inhabitants, 414, & seq. Whence called Italy, 417. Visited with the plague, 561, & seq. Invaded by the Gauls, ibid. & seq. Second invasion, 581. The rest see sub Gauls.
— divided into two republics, v. 48, f, & seq. Into regions by Augustus, 328. And in the map. Greatly oppressed by the army, 614, d. Relieved by Vitellius, 616, d, e. Divided between him and Vespasian, 629, d.
— invaded by the Marcomani, vi. 68. Ruined by Diocletian, 210, a. Ravaged by the Goths, 449, b, c. Freed from them, 451, a. Invaded by Rhadagaisus, 452, b, c. Subdued by Odoacer, 514, a, b. By Theodoric, 516, c, f. By the Lombards, 532, pass. Peopled by the Celtes, vii. 323, d, (E). Ravaged by Attila, 478, & seq.
— the district of, its provinces, 270, & seq.
† Ithamas Portus, where sited, vii. 234, b.
† Ithobal, son of the chief priest of Astarte, seizes on the Tyrian kingdom, i. 415, c. Called Ethbaal in scripture, ibid. Gives his daughter Jezebel to Ahab, ibid. d.
— II. king of Tyre, 416. Slain by Nabuchadnezzar, 417, a, b.
† Ithome, built and fortified, ii. 572. Taken by the Spartans, 576, a. Seized by the Helotes, 595, c.
† Ilius Portus, where, vii. 424, (C).
† Iturea given to Herod, iv. 143, b, & (W).
† Itureans, why so called, iv. 97, (B). Forced to circumcise, ibid. a. Where sited, vii. 229, a.
† Iturius, the accuser of Agrippina, banished, v. 524, a—d.
† Juba comes to Cato at Utica, v. 157, a. Affronted and defeated by Cæsar, 160, e (vii. 135, & seq.). Killed, ibid. vii. 137, b, & (W), (X). Hath Mauritania given to him, 157, b. His education at Rome, ibid. (R). Learning and works, ibid.
— invaded by Bogud, 165, c.
— the young son of Juba, led in triumph, 167, e. His education and learning, ibid. & (O). Marries young Cleopatra, 294, b.
† Jubilee year of the Jews, i. 614, a. Why so called, ibid. & (O). When begun, 615. When first celebrated in Canaan, ibid. b, c. Whether on the forty-ninth or fiftieth year, 616, b, c. Why and how celebrated, 617, b, c.
† Jubones hurt by subterranean fires, v. 529, d. Their mad way of extinguishing them, ibid. c.
† Jucatan, the province of, whence so called, i. 169, c.
† Judea, whence so called, i. 567. Seized on by Antigonus, iii. 432. By Ptolemy, ibid. f. Recovered by the former, 433, e, f. By the latter, 440, d. By Antiochus, 537, f. By Philopater, 538, e, f. By Antiochus, 543, d, e. How it came to continue under Seleucus, 571, c, d. Wasted by Antiochus, 580, & seq.
— its forlorn state after the captivity, iv. 1, & seq. Made a province of Syria, 27, a. Under the government of high-priests, ibid. & seq. Alternately oppressed by Syria and Egypt, 30, 35, a, b. Polluted and deserted, 53, & seq. Restored by Judas Maccabeus, 58, & seq. Invaded by Lyfias, 63, b. By Bacchides, 70, b. Freed by Jonathan, 83, c. Subdued by Pompey, 111, & seq. Deeply taxed by Cassius, 121, b. Visited by pestilence and famine, 142. Laid waste by several factions, 188, & seq. Made a Roman province, 268, d. Infested with scarii, 264. Filled with slaughter, &c. 268, ad fin. cap. See also vol. v. 218, c. 336, & seq.
† Judab born of Leah, i. 441, c. Persuades his brethren to sell Joseph, 449, d. His sons by a Canaanitish woman, 450. Outwitted by his daughter-in-law, 452, b, c. Jacob's prophetic blessing to him explained, ibid. & (G).
† — his lot in the promised land, 569.
— the tribe of, ordered to begin the war with the Canaanites, 738, d. Defeated by that of Benjamin, 741. Defeats it with great loss, ibid. &c.
† — the wilderness of, 575.
† Judalicius's success against the Romans, v. 50, b. Bravery and death at Asculum, 51, c.
† Judas Maccabeus succeeds his father, iv. 57, & seq. Defeats the Syrians, 58, a, b. 99, c—e. And Lyfias, 60, & (T). Restores the divine worship, 61, pass. Defeats the Idumeans, 63, b, c. Vast success in Gilead, 64, b, c. And Idumea, &c. ibid. & seq. Makes peace with Syria, 65, c. Defeats Timotheus, 66, & seq. Returns victorious, 68, a, (H). Offers sacrifices for the slain Jews, ibid. d, (I). Forces Antiochus to a peace, 69, c. Defeats Alcimus, 71, a. Escapes Nicator's treachery, 72, c, d. Defeats and kills him, 73, d, e. Allies with Rome, ibid. & seq. How styled high-priest by the Romans, 74, (L). Defeated and killed, ibid. & seq.
— the brave son of Simon sent against Cendebeus, 88, b.
— an Essenian prophet, foretells Antigonus's death, 97, (C).
— Gallileus, head of the Gaulonitish faction, 169. Raises an insurrection, 202, & seq.
— a doctor, raises a revolt against Herod, 182, c. Burnt alive, 183, e. The son of Hezekias, raises a new sedition, 188, c. Supposed the Theudas mentioned by St. Luke, ibid. d, & (S).
— al. Jude, chosen an apostle, 208, (T).
— Isariet, one of the twelve apostles, 208, (T). Why so called, ibid. in fin. mot. Why chosen into the college, 216, (I). His avarice reprov'd, 277, d. His repentment at it, ibid. e, & 232, b, (I). Sells his master, 233. Betrays him, 234, b. His remorse and kind of death, 236, a, (S).
† Jvillus, river, in Dammonia, vii. 407, d.
† Judges and courts of judicature, among the Jews, i. 670, a. Qualities required in them, ibid. Held at the gates of the cities, ibid. b. Laws relating to them, 669, b. Rabbinic traditions concerning them, 671, (Y).
— Constantine's laws concerning them, vi. 256, d, e.
† Judgment, the day of, described by Christ, iv. 233, b.
† Judith, Esau's first wife, why also called Adab, i. 441, (X).
— frees her country by murdering Holofernes, 901, c.
— What credit may be given to her history, ibid. (Y).
† Jugæus, king of Babylon, i. 945, c.
† Jugurtha's arrival at Scipio's camp, iv. 786, a.
— his descent, v. 6, a. Seizes on the Numidian crown, ibid. c. Bribes the Roman senate, 7, b. Treachery and cruelty to Adherbal, ibid. & seq. 8, f. Summoned to Rome, 11, a, b. Escapes by bribery, ibid. & seq. Biting farewell to that city, 12, a. Over-reaches Albinus, 12, b. And Aulus, 13, b. Makes the Romans pale under the yoke, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Metellus, 14, f. By Marius, 16, a. Outwitted by Metellus, ibid. e, f. Defeated, 20, b, c. 24, b, c. Gives Sylla a free passage, 25, e. Betrayed by Bocchus, 26, & seq. Sent in chains to Rome, 27, b. His dominions, how divided, 28, a, b. Led in triumph, 30, b. His sad end, ibid. d. See also vol. vii. 127—134.
† Jubones, who, and where sited, vii. [407], d.
† Julia, married to Pompey, v. 114, a. Her death and funeral honours, 124, a.
— Antony's mother's brave speech to him, 226, e, d.
— Octavian's daughter betrothed to Antyllus, 277, f. Intrigues with Antony's son, 294, b. Her incontinence, 324, e, f. 326, c. Banished into an island, ibid. d, e. Removed to the continent, 333, d. Her sad end, 358, a, (M).
— the true daughter of the former, banished for the same crimes, 326, pass. Her death, 335, b.
— sister to Brutus, her death and funeral honours, 424, d.
— the wife of Nero, betrays him to Sejanus, 340, & seq. Married to R. Blandus, 449, b. Put to death, 496, c.
— daughter of Germanicus, married to Vinicius, 437, (N). 446, c. Honoured by Caligula, 460, c, d. The same with Livilla, ibid. (I). Banished for her lewdness, 475, e, (T). Re-called and re-banished, 493, b. Put to death, 496, c.
— Septimius Severus's wife, her lewd character, vi. 104, f. Studies philosophy, ibid. & seq. Prevents her son's reconciliation, 122, d, e. Wounded at Geta's murder, ibid. f. In favour with Caracalla, ibid. & seq. 128, d. Starves herself to death, 130, c.
— Mamæa, the mother of Alexander, 137, b. 138, a. Supposed to have been a christian, ibid. b. Her excellent education of her son, ibid. c. High sway and titles, ibid. e, f. Murdered in Germany, 145, f. Deified by the senate, 146, a.

Julian the apostate, his judgment of M. Aurelius, vi. 78, d, e. 81, a, b. Of Porphyry, 223, & seq. sub not. His birth, 226, f. Partiality against Constantine refuted, 266, d. 269, a, & seq. Saved by Eukbia, 293, e, f. Declared Cæsar, 296, e. Success in Gaul, 297, & seq. Noble defence at Sens, 298, d, e. Success against the barbarians, 300, c, d. 301, c. Against the Franks, 302, c. And Alemans, 305, a. Stripped of his best forces, 308, & seq. Proclaimed emperor, 309, e, f. Accepts the empire after having used some witcheries, 310, a—c. Generosity to Constantius's friends, ibid. d, e. How raised to the empire, ibid. & seq. Submissive deputation to Constantius, 311, b—d. Success in Germany, 312, a, b. Imposes on the christians, ibid. c, d. Swears his army to him, 113, a. Letters to Athens, ibid. b, c. Marches against Constantius, ibid. d. Seizes Illyricum, ibid. e. Funeral obsequies of Constantius, 314, e, f. His extract, education, and character, 319, & seq. Abode in Ionia, 320, c. Singular hypocrisy, ibid. d, e. Studies magic, 321. Abode at Athens, ibid. & seq. Cæsarship and behaviour in Gaul, 322, e, f. Writings, ibid. & seq. Frugality, 323, b, c. Reduction of taxes, ibid. e, f. Apostatizes, 324, a, b. Public entry into Constantinople, ibid. d, e. Severe persecutions, 325, pass. Reforms the court, ibid. e, f. Which he fills with philosophers, magicians, &c. 326, a, b. And women, ibid. c, d. His meanness to the senate, ibid. & seq. Partial justice at Antioch, 327, a—f. Horrid cruelties and witchcrafts, 328, a, b. Pursued by famine, ibid. c. His idolatry, &c. lampooned by the Antiochians, ibid. d, e. Writes his Misopogon against them, ibid. & seq. Renews the Persian war, 329, b, c. (See also vol. iv. 335, & seq.) Deluded by oracles, ibid. d. Sharply reproved for his apostasy at Beroa, 330, b, c. His hellish superstition at Carrhæ, ibid. & seq. Ill treatment of Arfaces, 331, b, c. Success in Persia, ibid. & seq. Passes the Tigris, 333, a. Betrayed by Persian guides, ibid. c, d. Burns his fleet, and retreats, ibid. d, e. In great distress, ibid. f. Surprised by the Persian army, 334, a. Wounded, ibid. c. Last speech, ibid. e, f. Death, 335, a. Buried at Tarsus, ibid. b. Removed to Constantinople, ibid. c. His motley character, ibid. & seq. Hatred to the christians, 337, a, b. Vain attempt to rebuild the temple of Jerusalem, ibid. c. Writings, ibid. (H), (I). Laws against christians repealed, 346, b.

—the son of Constantine besieged, 446, e. Beheaded, 467, b.

—a friend of Constantius unjustly condemned, 327, e.

Julian law, what, v. 51, b.

Julianus Claudius's treachery to Vitellius, v. 630, b. Scourged, and put to death by Lucius, 632, e.

—Tertius, broke for defection, 644, f. Restored, 645, d.

—Antonius, an account of his writings, 707, sub not.

—Salvius, publishes his perpetual edict, vi. 37.

—his grandson, put to death by Commodus, 88, c, d.

—captain of the guards, put to death, 91, a—c.

—Did. Sever. buys the empire of the soldiery, 99, e, f. His rise and pedigree, 100, a—c. Character, names, &c. ibid. e, f. Acknowledged by the senate, 101, pass. Cursed and pelted by the people, ibid. d, e. Opposed by two powerful rivals, 105, & seq. Cruelty and despair, ibid. & seq. Forsaken and proscribed, 106, b, c. His death, &c. ibid. d, e.

—M. Aurel. proclaims himself emperor, 209, d. Stabs himself, 211.

—Rufinus, a cast-off candidate for the empire, 352, b.

—made prince of Apites, 18, c.

—Paulus, his writings and character, 59, sub not.

—Didius, made proconsul of Africa, vi. 92, c.

—Solin. Polybistor, his writings and character, 121, sub not.

—Titianus, his writings, &c. ibid.

—Martialis, conspires against Caracalla, 128, e. Stabs him, and is killed, ibid. f.

—governor of Asia, destroys the Goths there, 388.

—chosen decemvir and dictator, iv. 592.

† Julius, by whom built, iv. 195, a.

† Julio-polis. See Tarsus, ii. 341, a.

† Julis, the famous ruins of, ii. 217, e. Its worthies, ibid. & (U).

Julius Sext. speech to the Achæans, ii. 693, c. Outwitted by Critolaus, 694, b.

—Cæsar. Vid. Cæsar, v. 43, & seq.

—Morinus, put to death, 445, c.

Iulus, Ascanius why so called, iv. 420, (G).

—his son's contest with Sylvius, 421, c.

June, the month of, changed, v. 560, c.

Junia draws Brutus into a conspiracy, v. 179, d.

—the sister of Silanus banished, 506, a.

Junius, M. put to death by Tarquin, iv. 460, b.

—Pera, chosen dictator against Hannibal, 713, c.

—Brutus settles a colony in Spain, 184, c.

—Silanus, saved by a slave, v. 226, f. Returns to Rome, 273, c.

—Priscus, put to death, 472, c.

—Palmatus's success in Armenia, vi. 140, c.

Juno, Jupiter's queen, ii. 262, a. How worshipped at Argos, 705, note.

† —her famed temple at Samos, iii. 187, c. Worshipped at Carthage, vi. 686, pass.

† Junonia, island, described, vii. 148.

Jupiter, or Ammon, one of the Egyptian deities, i. 205, c. Principally worshipped at Thebes, 207, c. By the Celtes ii. 251, c. His birth concealed by his mother, 260. His other names, 261, & notes. Dethrones his father, ibid. Wars with his uncle Titan, ibid. & seq. Divides his empire, 262, & seq. Deflowers his niece Maia, 263. Has Mercury by her, ibid. His death and sepulchre, ibid. & seq. Challenged by the Scythians as their progenitor, 283, e. His statue and temple at Cyzicum, 324, a.

Jupiter, one of the Titans, iii. 163. Where brought up, ibid. c. By whom nursed, 165, b, & (K).

—his statue set up in Solomon's temple, iv. 52, d. In that of the Samaritans, ibid. c.

—Imperator, his statue brought from Præneste, 576, e.

—temple at Rome burnt, v. 548, a. Worshipped at Carthage, vi. 687, a. Why so named, ibid. (T). When that title ceased, 220, b. When first worshipped in Gaul, vii. 349, d, & seq. & (D). That name not adopted there, 353, c. How worshipped, ibid. & seq. In Germany, [419], a, b. By the Garamantes, 266, c, (F). By the Arabs, 249, b.

Juba, the daughter of Valentinian, turns nun, vi. 352, 420, f.

Justin Martyr's account of the Septuagint version, iv. 38, sub —his sarcasm on the heathen idolatry, vi. 38, e. Presents his apology to Antoninus, 58, e.

—the abridger of Trogus, his character, 59, (E). Different from the martyr, ibid.

—the emperor proclaimed, 522, e. His rise and character, ibid. & seq. Conspired against, 523, a. Rejects Cabades's proposals, ibid. c, d. His edict against the Arians, ibid. e. Death, &c. 524, a. Piety to the destroyed cities, ibid. f.

—nephew of Justinian proclaimed, 531, d. Incensed against the Avars, ibid. e. Cruelty to Justin, ibid. f. Protects the Persianmenians, 532. Runs mad, ibid. e. His death and character, 533, b.

Justin's great sway over Valentinian II. vi. 403, a. Favours the Arians, ibid. b. Persecutes the orthodox, 406, d, e. Her death, 414, c.

—the wife of Valentinian, vi. 346, f. Her issue, 352, e. Goes with him into Illyricum, 362, f.

Justinian chosen consul, vi. 523, b. Copartner with Justin, 524, a. Succeeds him, ibid. c. Proposals of peace rejected by the Persians, 525, c. Stratagem against them, ibid. d, e. Peace with them, ibid. f. Insulted at Constantinople, 526, a. Fatal jealousy of Belisarius, ibid. e. Fresh peace with Persia, 527, b. Truce, ibid. f. Wars with the Ostrogoths, vii. 651, & seq. 653, & seq. Conspired against, 530, a. His death and character, ibid. b. Code, &c. ibid. & seq.

—the kinsman of Justin, his success against the Persians, 533, b. Disgraced, ibid. c.

—II. chosen emperor, vi. 546, f. Ill success against the Bulgarians, 547, a. Breaks the peace with the Saracens, ibid. b. Defeated by them, ibid. c. Bloody revenge on the Selavi, ibid. d. His massacre of the Constantinopolitans prevented, ibid. e. Deposed, 548, a. Defaced and banished, ibid. b. Flees to Chazari, ibid. e. To the Bulgarians, ibid. f. An instance of his unforgiving temper, 549, a. Restored to his crown, ibid. b. Cruelties and ingratitude, ibid. c. Defeated by the Bulgarians, ibid. d. Horrid barbarities, ibid. e. Taken prisoner, and beheaded, ibid. f.

Justinian code, compiled and published, vi. 484, b, c.

Justinianus's brave defence of Constantinople, vi. 650, f. Death, 653, a.

† Jutbongi revolt, vi. 201, d. Invade Rhætia, 303, d. Settled in Thrace, 529, a. Defeated by Aëtius, vi. 481, e. vii. 543.

† Jutes, their origin, vii. 440, & seq. Why called Giotæ, 441, d.

† Jutland, conquered by the Goths, vii. 489, c.

Juvenal, the satirist, an account of, v. 692, sub not.

Juvenales, games instituted by Nero, v. 535, c.

Juvenius's writings and character, vi. 275, sub not.

Juventius, sent against Andriacus, iii. 504, a. Defeated and killed, ibid. b, c.

—Thalma, defeated, iv. 774, c.

Isares, prince of Adiabene, preferred before his brother, iii. 849. Is circumcised, 850. Invaded by Abias, ibid. d. By the Vologeses, ibid. e. His deliverance and death, ibid. f. Character, 851, a, b. Tomb at Jerusalem, ibid. c. Friendship to Artabanus, iv. 316, b, c.

Ized, the son of Mahuvias, wastes Phrygia, vi. 545, b. Ravages Sardinia, ibid. c.

—Mualbis revolts in Persia, 552, b.

Izeth repulled before Constantinople, vi. 551, c, d.

K

K A B U Z, king of Egypt, whether the Pharaoh of Moses, i. 281, b.

† Kadesb, in the wilderness of Zin, i. 531, b. vii. 227, d.

† Kadmonites, where seated, i. 324, (E).

† Kaer Went, the famed ruins of, vii. 411, b.

† —Leion, ibid.

† Philcastel, ibid. c.

† —Gourtigern, consumed by lightning, 445, d. Kaianites,

- † Kaianites, the dynasty of, in Persia, ii. 174.
Kalendar, when rectified in Persia, ii. 178, a. At Rome by Numa, iv. 437, d. By Cæsar, how, v. 170, & seq. & (R).
Kasb, a smith, seizes on the Persian throne, ii. 180, & seq.
Kapboretb, mercy-seat, whence that word, i. 654, (T).
Karaites, who, and whence so called, iv. 173, & seq. & (F, G).
 When separated from the rest, 175, & seq. & (I), (K).
 Why hated by the Jews, 177, & seq. & (L), (O).
† Karak, whether the ancient Petra, vii. 226, b.
† Kariorb, a city in Arabia Petrea, vii. 226, b.
† Kasban, a city in Parthia, iv. 289, c.
Kathan, the same with Joktan, vii. 244, a. His reign and progeny, ibid. (O), & 267, b.
† Kaulin's success against Ethelbert, vii. 451, b. 452, e, f.
† Kedareni, antient inhabitants of Petrea, vii. 226, d. 229, a, b.
Kegenes's reception at Constantinople, vi. 600, b.
Kekeli, the first introducer of magic, i. 280.
† Kenites descended from Jethro, i. 302, a. Join the Israelites, ibid. a. Why spared by Saul, ibid. c.
 — another tribe of them, 324, (E).
† Kent inhabited by the Jutes, vii. 441, e. Seized on by Hengist, 443, d. Becomes a Saxon kingdom, ibid. & seq.
Keykaut, king of Persia, whether the Nimrod of Moses, ii. 191, & seq.
Keykaut said to have conversed with Samuel, ii. 190, & seq.
Keyomar, king of Persia, ii. 175.
† Kbabaab, the Arab tribe of, whence, vii. 277, c.
† Kibrah-Haravab, whence so called, i. 526, a.
Kibe, Kut, founds a monarchy in Egypt, i. 479.
† Kilan, a fruitful province of Persia, ii. 31, (I).
Kingdoms, their establishment, i. 171, b. Small at first, ibid. c, d.
Kings, their beginning tyrannical, i. 667, b. Their power, &c. ibid. & seq. Attire, 668, a.
† Kinnereth, the sea of, described, i. 577, b.
† Kir-barasbetb, capital of Moab, i. 292, a.
† Kittim, where seated, i. 168, f. iv. 417, b—e.
Kiun, conjectures on that idol, vi. 682, (P).
Kiwelunga, worshipped by the Malabarians, i. 33, d.
† Kiz, island, where, vii. 235, d.
Knights, Roman, when first instituted, iv. 432. Four hundred degraded, 668, c. Made judges in private causes, 802. Punished for extortion, v. 45, c. Contest against the senate, 47, e. Stripped of their jurisdiction, 51, c. One thousand six hundred proscribed by Scylla, 75, e. Butchered by Catiline, ibid. f, & seq. Total of them, 82. Courtied by Cæsar, 114, b. Two thousand proscribed by the Triumvirs, 225, c. Petition against marriage, 337, e. Their power revived by Claudius, 515. Forbid the gladiatorial trade, 615. Why hated by Domitian, 681, pass. When first used for secretaries, vi. 47, d.
Kobab, head of a class of Levites, i. 633, b.
† Kolzum, a city in Arabia Petrea, vii. 227, c.
Korab, head of a class of Levites, i. 529, a. His conspiracy and dreadful end, ibid. & seq. & (M).
† Korish, the Arab tribe of, seize on the Cabaa, vii. 277, d.
† Kesh, Cush, from whom so named, vii. 205, c.
 — a famed Arab orator, 258.
† Krim, Crim, the peninsula of, iii. 841, b.
† Kuareim, the province of, where, &c. ii. 197, b.
† Kur, a river of Georgia, iii. 839, d.
- L
- L ABAN's reception of Jacob, i. 440, e. Cheats and oppresses him, ibid. & seq. Pursues him in his flight, 444, &c. Strife and parting with him, ibid. & seq.
Labaris, buried in Arsinoe's Labyrinth, i. 230, (K).
Labarum, Constantine's standard, how carried, vi. 242, e, f.
Labdacus, king of Thebes, ii. 372, & seq.
Labes's treachery to Metellus, iv. 798, b.
Labienus commands the Parthians, iv. 307, c. Conquests in Syria, ibid. d. Defeat and death, 308, a, b.
 — success in Belgium, v. 119, & seq. Against the Gauls, 126, e. 127, b. Against the Belgæ, 128, e. Goes over to Pompey, ibid. & seq. & (M). Joins Cato at Utica, 157, b. Success against Cæsar, 159, d. Defeated by him, 160, e. Stirs up the Spaniards against him, 171, c. Defeated and slain, ibid. f, & seq.
 — his son fights under the Parthians, 269, a, (E). Success against Antony, ibid. b.
Laborsarabod, falsely supposed the last king of Babylon, i. 968, f. His cruelty against Gobrias, &c. 968, a. Murdered after a nine months reign, ibid. & seq. Whether the Belshazzar of Daniel, ii. 24, (C). His tyranny and death, 89, & seq.
Labotas's wars against the Argives, ii. 404, c.
Labyrinthus. See Nabonadius, i. 969, & seq.
† Labyrinth of Egypt described, i. 193, a—f. The remains of it, 194, c, d.
Lacedemon, the son of Eurotas, ii. 395, a, b, (A).
† Lacedemonia, whence so called, ii. 395, & seq. Why called Mecatompolis, 396, (B). Described, ibid. & seq. Its government, duration, &c. 388, & seq. Kings, 400, & seq. Why styled Agideæ and Proclidæ, 404, b. The rest see under Laconia, 344, & seq.
† Lacedemonians, war against the Athenians, ii. 501, & seq. Truce, 508, pass. 512, a. Peace broken, 513, pass. Beaten by sea and land, 526. Reduce the Athenians, 529, & seq. Make peace with them, 539, a, &c. Subdue the Thebans, &c. b, c. Renew the war, ibid. & seq. Defeated at Naxos, 540, d. At Leucades, ibid. f. Their kings from Lycurgus to the Achæan league, 558. War with the Messenians, 570, & seq. Argives, 572, d. Defeated, 575, b. 578, a. Enslave the Messenians, 582, a. Defeated at Thermopylæ, 588. Preparations against the Persians, 119, & seq. 589, & seq. Defeat them by sea and land, 136, & seq. 590, pass. And the Athenians, 602. Decree against them, 603, a. War with Persia, 607. Make a general peace, 144. Exult upon it, 614, & seq. Defeated by the Thebans, 616, d. Defeat the Arcadians, 618, e. And Thebans, 619. Suffered to alienate their lands, 625, d. Restored to their old government, 629, & seq. Defeated at Selafia, 632, & seq. Subdued by the Macedonians, 634. Chuse two new kings, ibid. e. Defeated by the Achæans, 636, a. Enslaved by Nabis, ibid. & seq. Plundered by the Ætolians, 639, d. Go over to them, 652, e. Break peace with the Achæans, 664, a. Join with the Romans, ibid. &c. Withdraw from the Achæan league, 678, pass. Reduced by Philopœmen, 679. Restored to their laws, 681, c. Complain against the Achæans, 691. Reimbursed by the Roman senate, 699.
 — speech to the Athenians, iii. 278, c, d. Join with the Macedonians, 281. Against the Olynthians, 285, b. Succour the Carthaginians, iv. 664, f. Rewarded by Augustus, v. 307, c.
† Lacertani, cut in pieces by Scipio, vii. 26, d.
Laches finishes the Colossus, iii. 130, (C).
† Lacinium, where sited, vii. 9, (D).
Loce, a favourite of Galba, v. 584, a, b. 585, f. His character, 586, b—d. Promotes Piso's interest, 590, & seq. Put to death by Otho, 597, b.
† Lacobriga, where sited, v. 87, a. Besieged by Metellus, ibid. & seq.
† Laconia, part of antient Greece, ii. 344, b. Antient name of Lacedemon, 395. Its site, extent, &c. 397. Government, ibid. & seq. Invaded by the Athenians, 489, a. Divided by Lycurgus, 561. Plundered by Canon, &c. 143. By the helotes, 594.
† Laconic, gulph, and its isles, iii. 242, c.
 — style, what, ii. 564, b.
† Lactodrum, antient Bedford, vii. 409, b.
Lacumaces set on the Massilian throne, vii. 123, a. Submits to Massinissa, ibid. d, e.
† Lade, the isles of, iii. 212, c.
 — the sea fight of, 210, c.
Ladice, a pretended miracle on her wedding, i. 271.
Ladies, Roman, whence their privileges, iv. 559, c. A number of them turn poisoners, 604, & seq. Others save their husbands, v. 226, & seq.
 — One thousand four hundred severely taxed by the Triumvirs, 231, pass.
† Ladoga, the lake of, described, ii. 268.
Lælius sent to ravage Afric, iv. 739, d. Defeats Syphax, 743, e. Brings him prisoner to Rome, 744, e. Defeats Aldrubal, vii. 71, & seq. Interview with Massinissa, 74, a. Burns the Numidian camp, 77, e. Bravery at the battle of Zama, 82, pass. Success before Carthage, 103, c.
Lælius conspires against Commodus, vi. 92, b, c. Raises Pertinax to the throne, 95, b, c. Revolts against him, 98, b—d. Put to death, 105, e.
 — Severus's general reduces Mesopotamia, 111, c. Treachery to the emperor, 113, e. Death, ibid. & seq.
 — the adviser of Geta's murder put to death, 124, e.
† Lævis, where settled in Italy, iv. 561, f. vi. 391, d.
Lævinus, admiral, against the Macedonians, iv. 719. Saves Tarentum, 721, e. Surprises their camp, 722, e. Success against the Carthaginians, 735, f. Against the Macedonians, 749, c.
Lævinus's ill success against the Epirots, iii. 809, b—e. Answer to Pyrrhus's letter, 808, e.
Lageion, the order of, whence, iii. 625, a.
† Lagerum, where sited, vii. 412, b.
Lagides, the surname of the Ptolemies, iii. 625, a.
Lagodus driven out of Spain, vi. 455, d.
Lagus, his extract, iii. 624, e. Whether the father of Ptolemy, ibid.
Lais, an extravagant Corinthian harlot, ii. 391, c.
† Laisb, city, destroyed by the Danites, i. 740, b.
Laius, the father of Oedipus, ii. 373, & seq.
 — king of Elis, his reign, 408, & seq.
Lakes, worshipped by the Gauls, vii. 350, b, (F). 351, a, b, (G).
Lamachus sent into Sicily, iii. 26, b. Killed before Syracuse, 28, d.
 — governor of Heracles, betrays it to Mithridates, 744, a. (F). See also vol. i. 511—513.
† Lamaimen, the famed mountain of, described, vii. 185, d.

- Lamb*, paschal, how and why instituted, i. 604, pass. & (R).
 — daily sacrifice ceased, iv. 284, d.
Lambs, the computation by, uncertain, iv. 268, b, (K).
Lamech, the fifth in descent from Cain, i. 77, a.
 — father of Noah, 78, a.
 † Lamia besieged by the Macedonians, ii. 721, f. Surrendered to the Romans, 722.
 — Ælius's death and character, v. 484, f. The cause of it, 674, e. — A concubine of Demetrius, iii. 447, e.
 — the story of, vi. 806, (T).
Lamiscus, king of the Lombards, vii. 615, & seq. Success against the Bulgarians, 616, f.
Lampeto, queen of the Amazons, ii. 279, sub not.
Lampo's cruelty to the Jews, v. 699, b. Turns evidence against them, 702.
Lampadius's account of the Persian war, iv. 826, (C). His character, &c. vi. 220, (C).
 — an enemy to Sylvanus punished, 294, & seq.
Lampsacians outwit Alexander, ii. 324, & seq.
 † Lampsacum in Mysia, by whom built, ii. 324, d.
 — taken from the Athenians, 529, c.
 † Land of Promise, described, i. 567, & seq. Its site and boundaries, 568, b, c. Divided among the Israelites, 569, a, &c. Its natural and artificial rarities, ibid. ad 588. Why so altered for the work, 680, & seq.
Lands, how divided by Lycurgus, ii. 561, b.
Language, how confounded at Babel, i. 155, a — c. The number and confusion of them, 158, b — c. See also Speech, i. 149 — 152, pass.
Langarus's kindness to Alexander, iii. 230, b.
Langians, taken and massacred, iv. 782, d.
 † Langobriga, a city in Lusitania, vii. 196, c.
 † Langos, revolts from, v. 598, & seq. New-colonized by the Franks, vi. 212, b.
Laodamus's ill success against the Epigoni, ii. 275, a.
Laodice, married to Perseus, iii. 484, b.
 — the wife of Antiochus, poisons him, 525, e, & seq.
 — of Mithridates, her lewdness punished, 727, c.
 — of Orophernes, her cruelty punished, 776, d.
 † Laodicea, in Seleucia, where sited, i. 361, a.
 — the capital of Laodicea, ibid. d.
 — in Media, described, ii. 2, d. In Phrygia, 292. Famed for its wool, ibid. e. Destroyed, 293, & not.
 — by whom built, iii. 515, a. Declares for Niger, vi. 109, c. Plundered, ibid. e. Taken by Alexius, 616, e. By his son, 617, f.
Laodiceans, receive Dolabella, v. 218, f. Besieged by Cassius, 219, a. Betrayed by Quintus, ibid. d. How used by the conqueror, ibid. & seq.
 † Laodicea, a province in Syria, i. 361, d, &c.
Laomedon, the son of Ilus, ii. 315, f. Builds the citadel of Troy, 317. His reign, &c. ibid. & seq.
 † Laonis, river, in Macedonia, iii. 260, c.
 † Lapatibus, a city in Crete, described, iii. 173, b.
 † Laputa, where situate, ii. 381, c.
 † Lapyta, one of the four parts of Cyprus, iii. 175, a.
 † Lares in Numidia, described, vii. 109, d.
 † Larissa, a city in Thessaly, ii. 382, a.
 — restored to Zeno, vi. 516, a. Taken by Theodoric, vii. 520, b. 522, c. By the Bulgarians, 633, d.
 † Larissa, a river in Arcadia, ii. 706, (Y).
Lartius, T. chosen dictator, iv. 482. Numbers the people, ibid. c. Defeats the Latins, ibid. & seq. Mild usage of them, 484, pass.
Lascares, Theod. sides with the usurper Angelus, vi. 626, e. Erects the Nicean empire, 628, a, b. Success against the Turks, 629, c, d. Death, 630, a. See also vol. vii. 286, f.
 — the son of Vataces, defeats the Bulgarians, vi. 631, f, & seq. His death, 632, c.
 — Jokn, his hard fate, 634, d. vii. 287, f, & seq.
Lasfer, a shrub, described, iii. 663, (H). Its gum described, vii. 170, & seq.
Lasthenes, his character, iii. 596, (H). Cruelties, 601.
 — Inthrones young Nicator, iv. 81, (U).
 † Lateran, the Basilica of, why so called, v. 551, c.
 — palace, given to the pope, vi. 248, d.
Lateranus, Paul, restored by Nero, v. 520, d.
 — Plaut, conspires against him, 551, c. 552, c.
Laterensis, M. Jun. brave death and reward, v. 210, & seq.
 † Latona, river, where, vii. 170, c.
 † Latiolus, Jupiter, the temple of, 461, a.
Latiarius's treachery and punishment, v. 433, b — d.
Laticlavium, at Rome, what, 449, (G).
Latius, invaded by Tullus, iv. 444, a, b. By Ancus, 445, b, c. By Tarquin, 447. Outwitted, 460, e, f. Engage against the Romans, 479, & seq. 481, & seq. Defeated, 483, & seq. By Camillus, 568. By Quinctius, 578, c. Join the Campanians, 599, c. Defeated, 602, & seq. Their punishment, 603, e.
Latinus invites the Trojans, iv. 419, b. Killed, ibid. e.
 — the son of Telephus, king of Mysia, iii. 327, d.
 † Latium, old and new, described, iv. 411, c, d. Its old inhabitants, 414, a, b. Subdued by the Romans, 602, & seq.
 † Latemia, the prison of, iii. 4, f, & seq.

- Leo III. proclaimed, vi. 555, c. 556, c. Promotes his uncle, ibid. c. Severity against saint and image-worshippers, 557, a. Death, ibid. b.
- IV. success against the Saracens, 562, c. Proclaimed, 563, b. Cruelty to Michael and his family, ibid. d. Victory over the Bulgarians, ibid. e, f. Zeal against image-worship, 564, a. Murdered at the altar, ibid. c, &c.
- the son of Michael made Caesar, 573, a. Outwitted by a monk, ibid. e. Released by means of a parrot, ibid. f. His excellent character, 574, & seq. Causes a schism in the church, 575, pass. Invaded by the Saracens, ibid. f, & seq. His death, character, and writings, 577, a, b.
- Zoe's general's treason and death, 578, & seq.
- bishop, his golden machine melted, 571, e, f.
- Arcadius's general, defeated and killed, vii. 506, c, f.
- the compiler of the Theodorian laws, 417, c, (C).
- emperor, defeated by Genferic, 537, & seq.
- Phocas, defeated by the Bulgarians, 630, & seq.
- Moroleon's noble defence of Adrianople, 631, d. Tortured to death, ibid. c.
- Melissenus betrayed by Stephen, 633, e, f.
- Leon, king of Lydia, ii. 333, b.
- surprises Acradina, iii. 76, c. Noble defence of Syracuse, vi. 779, pass.
- † — a city in Sicily, described, iii. 115, sub not.
- Leonatus rescues Alexander from the Malli, iii. 398, d. His post after his death, 417, a. Succours Antipater, 449, c. Killed, ibid. f.
- Leonidas's expedition against Xerxes, ii. 586, & seq. Noble answer to him, 120, d. Gallant death, 121, 588. His body abused by Xerxes, 122.
- II. inlets luxury into Sparta, 625, d. Deposed, 627, a. Restored, ibid. c.
- Alexander's tutor, iii. 317, b. Commands the turbulent cohort, 366, f.
- Leonarius settled in Galatia, vii. 393, & seq.
- Leontifera, an Heracleian ship so named, iii. 823.
- Leontines come into Sicily, iii. 11, c. Oppressed by the Syraculans, 24, c. Peace with them, 25, c. Broken, 109, d.
- † Leontini, a city in Sicily, described, iii. 3, d. Taken by the Romans, 109, c.
- † — the lake of, described, iii. 3, c.
- Leontia, crowned empress, vi. 536, b. Her character, 137, a.
- Leontidas, branded by Xerxes, ii. 122, in fin. not.
- head of the Ionian faction, 597, c.
- † Leontium reduced by Timoleon, vi. 781, c, f.
- Leontius's treachery to the Achæans, ii. 657, & seq. To Aratus, 658, & seq. Forgiven, 659, c. Raises a tumult at Corinth, 660.
- bishop's indiscreet zeal against Eusebia, vi. 386, e, f.
- the Chalcidian revolts from Zeno, 516, b. Defeated, ibid. c. Besieged three years in Palmyra, ibid. f. Dies, ibid. & seq.
- a patrician, imprisoned by Justinian, 547, f. Deposes him, 548, a, b. Proclaimed, ibid. & seq. Success against the Saracens, 548, b. Deposed, defaced, and imprisoned, ibid. c. Put to death, 549, b.
- treason and defeat, vii. 522, c, d.
- speech to the Franks, 561, & seq. sub (P).
- † Leopards, the mountains of, in Judea, i. 121, d.
- Leosthenes defeats Antipater, ii. 551, & seq. Killed before Lamia, ibid.
- zeal for democracy, iii. 449, a, b. Success and death, ibid. c, d.
- Leostychides I. chosen king of Sparta, ii. 459. Ends the Persian war, 126, 475.
- II. crowned, 584. Victory at Mylate, 591. Dies in exile, 594, a.
- the son of Agis, excluded, 605, d.
- † Lepbrium, the famed grove of, ii. 340, c.
- Lepida Emilia, banished, v. 407, b, c.
- Domitia, her character, 515, & seq. Put to death by Agrippina, 516, b.
- the wife of Cassius condemned, 560, a.
- Lepidus, made guardian to Ptolemy Epiphanes, iii. 542, f, (B).
- M. Emil. chosen first consul, v. 83, c, d. Falls out with his colleague, 84, b. Twice defeated, ibid. & seq. Dies in Sardinia, 85, b.
- Jun. Brut. chosen consul, 185, b. Sent against the conspirators, 187, d. Allies with M. Antony, 193, f. His character, 209, d. Outwitted by him, 210, b. Proscribed 211, e. Interview with him and Octavian, 221, & seq. Joined in the triumvirate, 224, & seq. Arbitrary triumph, 230, d. Consul, 232, c. Sent into Africa, 270, c. Indolence there, 275, c. Lands at Lilybæum, 278. Jealous of Octavian, 280, & seq. Deposed by him, 281, f, (P).
- Quint. Emil. forces himself into the consulate, 306, & seq. & (M). Refuses the proconsulship of Africa, 408.
- Manius's death and character, 448, & seq.
- debauches Caligula's sister, 485, a, (T). Put to death, ibid.
- † Lepontii, where seated, iv. 408, e, f.
- Leprosy, defiling among the Jews, i. 688. Various kinds of it, ibid. (C). How, and by whom cured, 689, pass.
- Leptines, admiral of Dionysius, iii. 50, a. Sinks five Carthaginian ships, ibid. f. Defeated by Mago, 51. Fatal generosity, 56. Death and character, ibid. & seq. Commands the Sicilian fleet, vi. 756, d. Inroads against Entella, 758, c. Success against Mago, 759, d. Defeated by him, 762, b, c. Slain at Cronion, 767.
- Leptines, tyrant of Leontium, submits to Timoleon, vi. 781, d.
- of Engya, deposed by Timoleon, iii. 77, c.
- † Lepis, besieged by the Efturians, vi. 349, c. Treachery to the Tripolitans punished, ibid. f, & seq.
- † — greater and lesser, described, vi. 669, b, c.
- † Lerida, taken by the Suevi, vi. 489, c. vii. 544, b.
- † Leros, island, described, iii. 212.
- † Lesbians, their extract, iii. 205. Government, kings, &c. ibid. & seq. Subdued by the Mitylenians, 206, a. Persians, ibid. c, f. Polycrator, 291, b. Treachery to the Ionians, 297, c. Various fates, ibid. & seq.
- † Lesbos island described, iii. 203, b. Its first inhabitants, 205. Famed wines, 204, pass. Subject to the Trojans, ii. 309, b. Revolts from the Athenians, 505, a.
- Lebus, first king of Lesbos, iii. 205, c.
- Leta, king of the Lombards, vii. 615, d. 616, f.
- † Letes, who and where sited, vii. 544, b.
- Letters, the first inventors of, i. 720, (T).
- Coptic, whether the ancient Egyptian, 224, (M).
- † Leucada, peninsula, described, ii. 746, a. Betrayed to the Romans, ibid. b.
- Leucanor, king of Bosphorus, killed, iii. 843, a.
- † Leucas, island, described, v. 241. 289, c. Taken by Agrippa, ibid. d.
- capital of Acarnania, ii. 745. Taken by Leucas, ibid.
- † Leuci, mountains in Crete, described, iii. 162, c.
- Leucippus, author of the atomic system, i. 19, a.
- king of Rhodes, iii. 105.
- Leucomones in Etruria, what, iv. 417, & seq.
- Leucon I. and II. kings of Bosphorus, iii. 841, d, c.
- Leucopetra, the battle of, ii. 697, c.
- † Leucophris. See Tenedos, ii. 307.
- † Leuctra, a city in Lacedæmon, ii. 397, b. The battle of, 616, d.
- Levi, born to Jacob, i. 441, c. His horrid slaughter of the Shechemites, 447, pass. His father's curse, how fulfilled, 462, a, (F).
- the sons of, obtain the priesthood for their zeal, 521, & seq. Why they had no inheritance, 537, a. Their number upon entering into Canaan, 536, a.
- the evangelist, why called Matthew, iv. 206, (Q).
- Vindicated against Porphyry, &c. ibid. Made an apostle, 208, (T).
- Levirate, among the Jews, what, i. 678, d, (N).
- Levites, how provided for, i. 627, b, c. Their three chief branches, 633. Consecration, dress, &c. 644, a, b, c. Revenue and privileges, 645, & seq. White garments, iv. 267, c.
- Leunigil, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, c.
- Leubaris heads the Franks into Italy, vii. 678, f. His army destroyed, 679, d.
- † Lexovii, subdued by Cæsar, v. 121, b. vii. 399, a.
- † Liba, where situated, iii. 503, (S).
- Libanus's account of the surprising constancy of some christian martyrs, iv. 246, (C). His writings and character, ibid. & seq. Account of the turbulent Franks, vi. 276, f. Of Julian in Germany, 298, a, b. Elegy on Nicomedia, 304, d. Silenced by Constantius, 321, b. Speech in favour of Antioch, 330, a. Character of Julian, 335, & seq. Speech to Valens, 372, c. Partial apology for Theodorus, 374, d. Narrow escape, 375. Invektives against Theodosius, 403, c, f.
- † Libanus, mount, why so called, i. 87, a. Its cedars, &c. 362, & seq.
- Libellus, Arcadius's law against, vi. 453, c.
- Liberia, the festival of, v. 174, (T).
- Liberius pope's reproof to Eusebia, vi. 286, c. Banishment, 294, b.
- sent to relieve Syracuse, vii. 674, c, d.
- Libertem heads the Bulgarians in Thrace, vii. 623, c.
- Liberti, made citizens at Rome, iv. 457, d, c. Reduced into four tribes, 691, b.
- † Liberty, the chapel of, at Rome, iv. When built, 676, a.
- † Libicii, where sited, iv. 408, f.
- Libitina, the goddess, her temple, iv. 455.
- Libna revolts from Jehoram, i. 815, c.
- Libo, C. Petilius's success in Samnium, iv. 619, c.
- Luc. Scribon. sent to the triumvirs, v. 271, d. His extract, 386, d. Tried for high treason, ibid. & seq. Kills himself, 387, pass. Condemned, ibid. f.
- death in Syria, vi. 65, b. His widow married to Severus's freedman, ibid. c.
- Library of the capitol, destroyed by lightning, vi. 90, b.
- † Libya, when first invaded, vii. 154, & seq. Why so called, 178, c. Destroyed by an earthquake, vi. 328, c.
- † Libyans, their territories, vii. 119, a. How distinguished, 120, c, d. When first incorporated with the Africans, 222, a, b. Civilized by Dido, 155, c, f. Their customs &c. 177, pass. 213, f. Two hundred thousand massacred by the Jews, vi. 23, d, e. Their odd way of trading with the Carthaginians, 711, c, f. War with them, 851, & seq. Imprisoned

- Imprison their general, 855, a. March against Utica, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 858, a, b. 860, c. Cruelty to the Carthaginians, ibid. e, f. Dreadful condition, 862, d—f. Dittmal end, 863, a, b.
- † Libyans, of Marmorea, described, vii. 167, & seq.
- † Libyssa, in Bithynia, described, iii. 826, e.
- Lice*, the plague of, in Egypt, i. 496, e. Why out of the power of their magicians, ibid. & seq.
- Liches*, a Spartan, carries off Orestes's bones, ii. 380, (M).
- Licina's* pathetic speech to Gracchus, iv. 807, b. Deprived of her dowry, 809, c.
- Licinianus Perpenna's* revolt quelled, vi. 171.
- the son of Licinius, chosen Cæsar, 255, e.
- sent ambassador to Euric, vii. 515, e, f.
- Licinianus Calvus*, chosen military tribune, iv. 557, b.
- Stolo's bold attempt against the patricians, 548, & seq. Speech to the plebeians, 580, a. Opposes the dictator, ibid. c, d. Chosen consul, 584, d.
- P. Crassus, sent against the Macedonians, 761, d. Defeated, ibid. e. Defeats them, 762, a.
- L. Lucul. defeats the Sicilian slaves, v. 39, c, d. Banished for extortion, ibid. e.
- Sextus, murdered by Marius, 66, c.
- Mucianus, his writings, 656, (D).
- Ligurius, Q. saved by his faithful wife, 226, b. His death, ibid. c.
- marries Constantine's sister, vi. 218, f. 250, e. Chosen emperor, 236, c. His extract, &c. ibid. & seq. Chosen consul, 238, c. Present at Galerius's death, 240, b, c. Marches against Maximin, ibid. d. & 252, c. Joins Constantine at Milan, 250, e. His vision and prayer, ibid. d. Complete victory, ibid. & seq. Reception in Bithynia, ibid. Edict in favour of the christians, 253, a. Severity to Galerius's family, ibid. e, f. First war with Constantine, 254, & seq. Defeat, 255, & seq. Second war, 257, c, d. Totally defeated, ibid. e, f. Superstitious speech to the army, 258, a, b. Defeated at sea, ibid. c, d. New peace broken, ibid. & seq. Defeat and death, 259, a, b.
- Constantine's nephew put to death, 261, d.
- Priscus, sent into Britain, vii. 431, d, (K).
- Lithors*, first chosen by Romulus, iv. 426, b, (Q).
- Lights*, the feast of, among the Jews, iv. 62, (W).
- Ligorai's* stratagem at the siege of Sardis, iii. 539, (Y).
- † Liguria, described, iv. 409, & seq. Made a Roman province, 690, d. Plundered by Attila, vi. 497, a. Ravaged by the Burgundi, vii. 584, f.
- † Ligurians, Ligures, their origin, iv. 416, a. Defeated by the Romans, 681, d. 682, b. By Thermus, 753, c—e. Subdued by Flaminius, 756, b. By Sempronius, 760, passim.
- Comati, subdued by the Romans, v. 316, c.
- † Ligyres, who and whence, iv. 416, b.
- † Lilea, a city in Doris, ii. 413, c.
- † Lilith, the Jews tradition concerning her, i. 72, (N).
- † Lilybeum, the cape of, in Sicily, iii. 1.
- the city of, described, 7, b. 89, c. The poetic well of, ibid. d. The long siege of, iv. 669, c, d. Turned into a blockade, 672, e. Brave defence against Dionysius, vi. 773, d. Against Pyrrhus, 815, & seq. Against the Romans, 845, a, b. Against the Carthaginians, vii. 20, a.
- † Limigantes, among the Sarmatians, who, vi. 215, c. Driven out of Sarmatia, 303. Treachery to Constantius, 305, c. Cut off, ibid. d. See also vol. vii. 609, & 610.
- † Lindia, Minerva, her temple, iii. 129, (B).
- † Lindum, Lincoln, metropolis of the Coritani, 410, b.
- † Lindus, an ancient city of Rhodes described, 129, c.
- Lingones*, made free of Rome, v. 602, f.
- Linteata legio*, what and whence, iv. 636, c.
- Lions* first fought in the Circus, v. 46, d. Forbid to be hunted for shews, vi. 470, c.
- † Lions, the city of. See Lyons, v. 210.
- † Lipara in Tuscany, by whom built, ii. 370, a. Its situation, vi. 760, (K). Taken by Hamilco, 760, b. By the Romans, 668, b.
- † Lipari, island, described, iii. 10, c. Seized by the Carthaginians, vii. 19, d.
- Liparites's* success against the Turks, vii. 599, d. Taken prisoner, ibid. e. Honourably dismissed, ibid. & seq.
- † Lippe, Lupia river in Germany, vii. [415], b.
- † Lisbon, taken by the Suevi, vi. 505, c, d. Betrayed by Remimond, 510. See vol. vii. 545, e.
- † Lisians, who and where sited, vi. 495, b.
- Litorius's* success against the Goths, vi. 483, c, d. 484, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. d. His character, ibid. & seq. See also vol. vii. 510, & seq.
- Lityerjes*, king, his strange character, ii. 303, a.
- Livia* married to Octavian, v. 275, e, (N). Suspected of the death of Marcellus, 304, f. Of Lucius, 330, e. Of Caius, 332, f. For the banishment of Agrippa, 334, e. Of poisoning Octavian, 347, c, d. Her new names, honours, &c. 348, a. Prostituted to Sejanus, 416, d, e. Honoured against Agrippina, 418, c, d. Her death and character, 435, b, c.
- the portico of, why so called, 316, b. The temple of, dedicated, 324, b.
- Livian* family, an account of, 356, (L).
- Livilla*, the daughter of Drusus, v. 321, c.
- the wife, brought to-bed of two sons, 401, b. Her death, 442, b.
- sister of Caligula. See Julia, 460, (I).
- Livisa*, slain by Theodoric, vii. 524, e.
- Livius* defeats Antiochus, iii. 555, d. Success in the Hellespont, 556, b, c. Succeeded by Æmilius, ibid. d.
- Andronicus turns satires into regular plays, iv. 585, a. His extract, works, &c. 680, c, d.
- Salinator reduces Illyricum, 691, c, d. Tried and condemned, ibid. e. Revenge on the tribes, ibid. f. Chosen consul against Asdrubal, 736, a.
- Drusus, set to undermine Gracchus, 803, & seq.
- Caius, betrayed by the Tarentines, vii. 51, d. Escapes drunk into the citadel, 52, b.
- † Lixus in Mauritania described, vii. 141, d. The same with Tingis, ibid. e, f.
- the river of, 142, a. 144, c.
- † Locha, taken by Scipio, iv. 741, a.
- Locharis* seizes the sovereignty of Athens, ii. 556, a. Deposed by Demetrius, ibid. c.
- † Lochore, the birth of, v. 667, a. The battle of, ibid. &c.
- Lockman*, a Persian philosopher's character and writings, ii. 198, & seq. The same with Esop, 199, & not.
- king of the Adites, vii. 242, d, e.
- the famed Arab fabulist, 258, (T).
- Locri, Locrians*, accused of sacrilege, iii. 205.
- city relieved by Hannibal, iv. 735, e. Taken by Scipio, 739, e. Surrendered to Hannibal, vii. 41. Besieged by Clusius, 64, d, e. Taken by Scipio, 74.
- † Locris, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. How divided, 412, a. Plundered by the Athenians, 439, a. Invaded by the Phocians, 610, e.
- Loysa* poisons Claudius, v. 516, c. Executed, 586, f.
- Locusts*, the plague of, in Egypt, i. 498, e, f. Pernicious in Persia, &c. ii. 47, c. How destroyed, ibid. & not. Destroy Africa, vii. 172, b. The food of the Ethiopians, 200, f. How caught, 201, a. Why so unwholesome, ibid. b, (Z).
- Lodbrog*, king, his requiem before his death, vii. 420, (F).
- Lolla, Paulina*, married to Regulus, v. 328, a. To Caligula, 467, c. Her great beauty, ibid. & (L). Proposed to Claudius, 505, d, (O). Put to death by Agrippina, 507, a.
- Lollus*, a Samnite, revolts from the Romans, iv. 648, f.
- M. refuses the consulship, v. 306, c. Defeated by the Germans, 613, b. Commands under Caius, 328, a. His disgrace and death, 329, b.
- Urbic, his success in Britain, vi. 57, e. Works, ibid. & vii. 432, a, (M).
- Spurius, proclaimed in Gaul, 183, f. His rise, death, &c. 184, a.
- Lombards*, their origin, &c. vii. 614, e, f. Why so called, 615, c. Wars with the Gepidæ, 596, & seq. Settle in Pannonia, 615, d. Their character, kings, &c. ibid. e, f. Success against the Vandals, 616, b. In Gothland, ibid. d, e. Against the Heruli, 617, a. Gepidæ, ibid. b—d. Settlement in Pannonia, ibid. e. Success and conquests, 619, & seq. Begin a kingdom, 620, c. Split it into dukedoms, 621. Why, 622, b. Choose a new king, ibid. e, f. Their language, 625, (L). Break into Gaul, 680, c. Defeated by Ennius, ibid. d. Fall out with the Saxons, ibid. e. Choose Autharis their king, 681, d. Renounce Arianism, 684, d, e. 697, c. Success against the Romans, 694, & seq. The end of their kingdom, 719. Their character, &c. vindicated, ibid. e, f. Extent of their dominions, 720, c, d. Laws, see under Longobardian, 690, & seq. Their first invasion of Germany, vi. 391, d, e. Kingdom in Italy, 532, a. Defeat of the Romans, 545, c, d. Oppose the Leonoclads, 552, f, & seq.
- † Londonis, an island in Lusitania, vii. 298, f.
- † London, abandoned to the Britons, v. 538, d, e. Delivered by Constantius, vi. 212, f. Whether it belonged to the Cantii, vii. 408, e, f. To the Trinobantes, 409, c. When founded, ibid. d. Why called Augusta, ibid. e. Restored by Theodosius, 435, d, e.
- Longinus, Cass.* sent governor into Judea, iv. 263, b. Defeated in Gaul, v. 19, d. Chosen consul, 46, a.
- the tribune murdered, 494, d.
- over-reached by Decebalus, vi. 13, f. Poisons himself, 14, a.
- the philosopher, his writings and character, 196, (Z). And of the Mosaic books, 197, sub not.
- the brother of Zeno, defeated, 516, b. Excluded the succession, 517. Raises new commotions, 518, e. Stripped and banished, ibid. &c.
- Salonicus's revolt, and dread punishment, 518, e, & seq.
- defeated by Leontius, vii. 522, c. Reception of Romulus, 679, e. New government, ibid. & seq. Defeated and recalled, 681, b.
- † Longobardi, who and where, vii. 409, d, e. 614, f. Different from the Lombards, 615, a. Why called Vindili, ibid. b. The rest see under Lombards.
- Longobardian* laws, when and by whom compiled, vii. 690, a. (U). Corrected by Grimold, 697, a. By Hildebrand, 709, b. By Atulph, 712, b, c.
- † Lopadusa, island, described, vi. 672, sub not. 3.
- † Lorigita,

- † Lorigia, Horigia, who, and where, vii. 9, b, (C).
† Lorium, the palace of, by whom built, vi. 56, c.
Lor, his extract, and adoption by Abraham, i. 282, c. Parts from him, ibid. c. Rescued by him from the Canaanites, ibid. f, & seq. Leaves Sodom, 283. His wife's crime and punishment, ibid. & 284, (N). Incest with his two daughters, ibid. & seq.
† Lotopbagi, who and where sit, vii. 175, b. Why so called, 176, b. Their customs, &c. ibid. & seq.
† Lotus, the plant of, plentiful in Egypt, i. 183, b. Described, ibid. & vii. 176, b, d.
† Loventium, Toway in Wales, vii. 411, e.
† Loutain, where situate, vii. 107, c.
Lua, the goddess, whence so called, iv. 457, b, (I).
Lucan, the poet, conspires against Nero, v. 551, d. Informs against his own mother, &c. 553, b. His death and last words, 556, & seq. & (N).
† Lucania, described, iv. 410, e. Laid waste by the Romans, iii. 808, d.
Lucanians, hired against the Thurians, iii. 56, c. Over-reached by the Samnites, iv. 607, f. Defeated by the Romans, 643, e, f. Totally subdued, 647, e. vii. 62, b, 69, d.
Lucas, banished by Constantine, vi. 265, f.
Lucceius, L. Hir. v. 113, a, (R). Excluded the consulship, ibid. b.
— the tribune's proposal, in favour of Pompey, 124, & seq. 126, c.
Lucres, whence so called, iv. 432, a.
† Luceria, taken by the Romans, iv. 616. Retaken and colonised, 619. Destroyed by Contans, vii. 695, a.
Lucian's shameful exaggeration of a Roman victory, vi. 64, c. Character and writings, 81, & seq. sub not. Over-reached by Alexander, 82, sub not.
Lucianus's noble defence of Nisibis, vi. 279, b, c.
— count, misrepresented to Arcadius, 432, d, e. Put to death, ibid. e.
Lucilius's brave expedient to save Brutus, v. 252, a, b. Rewarded, ibid. d.
— a centurion murdered, 362, a.
— Capito condemned, 449, c.
Lucilla, born to M. Aurelius, vi. 58, a. Married to L. Verus, 62, b, 65, b, c. Suspected of poisoning him, 68, a. Married to Cl. Pompeian. ibid. a, f.
— sister of Commodus, ravished and murdered by him, 86, c.
— plots against Commodus, 87, e, f. Banished, and put to death, 88, a.
Lucillianus sent ambassador to Sapor, vi. 303, a. Taken prisoner by Julian, 313, c. Commands his fleet, 331, d. Made general of Illyricum, 343, a. Murdered in Gaul, 345, b.
Lucina, Juno, why so called, iv. 455, b.
Lucius, Cæcil. defeated and killed, iv. 643, b.
— Caius, killed for incontinence, v. 32, f.
— Domitius, chosen to succeed Cæsar, 131, d.
— Cæsar, chosen to intercede for the Romans, 162, b, c. Pardoned by Julius Cæsar, 164, e.
— Pinarius, one of Julius Cæsar's heirs, 189, e.
— Cæsar, condemned by the triumvirs, 223, e, f. Saved by his sister, 226, c, d. Pardoned by Antony, 260, d.
— the son of Agrippa, adopted by Augustus, 312, c. Bold demand of him, 324, d. Assumes the toga, 326, d. Dies at Marseilles, 330, c.
— brother of Vitellius, defamed by Otho, 605, a. Sumptuous banquet to him, 619, d. Sent against Vespasian, 630, b. Success against him, 632, c. Surrenders, 635, b. His death and character, ibid. d, e.
— Quietus, extract and bravery, vi. 19, d. Made governor of Palestine, ibid. e, f. 24, c. Defeats the Jews, ibid. a. Deposed by Adrian, 33, d. Put to death, 34, c.
Lucretia, ravished by Tarquin, iv. 464. Her death, ibid. f.
Lucretius, created interrex, iv. 446, c. Consul, 472, c.
— success against the Volsci, 519, a. Speech against Q. Cælo, 520, f.
Luculla, games so called, iii. 743, b.
Lucullian coin, ii. 738.
Lucullus, general in Greece, ii. 738, pass.
— sent by Sylla into Egypt, iii. 664, b. Haughty message to Tigranes, 701, f. March into Armenia, 702, b, c. Success, 703. Against Mithridates, 705, c. Forlaken, and recalled, 106, b, c. Treachery to Fimbria, 736, b. To Mithridates, 740. Success against him, 741, & seq. Distresses him, 743, 745. Subdues Pontus, 746. Takes Amisus, 747. Sinope, 748, c, (O). Forsook by his army, 750. Returns to Rome, 751, c. See vol. v. 95, & seq.
— Legimus's cruelty to the Turduli, iv. 768, f, & seq.
— Salust, put to death by Domitian, v. 674, f.
Lud, the son of Shem, where settled, i. 162, & seq. Whether the father of the Lydians, ii. 328, & seq.
— a fabulous British king, vii. 421, a.
† Ludim people part of Abyssinia, i. 165, c.
— whether the Ethiopians, vii. 183, a. Why so like them, 193, b, c.
Luernius's famed sumptuous feast, vii. 387, (Z).
Lugdunenses rear a temple to Cæsar, vii. 401, c, d. An altar to Augustus, v. 319, b.
† Lugdunensis Gallia, seized by the Burgundi, vii. 585, d, e.
† Luguvallum, Carile, why so called, vii. 413, b. Its antiquities, ibid. c.
† Lubith, a city of Moab, i. 285, c.
Luitbert, dethroned and murdered, vii. 699, a, b.
Luitprand, spared by Aripert, vii. 699, c. Conspired against, 701, d, e. Rash courage and generosity, ibid. e, f. New body of laws, 702, a, b, (X). Invades Ravenna, ibid. d, & seq. Success, 704, e, f (vi. 552, d, e). Reconciled to the pope, vii. 707, b, c. Reception of him, 708, d, e. Death and character, ibid. & seq.
Lupa, alias Laurentia, why so called, iv. 422, b. Nurfes Remus, &c. ibid.
Lupercalia, the festival of, iv. 422, (H). Described, v. 17, 178, d, (Y).
Lupercus's writings and character, vi. 185, (Y).
† Lupinus, sent against the Scots, vi. 308, e, f. Arrested by Julian, 311, a, b. Sent against Procopius, 367, d—f.
— causes the Goths to revoke, 381, a, b. Defeated by them, ibid. c, d.
Lupus's ill success against the Caledonians, vi. 114, d, 117, f, & seq. vii. 433, b, (N).—bishop of Troyes, forced to abandon it, vii. 478, d.—duke of Friuli, revolts, 696, b, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. d.
Lusus, burnt alive, vi. 293, c.
† Lusitania described, vi. 295, e, & seq. Its cities, 296, & seq. Promontories, &c. 298, c. Rivers, 299. Inhabited by the Celtiberi, [324], d, e. Seized by the Alans, vi. 463, a. By the Suevi, 505, c, d.
Lusitanians, defeated by the Romans, iv. 758, e. By Sempronius, 760, b. Defeat Mummius, 767, c. Treacherously used by Cæpio, 783, & seq. Conquered, 784, b. By Brutus, 786, a. Make Sertorius their general, v. 86, & seq. Form a republic, 87, d. Civilized by him, 88, pass. Over-reached by Cæsar, 176, b. Subdued by Cæsar, 299, c.
† Lustrum, at Rome, what, iv. 457, b, c.
Lusus, an ancient king of Spain, vii. [321], b.
Lutatius, Catulus, success in Sicily, iv. 677, & seq. Peace with Carthage, 678, & seq. See also vol. vi. 849, & seq. & vii. 1, & seq.
— Cæro's success in Hetruria, iv. 619, b, c.
— defection from Brennus, vii. 393, d.
Luterius, defeated by Cæsar, v. 128, f.
— a poet, condemned to death, 410, & seq.
Lutian youths punished by Scipio, iv. 787, e.
Luxury, retrenched at Rome, v. 3, a. 12, c. 338, b, c.
Lux. See Butel, i. 324, a. The meaning of that word, ii. 328, b.
Lybia, Lybissa, Hannibal buried at, vii. 92, (R).
† Lycæan Jupiter, and games, ii. 738, c.
† Lycæum, at Athens, what, ii. 436, c.
Lycæon, the fable of, ii. 376, & not.
— II. king of Arcadia, 378. His numerous issue, ibid. & seq.
Lycæonia, made a Roman province, v. 300, c. Freed from the Persians, vi. 177, b. How divided by Valens, 372, d.
Lycastes, king of Crete, iii. 166, d.
† Lychmides, a city and lake in Macedon, iii. 225, b, &c. 260, c.
Lychmites, a Parian marble so called, iii. 222.
† Lycus, a city in Crete, described, iii. 161, c.
† Lycia, described, ii. 337.
† Lycians side with the Trojans, ii. 319, e. Their origin, government, &c. 338, & seq. By whom subdued, 339. Why so called, iii. 166, c. Complaint against the Rhodians redressed, 152, c—e. Their freedom restored, 156, b. Invaded by Brutus, v. 236, c, d. Disfranchised by Claudius, 496, b, (A). By Vespasian, 650, d. Degraded by Rufinus, vi. 422, a. Restored by Arcadius, ibid. b.
Lycomedes, king of Scyras, kills Theseus, iii. 232.
Lycophron wars with Philip, 292, b, c.
† Lycopolites, a nome in Egypt, so called, i. 211, a.
Lycortas Achæan prætor's speech to the states, ii. 680, a. Revenges Phylopemen's death, 682, & seq.
† Lycosura, by whom built, ii. 378.
Lycurgus, infant prince of Nemæa, killed by a serpent, ii. 358, c.
— king of Arcadia, 379, e.
— the Spartan lawgiver, refuses the crown, 399. Recalled from exile, ibid. New-models the government, ibid. & 557, & seq. His laws, ibid. & seq. Approved by the Delphic oracle, 560, b. Why not written, 566, f. His death, honours, &c. 568, pass.
— a private man, chosen king of Sparta, 634, e. Defeats the Macedonians, 635, b. The last king of Sparta, ibid. e.
— invades Messenia, 657, e.
† Lycus, the son of Pandion, king of Athens, ii. 338, c.
— the court of, 444, d.
† — the river of, different from the Marfyas, 294, c.

Lycus,

- † Lycus, river in Assyria, i. 859, a, (I). In Armenia, iii. 694, a. Described, 553, (T).
- † Lydia, described, ii. 288, & seq. 328, a. Part of Asia Proper, ibid. &c. Its origin, 329, d. Government, soil, &c. 330, & seq. Revolts against Cræsus, ibid. & not. Laws, customs, &c. 331. Kings, 332, & seq. Subdued by the Persians, 337. Over-run with Goths, vii. 495, d.
- Lydians*, first called Mæones, i. 163, d.
- Lydius*, the son of Atis, i. 163, d. King of Lydia, ii. 328, a. 332, c.
- Lycus*, father of Antenor, ii. 314, d.
- † Lygians, Logiones, who and where, vii. [409], b, c. Defeated by Probus, 528, c. Ally with the Suevi, 542, a, b.
- Lyncus*, made king of Argos, ii. 353, c, e.
- why famed for his keen eyes, 402, c.
- † — a mount in Arcadia, 381. Pillar set upon it, ibid.
- † Lyncelby, who and where, iii. 257, b. Invaded by the Macedonians, 282, c.
- † Lyons, in Gaul, by whom founded, v. 210, (R). When burnt, 560, (R). Declares for Vitellius, 600, c. Destroyed by Severus, vi. 113, f. Taken by the Vandals, 453, f. By the Burgundi, 504, b. Retaken by Majorianus, 505, e. By the Burgundi, 510, d. vii. 583, d — f.
- Lyfander* Spartan admiral's character, ii. 600, f. Victories, 528, c. Sets up thirty tyrants over Athens, 530, a. 603. Attempts the sovereignty of Greece, 601, pass. Defeats Conon, 529, 602. Dismisses Athens, 603, b. Outwitted by Pharnabazus, 442, a, b. Goes into Asia, 607, & seq. Raises fresh troubles, 609. Sent against the Phocians, 611, a. Killed, ibid. c.
- Spartan ephors's offers rejected, 622.
- Lyfia*, visited by Adrian, vi. 36.
- Lyfias* sent against the Jews, iii. 582, e. Defeated, 583, b. Seizes on Syria, 585, b. Defeated by Judas, 586, f. Afresh, 587, c. Assassinated Octavius, 888, & seq. Put to death, 591, c. See also, vol. iv. 58, & seq.
- Lyficles*, defeated by Philip, iii. 307, d. Put to death, ibid. e.
- † Lyfimachia, by whom built, iii. 688. Overturned, ibid. d. Rebuilt, 545, c.
- Lyfimachus*, tutor to Alexander, iii. 315, b. Post after his death, 417, b. Defends it against Seuthes, 419, d. Gains Thrace, 435, b. Success against Antigonus, 439, & seq. Against Demetrius, 442, a, b. Seizes on Macedonia, 468, d. Poisons his eldest son, ibid. e, f. Defeated and killed by Seleucus, 469, a.
- governor of Jerusalem, ibid. c. Extortions on the people, 49, b. Massacred, ibid. 48.
- the brother of Apollodorus murders him, 99, b.
- Lyxandra*, married to Agathocles, iii. 468, d. Persecuted by Arfinoe, ibid. e.
- Lyzanias*, king of Chalch, assists the Asmonæans, iii. 854, c. Put to death, ibid. d.

M

- M A A K A H, the wife of king Rehoboam, i. 806, c.
- daughter of Tolmai, married to David, 773, a.
- Maaziah*, Ahaz's son killed, i. 831, c.
- † Maac, who and where, vii. 175, b. Their customs, &c. 176, a.
- Maacæon's* strange prophecy and death, v. 464, d.
- Maacæus* settles in Lesbos, iii. 105, c. His reign, &c. ibid. c, f.
- Maacæus*, their victories over the Syrians, iii. 581, b. 583, a. 586, & seq. Why so called, iv. 57, (P). Their wars, ibid. & seq.
- the first and second, iv. 43, (Q). 57, (P).
- Macedo*, who, i. 243, d. ibid. 253, (A).
- † Macedonia, denoted by the land of Chettim, i. 168, f. Why so called, ii. 253, a, (A). Described, ibid. & seq. Its soil, richness, &c. 260, & seq. Antiquity, laws, &c. 162, & seq. Invaded by the Athenians, 297, a. By the Illyrians, 291, c. Subdued by the Romans, 493, f. & seq. Its new division and government, 496, & seq. Various changes since, 500, & seq. See also vol. iv. 761, & seq. Reduced by Andronicus, 774, b. Retaken by Metellus, 775, a. Taken from the senate, v. 378, e, (G). Plundered by the Huns, vii. 468, f.
- empire, how divided after Alexander's death, iii. 315, 417—423.
- Macedonians*, originally Argives, iii. 262. Their laws, &c. ibid. & seq. Religion, 264, & seq. Ignorance of sea affairs, 265, d. Months, 266. Coin, 267, a. Language, discipline, &c. ibid. & seq. Encamping, fighting, 268, & seq. Kings, 271, & seq. Dependent on Persia, 275. Faithfulness to them, 276, & seq. Defeated by the Lyncesti, 282, e. Rewarded by Alexander, 405, pass. Murtiny, 406. Frighted at an Eclipse, 492, b, c. Invade Persia, ii. 15, & seq. 159, & seq. Gain an immense booty, 60, & seq. War with Athens, 542, & seq. Divided into two factions, 553.
- Macedonius* a hermit's noble speech to the Antiochian judges, vi. 410, e.
- orthodox bishop of Constantinople, deposed, 521, f.
- Maecr's* extortions and revolt in Africa, v. 589, c. Death, ibid. d.
- Marcus's, success against Vitellius, 607. Defeated and degraded, 609, a. Faithfulness to him, 622, c.
- Macbanidas* defeated and killed, ii. 635, & seq.
- Macphelab*, purchased by Abraham, i. 432. Abraham buried at, 434. And Isaac, 448, d.

VOL. VII. N^o. 11.

- † Macodana, where sited, vi. 670, b.
- † Macra, river, the boundary of Etruria, iv. 410, d.
- Macrianus*, by whom raised, v. 589, c.
- Macrianus*, defeated by the Franks, vii. 557, a, b. By Valentinian, 593, f. His death, 594, b, c.
- Macbaeus*, great conquests, vi. 724, e, (E). Banishment, 725, b. Besieges Carthage, ibid. c. Severity to his son, 726, a. Punished, 727, a.
- a magician, enemy to the christians, vi. 173, c. Treachery to Valerian, 174, d. Rise and character, 178, e. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. f. Success against the Goths, 180, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. e.
- king of Germany submits to Julian, vi. 305, a. Narrow escape, 157, f. Peace with Valentinian, 362, d, e.
- Macrinus* aims at the empire, vi. c — c. Murders Caracalla, ibid. f. Chosen emperor, 129, b. His extract, &c. 130. Acknowledged by the senate, ibid. f. Ill success in Parthia, 131, c — e. Wholesome laws, ibid. e, f. Conspired against, ibid. f. Cowardice and flight, 133, & seq. Death, 134, a — d. — Varus's success against the Germans, 140, a.
- Macro* seizes Sejanus, v. 439, d. Guards the emperor, 446. Treachery to Scaurus, 449. To Aruntius, 452, d, e. Murdered with his family by Caligula, 466, a, b.
- Macrobian*, why long-lived, vii. 202, c. Their king's answer to Cambyfes, 212, c — e.
- Macrobian's* writings and character, vi. 477, sub not.
- Macron's* treachery to the king of Egypt, iii. 575, (S).
- † Madai plants Media, i. 168, b, c. The father of the Medes, ii. 1, a, b, not. Of the Macedonians, ibid. (G).
- † Madara, capital of Persia, iv. 392, c. Beautified, 393, f.
- † Madaira in Numidia, where sited, vii. 111, a.
- † Madeba, taken by Hyrcan, iv. 92, a.
- † Madian, in Arabia, vii. 182, b. By whom founded, 238, b, c.
- † Madrid, where sited, vi. 607, a, (I).
- Madyes* king of Scythia's conquests in Asia, ii. 185, & seq.
- Mæandrus's* generosity to the Samians, iii. 295, b, & seq. Invaded by Sylofon, 196, & seq. Retires to Sparta, 197, b. Forced to shelter at Samos, ibid. c, d.
- † Mæata, in Britain, where seated, vi. 118, b. Revolt, 119, c. Put to the sword, ibid. f. Peace with Caracalla, 122, b. See vol. vii. 414, b.
- Mænecpto*, slain in Spain, vii. 49, b.
- Mænus*, Spur. raises troubles at Rome, iv. 505, & seq. Attempts the sovereignty, 547, f. His accusation and death, 548.
- Mæfia* conspires against Macrinus, vi. 132, d. Her character and issue, ibid. d, e. Brave Alexander, 133, pass. Made a senatress, 136, c. Care for young Alexius, 137, & seq.
- † Mæfia, how divided, vi. 254, f. Put to fire and sword, 175, c, d.
- Magai's* fifty years reign in Cyrenaica, vii. 174, a.
- † Magdala, where situated, iv. 218, (M).
- Magdalen*, Mary, converted by Christ, iv. 224, d, (U). Profusion blamed, 227, d. Present at the crucifixion, 240, c. Brings news of his resurrection, 244, b, c.
- Maget*, Magi, of Persia, their physiology, i. 31, c, d. Notions of the gods; and the world, 32, b. Enemies to idolatry, ii. 71, c. Care of the elements, 75. Sect destroyed, 102, d. Religion, how old, 206, & seq.
- persecute the christians, iv. 332, c. Put a trick upon the king, 339, b. Decimated for it, ibid. c. Cruelty to the christians, 340, b.
- † — an island in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b.
- from the east, come to Christ at Bethlehem, iv. 160, & seq. Presents to him, 162, (D).
- Magy*, when, and how invented, i. 120, (N). Esteemed in Egypt, 220, c. Its founders according to Herodotus, 494, (E).
- Magicians* of Egypt mimic some of Moses's miracles, i. 494, (E). The vast disparity between them, ibid. & 495.
- Magilus* conducts Hannibal over the Alps, vii. 14, a, b.
- Magister militum*, his office, vii. 417.
- Magistrates*, how chosen by Tiberius, v. 358, & seq. (O).
- Magius's* bold design against Hannibal, iv. 714. Bold speech against him, vii. 33, c. Delivered up to him, ibid. d.
- Magentius* conspires against Constantius, vii. 280, f. Murders his friends, 281, a, b. Cruelties at Rome, 282, a, b. Deputies to Constantius, ibid. b, c. Success against him, 283, c. Bold message to him, ibid. f. Bloody witcheries, 284, a, b. Defeated, ibid. & seq. Retires to Italy, 285, a, b. Beat out of it, ibid. e, f. Treachery to Gallus, 286. Abandoned by his troops, 287, c. Despair and death, ibid. e.
- † Magnesia, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Of Thessaly, 381, b.
- † — a city of Lydia, ii. 329, b.
- the battle of, iii. 564, & seq.
- † Magnum promontorium, in Lusitania, vii. 298, e.
- Magnus* conspires against Maximin, vi. 152, b. Put to death, ibid. c.
- condemned to rebuild a church he had burnt, vi. 346, d.
- Mago's* genealogy, vi. 708. Writings, 709, pass. Succeeds Machæus, 727, f. Made admiral, 759, c. Defeats the Syracusans, 762. Defeated by Dionysius, 769, & seq. Peace with him, 770, a — e. Returns to Carthage, ibid. & seq. Defeated and killed, 771, c, d.
- his son succeeds him, 772, a. Defeats the Syracusans, ibid. b, c. Peace with them, ibid. d. Ill success against them, 779, pass. Outwitted by Timoleon, 780, a, b. Beneficent to Ictas, ibid. d, e. Desperate end, ibid. f.

10 G

Maga

- Mago* assists the Romans, vi. 815. Success against Pyrrhus, 816, b—d. Sent in pursuit of the Romans, vii. 18, b. Goes to Carthage with Hannibal's success, 34, d, & seq. Sent for reinforcements into Spain, 35. Countermanded from aiding Hannibal, 41, f. Sent into Spain, 42, b. Defeats the two consuls, 55, a, b. Defends new Carthage, 60, a. Raises new forces, 63, d. Noble defence of Locri, 64, d. Defeated in Spain, 68, e, f. Afresh, 69, f. Retires to Gades, 78, c. Sends for fresh succours, ibid. & seq. Sent into Italy, 72, d. Cruelties at Gades, ibid. e, f. Winters in the Balears, ibid. & seq. Reinforces himself in Liguria, 73, a, b. His column near Lacinium, ibid. c. Speech to the Gauls, &c. 74, b. Defeated, 79, f, & seq. Sails for Carthage, 80, a. Dies of his wounds, ibid. b.
- † — a city in Minorca, 308, c.
- Magolunus*'s wicked reign, vii. 451, f.
- Magog*, the second son of Japhet, where settled, i. 167, d. Mistakes of some authors rectified, ibid. & 168, b, &c.
- The father of the Scythians, ii. 241, & seq.
- † — a city of Cyrestica in Syria, i. 361, b.
- Magus*, who, i. 88, b. And Amynus in the Phœnician records, i. 134, a.
- Mabalab*, married to Esau, i. 307, b. 441, a. Why called Bethshemah by Moses, ibid. (X).
- Mabaffrid*, last prince of Persia, married to Jezid, iv. 406, a.
- Mabaleel*, a descendant of Seth, i. 78, a.
- † Mabanaim, Jacob's vision at, i. 444, e.
- Maberbal* commands before Saguntum, vii. 5, c. Ravages Italy, 17, d. Defeats the Romans, 22, d, e. Speech to Hannibal, 31, f.
- † Mabmoud-ker, a famed Persian river, ii. 45, & seq.
- Maburias* destroys and sells the Rhodian colossus, vi. 544, e. His fleet burnt, ibid. Success against the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- Maia*, the daughter of Atlas, despoiled by Jupiter, ii. 263.
- Majesty*, the law of, revived by Tiberius, v. 378, & seq. Become very dangerous, 386, d, e. 393, b. Revived by Caligula, 469, d, & seq. Abolished by Titus, 659, a. Repealed afresh, vi. 3, d. 10, a. 34, c. 423, a.
- Maimonides* notion about the sun standing still, confuted, i. 559, b.
- Majoranus* proclaimed emperor, vi. 504, e. Success against the Vandals, 505, d. In Gaul, ibid. e. Defeated at sea, 506, b. Deposed and put to death, ibid. d, e.
- success against the Goths, vii. 513, e. In Afric, 535, & seq.
- † Majorca, island, described, vii. 308, b, c.
- † Majuma, the port of Gaza, why so called, i. 339, c.
- Malabarca*, among the Jews, his office, iv. 79, (S).
- Malachi*, one of Ezra's assistants, iv. 13, (Y). His prophecies, character, &c. 25, (P).
- Malare*, king of the Franks, vii. 550, f, & seq.
- Maldræ*'s ravages in Spain, vii. 513, b. 545, d. Treachery and death, 546, a.
- † Malea, promontory of Lacedæmonia, ii. 396, a.
- Malek*, first king of Hira, vii. 272, e.
- † Malitubalus, mount, where situate, vii. 115, e.
- Malicbas* conspires against Antipater, iv. 121, d, (L). Poisons him, 122, a. Assassinated by Herod, ibid. & seq.
- king of Arabia's ingratitude to Herod, 125, & seq.
- † Malli confederate with Alexander, iii. 393, c. Defeated, ibid. & seq. & 397, & seq.
- Mallobaudes*'s success against the Germans, vi. 387, a, b.
- against the Alemans, vii. 551, b. 557, a. Bravery and promotion, ibid. b. Death, ibid. c.
- Malta*, surrendered to Sempronius, vii. 20, a.
- Maltese* language allied to the Punic, vi. 698, f, & seq.
- † Malva, river of Tingitania, vii. 143, c, d.
- † Malum, a city in Cyprus, iii. 173, d.
- † Mamertini, who, and where, iii. 88, b. Treachery to the Messenians, ibid. c. Defeated by Pyrrhus, 90, e. By Hiero, 92, c. See also vol. vi. 817, & seq. Forced to invite the Romans, 819, a, b.
- Mamertinus*, one of the Chaldean judges, vi. 324, f. Consulship and reception from Julian, 326, d, e.
- Mamilius* marries Tarquin's daughter, iv. 460, d. Bravery at the battle of Regillus, 483. Death, 484, a.
- † Mamfarus, mount, in Numidia, vii. 111, c.
- Man*, how created, i. 44, a—c, & (N). Their happy state at first, 53, a, &c.
- Man*, Mancus, first king of the Celts, ii. 258, a.
- † Manassib born, i. 453, b. Presented to Jacob, 460, d, e. Their lot in the promised land, 569, b.
- king, his wicked reign, i. 839, c. Murders, &c. 840, a, b. Captivity, ibid. c. Restored, ibid. & seq. Repentance and death, 841, a, b.
- a Jewish apostate, iv. 26, b, (S).
- Mandaces*, king of Media's long reign, ii. 13, a.
- Mandanius* defeated, iv. 738, c. Sent prisoner to Acidinus, 739, f.
- Mandonius* defeated by Scipio, vii. 27, d, e. Goes over to him, 62, f. Defeated, 71. Afresh, and punished, 73, d.
- Mandrakes* found by Reuben, what, i. 441, (Y).
- Maneros*, Egyptian traditions about him, i. 213, e.
- Manes*, the son of Jupiter by Tellus, ii. 320, b. First king of Lydia, 332.
- the arch-heretic, when he flourished, iv. 328, b, (E). Other particulars of him, 377, d, e. His true name, writings, &c. 378, (C).
- Manichees* suppressed by Gratian, vi. 389, a. Three sects of them condemned to death, 397, a.
- Manilian* law passed in favour of Pompey, v. 101, pass.
- Manilius*, one of Catiline's conspirators, v. 102, & seq. Proscribed, 106, b.
- Nepos. See Nepos, vii. 97, e.
- Manis*, king of Phrygia, ii. 301, b.
- Manius*'s desperate advice to Fulvia, v. 264, b. Bitter speech against Octavian, ibid. d. Put to death, 271, a.
- Mankind*, incorrigible, i. 85, b. Destroyed by the flood, ibid. & seq. First migrations about Ararat, 141, & seq.
- Manlius*, T. intercedes for the Jews, iv. 65, d.
- Cn. success against the Hetrurians, 507, & seq. Against the Veientes, 513, b, c. Driven from the forum, ibid. c, f.
- A. sent to Athens to compile the laws, iv. 532. Made decemvir, 534, a.
- saves the capitol, 565, d. Envy Camillus's glory, 571, a, b. Imprisoned by the dictator, 572, c. Released by the senate, ibid. f. Tried before the comitia, 573. His punishment, 574, b.
- his brother chosen military tribune, ibid. c. Outwitted by the Volsci, 577, c, (P). Chosen dictator, 581, b.
- Imperiosus chosen dictator, 585.
- Titus, his pious stratagem in favour of his father, iv. 586, b. Promotion, ibid. c. Why called Torquatus, 588, a, b. Chosen dictator, 591, f. Defeats the Falisci, 592, a. Second dictatorship, 594, b. Consulship, 595, c. Success against the Latins, 600. Severity to his brave son, 601. Defeats the Latins, 602. March against the Hetrurians, 628, c. Killed by a fall, ibid. f.
- his son kills Metius in single combat, 601, a. Put to death, ibid.
- L. prætor in Gaul, 693. Ill success against the Boii, 694.
- Atilius, stratagem against the Carthaginians, vi. 835, (S). Defeats their fleet, 836, pass. Returns to Rome, 837, c.
- Manna* rained down on the Israelites, i. 509, & seq. Described, ibid. & notes.
- Persian, described, ii. 39, b.
- Manfuetus* unfortunately killed by his son, v. 626, a. A scene of horror ensues, ibid. & seq.
- † Mantineæ, the infamous temple and oracle of, vi. 38, d, e.
- Mantineans* league with the Athenians, ii. 514, & not. Expelled their city, ibid. & seq. Rebuild it, 617.
- † Mantua, where sited, vii. 306, d. Taken by the Huns, 479. Given to the disbanded veterans, v. 262, e.
- Manuel*, defeated in Egypt, vi. 543. His bravery saves Theophilus, 568. Flees to the Saracens, 569, a. Restored to great honours, ibid. d, e. Retires, 571.
- the emperor proclaimed, 618, f. Treachery to the crusaders, 619, a, b. Wars against the king of Sicily, ibid. d, e. Distressed by the Turks, 620, a. Peace with them, ibid. b, c. Death, ibid. d.
- the son of Michael Paleologus, killed, 638, c.
- the son of John, defeated by Bajazet, 646, c—f. Resigns to his nephew, 647. Begs assistance of christian princes, ibid. c, d. Restored, ibid. e. Dies, ibid. f.
- Manumission*, how performed at Rome, iv. 470, (D).
- † Maracanda, by whom built, iii. 845, d. Besieged by the Scythians, 371, f. Relieved by Alexander, 373, c.
- † Marab, the bitter waters of, sweetened, i. 508.
- Maran-atta*, highest excommunication, i. 674, a.
- † Maranithæ, who and where sited, vii. 231, d.
- Marasas*, defeated and killed, vi. 534, f.
- Maratæ*, Cuprit, the robbers of, put to the sword, vi. 371, e, f.
- Maratbas*, bishop, in veneration among the Persians, iv. 338. Heals the Persian prince, 339, d.
- Maratbon*, king of Sicily, ii. 350, c.
- the famed battle of, described, 462, & seq.
- † Marble of Synada, famed, ii. 293, d.
- Marc*, St. bishop of Jerusalem, vi. 41, a.
- Marcelli*, patrons of the Sicilians, iii. 126, e.
- Marcellianus*, made duke, vi. 361, e. Treachery, ibid. e, f.
- Marcellinus*, success against the Neapolitans, vi. 291, d. Lost at the battle of Marsa, 285, a. Sent into Gaul, 297, a. Leaves Julian in the lurch, 298, e. Accused and stripped, ibid. & seq.
- brother of Maximus, defeated and drowned, 413, b.
- raises a new empire in Dalmatia, 507, b. Joins with Anthemius, 508, c—e. Sent to invade Sardinia, 509, a, b. Success against Genseric, vii. 538. Assassinated, vi. 509, e. vii. 539, b.
- Marcellus*'s conquests in Sicily, iii. 107, f, & seq. Besieges Syracuse, 111, c, d. New-invented machine, 112, a. Other conquests, &c. 113, & seq. Singular clemency, 117, & seq. Plague in his army, 118, e. Takes Syracuse, 121, & seq. Clemency to it, ibid. & seq. Other conquests, &c. 124, & seq. Unjustly accused, 126, b, c. Cleared, ibid. d. How far to blame, ibid. & not.
- the son of Claudius's signal bravery, iv. 735, b.
- opposes Cæsar's designs, v. 128, c. Makes Pompey protector, 130, c. Pardoned, 166, c. Stabbed by Chilon, ib. e.
- Octavia's son marries Pompey's daughter, 273, b. Adopted by Augustus, 301, a. Falls out with Agrippa, 303, c. 304, a. Dies suddenly, ibid. c, f.
- Granius, tried and acquitted of treason, 379, d, e.
- Epirus, shamefully acquitted by Nero, 526, b, c.
- condemned for treason, 654, e. Kills himself, ibid. f.
- the false accuser of Thrasea, 664, e, f.
- Cornel. put to death by Galba, 583, d.
- puts Serenianus to death, vi. 368, f. Takes the imperial dignity, 369, a. Tortured to death, ibid. b.
- Marcellus*,

- Marcellus* revolts, and stabs himself, vi. 530, a.
 — success against Hannibal, vii. 35, f, & seq. 44, f. Drives him into Apulia, 45, b. Treachery to the Casilinians, 48, a. Success in Spain and Sicily, 61, a, &c. Worked, ibid. & seq. Defeated and killed, 64, b, c.
 — fatal success in Britain, 432, b, c.
Marcia the wife of Regulus's bloody revenge on the Carthaginians, iv. 670, e.
 — a favourite of Commodus, vi. 88, a. Befriends the christians, ibid. b. Doomed to death, 93, b, c. Poisons Commodus, ibid. e. Put to death, 105, c.
 † — the grove of, at Minuturnæ, v. 59, a.
Marcian's revolt and punishment, vi. 515, d, e.
Marcian's excellent character, vi. 9, c.
 † Marcianopolis, where sited, vi. 370, c.
Marcianus's success against the Heruli, vi. 184, f. The supposed murderer of Gallienus, 185, pass.
 — general of Theodosius, taken prisoner, vi. 482, c. Marries his sister, 492, a, b. Chosen emperor, 493, a, b. Why set free by Genferic, ibid. d. Noble answer to Attila, 494, a. Convenes the council of Chalcedon, 498, a. Laws in favour of the church, 501. Takes Avitus his colleague, 502, b. His death and excellent character, 504, b, c.
Marcionites, their belief of two principles, i. 31.
Marcus, Caius. See Coriolanus, iv. 492, & seq.
 — C. burns the Carthaginians camp, 726, b.
 — M. Philipp. success in Macedonia, 762, c. Cruel terms to the Carthaginians, 770, & seq. Distressed by Aldrubal, 773, a, b. See also vol. vii. 71, 97, & 100.
 — Q. Rex, success in Gaul, v. 3, b. vii. 395, c, d.
 † Marcusman, where seated, v. 334, (S). Revolt against the Romans, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated by the Cherusci, 391, c. Put Domitian to a shameful flight, 678, d, e. Subdued by Trajan, vi. 21, b. War with M. Aurelius, 66, b, c. Enter Italy, 68, & seq. Miraculously defeated, 71, & seq. Treachery punished, 73, & seq. Peace with Commodus, 87, a, b. Their extract and antient feat, vii. [407], d, e. 600, c. Character, customs, &c. 601. Peace with Augustus, ibid. & seq. Defeated and subdued, 602, b, c.
Marcus, king of the Franks, vii. 550, b. Ill success against the Romans, 557, f, & seq. Treachery to Stilicho, vi. 433, f. The supposed father of Pharamond, 434, a.
Marcus Cato's son dies at Philippi, v. 252, c.
 — a freeman of Marius tortured to death, 76, b.
 — declared Cæsar, vi. 513, b.
Mardi subdued by Alexander, iii. 360.
Mardonius's unsuccessful expedition against Greece, ii. 111, b.
 Commands Xerxes's army, 124, & seq. Message to the Athenians rejected, 474, & seq. Defeated and killed, 126, c. 475. See also vol. iii. 275, & seq.
Mardac Empad, the Merodach-baldan of scripture, i. 945, c. Embassy to Heseekiah, ibid.
 † Marob, river that falls into the Nile, described, vii. 189, (I).
 † Marotis, part of lower Egypt, i. 176, b.
Mares milk, how forced down by the Scythians, ii. 276, e.
 † Marissa, where situate, iv. 93, (S).
 † Marga, where situate, vi. 257, a.
 † Margiana, in Persia, described, ii. 30, c. Its prodigious vines, grapes, &c. ibid. & (H).
Maria, the celebrated sister of Theodosius, vi. 390, c.
 — daughter of Stilicho, born, 421, c. Married to Honorius, 441, a. Her death, 456, a. Rich tomb discovered, ibid. f.
Marianna, the wife of Herod, her extract, iv. 123, a. Character, 127. Marriage, 130, b, & (Z). Alienated from him, 135, a. Sent to Massada, 138, b. Aversion to Herod, ibid. & seq. Accused of treason, 139. Heroic behaviour at her death, ibid. & seq.
 — daughter of Simon, married to Herod, 142. Accused of treason, 153, b.
 — daughter of Agrippa, 262, d. Her incontinency, 265, (E).
Marian faction revived in Afric, v. 80, b. In Spain, &c. ibid. c.
 † Mariandyni, their origin, &c. iii. 827, d, e.
 † Marianni, mountains in Bœthia, vii. 302, b, c, (I). 307, (K).
Marina daughter of Arcadius born, vi. 449, f. Her life, &c. 445, a, b.
Marines, a legion of, formed by Nero, v. 585, d. Massacred by Galba, ibid. e. Join with Otho against him, 594, d. Unhith by Vespasian, 647, c.
Marinus's revolt and defeat, vi. 167, b.
 — kills himself, 294, c. A pleader put to death, 357, b.
Marien, prince of Tyros, joins with Antigonus, iv. 123, b, (N).
Marius, put to death by Lucullus, iii. 743, d.
 — Caius, his character, v. 2, d. Tribuneship, ibid. d, e. Pretorship, 3, c. Ingratitude to Metellus, 14, & seq. Treachery, 17. Consulship, 19, c. Insolence to the Patricians, ibid. e, & seq. Cruelty to the Numidians, 21, c, f. Dreadful slaughter of them, 23, & seq. Proconsulship in Afric, 24, f. Rancour against Sylla, 27, c. Proconsulship of Numidia, 28, a. Splendid triumph, 30, a. Strict discipline, 32, f. Third consulship, 33, a. Fourth, how managed, ibid. e. Noble canal in Provence, 34, d. Success against the Teutones, 35, & seq. Fifth consulship, 37, c, d. Cruelty to the Cimbri, ibid. c, & seq. Triumph and temple, 38, & seq. Plots to enslave his country, 40, b, c. Law against the senate, ibid. f. Treachery to Metellus, 41, b, c. To the senate, 42, pass. Upholds the rebels, 43, a, b. Retires into Pontus, 44, b. Insolence to Mithridates, ibid. & seq. Returns to Rome, 45, c. Mortified by Scylla, ibid. & seq. Defeated by the Marfi, 50, f. Opposes Scylla, 53, b. Chosen general against Mithridates, 54, b. Forced out of Rome, 55, b. Proscribed, ibid. c. Dangerous flight, 56, & seq. Seized, 58, b. Released by the Minturnenses, ibid. d. Embarks for Aenaria, ibid. & seq. Repulsed by Sextilius, 59, b, c. Proud answer to him, ibid. d. Lands at Cercina, 60, a. Recalled by Cinna, 61, b. Joins with him, ibid. c, d. Success against the consuls, 62, pass. Repulsed at the Janiculum, 63, c. Cruelties and butcheries in Rome, 64, & seq. Seventh consulship, 66, c. Madness and death, ibid. & seq.
Marius, his son's dangerous escape, 56, & seq. Goes into Numidia, 59, e. Rejoins his father, 60. Imitates his cruelty, 66, & seq. Chosen consul, 67, a. Butchers Scylla's friends, 72, b, c. Defeated by him, ibid. d, e. His death, 75, a.
 — Ignatius killed, 52, b.
 — Sextus executed, 447, a.
 — Maximus, his history lost, vi. 19, c. Writings, &c. 149, sub not.
 — Aurel. proclaimed in Gaul, 184, a. Murdered, ibid. b.
Mark, the evangelist, whether the founder of the therapeutes, iv. 173, c.
 — a christian bishop, surprising martyrdom, 246, (C).
 — made emperor, and killed, vi. 454, a. vii. 436, d.
 — patriarch, deposed by the Trapezuntines, 289, (C).
Martha's success against Perseus, iii. 485, f. 487, e. Gets into the vale of Tempe, 488. Ill luck in Macedon, ibid. d, e.
 † Marmarians, their site, and desperate defence, iii. 330, c.
 † Marmarica Libya, described, vii. 167, & seq. By whom inhabited, 168, d, & seq. Distinct from Egypt, 169, c.
 † Marmora, the sea of, described, iii. 201, (P).
Marna, Marna/b, idol worshipped in Gaza, i. 343, a.
 † Maro builds Maronea in Thrace, i. 243, c.
Maroboduus, driven out of his kingdom, vii. 601, c.
 † Marobudum, by whom built, vii. 600, e, f.
Maronites, settled in Libanus, vi. 546, c. Defeated by Justinian, 547, a. Plundered by Onomastus, iii. 479, b.
 † Marpesius, mount, famed for marble, iii. 222, e, f.
Marriage, whether obligatory by the Mosaic law, i. 677, (L). Conflagrinity, how far excluded from it, 678, a. Incestuous, punished with death, ibid. & seq. Other laws concerning it, 679, c. 680, a, b. How celebrated, 675, pass. 680, c, d. Talmudic precepts about it, 681, (S).
 — how regulated by Lycurgus, ii. 561, pass. How performed among the Romans, iv. 424, (W). Laws concerning them, 434, a. 437, b. New oaths appointed about them, 683, c. Promoted by Augustus, v. 312, a, &c. 337, e, & seq. Of nieces, &c. made capital, vi. 276, b, c. And between Jews and Christians, 415, b, c.
 † Marrucini, where sited, iv. 411, f. Defeated by Scylla, v. 50, d, e.
Mars, his festival at Papremis, i. 208, c, d.
 — how worshipped by the Scythians, ii. 272. Why so called, vi. 817, (I). How worshipped by the Gauls, vii. 347, b, c. Bloody sacrifices, 354, pass. His other names, ibid. c, (O). 355, a, (P). Reckoned an infernal deity, 358, a, (W). Worshipped in Germany, [419], c.
 — his supposed sword found, 467, b.
 — temple built by Augustus, iv. 313, f.
 — pretended appearance to the Roman army, 643, f, (B).
 † Marseilles, besieged by Jul. Cæsar, v. 135, d. Surrendered 137, a. Besieged by Constantine, vi. 237, f. When founded, 713, (A). Maximian's tomb there, 239, f. Yielded to Theodoric, vii. 573, d.
 † — the famed university of, 376, c—e. Founded by the Greeks, 381, c.
 † Marfi, their antient territories, iv. 481. Origin, v. 33, c. Erected into a republic, 49, a. Invaded by Rutilius, ibid. c. Defeated by Pompey, 51, b. Defeat Cato, 52, b. Butchered by Germanicus, 369, & seq. By Cæcina, 373, a, (X). Gained over by Scylla, vii. 396, d.
Marfan war, whence so called, v. 47, b.
Marfyes, king of Lydia, ii. 332, e.
 — a famed musician, 294, b, (P).
 — famed christian martyr, iv. 247, sub not.
 † — a river in Phrygia, ii. 294, b, (P).
Martace, one of Herod's wives, iv. 151, sub not. Goes to Rome with her son, 186, a.
Martba's wordly care blamed by Christ, iv. 224, d.
 — a famed conjurer, v. 35, a.
Martbesia, queen of the Amazons, ii. 279, not.
Martialis, Corn. repulsed by Vitellius, v. 631, d, e. Taken prisoner, 632, c.
 — the famed epigrammatist, 692, sub not.
Martina, married to Heraclius, vi. 539, f. Poisons the Constantines, 544, b. Her punishment, ibid. c.
Martinianus, created Cæsar, vi. 258, e. Sent against Constantine, ibid. f. Put to death, 259, d.
 — sent against the Persians, 532, c, d.
Martinus's brave opposition of Catena, vi. 288, d, e. Kills himself, ibid.
 — his house burnt by the Eutychians, 522, a.
 — killed before Rome, vii. 657, c.
Martyrdom of the first christians, an instance of the divine wisdom, iv. 246, (C).
 † Martyropolis, taken by the Persians, iv. 360, c. Restored to the Romans, 363, c. Where situate, vi. 525, d. Besieged and forsaken, ibid. d, e. Betrayed and retaken, 535.
 † Mar-

- Martyr*, the era of, vi. 206.
Marulus, made governor of Judæa, iv. 257, b.
 — why deposed by Julius Cæsar, v. 178, d, e.
Mary, the mother of Christ, her lineage, iv. 154, b. 155, (Q). Visit to Elizabeth, 158, a. Delivered at Bethlehem, 159, a, b. Maintained by her son, 193, (X). Present at his crucifixion, 240, c.
 — Magdalen. See sub Magdalen, 224, & seq.
 — a christian queen of Persia. See Schirrim, 399, e.
 — princeps, put to death by Andronicus, vi. 621.
Mascezel, defeated by Theodosius, vi. 359, e, f. Singular character, 439, e. Miraculous success against his revolted brother, ibid. & seq. Treacherously murdered by Stilicho, 440, e, f.
 † Masib, Aram's fourth son, where settled, i. 163, f.
Masnijsa's success against the Massilians, iv. 723, d. Against the Romans, 725, c, d. Allies with them, 737, e. 738, d, e. Betrays the Carthaginians, 741, d. Success against Syphax, 743, c. Marries Sophonisba, ibid. d. Forced to poison her, 744, b. His reward, ibid. e, f. 748, c. Wars with Carthage, 769, d. Valour and victories, 780, a. Defeated by Syphax, vii. 50, c. Assists the Carthaginians in Spain, 56, c. Sent to ravage Hispania Citerior, 63, d. Defeated by Scipio, 69, & seq. Abandons the Carthaginians, 70, c, d. Consults with Adrubal, ibid. f, & seq. Interview with Scipio, 72, b, c. Reasons of his defection, 75, d, e. Joins with him, 76, b. Burns Syphax's camp, 77, e. Gallantry at the battle of Zama, 82, pass. Seizes on the Carthaginian territories, 85, b. 93, d, e. Disputes them before the Roman senate, ibid. & seq. Takes a number of their cities, 94, & seq. Succours the Romans, 95, c. Defeats Adrubal, 96, e. Last message to Æmilianus, 100, f. Recovers his kingdom, 123, pass. Defeats Syphax, ibid. e, f. Ravages the Carthaginians, 124, a. Narrow escape, ibid. c, d. Fresh defeat, ibid. & seq. Recovers Syphax's kingdom, 125, a—c. Forces Carthage to make peace, ibid. d, e. Disobliges the Romans, 126, a. His death and character, ibid. & seq. Kingdom, how divided, 127, a. Genealogy, 138, pass.
 † Masis, mount, whether the ark rested on it, i. 110, 111. Described, ibid.
Masfies Xerxes's brother put to death, ii. 128, & seq.
Masfius famed general of Persia, ii. 125, d.
 † Masius, mount, in Armenia, iii. 695.
Major, Egypt why so called, i. 174, b.
Masruk, the last Ethiopian king in Yaman, vii. 271, e.
Massa, Bebius, one of Domitian's informers, v. 674, d.
 — condemned for extortion, 683, d, e.
 † Massada, besieged by Antigonus, iv. 127. Taken by the zealots, 269. By the Romans, 289, & seq. The Jews desperate end there, 290, b.
Massaga, taken by Alexander, iii. 387, b, & c.
 † Massagetae, Scythians described, ii. 280, a.
 — defeated by Craterus, iii. 382. Invite the Romans, vi. 525, e. When first called Turks, 531, e. Where situate, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Ottoman, 635, f. Ravage Hellespont, 636, a.
 † Massab, where Moses smote the miraculous rock, i. 511.
Massala's speech in favour of Herod, iv. 126, e.
Massana, surprised, iii. 88, b.
Massilians, illusory answer to Cæsar, v. 135, c. Bloody sacrifices, vii. 325, a, b.
Massiva begs the Numidian crown, v. 11, e. Murdered by Jugurtha, ibid. f, & vii. 130, c.
 † Massyli and Masalyli, part of Numidia, vii. 107, a. Of Mauritania, ibid. e. Their site, extent, &c. 108, a—c. 112, e, f. Government, &c. 119, & seq. Become a Roman province, 137, e.
Massanabal's succession and death, vii. 127, a, b.
Massic of Chios famed, iii. 108, b.
Massifs of Adranum, why famed, iii. 8, e, & seq.
Matajunta married to Germanus, vii. 664, a.
Maternus, a famed philosopher, put to death, v. 674, f.
 — revolt and death, vi. 90, b, c.
Matbeas, Macbeas, king of Scythia, ii. 286.
Matbos, a ring-leader of the Libyan war, vi. 858. Besieges Hippona, 859, c. Takes Hannibal and other prisoners, 863, b. Crucifies them, ibid. & seq. His dismal end, 864, pass.
 † Matrone, in Germany, who, vii. [418], (C).
Matronalia, the festival of, at Rome, iv. 432, a, (G).
Mattaniab. See Zedecriab.
Mattatbia's noble zeal for his religion, iv. 54, & seq. Decree for self-defence on the sabbath, 55, c, d. Restores the temple worship, ibid. e. Dying advice to his sons, 56, & (O).
 — a high-priest deposed, 183, c.
Mattibrew, St. called by Christ, iv. 206, b. His readiness justified, ibid. (Q).
 — the son of Cantacufen assumes the purple, vi. 645, d. Defeated, and resigns it, ibid. e.
Mattias defiled on expiation eve, iv. 153, (O).
 — a tumultuous doctor, burnt alive, 182, & seq. A disciple of Christ, chosen apostle, 249, b, (G). A Jew, made high-priest, 261, b. Lets Simon into the city, 277, a. Put to death, 283, b.
 † Mattiacum, capital of the Mattiaci, vii. 407, d.
 • † Mattium, metropolis of the Catti, v. 373, (W). Burnt by the Romans, ibid. a.
Matuta, goddess, who, iv. 578, b.
Mavia sends succours to the Romans, vi. 387, f. Against the Goths, vii. 234, a.
 † Maurefi, where seated, vii. 140, d.
 † Mauri, who and why so called, vii. 140, b, c. Obscure origin, 156, a, b.
Mauringe, seized by the Lombards, vii. 616, e, d.
 † Mauritania, described, vii. 107, & seq. Why called Tingitania, ibid. b. Its extent, ibid. c. Whence called Mauritania, 140, a. How divided, ibid. d. Its rivers, &c. ibid. & seq. Mountains, 142, & seq. Natural rarities, 148, & seq. First inhabitants, 149, a—d. Government, ibid. & seq. Religion, 150, & seq. Language, 151, a, b. Customs, &c. ibid. & seq. Habit, 152, a. Arts, &c. ibid. & seq. Riches, 153, a, b. Kings, ibid. & seq. Conquests and division, 159, c, d. Delivered by Sertorius, v. 86, c. Subdued by Geta, 493, d. Declares for Vitellius, 614, f. Secured to the Romans, vi. 485, a.
 — nova, whence so called, vii. 135, a.
Mauritius's friendship to Cosroes, iv. 363, & seq. Ill requited by him, 365, pass. Sent against the Persians, vi. 533, c. Extract and character, ibid. e, f. Success against them, ibid. & seq. Crowned Cæsar and emperor, ibid. & seq. Kindness to young Cosroes, 535, d. Delivered from the Avari, ibid. e, f. Insulted by his soldiers, 536, a. Put to death with five of his children, ibid. d.
 — a wicked tool of Gordian, vi. 161, d, e. Banished, ibid. f. — bishop crowns Julian, 510, c.
 † Mausoleum, of Doris, described, ii. 759, a.
Mausolus, king of Caria, oppresses the Rhodians, iii. 136, b.
Maxentius's extract, &c. vi. 207, d. Rejected from being Cæsar, 218, b. 230, e, f. Proclaims himself emperor, 231, c, & seq. Deposed by Maximian, 235, f. Protected by the soldiers, 236, a. Success and cruelties in Africa, 241, a—d. At Rome, ibid. & seq. Witchcrafts and butcheries, 242, a, b. Breaks with Constantine, ibid. & seq. Defeated by him, 245, d, e. Stratagem against him, 246, a, b. Falls upon himself, ibid. d, e. His defeat and death, ibid. e. Carried to Rome, ibid. & seq. The first traitor of the follis tax, 269, e.
Maxima, the wife of Chilo, accused of magic, vi. 356, e.
Maximian chosen partner with Dioclesian, vi. 207, b. Rise and character, ibid. c, d. Success in Gaul, ibid. & seq. In Germany, 208, a. Defeated in Britain, ibid. f. Success in Africa, 211, a. Against the Moors, 213, f, & seq. Resigns the empire, 217, e, f. Resumes it, 233, f. Defeats Severus, 234, f. And Maxentius, ibid. & seq. And Constantine, 237, d, e. Taken prisoner, 238, a. Ingratitude and death, ibid. f, & seq.
Maximin, chosen Cæsar, vi. 218, b. Preferred to Maxentius, 230, e. Extract, &c. ibid. f. Share of the government, 233, c. Consulship, 234, d. Made filius Augustorum, 237, b. Agrees with Licinius, 240, c. Cruelty to Valeria, ibid. e, f. To Dioclesian, 241, a. Joins with Maxentius, 242, e. Enmity to christians, 248, a, b. 250, b. Brings sad calamities on the empire, ibid. c, d. Marches against Licinius, 252, c. Defeat and flight, ibid. e, f. Poisons himself, 253, b. Dreadful end, ibid. d. Followed with that of his friends, &c. ibid. & seq.
 — brother-in-law to Valentinus his wife and cruelties at Rome, 356, d, e. Promotion, 357, c. 358, c. Bloody prefectship, ibid. d. Enmity to the Quadi, 361, e. Put to death, 377, f.
Maximianus condemned to death, vi. 88.
 — a Gothish general, revolts in Gaul, 145, d. Murders Alexander, 146, a. Declared emperor, 150, & seq. His extract, strength, and gigantic stature, 152, a—d. Devouring stomach, ibid. d. Rise, and horrid cruelties, ibid. & seq. Waits Germany, 152, d. March into the north, ibid. & seq. Proscribed, 154, a. Mad behaviour, ibid. & seq. March into Italy, 158, d, e. Assassinated, 159, c, d. His head brought to Rome, 160, b.
 — his son declared Cæsar, 150. His character, 151. Made colleague, 152, a. Prescribed, 154. And assassinated, 159, c.
Maximus, Pupien. Vid. Pupien, vi. 156, & seq.
 — Julian's magic master, vi. 321, b. Careless at court, 226, b. His character and arrogance, ibid. c, d. Writings, 339, sub not. Put to death for his witcheries, 348, d. 375, a.
 — the father of Euclid, different from the magician, 375, a.
 — general in Britain's revolt, 397, f. Extract, &c. 398, a, b. Crosses into Gaul, ibid. c. Defeats and kills Gratian, ibid. & seq. A scurvy pun turned into a prophecy by his tools, 399, c. Acknowledges Theodosius's colleague, 402, a, b. Invades Valentinian, 412, c, d. Defeated, and put to death, 413, a—d.
 — made emperor in Spain, 462, a, b.
 — Petronius undermines Ætius, 499, a. Murders Valentinian, ibid. d, e. Mounts the throne, 500, b, c. Marries his widow, ibid. e, f. Murdered, 501, a.
 † Maxula, where situate, vi. 666, d. Described, ibid. &c.
 † Mazaca, metropolis of Cappadocia, iii. 762, a.
 — taken prisoner, vi. 360, f. Death, ibid.
Mazaces surrenders to Alexander, iii. 345.
Mazdek, a Manichee impostor in Persia, 369, c. Put to death, 390, d. See vol. vii. 274, c, d.
 † Mazices, who, vi. 360, b. Submit to Theodosius, ibid. Defeated by him, ibid. c.
 † Mazicbi, where situate, vi. 452, b. Ravage Egypt, ibid. &c.
 † Meander, a river in Phrygia, ii. 294, a. 318, b.
Mebarjaner, king of Adiabene, driven out, iii. 851, f. Treachery to Trajan, vii. 18, e, f.
Mebodes, made trustee of Cavades's testament, iv. 238, b. Defeats the Romans, 360.

- Mæcenas* reconciles the triumvirs, v. 27, b. His character and pedigree, ibid. (G). Diverts Augustus from resigning, 295, c. A sketch of his politics, ibid. d, e. Cuckolded by Augustus, 312, b. Death and character, 323, c—e. Works, ibid. & seq.
- † Mecca, where situate, vii. 236, b. Described, ibid. c. How supplied with water, &c. ibid. & seq. Its vast concourse, 237, a. Temple and Sharif, ibid. b. By whom built, ibid. d, e. Seized by Mohammed, vi. 543, a.
- Medad*, a camp-prophet of the Jews, i. 525, (H).
- † Medea, princess of Colchis, whether carried off by the Greeks, ii. 318, c.
- daughter of Aetes, procures Jason the Golden Fleece, 384, (G). Cruelty to her brother, ibid. & seq. Banished to Corinth, 385, a. Sad effects of her jealousy there, 393, b.
- † — city taken by the Saracens, vi. 550, b.
- † Medes, why called Madai in Scripture, i. 168, b. Shake off the Assyrian yoke, 895, b. Their origin, ii. 6, c. Government, &c. ibid. & seq. Kings, 7. b. Religion, laws, &c. ibid. & seq. Chronology, 9, & seq. Subdued by Pul, 10. Fall into anarchy, ibid. & seq. Their kings from Deioces, 11. History, 12, & seq. Revolt from the Persians, 136, b. Reduced, ibid.
- † Media described, ii. 1, & seq. Invaded by the Scythians, ibid. d. See Medes above. Subdued by Cassius, vi. 65, c.
- † — Atropatia, see Atropatene, ii. 844, & seq.
- † Medina taken by Mohammed, vi. 543, a. Where sited, vii. 236, b. Described, 237, d, e.
- † Mediobriga, the lead-mine of, vii. 299, b.
- Mediocrinus*, Melitarchus, the first discoverer of the British Isles, vii. 402.
- † Mediolanum in Wales, where sited, vii. 411, f.
- † — in Italy, taken by the Romans, iv. 690, d.
- † Mediomatris, who, and where sited, vii. 408, a.
- † Mediteranean, how called by the Jews, i. 576, a.
- Medon*, the son of Codrus, first Archon of Athens, ii. 269, b.
- Medontide* of Athens, why so called, ii. 369, b. Their office, &c. ibid. c.
- Medo-Perfic Empire*, conjectures about it out of oriental writers, ii. 188, & seq.
- † Medulia, taken by Tullus, iv. 444, b. by Ancus, 445, b.
- Medus*, the supposed father of the Medes, i. 1, not.
- Megabyfus* revolts from Artaxerxes, ii. 133, b. His bravery ill repaid, ibid. c. Message to Amyntas, iii. 247.
- Megacles*'s severity against Cylon's confederates, ii. 423, a. His party condemned for it, 427, d. Joins with Pylistratus, 449, & seq. Discomfited, 450.
- † Megalia taken by the Romans, iv. 775, c.
- Megallis*, a bloody mistress to her slaves, iv. 794, f. Her cruel death, 795, d.
- † Megalopolis, built by the Arcadians, ii. 617. Taken and ruined by Cleomenes, 647, c.
- † Megalopolitans sent to beg Antiochus's aid, ii. 646, b. Besieged by Polyperchon, iii. 455, & seq.
- Megapentes* king of Tyria, exchanges it for Argos, ii. 355, c. A bastard-son of Menelaus king of Sparta, 403.
- † Megara, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Join'd to Attica by Theseus, 366, c. Revolts, 491. Besieged by the Athenians, 510, & seq. Relieved by the Spartans, 511. Fortified by Phocion, 547. Taken by the Romans, 696. and razed, iii. 118, f. Taken by Æmilianus, vii. 101, e.
- † — one of the three parts of Carthage, vi. 662, d, e.
- Megareans*, outwitted by the Athenians, ii. 425, c. Revolt from them, 491. Join in the Peloponnesian war, 501. Reject the Nican peace, 512. Defeated, 547, f. Subdued by the Romans, 696.
- Megaric* philosophers held the world eternal, i. 6, d.
- Megas*, put to death by his brother, iii. 643.
- Megasthenes*'s character and writings, iii. 522, a, (M).
- Megasthus*, the Spartan footsayer's tomb, ii. 589, in fin. not.
- Meberdates* set up against Ootartzes, iv. 317, c. Betrayed by Abgarus, ibid. d. Defeated, 318, a.
- Mejellus*, Luc. Posth. succeeds in Sicily, vi. 829, & seq.
- † Mejerda river, stops up the Carthaginian harbour, vi. 663, c.
- Mela*, Pompon. where born, vii. 301, c. 313, f.
- Melambolus*, Egypt, why so called by the Greeks, i. 174, d.
- Melampus* obtains part of Argos, ii. 354, c.
- Melancrus*, tyrant of Lesbos, iii. 106, c.
- Melantbus*, chosen king of Athens, ii. 368.
- † Melanbenoe, a kind of canibals, vii. 605, b.
- † Melano-Gætuli, who and where sited, vii. 163, d. Their tribes, cities, &c. ibid. et seq. Known to the Carthaginians, 164, f, (A). Their way of fighting, travelling, &c. 165, a.
- † Melas, Meles river in Ionia, ii. 751, a.
- in Cappadocia, iii. 762, c.
- Melchisedec*, bishop of Rome, esteemed by Constantine, vi. 248, c.
- Melchizedec*, who, i. 327, c. Blesses Abraham, 328, a. Opinions about him, 327, (P).
- Meleager*'s hunting the famed Calydonian boar, ii. 410, b. & not. The fable of his birth and death, 411, (C).
- declares for Ardeus, iii. 415, b. Supplanted by Perdiccas, 416, c.
- brother of Ceraunus chosen king of Macedon, 470, c.
- Melenus*, confined for his great wealth, vi. 591, c, d.
- † Melians, who and whence, iii. 218, d. Cruelly used by the Athenians, ibid. e.
- Melicartus*, Hercules, son to Demaroon, i. 137, a. His temple at Gadez, ibid. (T).
- a Phenician deity, 397, b.
- Melissa*, one of Jupiter's nurses, iii. 165, b.
- Melissus* introduces worship in Crete, iii. 165, b.
- † Meiuta, the island of, taken and plundered by the Romans, iv. 662, a, 693, f.
- † Melitene, become an opulent city, vi. 18, d.
- the legion of, why called thundering, 72, b, c.
- Melitus*, the false accuser of Socrates, ii. 533, a.
- Mella*, And. put to death by Nero, v. 561, c, d.
- Mellobandes*'s success against the Allemans, vii. 594, d.
- † Melos island described, iii. 218. Taken by the Athenians, ibid. d. ii. 516, b. Subdued by the Romans, iii. 218, f.
- Melid*, king of Argos, deposed, li. 360, c.
- Memmia*, married to Alexander, vi. 139, b.
- Memmius*, Q. friendship to the Jews, iv. 65, d.
- Caius accuses Jugurtha, v. 8, f. His speech to the Comitia, 10, f, & seq. Murdered by Equitius, 42, d, e.
- a centurion's bravery against the mutineers, 366, c.
- Memnon*'s unsuccessful expedition, ii. 316, b. Brave exploits, ibid. d, e. Vocal statue, ibid. f. Described, v. 310, f.
- defeated by Alexander, iii. 325. Defends Halicarnassus, 328, d, & seq.
- wars with the Egyptians, vii. 210, & seq. The same with Menes, 211, b.
- † Memphis, Moph, metropol. of middle Egypt, i. 176, a. By whom built, ibid. See vol. vii. 216, b. Taken by Cambyses, ii. 96, c. His cruelty to her priests and citizens, 98, a. Taken by Alexander, 163, b.
- Memorus*, in the Phenician cosmogony, who, i. 87.
- Men*, whether any before Adam, i. 47, b, &c.
- Menabem* murders the king of Israel, i. 828, c. Cruel tyranny, ibid. Invaded by Pul, ibid. e, f. Death, 129, a.
- an Essenian foretells Herod's rise, iv. 132, sub not.
- head of the zealots massacred, 269, d.
- Menalcidas*, why accused to the Romans, ii. 691. Breaks the truce with Achaia, 692, d. Kills himself, ibid. e.
- Menalipe*, the famed Amazon's contest with Hercules, ii. 279, sub not.
- Menas* king of Bactria's conquests, iii. 846.
- † Menapii, who and where, v. 121, b. vii. 399, (R). Subdued by Cæsar, ibid. b.
- Menas* sets Pompey against the triumvirs, v. 271, d. His advice rejected, 272, c, f. Goes over to Octavian, 276, b. Defeated by Pompey, ibid. d—f. Returns to him, 278, c. Treachery to him, 280, f.
- † Mendes's labyrinth in Egypt, i. 259, d.
- Menelaus*, marries the fair Helen, ii. 318, f. Embassy after her, 319, f. Whether he left her in Egypt, 320.
- succeeds to the Spartan crown, 402. Defeated by Demetrius, iii. 183, b. Taken prisoner at Salamis, 184, a.
- the Jew buys the high-priesthood, 573. Apostatizes, 574, a. Causes Onias to be murdered, ibid. c. Other black crimes, 575, c. See also, vol. iv. 48, & seq. Robs the temple, ibid. c. Hellish politics, 49, c, d. Promotes a peace with Syria, 65, e. Cruel death, 69, e.
- a famed archer killed by Romulus, vi. 284, f.
- Meneceus* sacrifices his life for his country, ii. 374, c.
- Menenius* defeated by the Hetrurians, iv. 511, c.
- the son of Agrippa condemned by the tribunes, 512, c.
- Menes*, ibid.
- Menes*, the supposed 1st king of Egypt, i. 238, (N). Whether the son of Noah, 246, a, (A). Diverts the Nile's course, &c. ibid. a, &c. Introduces luxury, ibid. & 247. His death, 238, (N).
- Menesarchus*, tyrant of Eubœa, wars with the Thebans, iii. 251, c.
- † Meneftes, the port of, vii. 301, c.
- Menidas*, wounded at Guagamela, iii. 350, f.
- Meniba*'s history, whence extracted, i. 81, (N). Egyptian chronology, 92, d. Why discredited by several writers, 236, d. Egyptian dynasties examined, ibid. &c.
- Menvis*, a bull worshipped in Egypt, i. 206, a.
- † Meninx island described, vii. 176, f.
- Menippus*'s speech to the Romans, iii. 548, c.
- Menitillus* facilitates Demetrius's escape, iii. 590, a.
- speech to the Roman senate, 651, c.
- Menius*, a plebeian, chosen consul, iv. 603, d. Makes the first Rostrum, ibid. f. Chosen dictator, 615, b. Tried and acquitted, ibid. d. Rechosen, 619.
- Menocrates* defeated by Menas, v. 276, c. His death, ibid. d.
- Menon*, the husband of Semiramis, i. 876, a.
- Menophilus*'s defence of Aquileia, vi. 158, f, & seq.
- Mento*, C. Julius's fatal quarrel with his colleague, iv. 549, et seq.
- Mentor*, the Rhodian commands the Greeks in Egypt, i. 278. Goes over to the king of Persia, ibid. & seq. Betrays Sison to him, 411, c. Amply rewarded by Ochus, ii. 153.
- † Menz, the inventress of Printing, vii. [416]. Put to fire and sword by the Hunns, 474, a. by the Vandals, 529, d. by the Allemans, 583, c.
- † — Drusus's monument at, [416], b.
- † Menutia island in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b. Whether the present Madagascar, 191, b.

- Meon*, whether the name of an idol, i. 286, (F).
 — the father of Cybele, ii. 297, a, (W), 328, b.
 † Meonia, the ancient name of Lydia, ii. 289, (B), 328, b.
Mephibosheth kindly treated by David, i. 278, & seq.
Merrari, one of the three chief branches of Levites, i. 633, b.
Merbal king of Tyre, i. 417, c.
Mercenaries revolt against the Carthaginians, vi. 851, & seq.
 Odd mixture and arrogance, 853, pass. 855, a, b. The rest see under Libyans.
 — in Sicily, revolt and cruelties, 864, b, c.
Mercidinus mensis, what, v. 171, sub not.
Mercidonus dies, what, iv. 438, a, & (O).
Mercury, the son of Jupiter by Maia, ii. 263. Where born, 379, (H). Why so called, 255, & not. Why worshipped by the Celtes, ibid. His other names, ibid. Succeeds his father, 264. Polishes the Celtes, ibid. & c. Worshipped by the Carthaginians, vi. 689, d, (V). by the Gauls, vii.
 347, b, c. 356, e, & seq. His Gaulish names, 367, a, b, (T). Why reckoned an infernal deity, 358, a, (W).
 The god of riches, ibid. c. Supposed tomb in Spain, ibid.
 d. Why styled Augustus, ibid. (Y). His heaps or mounds, what, 359, a, (Z). Why represented of no sex, ibid. a, b, (Z). Why in the guise of Hercules, 382, e, & seq. & (V).
 — his temple consecrated at Rome, iv. 488, a.
Mercy-Seat, or oracle of the Jews, described, i. 654, a, & seq.
Meribab, the station where Moses smote the miraculous rock,
 i. 511, & 532, b.
 † Meridab, Emerita, Augusta, by whom built, v. 299, e.
 New-colonized by Otho, 692, e. Taken by Rechila, vi.
 484, f. Taken and ravaged by the Goths, 510. by the Visigoths, vii. 513, b. by the Suevi, 545, f.
Meriones king of Crete, iii. 196, d. Adored by the Cretans, ibid.
Mermeros defeated, iv. 347, c. Outwitted by the Martyropolitans, ibid. f. Sent to relieve Petra, 355, & seq. Death and character, 356, c, & (Y). See also vol. vi. 524—528.
Mermades, a race of Lydian kings, ii. 330, a.
Merobaudes kills Macrinus, vi. 362, f. Proclaims young Va-lentinian, 377, c, d. Commands under Gratian, 398, d.
 Put to death by Maximus, 400, a.
Merodach, a Babylonian deity, i. 925, a.
Meroc, daughter of Cyrus, married to Cambyfes, ii. 98.
 Killed by him, ibid. & seq.
 — persuades Porus to submit to Alexander, iii. 392, e.
 † — an island in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b. Its site, ibid. c, (N). Described, ibid. & seq. Priests in high power, 194,
 e. Observe the Mosaic law, 195, e, et seq.
 † — the city of, the seat of the Candaces, vii. 191, a.
 † Meronea, taken by the Macedonians, iii. 147, a.
Merone outwitted by Aetius, vii. 478, a. Carested at Rome, 561, a, b. Succeeds Clodio, 562, b. His noble services to the Romans, ibid. c, d. Reign, character and death, ibid. et seq. et (E). His line, ibid.
Meropus travels into India, vii. 417, e.
Merula, Corn. succeeds against the Gauls, iv. 753, b. Chosen consul, v. 61, a. Relinquishes to Cinna, 64, a. His death, 66, b.
Mesades king of the Odryssæ, iii. 792, a.
 † Mesembria taken by the Bulgarians, vii. 628, b, c.
Mesius sent to assist the Tyrians in Spain, [325], d.
Meser divides Egypt among his three sons, i. 280.
Messemorobadus king of Babylon, i. 946, c.
 † Mesba and Sepbar of Moses, where sited, i. 169, d.
 † — the mount of, various opinions about, ibid. e.
 † Mesbech, where seated, i. 169, b.
 † Mesjan Forest, taken by Ancus, iv. 446, b.
 † Mesopotamia conquered by Tigranes, iii. 701, b. by Mithridates, iv. 292, d. Plundered by Cossroes, 366, b. Subdued by Trajan, vi. 13, f. Put under tribute, 21, b, c.
 Reduced by Lætus, & c. 111, e. Revolts, 139, e. Ravaged by the Persians, 141, f. Recovered by Gordian, ibid.
 d. Invaded by the Persians, 276, a, b. 296, c. Put to fire and sword by the Saracens, 513, a. by Cossroes, 527, b.
 † Mesr, Egypt so called by the Orientals, i. 174, b.
Messala, Valer. escapes from the triumvirs, v. 226, e. His account of Cassius's last words, 244, b, (L).
 — L. Corvin. lands in Sicily, 278. Flagrant flattery to Ti-berius, 348, d. Well raised by Nero, 526, c.
 — Vipstanus commands the 7th legion, 624.
 — proscibes Julianus, vi. 106, c.
 — Silius put to death by Heliogabalus, 136, e.
Messalina married to Claudius, v. 487, c. Great sway over him, 488, b. 493, b. Cruelty and incontinency, 494, c.
 Murders, & c. 499, & seq. Marriage to Silius, 502, c, d. Accusation and distress, 503, pass. Death, 504, & seq.
 — Statilia married to Nero, 559, e.
Messalinus, M. Valer. sent into Dalmatia, v. 335, b. Motion against Piso opposed, 406, d, (E).
 — Carul. one of Domitian's informers, 674, c. His death,
 ibid. d.
 † Messana, Messina, a city in Sicily, described, iii. 2, d.
 Why so called, 3, a. Razed by the Carthaginians, 51, b,
 c. Rebuilt by Dionysius, 55, e. Attacked by the Carthaginians, 92, & seq. Relieved by the Romans, 94, b.
 Besieged by Hanno, 95, a. Invested by Octavian, v. 280,
 b. Seized and plundered by Plennius, 281, b—d. Invested by Himilco, vi. 760, b, c. Taken and razed, 761, a, b. by Timoleon, 780, c. Massacres the Corinthians, 817, c, d. Invites the Romans, 822, b, c. Receives them, 824, b, c. Besieged by Hanno, 825, a, b. Taken by the Romans, 826, d, e.
 † — the streights of, described, iii. 2, a.
 † Messene besieged by Demetrius, iii. 441, f.
Messengers of good news, their extortions restrained, vi. 366, b.
 † Messenia, Mycene, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. The kingdom of, formed by Accrisus, 354, d. 355, d. The kings of, ibid. e, & seq. Challenged by the Heraclidae, 356, b. Taken by them, 360. Regal dignity abolished, ibid. e. Invaded by the Lacedemonians, 570, & seq. Subdued, 577, & seq. Recovered under Aristomenes, 578.
 Betrayed, by Aristocrates, ibid. et seq. Inslaved by the Lacedemonians, 581, a.
Messian War, the cause of it, ii. 570. Second war, 577, et seq.
 † Messenia, Mycene, a city in Argos, ii. 351, b. Founded by Perseus, 355.
 † Messenians driven out of Peloponnesus, ii. 595, b. Rebel against the Achæans, 681. Rout them, ibid. & seq.
 Poison Philopemen, 683, a. Punished by his successor, ibid. & c.
Messian Family, an account of, vi. 168, b.
Messianus's embassy and entry into Touloufe, vi. 500, d.
 † Mestella, a city in Iberia, iii. 835, c.
 † Mestrei, the second race that governed Egypt, i. 92, d, (N).
Mutellus rescues the Palladium from the flames, iii. 309, f.
 iv. 680, et seq. His noble triumph over Aldrubal, and success in Spain, 780, d.
 — roman general's services to the Achæans, ii. 692. To the Spartans, 693. His deputies affronted by the Achæans, 694, d. Defeats them, 695. Takes Thebes, & c. 696,
 d. Offers of peace rejected, ibid. & seq. Goes into Macedonia, 697, c.
 — Q. Cæcil. conquers Macedon, 761, & seq. Success and noble behaviour in Spain, 780, & seq. Resentment against his successor, 782, a. Assassinated by Labeo, 798, a.
 His character of Scipio Africanus, 799, a. Cruelty to the Balearians, 801, e.
 — L. Cæcil. chosen consul, v. 1, a. Second consulship,
 3, d.
 — Caius Cæcil. success in Macedon, 5, a. Character, 13,
 f. March into Numidia, 14, pass. Success against Jugurtha, ibid. f. Proconsulship, 15, d. Siege of Zama, 16, a.
 Supplanted by Marius, ibid. & seq. 18, a, & seq. Success in Numidia, 20, b, c. Triumph at Rome, 21, b, c.
 Ensnared by Marius, 41, d. Banished, ibid. e. Biting farewell to Rome, ibid. f. Recalled, 43, f. 45, b. Noble speech to Sylla, 76, a. Ill success against Sestorius, 87, et seq. Defeats Hirtuleius, 92, c. and Perpenna, 93, c.
 Forced into Gaul, ibid. et seq.
 — Quint. Cæcil. chosen consul, v. 44, d. Strict discipline, ibid. et seq. Sent to defend Rome, 62, d. Retires into Africa, 68, e. Chosen consul, 99, e. Opposes Pompey, 111, d. Seized by the Tribune, ibid. e.
 — Pius success against the consul, 71, c. 72, b.
 — Scipio recalls Cicero, 119. Allies with Pompey, 127, f.
 Commands the centre at Pharsalia, 143, e. Passes into Africa, 155, c. Success against J. Cæsar, 159, pass. Rejects Cato's advice, 160, a. Defeated and killed, ibid. e.
 — Luc. sent to judge Jugurtha, vii. 130, f. Excellent character, ibid. & seq. Success, 131, pass. Threatning message to Bocchus, ibid. f, & seq.
 † Meteg Amnia, Gath, so called, why, i. 357.
Metodius's learned confutation of Porphyry, vi. 224, sub not.
Metona, razed by Philip, iii. 291, c. Taken by Agrippa,
 v. 289, d.
Metuselah, the grandfather of Noah, i. 78, a.
 † Metibymia, a city in Lesbos, describ'd, iii. 204, a.
Metius, Car. one of Domitian's informers, v. 674, pass.
 — Cassius's son put to death, vi. 77, a.
 — F. Nicomach. speech to Tacitus on his election, vi.
 198, d.
Metioici, at Athens, what, ii. 438, b.
Metrodorus's principles of indivisible bodies, i. 20, a. Where born, iii. 108, et not.
 — ambassador to Tigranes, 700, d. His death, ibid. e.
Metrophanes ravages Eubœa, iii. 733, c.
Metropolis, surrendered to Cæsar, v. 142, a.
Mettinus, king of Tyre, father of Pygmalion, & c. i. 415, e.
Mexentius's dreadful punishment revived, vi. 131, f.
Mexizius proclaimed at Syracuse, vi. 545. Put to death, ibid.
Micab, robbed of his Teraphim, i. 739, c, d. The prophet,
 839, (W).
Micah's prophecy against Ahab fulfilled, i. 812, e, et seq.
Mice, bred in sholes in the Nile's mud, i. 198, b.
Michal, Saul's second daughter married to David, i. 765, b.
 Stratagem to save him, ibid. & seq. Given to another,
 769, a. Restored to him, 774. Despises David's piety,
 776, c.
Michael, chosen emperor, vi. 562, d, e. Defeated by the Bulgarians, ibid. e, f. Relinquishes to Leo, e. 563, pass.
 Imprisoned by him, ibid. d.
 — Traulus forces Leo to assume the empire, 563, b. His treason

- treason and condemnation, 564, b. Mounts the throne by murder, ibid. c, d. Cruelty to Theodosia and her sons, ibid. e. Horrid heresies, ibid. d, e, & seq. Defeat, 565, b. Wicked and calamitous reign, 567, a, b. Death, ibid. d.
- the son of Theophylus made colleague, vi. 569, d. Becomes a second Nero, 571, c, d. Defeated by the Saracens, ibid. f. Expedition into Crete, 572, c. Murder'd by Basilus, ibid. f. Funeral honours, 574, e.
- a Paphlagonian raised to the empire, 595, c, f. Leaves the government to his brother John, 596, a—c. Resigns and dies, 597, b, c.
- Calaphates raised to the empire, 597, d. Cruelties and deposition, ibid. d, e.
- Stratonice chosen emperor, 601, c. Inability, ibid. d. Conspired against, ibid. & seq. Defeated and resigns, 602, d—f.
- Ducas set up by his uncle, 605, f, & seq. Fatal indolence, 606, b. Why nicknamed Parapanaces, 607, b, c. Forced to resign, ibid. d, e. Flees to Robert Guiscard, 609, e, f.
- Paleologus defeated by the Turks, 635, f. By the Catalans, 636, e, f. Dies for the loss of his son, 638, c, d.
- forced to turn Monk, vii. 632, b. Lays claim to the crown, ibid. e. Dies, ibid. & seq.
- † Micmasab, where sited, iv. 77, (P).
- † Micipsa, educates Jugurtha, v. 6, a, b. Books of Agriculture brought to Rome, iv. 778, (S). Succeeds Masinissa, vii. 127, a. Jealousy of Jugurtha, 128, a, b. Adopts him, ibid. c, d. Dies, ibid. e.
- † Micri Canini island described, iii. 215, f.
- † Micybus, regent of Rhegium, retires into Greece, iii. 21, c.
- † Midas, king of Phrygia, ii. 301, b.
- the son of Gordius, ibid. & not. Riches, &c. 302.
- IId, 303, b.
- IIIId, ibid. d.
- IVth, ibid. e.
- † Midian, the 4th son of Abraham by Keturah, i. 299, a.
- † Midianites, descended from him, i. 299, a. Confounded with the Ishmaelites, ibid. Their country, Arabia Petrea described, ibid. c. Early use of writing, 300, a. Wars, &c. ibid. et seq. Sell Joseph to Potiphar, 301, a. Debauched the Israelites, 303. Punished, ibid. & seq. New wars against them, 304, a, b. Defeated by Gideon, ibid. et seq. Downfall foretold, 305, a, b. When blended with the Arabians, ibid. & seq. See vol. vii. 226, & seq.
- † Migdol, a tower in Hebrew, i. 503, (O). A city on the Nile, 182, (C).
- † Migdonia, conquered by Tigranes, iii. 701, b.
- † Milan, declares for Vitellius, v. 601. Seized by Aureolus, vi. 179, f. Taken by Constantine, 245, f. Why the metropolis of Italy, 271, b. Taken by Attila, 437, a. vii. 479, c. By Theodoric, 524, a. By the Lombards, 620, c. By Belisarius, 658, d. Taken and put to the sword by the Ostrogoths, 660, b. Opens to Grimoald, 693, d.
- † Mileab, the wife of Nahor, i. 431, c.
- † Milefan fables, what, iv. 305, e.
- † Milefians, their state and character, ii. 757. How cultivated by the Parians, ibid. e. Transplanted by the Persians, ibid. et seq.
- † Mileum, by whom founded, ii. 369. Taken by the Persians, 110, d. By Alexander, 156, e. The state of it described, 756, & seq. The tyrants of, 758, a.
- tragedy of, 757, b.
- the temple of, to Caligula, begun, v. 468, d.
- † Miletus, chief of the Ionian confederacy, turns pirate, ii. 749.
- † Milias, part of Lycia, so called, ii. 337.
- † Milichus discovers a conspiracy against Nero, v. 552, et seq. His reward, 557, d.
- † Milinus, king of Crete, iii. 165, b.
- † Military treasure at Rome, what, v. 380, e, (I).
- † Militæ magistri, their office and number, vi. 271, b—d.
- † Millo, that proclaimed Abimelech, who, i. 747, (K).
- † Milo surrenders Tarentum, iii. 820, a. Punished for his double parricide, 821, a. See also vol. iv. 647, et seq.
- forwards Cicero's recall, v. 119, b. Bloody encounter with Clodius, 125. Banishment, 126, d.
- † Miltiades defeats the Persians, ii. 112, e. 460, et seq. His speech to Callimachus, 461, et seq. Unfortunate expedition against Paros, 464, et seq. See also vol. iii. 223, et seq. Death and extract, 465, et not.
- chosen king of the Dolonci, iii. 789, a, b. Rescued by the Lampfacians, ibid. c. Death, ibid. d.
- IId, seizes on the throne, ibid. d, e.
- † Miline, where situate, vi. 113, (A).
- † Mina, its value, ii. 429, a.
- of silver, iv. 5, (I). of gold, 115, (C).
- † Minacius, Mag. his faithfulness to the Romans, v. 49, d.
- † Minchab, the offering of, among the Jews, its various kinds, i. 624, a.
- † Mindarus, defeated and killed, ii. 526, 601.
- † Minerva, how celebrated at Sais, i. 208, b, c. by the Trojans, ii. 309, c. Her temple burnt at Affectus, 334. Her temple at Sympthalus, 376, a. at Tegea, 379. of brass, built by Castor and Pollux, 402, c. at Agrigentum, why burnt, vi. 749, b.
- † Minerva's target, a large dish, so called, v. 619, d.
- † Minervina married to Constantine, vi. 230, e.
- † Minervius's writings and character, vi. 316, (G).
- † Mines king of Lyncestus in Cilicia, ii. 343, a.
- † Minios's haughty speech to the Roman ambassadors, iii. 551, a, b.
- † Minniab, a considerable city of the Ammonites, i. 293, a.
- † Minoa, by whom built, iii. 12, c.
- † Minoas island, where, ii. 506, d. Taken by the Athenians, ibid.
- † Minorca island described, vii. 308, b, c.
- † Minos king of Crete, his bloody tribute on the Athenians, ii. 364, et seq. Gives laws to his island, iii. 163. Whose son he was, ibid. f. His reign, 166, b. Fleet, wars, &c. ibid. &c. Cruelty to the Athenians, 167, a. War with Cocalus, ibid. c. Murdered, ibid. d. His laws, ibid. & seq. Vid. et pag. 12, et seq.
- † Minotaur described, iii. 167, b.
- † Mint, when said to have been first erected, i. 131, (V).
- † Minturnensis's high regard to distressed Marius, v. 53, & seq.
- † Minutianus's writings and character, vi. 168, (X).
- † Minutius's speech in favour of Coriolanus, iv. 495, a, & c. 496, f. His speech to him, 500, a, b.
- L. surprized by the Æqui, 526. Degraded by Cincinnatus, 527, f.
- L. M. superintendant of the provisions, 547, f. Discovers Mælius's conspiracy, 548, b.
- Tib. Augur. chosen consul, 626, c. Slain by the Samnites, ibid. e.
- Rufus chosen general of horse, 705, e. Accuses the dictator, 706, & seq. Disobeys him, 707, d. Made equal to him, ibid. & seq. Submits to him, 708, c. Killed by the Carthaginians, 711, b. See also vol. vii. 25—30.
- † Miriam, Moses's sister, whether one of the Hebrew midwives, 477, (K). Sent to fetch a nurse for him, 478, e. Smiten with leprosy for ill-language, 526, a. Cured, ibid. b. Her death, 532, a. Sepulchre, ibid. (Q). Character and office, ibid. &c.
- a Jewish lady, eats her own child, iv. 282, b.
- † Miseto of the oak, sacred among the Gauls, vii. 330, sub not. Its virtues, &c. 332, a, b, (H), [416], e, (A).
- † Misibibus, chief minister to young Gordian, vi. 161, f. Letter against his wicked ministry, 162, a, (T). Signal merit, ibid. et seq. Honoured by the Senate, 163, b. Death, ibid. c.
- † Misor in the Phœnician records, the Mizraim of Egypt, i. 134, a, (D).
- † Misio, among the Romans, what, v. 359, (Q).
- † Misina, where situate, vi. 667, a.
- † Mitbras, the Parthian name of the sun, iv. 291, b.
- † Mitradates, Astyages's herdsman, ordered to murder young Cyrus, ii. 83. Brings him up, ibid. Confesses it, 84. Punished for it, ibid. et seq.
- † Mitridates I. 3d king of Pontus, iii. 724, b. Goes over to Alexander, 330, b.
- IId, wars with Antigonus, ibid. & seq.
- IIIId, his reign, 725, a.
- IVth, invaded by the Galatians, ibid. b.
- Vth, wars with the Synopians, ibid. c.
- VIth, a firm ally to the Romans, 726, d. Murdered, ibid. e.
- VIIth, his glorious reign and conquests, 727, & seq. Treachery, 728, c, d. Invades Bithynia, 729. Defeats the Romans, 730. Cruelty to them, 731, & seq. Defeated by the Rhodians, 733, c. 733, a. Ominous prodigies against him, ibid. (S). Defeated by Sylla, 734. by Fimbria, 736, a, b. Peace with Sylla, 737, & seq. Cruelty to his son, 739, a. New war, ibid. & seq. Ill-success before Cyzicum, 741, & seq. & (G). Defeats the Romans, 745, a. Forsook by his army, ibid. & seq. Murders all his wives, &c. 746, b. Renews the war against Rome, 748. Defeated, 749, c. Letter to Arfaces, 748, (K). Beats the Romans, 749, & seq. Besieged by Pompey, 751, e, f. Defeated again, 752. Flees into Scythia, 753. Appears afresh, 754. Forsook by his army, 755. Betrayed by his son, ibid. & seq. Kills himself, 756. His character, ibid. & seq. Funeral, 757, d, e.
- Iberus crowned king of Armenia, 710, c. Invaded by Artabanus, ibid. d. Sent prisoner to Rome, ibid. e. Restored, ibid. & seq. Betrayed by Pallio, 711, e. Murdered, 712, a.
- IId king of Armenia, joins with that of Pontus, 726, c.
- king of Parthia, takes Demetrius prisoner, 605.
- king of Pergamos's great services to Julius Cæsar, 676, a. 678, b, c. Made king of Bosphorus, 843, d. Killed, ibid. e. See also vol. v. 153.
- IId and IId kings of Iberia, 836, e, & seq.
- king of Atropatene, 844.
- of Comagene, made so by the Romans, 853, d.
- rescued by Antipater, iv. 117, b, & (E).
- IId king of Parthia's vast conquests, 292, c, d. Excellent character, ibid. e, f.
- IId, murders his father, 293, e. Driven out, ibid. f. Put to death, 294, b.
- † Misbridates,

- Mitridates* king of Iberia, wars against the Parthians, 315, b.
 Restored by Claudius, v. 478, d.
 — put to death by Galba, 585, b, c.
Mitridatic War, ii. 736, & seq. iii. 727, & seq. Renewed, 739, & seq. Its duration, 756, in fin. not.
Mitrobarzanes restored to his father's crown, iii. 699, d.
Mitre of the Jewish high-priest described, i. 640, a, & (B).
Mitula defeats the Romans, vii. 695, d. Made duke of Spoleto, 696, b.
 † Mitylene, metropolis of Lesbos, iii. 204, b. Its worthies, ibid. The seat of learning, ibid. c. Taken by Mnemon, 107, c.
 † Mitylenians, invaded by the Athenians, ii. 505. Succoured by the Peloponnesians, 506, iii. 106. In high favour with Alexander, 107, d. Compassion for Pompey, v. 148, a.
 † Mizpah, where, iv. 59, a. A place of worship to the Jews, ibid. & (R).
Mizraim, the beginning of his reign, i. 123, a. The 2d son of Ham, 165, a. Why of the dual number, 174, b. The scripture-name for Egypt, ibid.
 † Mnemon, promontory in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
Mnemon the Rhodian, invades Lesbos, iii. 107, c.
Mnemosyne, whence so called, iii. 163, b.
Mnesier, a comedian, debauched by Messalina, v. 504, b, (N). Put to death, ibid.
 — Agrippina's freedman, stabs himself at her funeral, 534, c.
Mnesibius undermines Theseus at Athens, ii. 367, a. Ascends the throne, ibid. c. Death after the Trojan war, 321.
 — Admiral of the Rhodians, v. 234, c, f.
 — Conspiracy and cruel death, vi. 195, b-d.
Mnevis, whether the same with Apis, vii. 209, b, (B).
 † Moab, the father of the Moabites, born, i. 284, a, b.
 † Moabites, their origin, i. 284, c. Where settled, i. 285, a, b. Their religion, customs and government, ibid. & seq. Drive out the Emims, and driven by the Amorites, 287, a. Why not admitted to intermarry with the Israelites, 289, b. Subdue them during 18 years, ibid. d. Defeated by Ehud, 290, b, c. Hospitality to David, ibid. c. Confederacy against him punished, ibid. d. Rebel against Ahaziah, 291, a. Defeated, ibid. b. Defeated by Jehoshaphat, 292, c, d. Cruelty to the Edomites, ibid. & seq. Subdued by Nabuchadnezzar, ibid. Made tributary to Alexander Janneus, iv. 100, b.
Moarwias sells the Colossus, iii. 131, c.
 † Moca, Moka, a city in Arabia Petrea, vii. 227, e. in Arabia Felix, 234, a. in Yaman, described, ibid. c.
Modicratius's writings and character, v. 656, (D).
Modares goes over to the Romans, vi. His character, ibid. & seq.
Moderatus, one of Faustina's gallants, raised, vi. 78, d.
Modestus's cruelties in Palestine, vi. 305, c, f. to the orthodox, 372, a.
 † Moedi plunder the Delphic oracle, iii. 749, d.
Moeris king of Egypt, made the famed lake of that name, i. 249. His two pyramids, 185, a. 249. Other particulars of him, ibid. & (C).
 † Moeris, the famed lake of, described, 195, c. Its two pyramids in the midst, 196, a. The fishery of it, 295, f. Why called the lake of Charon, 196, b.
 † Moesia described, v. 342, (A). Yielded to Theodoric, vii. 522, b.
 † Moesians subdued by Crassus, v. 299, f. Declare for Vitellius, 621, c. 622, a.
 † Mogli, the ancient name of Muscovy, whence, ii. 243, 266.
Mohammed defeated in Persia, iv. 370, d. His successors subdue it, 371, a, b.
 — the impostor, spreads his doctrine, vi. 643. His death and successor, ibid. b.
 — tomb at Medina, vii. 237, c. His birth and extract, 285, d.
 — general of the Saracens, his success against Justinian, vi. 547, b, c. Recovers Armenia, 548, c.
 — invites the Turks to his assistance, 598, f. His death, 599, f.
 — the son of Bajazet defeats his four brothers, 647, f.
 — the son of Amurath, butchers all his brothers, 649, b, c. Shuts up the mouth of the Bosphorus, ibid. c. Besieges Constantinople, 654, & seq. His fleet forced by the Genoese, 651, c, d. Impotent rage against them, ibid. d, e. Vast causeway and bridge, ibid. c, f. Cruelty to the Constantinopolitans, 652, & seq.
Mohammedan divines, their wretched philosophy, i. 22, a. and theology, ibid. & 48, d.
Molae, the primary particles of the earth, i. 27, b.
 † Moldavia, part of ancient Dacia, vii. 611, a.
Molech, Moloch, a deity of the Ammonites, i. 293, d. Described, ibid. & 294, b, (B). Opinions about it, ibid. (C), & (G). The same with Chronos, vi. 682, (P).
Molo, a prince of Syria, revolts from Antiochus, iii. 530, c, f. Success against him, 531. Defeated, 533. Kills himself, ibid. c. His body crucified, 534, a.
 † Molochabab, where situate, vii. 143, a.
Molon, not the same with Apollonius, v. 90, (H).
Moloub-Al-Tborais, the third Persian dynasty, why so called, iv. 371, b.
 † Molossi, ancient inhabitants of Greece, ii. 344, b.
 † Molossia, a province of Epirus, described, iii. 796, c. Famed for its mastiffs, 798, b. Subdued by Pyrrus, ibid. c.
Molossus king of Epirus, brought up by Helenus, iii. 799, c, f.
 † Mona, Anglesey, by whom conquered, vii. Some antiquities of, 411, f.
Monad of Pythagoras, what meant by, i. 25, d, e.
Monarchical government, how introduced, i. 171, d.
Monarchs, how honoured by the Medes, ii. 7. by the Scythians, 271.
 † Monastery of the Ark on the Cardu mountain, i. 112, d.
Monaxus's house burnt at Constantinople, vi. 463, b.
Monaxius chosen consul with Plintha, vi. 473, a.
 † Mondars, their extract, kingdcm, &c. vii. 272, d, & seq.
 † Mondus, an island and port in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a, b.
Moneses goes over to Mark Antony, iv. 310, b.
 — general of Parthia sent into Armenia, 318, c-c.
Moneta, money, whence so called, iv. 595, c.
 — silver, when first coined at Rome, 649, a. When first alloy'd with copper, 714, a.
 — despised by the Spartans, ii. 565, c.
 — the temple of Juno Moneta built at Rome, iv. 595, c.
Monima put to death, iii. 746, b, (L).
Monks confined to their deserts, vi. 418, a. Suppressed by Constantine IVth, 555, d, c.
 † Monmouthshire, formerly part of Wales, vii. 410, c.
Monobasus I. king of Adiabene, iii. 849, a.
 — Ild, made regent, ibid. c, d. Mounts the throne, 851.
Monomachus sent to poison Cantacufen, vi. 644, d.
Monstrelites, their doctrine, vi. 543, a. Condemned, 546, c, f. Revived by Philippicus, 550, d.
Montanus, Traul. one of Messalina's gallants, put to death, v. 504, c.
 — Jul. his chastising of Nero, 525, c. Forced to kill himself, ibid. d.
 — Alpinus sent into Germany with the news of Virellius's death, 628, b.
Months, Jewish, their names, how ancient, i. 617, (K). Roman, how corrected by Numa, iv. 437, d, e. Their names, whence, 438, (O). How changed by Commodus, vi. 92, c.
Montius's noble speech to Gallus, vi. 291, d. Miserable death, ibid. c.
Mont Morillon, the Gaulish temple of, described, vii. 352, (K).
Moos, when created, i. 53, b. How worshipped by the Egyptians, 207, d. By the Ethiopians, vii. 197, a. By the Gauls, 352, (K). By the Saxons, 442, d.
 — the temple of, at Rome, burnt, v. 548, a.
Moos, new, how observed by the Jews, i. 610, a. How fixed, ibid. (1). Laws concerning that festival, 610, & seq.
Moors, see Mauritanians, vii. 149, et seq. Defeated by the Romans, vi. 58, b. Driven out of Spain, 70, a. Defeated and transplanted, 213, f, et seq.
 † Mopb, Noph, see Mempbis, vii. 216, b.
 † Moplucrene, where sit, vi. 314, d. The place where Constantine died, ibid. c.
 † Mopsustia, preserved by Antoninus, vi. 57, b. Fortified by the Saracens, 548, d.
Mopsustians murder Seleucus, iii. 615, d. Punished by Eusebes, ibid. c.
 † Mopsusta, a city in Cilicia propr. ii. 341, b.
Mopsus, who, vi. 691, c. Worshipped at Carthage, ibid.
 † Moraw river in Germany, vii. [415], c.
Mordecai, one of the heads of the returning Jews, iv. 4, b. Who, ibid. (E). Esther's uncle, his genealogy, &c. 11, c.
More majorum, the punishment of, what, v. 576, b.
 † Morea, where, and why so called, ii. 701, b.
 † Moreb, the land of, where, i. 424, a. Why so called, ibid. (G).
 † Morena, part of Myfia, ii. 323, b.
 † Moresby, the famed antiquities of, vii. 412, f.
Morgages, how made among the ancient Athenians, ii. 429, b. & seq.
 † Morgantia, see Murgentium, iii. 3, c.
Morgantines, their treachery to the slaves, v. 32, c.
 † Morgeta, who, iii. 3, c.
 † Moriab, the famed mount of, where sit, i. 431, a. Why so called, ibid. (C).
 † Morimena, Jupiter's temple at, iii. 763, d.
 † Morini in Gaul, who, v. 121, b. vii. 399, b, (R), 421, c. Subdued by Caesar, 399, b. Attend him into Britain, 421.
Morinus's judgment of the Karaites, iv. 175, (K).
 † Morocco, its extent, vii. 139, c.
 † Morpheus, where, iii. 222. Famed for its marble, ibid.
Mortagon relieves Constantinople, vi. 565, c. Defeated, ibid. f. Assists Michael against the rebels, vii. 629, a, b.
Mosaic account of the creation, i. 35, a, b. Explained, 41, d, c. — laws, whether copied by Aristotle, iii. 330, (F).
 † Moschic mountains in Armenia, described, iii. 695, b.
 † Mosibiri, who and where sit, i. 167, c. Whether the Moscovites descended from them, ibid.
Moschus, author of the atomic system, who, i. 19, c. Thought by some to be Moses, 20.
Moscovites, descended from Magar, ii. 243, et seq. Have limited Constantine the Great, 268, c.

- Moses* born, i. 153, (H), 477, c. Concealed three months, 478, a. Brought up by Pharaoh's daughter, ibid. & seq. His universal learning, 479, a, (N). His forty years in Egypt, how spent, ibid. pass. & (O). Forced to flee into Midian, 480, pass. Lives forty years with Jethro, 481. Supposed to have writ the book of Job there, ibid. & seq. Vision of the deity in the bush, 484, a. Returns into Egypt, ibid. & seq. Bid to bring Israel out of Egypt, 487, & seq. Excuses himself from it, 489, b. Obeys and sets out, ibid. et seq. 490, & seq. Why smitten by an Angel in the inn, ibid. c. (A). His son circumcised by Zipporah, 492. Joins Aaron at Horeb, ibid. et seq. Message to Pharaoh rejected, 493. Turns his rod into a serpent, 494, c. the waters into blood, 496, a. Brings multitudes of frogs, ibid. c. Of lice, ibid. d, e. Of flies, 497, a. A murmur on the cattle, ibid. d. Hail and thunder, ibid. c. Mischiefs done by them, 498, a—c. Locusts, ibid. e, f. A three days darkness in all the land, ibid. & seq. How long time all these took him up, 499, (H). Infirmitates the passover, ibid. c—e. Prepares the people for their departure, ibid. & seq. The death of the Egyptian first-born, 501. Order'd to depart, ibid. & seq. Encamps at Succoth, 502, a. Consecrates the first born there, ibid. & seq. Removes to Ethan, 503, b. To Pihahiroth, 504. Overtaken by Pharaoh, ibid. & seq. Divides the Red-sea, 505. The deed whether miraculous, ibid. & (P). Song after the crossing it, 508, b, c. Brings manna for their food, 509, & seq. Waters out of the rock, 511. Whether this done in two several places, ibid. (T). Defeats the Amalekites, ibid. et seq. Appoints judges under him, 512. Encamps at the foot of Mount Sinai, ibid. & seq. Goes up to it, 513. Receives the decalogue, 514, a. And the ceremonial law, 516, b. Ratifies the covenant, 518, c, d. Takes seventy elders with him up the mount, 519, a. Stays there forty days, ibid. & seq. Given over for lost, 520, a. Comes down again, 521, a. Breaks the two tables, and destroys the golden calf, ibid. & seq. Returns up to the mount, 522, b, &c. and stays another forty days, 523, a. Comes down with a radiant face, ibid. Exacts a general offering for the tabernacle, ibid. c. Appoints the grand council of seventy, 724, c. The manner of their election, ibid. (G). Heals Miriam's leprosy, 526, a. Sends twelve spies to view the promised land, ibid. c—e. Quells a rebellion raised on their ill report of it, ibid. & seq. Who are defeated by the Amalekites, 527, & seq. Condemns the sabbath breaker, 528, d. And Korah, Dathan, &c. to a dreadful end, 529, et seq. Stays a second plague against the rebellious, 530, d. Smites the rock a second time, 532, a. Why excluded from entering into Canaan, ibid. & seq. Sets up the brazen serpent against the fiery ones, 533. Confirms all the Midianites to destruction, 536, b. The occasion of it, ibid. & seq. & (A). Divides the land by lot, and takes a view of it on mount Nebo, 537, a. Invests Joshua his successor, ibid. & seq. Speech to the Israelites, 539, d. Second, ibid. e. & seq. Appoints a form for bringing the first fruits to God, 540, b. And blessing and curses to be set up on Ebal and Garizzim, ibid. e, et seq. Confirms the covenant of Horeb, 541, b. His prophetic song, 542, a. And last blessing to the tribes, ibid. & seq. Dies on mount Nebo, 543, b. Burial, character, &c. ibid. & seq. Rabbinic and Mohammedic dreams and additions to his life, writings, &c. 544, & seq. et notes. His fabled conquest of Ethiopia, vii. 205, et seq. — one of the four Bulgarian kings, his death, 633, c.
- Mosolam*, a noted Jewish marksmen, the story of, iv. 35, in fin. not.
- Mosolus*'s wife and punishment, vi. 558, e, f.
- † Mosylon, a promontory in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a. Its port, ibid. b.
- Mot*, what in the Phenician cosmogony, i. 12.
- Mother*, a title given to the chief goddesses, iii. 9, c, & (H).
- Motion* of matter eternal, repugnant, i. 10, a.
- † Motya described, iii. 49, c. Taken by Dionysius, 50, b. Its situation, vi. 756, b—d. Stout defence, 757, c, d. Plundered, 758, b, c. Retaken by the Carthaginians, 759.
- † Mount, sacred, why so called, iv. 492, c.
- the law of, what, 537, f. Of offence, where situate, i. 586, c.
- Mountains*, their greatest height, i. 102, (N).
- Mourning*, how regulated by Moses, i. 696, b, (R). By Lycurgus, ii. 561, a.
- Mouset*, one sold for 300 denarii, vii. 38, b.
- † Mozarabes, who, vii. 310, (A). Officium Mozarabicum, in Spain, what, ibid. e, (B).
- † Muab, the royal residence of Yaman, vii. 235, b.
- Mucia*, the festival of, whence so called, v. 45, d.—The lewd wife of Pompey divorced, iii. d, (P).
- Mucianus* sent governor of Syria, v. 566, b. Declares there for Orho, 602, d, 620, b. Allies with Vespasian, ibid. c. Marches against Vitellius, 621, c, d. Untimely jealous of Primus, 633, (A). Entry into Rome, 639, a. Modly character, ibid. b—d. Treachery to Primus, 645, a, b. Pleads in favour of informers, ibid. e.
- Mucius Cordus*'s unparalleled bravery, iv. 475, pass. Whence
- filed Scævola, ibid. e. Outwits Porfenna, ibid. et seq. Chosen consul, 786, f, (V).
- Mugaris*, king of the Hunas, takes Bosphorus, vii. 483, c. Repulsed by John, ibid. e.
- † Mulotilus, where situate, iii. 787.
- † Mulucha, Mollochath, river, boundary of Numidia, vii. 107.
- † — the castle of, described, v. 22, a. Taken by Marius, ibid. b.
- Mummia*, of Egypt, described, i. 215, (I). Of Persia, ii. 39, f.
- Mummia*, the consul, sent against the Achæans, ii. 696, & seq. Blockades Corinth, 697, c. Defeats the Achæans, ibid. & seq. Takes and plunders Corinth, 698, c. His ill taste of architecture, ibid. e, et seq. Triumph at Rome, 700, e. Ill success in Lusitania, iv. 767, e, f. Repulsed by the rebels, v. 98, a.
- † Munda, where situate, v. 72, f, (S). Besieged, 174, c. Taken, 176, d.
- the battle of, 173, pass.
- Mundo*'s revolt in Pannonia, vii. 643, b. Submits to Theodorice, ibid. b, c.
- Mundon*, the Goth, invades the Romans, vi. 521, a.
- Mundus*'s treachery to Paulina punished, v. 408, a, (A).
- quells a riot at Constantinople, vi. 526, c.
- success against the Bulgarians, vii. 624, b. Against the Ostrogoths, 652, a, b, (Q). Defeated and killed, 653, d.
- Mundzucubus*, king of the Hunns, vii. 458, a.
- † Munichia, a sea-port in Attica, ii. 437, c. A prophecy about it fulfilled, 423, d. Garisoned by the Macedons, 551, d. Taken by Dem. Polycertes, 554. Garisoned by him, 556, f. Sold back to the Athenians, 557, d. Repaired by Adrian, 742, b.
- Munichian* month, why changed, ii. 554, f.
- Municianus* An. conspires against Caligula, v. 482, c. Against Claudius, 494, et seq. Kills himself, 495, c.
- Muraena*, left Praetor of Asia, iii. 738, c. Defeated by Mithridates, 739, d. His son more successful against him, 740, c, (G). Noble speech to Augustus, v. 305. Conspires against him, 306, a. Put to death, ibid. b, c.
- Mural* crown, on whom bestowed, iv. 439, (R). Who first obtained it, 573, f.
- Murcia*, the goddess of cowards, vii. 360, in fin. (C).
- Murcus* Stat. sent against Bassus, v. 170, b. Joins Cassius in Syria, 218, a. Defeats Dolabella's fleet, 219, c. The triumvir's fleet, 248, c. Forakes his colleague, 267, b. and Pompey, 271, d. Murdered, ibid. e.
- Murder*, wilful, no place of refuge for, i. 647, d. Moses's law against it, ibid. &c. God's abhorrence of it, 675. How punished, ibid. & seq. By whom cognisable at Athens, ii. 442, a.
- † Murgantium, in Sicily, described, iii. 3, c. Surrendered to Himilco, 114, c. Taken from the Samnites, iv. 630.
- † Murodunum, Caernarthen in Wales, vii. 411.
- † Murfa, a city in New Pannonia, vi. 211, a. Where situate, 284, b.
- the battle of, fatal to the empire, ibid. & seq.
- † Murfa, ruined by the Quadi, vi. 388, c.
- Musa*, princess of Biahynia, deprived of her succession, iii. 832, b.
- recovers dying Augustus, v. 303, e.
- Museum*, of Alexandria, described, iii. 630, b, c.
- † Museum, taken and garisoned by Demetrius, ii. 556, f. Re-fold to the Athenians by Diogenes, 557, c.
- Musie* disapproved of by the Egyptians, i. 213, a. In high request among the Jews, i. 714, pass. & (O). Improved by David and his band, ibid. & seq. Introduced into Persia, 177, d. Admired by the Spartans, 564. Concerts of, at Rome, v. 3, c. Used in Gaul at their banquets, vii. 385, b, (Z), & seq.
- Musical* instruments, the first inventor of, i. 81, a, b.
- Musicanus*'s submission and presents to Alexander, iii. 400, a. Revolt, and crucified, ibid. d, (H).
- Mustai* of Athens, what, ii. 732, sub not.
- Mustapha*, strangled by Amurath, vi. 648, a, b.
- † Musulani, who, and whence, vi. 666, c, (B). Where sit, vii. 158, a. Serve under Tacfarinas, ibid. b. Defeated, 159, a.
- Muth*, the son of Chronus, the same with Pluto, i. 138, b.
- Mutilation* first punished at Rome, v. 36, e, et seq.
- † Mutina attempted by the Boii, iv. 694, d. Relieved by Attilius, ibid. c. The siege of, v. 202. Raised, 207.
- taken by Constantine, vi. 245, f.
- the battle of, v. 206, e. When fought, 207, (O).
- Mutinus*'s valour maintains the Carthaginians in Sicily, iii. 124, & seq. Envied by Hanno, &c. 125. Ravages the island, ibid. f. Betrays Agrigentum to the Romans, 127. Rewarded for it, 128, b.
- † Muza, an emporium in Arabia Felix, vii. 234, a.
- Muzalo* made guardian to young Lascaris, 287, f. Assassinated, ibid. & seq.
- † Mycaberna taken by Philip, iii. 294.
- † Mycake, the battle of, ii. 475, f.
- † Mycena, and Mycenians; see Messena and Messenians, ii. 344, & seq.
- Mycerinus*, the son of Cheops king of Egypt, i. 262, c. Erects

- rects three grand pyramids, 184, b. Burial of his daughter, ibid. Vain attempt to bely the oracle, ibid. f, & 263, a.
- † Myconians, why subject to baldness, iii. 225, b.
- † Myconus island described, ibid.
- † Mygdonia, province of Macedon, iii. 253. Where sited, 256, c.
- † Myia, a city in Sicily, described, iii. 92, & (N).
- Myles*, the son of Eusotas, ii. 395, b.
- Mylos*, an indecent statue in Ceres's temple, ii. 732, sub not.
- † Myra, a city of Lycia, ii. 337.
- † Myrmidons, where seated, ii. 381, d. Why so called, ibid. & not. iii. 243, c, d.
- Myronides* defeats the Corinthians, ii. 487, d. Valour against the Thebans, 488, & seq.
- † Myronis island in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b.
- Myrratum Vnum* in request at Rome, iv. 239, (Z).
- Myrsilus* tyrant of Lesbos, iii. 106, c.
- † Myrtea in Bithynia, by whom founded, iii. 822, a.
- † Myfia described, ii. 288, & seq. Part of Asia Propria, ibid. & 323, & seq. Its foil, antiquities, &c. 326. Conquered by Cæsar, ibid. f.
- Myfians*, side with the Trojans, ii. 319, c. Their character, 326, c. Subdued, ibid. f.
- † Myfiar, a river in Phrygia, ii. 294, d.
- † Myfocuros, the port of, where, vii. 146, d.
- Myficus*, Nic. excommunicates the emperor, vi. 575, c. Deposed, ibid. d.
- † Mytiſtratum, taken and destroyed by Collatinus, vi. 833, b, c.
- † Myus, where, and by whom founded, ii. 369, d.
- N.
- Naamab*, the daughter of Cain, inventress of spinning, &c. f. 77, a.
- Naaman* cured of his leprosy by Elisha, i. 385. Renounces idolatry, 386, b, c. His hospital at Damascus for lepers, ibid. (M).
- † Naar-Malcha; see below, Nabar-Malcha, i. 57, a.
- † Naar-Sares, a river of Babylon, i. 909, a, b.
- † Nab, a river in Germany, vii. [415], a.
- † Nababurum, where situate, vii. 115, c.
- Nabades* defends Nisibis, iv. 353, d. Defeats the Romans, 254, b.
- Nabal's* churlish behaviour to David, i. 768, c. Death, 769, a.
- † — a city in Tunis, vi. 667, d.
- Nabarzanus's* treachery to Darius, ii. 168, f.
- † Nabarbea, where situate, v. 395, (N).
- † Nabatean Arabs, invaded by Antigonos, iii. 433, & seq. Peace with his son, 434, c. Fall foul on his collector of the bitumen, ibid. f.
- † Nabateans, inhabitants of Arabia Petrea, vii. 225, a. 239, a. Whence so named, 226, c, d. Where sited, ibid. e. Way of living, 229, a, &c.
- Nabis* tyrant of Sparta's cruelty to them, ii. 636, & seq. to the Argives, 671, f. Treachery to Philip, 672, a. Defeated by the Achæans, 675, & seq. Harassed by them, 677, & seq. Defeated afresh, 676. Assassinated by the Ætolians, 638, & seq. 714.
- Nabuccolassar*, the Nebuchadnezzar of Scripture, i. 948, e. Subjects Assyria to Babylon, ibid. & seq. Destroys Nineveh, 950, a. Other conquests, ibid. d. Takes Jerusalem and Jehoiakim prisoner, ibid. & seq. His dream of the image explained by Daniel, 951, b, c. Leads the Jews captives, 952. Besieges Jerusalem, 953, b, c. Defeats Pharaoh-Ophra, ibid. d. Cruelty to Zedechiah and his sons, 954, a, b. Carries the rest into captivity, ibid. & seq. His vast image set up, 955. Takes Tyre after a 13 years siege, ibid. & seq. Compleats the ruin of Judea, 956, a, b. Brings Egypt, &c. under tribute, ibid. & seq. Imbellishes Babylon, 957, a, & seq. His dream of the tree interpreted, 962, e, & seq. His pride and metamorphosis, 963, c—e. Recovery, ibid. & seq. Death, 964, a. Prophecy, ibid. b, c.
- Nabonadius*, the murderer of Laboriosarchod, i. 969, b. Reduces the sceptre to the Assyrians, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Cyrus, 970, b, c. How used by him, ibid. & seq. Whether the Belshazzar of Daniel, or Darius the Mede, 971, f. & seq. See also vol. ii. 90—93.
- Nabonassar*, probably the Ninias of prophane history, i. 942, & seq. His Æra, 935, b. First Babylonish king in Ptolemy's canon, 940, c.
- Nabopolassar* wrecks the kingdom from the Assyrians, i. 947. Transfers it to Babylon, ibid. &c. The Belshis of Ctesias, and Nanybrus of Damascen, ibid. f.
- Nabucadnozor*; see Nabocollassar, i. 948, & seq. Alliance with the king of Media, ii. 18, d. Joint conquests with him, 19, & seq. of Palestine and Jerusalem, 20, & seq. Invasion of Spain, vii. [324], b.
- Nabucodonosor* al Chyniladan invades Media, ii. 15. Builds Nineveh, 16, a.
- Nabor*, Abraham's brother, i. 431, c. His issue, ibid. d.
- Naboragan* flayed alive, iv. 356, c.
- defeated in Lazica, vi. 529, b, c.
- † Nacht-ruffan mountain near Persepolis, ii. 55. Tombs, and other antiquities of it, ibid. & not.
- Nadab*, the son of Aaron, i. 490, a. Consecrated by him, 523, c. Killed by fire from heaven, ibid. d, &c.
- king of Israel, besieges Gibbeton, i. 358, b.
- Nadius*, ad king of Babylon, probably the Ctesian Ninias, i. 945, b.
- Næmie*, by whom invented, iii. 217, b.
- Nænius*, the augur's contest with Tarquin, iv. 450, c.
- the poet, his writings, &c. 680, d.
- † Nagidus, a Samian colony in Cilicia Aspera, ii. 340, d.
- † Nabar-malcha, or Basilius Potamos, i. 57, a. Whether the same with Ceuta, an artificial branch of the Euphrates, 908, a, b. By whom dug, ibid. c. Its course, ibid. d. See also vol. vi. 20, f. et 114, a.
- Nabash* king of the Ammonites, i. 295, c. Routed and dispersed by Saul, ibid. c. Kindness to David, ibid.
- Nabor*, inventions ascribed to him, i. 131, (W).
- Nabum* prophesies in Hezekiah's reign, i. 839, (W).
- † Naid, the province of, where sited, vii. 239, a.
- Nails*, why, and how used chronologically at Rome, iv. 585, b. The ceremony of driving them, ibid. c.
- † Naim, where situate, iv. 210, (W).
- † Nairam, an ancient bishopric of Arabia, vii. 252, d—f.
- † Naiffus, taken by Attila, 465, f. Described, ibid. et seq. et (C). Taken by the Ostrogoths, 520, b.
- Nakraus*, Bakraus, the first antediluvian king in Egypt, i. 279, c, d.
- Names*, the same with Diana, iii. 609, (R). Her temple attempted by Sidetes, ibid. c, d.
- Names*, the similitude of, a deceitful guide, i. 56, pass.
- various, of the Romans, explained, iv. 444, (Z).
- Nana* impregnated by a pomegranate, ii. 297, c.
- Nannatus* king of Phrygia, ii. 300, & seq.
- Nannianus's* success against the Lentienses, vi. 387, a, b.
- against the Allemans, vii. 594, d.
- Nannius's* defeat and flight, vi. 355, f.
- Nanybus*, his history, i. 938, a, b, et seq.
- Naoudengian*, by whom built, iv. 378, d.
- † Naphthali, Jacob's 2d son by Bithah, i. 441. Jacob's prophecy to his tribe explained, 464, c. How verify'd, ibid. (O). Their lot in the promised land, 569, c. Carried captive into Assyria, 830, b, c.
- † Naphtum, who, and where situate, i. 165, d.
- Napis* king of Scythia, ii. 281.
- † Naples taken by Belisarius, vii. 652, b, (Q). Its dreadful slaughter, ibid. in fin. not. Besieged by Totila, 666, c. Taken and dismantled, 667, d—f.
- † — the exarchate of, 683, c, d. Its extent, 687, a, (S). Extent of its dukedom, 721, a.
- dukes, why called consuls, ibid. b, (B). Why called Sicily, 722, a.
- Theodoric's ominous statue set up at, 641, a, (M).
- † Naragara in Numidia described, vii. 110.
- Narbal* king of Arad, i. 421, a.
- † Narbonne, by whom founded, v. 3, b. vii. 395, d. Burnt, vi. 58, f. Restored by Antoninus, 59, a. Taken by Ataulphus, 469, a. Relieved by Littorius, 483, c. Betrayed to the Visigoths, 507, a. vii. 509, a. Taken by Theodoric, 513, f.
- † Narbonensis, Gaul, ravaged by the Cimbri, v. 13, a. 15, d. Forced to declare for Vitellius, 602, d.
- † Narce taken by Hannibal, vii. 81, b.
- Narcissus*, a favourite of Claudius, v. 488, et seq.
- a tool of Messalina, 494, c, d. Affronted by the Gaulish army, 496, d. Betrays Messalina, 502, et seq. Murders her, 505, d. Imprisoned by Agrippina, 517, f. Kills himself, ibid. & seq.
- executed, 586.
- a wrestler in favour with Commodus, vi. 87, e. Strangles him, 93, f. Condemned to the wild beasts, 113, f.
- † Nariscus, who, and where sited, vii. [407]. Revolt from the Romans, vi. 63, c. Peace with them, ibid. d.
- Nars* worshipped by the Arabs, vii. 248, et seq.
- Narjes* sent to compliment Probus, iv. 329, c. Mounts the Persian throne, 330. Success against Galerius, ibid. d, e. Ill success and death, 331, a, b.
- Sapor's ambassador to Constant, 333, et seq.
- Persian general's success against the Romans, 340, d.
- Roman general's success against the Persians, 354, b.
- sent to assist Cosroes, 364, a. Ill requited by him, 365, a.
- defeats the Romans, vi. 214, a. Defeated by them, ibid. c, d. Sues for peace, ibid. e, f. Obtains it, 215, a, b. Sent with a proud message to Constantius, 302. Pardoned by Maximus, 400, c.
- defeated by the Romans, 474, c, d. Success against them, 525, c. Revolts to them, ibid. e, f. Spirits up Cosroes against Phocas, 537, b, c. Defeats Leontius, &c. Burnt alive by Phocas, ibid. &c.
- success in Italy, vii. 618, b, c. Invites the Lombards thither, ibid. d, e.
- three generals of that name, ibid. f.—Joins Belisarius, 658, f. Falls out with him, 669, c, d. Takes Imola, ibid. e. Accused and recalled, 660, b, c. Sent back into Italy, 674, e, f. His huge mixt army, 675, c, d. Success against Totila, ibid. et seq. Conquers in Italy, 677, c, & seq.
- Narfi*

- Narfi*, Narfi, I. II. and III. king of Parthia, according to the orientals, iv. 372, (A).
 — Ist king of Persia defeated and dies, 379, b, c.
 — prince of Persia, left regent by his wandering brother, 384, c, f.
Narfica, the tutelar deity of Vulsinium, v. 415, (P).
Nartear, the temple of, iii. 186, c.
 † Nasamoneans, who, v. 675, f. Cut off by Flaccus, 676, a. Whether totally or no, ibid. b.
Nasamones, where sited, vii. 171, b. Customs, &c. ibid. & seq. 172, a, b. Why so called, 180, (A).
Nasiberocham, a magnificent king of Yaman, vii. 268, c.
Nasica Scipio Corn. his character, v. 9, b.
Nasidius defeated by Agrippa, 289, d.
Natalis confesses a conspiracy against Nero, v. 552, c. & seq. Pardoned, 557, d.
Nathan sent to reprove king David, i. 780, a, et seq.
Natbanael called by Christ, iv. 199, b.
Natta Pinarius, a tool of Sejanus, v. 423, a.
 † Nattapa, metropol. of Æthiopia, v. 302, f. Destroyed by Petronius, ibid. &c. Residence of queen Candace, vii. 185, a, b. Razed, ibid. c. & 216, a.
 † Naucratia, a colony of Grecians in Egypt, i. 227, b.
Naudar, king of Persia, see Nudar, ii. 185.
Navigation, the first account of, after the flood, i. 136.
Naulobad, heads the Heruli, vi. 184. Surrenders to Gallienus, ibid. c.
 — taken prisoner and promoted, vii. 599, c.
 † Naupactus, where, and why so called, ii. 359, d. Taken by the Athenians, 489, c. Given to the Messenians, 595, b.
 — the peace of, 664, a.
Nauplius, king of Euboea, wrecks the Grecian fleet, iii. 247, c. His death, ibid. d.
 † Nauportum, plundered, v. 361, a. Where situate, ibid. (I).
Naurux, a Persian festival, by whom instituted, ii. 178, b.
 † Naxians, who, and whence, iii. 220, d. Government, ibid. & seq. Treachery to the Persians, 221, d.
 † Naxica insula, where sited, vii. 112, c, d.
 † Naxos island, described, iii. 219. Its excellent wines, 220, b. Taken by Dionysius, 48, d. By the Thessalians, 220, c. By the Carians, ibid. f. Invaded by Aristagoras, 221, b. Subdued by the Persians, ibid. d. by the Athenians, ibid. e.
Naxus, the son of Palamon, king of Naxos, iii. 220, f.
 † — metropolis of Naxos, 221, a. Taken and destroyed by the Persians, ii. 111, f.
Naxalod, defeated and killed by the Saxons, vii. 447, d, c. Uncertain who he was, ibid. et seq.
Nazar, defeats the Saracens fleet, vi. 573, d.
Nazarite, Christ, why so called, iv. 180, a. That prophecy explained, ibid. (H). The true sense of the word, 181, sub not.
Nazaritus, who, i. 631, c. Why abstained from wine, 632, a. Women free to the same vow, ibid. & seq.
Nazaritus's writings, &c. vi. 272, (F). Character of Julian, 310, c, f.
Nazianzen's character of Julian, vi. 210, c, f. 335, & seq. Just suspicion of his hypocrisy, 322. Dreadful account of the Gothic invasion, 392, a, b. Made bishop of Constantinople, 395, a. Letter to Eliebius, 409, b.
 † Nazianzum, a city in Cappadocia, iii. 762, b.
 † Neapapbos, in Cyprus, described, iii. 174, a.
 † Neapolis, one of the four quarters of Syracuse, iii. 4, b—d. — when first added to it, 5, b.
 † — a city in Thrace, 786, c.
 † — in Italy, by whom built, iv. 606, a. Plundered by Calpurnius, 774, f.
 † — of Shechem, whence so called, v. 655, c.
 † — an ancient emporium of the Carthaginians, vi. 667, d. Where sited, ibid.
Neapolitans, their unshaken fidelity to the pope, vii. 705, a. Whether still under the emperors, ibid. b, c.
Nearchus, admiral of Alexander, iii. 397, b. Sails down the Indus, 401, & seq. & (I). Rejoins him, 404, b.
Nebazaradan, one of Nebuchadnezzar's generals, takes Jerusalem, i. 954, a, b. Cruelties committed by him, ibid. c, d.
Nebo, an idol of the Babylonians, i. 286, b. 924, a. The Chemosh, &c. of the Moabites, ibid.
 † — the mount where Moses viewed the promised land, i. 537, c. and died, 443, c.
 † — a city of Arabia Petrea, vii. 226, b.
Nebrius refuses to swear to Julian, vi. 313, b. Marries Salvina, 390, c.
Nebuchadnezzar, see before Naboclassar, i. 948, c.
Nebuzaradan, puts the Ammonites to fire and sword, i. 298, c.
 † Neckar river in Germany, 415, a.
Nectanebes, king of Egypt, i. 277, b. Defends it against the Persians, and dies, ibid. &c.
Nectanebus, king of Egypt, i. 277, f. Rebelled against, 278, a. Invaded by the Persians, flees into Ethiopia, 279. The last king of Egypt, ibid.
Nectarius, Count, killed in Britain, vi. 353, c. vii. 415, c.
Nectarius, bp. burnt in his house by the Arians, vi. 414, c.
 † Nectiberos, where situate, vii. 140, d.
Necus, king of Egypt, succeeds Samniticus, i. 267, a. The Pharaoh Necho of scripture, ibid. Attempts a canal from the Nile to the Red-sea, ibid. b. Defeats king Josiah, ibid. c. d. Takes Carhemish, ibid. e. Imposes a tribute on Judea, ibid. & seq. Defeated and dies, 268, f.
Neco, an Assyrian or Babylonian deity, i. 925, a.
 † Negra, where situate, v. 302, b.
 † Negroes, whether descended from Adam, vii. 198, b. The extent of their country, 167, a—c. The rest see under Æthiopia.
 † Negropont, Euboea, why so called, 246, d.
 † Nelardus, or river of knowledge, where, &c. i. 908, d.
Nebemab, why his account differs from Ezra, iv. 4, d. Succeeds him, 18, a. His character, 21, a. Repairs the city and temple, ibid. b, (I). 23, d. Generosity at Jerusalem, ibid. & seq. Reforms the Jewish abuses, 24, & seq. His death, 26, b.
 † — the well of, in Judea, i. 586, b.
 † Nelus river in Euboea, iii. 247, c.
 † Nemaa, a city in Argos, ii. 351, b.
 † — river in Peloponnesus, 672, sub not.
Nemean games, by whom instituted, ii. 251, c. 356, sub not.
Nemesis, worshipped by the Myrians, ii. 326, c. Her statue at Rhamnus, 361, c, (B).
 † Nemetes, who and where sited, vii. [401], a.
 † Nemrim, a city in Arabia Petrea, vii. 226, b, c.
 † Nocæsaria, a city in Pontus, iii. 721, b. Ruined by an earthquake, vi. 277, c.
 † Noeastrum, a Turkish fort at the mouth of the Bosphorus, vi. 649, d.
Neolaus, his tragical end, iii. 533, c.
Neomentia; see Moon.
Neopolemus, Ist king of Epirus, iii. 801, a.
 — Ild, set up against Pyrrus, 804, b, c. Put to death, ibid. c.
 — a flattering poet to Philip, 310, (L).
 — the son of Amyntas killed, 329, c.
 — governor of Armenia, defeated, 421, f, & seq. Killed, 422, c.
Nephe, Nephtys, Finis Victoria, Venus so called, i. 241, d.
 † Nephele, mountains in Thessaly, inhabited by Centaurs, ii. 381, c.
Nepherus king of Egypt, i. 276, d.
Nepherotes, the last of the Mendesian race in Egypt, i. 277, b.
Nephtim, how interpreted, i. 82, (N).
 † Nephtis, where situate, vi. 667, c.
 † Nephtalite Hunna, where sited, vii. 456, c. Subdue the Persians, ibid. & seq. Their character, 457, a, b. Repulsed before Edeffa, 460, a.
Nephtis, among the Egyptians, what, i. 161, d.
Nepos, Licin. his decree about fees, vi. 13, b.
 — deposition and flight, 512, b—d.
 — M. Manil. sent against Carthage, vii. 97. Besieges it by sea and land, 100, b.
Nepotianus's revolt, vi. 281, d. Betrayed and killed, ibid. c.
 — sent against Remismond, 506.
Neptune, or Posidon, the son of Pontus, i. 137, a. Why worshipped at Tenos, iii. 266, a, b. One of the Carthaginian deities, vi. 687, a, b. Why so called, vii. 118, (C). 378, (E). Worshipped in Mauritania, 150, d. The first king of it, 153, b, c.
 † — his famed temple at Corinth, ii. 391, & seq. at Sparta, in form of a grotto, 396, (C). at Athens, 435, b.
Neptys, the meaning of, vii. 150, d.
 † Nequinium, a city in Umbria, described, iv. b. 28, c. Betrayed to the Romans, ibid. d.
Neratus, Prisc. a famed lawyer, in favour with Trajan, vi. 25.
Nereus, the father of Pontus, supposed to be Japhet, i. 137, (S).
Nergal, a Persian deity, i. 861, b. and Assyrian, 925, a.
Neriglissar, Neriglissar, kills the king of Babylon, i. 965, c. and mounts the throne, 966, c. Invites all nations against the Medes and Persians, 967, b, c. Defeated and slain, 968, a, b. Probably Darius the Mede, ibid. b—c. See also vol. ii. 88, 89.
 † Neritus, mount, where situate, iii. 241, f.
Nero, Claud. over-reached by Afrubal, iv. 729, et seq. Chosen consul against Hannibal, 536, a. Success against him and Afrubal, ibid. c—f. Chosen consul against Carthage, 745.
 — T. opposes the conspirators sentence, v. 207, b. Why that name was assumed by the Claudian family, 356, (L).
 — the son of Germanicus made questor, v. 407, c. Marries Julia, 408, a. Recommended to the Senate, 417, c, d. Betrayed by Sejanus, 430, & seq. Accused by Tiberius, 436, pass. Banishment and death, 437, d.
 — the emperor, born, v. 464, c. Takes the toga, &c. 508, d, e. Commands in Spain, vii. 508, d. Marries Octavia, v. 514, d. First orations, ibid. & seq. Proclaimed, 517, d. First speech to the Senate, 519, a, b. Modesty and moderation, ibid. & seq. Shakes off his mother's sway, 521. Poisons Britannicus, 522. Affected clemency, 524, & seq. Real debauchery, 525, et seq. Falls out with Popæa, 526, f. Triumphs over the Armenians, 529, e, f. Hatches his mother's death, 530, et seq. Perpetrates it, 534. Letter to the Senate upon it, 535. Grand entry into Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Inward remorse, 536, a. Follows music, plays, &c. ibid. et seq. Treacherous answer to Seneca, 542, c, d. Murders Sylla and Plautus, ibid. et seq. and Octavia, 543, pass. Marries

- ries Popea, ibid. b. Profuse shows, 544, et seq. Turns stage-finger, 545, b. Drops his Grecian expedition, ibid. et seq. Horrid obscenities, 546, c, d. Behaviour at the burning of Rome, ibid. et seq. His golden palace described, 548, pass. et (N). Horrid extortions, 550, et seq. Threatened by dire prodigies, ibid. c, (P). Conspired against, 551, et seq. Condemns the conspirators, 553, et seq. Cruelty to their families, 557, c, d. Resumes his harp, &c. 558, et seq. Puts many worthies to death, 562, et seq. Crowns Tiridates, 564, c. Mad journey to the Olympic games, ibid. e, f. Buys 18000 prizes, 565, b, c. Infatuated by the Delphic oracle, ibid. e, f. Strips Apollo's temple, 566, a. Vain attempt on the Corinthian isthmus, ibid. c—e. Fetched back to Rome, 568, b. Shipwrecked, ibid. c. Pompous entry into Naples, Rome, &c. described, ibid. d, e. Resumes his plays, &c. ibid. et seq. Method of preserving his voice, 569, a. A new conspiracy, ibid. b—f. His shameful unconcern, 571, d—f. Mad resentment against Vindex, ibid. et seq. against Galba, 572, b, c. Drops his desperate designs, ibid. d. Assumes the fasces, ibid. e. Bloody intention, ibid. f. Incenses the people, 574. Desperate condition, ibid. et seq. Retires from Rome, 575, c. Distress and despair, ibid. et seq. Condemned by the senate, 576, a. Base cowardice and death, ibid. b—d. The day, ibid. f. Funeral, &c. 577, a, b. Buys a vast quantity of amber from the Etrurians, vii. [411], b, c. Several Pseudo-Nero's after him, 577, c—d. Strange notions about him, ibid. e, f. Contemporary writers, 578, (T). Obsequies performed by Vitellius, 619, f.
- an impostor in Asia betrayed by the Parthians, 680.
- † Neronia, New Artaxata, where, and why so called, iii. 692, f.
- † Nerobrigia, where, 780, b. The siege of, raised by Metellus, ibid. c.
- Nerva*, Licin. bribed against the slaves, v. 31, e. Defeated by Salvius, 326.
- M. Cocceius starves himself to death, 448.
- Chosen consul, 478, c, (Y). Amply rewarded by Nero, 557, d.
- Vespasian's colleague, 694, d. His life saved by an astrologer, 674, c. Chosen consul, 680, d. Banished to Tarentum, 686. Stirred up by Apol. Tyanneus, ibid. d, et 695, et seq.
- Coccei, the beginning of his reign, vi. 1. Extract, ibid. et seq. Excellent character, a, b, c. Jealous of Domitian, ibid. e, f. Happy reign, 3, b. Generosity, ibid. et seq. Lenity, 4, a, 5, a. Adopts Trajan, ibid. c, d. Dies, ibid. & seq.
- † Nervii, who, and where, v. 119, f. Bravery against J. Cæsar, 120, a. Defeated, ibid. c. Tribes subject to them, vii. 367, (C). Subdued by Cæsar, 399, d.
- Nessus* the Centaur killed, ii. 401, (K).
- Nestor*'s writings and character, vi. 121, sub not.
- Julian put to death by Heliogabalus, 136, a.
- Nestorians* driven out of Mycena, ii. 360. Settle at Athens, ibid.
- Nestorius* condemned by a council, vi. 482, c.
- Nethinims*, who, and why so called, i. 650, c. Their low office, ibid. d.
- Nevers*, count, assists Manuel, vi. 646, d. Taken prisoner, ibid. e, f.
- Nevila*, sent into Pannonia, vi. 313, c, d. Guards Sucidava, ibid. e. Made one of the Chalcedonian judges, 324, b. Consulship and reception from Julian, 326, d, e.
- † Neuri, where seated, ii. 268, a. Described, 278. Why said to turn into wolves, vii. [427], (R).
- New-year's* gifts at Rome, by whom introduced, v. 467, d.
- Nexi*, among the Romans, what, iv. 484, (G).
- † Nicea, built by Alexander, iii. 393, a. Taken by Triarius, 744, a.
- † — in Bithynia, by whom built, 826, f. Described, 827, a, b.
- rebuilt by Adrian, vi. 36, c. Fined for abusing Hipparchus, 64, d.
- the battle of, 109, b.
- Nicagoras*'s writings and character, vi. 168, (X).
- Nicander*, king of Sparta's reign, ii. 570, c. Wars against the Messenians, ibid. & seq.
- deputy of Ætolia to Philip, 710, a. Cared for by him, 723. Invades Acamania, 728, b.
- king of Cos, iii. 105, e.
- Nicanor*, Cassander's general over the Athenians, ii. 553, & seq. His lot after Alexander's death, iii. 423, f. Defeated by Seleucus, 433, c. Rejects Polyperchon's edict, 455, a. Defeated by Clytus, 456, c. Defeats him, ibid. d. Slain by Cassander, ibid. &c.
- fatal expedition against the Jews, iv. 58, & seq. 60, b. Second, 71, b. Peace with Maccabeus, ibid. d. Treachery to him, 72, b, c. Cruelty to the Jews, ibid. & seq. Blaphemous speech, 73, c. Defeat and death, ibid. d, e.
- Titus's general wounded before Jerusalem, iv. 280, c.
- Nicaria*, vid. Icaria, iii. 211, e.
- † Nice, utterly destroyed by an earthquake, vi. 328, a. Taken by Procopius, 367, a. Overturned by a second earthquake, 371, a. Delivered up to Sclerus, 588. Taken by the Christians, 615. Erected into an empire, 628, b. By whom, vii. 286, b, c. Its monarchs, ibid. et seq. 288, b—d. Taken by the Turks, 642, b, c.
- Nicea*, Flavia, her monument of Pierius, v. 663.
- Nicephorus*'s account of Helena confused, vi. 228, & seq.
- Nicephorus* rebels against his brother, vi. 556, e. Banished, ibid. f. Severely used by Constantine II. 558, e.
- the brother of Constantine banished and murdered, 559, d.
- a Patrician deposes Irene, 560, b, c. Declared emperor, ibid. d. His cruelties, 561, b. Defeated by the Saracens, ibid. c, d. Slain, 562, c. His character, ibid. & seq.
- Phocas's success in Crete, 582, c. Sent for to court, ibid. & seq. Forced to take the purple, 583, b, c. Excommunicated and restored, ibid. e. Success against the Saracens, ibid. & seq. Murdered, 584, d. His character, ibid. et seq.
- Vranus's success against the Bulgarians, 591, e, f.
- Comnenus's eyes put out for his virtue, 593, d, e.
- Outwitted by Theodora, 602.
- Basilianus taken prisoner by the Turks, 605, b, c.
- Boloniates usurps and resigns the empire, 607, & seq.
- success against the Bulgarians, vii. 627, c, d. Defeated and killed by them, ibid. e, f.
- Nicetas* conspires against Phocas, vi. 538, c, & seq. Murdered by Nicephorus, 561, b.
- Nicolaus* the Syracusan's brave speech in favour of the Athenian prisoners, iii. 35, et seq.
- officer to Ptolemy, his signal fidelity, 337, c. Made his generalissimo, 538, b. Defeated by Nearchus, ibid. d, e.
- Nicias*, Athenian general's contest with Cleon, ii. 509, c. Takes Cithæra, 510, f. Gives name to the Nicaean peace, 512. Opposes the descent into Sicily, 516. Sent thither against his will, ibid. Ill success at Syracuse, 518, & seq. Forced to surrender to Gylippus, 519. Put to death by the Syracusans, 520.
- sent into Sicily, iii. 26, a, b. Surprises Olympicum, 27, f. and Epipola, 28, c. Driven out by Gylippus, 29, c. Defeated at sea, 30, b, c. Frightened by a lunar eclipse, 31, c. Second defeat, 32, & seq. Outwitted by Hermocrates, 33, & seq. In great distress, 34, & seq. Surrenders to Gylippus, 35, b. Condemned to death, 36.
- Perseus's general condemned to death, 488, b, c.
- Pyrrhus's physician's treacherous offer, 814, a. Rejected by the Romans, ibid. b. His punishment, 816, a.
- a wit, his untimely pleasantry, 124.
- Nicknames*, common among the Romans, v. 362, b, (Y).
- Nicoles*, tyrant of Sicyon, driven out, ii. 648, (B).—Ist king of Cyprus dethroned, iii. 179, e.—Ild, his reign, 181, d.
- king of Paphos and his family kill themselves, 182, d, c.
- Nicocrates* king of Salamis, his noble library, iii. 178.
- Nicoreon*, Ist king of Salamis, iii. 177, a. Ild, his cruelty, 179, c.
- Nicodemus*, Aristobulus's ambassador to Pompey, iv. 209, c.
- a Jewish ruler comes to Christ by night, 201, a. The substance of his doctrine to him, ibid. (K). Pleads for him against the Pharisees, 223, b. Embalms his body, 243.
- Nicodromus* the Athenian invades Ægina, ii. 459, c.
- Nicolas*, the deacon, whether the author of the Nicolaitan sect, iv. 253, (L).—Ingratitude to Basilus, vii. 635, a, b.
- Nicomachus*'s arithmetic, vi. 273, sub not. Writings, &c. 197, sub not.
- Nicomedes* the Spartan, defeated at Tanagra, ii. 595, a.
- prince of Bithynia escapes his father's treachery, iii. 779, & seq. Takes up arms against him, 780, & seq. Puts him to death, 781, b. Calls in the Gauls, iii. 822, 828. Gives them part of Asia Minor, ibid. Builds Nicomedia, 829.
- Ild, his obscure reign, 831.
- Ild, allies with Mithridates, 727, 831. Driven out of Cappadocia, ibid. Wars against Pontus, 729, 831. Reduced to a private life, ibid. f. Restored and dies, ibid. &c.—Lampoon'd for his familiarity with J. Cæsar, 831, & seq. & (T). The last Bithynian king, 832, a, b. See also vol. v. 31, 82.
- † Nicomedia, metropol. of Bythynia, iii. 822, 829. Made Constantine's residence, ibid. Where situated, 827, a. Repaired by Adrian, vi. 36, c. Plundered by the Scythians, 180, a. Beautified by Dioclesian, 219, d, e. Destroyed by an earthquake, 304, c. Rebuilt by Julian, 327, b. Taken by the Turks, 642, c. by the Goths, vii. 495, d.
- the famed palace of, burnt, vi. 216, d.
- Nicon* goes over to Hannibal, vii. 50, & seq. Defeats the Romans at sea, 59, pass. Noble death at Tarentum, 62, d.
- Nicopolis*, Sylla's generous courtesan, v. 23, a.
- † — a city in Armenia Minor, by whom built, iii. 718, d.
- in Thrace, by whom founded, 787, d.
- why so called, v. 289, c. The colony of, by whom founded, 655, e.
- in Dacia, by whom built, vi. 15, e.
- Taken by the Goths, vii. 497, c. By the Bulgarians, 632, e. Submits to Deleanus, 638, b. Plundered by the Ostrogoths, 674, f.
- Nicostrotus*, bastard of Menelaus king of Sparta, ii. 403, a.
- Achaean Praetor, defeats the Macedonians, 672, c.
- † Nieper river, see Borysthenes, ii. 268, & not.
- † Nirfer, see Tyras, ibid. c.

- Niger, a Jewish captain's defeat and narrow escape, iv. 271, a, b. Success in Dalmatia, vi. 87, c.—Pescennius made Governor of Syria, 87, c. Success against Maternus, 90, c. Excellent character, 101, f, & seq. Rife and strict Discipline, 103, pass. Revolt in Syria, 105, pass. Prepares against Severus, 108, & seq. Profcrib'd by the Senate, ibid. e, f. Defeated, 109, b. Defeated and put to Death, ibid. d, f. His black Statue described, 110, b, (M).
- † — river, vii. 178, a, 108. Falls, 164, b. Why so called, ibid. c. Its course, &c. ibid. e, f.
- Night Mare, whence so called, vii. 442, c.
- Nigrinus, Domit. put to Death, vi. 34, c. Brave Defence of Aquileia, 313. Executed for a Jell, 364, c.
- † Nigris river, where, vii. 160, a.
- † Nigris, who and where sited, vii. 177, c, & seq. The same with the Metanogetuli, 164, b. Their Commerce, 165, a.
- † Nigritia, by whom peopled, 104, d, e, 166, b.
- † Nile, its Sources unknown to the ancients, i. 177. Their Number and Course, ibid. e, f. How high it swells, ibid. & seq. The Solemnity of cutting the canal of Bulac, 178, a. The Sacrifice of a Girl abolished by the Turks, ibid. & seq. The manner of conveying its Water into their Lands, 179, c, d. Its fecundity, ibid. & seq. Of animals, 180, a. How they secure themselves from its inundation, ibid. d, e. The causes of it, ibid. e, f. Of birds peculiar to it, 182, a, b. Fifth, ibid. c, d. Whence called Nile, 261, f. A further Description of it, vii. 187, a, d. Causes of its overflow, ibid. & seq. How divided, 188. Falls capable of being stopped by the Abassine Princes, ibid. d, e, (H). Its various Names, 189, a. Rivers, course and cataract, ibid. b, (I). Course turned by Memnon, 210, e. Etymon of Nile, ibid. (C).
- Nileus, the son of Codrus, withdraws from the Athenians, ii. 469, c. Cities built by him, ibid. d.
- Nilemetes, described, i. 178, d, e.
- Nilus, king of Egypt, i. 261. Renders the Nile serviceable, ibid. f.
- Nimrod, the sixth son of Cush, i. 122, a. Why so called, ibid. c, d, (I). Why so ill thought of, ibid. (K). Thought the first king after the flood, ibid. & (O). Whether the founder of Babylon, &c. 122, b, 124, a. Whether the same with Belus, ibid. b. Various traditions about his death, ibid. c, (W). Makes Babel the seat of his empire, 165, a. Supposed the first tyrant, 172, c.
- † Nineveh built, i. 874, c. Where sited, 126, (B). Destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, 950, a. In what Year of Jehoakim's reign, 494, (N). See also vol. ii. 16 & 19.
- Ninos, Nineveh taken by Meherdates, iv. 317, c. By Trajan, vi. 20, d.
- Ninus's Story a copy of that of Sesostris, i. 872, (Y). Takes Babylon, 873, a. His conquest, ibid. & seq. Return, 874, b. Builds Nineveh, ibid. c. Preparations against the Bactrians, 875, 176. Smitten with and marries Semiramis, 877, b, c. Takes Bactria, ibid. e.
- King of Lydia, ii. 333, a.
- Ninyas, causes his mother to be assassinated, i. 882, c, (H). ceeds her, 883, a. His character, 884, & seq.
- † Nippales mount in Armenia, iii. 695, b.
- † Nisja, the plains of described, ii. 3, e.
- † Nisibabour, by whom built, iv. 378. Why so called, 379, a.
- † Nisja, where, ii. 423. Taken from the Athenians, ibid. Retaken and fortified, 506.
- † Nisibis, the province of, where, iv. 316, b. Taken by Tigranes, iii. 701. By Lucullus, 705, f, 747, f. Why given to Izates, iv. 316, b. Taken by Trajan, 319, c. Restored to Sapor, 336, c. Invaded by the Romans, 340, f. Declares for Varamus, 360, f. Submits to Cosroes, 363, e.
- † Nisines, the antiquities of, by whom built, vi. 35, d. The Birth-place of Ant. Pius, 49. Metrop. of the Volsæ, vii. 11, (E).
- Nisroc, the chief deity of the Assyrians, i. 861, b.
- † Nisus, the place of Constantine's birth, where, vi. 227, c, d.
- † Nisus river in Numidia, vii. 115, f.
- † Nisyra island, how parted from that of Cos, iii. 213, d.
- Nitocris, the beautiful queen of Memphis builds its third pyramid, i. 230, (H). Succeeds her brother, 249. Revenge for her brother's death, ibid. b, c. An Ethiopian by birth, 247, a.—Mother to Nabonadius king of Babylon, i. 969, d. Fortifies her metropolis, ibid. c. Works and monuments, 970, a. Supposed a Mede by birth, 967. Has the glory of her son's reign, ibid. d, f.
- † Nivaria island, where, and why so called, vii. 143, b.
- Nocivide, the policy of, i. 171, c.
- Noah, the import of that name, i. 85, (N). Preaches repentance, 84, b. The Son of Lamech, 85, a. Directed to build the ark, ibid. & 105, b, (N). Comes into it, 105. Comes out of it, 114, & seq. Precepts given him by God, ibid. d, & seq. Covenant with him, 115, c. The inventor of agriculture, 85, (N). Where first settled, 115, d. Not the Chinese Fibi, ibid. e, f. Acknowledged by the Turks, 85, (N). His posterity, 117. Their first migrations, 141, c, e. Divides the earth between them, 157, a. Worshipped by the Armenians, iii. 697, c. Remains of his
- ark at Caron, 849, b. Whether he came into Italy, v. 416, e, f. His pretended coming into Spain, vii. 320, a.
- † Nobatae, who and where, vii. 183, c, 217, a. Plunder the empire, ibid. Their religion, &c. ibid. b and (I).
- Nobiles among the Romans, who, v. 46, (M). Augustus's law in their favour, 317, a.
- Nobilissimus, when first given, vi. 272, b.
- Nobility, their arrogance suppressed by Constantine, vi. 255, c.
- Nocca, Neptune, worship'd by the Saxons, vii. 442, c.
- † Nod, the land of, where situate, i. 75, a.
- † Nola, where, iv. 619. Taken by the Samnites, ibid. Besieged by Hannibal, 719, c. Taken by the allies, v. 50, b. Retaken by Sylla, 52, b. Reduced by him, 82, d. Assumes Hannibal till succour'd by Marcellus, vii. 35, c, & seq. Divided within, 47, e.
- Nomade, Scythians, ii. 278, & seq. Libians, see Libyans, vii. 119, & seq.
- Nomen, among the Romans, what, iv. 444, (Z).
- Nomentum, the battle of, iv. 549, b.
- Nomes, in Egypt, their origin and number, i. 176, c, d.
- † Nomobatae, at Athens, their office, ii. 443, d.
- Nomophlakes, their office, ibid. b.
- Nonnibear's desperate end, vi. 466, d.
- Nonnius Marcellinus Writings and character, vi. 317. sub not.
- Pbil. governor of Britain, vii. 434, a. Stabbed by Apuleius, v. 40, d.
- Octavian's officer insulted by the veterans, 263, b. Drowned, ibid. d.
- Noonan brings up the young prince of Persia, iv. 382, e. Builds him two wonderful castles, 383 b. Turns Christian and Hermit, ibid. c.
- † Norba pratoria, a city in Lusitania, vii. 297, c. the sad catastrophe of, v. 75, c.
- Norbanus C. Jun. marches against Sylla, v. 69, c, d. Defeated by him, 70, a. By Metellus, 72, c. His escape and death, ibid. d.—Octavian's general sent to guard the Macedonian passes, 241, d. Driven off by Brutus, 242, b, c.—Cajus chosen consul, 372, a. Assassinated, 489, a.
- Norici, subdued by the Romans, v. 314, b, c. Defeated by Ælius, 481, c.
- † Noricum, the kingdom of, described, v. 314. sub not.
- † Northumberland, why so called, and Valentia, vii. 413. Made a kingdom, 450, e. Its Extent, 451, & seq.
- Notos, among the Athenians, what, ii. 437, d.
- † Noticornu, a promontory of Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
- Notia imperii, when and by whom written, vi. 502, sub not.
- Novella, the constitutions of Justinian, so called, vi. 531, a, b.
- † Novempopulania, the ancient name of Antioch, vi. 472, f.
- Novencula Dii, whence so called, iv. 602, (U).
- Novi among the Romans, who, v. 46, (M).
- † Noviodunum, Noyons, v. 119, e. Taken by Cæsar, 126, f. vii. 399, c. Plunder'd by the Ædii, v. 127, b.
- Nouschirvan, prince of Persia, why so called, iv. 300. His excellent reign, ibid. & seq. Generosity, 391. Division of Persia, ibid. c. Conquests, ibid. & seq. Extent of his empire, 322, d, e. Defeats his rebellious son, 393, d. Defeated by the Armenians, 394, b. His last instructions, ibid. c, d. Character, ibid. (H).
- Nouschirvan, prince of Persia, brought up a Christian, iv. 392, f. Revolts against his father, 293, a. Defeated and killed, ibid. d.
- † Nubians, who and where sited, vii. 229, c, d, (H). By whom converted, 217, d. Ally with the Romans, vi. 213, c. Repulsed by Marcian, 498, b.
- † Nubium, a city in Iberia, iii. 835, c.
- † Nuceria taken by Fabius, iv. 624, e. Revolts v. 36, b. Taken by Hannibal and burnt, vii. 36, a, b.
- Nudar king of Persia, according to oriental writers, ii. 185, & seq. Put to death by Aphersia, 186.
- Numa Pompilius, chosen king of the Romans, iv. 435. His Religion, 436. Falls Laws, 437. Death, 438, b. Ousequies, ibid. c. Books, ibid. (P).
- † Numantia, where, 787, a. Besieged and destroyed, 788, c. See also vol. vii. 307 (K).
- Numantine War, the cause of iv. 782, c. Success, ibid. & seq. Peace, 785, a. Broken, ibid. & seq.
- Numantines, their desperate end, iv. 787, vii. 307, (K).
- Numbers, held by Pythagoras the principles of all things, i. 26, c, d.
- Numenes, Writings and character, iv. 82. sub not.
- Numerarii, in Britain, their office, vii. 417, a.
- Numerianus's stratagem in favour of Severus, vi. 112, b.
- the son of Carus created Cæsar, 204, c. Proclaimed emperor, 225, b. Killed by Aper, ibid. c. His character and funeral obsequies, ibid. d, e.
- Numerius Fab. triumphs over the Salentines, iv. 649.
- † Numidia, its boundaries, vii. 107, a, b. Cities, 109, & seq. Mountains, promontaries, &c. 111. Natural Rarities, 112, d, e. 116, c, d. First inhabitants, ibid. f. How far under the Carthaginians, 117, c. When first founded, 121, d, & seq. Destroyed by pestilence, 127, c. Made a Roman province, 137, c. Yielded to Genseric, 593, c. How divided by them, v. 28, a, b. Given to Hyemphal, 80, c. Taken away by Cæsar, 65, b, c. Reduced and kept by the Romans, 331, d, vi. 487.
- 10 F Numidians,

Numidians, their site, government, &c. vii. 117, & seq. Religion, 118, b. When first called Numidians, ibid. c. Their language, writings, &c. 119, a. Customs, &c. ibid. & seq. Ride without bridles, 120, a. Arts and sciences, ibid. & seq. Wars with the Carthaginians, 122, & seq. With the Romans, 130, & seq. Ravage Carthage, iv. 664, b. Repulsed by the Gauls, 695, c. How they cut through the Alpine rocks, 697, c. Over-reach the Ligurians, 753, f. Abandon the Romans, v. 50, c. Revolt to Agathocles, vi. 804, b. Some of their tribes subdued by Archagathus, 808, d, (Z). Break out against the Carthaginians, 838, c, d. Cruelly punished by Hamilcar, 843, c. Subdued by the Romans, vii. 137, b, c. — Mitacanian severely used by the Carthaginians, vii. 122, c, d. — Nomomunda, who and where, 133, (P). Numitor dethroned by his brother, iv. 421, e. Discovers his two grandsons, 422, d. Reenthroned by them, 423, b. Numitrius's brave Defence of Virginia, iv. 540. Chosen Military tribune, 543. Numonius Pala, his death, v. 341, d. Nuns, well treated by Sapor, vi. 306, a. Nychimus, king of Arcadia, ii. 379, c. Nymphidius raised by Nero, v. 558, a. Treachery to him, 574, f, & seq. Assumes the empire against Galba, 583, & seq. Slain by the soldiers, 584, e, f. Nymphius's stratagem against the Samnites, iv. 607, c. Nyphus surprises Syracuse, iii. 70, b. Puts all to the sword, ibid. c, d. † Nysa, a city in Cappadocia, iii. 762, b. Taken by Alexander, 390, (D). † Nyza, a city in Arabia Felix, vii. 233, c. A royal residence, 234, a.

O

O*AKS*, sacred among the Scythians, ii. 272, & seq. — Among the Gauls, vii. 328, b, c. The Symbols of the deity, 329, & seq. In vogue among the ancient patriarchs, 331, a, b, (G). One dedicated to an hundred deities, 350, b, (E). Sacred among the Germans [416]. Pers. and Britains, 406. Oannes, a fabled Monster, said to have taught Letters, &c. i. 90, a, b, 929, & seq. † Oasis, two cities of the name in Libya, i. 175, f. — Inhabited by the Samians, iii. 189, a. — Its dismal situations, &c. vi. 437, a. Oaths of fidelity exacted by Herod, iv. 144, a. Opposed by the Jews, ibid. b. How forbid by the Essenians, 172, a. (C). Military, how taken by the Romans, iv. 489 (K). Obadiah, governor of Ahab's house, i. 810. Meeting with Elifha, ibid. & seq. Obal gives name to some parts of Ethiopia, vii. 193, a, b. Obelisk made keeper of the sacred ark, i. 776, b. Obelisk king of Arabia invaded by Jannes, iv. 100, b. Protects the free-booters of Judea, 150, b, (K). Poison'd by Syllus, ibid. (L). Obelisk brought from Egypt by Caligula, v. 476, (V). Another, vi. 299, d. A third set up at Constantinople, 418. Obelisk sends 1000 Nabatheans to Augustus, v. 301, d. See also Valens, iv. 343, a. † Obella, a city towards Basra, i. 170, b. † Obolus Ebeds, where, i. 533, a. † Obrima river in Phrygia, ii. 294, d. Obfidional crown, to whom given by the Romans, iv. 597, f. † Oby river in Scythia, ii. 267, d. Ocia, president of the vestals, succeeded by Pollio's daughter, v. 402, b. Ocean, thought by some the original of all things, i. 17, d. † Ocelis, the port of Saana in Yaman, i. 170, a. Ocellus's eternity of the world exploded, i. 3, b—d. Oculus subdues all Phenice to Persia, i. 411, & seq. Cruelty to the Sidonians, ibid. e, f. 1st, changes his name for Darius, ii. 134, d. See Darius Nothus. — 2d, the son of Artax. Maemon ascends the throne, 150, b. Cruelties, 151. Loses several provinces, 152. Invades Egypt in person, ibid. & seq. Returns triumphant, 153. Kills the god Apis, 154. Plunders the Egyptian temples, ibid. c. Murdered by Bagoas, ibid. &c. — Invades Cyprus, iii. 181, f, & seq. Makes peace with it, 182. — Expedition against the Jews, iv. 28, a. Death, ibid. b. † — A river in Bactria, iii. 845, e. Ocnus, king of Hetruria, iv. 418, c. Ocrifia, the mother of Servius, who, iv. 453, c, d. Oda the Saxon comes into Britain, vii. 443, c. Settles in Northumberland, 444, a. Odrasius M. Crasti, succeeds in Sicily, vi. 826, & seq. Odras, king of the Hunns, wars with the Burgundi, 458, b. Odravia, married to M. Antony iii. 681. Supplanted by Cleopatra, 682, b, c. Divorced and turned out, 684, b, vid. & v. 277, b. Reconciles him to her brother, ibid. c. Sent back to Rome, 278, a. To Antony 784. Repulsed by him, ibid. c, d. Moderation towards him, ibid. e. Divorce-ment, 286, b. Piety to his children, ibid. & 294, b. Death and character, 302, c, d. — Daughter of Claudius, born, v. 437, c. Married to Domitius, 506, f. To Nero, 514, d. Divorced and banished, 543, b, c. Murdered, ibid. &c. Her character, ibid. (H).

Odravianus gives his sister to M. Antony, iii. 681. Marches against him, 684. Defeats him at sea, ibid. c, f. Invades Egypt, 685, f, & seq. Takes Cleopatra prisoner, 688, d. Behaviour to her, 689, & seq. Outwitted by her, 690. Returns to Rome, 691, a. The rest see under Augustus iv. 126, & seq. and Odravius, v. 189, c. Odravius opposes Metellus in Crete, iii. 171. Driven out of the island, 172, b. — chosen Roman admiral, 490, f. Brings Perseus prisoner to the consul, 495, c. — sent to be guardian to young Eupater, 586, d. Murdered by Lyfias, 588, & seq. — Comes to Crassus's assistance, iv. 304, a. Killed, 305, a. — Roman admiral invests Samothrace, 763. Takes Perseus prisoner, 764, c. Triumphant, 765, b. Assassinated in Syria, ibid. f. — M. Cæcina opposes the Sempronian law, 791. Pass. — chosen consul, v. 56, c. His excellent character, ibid. d. Retaliation on Cinna, 60, f. Assassinated by Ciceronius, 64, d—c. — Appointed Cæsar's heir, v. 139, c. His Extract, &c. 194, & seq. and (K). In high favour with him, 195, a. Takes his three names, ibid. e, (L). Visits Cicero, 196, b. Speech to M. Antony, 197, b, c. Complaint against him, 198, b, c. Outwitted by him, 199, a. Second interview with him, 200, b, c. Enters Rome, 201, b. New honours from the senate, 202, & seq. Joins with the consul, 204, d, e. Ill success against Antony, 205, d, e. Bravery at Mutina, 206, f. Interview with Brutus, 207, b, c. With Panfa, ibid. e, f. Mortified by the senate, 208, c, 211, b, c. Reconcil'd to Antony, ibid. d. Outwits the senate, ibid. & seq. Enters Rome, 213. Age at his instatement, ibid. e, f. Adoption confirm'd, 220, d. Outwits the senate, 221, d. Interview with Antony and Lepidus, 222, f, & seq. Their execrable resolution, 223, c, & seq. Cruelties, 224. Treachery to Gellius, 232, a, b. March into Macedonia, ibid. d. Joins Antony, 242, c. Cowardice at Philippi, 245, b—d. Success against Brutus, 251, & seq. Ill Treatment of his corps, 156, c. Barbarity to the republican prisoners, 257, & seq. Passes into Italy, 259, b. Difficulties at Rome, 262, b. Longest to his Veterans, 263, c, d. Divorce of Clodia, ibid. e. Siege of Perugia, 265. Cruelty to the magistrates, 266, f. Triumphant entry at Rome, 268, a, b. Reconciled to Antony, 270, b. To Pompey 272, & seq. Passes into Gaul, 273, c. Falls out with Pompey, 275, b, c. Marries T. Nero's Wife, ibid. e, (N). Ill success at sea, 276, & seq. Reconcil'd to Antony, 277, & seq. Ill-timed expedition against Pompey, 278, b—d. Defeated by him, 279, c, d. Success and cowardice, 280, & seq. Deposits Lepidus, 281, e, f. Insulted by the soldiers, 282, b, c. Reception at Rome, ibid. e. Popularity, ib. & seq. Chosen tribune for life, 283, b. Accuses Antony to the senate, 285, b. Wars against Cleopatra, 287, b, c. Reproachful Letter to Antony, 288, b, c. Order of his fleet, 291, b, c. Stupid superstition, ibid. (W). Victory at Actium, 292, & seq. Settles Asia Minor, &c. 294, d. Treble triumph at Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Takes the imperial title, 295, a. Gets the supreme authority, 226, d. and surname of Augustus, ibid. f. His strength, policy, &c. 298. Pass. success in Spain, ibid. & seq. Becomes absolute, 301, b. His will and dying behaviour, 303, b—d. Unexpected recovery, ibid. & seq. New powers, &c. 304, c. Rejects the dictatorship, 305, b, c. New regulations, ibid. & seq. 309, e, f. Passes into Sicily, 306, e. Into Greece, 307, b. Success against Phœarces, ibid. & seq. & (C). Comes to Samos, 308, e, f. Reforms the state, 311. Pass. cowardice, ibid. a—c. Rejects the title of Lord, 312, d, 332, c. Shameful expedition into Gaul, 313, & seq. Styled Pont. Max. 316, a. New laws at Rome, ibid. & seq. Corrects the Calendar, 317. Obsequies to Agrippa, 318, b. Worship'd by the Gauls, 319, b. New laws, 321, f, & seq. Popularity, 322, c, d. 3d, decennial power, ibid. e. Severity to Julia, 326, & seq. 333, c. Exhibits magnificent shews, &c. 327, c, d. Letter to Cæsar on his birth-day, 330, d. Conspired against, 332, & seq. Clemency to the conspirators, 333, b. Speech to the married and unmarried, 337, e, f. Grief at Varus's defeat, 341, f. Threatened by prodigies, 342, (Z). Letter to the senate, 345, b. Fourth decennial renewed, ibid. c, d. 347, e. Other prodigies preceeding his death, 345, f. Taken ill at Naples, 346, d, e. Dies at Nola, ibid. f, & seq. Letter to Tiberius, 347, (E). Legacies and writings, 348, b, c. Funeral honours, ibid. & seq. Apotheosis, 349. Character, ibid. & seq. Stately buildings, 351, sub not. Writings, &c. 353, sub not. Character of Claudius, 486, b, (I). Laws enforced by him, 493, c. — Roman general seizes on the Carthaginian transports, vii. 73, b. October month, why called Domitian, v. 676, d. Odrasius, king of Scythia, ii. 286. Odrasius Palmyrensis, his Embassy to the Persians, vi. 177, c. Extract and character, ibid. d, e. Noble resentment against them, ibid. & seq. Takes the royal title, 178, a. Promoted by Gallienus, ibid. b. Penetrates into Persia, ibid. c. Success there, ibid. d, e. Siege of Emfala, 182, b. Success

- cells against the Persians, 183, b, iv. 327, d. Drives the Goths out of Asia, vi. 183, c. His Death ibid. d.
- Odin*, worship'd by the ancient Germans, vii. [419] c. Their Notion of him, ibid. & seq. & (D, E, F). Made a northern Hero [420], a, b—King of the Afgardians, 489, b.
- Odusca's* extract and character, vi. 513, c, d. Defeated by Childeric, 510, d. Puts Orestes to Death, ibid. e. Kindness to his son, ibid. f. Defeated by Theodoric, 516, c, f. Yields his conquests to the Goths, vii. 516, b—d. Makes himself king of Italy, vi. 514, a, vii. 523, b. Recovers part of his conquests from Theodoric, ibid. & seq. Defeated after by him, 524, d. Besieged in Ravenna, ibid. & seq. Surrenders and put to death, 525, b, c.—A Saxon decimated by Childeric, 564, c.
- † Odontantes, a people of Thrace, where and who, iii. 790.
- Odubas*, king of the Greuthongi invades the empire, vii. 504, b. Defeated and slain by Theodoric, ibid. & seq.
- † Odryse, a people of Thrace where sit'd, iii. 791. Their kings, ibid. & seq. Country made a Roman province, 793, f. Their revolt and defeat, v. 409, d.
- † Oebalia, an ancient name of Lacedæmon, ii. 396, (B). Described, 400, d.
- Oebalus* the Spartan sets up 100 tripods at Ithome, ii. 575, d.
- Oedipus*, why expel'd when born, ii. 374. His parricide, incest and distraction, ibid. & seq.
- † Oenanda, where situate, v. 237, (G).
- † Oenians, who and whence, ii. 268, a, (E).
- † Oenari, where, and whence so called, iv. 416, c.
- † Oenotri, whether the same with the Aborigines, iv. 414, c. Their origin, 416, d.
- Oenotrius's* arrival in Italy, iv. 416, e.
- † Oesuna, a city of Thrace, where, iii. 786, c.
- † Oeta, the heights of, described, ii. 379, a.
- Oella* invests and takes Præneste, v. 71, f. 75, a.
- Offerings*, peace, laws concerning them, i. 623, c, d.—Meat and drink, ibid. e. Cleansing, ibid. f, & seq.—First fruits, 625, a, b, & seq.—First cake, 626, a.—Incense, 629, a.—Burnt-offerings, where placed, 660, c. Described, 661, & seq.
- Offilius Calvus's*, just opinion of the routed Romans, iv. 613, c. Bold speech to Octavianus, v. 282, c. Privately murdered, ibid. d.
- Og*, king of Bashan reckoned a king of the Amorites, i. 330, c. The last king of Rephaim, 324, (E), 330, c. Allies with king Sihon against Israel, ibid. Defeated and killed, ibid. d. Jewish fables about him, ibid. (X).
- Ogulnian* laws made in favour of the plebeians, iv. 628, a—d.
- Ogulnius Quintus*, & Cneius stirred up in favour of the plebeians, iv. 627, f.
- Ogyges's* flood, i. 96, (N).
- † Ogygia, an ancient name of Bæotia, ii. 370, c.
- † Obud mount, where sit'd, vii. 237, d.
- Oibalus* killed by the Athenians, ii. 467, c.
- † Olanus, a city in Lesbos, by whom built, iii. 105, c.
- † Olia, where sit'd, iii. 822, c. Not the same with Nicomedia, ibid. Taken by the Romans, iv. 660, c. vi. 834, b, c.
- Olbianus's* subeels against Thomas, vi. 565, c, f, & seq.
- † Olisopolitan Scythians, their site, agriculture, &c. ii. 276, b.
- Olus*, the temple and priesthood of, iii. 176, f.
- † Olkades, where situate, iv. 691, a. Invaded by Hannibal, ibid. b. Subdued by him, vi. 869, c, d.
- Oleanus's* extortions raise a revolt in Frisia, v. 434 (K).
- † Oleares islands described, iii. 219.
- † Oleastrum, the promontory of, where, vii. 145, b.
- † Olenus in Achaia prop. by whom founded, ii. 414, c.
- † Olicana, where, and by whom rebuilt, vii. 412, a.
- † Olistippo, Lisbon, metropol. of Lusitania, vii. 296, d.—The port of, 298, f.
- † Olivet mount, why called the mount of the three lights, i. 572, d. Famed on many accounts, ibid. a. Described, 573, a. Held in veneration by Christians, &c. ibid. & seq.
- Oloaritus*, one of Agrippina's assassines, v. 534, d.
- Olophernes* L. king of Cappadocia, iii. 764—II. al. Orophernes dethrones Arearethes, 7th, 592, 565, a. Slain, ibid. d.
- Olbaces*, king of Colchis, iii. 835, a.
- Olybrius* raised by Gratian, vi. 389, c. By Theodoric, 425, & seq.—Marries Placida, vi. 507. Proclaimed emperor, 511, c. His death, ibid. d.
- † Olympia, a city of Elis describ'd, 406, b. Besieged by the Persians, and spared, vi. 370, a, b.
- Olympiads*, the computation of, ii. 406, b.
- Olympian* temple at Athens, ii. 436, b.
- Olympias*, Philip's queen, her character, iii. 300, a, b. Divorce, ibid. c. Message to Alexander, 348, a, 358, d. Retires into Epirus, 425, d. Her pride and cruelty, 453, (B). Recalled by Polyperchon, ibid. & seq. Cruel behaviour at her return, 457. Pass. shuts herself up in Pydna, ibid. & seq. Besieged by Cassander, 458, b, c. Put to death, ibid. d.—Queen of Acarnania's alliance with Demetrius, 475, a.
- † —the cattle of, describ'd, iii. 5, b.
- Olympic* games, by whom instituted, ii. 264, c. 598, not restored, 406, b. Describ'd, ibid. & (E). Forbid to the women, ibid. (F). Exhibited by Sylla, v. 30, c.
- Olympics*, instituted by king Philip, iii. 292, d.
- Olympiodorus's* account of the siege of Rome, vi. 458, b. His other writings, &c. 476, (R).
- Olympius Jupiter's* famous temple and statue at Elis, ii. 406, b. At Agrigentum, iii. 6, b.
- statue sent for by Caligula, v. 468, (M).
- temple at Athens finish'd, vi. 42, d.
- first king of Myfia, ii. 327, a.
- Mnemeianus's writings and character, vi. 205, (B).
- a philosopher heads the heathen against the christians, 416, f. Retires out of Egypt, 417.
- discovers Stilicho's treason, 426, a, b. Made prime minister, 457, c. His zeal against heretics, ibid. d, c. Disgraced, 460, c.
- the Exarch's success against the Saracens, vii. 691, d. Death, ibid. c.
- † Olympus mount, its height, i. 102, (N). Described, iii. 259, (H).
- † —mountain in Thessaly, ii. 381, c. Where situate, 325, d. The place of Jupiter's residence, 262, b.
- † —a city in Lycia, ii. 337.
- † Olynthus, the republic of, oppressed by the Spartans, ii. 614, d. Subdued by Polybiades, 615, b.
- Olynthians*, subdued by Philip, ii. 546, c.
- † Oman, the province of, where, vii. 235, a, b.
- † —the city of abandon'd, ibid. c, d.
- † Omanites, who and where sit'd, vii. 233, a.
- Omar* destroys the Alexandrian library, iii. 630, a.
- Calif reduces Peria, iv. 404, & seq.
- † Ombros island, why uninhabited, vii. 148, a.
- Omoroca*, in the Chaldee Cosmogony, who, i. 14, c. The governors of living creatures, ibid. & not.
- Omphale*, queen of Lydia, ii. 332.
- Omri*, chosen king of Israel, i. 808, d.
- Omulus's* surly answer to Antoninus, vi. 53, & seq.
- Onan*, Juda's son by a Canaanish wife, i. 450, c. His sin and death, ibid. d.
- Onasius's* writings and character, vi. 168 (X), 203, (A).
- † Onega, the lake of, described, ii. 268, c.
- Onesicritus* his character as an author, iii. 395. in fin. not. Made captain of a galley by Alexander, 397, b.
- Onesilus* king of Salamis, ii. 177, c. Revolts from the Persians, ibid. d, c. Slain, 178, b.
- Onias* the Maccabee, Arius's letter to, ii. 624, f, & not.
- the worthy Jewish Pontif falls out with Simon, iii. 569.
- Opposes* Heliodorus, ibid. & seq. Deposed by Antiochus, 572, c. Murdered in Egypt by Andronicus, 574, d. See also vol iv. 45—49, and notes.
- a fordid high-priest endangers the Jewish nation, iii. 640, c, d, iv. 41, & seq.
- a pontif depriv'd of the succession, iv. 69, c. Retires into Egypt, ibid. f. In high esteem there, 79, c. Builds a Jewish temple, ibid. & T. See also iii. 654, c.
- a pious Jew murdered, iv. 107, & seq.
- † Onion, where, iv. 116. The Jews of great service to Cæsar, ibid. & seq.
- Onomastus* conspires in favour of Otho, v. 593, a.
- Onoulus*, the murderer of Basiliscus, vi. 515, b.
- Opbelus* gained over by Agathocles, vii. 804, c. The sad state of his army, 805, a, b. Betrayed and murdered by him, 806, b, (U).
- Opbials*, head of an Athenian faction, ii. 485, a.
- Opbigenes*, who, ii. 324, c.
- † Opbipolagi, their site, food, &c. vii. 148, a.
- † Opbir, one of Jocktan's sons, where settled, i. Conjectures concerning that land, ibid. & seq.
- † Opbiusa island described, vii. 308, c.
- † Opbiusa, Tenos island, why so called, iii. 225, d.
- Opima spolia*, whence so called, iv. 430, a, (Z). The second carried in triumph, 548, f. Third, 690, c.
- Opimius Q. Nepos*, succeeds in Transalpine Gaul, iv. 767, a.
- L. chosen consul against Gracchus, 806, b. Seizes the Capitol, ibid. e. Besieges the revoltors, 807. Cruelty to the Gracchian faction, 808, & seq. To young Fulvius, 809, a. Tried and acquitted, 810, & seq.
- Luc. basely bought by Jugurtha, v. 7, b. Cruel banishment, 12, c, f.
- a Roman champion kills a Cimbric in single combat, 37, b.
- Opis*, why honoured by the Delians, iii. 229, c.
- † Opitergum, taken by Rotharis, vii. 691, a.
- Opium* made in Persia, ii. 39, c.
- Opus Q.* sent against Mithridates, iii. 730, c. Delivered up to him in chains, 731, b.
- Opitai*, Athenian soldiers, why so called, ii. 438, a.
- † Opone, a city in Locris Opuntia, 412, a.
- † Opone, a port in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
- Oppian* law, what, iv. 751, c. f. Repealed, 752, a.
- Oppius Spur.* a plebeian, chosen December, iv. 535, c. His trial and death, 544, c.
- admired poems, &c. vi. 129, (O). Statue, epitaph, &c. ibid. & seq.
- defeated by the Boii, iv. 749, b.

Opr,

- Ops*, the festival of, by whom instituted, iv. 443, c. (X).
Opus M. one of the betrayers of Sabinus, v. 433, c.
Optatianus's writings, banishment, &c. vi. 274, sub not.
Optatus made a patrician, vi. 272, a. Murdered by the soldiers, 275, a.
 — a Donatist bishop imprison'd for treason, vi. 440, d.
 Death, ibid. c.
Optila, the murderer of Valentinian, vi. 499, f.
 † Ora, where sited, iii. 388, d. Taken by Alexander, ibid.
Oracles of Egypt, an account of, i. 211, a.
 — famed among the Greeks, ii. 347, a. How consulted, ibid. & (F). Deceitful, ibid.
 † Orbelia, the region of, where, iii. 257, b.
 † Orbelus mount in Thrace, iii. 787, d.
 † Orbitum taken by the Lombards, vii. 686, d.
 † Orcaides islands discovered, vii. 414, a. Plundered by the Saxons, 443, c.
Orchamus invades the Greeks, vi. 639, c. d. Takes Nice by an odd stratagem, 642, b. c.
 † Orchomeneus rebuilt Alexander, iii. 321, d.
 † Orchomenus, the city of, described, ii. 693, & (C).
Orician law, what, iv. 759, f.
Oricius Liberti, why so called, iv. 470, in fin. (U).
Orcini, Antony's creatures, why so called, v. 192.
Ordeals used in Gaul, vii. 334, a.
 † Ordoves in Britain, who, v. 510, c. Bravery against the Romans, ibid. & seq.
 † Ordovices, who and where, v. 652, f. Cut a Roman station in pieces, ibid. & seq. Their valour and noble character, vii. 410, & seq.
Orch, prince of Midian, defeated by Gideon, i. 304, d. 745, e.
 † Oreos in Eubœa described, iii. 249, b. Taken by the Rhodians, 147, c. By the Athenians, 249, c. By Philip, 299, b.
 † Oreopodan hills, where, vii. 307, (K).
Orestes's unhappy reign, ii. 357, d. Succeeds to the Spartan crown, 403, b. Accused of parricide, ibid. d. Dies in Arcadia, 380, a, 403, b. His bones strangely discovered, 380 (M).
 — Aurilius chosen consul, v. 33, b. Death, ibid. d.
 — Aufidius's consulship, &c. 97, f.
 — insulted by the Alexandrian monks, vi. 471, c. d.
 Raised by Nepos, 512, c. Revolts against him, ibid. c. d.
 His extract, &c. ibid. c. f. Governs as guardian to his son, 513, a. Disobliges the Barbarians, ibid. c. d. Put to death, ibid. e.
 — Sent by Attila to Constantinople, vii. 469, f. His marriage, ibid. &c. ibid. (D). Character and death, ibid. &c. When he left Attila's service, 472, a.
 † Orestides, who and where sited, ii. 706, (Z).
 † Oreum, metrop. of Eubœa, betray'd to the Romans, ii. 667, c.
Orfius conspires against Domitian, v. 686, c. Banish'd and dies, ibid. d.
 — governor of Rome under Antoninus, vi. 55, f.
 — one of Faustina's gallants promoted, 78, d.
Orgetorix raises a new war in Helvetia, vi. 397, d. Defeated Cæsar, ibid. c. f.
Oribafus's writings and character, vi. 338, sub not.
 † Oricum, a city in Epirus, iii. 795, f.
 † Orient, the district of its several provinces, &c. vi. 270, c. d.
Oriental writers account of Persia, ii. 172. To the end of the section, an apology for them, 334, not.
Origen favours the dogm of the Platonists, i. 4, c. His writings against Celsus, vi. 81, (H). Great credit with the emper's mother, 138, b. c. Letters to Philip and Severa, 166, c.
Origo, one of the ancient names of Carthage, vi. 721, f. and of Dido, 722, a.
Oriops puts Hamular to flight, vi. 866, (M). Defeated by his son, 867 (N).
Oristilla Livia ravished from Pisto, v. 467, c.
 † Oritæ, who, iii. 402, c. Subdued by Alexander, ibid.
Oritibia princeps of Athens, slain by Boreas, ii. 363, d.
 † Orkney islands discovered and taken by Agricola, v. 672, b.
 † Orleans, by whom built, vi. 194, c. Besieged by Attila, 494, f. Relieved by Ætius, 496, b. See also vii. 474, & seq. Taken by Chulderic, 564, b.
Ormuzd Hormizda, the good principle held by the Magi, i. 31, d.
 † — city by whom built, iv. 379, c. Where removed, ibid. f.
Ornytion, the son of Sisyphus, king of Corinth, ii. 393, b.
 † Oronides's treachery to Perseus, iii. 495, b.
 † Orubia, a city in Eubœa drowned, iii. 249, f.
 † Orubii, ancient Ligurians, where, iv. 410, b. c.
Orubius rescues Delos from Mithridates, iii. 733, c.
Oracles's mildemeanor and odd punishment, vii. 611, c.
Orades, king of Parthia, murders his father, iv. 293, e. Driven out, ibid. f. Cruelty to his brother, 294, b. Invaded by Crassus, 295, & seq. Embassy to him, 297, b. Defeats the Romans, 302, & seq. Makes peace with Armenia, 305, f. Ingratitude to Surena, 306, b. Ill success in Syria, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Ventidius, 308, f. Excessive grief, 309, a. b. Takes Phraates into partnership, 310, a. Murdered by him, ibid. b.
Orades II. murdered, iv. 314, c.
 — the son of Artabanus defeated, 315, d.
Oroetes king of Albania defeated by Pompey, iii. 838, c. f.
Oroetes kills the tyrant Polycrates, iii. 193, d. & seq.
 † — the kingdom of described, 255 (E).
 — king of Macedon, iii. 284.
 † Orogomeni river in Bactria, iii. 845, c.
Oromasdes, one of the Persian names of God, ii. 76. Whom they held self-existent, ibid. &c.
Oroates king of Armenia, deposed by Germanicus, iii. 710, b.
Oroates's treachery to Tiribazus, iii. 181, b. c.
 † — a river in Syria, i. 361, c. Fables about it, ibid.
Orontobates made governor of Media, iii. 431, b.
Oropus the Erethrean's generosity to the Athenians, ii. 460, d.
 † Orosanges, who and where, iii. 199.
Orosopa besieged by Masinissa, iv. 769, d. vii. 96, c.
Orosius's anachronism about a great earthquake, v. 392, (G).
 Mistake about the first treaty between Rome and Carthage rectified, vi. 774, a. b.
Orpheus introduces worship among the Greeks, i. 15, c. His tenets, &c. 16, & seq. Doctrine of the mundan egg, 17, a. Polishes the Greeks, ii. 348, b. Goes with the Argonautic expedition, 384, (I).
Orphius Papius, defeated and punished, iii. 714, b.
Orjaces, Parthian general's success against Syria, iv. 306, c. Defeated and killed, ibid. e.
Orfines, put to death for cruelty, iii. 404, (M).
Ortara, queen of the Amazons, ii. 279, sub not.
Ortodox favoured by Constantine, vi. 248, d. e. 251. Pass. restored by Jovian, 344, d. e. Persecuted by Valens, 370, b. &c. Burnt alive, 382, a. Restored by Gratian, 389, a. By Theodosius, 393, c. f. Persecuted by Anastasius, 521, f. & seq. Restored by Justin, 523, b. Persecuted by the Persians, 541, c.
 † Ortona, taken from the Æqui, iv. 528, f.
 † Ortygia, Delos, why so called, iii. 227.
 † — one of the four quarters of Syracuse, 4, b. c. Taken by the Romans, 121, b. c.
Orus, an Egyptian deity, i. 241, b. His history ibid. Oft confounded with Apollo, 246. Their last demi-god, 245, d.
 — Sicorus, an ancient Spanish king, vii. 320, d.
Orasiphus, Ulforthon rebels against the Ethiopians, vii. 210, c.
 † Ofia, where situate, v. 88, b.
 † Ofci, their origin, iv. 415, c.
Ofenes among the Romans, what, iv. 428, (S).
Ofius made admiral of Otho's fleet, v. 604, f.
Ofius, bp. made Constantine's Almoner, vi. 244, d. His letter to him, 252, a.
Ofiris of the Egyptians, the same as the sun. i. 13, c. with Isis, their two chief deities, 204, a. How represented, 205, c. d. Said to be the son and daughter of Rhea, 241, b. Their history, ibid. &c.
 — Defeats Geryon, vii. 319, d. & seq.
 † Ofroene, where sited, vi. 22, d. Subdued by Trajan, ibid. e. By Severus, 110, c. by Caracalla, 127, b.
Ofroes's defeat and narrow escape, vi. 63, c. & seq.
 † Ofsa mountain in Thessaly, inhabited by Centaurs, ii. 381, c.
 † Ofsa, the port of, by whom built, iv. 446, b. — The haven of, where, v. 494, (X).
 — taken and plundered by Marius, 62, f. — The tower of, ibid. & seq.
 † Ofsa Rheni, or Rhine's mouths, how many, v. 382, (Q).
Oforius, Scapula's success against the Britons, v. 509, d. (D), & seq. Triumph, 511, c. Ill success and death, 541, c. See also vii. 430, a—d. — Ruins of his forts there, still extant, 410, c.
Oftracism at Athens, what, and how performed, ii. 467, c. & not.
Oftriches, how caught by the Ethiopians, vii. 200, f.
Ofregutba, a Bathian prince, vii. 492, d. Defeats the Gepidæ, 494, a. b.
 † Ofregotes, who, vi. 397, d. Where settled by Marcian, 496, b. Driven out of Illyricum, 506, e. f. By the Huns, vii. 459, b. Pass the Danube, ibid. e. Settle in Pannonia, 482, a, 518, d. Whence so called, 487, c. Where seated, 492, d. Subject to the Huns, ibid. f. & seq. Invade the empire, 504, a. Defeated by Theodosius, ibid. & seq. Their king's history, &c. 518. Ravage Illyricum, 519, b. c. Settle in Thrace, 523, d. Where settled by Clovis, 572, e. f. Seize upon Arles, 577, c. & Pannonia, ibid. d. Their government in Italy, 640, & seq. War against the Romans, 652, & seq. Invaded by the Franks, 661, b. Outwitted by Belisarius, 663, b—f. Choose a new king, 664, b. c. War against Narles, 674, & seq. Cruelty to the Romans, 677, d. e. Defeated by them, 678, b. c. Submit to them, ibid. d. e. Suffered to enjoy their liberty, 679, d. e.
Oftrici heads the Goths against Leo, 511, a.
Olymanduct, Imandes buried in one of Herodotus's pyramids, i. 185.
Olymandyas, king of Ægypt, who, i. 247, d. Reduces the rebellious Bactrians, ibid. & seq. His prodigious army, 248, a. Magnificent tomb, statue, &c. ibid. &c.

Oracilius's election opposed, iv. 720, c. Sent into Sicily, ibid.
 e.—Success against the Carthaginians, vii. 46, a. Plunders in Africa, 56, a, b.
Oranes discovers the sham Smerdis, by means of his daughter, ii. 101. Declares for a republican government, 103, a.—Sent to relieve Samos, iii. 196, e. Cruelty to the Samians, 197, a, b. Repeoples that island, ibid.
Othniel takes Kirjath-sepher, i. 783, f. Marries Caleb's daughter, ibid. & seq. Chosen the first judge, 742, d. Defeats Cushan-rishataim, ibid.
Orto's regulations approved by Cicero, v. 104, c.
 —the emperor becomes a favourite of Claudius, 495, & seq. To Nero, 520, c. Debauches him, 525, b, c. Marries Poppea, 527, b, (C). Upright government in Lusitania, ibid. & seq. Assists Galba, 572, c. Goes with him to Rome, 582, e. Set aside from the succession, 590, e, f. Conspires against him, 592, c, & seq. Saluted emperor by the camp, 594, a, 595, c. Acknowledged by the senate, 597, c. Conspir'd against by Vitellius, 598, b, &c. His dissimulation to him, 601, e, &c. Messages to and from him, 602, b, c. Drops the hated name of Nero, ibid. f, & seq. Quells the mutinous soldiers, 603, c, d. Marches against Valens, 604, f, & seq. Takes many nobles with him, 605, a. Success in Gaul, ibid. f, & seq. Against Cecina, 607, & seq. Secures himself at Broxellum, 608, f, & seq. Rash orders to engage him, 609, d, e. Total defeat, 610, d, c. Prevented from killing himself, 611, c, d. Speech before his death, ibid. f, & seq. Calm and obliging behaviour, 612, c. Consolatory letters to his friends, ibid. d, e. Stabs himself, ibid. f, & seq. Hasty funeral, 613, a, b. Character, ibid. c.
Othoman invades the Greek empire, vi. 635, d, 639, c, d. His death, 641, c.
Othrades, the only surviving champion of Sparta, ii. 572, & not.
 † Otobry mountain in Thessaly, ii. 381, c.
 † Otranto, where, vii. 668, b. Relieved by Belisarius, ibid.
 c. Taken by John, 671, b, c.
Otrera king of Phrygia, ii. 303, a.
Otta, third king of Kent, vii. 449, c.
 † Ottadini, who and where seated, vii. 413, d.
 † Ottation among the Romans, what, iv. 499, (D).
Oven's chicken hatch'd in Egypt, i. 201, (B).
Ovid writes his Art amandi, v. 327, e, (I). His severe Banishment, 342, & seq. (B). Death, 344, in fin. not. & 393, d.
Ovidius's faithfulness to Cæsonius, v. 557, (O).
Ovinus Canid. bold attempt on the empire, vi. 139, f. How used by the emperor, 140, a, b. Death, ibid. c.
Owl perches twice over Agrippa's head, iv. 262, in fin. (X).
Ox, why stamp'd on the Athenian coin, ii. 362, a, 365, b. —one said to have spoke at Rome, vi. 10, c.
Oxathres saves Darius's life, iii. 336, (I). Put to death, 405, b. —the son of Dionysius's parricide and death, iii. 825, b.
Oxen, a famous breed of, in Thessaly, ii. 382, c.
Oxicanus submits to Alexander, iii. 400, c, (H).
 † Oxius, river in Bactria, iii. 845. How passed by Alexander, 369.
Oxyartes king of Bactria, iii. 846, b. Defeats Ninus, i. 876, d. Defeated, ibid. e. Surrenders to Alexander, 384, d. Prevails on others to do so, 385, a. Rewarded for it, ibid. & seq. His lot after that monarch's death, 399, d.
Oxydraca, who, iii. 393, c. Defeated by Alexander, ibid. & seq.
Oxyllus, the three-eyed general of the Heraclidae, ii. 359. Whence he was, 408, pass. His success, 359, & seq. Made king of Elis, 360, b, 408, & seq.
Oxyntas released by Apponius, v. 50, c. Set up to succeed Jugurtha, vii. 135, b.
Oxyntes king of Athens, ii. 368, d.
Oxyrinchus, Calhove, a famed fish of the Nile, i. 182, d.
 † Ozogardene, Trajan's tribunal at, vi. 21, b.
 † Ozolea, part of ancient Greece, ii. 411. Described, ibid. (D).
 † Ozolean, whence so called, ii. 441. Blended with the Locrians, 412, a. Send a colony into Italy, ibid. b.

P.

Pabec, the softer-father of Artaxares, iv. 324, a.
Pacarius Decim. put to death, v. 606, b.
Pacatianus, the first Roman vicar in Britain, vii. 419, a.
Paches, the Athenian, takes Mitylene, ii. 506, c.
 † Pachynum, the Cape of, in Sicily, iii. 1.
Pacorus sides with Antigonus against Herod, iv. 124, c. Defeated, ibid. d. Treachery to Phasael, 125, b, c. —the son of Orodes fortifies Ctesiphon, 289, b. Allies with Armenia, 305. Sent against Syria, 306, b, c. Conquests, 307, d, c. Driven out, 308, b. Outwitted by Ventidius, ibid. d. Defeated and killed, ibid. e, f. His Character, 309.—First king of Parthia's alliance with Rome, 393, c, d.—His reign, 319, d. Comes to Bassus's relief, v. 170, c. Success in Syria, 269, b. King of Media invaded by the Alans, 650, a.—Joins with the Dacians, vi. 11, d.
 Vol. VII. No. 11.

Pactius and Vitius treat with the Romans, vii. 62, b.
 † Pactolus, river in Lydia, ii. 329, c.
Pactyanus delivered up to the Persians, iii. 210, a, b.
Pacurianus's singular friendship for the Comneni, vi. 608, d.
 610, c. Defeated by the Scythians, 611, d, e.
 † Padua, by whom built, ii. 315, b.
Paganus's Greek version of Ammianus, vi. 386, sub not.
Pætrus driven out of Armenia, iii. 315, d, & seq.—P. Antron. conspires with Catiline, v. 102, e, f.
 —Cæcina's cowardly death, 495, d, e.—Thrasea bravely leaves the slavish senate, 535, d. Generosity to Antistius, 541, d. Falsely accused, 562, e. Condemned, 563, c. Signal constancy in death, ibid. d, e.—Treachery to Antiochus, 650, a, b.
Paganalia instituted by Servius, iv. 455, d.
Paganism suppressed by Gratian, vi. 396, e, f. Whence so called, 403, f. Suppressed by Theodosius, ibid. & seq. Restored by Eugenius, 423, c. Laws against it repealed, 460, d. Revived, 471, e, f.
Pagans at Alexandria massacre the Christians, vi. 416, d—f. Laws made against them, 471, e, f.
Pagi, appointed by Numa, iv. 436, b. Regulated by Servius, 455, d.
Painting, when first brought to Rome, iv. 627, d.
 † Palatine Mount, Rome built upon, iv. 424, b.
Palatius, an ancient king of Spain, vii. [321] f.
 † Palena, a city in Macedon, iii. 256, d.
 † Palepappos, a city in Cyprus, iii. 173, e.
Paleopolitans invade the Romans, iv. 606, a. Surrender to them, 607, pass.
 † Palæas, where and why called Cæsarea, iv. 195, a.
Palemon, the table of, ii. 391, (G).
 † Palentia, by whom built, vii. [321] f. Destroyed by the Goths, 513, d.
Paleologus's timely zeal for A. Comnenus, vi. 608. Noble defence of Dyrrachium, 610, a.—Michael's success against the Servii, 619, & seq. Goes over to the Turks, 631, a. Recalled, ibid. c, and declared guardian, 632, c. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. f. Vain attempt on Pera, 633, a. Grand entry into Constantinople, ibid. d—f. Cruelty to the young emperor, 634, d. Defeated by the Bulgarians, ibid. e. Forced to submit to the Pope, ibid. f. Cruelty to the recusants, 635, a. Excommunicated for the Sicilian massacre, ibid. Death, ibid. b.—Andronicus shakes off the Pope's supremacy, 635, b. Cruelty to his brother Constantine, &c. ibid. c. Defeated by them, 636, f, & seq. Fatal fondness for a worthless grandson, 638, pass. Makes him his Colleague, 639, b. Falls out with him, ibid. d, e. Peace with him, 640, pass. Surprised and deposed by him, 641, a—c. Retires and dies, 642, d.—His grandson's wretched character, 638, c. Public Submission, ibid. e, f. Escape, 639, a. Gets half of the empire, ibid. b. Stratagem against his uncle, 639, e, f. Treachery to his grandfather, 640, a, b. Seizes on several provinces, ibid. c—e. Takes Constantinople, 641, a. Deposits his grandfather, ibid. b, c. Success against the Bulgarians, ibid. d. Defeated and wounded, ibid. & seq. His death and character, 642, e, f, & seq.—John the son of Andronicus, 643, a. Severity to his two sons, 645, f, & seq. Imprisoned, 646, a. Restored, ibid. b. Dies, ibid. c.—Andronicus the son of John, his treason and punishment, 645, f, & seq. Escape and revenge, 646, a. Obtains Selymbria for a retreat, ibid. —John his son's treaty with Bajazet, 646, f. Crowned, 647, b, c. Banished, ibid. d, e.—The son of Manuel crowned, 648, a. Goes to the council of Florence, 649, a. Dies, ibid. b.—Constantine his embassy to Mohammed II, 649, c. Reunites the Greek and Latin churches, 650, a, b. Invaded by Mohammed, ibid. b, c. Offers of peace and tribute rejected, 651, f, & seq. Noble and pious defence, 652, d—f. Death, 653.—Philes begs to head the army against the Turks, 637, d. Surprises and defeats them, ibid. e, f. Cuts them all off, 638, pass.—Treachery to Lascaris, vii. 283, e, f, & seq.
 † Palermo al Panorus, metropolis of Sicily, iii. 8, b.
Pales, the festival of, what, iv. 425, b, (N).
 † Palestine invaded by the Scythians, ii. 17, a, 281. By Nebuchadnezzar, 19, & seq. A new division of it, vi. 372, d. Infested with grasshoppers, 453, b, c. By the Bulgarians, 550, a, b. Subdued by the Saracens, 543, f. The rest, see under Judea, Canaan, &c.
Palsurnius, taken and put to death, vi. 201, b.
Palici, twin Gods worshipped by the Siculi, iii. 13. not. At Carthage, vi. 695, b.
 † Pallion, the city of, where, and whence so called, iii. 13, c. The temple of, ibid. (L).
 † Paliuri, the lake of, where, vii. 170, c.
Palladium of Troy, what, ii. 309, c. Brought to Rome by Æneas, ibid. d. Various accounts about it, 310, 312, not. How found at Troy, iii. 737, not. Worshipped in Latium, iv. 420, a. Saved from the flames by Metellus, 680, a.
Palladius's writings and character, vi. 273, sub not.—Treachery to Valentinian, 349, d, e. Hangs himself, 358, a.—Incredible, 700 miles journey in three days, 474, d.

- Palladius*, the son of Maximus, chosen Cæsar, vi. 500, c.
 Marries Eudoxia's daughter, ibid. e.
 † Pallantium, by whom built, iv. 419, a. Why made a free city, vi. 56, c.
Pallas, one of Herod's wives, iv. 152, not.
 — an informer against Sejanus, v. 437, e.
 — great favourite of Claudius, 488, & seq. Persuades him to marry Agrippina, 505, d, (O). Honoured by the flavian senate, 512, f, & seq. Acquitted of treason, 524, d. His death, 544, b, c.
 — The palace of, burnt, vi. 92, b.
Palma chosen consul, vi. 9, a. Succes in Arabia, 16, a. Put to death by Adrian, 34, c.
 † — a city in Majorca, vii. 308, c.—In Italy, by whom built, iv. 808.
 † Palmyra, the metropolis of Palmyrene, i. 361, a, b. Its name and site, &c. 367, a, b. Great court, temple, &c. described, ibid. c. Other famed ruins, 368, c—g. Great piazza, &c. 369, a, &c. Sepulchres, 370, pass. Besieged by Aurelian, vi. 190, e—f. Surrendered, 191, d. Revolts, and put to the sword, 192, a.
*Palmyrene*s defeated by Aurelian, iv. 329, a. Outwit M. Antony's troops, v. 260, e.
 † Palmyrene, province in Syria, i. 361, c.
 † Palumbinum, where, iv. 637, e. Taken by Corvilius, ibid.
 † Palus Maotis described, iii. 841.
Pamphile, the nurse of Osiris, i. 241, e.
 † Pampelona taken by the Visigoths, vii. 514, d.
 † Pampbagi, their site, food, &c. vii. 184, d.
Pampbila's history in 336 books, v. 578, T.
Pamphilus put to death, vi. 537, f.
 † Pamphyles, where, vi. Visited by Adrian, ibid.
Pan worshipped at Mendez in Egypt, i. 207, c, d. By the Arcadians, ii. 375, b. His temple at Tegea, ibid. & seq. Why worshipped by the Athenians, 460, f, & seq. In Ethiopia, vii. 197, a.
Panatheneæ, by whom instituted, ii. 366, b.
Panaetolium, what, ii. 701.
Pancratis ravished by the Naxians, iii. 220, d.
Pancratius, a lying astrologer slain, vi. 558, d. vii. 627 b.
 † Pandateria, where situate, v. 437, b.
Pandeli of Justinian, vi. 530.
Pandion, first king of Athens, ii. 363, c. Ild expell'd the kingdom, ibid. e.
Pandrosæ, the daughter of Cecrops, the fable of, ii. 363, (F).
 † Panethenian, the temple of, at Athens, vi. 42, d.
 † Pangeat, Mount, in Macedonia, iii. 257, c.—The mines of, 261, a. Mount in Thrace, 787, d.
 † Pannonia described, v. 317, e, (F). Subdued by Agrippa, ibid. & seq. Ravaged by Tiberius, 318, f. 320, a. Revolts, 335, b. Reduced, 337, d. Africk, 339, & seq. Erected into a county, vii. 644, b, c.
 † — Secunda, why so called, vi. 211, a. Invaded by the Sarmatians, 299, e.
Pannonian legions revolt, v. 359, & seq. Quelled by an eclipse, 363, e, f. Declare for Vespasian, 621, c.
Panormitan coins, some account of, vi. 703, b, (H).
 † Panormus, where, iv. 667, b. Taken by the Romans, ibid. & vi. 843, d, (X).
 † Panoti, who and why so called, ii. 268, (E).
Pansa, Cæj. Vib. chosen consul, v. 202, f. Ill success against Anthony, 205, pass. Last advice to Octavianus, 207, d, e. Death, 208, a, (P). Burnt, ibid. b.
 † Pantabula, whether the same with Lippara, i. 91, b, & (N).
 † Pantalia, the city of, described, iii. 787, c.
Panthea's noble death and burial, ii. 92, (I).
Panttheon at Athens, ii. 436, c. At Rome, when and by whom built, v. 300, c. Struck with lightning and destroyed, 305, a. vi. 19, f. Rebuilt by Adrian, 46, d & seq.
 † Panticapeum, where and by whom built, iii. 841, b.
 † Panyasus river in Macedonia described, iii. 260, b.
 † Paphia, one of the four parts of Cyprus, iii. 175, a.
 † Paplagonia submits to Alexander, iii. 333, f. Invaded by Mithridates, 727.
 † Paplaganians, their origin, &c. i. 167, a.
Papbus, his extract, iii. 175, f.
Papian, Popean law enacted, v. 338, b. Mitigated by Tiberius, 407, d. Repealed, vi. 256, d.
Papias's success against Lepidus, v. 279, a. Defeated by Agrippa, ibid. b, c.
Papinian, a prime minister, his character, vi. 117, b, c. Discharged by Caracalla, 122, b. His noble answer to him, 124, a. Put to death for it, ibid. b.
 — chosen emperor in Pannonia, 167, a. His death, ibid. &c.
Papinius kills himself, v. 453, e.
 — the tribune conspires against Caligula, 482, b.
Pappus's writings and character, vi. 430, not.
 — kills Herod's brother, iv. 199, e. Slain, 190, a.
Papyrius, Manl. chosen Rex Sacrorum, iv. 468, a.
Papyrius, L. Mugilus, chosen consul, iv. 546, e. Cæsar, 547, b. Interrex, 551, c. Murdered with other nobles by the Gauls, 564, e.
 — Graffus chosen dictator, 604, d. Triumphs over the Samnites, 610, d.
 — Carfor chosen dictator, 608, c. Severity to Fabius, ibid. e, f. Pardons him, 609, a. 2d consulate, 613. Defeats the Samnites, 616. In Apulia, ibid. f. His character, 617, a. 2d dictatorship, 623, d. Triumph over the Samnites, 624, d. His death, ibid. e.
 — the son of Curfor sent against the Samnites, 636, d. Stratagem against them, ibid. & seq. Total defeat of them, 647, e, f.
 — Carbo, trial and death, v. 1, & seq.
 — Cæsius defeated by the Cimbri, 5, b.
 — Carbo joins with Cinna and Marius, 68, c. Chosen consul by the faction, 67, e. Raises an army against Sylla, 69, c. His judgment of him, 70, c. Marches against Pompey, ibid. e. Tyrannical consulship, 71, b. Defeated by Sylla, 72, c. Flight into Africa, ibid. e. Prescribed by Sylla, 76, b. Put to death by Pompey, 77, c. — his brother murdered, 71, c.
Papyrus, Bypbus, an Egyptian reed, described, i. 182, f. Its various uses, &c. 183, pass. The exportation of it forbid, ii. 325, e.
Parabassus, the court of, its office, ii. 444, c.
Parables, by whom first used, i. 748 (L). Falsely challenged by the Greeks, ibid. Why so frequently used by Christ, iv. 212, b.
Paradise, more kinds of, than one, i. 58, a, b. Some conjectures about that of Eden, iii. 695, a, (E).
 † Paratonium described, vii. 167, d.
Parali, one of the three contending factions at Athens, ii. 427, c.
 † Paras, a city in Arab. Petros, vii. 226, b.—Deferis, 227, d.
Parasang, whence derived, ii. 191, d.
Parasite, the ancient meaning of it, vii. 365, b, (L).
 † Paraxis, the region of, where, seu, iii. 256, d.
Parcouree, the first woman in the Bramin's physiology, i. 331, b.
Parents, Solon's laws relating to them, ii. 432, c.
 † Parian marble, described, iii. 222, d, e.
Parians, quell and civilize the Milesians, ii. 756, e.
Paris, the son of Priam, ii. 318, a. Entices Helen away, ibid. e. Their arrival into Greece, i. 259, c.
 — sues for Valens's protection, vi. 370, a. 373, b, c. Put to death, 376, d—f.
 † — the city of, where first lived, vi. 302, c. Taken by Childeric, 508, a. Made metropolis by Clovis, 521, c. See also vol. vii. 514, b. Becomes the capital of the Franks, 577, d, and of the whole monarchy, 578, a.
Parisades, I. and II. kings of Bosphorus, iii. 841.
 — III. reigns his kingdom to Mithridates, 843.
 † Parium, a city in Mysia, described, ii. 324, c.
Parmenides opinion of the origin of things, i. 7, b.
Parmenio's character, iii. 209, c, d. Seizes on Darius's treasure, 336, a, b, 338, & seq. Surrounded by Persians at Guagamela, 350, a. Succour'd by Alexander, ibid. & 352, (O). Accused by his son, 365, a. Put to death, 366, b.
 † Parasius mount in Phocis, ii. 387, e.
 † Parapanisus, a province of Persia, described, ii. 30, a, iii. 368, & not.
 † — the mountain of, 345, f.
 † Paros island described, iii. 222, & seq. Its first inhabitants, who, 223, b. Attempted by Miltiades, ibid. & seq. See also, ii. 464, d. The Jews of, redressed by J. Cæsar, iv. 120, d, (K).
 † — the city of, described, 222, d. Besieged by the Athenians, 223, & seq. Subdued, 224, c.
Parricide, no law at Rome against it, iv. 434, b. When first punished there, v. 36, e. Laws against, revived by Constantine, vi. 256, b.
 † Parfis, a province of Persia, described, ii. 33, a.
Parfades, king of the Cadusians, revolts against the Medes, ii. 13, c.
Parjondas, his history, i. 938, e, d, & seq.
Partanur, king of Egypt, i. 270, b.
Partamiris, made king of Armenia, vi. 16, f, & seq. Letter to Trajan, 17, e, f. Submission and speech to him, ibid. & seq. Deposition and death, 18, c.
Partinamaspates, made king of Parthia, vi. 24, c. Driven out, 25, a.
Partbarit king of the Lombards, vii. 692, f. Undermined by his brother, ibid. & seq. His flight to Chagan, 693, d. Driven away, ibid. & seq. Narrow escape from Grimold, 694, a, b. Recovers his crown, 697, c, d, dies, ibid. f.
Parthenia, of Sparta, why so called, ii. 577, a. Forced to retire into Italy, ibid. c.
Partonius conspires against Domitian, v. 689, & seq. Helps to murder him, 690, e.—Killed by the mutineers, vi. 5, c.
 † Partenion, of Sparta, described, 423, not. 436, a.
 † Parthia, a province of Persia, described, ii. 31, b.—The kingdom of, when and by whom founded, iii. 525, b.—The

- The country described, iv. 289, pass. How divided, ibid.
 e. Wasted by the Scythians, 293, b, c. Its kings, 291, & seq. Subdued by Trajan, 320, a. The end of its monarchy, 322, & seq.
- Parthians*, whether originally Celts or Scythians, ii. 31, b, c, 256, b, c, iv. 229, & seq. Their customs, ibid. 290. Excellent archery, ibid. & (A). Religion, 291, a. Government, kings, ibid. & seq. Invade Judea in favour of Antigonus, 124, & seq. Plunder Herod's palace, 126, pass. Set Antigonus on the throne, ibid. & seq. Invaded by Crassus, 295, & seq. Defeat him, 302, & seq. Defeated by Cassius, 306, c. Driven out of Syria, 308, & seq. Subdued by the Persians, 322, c, d. Their history according to oriental writers, 372, (A). Defeat Antony's troops, v. 269, a. Amused by Octavianus, 294, c. Fanned Embassy to him, 334, a. Invaded by Trajan, vi. 26, f, & seq. Subdued, 17, & seq. 20, & seq. Continue faithful to him, 24, c, d. Revolt, 25, a. Recall Osrhoes, 33, c. Great regard for Antoninus, 56, f. War against the Romans, 63, & seq. Defeated, 64, c, 65, b, c. Invade Mesopotamia, 113, f. War against Maximus, 131, b, c. Subdued by the Persians, 139, d, e.
- † Parusim, the gold of, whether that of Ophir, i. 170.
- † Parydræ mountains in Armenia, iii. 695, b.
- Parysatis*'s great sway with Darius Mithras, ii. 135, a. Instances of her cruelty, 137, d, 140, b.
- † Pasargade, the Persian kings crowned at, ii. 58, b. Cyrus's tomb at, 95, b.
- Paschasius*, bp's three years slavery under the Vandals, vii. 534, c.
- Pascentius* defeated by Ambrose, vii. 446, c.
- Pasphor*, one of the four priestly classes, iv. 5, a.
- Pasphebe*, the incontinent wife of Minas, iii. 267, b.
- Pasphebus*, surprises Mediana, vi. 791, a.
- Pasphebus*'s surprising constancy on the rack, 374, f.
- Pasphorus*, the grand council at, at Ephesus, ii. 822, c.
- Pasphorus*, its first institution, i. 500, a. The manner of it, ibid. b, c. Laws relating to it, 602, a, & seq. Penalties on the neglect of it, 604, a, (P). Etymon of its name, ibid. (R). Unleavened bread eaten during it, 608, c.
- Passtor*, cruelly used by Caligula, v. 465, a.
- Passors of Egypt*. See Shepherds, i. 247, & seq.
- Passici*, seamen's tutelary gods in Phœnix, i. 400, a, (T).
- Passici*, at Carthage, what, vi. 695, a.
- † Passara, a city in Lesbos, ii. 337. Where situate, v. 278, (H).
- Paterius*, their invincible love of liberty, v. 338, a. Overcome by Brutus's mildness, ibid. c.
- Paterius Patritius*, among the Albanians, what, iv. 441, (S).
- Paterius* defeats the Germans, vi. 80, c. — Tarracius put to death by Commodus, 88, c.
- † Patros, wrongly taken for the Pelusium of Thebais, i. 265, c. Where situate, vii. 181, d.
- † Patroclus, where seated, i. 265, d.
- † Patros allowed described, iii. 212, a.
- Patribulum*, whether the same with Crux, vi. 726, (F).
- † Patra, where, v. 289, d. Taken by Agrippa, ibid.
- Patricians*, Antediluvian. See Antediluvian, i.
- Patricians*, in Italy, his office, vii. 721, c.
- Patricians*, the order of, instituted by Romulus, iv. 426, d. Cruelty causes many revolts, 485, pass. 489, c. Overpowered by the plebeians, 497, f. By the Decemvirs, 535, & seq. 579, & seq. By Gracchus, 790, & seq. Their dignity, vi. 271, f, & seq.
- Patricius*, burnt for magic, vi. 375, a.
- the son of Aspar marries Leo's daughter, 510, d. Narrowly escapes death, ibid. f. Defeated by the Persians, 520, d, e.
- Patrimonia*, of the church, an account of, vii. 699, (W). That of Constantine exploded, 706, sub not. Confiscated by Leo, 907, c.
- Patroclus*, put to death by Galba, v. 586, f.
- Patroclus* forced to abandon Babylon, iii. 435, a. Defeated and killed by the Bishyrians, 522, c.
- Patrons of Athens*, their office, ii. 428, c. At Rome, D^o. iv. 427, a, 617, (W).
- † Patala, where, iii. 402, a. Submits to Alexander, ibid. b.
- † Patzinacæ, who and where, vi. 600. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. b.
- † Pavia, taken and burnt by Attila, vi. 497, a. vii. 479, c. Taken by Theodoric, 524, a. By Alboinus, 620. Made metropolis of Lombardy, ibid. c.
- † Pavium destroyed by an earthquake, vi. 566, b.
- Paul*, St. his conversion, iv. 254, pass. Pleads his cause before Felix, 265, b. Before Festus, 266, a. Defence before Agrippa, ibid. & seq.
- Count, killed by Childeric, vii. 564, a.
- Brave defence of Rome, 673, a. Kind treatment from Totila, ibid. b.
- made exarch of Ravenna, 704, a. Opposes the worship of images, ibid. & seq.
- church of, at Rome, by whom built, vi. 407, c, f.
- Paulician*, admitted two self-existent Gods, i. 37, a.
- Paulina*, Seneca's wife, resolves to die with him, v. 555, b. Repents her bargain, ibid. c. — Death and obscure funeral, vi. 38, f.
- Paulinian* family converted to christianity, vi. 415, d.
- Paulinus Suetonius*'s success in Mauritania, v. 493, c, f. In Britain, 496, & seq. Signal victory there, 539, c, d. Undetermined by Clasicus, 546, b. Recalled, ibid. c, d. Defends Cecina, 607, d. Degraded, ibid. c, f. Just advice to Otho, 608, a, b, 609, d, e. Defeat and flight, 610, c. Poor defence before Vitellius, 615, d. His character, writings, & seq. 655, & seq. sub (D).
- Pompeius's work, in Germany, 528, c.
- Bishop, banished by Constantine, vi. 289, b, c.
- Eudocia's favourite, why put to death, 485, c, f, & seq.
- Paulus*, of Tyre, favoured by Adrian, vi. 51, sub not. Made counsellor to Papias, 117, c. To Alexander, 138, pass.
- Jul. recalled and promoted, 139.
- the founder of Eremitic life, 169, a.
- bishop of Constantinople banished, 266, d.
- Curia, a bloody informer, 288, d, e. Cruelties in Palestine, ibid. f, & 305, e, f. Burned alive, 325, a.
- Count, governor in Gaul, 507.
- Exarch of Ravenna, excommunicated, 552, c. Murdered, 553, a.
- Emilius. See Emilius, vii. 28, & seq.
- Dionysius, his writings and character, vii. 709, (Z).
- Paulianus*, the Spartan's untimely haughtiness, ii. 479, a.
- Peace with Athens, 531. Made general against Xerxes, 589. Defeats the Persians, 590. Rewarded with the tenth of their spoil, 126, f. His great moderation, ibid. & 591. Marches against the Phocians, 611, b. Degenerates, 592. Starved to death, 593.
- King of Macedon, iii. 284, f.
- the murderer of king Philip, his motive, 313, & seq.
- the historian criticized, vi. 83, & seq. sub not.
- the sophist, an account of, ibid.
- Pauliris* reigns in Egypt by the consent of the Persians, i. 276, c.
- Paulistratus* invades Caria, iii. 147, f, & seq. Sent against Antiochus, 149, c. Perishes through Polyxenidas's treachery, ibid. & seq.
- † Pax Julia, a city in Lusitania, vii. 298, c, d.
- Pax*, when first allowed to the Roman soldiers, iv. 555, c.
- Pays*, father, his account of the Nile's course, vii. 129, d, e, (F).
- Peace, the fam'd temple of, at Rome, burnt, v. 649, c. vi. 92, a, b.
- Pecunia*, whence so called, iv. 457, d.
- Pedanius Secundus*, murdered by a slave, v. 540, f.
- Pedarii*, young senators, whence so called, iv. 496, b.
- Pedici*, one of the three Athenian factions, ii. 427, c.
- Pedo*, sent against the Cherusci, v. 374, d. His writings, character, & ibid. & (B).
- † Pedretus river in Dammonia, vii. 407, d.
- † Pegasa, a sea-port of Theffaly, ii. 382, b.
- † — the gulph of, ibid.
- Pegasus*, sent by Minerva to Bellerophon, ii. 394, b, & not.
- Peirerius*'s system of the fun's standing still, exploded, i. 560, a, & seq.
- Pekab*, king of Israel's league with the Syrians, i. 389. Vain attempt on Jerusalem, ibid. & seq.
- Pekab* succeeds his father in Israel, i. 829, a. Murdered, 830, d.
- Pelago*, sent to murder Plautus, v. 543, a.
- † Pelagonia, where situate, iii. 257, b.
- † Pelagias, one of the ancient names of Peloponnesus, ii. 345, a. Of Theffaly, 381, a.
- † Pelagians, ancient Greeks, ii. 344, c. Settle in Crete, iii. 163, d. First inhabitants of Lesbos, 105, b. Why driven out of Attica, 235, b. Settle at Lemnos, ibid. d. Murder the Athenian breed, ibid. & seq. Their extract, iv. 414, d.
- Pelagias* and Peltia, the Etymon of, iii. 796, not.
- † Pelagiotis, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. end of Theffaly, 381, a.
- † Pelagus, the father of the Pelagians, who, ii. 344, c. Civilizes the Greeks, 345, pass. Why surnamed Antiochton, 375, a.
- first king of Arcadia, 378.
- Pelag*, whether the same with Pelagus, ii. 345, a, & not. See also, i. 169, d. Remained with his posterity in Chalceda, ibid. d.
- † Pelastibus Pelastibus, who, i. 978, (C).
- Pelias* sends Jason for the golden fleece, ii. 383. His treachery, 384, pass. Death, ibid. & seq.
- Pelicans* described, ii. 44, b.
- † Peligni, their extract and territories, iv. 411, f. Invaded by the Latins, 598, c. Defeated by Severus, v. 50, d.
- † Pelion, mountain in Theffaly, ii. 381, c. Its height, iii. 259, (H).
- † Pella, a city in Macedon, iii. 356, a. Its vast stud of horses, 261, a. Taken by the Romans, 493. By Alexander

- ander Janneus, iv. 101, c. Demolished, 102, a. Taken by Æmilius, 763, d.
- Pella* Lucius condemned for extortion, v. 239, f.
- Peloponnesian war*, its causes, ii. 499, & seq. Nations engaged in it, 501, a. Early incursions into Attica, ibid. & seq. Defeated before Pylas, 508, d. Peace, 512, f. Broken, 513, & seq. Disappointed by the Persians, 524, d. Victorious at sea, 525, b. Defeated at Samos, ibid. d. By sea and land, 526, pass. The war concluded by the peace of Antalcidas, 538, & seq.
- Peloponnesians* bring their fleet against Xerxes, ii. 123, c. d. To Salamis, 172, a. Their flight stopt by Themistocles, 424, 472, & seq.
- † Peloponnesus, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Invaded by the Heraclidæ, 359, & seq.—The isthmus of, shut up, vi. 180, a. Ravaged by Genseric, 508, e.
- Pelops* comes into Peloponnesus, ii. 407. King of Pisa, ibid. — the son of Tantalus subdued by Ilus, 315, d.
- † Pelorum, a cape in Sicily, described, iii. 1, c.
- Pelastæ* in Macedon, their office, ii. 268, b.
- † Pelusium, by whom first founded, i. 344, (L). One of the keys of Egypt, ii. 96, a. Taken by Cambyes, ibid. By Antiochus, iii. 575, c. 578, e. Surrendered to Alexander, 345, d. Taken by Cæsar, iv. 117, a.
- Pemæus* put to death, vi. 296, b.
- Penæus* killed before Troy, ii. 375, b.
- † Penæus, the famed river, described, ii. 381, d. iii. 259, (H).
- † Peniel, the place where Jacob wrestled, its site, i. 455, b.
- Peninus*, Jupiter, why so called, vii. 353, d, (M).
- Pentacotalitra*, a Sicilian coin, why so named, vi. 735, e, (C).
- Pentacostemidmni*, made the first order at Athens, ii. 429, f.
- Pentadia*, wife of Timalus, forced into a church for refuge, vi. 437, c.
- † Pentapolis, one of the finest regions in Canaan, i. 323, b.
- † — Cyrenaica, why so called, vii. 169, e.
- † — in Italy, submits to Lausprand, 704, f. Given to the pope, 712, f. & seq.
- Pentapoli*ans oppose the Iconoclasts, 553, a. How and when become subject to the pope, ibid. c. & 254, a, 556, d.
- Pentecost*, the feast of, why instituted, i. 606, a. How and when kept, ibid. & seq. & (W), (X).
- Penthesilea*, queen of the Amazons, ii. 279, not.
- Pentheus*, torn in pieces by his mother, ii. 372, c.
- Pentibulus*, king of Mycenæ, ii. 357, f.
- Penuel*, put to the sword by Gideon, i. 745, b—c.
- Penula*, M. Cæsar's rashness and defeat, vii. 55, c.
- † Peperetibus island, described, iii. 233, a. Famed for its winds, ibid. b.
- Pepin* presents Ravenna to the pope, vi. 556, d. Assists him against the Lombards, vii. 711, c. & seq. Succels against Astulph, 712, e, f, & seq. Answer to Copronymus's ambassadors, 713, e, f. Donations to the pope, 714, a, b. Confirmed and enlarged by Charlemagne, 718, f.
- Peponilla*, vid. Emponia, v. 654, pass.
- † Peræa, the Greek name of the country of Bashan, i. 137, (Q). Where sited, ibid. & 568, c.
- Perennis*'s revolt in Hungary, v. 359, b. Speech to his accomplices, ibid. & seq. Put to death, 364, a.
- † Percole, a city in Phrygia Minor, ii. 304, d.
- Perdiccas* 1st, 4th king of Macedon, iii. 272. — IIld, Son of Alexander, his reign, 279, & seq. Wars with Athens, 280. Joins Brasidas against the Lyncestheci, 282, c. Death and character, 283, c, d. — IIIld, Set on the throne by Pelopidas, 287, a.
- Alexander's general, his advice after his death, 415, a. Character, ibid. & seq. Treachery to Meleager, 416. Great sway, ibid. & seq. Subdues Cappadocia, 420, a, b. Marries Nicæa, ibid. c. Wars with Ptolemy, 421, d, e: Murdered by his men, 423, pass.
- a traitor to Eumenes hanged, 424, a, b.
- † Perea recovered by the Rhodians, iii. 147, f.
- Peredeus*'s noble defence of Ravenna, vii. 703, c—e. Death, ibid.
- Perennis Commodus*'s favourite put to death, vi. 88, c. His character and crime, 89, a, b. — Complained against, vii. 432, c. Fatal end, ibid. d.
- † Perga, where sited, iii. 566, b, (P). Delivered up to the Romans, ibid.
- Pergamian library* given to Cleopatra, v. 287, b.
- † Pergamos, a city in Mysia, described, ii. 289, c, 355, e.
- † Pergamus, the kingdom of, described, iii. 769, & seq. Laid waste by the Bithynians, 778. Bequeathed to the Romans, 782. Becomes a Roman province, 784, & seq.
- † — city disfranchised by Macrinus, vi. 132, a. Taken by the Saracens, 551, b. A just punishment for their horrid witcheries, ibid. c.
- king, rather the improver than inventor of parchment, i. 727, a.
- Peri*, a kind of fairies among the orientals, i. 51, c.
- Periander*'s revenge on the Corcyreans, iii. 190, a, b.
- Pericles*, the son of Xanthipus, head of an Athenian faction, ii. 485, a. — His character, ibid. & seq. Outwits the Lacedæmonians at Megara, 491, b. Reduces Eubœa, 492, a. Severe ordinance against the Athenians of half blood, ibid. & seq. Attachment to Alpatia, 493, & not. Reduces the Samians, 494, & seq. Funeral oration for the slain, 495, b. Gets Thucydides to be banished, 497, pass. Accused of divers crimes, 498, pass. Acquitted, ibid. & seq. His conduct at the opening of the Peloponnesian war, 501, c. His family visited with the plague, 503, & seq. Dies himself of it, 504, e. His character, ibid. & seq. & not. — His son unjustly put to death, 528, & seq.
- Perillus* presents his brazen bull to Phalaris, iii. 128, e.
- † Perinthus, Perynthus, by whom founded, iii. 787, c. Besieged by Philip, 299, & seq. 304, f. Relieved by Phocion, 305, b. The battle of, won by Niger, vi. 108, c.
- Periscus*, a famous engineer at Byzantium, vi. 111, a. Saved from the massacre, ibid.
- † Perizætes, ancient Canaanites, i. 323, d. Why so called, ibid. (D). Invaded by Simeon and Judah, 333 d. Some spared to live among them, 335, a. Inflamed by Solomon, 337, b.
- Perjury* made capital by Moses, i. 684, d.
- Peronia*, the betrayer of Constantina, vi. 537, f.
- Perofes* king of Persia's fatal expedition against the Huns, iv. 342, b. Perfidy to them, ibid. & (O). Death, ibid. c.
- Perozes* defeated by the Romans, vi. 524, c.
- Perpenna*, a soldier, chosen consul, iv. 797, f. Defeated by the allies, v. 49, c. Forced out of Sicily, 77, a. Passes into Spain, 91, a. Joins Sertorius in Lusitania, ibid. b. Repulsed by Pompey, 92, e. Defeated by Metellus, 93, c. Treachery to Sertorius, 95, & seq. Defeated and taken, 97, b. Put to death by Pompey, ibid. c.
- † Persemaniens, who, 524, c. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. f. Submit to Justin Ild, 532, a, b.
- † Persepolis, capital of Persia, described, ii. 34, & not. The ruins of, 48, & seq. Various conjectures about them, 52, & seq. D. Siculus's account of that city, ibid. and of its being destroyed by Alexander, ibid. & not. Other noble antiquities of it, 53, & seq. Why also called Elymais, 55, & (V). How taken and burnt, 168, b, c.
- Perjes*, who, ii. 69. No idolaters, ibid. & seq. Falsely accused by the Turks, 70, (B). Their religion displayed, 72, & seq. Its origin, whence, 74, b. 206, & seq. Veneration for the elements, ibid. & seq. Temples, 76. Account of the creation, 77, d. Priests, 78, a. Initiating of children, ibid. & seq. Marriages, 79, pass. Funerals, 80, pass.
- Perjes* succeeds Philip in Macedon, ii. 685. Courts the Greeks against the Romans, ibid. d. His letter to the Achæans, 686, a. Rejected, ibid. d. Defeated by the Romans, 687, d. Treachery to Eumenes, iv. 761, b. Punished by the Romans, ibid. & seq. Defeat, 763, c, d. Taken prisoner, 764, c. Led in triumph, ibid. & seq. Miserable end, 765.
- Perjesus*, the son of Jupiter by Danae, ii. 354, e. Fetches the famed Gorgon, and saves Andromeda, ibid. & seq. Kills his father-in-law, 355, b. Exchanges Argos for Tyrrin, ibid. c.
- the natural son of Philip, cabals against his brother, iii. 478, & seq. 481, c, d. Disinherited, 482. Mounts the throne by force, ibid. f, & seq. His character, &c. 483, b, c. Falls out with the Romans, ibid. d, e. Goes to Delphos, ibid. f. Undermined by Eumenes, 484. Accused to the Romans, 485. Succels against them, ibid. & seq. Pusillanimity, 487, & seq. Mad actions, 488, a, b. Covetousness, 489. Defeat, 492, & seq. Miserable flight, 493. Refuge in Samothrace, 494. Surrenders to Octavius, 495, b. How treated by the consul, ibid. & seq. Vindicated against the Roman writers, 497, & (D). Miserable end, 499. Character and progeny, ibid. & seq.
- His high regard for his master Antigonus, iv. 567, d, e. Writings, character, and death, 578, (T).
- † Persia, the kingdom of, described, ii. 26, & seq. Its climate, 35. Seasons, 36. Rivers, 37, b. Produce, 38, & seq. Fruits, grain, &c. 40. Mines, 41. Poisonous plants, 44, & seq. Government, 47. Kings how respected, ibid. & 66, & seq. Palaces described, 58, 59, & seq. Education of children, 60, & seq. Divided into 20 satrapies, 103. Exempt from all taxes, ibid. f. Its kings according to oriental writers, 173, & seq. When, by whom brought under the Medes, 5, d, & (F). — The continuation of its history, iv. 322, & seq. Visited with a six years drought, 387. Subdued by the Caliphs, 405, & seq.
- Persian religion* vindicated from idolatry, ii. 69, & seq.
- ambassadors, how treated by the Macedonians, iii. 274, & seq.
- † Persians, their manners, customs, &c. ii. 60, d. Punishments, 61. Polygamy and incest, ibid. & seq. Coins, arts, &c. 62, & seq. Military discipline, 63. Severity, ibid. (H). Chariots, weapons, marching, &c. 64, c. Muster-rolls, ibid. a—e. Laws, schools, &c. 65, & seq. Slavishness to their kings, 66, & seq. Secrecy, 67, a. Presents, ibid. b. Their wives and revenues, 68, pass. Wars with the Greeks, 120, & seq. Defeat at Salamis,

- 123, & seq. 472, & seq. By land under Mardonius, 125, & seq. Camp forced by the Greeks, 126, b. Army destroyed, ibid. & seq. End of the Grecian war, 127, &c. Oppress the Cypriots, ibid. 176, & seq. Peace with them, 179, a. Defeat the Grecian fleet, 197, c. The occasion of that war, 275, & seq. Put to flight by Leutychides, 198, e, f. Worship Alexander, 379, c, & (X). Subdue the Parthians, ibid. 322, & seq. The sequel of their history, 323, & seq. End of their monarchy, 370, & seq. History according to oriental writers, 371, & seq. End of their monarchy according to them, 405, & seq. & (N). Threaten the Roman Territories, 160, d. Defeated by Balista, 177, b, c. Invade them afresh, 275, & seq. Defeated by them, 278, d, e. Before Nisibis, 279, b—d. Renew the war, 474, pass. Defeated by Ardaburius, ibid. & seq. Invade them afresh, 486, e, f. Peace renewed, 487, and war, 523, c. Outwitted before Martyropolis, ibid. d, e. Conclude a peace, ibid. e, f. 4000 defeat 30,000 Romans, 527, & seq. Defeated by the Lazi, 528, d, e. Invade Lazica, 529, a. Defeated, ibid. c. Ravaged by Justinian, 533, b, by Mauritius, ibid. & seq. by Heraclius, 534, c, d. by Germanus, &c. ibid. & seq. by Heraclius, 540, & seq. End of their kingdom, 542, f. & seq. Courtship to the Romans, 568, d. Help to form the Numidians, ibid. 117, c. Why called Numidae, 118, a.
- modern, their tradition about the origin of the world, i. 32, c, d. About the flood, 107, a, b.
- Perfic* alphabet, vii. 256, & seq.
- † Perfulba rebuilt, and called Pannopolis, vi. 586, e.
- Pernax*'s success in Pannonia, vi. 69, d. Promoted by M. Aurelius, ibid. e. Success in Illyricum, 78, c, d. in Britain, 89, f. Narrow escape, 90. Succeeds Dionysius at Rome, 91, d. Made proconsul of Africa, ibid. f. Governor of Rome, 92, d. Obsequies of Commodus, 94, a. Proclaimed emperor, 95, pass. Speech to the senate, 96, b, c. Rise and extract, ibid. e, f. Excellent character and government, 97, & seq. Disobliges Lætus and the army, 98, b, c. Signal intrepidity, ibid. e, f. Death, 99, a. Funeral honours, ibid. &c. Pompous apotheosis by Severus, 108, a.
- Hecates put to death for his biting sarcasm against Caracalla, 124, d, e.
- † Peru, not the true name of that country, i. 170, e, f.
- † Perugia taken by Totita, vii. 671, & seq.
- † Perusia, besieged by Octavius, 265, b. Its noble defence, 266, a—c. Surrendered and burnt, ibid. & seq.
- † Perusians, 300, put to death by Octavius, 266, f.
- † Perymbians, besieged by King Philip, ii. 546, d.
- Pessinus*, whence so called, ii. 315, e, f.
- Pessutene* assists the Samians, iii. 199, e, f.
- Petalim* at Syracuse, what, iii. 24, a, b.
- Petavia* destroyed by the Quadi, vi. 388, &c.
- Peter*, the apostle, called, iv. 199, a. 205, b. Surnamed Cephas, ibid. & 208, (T). Walks on the sea, 215, d. His noble confession, 216, c, 218, d. Why blamed for his modest refusal, 232, (K). for his zeal, 235, a. Denies his Lord, ibid. d. Hastens to his sepulchre, 244, b. His communion and martyrdom, 245, f. First sermon, and 3000 converts, 250, b. 2d. and 5000 converted, 251, & seq. Speech to the Sanhedrim, 252, b. 2d defence, ibid. d, e. Miraculously delivered from prison, 262, b. Prophecy against the Jews, 272, a, & (S).
- tortured by Honorius, vi. 456, d.
- a friar stirs up the mob against Hypatia, 471, d.
- made duke of Naples, 553, b.
- order'd over the Danube, 556, b. Put to death by Phocas, ibid. e.
- the hermit, stirs up christians to the holy war, 613, d, e. Marches at the head of them, 614, a. His ill conduct, ibid. c. and defeat, 615, a.
- earl of Auxerre crowned emperor, 629, f. Put to death by Theodorus, 630, a.
- succeeds his father Simeon, vii. 632, a, b. Peace and alliance with Romanus, ibid. c, d.
- sent duke of Naples, 705, b, c.
- † Petilia, by whom built, iii. 169, b. Noble defence against Hannibal, iv. 717, c, vii. 38, c, 40, f. Surrendered, 41, a. Disarmed, 77, a.
- Petilian* women, signal bravery, 40, f.
- Petilius*'s inveteracy against the two Scipio's, iv. 756, & seq. Killed by the Ligurians, 760, e. Takes flying Pompey on board, v. 147, b, (A).
- Cerealis's success in Britain, vii. 430, f. & seq.
- Petinus* put to death by Galba, v. 586, i.
- † Petor, where situate, iv. 160, b.
- † Petra, a city of Edom, i. 309, c. Placed under the Amalekites by Josephus, 319, a, & (D).
- † — metrop. of Palestina tertia, vi. 372, c.
- † — of Arabia Petrea, vii. 225, a. Why so called, ibid. b. Described, ibid. b, c, (D).
- plundered by Antigonius, iii. 434, a. Besieged by the Romans, iv. 355, c.
- Petra*, two Roman knights put to death, v. 506, (C).
- Petrus*'s signal bravery and reward, v. 37, c. Defeats Catiline, &c. 108. Commands in Hither-Spain, 135, e. Submits to Cæsar, 136, e. Goes over to Pompey, 157, b. Gratitude to Cæsar, 159, e, f. Death, 160, f.
- Petronius* sent to persecute the Jews, iv. 259, c—C. Success against Candace, v. 302, d, & seq.—P. Succeeds Vitellius in Syria, 473, b.
- Caius, his lewd character, 561, d, e. Prudent government, 562, a.
- Turpilianus put to death by Galba, 585, c. Encourages Nerva to assume the purple, vi. 2, c. Killed by the mutineers, 5, c.
- Mamercus put to death by Commodus, 91, e. Extortions at Constantinople, 366, c.
- Peucesta*'s lot after Alexander's death, iii. 423, e. Outwitted by Eumenes, 427, & seq. Treachery to him, 430, a. Punished, 431, b.
- Peutinger*'s itinerary, vi. 478, sub not.
- Phebe*'s incontinency, iii. 169, a.
- one of Herod's wives, iv. 152, sub not.
- Phebus* the fabulist, when he flourish'd, v. 458, sub not.
- Phegrus*, a noted fish peculiar to the Nile, i. 182, d.
- Phebalangius*, a bloody governor of Bœtica, vi. 357, b.
- Phebalanx*, Macedonian, how disposed, iii. 269, c. By whom invented, 389, a, (B). Revived by Severus, vi. 142, b. The bravery and reward of six of them, ibid. b, c.
- Phebaris*, tyrant of Agrigentum, iii. 128, d. His brazen bull, 42, & (Y). Death, 128, c.
- Phebarum* of Athens described, ii. 437, c.
- Phebalis* king of Sidon, when he flourish'd, i. 410, b. Styled most illustrious by Homer, ibid. &c.
- Pheameas* brought over to the Romans, iv. 774, e. and defeats the Carthaginians, vii. 101, a.
- † Pheanagora, metropolis of Bosphorus, iii. 840, b.
- Pheanagorium* betrayed by Castor, iii. 755, d, e.
- Pheanes* of Halicarnassus revolts from the king of Egypt, i. 272, b. ii. 95, d. His children murdered before his face, 96, b.
- Pheannias*, an obscure priest, made pontiff by the zealots, iv. 274, a, (Y).
- † Pheara, where sitied, vii. 223, c. 226, b. One of the boundaries of Arabia, 223, c.
- † — the promontory of, 227, c.
- Phearaimanes*, king of Choralmene, iii. 381, f. Embassy to Alexander, ibid. &c.
- Phearamond*, the time of his defeat and death, vii. 550, c. Of his reign, 558, f, & seq. Where buried, 559, d. Whether author of the Salic law, ibid. e.
- Phearaob*, its etymon, i. 280, f. Common title to the Egyptian kings, 423, b. Who first took it, 280, f.
- Phearaob, the lame, king of Egypt, 281, e. Refuses to deliver up the refuged Jews, ibid. f. Hanged for it by Nebuchadnezzar, ibid.
- his two dreams interpreted by Joseph, 452, d, e. Cruel orders to the Hebrew midwives, 475. Cruelty to the Jews, 474—477. In what sense his heart was hardened by God, 494, (D). Dismisses the Israelites, 501, e. Pursues them and perishes in the red sea, 507, b, c.
- Phearasmenes*, king of Iberia, recovers Armenia, iii. 710. Supplants his brother, 711, a, b. His cruelty to him, 712, a. vid. & 836, & seq.
- king of Albania, favoured by the Romans, 839, b. Ravages Armenia, vi. 41, e. Comes to Rome, 43, a. Kind reception by Adrian, ibid. b. Great respect for Antoninus, 56, f.
- Pheares* and Zara born to Judah by Thamar, i. 452, a. A strange birth, ibid. & not.
- Phearizates* married to Alexander, iii. 405.
- Phearisees*, their rise, iv. 94, d, & 164, d. Enmity to Hyrcan, 95, b, & (W). Cause a revolt against Alex. Janneus, 100, c. Insolent answer to him, ibid. e. Impudent behaviour to his queen, 103, & seq. Cruelty to the Sadducees, ibid. & seq. Required by Aristobulus, 105, & seq. Their peculiar Tenets, 164, & seq. Cause of their infidelity, ibid. pass. Reproved by the Baptist, 198, c. by Christ much more, 217, b, c. Two false notions of theirs confuted, 223, b, & (S). Put to silence by Christ, 231. The rest, see Jews.
- † Phearmacusa island described, iii. 212, b.
- Phearnaces* 1st, king of Pontus, wars with Eumenes, iii. 725, & seq. Peace with him, 726, b.
- II. revolts against his father, 755, & seq. Made king of Bosphorus, 757. Recovers part of Pontus, 753, c, d. Defeats the Romans, ibid. f. 7. Defeated by J. Cæsar, 759, & seq. Slain, 760, b. see vol. v. 153.
- king of Cappadocia, 763, & seq.
- † Phearnus king of Media, conquered by Ninus, ii. 12, a. Crucified with his wife and children, ibid.
- † Phearus island taken by the Romans, iv. 691, d.
- † — city razed by them, ibid. e.
- † — the famous tower of, described, iii. 266, & seq. & (A).

- † Pharpar and Abana, streams of the Chrysotheas, that water Damascus, i. 362, a.
- † Pharphalia, the plains of, where situate, ii. 381, d. Described, v. 142, c. The battle of, 143, & seq.
- † Pharusii, from whom descended, vii. 149, b, c, (K). A tribe of Gætulians, 161, b. Of Persian extract, ibid. d.
- Phasael*, Herod's brother, iv. 118, b, (H). Made governor of Jerusalem, 121, c. and tetrarch, by M. Antony, 124, a. Betrayed by Pacorus, 125, c. Kills himself, 126, c.
- the son of Herod by Pallas, 152, not.
- † Phasaelis, the fortress of, built by Herod, iv. 148, c. Bequeathed to Salme, 191, a.
- † Phaselis, a city in Lycia, ii. 337.
- † Phaselus, the tower of, described, iii. 627, (A).
- † Phasis, a city in Colchis, iii. 833, b.
- † — a river in Armenia, 694, a. 833, c. Mistakes of the learned about its source, i. 552, d, e. Arrian's observations on it, vi. 42, a.
- Phaenians*, whence brought, iii. 833, c.
- Phelles*, Hellen, kills his brother Astirinus, i. 415, b. Murdered by Ithobal, ibid. c.
- † Phenaeus lake in Arcadia, ii. 376, a.
- Pheneas* the Ætolian deputy's conference with Æcilius, ii. 722, d. with Flaminius, 724, f. with Fulvius, 729. Peace with the Roman senate, 730.
- Phereides* of Siros, master of Pythagoras, i. 25, c. Notion of the world's origin, ibid. c, d.
- first prose-writer, where born, 224, & seq. His doctrines, ibid. & (X). Other works, i. 18, (N).
- Pherenice*, princess of Rhodes, carries her son to the Olympic games, iii. 134, d.
- Phetima*, driven into Cyprus, iii. 177, a. Reception at Salamis, vii. 172, f. Gets the government of Cyrenaica, 173, a. Her revenge on the Barce, ibid. b, c.
- Phoron*, Sesoofis, succeeds Sesoofis, i. 258, b. Struck blind, ibid. c. Recovers his sight, and rears two obelisks, ibid. d.
- Phrocorus* sent against Varamus, iv. 361, a. Murdered, ibid.
- Phrocoras*, Herod's 4th brother, iv. 118, (H). Made tetrarch, 143, (W). Accused by Alexander, 149. Joins with him against Herod, 151, & seq. Leaves the court, 152, a, b. Refuses to return to his sick brother, ibid. c. His death discovers the whole plot, ibid. & seq.
- Phial*, holy, at Rheims, the fable of, vii. 570, c.
- † Phiala, the lake of, the true source of Jordan, i. 577, c, & (S). Described, 578, a.
- Phicol*, chief captain of Abimelech, i. 345, c. Probably his prime minister, 347, (Q).
- Phidemon's* fidelity to Trajan, vi. 25, c, d.
- Phidias*, the Athenian statuary, condemned, ii. 498, a.
- Phidippides's* vision of the God Pan, ii. 460, f.
- Phiditia* at Carthage, what, vi. 680, (M).
- Phidon*, the first coiner of money, iii. 244, a.
- † Philadelphica, anciently the metropolis of the Ammonites, i. 293, b.
- † — a city in Lydia, ii. 328, f. Besieged by the Turks, vi. 636, a.
- Philadelphian* works, why so called, iii. 693, a.
- Philani*, worshipped at Carthage, vi. 692, e. Why, 737, c.
- Philanorum Arae*, their distance from Hercules's pillars, vi. 664, (I).
- Philaut*, king of Salamis, yields that island to the Athenians, iii. 245, d.
- Philammon* murders Arsinoe, iii. 646, c. Assassinated by her women, 647, d.
- Philanthropus's* success against the Turks, vi. 635, c. Revolt, ibid. d. Punishment, ibid. e.
- Philarchus*, a bitter enemy to the Jews, killed, iv. 60, a.
- Philip* of Macedon's wars with the Athenians, ii. 542, & seq. Corrupts the Greeks with his gold, 544, b. Seizes the streights of Thermopylae, 545. Subdues the Olympians, 546. Puts an end to the Phocian war, 557, a. Driven away by Phocion, ibid. c, d. Invades Phocis, 558. Defeats the confederates at Cheronea, ibid. & seq. Where brought up, iii. 287, c. Comes into Macedon, ibid. & seq. Signal policy, 288, & (A). Defeats Argeus, 289, a. Peace with Athens, ibid. b, c. Conquests, 290, & seq. Loses an eye, 291, c, & (D). His success in Thessaly, 292, & seq. Against the Olynthians, 293, & seq. Peace with Athens, 294, & seq. Ends the sacred war, 295, & seq. Invades Thrace, 297, & seq. & (F), and Euboea, 299. Propontis, ibid. & seq. Letter to the Athenians, 300, & seq. Repulsed by Phocion, 305. Defeats the Treballi, ibid. e. Chosen general by the Amphictyons, 306, b, c. Defeats the confederates, 307. Peace with Athens, 308, b. Armament against Xerxes, ibid. & seq. Marries Cleopatra, 310, b. Murdered, 314, b. His character, ibid. & seq.
- the son of Antigonus, his moderation to the revolted Spartans, ii. 634, b. Beaten out by Lycurgus, 635, c. Assists the Achæans, 653, a. Defeats the Eleans, ibid. & seq. Takes Plophis, and gives it to the Achæans, 654. Ravages Elis, ibid. & seq. Kindness to the Achæans, 655. Besieges Paleis, 657. Invades Ætolia, ibid. & seq. Takes
- Thermæ*, 658. Invades Lacedæmon, 659, c. Apposes a Sedition at Corinth, 660. Truce with Ætolia, 661, b. Takes Thebes and Phthiotis, 662, d. Peace of Neopactus, 664, a. Designs against the Grecian liberty, ibid. seq. Invades Epirus, 665, a. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. Poisons the noble Aratus, ibid. & seq. Defeats the Ætolians afresh, 666, c. Defeated before Elis, ibid. & seq. New peace with Ætolia, &c. 669. Breaks it, ibid. d. Forfeels by the Achæans, 670, f. Invades them, 671. Takes Argos, and gives it to Nabis, ibid. d. Forced to peace with Rome, 673. Siege of Lamia, 722. Harasses Ætolia, 723. Recovers some important places, 724. Ravages Attica, 733, & seq. Fatal fury against the Athenians, 725, a—d. Forced to defend Macedon, ibid. & seq.
- regent of Athanania joins with Antivies, ii. 718, d. His pretensions to Macedon, ibid. & (N). Taken by the Romans, 719.
- Cassander's general, success in Ætolia, iii. 461, a.
- the son of Demetrius III, left an infant, iii. 475, b. Prospers under his uncle Dofon, ibid. & seq. Mounts the Macedonian throne, 477, c. Treachery to the two Arati, ibid. & seq. Overpowered by the Romans, 478, & seq. Family broils, 480, c. Cruelty to his son, 481, d. Runs mad, 482, pass. Death, ibid. f.
- the supposed son of Perseus, vid. Andricus, 502.
- another, pretender to the Macedonian crown, defeated, 506, a, b.
- regent of Syria, 585, pass. Defeated and killed by Lyfias, 588, b.
- the son of Grypus, defeats the Mopuestians, 615, c. and Eucherus, 616, a. Invaded by Eufebes, &c. ibid. e, f.
- the Acarnanian's faithfulness to Alexander, 334, d. His lot after his death, 423, c.
- a Phrygian and cruel governor of Judea, 577, a. iv. 51. Murders a thousand Jews on the Sabbath, 53, c. Destroys the sacred books, ibid. d.
- the son of Herod by Mariamne, 151, (N).
- by Cleopatra made tetrarch, 184, a. His share of the Jewish kingdom, 190, f. Death and character, 253, pass.
- the apostle called by Christ, 199, a, 208, (T). Preaches at Samaria, 254, b.
- the murderer of Gordian, makes peace with Sapor, 227, b.
- king of Macedon, allies with Hannibal, 719, b. Invades Sicily, 722, c. Surprized and driven out, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Flaminius, 752, d. Condemned by the Roman commissioners, 758, d.
- Pompey's freedman's piety to his dead master, v. 150, c, (B).
- Julius's treachery to Mithreus, vi. 163, c. Succeeds him as captain of the guards, ibid. c. Treachery to Gordian, ibid. e, f. His extract, &c. 165, a. Whether the first christian emperor, ibid. b, c. Acknowledged by the senate, d, e. Makes peace with Sapor, 166, a. Submission to the bishop of Antioch, ibid. b, c. Success against the Carpi, ibid. d. Edict against the Catamites, ibid. & seq. March against Decius, 167, c. Defeat and death, ibid. d. Zeal for christianity, ibid. & seq.
- his son chosen colleague, 165, e. Consul, 166, c. Killed by the Pretorian guards, 167, d. His singular gravity and religion, ibid. e, f.
- Flavius, an Arrian consul, 278, a.
- emperor of Germany's treaty to enthrone Alexius III, 625, c, d.
- of Sida, his voluminous writings lost, 492, sub not.
- Embassy to Carthage, vii. 42, b. Treaty, ibid. c. Ambassadors sent prisoners to Rome, 43, & seq. 24 treaty, 44, d, e. Separate peace with Rome, 64, f. Assists the Carthaginians, 82, b, c.
- † Philippi, by whom built, iii. 257. Its situation, &c. v. 242, c.
- the first battle of, 245, & seq. Second, 251, & seq.
- Philippicus's* success against the Persians, iv. 359, & seq. vi. 534, c. Put to flight by Cardariga, ibid. d. Recalled, ibid. Repulsed by the army, ibid. d, e. Reconciled and victorious, ibid. & seq. Banished by Tiberius, 548, d. Proclaimed emperor, 549, e. Marches to Constantinople, ibid. f. & seq. Favours the Monothelites, 550, a. Blinded and deposed, ibid. c.
- Philepion* put to death by his father, iv. 116.
- † Philippopolis in Thrace, by whom built, iii. 787, d. Taken by the Goths, 196, c. 100,000 Romans put to the sword in it, ibid. c. Plundered and taken by the Huns, vii. 468, f. by the Goths, 494, c.
- Philippus*, L. Marc. chosen consul, v. 46, b. Opposes Drusus's scheme, ibid. f. Sent into prison, 48, a.
- Lucius's motion in favour of Pompey, 89, c.
- L. Mar. marries the mother of Octavian, 194, d. Why surnamed Thaurinus, ibid. d.

Philippida,

Philiades, tyrant of Orcus, iii. 252, a. Made so by Philip, 299, not.

† Philistines, their extract and ancient territories, i. 338, b, c. Seize on Palestine, ibid. d, (B). Their country described, 339, a. Names, cities, &c. ibid. & seq. Present Ruins, 340, (C). Government, kings, &c. 341, & seq. Enmity to the Israelites, 342, b. Religion, idols, &c. 343, a, & seq. Drive out the Avim, 344, a. Obligings to Abraham, 345, & seq. to Isaac, 346, & seq. Invaded by Simeon and Judah, 347, c. Defeated by Shamgar, ibid. & seq. Plundered by Zebah and Zalmunah, 348. Oppress the Israelites, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Jephtha, 349, & seq. Seize on the sacred ark, and plagued with it, 350, & seq. Send it back with proper expiations, 351, & seq. & not. Defeated by the Jews, 352, b, c. by Jonathan and Saul, 353, & seq. by David, 355, a. Jealousy of him, 356, b. War against him, 356. Defeated seven times by him, 357, & seq. Apply themselves to trade, 158, a, & (B). Harassed by Nadab king of Israel, 158, b. Tributary to Jehoshaphat, 358, c. Retaliate on Jehoram and his family, ibid. & seq. Subdued by the Assyrians, 348, pass. & (G). 200 of them killed for their forekins, 355, a. War with Judas Maccabeus, iv. 116.

Philistus the historian, his character, iii. 64, b. Treachery to Dion, ibid. d, c. Defeat at sea, 69, a. Kills himself, ibid. See also, vol. vi. 753, (E).

Philla married to Craterus, iii. 451, c.

Philo the Jew's account of the Septuagint version, iv. 38, a, b, & not. Of the Essenes sect, 169, & seq. Why he differs from Josephus, 171, (B). His account of the Alexandrian persecution, v. 669, & seq. Supposed to have exaggerated it, 701, f. His character, 702, f. Successful embassy to Caligula, ibid. & seq.

—stirs up the Lusitanians against Cæsar, 176, a.
—A. Publ. Success against the Paleopolitans, iv. 606, d. Consulship, 613, f.

Philostelei at Athens, their office, ii. 443.

Philopogus, whether the betrayer of Cicero, v.

Philocles sent to ravage Attica, ii. 734, & seq.

—betrays young Demetrius, iii. 481, c. Put to death, 482, b.

Philomel, the fable of, ii. 389, not.

Philomenes betrays Tarentum to Hannibal, vii. 50, f. & seq.

Treachery and Dismal end, 62, d.

Philomides's affront to Posthumus, iv. 644, d. 229, a, (D).

Philopemen, general of the Achæans, his character, ii. 667. Valour at the battle of Salefia, 649, a—c. Defeats the Spartans at Mantinea, 635, & seq. Kills Mechanidas, 669, a. Noble speech to the Achæan states, 674, f, & seq. Defeated at sea by Nabis, 675, b. Beats him at land, ibid. d. Harasses the Spartans, ibid. & seq. Defeats Nabis, 679. Instances of his generosity, ibid. c. Brings the Spartans into the Achæan league, 639, 676. Chosen pretor of Achaia, 677. Wars against the Lacedæmonians, 678, & seq. Subjects them to the Achæan laws, 679. Marches against the rebellious Messenians, 681. Taken prisoner by them, 682. Poisoned, ibid. & seq. His murderers sacrificed at his tomb, 683, b—d. Other funeral honours, ibid. & not.

Philopoppers banished Athens, ii. 555, a. Recalled, ibid. b. Expelled Rome, v. 648, b. 651, b. 686, c. Careless by Julian, vi. 362, b, c.

Philostorgius's writings and character, 491, (S).

Philostatus's fabulous account of Apollonius Tyanæus, v. 693, & seq. of Babylon, 694, c. d. and of the Parthian kingdom, ibid. e. Exploded, 697, & seq.

—his writings and character, vi. 121, sub not.

Philoterus, first king of Pergamus, iii. 520, (K). Buys the body of Seleucus, 521, d. Seizes the castle of Pergamus, 769, c.

Philotas suspected of treason, iii. 364, c, d. Tortured and put to death, 365. His character, ibid. & seq.

—account of Antony's extravagance, v. 268, (D). His sophistry rewarded, ibid. in fin. not.

Philoxenus's lot after Alexander's death, iii. 423, c.

Phineas, the grandson of Aaron, i. 490, a. Zeal rewarded, 536, a.

—the son of Eli, slain, 755, b.

Phineus the blind south-layer, infested with harpies, ii. 383, (H). Rid of them by Hercules, ibid.

Phiton plots against Perdiccas, iii. 419, b.

Phlegon's eclipse quoted by the fathers, iv. 340, (C). His account of it, v. 449. of a dreadful earthquake, v. 392, (G). of two strange births, vi. 26, e. His writings, character, &c. 49, & sub not. Story of an apparition, ibid.

Phlians oppressed by the Lacedæmonians, ii. 614, d. Reduc'd by Agesilaus, 615, b.

Phlox in the Phœnician history, who, i. 87, a.

† Phoca, by whom founded, 369, d.

Phocas, the murderer of Mauritius, iv. 365, e. Declared and crowned emperor, vi. 536, b. Cruelty to that prince, ibid. c. and to his friends, ibid. d. Image sent to Rome, ibid. f. Character, 537, a. Calamities of his reign, ibid. b. Treachery to Narces, ibid. d. Horrid butcheries, ibid. & seq. 538, c. Insulted and conspired against, ibid. f. Butchered by Heraclius, 539, a, b.

† Phocæa, metropolis of Ionia, described, ii. 748. Taken by Harpagus, 749, a. by the Romans, ibid. & seq.

Phocian games, why instituted, ii. 749, not.

Phocian wars, its causes, &c. ii. 543, & seq.

—despair, a proverb, whence, 386, e.

Phœbus discomfit the Thessalians, ii. 386, & seq. Condemned by the Amphictyon court for sacrilege, 388, & seq. Invade Locris, 600, c. War with Philip, iii. 292, & seq. with Carthaginians, vi. 731, b, c.

Phocion, Athenian general, his character, ii. 545, c, f. Relieves Byzantium, 547, d. Careless by Alexander, 549, & seq. Antipater, 551, & seq. Put to death by the Athenians, 553, c. Funeral honours, ibid. & seq.

† Phocis, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Described, 387, c. Invaded by Philip, iii. 295, & seq.

† Phocra mount, where sited, vii. 145, (D).

Phœcetes made chief magistrate of Heracles, ii. 825, d.

Phocus, the son of Ornytion, father of the Phœcians, ii. 387, e.—The son of Æacus king of Phocis, ibid.

Phœbe, Julia's band, kills herself, v. 327, a.

† Phœbi promontory, where, vii. 145, b.

Phœbidas takes Thebes, ii. 614, e. Killed, 615, e.

Phœbus, why sited in love with Rhodes, iii. 129, b. 131, c, & seq.

—brutishness to Vespasian, how required, v. 648, c.

Phœdra's incestuous love to Hippolytus punished, ii. 367, (M).

† Phœnice, whence so called, i. 391. Where sited, 392, a.

Division, cities, &c. ibid. & seq. Soil, &c. 394, c. Natural and artificial rarities, ibid. & seq.

Phœnicians, their origin, i. 396, c. Government, 397, a. Religion, ibid. & seq. Ceremonies, 401, b—d. Circumcision, 403. Arts and sciences, ibid. & seq. Trade and navigation, 404, & seq. Shipping, 406, a, b. Series of kings, 407. From the fabulous times, 408, & seq. Shake off the Persian yoke, 410, f. Betrayed by Mentor and Tennes, 411, c, d. Subdued by Ochus, 412. Origin of the world, 11, d, e. Tends to atheism, 12, a. Whence brought, ibid. & seq. Antediluvian history, 86, d. From Sanchoiatho, 133, b. Bp Cumberland's comment upon it, ibid. (C). Invaded by Alexander, ii. 161, c. Conquered by Tigranes, iii. 71, c. Plundered by Cosroes, iv. 366, b.

Phœnicopteri, Flamingos, bird of Egypt, i. 182, a.

Phœnix, the son of Agenor, and his supposed successor in Phœnice, i. 410. The pretended inventor of scarlet, ibid. b.

—the famed fabulous bird, some accounts of, i. 211, b, c.

One seen in Egypt, iii. 643, a, v. 450, (Z). The ancients opinion of this creature, ibid.

Phoniscus, a new employ given by Nero, what, v. 569, b.

Phorbas king of Argos, ii. 353, b.

—why admitted into Rhodes, iii. 132, b.

Phormio, the philosopher, reproved by Hannibal, vii. 87, a.

Phoroneus king of Argos, ii. 352, c.

† Phoronium, a city of Argos, ibid.

Phos, in the Phœnician history, who, i. 87, a.

Photinus's advice about Pompey's reception, v. 194, d, e.

Stratagem against Cæsar, 151, b, c. Raises new troubles, 152, b. Slain, ibid. c.

Phraartes defeated by Sidetes, iii. 608, c, d. Destroys all the Syrians, ibid. f, & seq.

Phraates murders his father, iv. 314, b. Banished, ibid. c.

Phrabates king of Parthia, defeats the Mardi, iv. 292, c.

—IIId, defeated by Antiochus, 292, & seq. by the Scythians, 293, b. His death, ibid.

—IIIId, wars with Tigranes, 293, c. Murdered by his sons, ibid.

—IVth, his bloody reign, 310, a, b. Defeats the king of Media, 313, a. Dethroned, ibid. b. Peace with Octavian, ibid. e, f. Poisoned, 314, b.

—message to Augustus, v. 304, a. Submits to his conditions, 417, d. His motives for it, ibid. c. Submission to him, ibid. 328, d.

Phraartes king of Media, ii. 15, b. Whether he subdued the Persians, ibid. & (P). His reign and conquests, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Nebuchodonosor, 16, a.

† Phræsus mount, where sited, vii. 115, e. By whom inhabited, 161, b.

Phreatum, an Athenian court, its office, ii. 444, b.

Phridun, king of Persia according to oriental writers, ii. 181.

His singular character, 182, c.

Phronima, princess of Crete, how saved from death, iii. 170, a.

† Phrygia, part of Asia proper, ii. 288, & seq. Described, 291, & seq. Whether Æneas reigned in it, 322, not.

—Minor, vid. Troas, 228, & seq. Beautified by Adrian, vi. 36, a. Destroy'd by famine, 372, b, c. Ravaged by the Goths, vii. 495, d. 506, e.

Phrygians, their origin, character, &c. ii. 295, pass. Government, trade, &c. 296. Religion, 297. Kings, 300.

Invaded by the Cymmerians, 303, c. Subdued by the Lydians, ibid. & seq. Side with the Trojans, 319, e. Why submit to Midas, iii. 333, c.

Phrymes

- Phrymon* defeated by Pittacus, iii. 106, d.
Phrynus, the Athenian, betrayed by Alcibiades, ii. 522, a.
 Promoter of oligarchy, ibid. & seq. Stabbed to death, 524, f. His writings and character, vi. 83, sub not. 94, (I).
Phrynon, basely killed by Pittacus, ii. 422, b.
 † Phryx, a river in Phrygia, ii. 294, d.
Phtba, among the Egyptians, the same as Vulcan, i. 13, d.
 † Phtbia, part of ancient Greece, 344, b.
 † Phtbiatis, part of Thessaly, ii. 381. Drowned in Deucalion's flood, ibid.
 † Pibunon, one of the encampments of the Israelites, i. 533, a.
 † Pbut, who and where first settled, vii. 116, f, & seq. 149, pass.
 † — river, where, 171.
Pbuti, their excellent use of the shield, vii. 151, d.
Phya, a base woman set up to represent Minerva, ii. 450, a.
 † Phylace, a city in Macedonia, iii. 256, b.
Phylarchi at Athens, their office, ii. 443, c. Among the Gazulians, vii. 162, b, (C).
Phylæus the son of Augeas, banished for siding with Hercules, ii. 407, d. Restored by him, ibid. & seq. Retires into Dulichium, 408, b.
Phyllis's piety to the Flavian family, v. 691, b.
Physis, owing probably to the Egyptians, i. 218, d, e.
Physicians, in Egypt, could cure one disease only, i. 218.
 Provided for by the Public, 219, b. Their method, &c. ibid. b, c.
 — fees from the poor regulated at Rome, vi. 354, b.
Phyto defends Rhegium against Dionysius, iii. 58, b. Barbarously murder'd by him, ibid. d, e.
Pia & Pialia, the games of, described, vi. 57.
 † Picentes, who, iv. 649. Conquered by Corn. Sophas, ibid.
 † Picentium, its territories described, iv. 412, c.
 † Picenum, the country of, iv. 211, c. Submits to Cæsar, v. 133, a. Laid waste by the Romans, vii. 658, b.
Pico de Adam, why so named by the Turks, i. 45, a.
 † Picti, who and where sited, vi. 232, c. Defeated by Constantius, ibid. d. Join with the Scots, 308, c. Invade North Britain, 400. Their origin and old site, vii. 403, c. Whether the same with the Britons, ibid. & seq. Differ from the Scots, 414, b, c. When first distinguish'd in history, 435, b, (Q). Submit to Julian, ibid. c. Invade the Romans, ibid. d. Subdued by Theodosius, ibid. e. By Constantine, 436. Repulsed by Honorius, 437, c—e. Fresh invasion, 438, & seq. and Repulse, 439, d.
Picus, a fabulous king of Latium, iv. 418, f.
Picius, king of Epirus, iii. 790, f.
 † Pieres, a people of Thrace, iii. 791.
 † Pieria, the region of, described, iii. 256, b. Its mines, 261, a.
 † — part of Seleucis, i. 361, a.
 † Pierian hill, described, 251, d.
 † Pierus river, in Achaia prop. ii. 294, d.
 † Pietas Eusebia, the diocese of, by whom founded, vi. 286, c.
 † Pibabiroth, Avitas Heroum, where sited, i. 503, (O).
Pilate, Pontius, governor of Judea, iv. 194. His character, ibid. (Z.) Exasperates the Jews, ibid. & seq. Reproved by Tiberius, 196, b. Attempt on the temple treasure, ibid. & seq. Tries and condemns Christ, 237, & seq. (W). Severity to the Samaritans, 254, d. Deposition and Banishment, ibid. e.
 — His acts, the validity of, discussed, ibid. (M). His account of Christ's crucifixion, v. 452, a.
Pileus, at Rome, what, and to whom given, iv. 805, sub not.
Pillars, one of stone and one brick, rear'd by the sons of Seth, i. 81. Josephus's mistake about them, ibid. (N).
 — from which Manetho extracted his history, ibid. Others sacred to fire and wind, 87.
 — of Hermes in Egypt, 222, d. Their use, &c. ibid. & seq.
 — of cloud and fire that followed the Israelites, 504, a, b.
 † Pimplia hill described, iii. 251, d. Its poisonous fountain, ibid.
Pinacles, at Rome, what, v. 181, (B).
Pinaria, a vessel burnt alive, iv. 452, c.
Pinarius, saves Enna from being betrayed, iii. 114, c.
Pindarus, tyrant of Ephesus, ii. 755.
 † Pindenissimum, taken by Cicero, v. 128, b.
 † Pindus, the famed mount of, iii. 798.
 † — river, boundary of Phocis, ii. 387.
Pins, why consecrated by the Argives, iii. 244, in fin. not.
Pipa, whether married to Gallienus, vii. 552, b.
Piram, king of Jarmuth joins the confederates against the Gibeonites, i. 332, a. Miraculously cut off, ibid. & seq.
Piritibous, king of the Lapithæ, ii. 381, c. Delivered from the centaur by Hercules, 382.
 — the constant companion of Theseus, 366, & seq.
 † Pisa, a city in Elis, by whom founded, ii. 406, c. Why destroyed by the Eleans, 407, a.
Pisander, promotes oligarchy at Athens, ii. 522, & seq. Goes over to the enemy, 525, c.
 † Pisaurum, destroyed by an earthquake, v. 228, (R).
Pisicladian dynasty of Persia, described, ii. 173, b.
Pisgab mount, an encampment of the Israelites, where, i. 533, b.
 † Pisidia become a Roman province, v. 300, c. Ravaged by Tribigil, vii. 506, c.
Pisistratus's expedition against Salamis, ii. 425, b. His popularity reproved by Solon, 446, d. Stratagem to obtain a guard, 447. Vainly opposed by Solon, ibid. & seq. His letter to, and answer from him, 448. Usurps the supreme power, ibid. & seq. His reign, 449, & seq. Death and character, 451, & not.
Piso comes over to Sylla, v. 70, a. Forced to divorce his beloved Annia, 82, b.
 — Calpurn, speech against Pompey, 100, c.
 — Cn. Calp. conspires with Catiline, 102, f. Made guardian of Cæsar's will, 189, c. Speech to the senate, ibid. d, e.
 — Luc. Calpurn. succeeds in Thrace, 320, b. Noble speech in the senate, 388. Trial and death, 420, c, (V).
 — Cn. Calp.'s noble question to Tiberius, 379, c. Signal pride, 391, b, (D). towards the Athenians, 394, d. to Germanicus, 395, pass. 397, a. Suspected of poisoning him, ibid. & seq. Letter to Tiberius, 400, b. Defeated by Sentius, ibid. d. Arrival at Rome, 404, c, d. Arraigned by Vitellius, ibid. & seq.
 — Lucius killed in Spain, 427, d.
 — the governor of Rome dies, 445, d, (V).
 — Caius, head of the conspiracy against Nero, 551, a. His character, ibid. b. Put to death, 554, a.
 — Licinianus, adopted by Galba, 590, c, f. His behaviour on that occasion, 592, b. Speech to the cohorts in favour of the emperor, 594, b, c. Murdered by Otho, 596, b, c. Buried by his wife, 597, c.
 — sent against Valens, vi. 179, c. Takes the imperial title, ibid. Murdered, ibid. c. His extract and divine honours, ibid. & seq.
 † Pisón river, whether the same with Pisuergis, i. 55, a.
Pissamina, the mother of Lætus, her extraordinary charity, 399, b. during the siege of Rome, 458, e.
 † Pithecuse cities, where, and whence so called, vi. 809, (A). Taken by Eumachus, ibid. b.
Pitobolus left guardian of young Commodus, vi. 69, a.
Pitban chosen protector of Macedon, iii. 423, b. Put to death by Antiochus, 431, a.
 — his attempt against Eumenes, 426, d.
 † — a city in Arabia Petrea, vii. 226, b, c.
Pitolæus, a chief of the Roman faction in Judea, iv. 113, d. Goes over to Aristobolus, 114, c. Put to death, 116, b.
Pittacus, where born, iii. 204, b.
 — king of Lesbos, his character, 106, c. His laws and writings, ibid.
Pittus king of Troezen, gives his daughter to Oëgeus, ii. 364.
 † Pityus, metropol. of Colchis, iii. 832.
 † Pityusæ islands described, vii. 308, c.
Pius, Metellus's son, whence so named, v. 43, f.
 † Placentia put to the sword, iv. 749, e.
 — the garrison of, sallies against the Vitellians, v. 606, c, d. Besieged by Cæcina, ibid. e. Drive him off, ibid. f.
 — the large amphitheatre of, burnt, 606, f.
Placidia, the mother of Valentine II, born, vi. 391, a. Consents to Serena's death, 458, e. Carried captive by Alaric, 465, b. Married to Ataulphus, 469, d, (P). Killed by Sigeric, 471, a. Sent back to Honorius, 472, a. Married to Constantius, ibid. b, c. Retires to Theodosius, 475, e. Restored to her titles, &c. 479, b, c. Returns with her son into the west, ibid. d. Declared regent, 480. Instigated by Felix against Bonifacius, ibid. e, f. Invites him into Italy, 482, b. Reconciled to him, ibid. e, f. Carried captive by Genseric, 501, c. See also, vol. vii. 509, a—c.
 — daughter of Eudoxia, married to Olybrius, vi. 507, c.
Placidus's success in Judea, iv. 277, c.
 — Jul. the discoverer of Vitellius, v. 634, c.
Placilla, Theodosius's wife. See Flacilla, vi. 390, e.
Platorius, Mart. put to death for his compassion, v. 76, c.
Plagues of Egypt, i. 496, & seq. How long they took in bringing on, 499, (H). A grievous one at Athens described, ii. 502, not. Another brought into Italy, vi. 66, a. Under Gratian, 382, d. Under Constantine IV. 555, b.
Plancina's extract, pride, &c. v. 391, c, (E). Low popularity, 395, b. Abandons her husband, 405, c. Pardoned by Tiberius, 406, b, c. Her death, 448, d.
Plancus, Munatius's friendship to J. Cæsar and Antony, v. 209, a. Wary behaviour to the latter, ibid. f. Goes over to him, 210, e. His triumph, 230, e. Consulship, 232, c. Sent to relieve Lucius, 265, c. Leaves him in the lurch, ibid. d. Forced off by Octavian, 267. Treachery to Antony, 286, d, e. Wretched character, ibid. (Q). Consulship, 289, a. Made purveyor to Rome, 305, pass.
Plane-tree in Crete described, iii. 161, b.

- Plants*, how they came first to be worship'd, i. 730, (L).
The planetary division of the week, whence, ibid. Why worship'd by the Arabs, vii. 246, b. Their seven temples to them, ibid. c. Names, rites, &c. ibid. & seq.
- Plantation*, the order of the first, i. 161, b, c. That of the earth, 162, a, b.
- Plantius* succeeds against the Britons, vii. 428, c, & seq.
Joined by Claudius, 429, a—c. Made governor, ibid. d.
His further conquests, ibid. & seq.
- † Platea, where situated, ii. 500, c. Betrayed to the Thebans, ibid. & c. Burnt by the Lacedemonians, 504. Razed, 506, e, 596, passim. Rebuilt by Alexander, iii. 321, d.
- Plateans*, why attach'd to the Athenians, ii. 461, & not.
Bravery against the Peloponnesians, 404, d. Reduced, ibid. c.
- Plato's* doctrine about God and the world, i. 3, & seq.
Misunderstood by his followers, 4, b, c. His own notion on that head, 27, c, & seq. System of ideas, 8. Two principles, 25, c. Finite and infinite, 26. Whence he had his philosophy, 222. Hindered from pleading for Socrates, ii. 535. His account of his death, 536, in fin.
Invited into Sicily by Dionysius, iii. 63, sub not.
Punished for his free speech, ibid. Comes thither a second time, ibid. Polishes his son, 64, c, d. A third time, 65, Goes back into Greece, 66.
- Platonism*, how early received into the church, i. 4, c, & seq.
- Plautianus* seizes Pescennius's children, vi. 106. Brings them to him, 108, d. His character, wealth and sway, 115, d—f. Confusion, 116, a. Vast dowry to his daughter, ibid. b, c. Becomes obnoxious to the emperor, ibid. d.
Accused of treason, ibid. e. Put to death, ibid. f.
- Plautilla*, Nerva's mother's descent, vi. 2, a.
—daughter of Plautianus, married to Caracalla, 116, a.
Becomes hateful to him, ibid. d, e. Banished into Liparis, 117, a. Put to death, 122, b.
- Plautius*, L. Vennus, made consul, iv. 605, b. Succeeds against the Privernates, ibid. c, d. Obtains their pardon, ibid. c.
—M. Sylva's wholesome laws, v. 51, d.
—Firm. dissuades Otho from killing himself, 611, d.
—put to death by Caracalla, vi. 122, b.
- Plautus* sent into Britain, v. 496, d, e. Succeeds there, 497, b, c. Obtains an ovation for it, 501, c.
—Rubellius's high descent and merit, 535, f. Sent into Asia, 536. Assassinated there, 542, & seq. (G).
- Players*, Stage, their licentiousness suppressed, v. 380, c, d.
Expelled the empire, 419, b, c. Driven out of Italy,
527, c. Recalled, 535, f. Forbid by Trajan, vi. 10, a.
Recalled, 12, d. Regulated by Valentinian, 357, d.
- Pleaders*, lawyers, their extortions complained of to the senate, v. 500, c, & seq. Truncated, 501, a. Deprived of their fees, vi. 13, b.
- Plebeians*, the order of, instituted by Romulus, iv. 426, d.
Raife a tumult against the Patricians, 485, & seq. How quelled, 486, c. Inraged by Appius, 487, & seq. By the senate, 489. Revolt, ibid. & seq. Resume the claim of the Agrarian law, 529, & seq. Dispersed by the Patricians, 530, d. Three of their order chosen decemvirs, 535, d. Fall out with the Patricians, 554. Redressed by the senate, 555, c. Raised to the military tribuneship, 557, & seq. Shake off the Patrician yoke, 578, & seq.
Procure new laws in their own favour, 627, & seq. Raife new tumults, 642, b. Raised to the consulate, 761, b.
To the censorship, 797, b. Triumph over the Patricians, 530, d, e. Treachery to Antony, 286.
- Plennius* delivers up Messina to Lepidus, v. 281, c, d.
- Plenarius* king of Illyrium, leagues with Rome against Ætolia,
ii. 728, f.
- † Pleuron, a city of Ætolia, ii. 410, d.
- Pleurones*, why called Curetes, ibid.
- Plinidia's* revolt and rise, vi. 475, a. Shameful peace with the Huns, vii. 464, c.
- Pliny* held the eternity, &c. of the world, i. 8, d.
—his account of the Essenians, iv. 170, b.
—destroyed by mount Vesuvius, v. 669, d, e.
—His judgment of Domitian's poems, 664, d.
—junior, his character of Virginius, v. 574, a. Pleads for the Bithynians against Massia, 683, p. His intrep-idity when accused by him, ibid. f. Pleads in favour of Helvidius, 685, a. Generosity to Artemidorus, 686, b. Panegyric on Trajan, vi. 11, a, b. Speech against lawyers fees, 13, b. Sent governor into Pontus, ibid. c. His writings and character, 29, sub not. Character of Suetonius, 51, sub not. Partial account of the Gauls, vii. 362, d, & seq. & not.
- Plisfareus* king of Sparta's short reign, ii. 594, a.
- † Plisfia taken by the Samnites, iv. 618, c.
- Plisfanax* succeeds Plisfareus, ii. 594, a. Sent to invade Attica, 595. Betrayed by his tutor, 491. passim. Banished, ibid. e. Recalled by means of the oracle, 597, e. His death, 599, e.
- Plinia* Trajan's wife's excellent character, vi. 9, c. Raifes Adrian to the empire, 25, e, f. Obsequies of her husband, 35, c. Death and funeral honours, 36, d.
- † Plinopolis, a city in Thrace, iii. 787, d.
- Vol. VII. No. 11.
- Plinius* goes voluntier to the Persian war, vi. 163, c. His writings and character, 196, & seq. sub not.
- Plotius*, C. an inhuman usurer, iv. 641, e. Condemned to death, 642, a.
—condemned by the triumvirs, v. 223, f.
—Primus, promoted by the soldiery, 596, f.
- Plutarch's* opinion of the world's origin, i. 29, & seq. Why prejudiced against Cassius, v. 247, (N). Cotemporary with Favorinus, vi. 49, sub not. His works and character, 50, sub not.
- Plutarchus* tyrant of Eubœa, expelled, iii. 251, c, f.
- Pluto*, see Dis. ii. 257, & c. of the Gauls, who, vii. 357, b,
& seq.
- Plutonium* of Herapolis described, ii. 293, (L).
- † Po river, boundary of Liguria, iv. 409, d. Described, 411, a. Whence called Bondicus, 410, a. 416, b. In head, 413, a. Golden sand, 780, d.
- Podarces*, the son of Laomedon. See Priam, ii. 317, d.
- Pœon*, the son of Endymion, settles in Pœonia, ii. 407, b.
- Pœtry*, Hebrew, its metre, &c. very uncertain, i. 710, d, &
seq.
- Lyric* not invented by Orpheus, 713, a. How used among the Celtes, ii. 253, b, 254, b, c.
- Pœts*, old pagan, the depravedness of their theology, i. 15,
d. and cosmogony, ibid. & seq.
- in high esteem among the Arabs, vii. 258, a, b.
- Points*, Hebrew, when introduced, i. 724, c, d, & seq. An account of them, 725, (B). See also vol. iv. 14, (Z).
- Pole* over Apollo's statue, what, vii. 356, a, (S).
- Polemarchus* at Athens the 3d magistrate, ii. 417, c. His office, 442, f.
—in Bœotia, 743, b.
- Polemonia* puts herself under Brutus's protection, v. 216, b.
- Polemon* made king of Pontus, iii. 760, d.
—Iid, turns Jew, ibid. e. Exchanges his kingdom,
844, b. Marries Berenice, iv. 265, c. See also vol. v.
315, b—d. 464, d.
- Remmius*, a master of rhetoric under Nero, v. 578, (T).
—an arrogant sophist under Adrian, vi. 51, sub not.
—Buries himself alive, ibid. His ill-manners to Antoninus, how requited, 53, d.
- † Polemonium, a city in Pontus, iii. 721, c.
- † Polignac, the Gothic temple of, described, vii. 356, b, c.
- † Politorium, taken by Ancus, iv. 445, b. Where fitted, ibid. (B).
- Polenius* put to death for subornation, vi. 117, f.
- Pollentia's* constancy and death, v. 560, passim.
- † —city, by whom built, iv. 801, c. The famed battle of, vi. 450, b.
- † —in Majorca, vii. 308, c.
- Pollentius*, an extraordinary youth slain, vi. 384, b.
- Pollio's* policy to gain Herod's favour, iv. 131, a.
- Asinius*, a friend of Cæsar and Antony, v. e, 209, a—f.
Goes over to the latter, 210, c. Sent against Salvidienus, 264, f. Forlook by Plancus, 265, c. Retires to Ahenobarbarus, 267, b. Persuades him to submit to Antony, 286,
d. Frank answer to Augustus, 332, (Q) Death, 414, c.
- Vedius*, a cruel upstart's death, 316, b.
- Annus* impeached by Senecio, 553, c.
- Asinius* murdered by the Moors, 615, a.
- F. Arver* promoted by Vespasian, 661, d.
- Trebellius*'s history sadly curtailed, vi. 178, d—f. His writings and character, 220, (C).
- Pollux* his fabulous origin, ii. 401, (L). One of the Argonauts, 383, (H). Kills Amicus, ibid. Recovers his sister out of Aphidne, 402. His other exploits, ibid. & not.
- Jul.* his writings, &c. vi. 94, (I).
- Poltron*, whence that significant word, 360, in fin. (C).
- Polyænius's* speech to the Syracusans, iii. 104, c, d.
- Polyænius's* writings, &c. vi. 83, sub not.
- Polybius* the historian, sent deputy to the Roman consul, ii.
636, f. Kept prisoner, 690, a. Lifts under Scipio, ibid.
f. Present at the siege of Corinth, 698. Vindicates the great Polypæmen, 700, a. In great esteem with the Romans, ibid. d. Advice to young Demetrius, iii. 589, & seq.
& (E). Accompanies Scipio Æmil. iv. 775, b. Great sway with Claudius, v. 488, b.
- Polycletus's* despicable expedition into Britain, v. 540, c. Put to death by Galba, 586, f.
- Polycrates* enslaves the Samians, iii. 190, c, d. Allies with Ægypt, ibid. f. Subdues his neighbours, 191, a. The odd adventure of his seal, ibid. d. Sends a fleet to Cam-byfes, ibid. f. Outwits the Lacedemonians, 192, e. Outwitted by Oroetes, 193, e, f. Crucified, 194, a. His character, ibid. &c.
- prime minister of Epiphanes, his character, 649, c.
- Polydamas* sent to kill Parmenio, iii. 366, b.
- Polydeutes* king of Seriphus, iii. 218, a.
- Polydorus* the son of Cadmus, king of Thebes, ii. 372, c.
- king of Sparta, invades Messenia, 571, & seq. Defeats the Argives, 572, c, d. The Messenians, 576, a.
His character and death, ibid. c, d.

Polygamy allowed by the Jews, i. 678, d. Distinguish the first from the other wives, ibid. (M). The latter not mentioned in the sacred text as wives, ibid., &c.
 — allowed by the Persians, ii. 61. by the Scythians, 276, c.
Polymestor king of Arcadia, defeats the Lacedæmonians, ii. 38, c.
 — king of the Thracian Chersonesus, iii. 795, b. Murders Polydorus, ibid.
Polynices prince of Thebes, comes to the Argolic court, ii. 358. His war with his brother, ibid. & seq. Killed, and killed by him, 374, d. Buried by his sister, ibid.
Polyperchon head of the Macedonian faction, ii. 553, a. Cabals against Cassander, ibid. &c.
 — governor of Alexander's sons, iii. 425, b. Left with the care of Macedon, &c. 452, d. Appointed Antipater's successor, 453, pass. & (B). Character and wrong measures, 454, a. First edict confuses all Greece, ibid. f. Cruelty to the Peloponnesians, 455, c. Defeated by Callias, 457, & seq. Flees into Greece, 449, a. Murders Hercules and his Mother, 462.
Polyxenidas's treachery to the Rhodians, iii. 149, & seq.
 — defeated by the Romans, 555, c, d.
 — 2d defeat, 559, d.
Polyzelus, prince of Syracuse, envied by his brother, iii. 20, d. Reconciled to him, 21.
 † Pomerania invaded by the Gauls, vii. 487, c, & seq.
Pompeidius diverted from invading Rome, v. 48, e, f. Outwits Cæpio, 49, f. Defeated and killed, 53, d.
Pompeia Cæsar's wife's incontinence, v. 109, d, e.
 — Macrina banished, 446, e. Her family put to death, ibid. & seq.
Pompeii, the two sons of Pompey, their success in Spain, v. 171, b.
 † — the city of, where, 52, d. Taken by Sylla, ibid.
 Overturned by an earthquake, 544. Rebuilt and swallowed up by another, 699, b, c.
 † Pompeipolis Soli, where, and why so called, v. 101, d. Relieved by Balista, vi. 177, b.
Pompeius, Cn. defeated by the Allies, v. 49, c. Whence called Strabo, 51, b. Victory over the Marfi, ibid. c. Severity to Aufculum, 52, f. Triumph over it, 53, a. Subdues the Vestini, ibid. Success against the Allies, 60, c. Treachery to Rufus, ibid. d. Outwits the senate, 60, c. Goes over to the consuls, 62, a, 63, a. Killed by lightning, ibid. d.
 — Rufus assaulted by Sulpicius, 53, f. Deposed, 54, a. Seizes the Collinum gate, 54, & seq. Undermined by Pomp. Strabo, 60, c. Murdered, ibid. d.
 — Geminus put to death by Tiberius, 446, a, b.
 — Cn. Magn. put to death by Messalina, 499, b.
 — Propinq. put to death, 599, c.
 — defeated by the Getæ, vi. 522, c. Put to death for treason, 526, b, c.
Pompey the Great opposes Metellus in Crete, iii. 117. Haughty answer to Asiatics, ibid. e, f. Seizes on Syria, 619.
 Pontus, 750. Defeats Mithridates, 751, & seq. Pursues him into Scythia, 753. Subdues Pontus, 758, a. Generosity at his triumph, ibid. b, c. Friendship to Auletes, 668, b. Sent into Armenia, 706, b, c. Re-inthrones Tigranes, 707. Succeeds Lucullus in Expedition against Iberia, 836, b, c. against Albania, 838, c. Invited by Aristobulus, iv. 108, a. Arbitrates between the two brothers, 109. Partiality for Hyrcan, ibid. & seq. Besieges Jerusalem, 110, d. Takes it, 111, c. Enters into the Most holy place, 112, b. Returns to Rome, ibid. & seq. His birth and extract, v. 28, a. First campaign, 63, a. Saves his father's life, ibid. b. First success against the consuls, 70, d, e. Saluted emperor by Sylla, ibid. f. Success against the consuls, 72, pass. In Italy, 77, a. Cruelty to Carbo, ibid. b, c. Success in Africa, 80, c, d. Why surnamed the Great, ibid. & seq. Triumph, 81, c. Opposes Sylla, 83, d. Defeats Lepidus, 84, f. and Brutus, 85, a. Made governor of Lusitania, 89, d. Passes thither, 91, a. Foiled by Sertorius, ibid. d, & seq. Defeated and wounded, 92, d. & c. pass. 93, d. Doleful letter to the senate, 94, a. Ends the Spanish war, 97, c, d. Defeats the rebels, 98, d, c. Consulship, ibid. f. Reconciled to Crassus, 99, a, b. Extensive power at sea, 100, & seq. Swift success against the pirates, 101, c. Power by sea and land, ibid. & seq. Gross dissimulation, 102, b. Sumptuous triumph, 110, c. Generosity to his captives, 111. Wrong politics, ibid. & seq. Reconciled to Cæsar, 112, & seq. Ingratitude to Cicero, 115. Deposed by Clodius, 118, f. 2d consulship, 121, & seq. Sumptuous theatre and shows, 123, c, d. New troubles at Rome, 124, f. & seq. Chosen sole consul, 126, c. Takes Metellus his colleague, 127, f. Promotes Cæsar's enemies, 129, b. Betrayed by Curio, ibid. & seq. High contest with Cæsar, 130, pass. Chosen general, 131, c. Upbraided by his party, 132, d, e. Quits the city, 133, a. Illulory answer to Domitius, ibid. (G). Escape out of Brundisium, ibid. c, & c. Raises a vast army, 137. and navy, ibid. & seq. Assembles the senate at Theffalonica, 138, d. Goes to Dyrrachium, 139, a. Besieged in his own camp, 140, c. Forces and defeats Cæsar, ibid. & seq. Forced to fight him, 142, & pass. Speech to his army, ibid. f. Defeat and shameful behaviour, 145, & seq. & (W). Imbarks, 147, b, c. Doleful meeting with Cornelia, ibid. & seq. Flight, 148. Arrival in Egypt, ibid. & seq. Basely murdered there, 149, a.

 — his tomb repaved by Adrian, vi. 37, c.
 — theatre burnt and rebuilt, v. 414, a. vi. 156, c.
Caius success in Spain, v. 172, pass. Defeated by Cæsar, 173, & seq. Flight and death, 174, & seq.
Sextus's flight into Celtiberia, 175, c. Opposes the triumvirs, 258, c. Shameful indolence, 267, b. Comes over to Antony, 270, a. Interview with Octavian, 271, d. Treaty with him, 272, pass. Generous answer to Menas, f. & seq. Returns into Sicily, 273, c. Elated with his success, 278, d. Total defeat at sea, 280, d, e. Quits Sicily, 281, c. His last efforts defeated, 283, c. His Death, ibid. e.
 — Quintus, ill success and conduct in Spain, iv. 781, c. & seq.
Pompilia, Numa's daughter, her offspring, iv. 438, c, (Q).
Pompilius Numa. See Numa, iv. 435, & seq.
Pomponia Græcina turns christian, v. 526, a. Tried and acquitted, ibid. b.
Pomponius Matro triumphs over the Sardinians, iv. 684, c. Made prætor of that island, ibid. f.—Stragem to save himself, v. 227, b.
 — Secundus imprisoned, 441, d, e. Chosen consul, 481, a. Assembles the senate, 489, c. Respected by Claudius, 491, c. Success and triumph over the Catti, 508, b. Poems, ibid. c.
 — Flaccus's death, 448, f, & seq.
 — Labco's death, 449, c.
 — Vegetanus defeated by Hanno, vii. 50 d, e.
 — the Gaulish bard, his danger and vow, 365, (K).
 — Mela. See Mela, 301, c. 313, f.
Pomposianus, Mer. banished into Corsica, v. 674, c. Put to death by Domitian, ibid. d.
 † Pomptin, the territory of, iv. 569, d. Seized by the Patricians, ibid. c. Invaded by the Antiates, ibid. f.
Pompos king of Arcadia, opens a trade into that country, ii. 380.
Ponticus Valer, a cheating lawyer, banished, v. 540, f.
Pontiff of Alexandria, who, vi. 37, f.
Pontifex Maximus among the Romans, his office, iv. 436, d, (M). Forbid to assist at funerals, v. 375, (E). That title assumed by the Roman Emperors, 316, a. First rejected by Gratian, ibid. b.
Pontifices at Rome, their office, iv. 436, d. Augmented by Sylla, v. 79, a.
 † Pontine Lake, where and whence so called, iv. 486, f, (H).
 — Marthes, Trajan's causeway over, vi. 16, d.
Pontius Pilate. See Pilate, iv. 194, & seq.
 — the Samnite general's stratagem against the Romans, 611, c, d. Forces them into a shameful peace, 612. Reproves their known faithlessness, 614, d, e. Defeated, 615, f. Forced to pass under the yoke, 616. Led in triumph and beheaded, 640, e. pass.
 — Herennius defeated, 638.
 — Flagellanus degraded, v. 453, b.
 † — Pontus, the kingdom of, why so called, iii. 720, a, v. 315, d. Described, ibid. & seq. Ravaged by the Scythians, vi. 175, a.
 † Polemaicus, where and whence so called, iii. 721, a, b.
 † — Cappadocius described, iii. 721, f. & seq. Its famed honey, 722, f. Origin and government, 723. pass. Kings, 724, & seq. Reduced by Lucullus, 746. Made a Roman province, 748. Its various changes since, 760, & seq.
 † Pools of Solomon described, i. 590, b, c.
Popes, their power how founded, vi. 533, d—f. By whom granted, 556, d, e. Hatch the downfall of the Lombardic kingdom, vii. 702, b. The beginning of their Sovereignty, 705, d, & seq. (Y). How confirmed, 710, b. Put in possession of Ravenna, &c. 714, c. Whether made sovereigns over them, ibid. & seq.
Popilius's speech to Antiochus, iii. 580, a, b.
 — Lænas ravages the Falcisci, iv. 590. Chosen consul, 593, a. Wounded by the Gauls, ibid. b.
 — severity to the Stelates, 761, a. Condemned by the senate, ibid. b.
 — made to pass under the yoke, v. 19, e. vii. 396, a.
 — ingratitude to Cicero, v. 228, f.
Poplicola. See Valerius, iv. 468, & seq.
Poppea's friendship to the Jews, iv. 265, in fin. (F), 266, d. Josephus's flattering character of her, ibid. (G).
 — Sabina put to death by Messalina, v. 500, b, c. Her daughter captivates Nero, 526, & seq. Lewd character, 527, a, b. Supplants Agrippina, 530, & seq. Married to Nero, 543, b. Treachery to Octavia, ibid. Honours on the birth of her daughter, 544, d, e. Death and pompous funeral, 559, c, d. Statues reared afresh by Orho, 604, f.

Perkins's

- Porphyry's* notion of Daniel's weeks confuted, iv. 8, (N), vi. 224, sub not. His writings and character, vi. 196, & seq. sub not. Extract, travels, &c. 222, sub not. Death and works, 223, & seq. sub not. Why an enemy to the christians, ibid.
- Porfena's* attempt, in favour of Tarquin, iv. 474, b. Outwitted by M. Scævola, 475, pass. Discards the Tarquins, 476, c. Kindness to the Romans, 477, a.
- Porjena's Goods*, whence that proverb, ibid. b.
- † Porlimos, a sea-port in Eubœa, iii. 299, a. Taken by Philip, ibid. b.
- Porta* arrived at Portsmouth, vii. 447.
- a city-gate, whence so called, iv. 424, c.
- † Portæ Caucasica & Caspia, where, vii. 456.
- Portia's* surprising courage and constancy, v. 182, b, (C). Dread for Brutus, ibid. c, f. Doleful parting from him, 214, c, d, & (S). Death, 257, b.
- Portian Larva*, what, and by whom obtained, iv. 751, d.
- Port-Reve* cinque-port, whence so called, vii. 408, f.
- † Portugal, Portugal, whence so called, vii. 304, in fin. (B). The rest, see under Lusitania, vii. 295, & seq.
- † Portus Herculis, whether the same with Monæci, iv. 409, d.
- † — Luna, a city in Liguria, ibid. f.
- Portus Magnus*, Portsmouth so called, vii. 407, f.
- Porus* king of Babylon, i. 945, c.
- in India opposes Alexander, iii. 390, & seq. Loses his son, 391, f. Defeated, 392. How honoured by the conqueror, ibid. f.
- another of that name abandons his kingdom to Alexander, 393, c.
- embassy to Augustus, v. 308, c.
- Posidon*, Neptune, the son of Pontus, i. 137, a.
- Posidon's* great sway with Claudius, v. 488, b, (O).
- Post & Ante Verta*, Diana, why so called, vii. 358, a.
- Postiluvian Patriarchs*, a table of their years down to Abraham, i. 110, d. Of the same, according to the Hebrew computation, 111. According to the Septuagint and Samaritan, ibid. & seq.
- Postumius* defeats the Sabines, iv. 447, c, f. Honoured with the first ovation, 479, c, (D).
- Ans. chosen dictator, 433. Defeats the Latins, ibid. & seq. & (M). the Volsci, 517. Chosen decemvir, 504, a.
- P. slain by his exasperated army, 553, f. & seq.
- Spur. chosen consul, 611, b. Shameful expedition against the Samnites, ibid. & seq. Forced to pass under the yoke, 613, a. Delivered up to the Samnites, 614, c, d. Released by Pontius, ibid. f.
- Megillibus chosen consul, 626. Defeats the Samnites, ibid. e. Successful diversion in Hetruria, &c. 633, b. against Samnium, 635, a. and Hetruria, 636, a. Affronted by the Tarentines, 644, pass.
- L. a haughty consul, 638, f. Success in Hetruria, 639, & seq. Mortified by the senate, 640, a.
- A. chosen consul and priest, 677, b.
- Abinus's success in Illyricum, 685, & seq. Recalled, 686. Killed by the Bui, 718, c.
- Albin poisoned by his wife, 767, a.
- Q. put to death by Antony, v. 290, a.
- success against the Gauls, vi. 173, d. Proclaimed emperor there, 176, b—d.
- success against the Germans, ibid. &c. Excellent government, &c. ibid. c, f. Beloved of the Gauls, 181, b. Repulses Gallienus, ibid. c. Killed by his soldiers, 183, f.
- success against the Franks, vii. 552, f.
- † Patidea in Macedonia, by whom founded, iii. 27, a. Declares against the Persians, 277. Surrenders to the Athenians, 280, c, d. Taken by Philip, 290, d. Revolts from the Athenians, ii. 497, c. Reduced by famine, 504. Taken by Timotheus, 541, a.
- † Potii, who, iv. 620, b. Punished by Hercules, ibid. c.
- Potinus's* treachery to Cleopatra, iii. 673, pass. to J. Cæsar, 675, c. Put to death, 676, c.
- Potiphar*, Joseph sold to, i. 450, a. Over-reached by his wife, ibid. & seq. Sends him into prison, 450, c.
- Potiphar's* priest of On, gives his daughter to Joseph, i. 453, b.
- † Potter's Field, Campo Santo, the extraordinary nature of its earth, i. 586, d, (C). Foretold to be the burying-place of Strangers, iv. 236, a.
- Pourous*, the first man according to the Bramins, i. 33, b.
- † Praaspa, where, iv. 311, a. Besieged by Antony, ibid.
- Pra-adamites*, their doctrine, i. 47. Confuted, ibid. & seq.
- Præfetti Prætorio*, their office, vi. 270, b. Province, ibid. & seq. By whom founded, 271, d.
- Præfetus Vigili* at Rome, his office, v. 283, a.
- Cistrum, what, 361, (V).
- Prætorii, 362, c, (B).
- Prætorii Militaris, 380, (I).
- in Britain, their office and stations, vii. 418, pass.
- † Præfisse taken by T. Quinctius, iv. 576, c. Invaded by Sylla, v. 71, f. Surrendered 75, a. Totally ruined, ibid. b, c.
- the oracle of, ominous to Domitian, 689, a.
- Prænestina* waste the Roman territories, iv. 574, d, e. Cruelly butchered by Sylla, v. 75, b, c.
- Prænomen* among the Romans, what, iv. 444, (Z).
- Præpotes* at Rome, what, iv. 428, (S).
- Præpositi* in Britain, their office, vii. 417, d.
- Prætexta Toga* at Rome, what, iv. 432, (F).
- Prætextatus* made prefect of Achaia, vi. 327, a. Rise and excellent character, 405, d—f. Oration in the capital, 406, a. Funeral honours, ibid. b.
- Prætorian Guards* discarded by Severus, 106, f, & seq. A new set chosen, 108. Their tyranny, 246, d. Disbandment by Constantine, 247, a.
- Prætorium* among the Romans, what, v. 362, c, (B).
- Prætori*, Achaean, their office, ii. 644, c.
- at Rome, when first chosen, iv. 583, a. Their office, ibid. (R). Taken from among the Plebeians, 604, a. Their number augmented by Cæsar, v. 178, a.
- at Carthage, their office, vi. 678, a.
- Pægrini at Rome, when first created, iv. 677, c. Their office, ibid.
- Prætor* king of Argos, ii. 354. His behaviour towards Belerophon, ibid. &c.
- Præfutus*, highly injured by the Romans, v. 537, b, c. Causes a revolt, ibid. & seq.
- † Præfium promontory in Æthiopia, 190, a.
- Præxagoras's* writings and character, vi. 272, (F).
- Præx* discovers Perseus's treachery, iii. 485, a.
- Præconnesian* marble famed, iii. 201, b.
- † Præconnesus island described, iii. 201, b.—Whether the same with Elaphonnesus, ibid. (Q).
- † Premnis, taken by Petronius, v. 302, f. vii. 185, b, c.
- † Præpentinus island described, iii. 219.
- Presentius's* success against the Romans, v. 49, c.
- Priam* king of Troas, whence so called, ii. 317, c. His reign, power, &c. ibid. & seq. Progeny, 318. Whether the first king of the Franks, vii. 550, b—c.
- Priapatus*, 3d king of Parthia, iv. 292, c.
- † Priaps, Phalli, vast columns in the temple of Hierapolis, i. 372, c, d. An odd ceremony performed upon them, 375, f, g.
- Priaps* worshipped at Lampacus, ii. 324, d.
- † Priene, by whom founded, ii. 369, d. Where situate, 756, a.
- Priest, High*, head of the Jewish church, i. 633, a. Final judge of all controversies, ibid. & seq. Laws relating to his office, &c. 634, pass. Consecration, &c. 635, & seq.
- become prefects of Judea, iv. 27, a. Fall into a civil war with the lower class, 265, & seq. & (F).
- Priesthood* among the Jews given to the first-born, i. 632, c. afterwards to the tribe of Levi, ibid. &c.
- High, given to the family of Aaron, 633, b. Become venal under the Roman power, iv. 48, & seq. 194, b.
- Priestly Garments*, i. 636, & seq. 643, c, d. Where kept after the captivity, iv. 96, b.
- Priests* among the Jews, their consecration, i. 641, d. Office, 642, b. Dress, 643, c, d. Subordinate to the High Priest, 641, d.—Those who returned from Babylon, iv. 5, a, b. Admirable constancy amidst their slaughter in the temple, 111, d, e. Oppressed by the deposed Pontiffs, 265, & (F). Sent to Rome, ibid. in fin. not.
- Roman, how chosen and ordained, iv. 427, & seq. Fruitless embassy to Coriolanus, 500, f.
- of Jupiter, not suffered to leave Rome, v. 412, & seq.
- Primus Avion*. Vid. Antonius, v. 621, & seq.
- Principes* among the Romans, whence so called, 600, (T).
- Juventutis. See Youth, v. 324, (G).
- Principius* killed at Rome, vii. 657, d.
- † Prison, a city, where situated, ibid. f, & seq. Whence so called, vi. 638, (I).
- † — river, where, vii. 235, f.
- † Prionotus mount in Yama, vii. 235, e.
- Prisca*, the wife of Dioclesian, a Christian, vi. 206, c.
- Priscianus* accused of treason, vi. 56, d. Kills himself, ibid. e.
- Priscillianists*, their first appearance in Spain, vii. 331, b.
- Priscus's* success against the Parthians, iv. 321, b.
- Tarquit expelled the senate house, v. 515, b.
- Julius's great sway with Vitellius, 619, b, c. Sends to guard the Appenine passes, 629, c.
- Marius condemn'd for extortion, vi. 10, d.
- Stattius's success in Syria, 64, & seq.
- Philip's brother made governor of Syria, 166, c. His extortions cause a revolt, 167, a. Proclaims himself emperor, ibid. c. Proscrib'd, ibid. & seq.
- a conjuring philosopher in favour with Julian, 326, c. His writings, &c. 340, sub not. Killed by the Goths, ibid. & vii. 505, c.
- the historian assisted by Euphemius, vi. 492, sub not.
- Mauritius's general repulsed by the army, 534, d. Destroys 30000 Avari, 536, a. Conspires against Phocas, 538, c, d.

Prisoners,

- Prisoners*, of war, when first exposed to sale, iv. 433, d.
Prisons, in the Roman camp, how order'd, v. 368, (W).
Privateers, when first allowed by the Romans, iv. 675, c.
 Shipwreck'd, 676, b.
 † Privernium, taken by the Romans, iv. 590. Revolts from them, 605, b. Retaken, ibid. c. Made a municipal city, ibid. f.
Proba, the wife of Probus, her excellent character, vi. 364, a. — opens the gates of Rome to the Goths, 464, b.
Probinus, chosen consul by Theodosius, vi. 425, f, & seq.
Probus Bæb. banished for extortion, vi. 10, f.
 — marries Severus's daughter, 108, c.
 — the emperor's success against the Sarmatians, &c. 173, f. Defeated in Egypt, 187, c. Proclaim'd, 199, f. His extract and character, 200, a, b. Success against the Gauls, ibid. c. The Germans, ibid. d. in Thrace, 201, b. Egypt, ibid. c. Triumphat Rome, ibid. e. Success against the revolted, 102, pass. His works, 203, b. Murdered by the soldiers, ibid. c. Epitaph and character, ibid. & seq.
 — governor of Illyricum, a rank coward, 362, b. Extortions discovered to the emperor, 363, c. His character, extract, &c. ibid. d, c. Death, ibid. & seq. Success against the Goths, vii. 498, c, d. Against the Vandals, 528, d—f. Against the Franks, 553, c, d. The Quadi, 603, b, c. Permits Vines to be planted in Gaul, &c. [413] d.
Proceffion, a long Egyptian one mention'd by Clement Alexander, i. 242, d, e.
Proceiron, what, and by whom writ, vi. 577, b, c.
Procles and Eurythene, partners in the Spartan kingdom, ii. 398, a.
Proclixæ, so called from him, ibid. A list of them, 558.
Proclus, a champion for the world's eternity, i. 4. — opposes the adoption of Cofrhoes, vi. 523, c.
 † Proconfularis, yielded to Genferic, vii. 533, c.
Proconfuls, why and first created, iv. 509, d, (N). Their number and office, vi. 271, a.
Procopius defeats the immortal troop, iv. 341, d. — his history defective, vii. 572, & seq.
Proceffia, the festival of Ceres, ii. 731, note.
Proculus conspires against Galba, v. 593, a. Raised by Otho, 596, f. Unexperience in war, 605, a. Succeeds Celfus, 607, c, f. Rash advice to Otho, 608, c, d. Defeat and shameful flight, 610, d. Mean defence to Vitellius, 615, c. — the Astrologer foretells the day of Domitian's death, 689, b. Rewarded by Nerva, ibid. c.
 — His writings and character, vi. 84, sub not.
 — rise and revok in Gaul, 222, b. Defeat and death, ibid. d, e.
 — Deposed for extortion, 403, b.
 — the son of Totianus put to death for extortion, 421, d—f. — bp. sermon against the Hunns, vii. 462, c.
Prodictators, why chosen by the Romans, iv. 705, e, f.
Proedei, at Athens, their office, ii. 439, c.
Proerefer, a christian sophist, his writings and character, vi. 338, sub not.
Profuturus, defeated by the Gauls in Thrace, vi. 381, c. His writings and character, 476, (R).
Prognæ, the fable of, ii. 389, not.
Proletarii, who, iv. 646, c. Inrolled in the army, ibid. d.
Prometeus's flood in Egypt, i. 96, (N).
 — a Titan, the first striker of fire, ii. 163, b.
 † Promontorium magnum, where, vii. 115.
Promotus's success against the Geuthongi, vi. 407, b. Sent against Maximus, 412, f. Saves Theodosius from the Barbarians, 419, a, b. His death, ibid. c, d.
 † Pronectus, a city in Bithynia, iii. 822, d.
Propedus accused and acquitted, v. 481, e, & seq.
Properly, laws against coveting another man's, i. 686, c.
Prophet, the import of that name, i. 731, (M). A list of them from Abraham to Malachi, 732, b. Of the Prophetesses, ibid. (O). How God revealed himself to them, 733, a. Their food, dress, and manner of living, 731, c, d. Number, 732, a.
 — Among the Scythians describ'd, ii. 271. & not.
 † Propontis describ'd, iii. 201, (P). Invaded by Philip, 299, & seq.
Prosecutions, how regulated by Solon's laws, ii. 433, f.
Proflytes, several sorts among the Jews, i. 664, c. Regulations concerning them, 665, b, &c.
Proferpine, princes of Epirus, guarded by Cerberus, ii. 367, b. Where ravished, iii. 9, b. Worshipped at Carthage, vi. 679, b, c, 689, c. Her temple plunder'd by Hamilco, 764, a.
Prosper, an extortionate Successor of Ursinus, vi. 292, c. 296, c.
Prostitutes, at Rome, laws against, v. 401, c. Encouraged by Caligula, 471, c. Forced to pay a Tax, vi. 518, b. Banished by Theophylus, 570, c.
Protagoras I. king of Cyprus, iii. 179, b.
 — II. an usurper of it, 181, f. Makes peace with Persia, 182, b.
Proterus, an orthodox bp. murdered by the Eutychians, vi. 404, c.
Proterus the philosopher put to death by the Goths, vii. 505, c.
Proteslaus killed by Hector, ii. 320, c. His tomb, 305, (C). Rified by Artayctes, 476, c.
Proteus, Cetes, king of Egypt, i. 259, d, e. The fable of, whence, ibid. e.
 † — temple erected at Memphis, 260, a. Various opinions about him, 259, (K).
Protopentes, a famed painter, protected by Demetrius, iii. 144, b. His Master-piece describ'd, ibid. (E).
 — a tool of Caligula's cruelty, v. 430, a, b.
Protoponus and Eon, the Adam and Eve of Sanchoniatho, i. 86, c, & (N). Their issue, ibid. c.
Protopaschites suppressed, vi. 469, c.
Provinces, Roman, divided into imperial and senatorial, v. 297, b. How governed, ibid. c. Regulated by Adrian, vi. 48, b, c.
Prudentius's character of Maxentius, vi. 242, b.
 † Prusæ, a city in Bithynia, describ'd, iii. 825, d, e. Taken by Triarius, 743, c. By the Scythians, vi. 174, c. By Orchanes, 639, c, d.
Prusias, king of Bithynia, assists the Rhodians, iii. 145, b. Joins with them in the Peace, ibid. f. Rejects Antiochus's offers, 558, c, d. Defeats the Pergamenian fleet, 772, & seq. Makes peace with Eumenes, 773. Invades Pergamos, 778, d, e. Treachery to Attalus, ibid. f. & seq. Forced to a peace by the Romans, 779, b, c. Treachery to his son, ibid. & seq. To Hannibal, 830. Mean behaviour at Rome, ibid. d—f. Taken by Triarius, 744, a. Deposed by his son, 780. Assassinated, 781. His character, 831, a, b.—Betrays Hannibal to the Romans, vii. 91, c.
Prytanes, chief magistrates at Corinth, ii. 392, f. at Athens their office, 437, d. A new set of them, 523, a. Of Rhodes their office, iii. 153, b, (F).
Prytanæum, the court of its power, &c. ii. 444, b. Abolish'd by Theseus, 366, c.
Prytanis king of Sparta wars with the Argives, ii. 404, e. — King of Bosphorus killed by his brother, iii. 842, d.
Pfalm xxii. in what sense repeated by Christ on the cross, iv. 241, a, (D). Its true lesson vindicated, ibid.
*Pfalm*s, how collected by Ezra, iv. 15, & seq. Their meter, elegance, &c. proved against bishop Hare, ibid. 16, 17, & (D).
Pfammenitus, the son of Amasis king of Egypt, i. 272, f. Defeated by Cambyces, ibid. Loses his kingdom, 273, b, c. His captivity and death, ibid. & seq. See also vol. ii. 96, c—d.
Pfammis, king of Egypt, dies in an expedition against the Ethiopians, i. 268, a, b.
Pfammiticus, I. king of one of the 12 toparchies of Egypt, i. 265, c. Falls out with the rest, and reduces the whole country, ibid. c, d. His extract, 260, a. Buildings, vast army, &c. ibid. b, c. Opens the Egyptian ports to strangers, ibid. c. Takes Azotus after a 29 years siege, ibid. d. Invites the Scythians in vast numbers, ibid. e, f. Expedient to find out the primitive language, 151 (V.) Dies 266, f.
Pfammiticus, second king of Egypt, i. 276, c. An inhuman prince, ibid. d.
Pfammutbis, king of Egypt, i. 277, b.
 † Pfsebo, Lake in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
 † — Island describ'd, ibid. (M).
 † Pfsecha, Pfsecha. Where situate, v. 302, c. Taken by Petronius, ibid. e, vii. 185, b, c.
Pfephium at Athens. What, ii. 493, b.
Pfilit, a kind of snake doctors, v. 156 (F).
 † Pfillis, a river in Bithynia, iii. 827, b.
 † Pfsebis describ'd, ii. 653. Besieged, ibid. Taken, 454.
 † Pfsebe's intrigue with young Cato, merrily punned, v. 165, a.
 † Pfyllii, who and where sit'd, vii. 171, b—d. Their tragical end, ibid. e.
 † Pterium, a city in Cappadocia, iii. 762, c.
 † Ptolemais, St. John de Acra, the ruins of, describ'd, 488, a.
 † Ptolemais describ'd, iii. 663, a. Betrayed to Antiochus, 676, c. Besieged by Alex. Jannæus, 660, a. Taken by Cleopatra, ibid. c.
 † Ptolemais, Barce, a city in Cyrenaica, vii. 169, c.
Ptolemais king of Thebes, ii. 375, c.
 — king of Egypt leagues with the Achæans, 375, c.
 — Cbennus's writings and character, vi. 51, sub not.
 — the astrologer, his writings, &c. 60, sub not.
Ptolemies of Egypt, a list of them, iii. 633, & seq.
Ptolemy Soter, his extract, iii. 624, & seq. Miraculous cure, 625, b. Sent to seize Bessus, 369, & seq. Defeats the Aspii, 386, d. His advice after Alexander's death, 417. Post and government, 418, a. 423, c. 625, c. Flourishing kingdom, 421, b. 626, a, b. Invaded by Perdiccas, 422, c. Allies with Seleucus, 432, a. Takes Syria from Antigonus, ibid. & seq. Beaten out of it, 433. Succours the Rhodians, 141. Whence named Soter, 143, f. 625, c, d. Defeated by Demetrius, 436, & seq. Takes the title of King, 437, b. 626, b. Allies with Antigonus, 439.

- 439, & seq. Invades Judea, &c. 440, d. Makes his son colleague, 626, c. Builds the tower of Pharos, ibid. & seq. Procures the Sinoian Serapis, 627, & seq. Found the Alexandrian library, 629, & seq. and museum, 630. His death and character, 631, c, d. Subdues the Jews, iv. 30. Kindness to them, 31, a, b. 35, a. Issue, 632, b.
- Ptolemy Ceraneus* disinherited, iii. 626, d, e. 632, c. Persecuted by Lyfimachus, 468, e, f. Treachery to Seleucus, 469, b. 521, c. 632, d. Seizes the Macedonian crown, 521, c. 632, e. Treachery to Arsinoe, 469, f. 632, & seq. Slain by the Gauls, 470, a, b. 633, a.
- Philadelphus* succeeds his father, 633. Enmity to Demetrius Phaler. ibid. e. Marries his sister Arsinoe, ibid. & seq. Embassy to Rome, 634. Invites Magas, 635. Improves the Egyptian commerce, &c. ibid. & seq. Kindness to the Sicyonians, 636, e. Love to Arsinoe, 637, e. Death and character, ibid. & seq. Works, 639, & seq. Friendship to the Jews, iv. 37, b. Procures a version of the bible, ibid. & seq. & (O). Embassy to Rome, 647.
- Evergetes*, whence so called, 527, b. 639, c. His conquests, ibid. d, e. Sacrifices to the God of Israel, 640, a. Improves his father's library, ibid. b. Kindness to Joseph the Jew, 641, pass. His conquests, 642, b, c. Assists Cleomenes, ibid. c, d. His death and character, ibid. e, f.
- Philopater*, why so called, iii. 643, a. Cruel character, ibid. b, c. Peace with Antiochus, 644, e. Persecutes the Jews, ibid. & seq. Takes them into favour, 645, d, e. Receives a Roman embassy, ibid. & seq. Murders his wife, 646, c. Attempt on the Jewish temple punished, iv. 42, & seq. His death, &c. ibid. & seq.
- Epiphanes* born, 646, b. Succeeds his father, 647, & seq. Invaded by Philip and Antiochus, 542, & seq. Protected by the Romans, ibid. & seq. 648, d. Degrades into a tyrant, 647, b. Allies with Rome and the Achæans, ibid. e, f. Poisoned, 650, a.
- Philometor* succeeds his father, 650, b. Invaded by Antiochus, ibid. c. & 575. Taken by him, 576, a. Restored to his crown, 578, d. 650, c. Divides his kingdom with Physcon, ibid. d, & 579, a. Goes to Rome, 580, e. 650, f, & seq. Speech to the senate, 651, b, c. Opposed by Physcon, ibid. d, e. Rejects the Roman decree in his favour, 652, e. Defeats him, 653, d. Marches into Judea, 597, & seq. Allies with Demetrius, 598, b, c. Re-inthrones him, ibid. e, f. Falls out with him, 593, e. His death and character, 599, & seq. 653, & seq. Favour to the Jews, 654, c. and to their High Priest, ibid. 80, & seq.
- Physcon* disputes the crown with his brother, 577, b. 650, pass. Divides it with him, ibid. Outs him, ibid. & seq. Goes to Rome, 577, b. 651. Attempt on Cyprus, 652, d. Repulsed by the Cyrenians, ibid. e, f, 653, b. Defeated and carested by Philometor, ibid. d. Cruelty to his son and widow, 654, d, e. to the Jews and Egyptians, ibid. & seq. Awkward reception of the Roman ambassadors, 656, b, c. Driven out for his cruelties, 657, c. Returns, 651, a. Sets up Zebina against Demetrius, 611, a, b. Defeats him, 613, a. 658, b. His death, learning, &c. ibid. & seq.
- Latyrus*, why so called, 658, f, & seq. Dethroned by his mother, 659. Defeats the Jewish king, 660. A bloody action of his, ibid. f. Driven out of Judea, 661, a. (iv. 98, b.) Restored to his kingdom, 662, b, c. Takes Thebes, 663, c. His death, 664, c.
- Auletes*, an effeminate prince, 666, d, e. Driven out of his kingdom, 667, a, b. Interview with Cato, ibid. c, d. Retires into the Ephesian asylum, 669, c. Bargains with Gabinius, 670, c, d. Restored to his crown, 671, d. His cruelties, ibid. & seq. Death, 672, c. See also vol. v. 151, e, & seq.
- his son drives his sister from the crown, 673, & seq. Stirs up the Alexandrians against Cæsar, 675. Treachery to him, 677, & seq. Defeated, 678, c, d. Drowned, ibid. e.
- the son of Pyrrhus left regent at Epirus, 806, e. Subdues the Thessalonians, 816, d. Killed, 817.
- the son of Alexander, his short reign, 820, e.
- prince of Chalcis, 854, a. Puts his son to death, ibid. c.
- the son of Seleucus killed at Issus, iii. 335, e.
- the son of Latyrus, his wealth and sordidness, 184, e, f. Stript of Cyprus by the Romans, 185. Kills himself, ibid. f.
- a natural son of Amyntas, 285, f. His treasons, 286, b-f.
- general of Antigonus, his treachery, 462, b. Poisoned by the king of Egypt, 440, d.
- Macron* tent against Judas Maccabeus, iv. 58, e. Turned out by Lyfias, 63.
- the treacherous son in law of Simon, 88, pass. His perfidy and parricide, ibid. & seq. Ill success against Hyrcan, 89, b, c, & (I).
- N^o II. Vol. VII.
- Ptolemy Menneus's* kindness to Aristobulus's family, 116, d.
- king of Cyprus deposed by Clodius, v. 116, c, d.
- the son of Cleopatra made king of Phenice, 285, a.
- king of Mauritania complimented by Tiberius, 421, c.
- Massacred by Caligula, 478, c, d. His descent, ibid. (Z).
- a friend of Otho incenses him against Caligula, 592, f.
- the son of Juba, his pedigree, vii. 157, (S).
- † Prychia island, where situated, 241, b.
- Publicans*, when first created at Rome, iv. 679, d. Suppressed by Nero, v. 528, a, b.
- Publicola*, Gellius, one of the commanders at Actium, v. 291, & seq.
- chosen consul, 478, c.
- Publius*, a plebeian chosen prætor, iv. 604, a. Triumphs over Paleopolis, 607, e.
- † Pulo. See Pulo, 613.
- a young slave cruelly used by Papirius, 608, b.
- Pubol* defeated by Pompey, v. 98, e.
- Publius Malleolus's* parricide and punishment, v. 36, e.
- a famed Syrian pantomime, 168, (P).
- Mark an astrologer put to death, 388, b.
- ill success in Spain, vii. 48, d, e.
- † Pucetia described, iv. 412. Whence so called, 416, e.
- Pudens* at thirteen years of age wins the prize of poetry, vi. 16, b.
- † Pudni, a city in Arabia Felix, vii. 244, a.
- Pul*, Pbul, and by the Septuagint Pbu, i. 888, (W). The supposed founder of the Assyrian monarchy, ibid. a. Who, ibid. & not. Gives 1000 talents from the king of Israel, 889, a. See vol. ii. 9, b.
- Pulcheria*, daughter of Theodosius, born, vi. 390, f. Her death and character, 406, e, f.
- daughter of Arcadius, her character, 455, a. Takes the administration upon her, 470, c. Her signal piety, ibid. Marries her son to Eudocia, 473, a. Her death and character, 493, c, f.
- sister of Theodosius, her stratagem to make him read what he signed, 490, e. Resigns after his death, 492, a. Marries Marcianus, ibid. & seq. Her death, donations, &c. 496, d.
- Pulcio* Titus attacked by Cæsar, v. 141, b.
- Pulio*, a German of extraordinary strength, v. 337, b.
- Pullio's* treachery to Mithridates and Iberus, iii. 711.
- Pullus*, Jun. chosen consul, iv. 672. Sails to the siege of Lilybæum, 673, & seq. Suffers a dreadful shipwreck, 674, c. His death, ibid. d.
- Pulvilius*, Horatius, chosen consul, iv. 474, a. Consecrates the Capitol, 477, c.
- Pumice-Stones* cast up by the sea, iii. 215, f. 216, a.
- Punic* war, the first, the causes of, iv. 652, & seq. Ended, 683. 2d, 692, & seq. Concluded, 747, & seq. 3d proclaimed, 770, & seq. See also vii. 1, & seq. 6, e, f. End of it, 84, pass.
- tongue allied to the Hebrew, vi. 697, & seq. pass. Its numbers of the same nature, 700.
- Punishments* among the Jews before the captivity, i. 672, & seq.
- among the Persians, ii. 61, d. 134, not.
- among the Macedonians, iii. 266, a.
- how regulated by Solon, ii. 433, d.
- Pur* in the Phœnician history, who, i. 87, a.
- Purim* or Lots, the Jewish feast of, i. 611, a.
- Puruli*, the last rank of Athenian citizens, ii. 438, a.
- Purple* of Elis famed, ii. 405, (B).
- fish, plentiful in Gætulia, vii. 161, a.
- why worn by the Macedonian nobles, ii. 264, b.
- † Purpuraria Insule, where, vii. 147, a. Whether the modern Madeiras, ibid. (G).
- † Puteoli regulated by Sylla, v. 84, a. Damaged by an earthquake, 659, c.
- the monstrous bridge of, 470, & seq.
- the games of, instituted, vi. 57, d.
- Putienus* chosen emperor by the senate, vi. 156, e, f. His mean extract and rise, ibid. & seq. Excellent character, 157, a, b. March against the Maximins, ibid. f, & seq. Swift return to Rome, 159, c. Fills it with utmost joy, ibid. f, & seq. Insulted by the Pretorian guards, 160, f, & seq. Murdered by them, 161, b.
- † Pydna, a city in Macedon, iii. 256. Subdued by Archelaus, 284, a, b. by Philip, 290, d. Besieged by Cassander, 478.
- the battle of, ii. 687, d.
- Pygmalion* king of Tyre's murder of Sichæus, i. 415, f. Said to have built Carpathia in Cyprus, 416, c. Presents to Hercules's temple at Gades, ibid. d. See also vol. iii. 145, f, & seq. vi. 719, e. Over-reached by Dido, vi. 720, b, c.
- † Pygmies, where sited, vii. 183, c, d.
- Pylades*, the faithful friend of Orestes, ii. 357, e.
- bold speech to Augustus, v. 312, f.
- a famed gladiator, vi. 12, d.
- † Pylæum, the grand council of Greece, ii. 711.

- † Pyle Cilicia described, ii. 340, b.
† Pylus, three cities of that name, ii. 706, (V).
† Pylus, the promontory of, ii. 508. Fortified by the Athenians, ibid. c. Taken by the Lacedemonians, 527, d.
Pyrrhus king of Eubœa slain by Hercules, iii. 250, c.
Pyramidal figure, why used in monuments, i. 186, c.
† Pyramids of Egypt, about 20 in number, described, 183, c. Whence so named, ibid. f. By whom built, 184, a. & seq.
— others long since ruined, 185, a. When built, ibid. c. Why, ibid. f.
— three of the most famed described, 184, b. 186, & seq. Dimensions of the first, ibid. c, d, & seq. Its in and outside, 187, a—e.
2d Pyramid described, 190, c, & seq. Priests lodging near it, ibid. f.
3d and 4th Pyramids, ibid. & seq. How built, 191, f. Ancient inscriptions on them, 184, e.
† Pyramus river in Cilicia, ii. 341, d.
Pyrates swarmed in Ancient Greece, ii. 346, b. & alibi pass.
— take J. Cæsar prisoner, v. 9, b. Crucified by him, ibid. d. Cause a famine in Rome, 92, b. Defeated by Servilius, 95, c. Whence called Phafelli, ibid. (I). Defeat M. Antony, ibid. & seq. Supported by Mithridates, 100, b. Their strength and horrid cruelties, ibid. c, d.
† Pyrene, the famed fountain of, at Corinth, ii. 391, c.
Pyreneans submit to Scipio, iv. 708, c.
† — mountains, where, and why so called, vii. 307, (K). Set all on fire, [323] d, c.
† Pyreum, one of the havens of Athens, ii. 361, b. 476. Improved by Themistocles, 478. Demolished by Lysander, 530. Garrisoned by Demet. Polyorctes, 556, f. Sold to the Athenians, 557, c. Rebuilt by Adrian, 742.
† Pyrra, a city in Lesbos, overturned, iii. 203, c.
† Pyrræa, an ancient name of Thessaly, ii. 387.
Pyrric dance, what, iii. 168, a.
Pyrrus, the son of Achilles, ii. 381, c.
— 1st king of Epirus, his extract, iii. 799. Killed before Troy, ibid. b, c.
— 11d, his descent, iii. 803, f. Brought up by Glaucias, 464, b. 804, a, b. Allies with Demetrius, ibid. c, & 443, b. with Ptolemy, ibid. e, f. Drives Demetrius out of Macedon, 467, d. Made king of it, 468, b. Outed by Lyfimachus, ibid. c. Recovers it from Gonatus, 471, d. Succours the Tarentines, 805. His projects wittily checked by Cyneas, ibid. e, f, & seq. Sails for Italy, 806, c. His wives and children, ibid. (L). Reforms the Tarentines, 807, d, e. Outwitted by Aristarchus, 808, b, c. Haughty letter to the Roman consul, ibid. d. Defeats him, 809, & seq. Forced back from Rome, 810, e. Receives an embassy from thence, 811. His offers rejected by the senate, 812. Message to Decius, ibid. e. Defeated by Sulpitius, 813. In danger of poison, 814. Invited into Italy, 88, & seq. Oppresses the Sicilians, 89. Defeated at sea, 90, e, 814. Cruel revenge on the Locrians, ibid. Sacrilege and punishment, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Curius, 815, c, d. Returns to Epirus, ibid. & seq. Seizes on Macedon, 816. Unsuccessful attempt on Greece, ibid. d, e. against Argos, ibid. & seq. Defeats the Spartans, 817. Enters Argos, ibid. e. Killed by a woman, 818, d. His character, ibid. & seq. See also vol. ii. 622,—624.
— general of Ætolia defeated by Philip, ii. 666, d. and vol. vi. 814, a—c. His prophetic farewell to Italy, ibid. d, e.
— 111d, murdered, iii. 820, c.
— the worthless patriarch of Constantinople, vi. 544, c. Flees into Afric, ibid. &c. Betrays Antioch, 615, f.
Pythagoras's doctrine of two self-existent principles, viz. God and Matter, i. 25, c. His dyad and monad, what, ibid. d. Why he abstained from beans, 26, a. His theology, whence borrowed, 26, & seq. 222, c. How he was admitted to the knowledge of it, 223, a, b. A further account of him, &c. iii. 194, (O). His doctrine held by the Essenians, iv. 171, c. His journey into Gaul, vii. 375, (V), 361, (E).
— tyrant of Ephesus, ii. 755, c.
— Nero's catamite and husband, v. 546, c.
Pythagoreans, their reasons why God should be called Tetractys, i. 26, b, c.
Pythia's admirable constancy, v. 543, (I).
Pythian games in honour of Apollo, ii. 382, b, & not.
† Pythion, a city in Thessaly, ii. 832.
Pythius, a Lydian immensely rich, ii. 331, c.
Pythion sent to reduce Musicianus, iii. 400. His lot after Alexander's death, 423, c. Slain by Ptolemy, 433.
— a serpent killed by Apollo, ii. 382, b, & not.
Pythoneis, the woman who delivered the oracle at Delphos, ii. 347, (F).
— their frequent cheats and evasions, 359, d.
† Pytus taken by the Borani, vi. 174, c.—
- Q
† Quaderna taken by Maximus, vi. 412, c.
† Quadi, who, and where sited, v. 396, (O). vii. 403, d. 602, d. Their cities, &c. ibid. Wars with Rome, ibid. e. Submit to Antoninus, ibid. & seq. (vi. 56, f.) New peace with Commodus, 603, a, b. Ravage Illyricum, ibid. b, c. Defeated by Carus, ibid. d. Fresh ravager, ibid. d, e. Peace with Constantius, ibid. e, f. New ravages and conquests, ibid. & seq. in Gaul, 604, b, c. Invaded by Domitian, v. 678, d. Put him to a shameful flight, ibid. e. Revolt against M. Aurelius, vi. 66, b, c. Driven out of Pannonia, 69, c, d. Over-reach the Romans, 71, a, b. Destroyed by a miraculous fire, ibid. & seq. Sue for peace, 73, a. Break it, ibid. b. Defeated and punished, ibid. c, d. by Probus, 173, f. by Regilianus, 175, b. Invade Pannonia, 296, c. 303, b. and Illyricum, 361, d, e. Defeat the Romans, 362, b, c. Waste their country, 388, a, b. Their end, vii. 604, d.
Quadratus Numidius governor of Syria, iii. 711, d. Message to Vologeses, 730, d. iv. 264, a. Severity to the Jews, ibid. (A).
— Seius's arraignment, v. 444, b.
— apology for the christians, vi. 48, e.
Quadrigati, a coin so called, whence, vii. 36, (O).
Quadrimes first invented by the Carthaginians, vi. 710, a, b.
Quadruplatores, informers, why so called, vi. 131, f.
Quails sent to the Israelites, falsely supposed locusts, i. 509, (Q).
† Quarantana, the supposed mount where the devil tempted our Saviour, i. 583, a.
Quartinus chosen emperor, vi. 152, c. Betrayed and murdered, ibid. d.
Questors at Rome, their office, iv. 473, a. New disputes about it, 552. Their number augmented by Cæsar, v. 178, a. and power enlarged, 322. At Carthage, their office, &c. vi. 678, b, c.
— Provincials instituted, iv. 650, d. Their limits, ibid. e.
Quietus, the son of Macrianus, chosen tribune, 178, a. Left in Syria, 180, e. Killed by the Emefians, ibid. f.
Quince-tree, whence brought, iii. 160, d.
Quincbanus conspires against Nero, v. 551, & seq. Informs against his accomplices, 553, b, c, & seq.
Quintilia, an actress, her signal bravery, v. 482, b.
Quintilian reproved by Tiberius, v. 445, d.
— wounds Commodus, vi. 88, a.
Quintiliani, Lupercalian priests, whence so called, iv. 422; in fin. not.
Quinctius, Tit. Flam. See Flaminius, ii. 669, & seq.
— Luc. ravages Carystia, iii. 147, c.
— T. his wife measures against Volero, iv. 514, & seq. Appeases the Plebeians, 516, a. Success against the Æqui, ibid. c. against the Volsci, &c. 517, e. Made proconsul, 518, b. Dictator, 576, d. Subdues the Preneftines, ibid. c.
— Cincinnatus's defence of his son, 520, c. Retires to his farm, 521, f. Chosen consul, 525, c. Admirable policy, ibid. & seq. Chosen dictator, 527, a. Defeats the Æqui, ibid. d, e. Abdicates, 528, a. Timely advice to the senate, ibid. f. Success against the Volsci, ibid. & seq. Chosen inter-rex, 546, f. Consul, ibid. Dictator, 548.
— the son of Lucius defeated by the Volsci, 549, f.
— Pennis chosen dictator, 587, e. Severity to the Tarquinies, 591, d. Forced to head the revolt, 598, d.
— Cæle's bold opposition against the Plebeians, 520, b. Trial, ibid. d, e. Banishes himself, 521, c, f. Recalled, 528, a.
— Crispinus chosen consul, 734, d. Surprized and wounded, 735, b. Death, ibid. f.
— Lælius chosen consul, 753, c.
— a senator degraded, 759.
— defeated by Lucullus, v. 72, d.
— an officer of Dolabella betrays Laodicea, 219, c.
— D. slain by the Carthaginians, vii. 59, c.
† Quinda, where, iii. 441, d. The treasure of, plunder'd, ibid.
Quinquatrus, the festival of, v. 531, b.
† Quinquecentiani, who, and whence so called, vi. 209, c. Over-run Afric, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Maximian, 211, b.
Quinqueremes, a fleet of, built by the Romans, iv. 677, b. By whom invented, vi. 755, a.
Quinquevirate at Carthage, what, vi. 676.
Quintili, the two brothers, their consulship and high merit, vi. 58, c. Put to death by Commodus, 88, d.
Quintilian the orator, where born, vii. 313, f.
Quintilius Varus put to death, v. 257, d.

Quintilius

Quintilius Plantianus put to death by Severus, vi. 117, c.
 — Marcellus, one of Alexander's counsellors, 138, c.
Quintilius, the brother of Claudius, proclaimed emperor, v. 137, f. His death, ibid.
 — success against the Goths, vii. 487, c.
 — Quintinus's unhappy expedition against the Franks, vii. 557, d, e. See also vol. vii. 413, d, e.
Quintus Lutat. See Catulus, v. 33, e, (K).
 — Pedius, one of Cæsar's heirs, 189, c.
 — Cicero's brother. Vid. sub Cicero, 124, & seq.
 — Veranius made governor of Cappadocia, 395, c.
 — Severus governor of Comagene, 395, d, e. Saves himself by informing, 444, b, c.
 — Carinus's anachronism about the Tyrian embassy rectified, vi. 787, d.
Quirinalis, Clodius, accused, v. 525, c. Kills himself, ibid.
Quirinus, Romulus, why so called, iv. 434, e.
 — the temple of, built by Papyrius, 637, & (Z).
 — Publius chosen governor to Caius, v. 329, c. Good offices to Tiberius, ibid. & 330, c. Sent governor of Judea, 336, b. Interceeds in vain for Libo, 387, d. Sues the divorced Lepida for adultery, 407, b, c. His death and public funeral, 410, c, d. Character, ibid. & seq.
Quirita, whence so called, iv. 411, b, 431, (C).
 † Quisla, where situate, vii. 114, c.

R.

† R Amab, Rbagma, where situate, i. 164, d.
 † Rabbab, metropolis of the Ammonites, i. 293, a.
 Og's large bed kept at, ibid. b. Taken and destroyed by Joab, 292, c. Whence called since Philadelpia, 293, c.
 Taken by Antiochus, iii. 538, a.
Rabbirus, Auletes's usurer, in. 670, & seq. Requite by him, 672, a. Prosecuted by the senate, ibid. b.
Rabshakeb. See below Rabshakeb.
Rabulius's crafty speech to the Roman consul, iv. 504, d.
Racbel, Laban's daughter, given to Jacob, i. 440, c. 441, a. Brought to bed of Joseph, 442, b. Steals her father's gods, 443, & (R). Dies in labour of Benjamin, 448, c. Buried at Ephrath, ibid. e. Her pretended miraculous tomb, 582, d.
Racibis chosen king of the Lombards, vii. 709, a. His new edict, ibid. c. Turns monk, ibid. d, e. His statue at Barletta, ibid. (A). Diverted from resuming the crown, 715, d.
Racius, Constans, condemned for affronting Plautianus, vi. 116, c, d.
Rack, one of the Babylonish and Assyrian deities, i. 294, c.
Radagajus king of the Huns, invades the Romans, vi. 447, f, & seq.
 — 11d formidable invasion, 452, b—d. Defeat before Florence, ibid. & seq. Taken and put to death, 453, b.
 — repulsed by Stilicho, vii. 461, c, d.
 † Radiva mount, where, vii. 238, b.
 † Ræia, how divided, vii. [409] c.
 † Ræti, who, and where sited, [409] c, d.
 † Ragaba, where, iv. 102, b. Besieged by Alex. Janneus, ibid.
Ragajus, when he reigned over the Franks, vii. 551, a.
 † Rages, a city of Media, ii. 2, d.
Ragilo slain by the Franks, vii. 681, a.
Raguacharius king of the Franks, vii. 566, c. Assists Clovis against the Romans, ibid. & seq. Betrayed and murdered by him, 579, f.
Raguel, the same as Jethro, i. 301, (F).
 † Rabab of scripture supposed the Delta of Egypt, i. 176, c.
 — the harlot spared at the siege of Jericho, i. 330. Her reception of the spies, 544, a. Rather a hostess than harlot, ibid. (X). Preserved from the common slaughter, 556, a. Married to Salmon, ibid. & c.
Rain, whether any on the primitive earth, i. 111, b, c.
 — of stones which fell on the Canaanites examined, 564, b, c, & seq.
Rainbow, whether any before the flood, i. 111, c.
Ram-battering described, vi. 750, (O).
Ram-Berfius's success against Nouchizad, iv. 393, c, d.
 † Ramefa, Moses's dwelling-place in Egypt, i. 502, a. Its distance from Canaan, ibid. b.
Ramifus ravages Palestine, vi. 539, c.
Rammus discloses Perseus's treachery to the Romans, iii. 485, a, b.
Ratax Legion, its furious onset against the Adjatrix, v. 610, b, c. Defeated by Pompey, 625, d.
Rape, how punished at Athens, ii. 432, b.
 † Raphia, where sited, iv. 550, (G). The battle of, 538, d. Taken by Alex. Janneus, iv. 99, b.
 † Rapbon, where situated, iv. 67, b.
 † Raptum, a premonitory in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
Rabshakeb, the Assyrian general's boasting speech to Hezekiah, i. 893, a.

Raspab ravages Asia, vii. 495, b.
 † Raribon, where, and by whom built, vii. [416] a.
Raven, why sent out of the ark by Noah, i. 106, & (N).
 † Ravenna besieged by Belisarius, vii. 662, d, e. Taken, 663, d. Erected into an exarchate, 679, c. Plundered by Luitprand, 707, & seq. Reduced into a dukedom, 703, b. Retaken by Scholasticus, ibid. d, e. The end of its exarchate, 710, d. Duration, 711, a. Given to the pope, 714, b, c.
 — bishops of, claimed the precedence of all others, 710, e, & seq.
 † Rauraci, who, and where seated, vii. 408, a.
 † Rauracum, where situate, vi. 290, d.
 — the battle of, ibid.
Raufimedes defeated and killed, vi. 257, a, b. vii. 608, d.
 † Rauwolf's account of the ruins of Babylon, i. 146, (M).
Raymond succeeds Gualtier in the crusade, vi. 615, a.
Razafes, a Persian general, defeated and killed, vi. 541, c, f.
Raxis, signal zeal for his religion, iv. 72, f. Desperate death, 73, a.
Reanus put to death by Helicabulus, vi. 136, a.
Reason, how far bound to yield to revelation, iv. 202, (M).
Rebak king or prince of Midian, i. 303, a.
Rebaptizers suppressed by Gratian, vi. 391, c. by Theodosius 11d, 469, f.
Rebecca born to Bethuel by Milkah, i. 431, d. Married to Isaac, 433, d. Barren 19 years, 436, a. Delivered of Esau and Jacob, 437, a. Favours the youngest, ibid. & c. Obtains the elder's blessing, 439, a.
Rebilus, Canin. kills himself, v. 525, f.
Reccard king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
Reccasimirus king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
Reccabites, who, and by whom founded, i. 820, (T). Some wild notions about them confuted, ibid. How far bound to his rule, 821. Benj. of Tudela's fabulous account of them, ibid.
Rechiarius crowned at Merida, vii. 544, a. His plunders, ibid. b. Peace with Rome, ibid. c. Invades it, ibid. d. Turns christian, 546, c. Invades Carthage, 512. Haughty answer to Theodoric, ibid. e. Defeated and put to death by him, 545, a.
Rechila, made king of the Suevi, vii. 543, c. Conquests, ibid. & seq. Death, 544, a.
Rechilus's success in Spain, vi. 488, f. Death, 489, c.
Rechimir king of the Visigoths, 492, c.
Reftores, among the Romans, their office, vi. 271, b.
 — in Italy, vii. 721, c.
 † Red Sea, or Arabian Gulph, i. 308, (I). Why called in Hebrew Yam Suph. ibid. and Eritrean, ibid.
Rediculus, a deity, why so called, iv. 728, (Q).
Reclajab, one of the heads of the Jewish return, iv. 4, b.
 † Refuge, cities of, among the Jews, i. 647, c. Their design, 648, a. Laws relating to them, ibid. c, d. The tabernacle and temple places also of Refuge, 649, d, & seq.
 † Regem river in Bohemia, vii. [415] a.
Regeneration preached by Christ to Nicodemus, iv. 201, b, c, (K).
Regillianus's success against the Sarmatians, vi. 175, b. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. c. His extract and rise, ibid. f, & seq. Murdered, 176, a. See also vol. vii. 607, d, e.
Regillus put to death by Commodus, vi. 91, d.
 † Regium, an imperial palace near Constantinople, vi. 437, f, & seq.
 † Regilus, the battle of, iv. 483, pass.
Regnares, killed for his treachery to Narfes, vii. 679, b, c.
 † Regni, in Britain, where sited, vii. 408, a, b.
Regnomer, murdered by Clovis, vii. 580, c.
 † Regnum, now Ringwood, vii. 408, b.
Reguli, in Gaul, their limited power, vii. 368, a, b, (D).
Regulus, P. M. appointed to try Sejanus, v. 439, d. Condemns him, 440, et seq.
 — Rofcius, his one day's consulship, 628, d.
 — Marc. the accuser of Jun. Rusticus, 685, d, e.
 — Attilius's success against the Carthaginians, vi. 835, et seq. Ravages Afric, 837, a, b. Kills a monstrous serpent, ibid. d. Defeats the Carthaginians, 838, b, c. High demands upon them, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated by Xantippus, 839, d, e. Taken prisoner, 840, b. Cruel treatment, ibid. c, d. Dismal end, 841, & seq. His widow's bloody revenge, 842, b, c, & (W).
Rebobaam succeeds Solomon, i. 804, d. His folly causes the ten tribes to revolt, 805, a. His death, 806, d.
 † Reboboth, the city of, where sited, i. 126, (B).
Rebum, one of the heads of the Jewish return, iv. 4, b.
 † Reidogothland. See Jutland, vii. 489, c.
Rekem, king of Midian, i. 303, a.
 † — city, the same with Petra and Jokteel, vii. 225, a.
Relics, the oldest consecration of them to be found in history, i. 138, (Y).

- Religious concerns committed to the Areopagi, ii. 441, f.
 — war, the first waged by the christians, vi. 250, c, d.
 † Reman surrender'd to Sapor, vi. 307, a.
Remigius, his extortions under Valentinian, vi. 349, b, c.
 — Strangles himself, 358, d, e.
 — bp. converts the Franks, vii. 569, d, e. His character, ibid. f.
Remismund, ravages Lusitania, vi. 506, & seq. vii. 513, e, 514, e, and Galicia, 545. Succeeds Malera, 546, a.
 Peace with Theodoric, ibid. c, d. Broken, 547, a. Ravages Lusitania, ibid. c. Peace with Euric, ibid. d. Death, ibid. e.
Remora, a shell-fish which stop'd Caligula's Galley, v. 480, A.
Remphan, one of the Jewish idols in the wilderness, i. 531, b. Some conjectures concerning it, vi. 682, et seq. & (P).
 † Remuria, the burying place of Remus, iv. 424, (K).
Remus, taken up by Faustulus, iv. 422, b. Falls out with his brother, 423, c. Killed, 424, a, (K).
 † Repbaim, or vale of giants, where, &c. i. 574, a.
 — one of the ten nations of Canaan, 322, N.
 — a gigantic race that reigned there, 324, e. Whether the Gephyreci who followed Cadmus into Greece, ibid.
 † Repbidim, the place where Moses smote the miraculous rock, i. 511, a.
 † Repta, where, iv. 150, (K). The receptacle of the Jewish banditti, ibid.
Requarius. See Rellicarius, vi. 489, et seq. vii. 544, et seq.
 † Resem city, where situate, i. 126, (B).
Resmagas's interview with Adrian, vi. 37, a.
Reslio, saved by his generous slave, v. 226, f. et seq.
Resurrection, the state of, describ'd by Christ, iv. 231, et seq.
Retarii, net slingers, how they fought, ii. 422, (D).
 † Retiarium, taken by Attila, vi. 488, b, vii. 465, f. Described, ibid. (C).
 † Retimo, a city in Crete, described, iii. 161, d.
Reu, the supposed author of sundry inventions, i. 131.
Reuben, Jacob's first-born, i. 441, b. What mandrakes he found, ibid. (Y). His incest, 448, e. Saves Joseph from being murdered, 449, c, &c. His lot in the promised land, 569, c.
Reuda, heads the Scots into Britain, vii. 404, b.
Revenge, at Rome, how regulated, iv. 650, c, d.
Reverendus, a vile minister of Gordian discarded, vi. 162, (U).
Rex, whence that word, vii. 368, (D).
 — Sacerotum, at Rome, his office, iv. 465, c. (R).
Rezin, last king of Syria, i. 389, b. League with Pekah against Ahaz, ibid. Vain attempt on Jerusalem, ibid. & seq. His colony at Elath, ibid. Plunders Judea, 390, a. Defeated and killed, ibid. et seq.
Rezon, first king of Damascus, revolts from Hadadezer, i. 382, b. Found a kingdom there, ibid. e.
 † Rhabbotim, Phenice, why so called, i. 391, d.
 † Rha, Wolga, river in Scythia, ii. 267.
Rhadamanthus, whose son, iii. 163, f. His colonies, 164, a.
Rhadamistus, king of Iberia, iii. 836.
 — the son of Pharafrmenes cunningly sent into Armenia, 711, b, c. Treachery to his uncle, ibid. et seq. Seizes on his throne, 712, b, c. Outed, ibid. Put to death by his father, 714, c.
 † Rheti, who and where seated, v. 313, (E). Dreadful irruption into Italy, ibid. et seq. Defeated by Drusus, 314, a.
 † Rhetia, described, v. 314, sub not. Ravaged by the Franks, vi. 175, a, b. Peace with Constantius, 298, b, c. Invaded by the Suevi, 289, e.
 † Rhetinum, the dreadful siege of, v. 338.
 † Rhamanitis, where situate, v. 302, b.
 † Rhamnus, a city in Attica, ii. 361, e, & (B).
Rhamnusius. See below Rempbis.
Rhescipolis, joins Brutus and Cassius, v. 241, b. Conducts them to Philippi, 242, b. Forsakes Brutus, 249, b. Defeated and killed, 320, b.
Rhea, the daughter of Uranus, i. 136. Sister and wife to Saturn, ii. 260, b. — A Titaness, iii. 163, a.
 — Silvia, made a vestal, iv. 421, e. Her crime and punishment, 422, a.
 † Rhebus, Rhebecus and Rhebanus, a river of Paphlagonia, i. 167, a.
 † Rhegiens, defeated by Dionysius, iii. 55, e, f. Contemptuous answer to him, 57, d, & not. Murdered by the Campanians, iv. 648, c. Outwit the Carthaginians, vi. 776, & seq.
 † Rhegium, besieged by Dionysius, iii. 55, & seq. 57, e. Famished into a surrender, 58, c. Battered by Mago, vi. 815, a. Seized by Decius, 820, e, f. Noble defence against Hannibal, vii. 41, b.
Rheims, the states of, convoke those of Gaul, v. 643, a. Resolve upon a peace, ibid. b.
Rhemetalces defeated, v. 320, b. Besieged by the Odrysians, 409, c. Restored by Caligula, 464, d.
 † Rbeni, subdued by Cæsar, v. 219, d, 128, d, vii. 400.
Rbempbis, Rhamfininus, king of Egypt, i. 260, a. Builds the western portico of Vulcan's temple, ibid. b. His treasury plunder'd by the architect's sons, ibid. c—e. Said to have gone down into hell, 261, e.
 † Rbenea, island, described, vii. 231, & seq. The burying place of the Delians, 232.
Rbeob, the first sole king of Zobah, i. 382, a.
Rbecuporis, over-reached by Tiberius, v. 396, c, (P). His death, ibid. d.
 † Rbetia, ravaged by the Franks, vi. 175, a, b. Peace with Constantius, 298, b, c. Invaded by the Suevi, 299, e.
Rbettianus, conspires against Caracalla, vi. 128, c.
 † Rbetium, a city in Asia, taken by some fugitives, ii. 501.
Rbetra, Lycurgus's laws, why so called, ii. 567, a. Approved by the Delphic oracle, 568, c. How enforced on the Lacedæmonians, ibid. & seq.
 † Rbetum, a city in Phrygia Minor, ii. 305, b.
 † Rbine river, used for trying the fidelity of wives, vii. 334, a, (I). Its head and course, [414], d, e. Three mouths, ibid. & vol. v. 382, (Q). Fortified by Valentinian, 351, e, 355, a.
 † Rbing, the royal palace of the Huns, where, vii. 485. Plunder'd, ibid.
 † Rbinocolura, in Egypt, where and by whom built, i. 259, c.
 † Rbifophagi, who and where seated, vii. 183, e, 184, c. Infested with lions, 200, d, e.
Rbodagune, given to Nicator, iv. 292, e.
Rbodanes, bp. banished, vi. 298, c.
Rbodanus, burnt alive for extortion, vi. 355, c.
 † Rhodes island described, iii. 139, & seq. Whence so called, ibid. (Z). By whom peopled, 131, e. Taken and plunder'd by Cassius, v. 235, d, e. Made a Roman province, 650, d. Overturn'd and rebuilt by Antoninus, vi. 59, a. Conquered by the Saracens, 554, d. Plundered, 561, e.
 — the knights of, settle in Malta, 131, d.
 — the Colossus of, its first shake, vi. 37, c. See also Colossus, iii. 131, & seq.
 — writers, an account of, iii. 133, d.
Rhodians, outwit the Grecian states, iii. 131, b, 146, a, b. Expert mariners, 132, f, & seq. Their government, kings, &c. 133 & seq. Become a commonwealth, 134, f. Join in the social war, 135, b. Peace with Athens, 136, a. Oppress'd by the Carians, ibid. b. Subdued by Artemisia, ibid. c, d. Recover their freedom, 137, b, c. Surrender to Alexander, ibid. d. War with Antigonus, 138, & seq. Peace with him, 143, e. Gratitude to Ptolemy, ibid. War with the Byzantines, 144, & seq. Peace with them, 145, f. War with Philip of Macedon, 146, & seq. Defeat in Caria, 148, b. Message to Antiochus, ibid. d, e. Defeat at sea, 149, & seq. Send Eudamedus with a new fleet, 150, c. Defeat that of Syria, 151. Rewarded by the Romans, 152, b. Complained against by the Lycians, ibid. c. Join the Romans against Perseus, 153, c. Haughtily embassy to the senate, 154, a, b. Humbled by them, ibid. & seq. Admitted to a fresh alliance, 156, d. Invaded by Mithridates, 157, c. Defeated at sea by Cassius, 158, c. Subdued by him, ibid. & seq. Ally with Perseus, 484, b. Haughty message to Antiochus, 544, f. Signal services to Cæsar, 676, & seq. Confederacy against the Athenians, ii. 542. Assist them against Philip, 699, 733. Repulse Pompey's friends, v. 148, c. Embassy to Cassius, 234, d, e. Twofold defeat at sea, 235, c, d. In high favour with Antony, 260, d. Disfranchised by Claudius, 497, c. Restored by Nero, 514, e. Settle in Spain, vii. [323].
Rhodabartes, 2d king of Pontus, iii. 724, a.
 † Rhodope, a mountain in Thrace, iii. 787, d.
Roloftis, mistress to Charaxus, the pretended builder of one of the Egyptian pyramids, i. 184, b. The occasion of that story, 185, b.
 † Rbolfi, a people on the Rhos, or Araxes, i. 167, e.
Rhymetalces defeats the two Batos, v. 336, c.
Ricared king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, e.
Ricbarius murdered by Clovis, vii. 579, f, & seq.
Ribes despised by the Scythians, ii. 272, b.
Ricbomeris sent against the Goths, vi. 381, e. Arrival at Valens's camp, 383, c. Vain efforts to make him stay for Gratian, 387, f. Success against the Saracens, 402, c. Consulship, extract, &c. 403, a, b.
Ricimer's success against Genserik, vi. 503, d. Rise and character, ibid. e, f. Deposes Avita, ibid. f, & seq. Causes Marjoranus to revolt, 404, c, & seq. Treachery to him, 406, d, e. Raises Severus to the throne, ibid. e. Absolute sway during the inter-regnum, 508, a, b. Marries Anthemius's

- nius's daughter, ibid. e. Revolts and besieges him in Rome, 511, b. Puts him to death, ibid. c. Dies, ibid. d. See also vol. vii. 551, 535, & seq.
- Ricomar promoted by Theodosius, vi. 392.
- † Ruisland, where, vii. 489, d.
- † Rimini, Ariminum, where situate, vii. 17, a. Taken by the Lombards, 622, b. by the Romans, 658, b. Besieged by the Ostrogoths, ibid. d. Relieved, 659, b.
- Rimmon*, an idol of the Syrians, i. 371, c. Why so called, ibid. (D).
- Rings*, whether worn at Rome by any but Roman knights, iv. 715, (P). Three bushels of them sent by Hannibal to Carthage, ibid. a.
- Riobani*, one of the kings of Britain, vi. 400, f.
- king of Bretagne defeated by Euric, 510, c. vii. 454, d. 515, b.
- † Riphaean mountains, where, ii. 226, & not. Uninhabited, 268, (B).
- people mentioned by Pliny, i. 167, a.
- † Riphat, Riphath, one of Gomer's sons, where seated, 167, a. ii. 266, (B).
- † Ripuarian Franks, who, and where sited, vii. 568, d. Proclaim Clovis their king, 578, d. Their territories, 579, a. Character, laws, &c. ibid. b, c.
- † Riverines, who, and where sited, vi. 495, b.
- † Rivers that watered Eden, i. 55—57, pass.
- worshipped by the Carthaginians, vi. 691, & seq. by the Gauls and Germans, vii. 334, a. 350, (F), 351, (G), 416, & seq.
- Riyan* king of Egypt when Joseph was sold there, i. 280, f.
- Rizpah*, one of Saul's concubines, piety to him and her sons, i. 788, b.
- Roas*, Rougas, king of the Huns, defeated and killed, vii. 462, d. (B). Succeeded by Attila and Bleda, 464, b.
- Robbers* (warmed in Ancient Greece, ii. 346, b.
- Robert* crowned Latin Emperor, vi. 630, a, b. Defeated by John Ducas, ibid. c. His death, and the occasion of it, ibid. e, f.
- † Robur, the fortress of, where, and by whom built, vi. 361, d.
- † Rocheaillé, the castle of, by whom built, vi. 463, (O).
- Rod of Moses*, stories of the Rabbits concerning it, i. 439, (Q). Turned into a serpent, &c. 494, c.
- Roderic* king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
- Rodwald* defeats the Slavonians, vii. 692, c. Made duke of Benevento, ibid. Dies, ibid. d.
- king of the Lombards murdered, 692, e.
- Rodolinda*, and her son, seized by Grimoald, vii. 693, d.
- Rodolphus* defeated by the Lombards, vi. 599, f. 617, a.
- Roger* king of Sicily, wars with Manuel, vi. 619. Peace with him, ibid. d.
- † Roma, Rome, whence so called, iv. 424, (L).
- † Romania, Romagna, where, whence so called, vi. 452, a. Submits to Luitprand, vii. 704, f. Given to the pope, 714, b.
- † Roman Fortune, the temple of, built, vi. 36, c. Destroyed, ibid. d.
- senate's partiality to Herod, iv. 126. The rest see under Senate and Romans.
- empire visited with pestilence, iv. 321, c, d. When, and by whom first instituted, 427, b. Enlarged by Tarquin, 447, d, e. Decree against Tarquin the Proud, 466. Restored by the consuls, 468, c. Contest with the Tribunes, 493, &c. Its beginning, v. 297, c. Extent, revenue, &c. ibid. e. Strength, 298, a, b.
- legions, their mutiny and outrages in Gaul, 641, & seq. Swear allegiance to the Gauls, 642, c, d. Their dismal end, ibid. d, e.
- slaves redeemed by the Achæans, ii. 674, b—f, & seq.
- Romans*, their origin, government, kings, &c. iv. 429, & seq. First alliance with the Jews, 73, & seq. Style Hyrcan king, 92, (Q). Friendship to the Jewish nation, ibid. & seq. Defeated by the Parthians, 303. Wars with the Latins, 444, & seq. Gratitude to Poisenia, 477, a, b. Alliance with Carthage, 594, et seq. Hemmed in by the Samnites, 611, a. Forced to pass under the yoke, 612. Retaliate the same to them, 616, e. First war with Carthage, 652, & seq. New-built fleet, 657, b. Shipwreck, 666, c. Peace with Carthage, 678, d. War with Illyricum, 685, & seq. New treaty with Carthage, 686, c. Superstitious butchery, ibid. f. Vast army against Gaul, 687, b. Complaint against Hannibal rejected, 692, d. Causes a new war, ibid. & seq. Defeat their fleet, 693, d. Surprized by them, 695, b. and defeated, 699. Massacred by the Gauls, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Hannibal, 701. at Thrasymentus, 704, & seq. in Apulia, 710, & seq. Surrender on hard terms, 712, c. Why not redeemed by the senate, 714, b, (O). War against Perseus, 761. Injustice to Demetrius, 765, & seq. Letter to him, 766, a, b. Ill success in Spain, 767. Third war with Carthage, 770. Demand its demolition, 771, & seq. Ill success against it, 775, & seq. Cause it to be destroyed, 779. Ill-luck in Spain, 774, 780, & seq. Treachery to Viriathus, 783. Defeated by the Numantines, 784, f. Treachery to them, Vol. VII. No. 11.
- 785, c, & seq. Disturbed by the Gracchian faction, 791, & seq. Invaded by the Cimbri, v. 5, & seq. 80000 killed by them, 28, e, f. War against Jugurtha, 6, & seq. Defeat in Lusitania, 29, a. Terrified at the second approach of the Cimbri, 37, a. Defeated by the allies, 49, c—e. by the Marci, 50, & seq. pass. Degenerate under Augustus, 297, e. under Nero, 535, pass. Forbid to follow the Gothic dress, vi. 439, b. Famine and distress in Spain, 462, e, f. Submit to the Barbarians, 463, a, b. Panic before Nisibis, 475, a, b. in Italy revolt from Leo, 553, b. Submit to the pope as a temporal prince, ibid. c. Treaty with Carthage discussed, 814, & seq. How early acquainted with sailing, 823, (G). Loss of their fleet, 843, a. & seq. Famine and pestilence in Sicily, 845, c, d. Harassed before Lilybeum, 847, & seq. Treachery to the Carthaginians, 854, & seq. Embassy to Hannibal, vii. 3, & seq. to Carthage, b, c. Frighted by omens, 10, c, d. 17, d, e. Their camp burnt, 18, d. New defeat, 21, & seq. at Cannæ, 30, & seq. by Mago, 55, pass. Success against him, 60, & seq. 82, & seq. Peace with the Carthaginians, 83, & seq. Betray them to Masinissa, 85, b. Jealousy against Hannibal, ibid. e, f. 86, c, d. Treachery to them, 93—95. Send Cato to them, ibid. & seq. New war against them, 97, b, c. Perfidy exposed, 99, & seq. Government in Britain, 416, & seq. Officers, 417, pass. Stations, 418, a—d. Give names to the principal towns, 419, c, d. Highways made there, ibid. & seq. Exhaust it of its prime youth, 420, b, c. Forsake it, 437, e. Driven out of part of Gaul, 509, & seq. 514, b. out of Spain, ibid. & seq. Defeated in Africa, 533, c, d. In dread of the Vandals, 534, a, b. Driven out of Gaul, 570. Invasion of Gaul, Germany, &c. see under these names.
- called into Sicily, iii. 93, a. Success there, 96, & seq. Treaty with Hiero, 98, c. 100, a. Embassy ill received at Syracuse, 102, b, c. War against Philip, 147, d. Alliance with Rhodes and Pergamos, ibid. e, f. Peace with the Macedonians, 148, b. 149, b. Join against Antiochus, 148, & seq. Gratitude to Eumenes, &c. 152, b. Answer to the Rhodian ambassadors, 154, b—f. 155, b, c. Fresh alliance with them, 156, d. War against Crete, 170, & seq. Conquest of it, 171, & seq. Take Cyprus by treachery, 184, d. Protect young Ptolemy, 542, f. and the free Cities of Asia, 545. First embassy to Antiochus, ibid. & seq. 24, 551, a. Success against him, 554, & seq. at Magnesia, 564, & seq. Peace with him, 565, & seq. The treaty at length, 566, (Q). Degeneracy from that time, 567, b, c. Partiality to Phylacon, 652, a, b. 653, a, b. Embassy to him, 656, a, b. Take possession of Cyprus, 666. War with Mithridates, 730, & seq. 150,000 massacred by his order, 731. Cruel revenge, 734, & seq. Defeated by him, 749, c. Joy at his death, 757, a, b.
- invited into Greece by the Ætolians, ii. 666, c. Peace with the Achæans, 669, c. Alliance with them, ibid. & seq. Send commissaries into Greece in favour of the Lacedæmonians, 679, & seq. Insincerity to the Achæans, 683, & seq. Tyranny over them, 685, b. 687, & seq. Affront their deputies, 693, b. 694, b. Ally with the Ætolians, 703, b. Surprized at Tanagra, 714, c. Send forces against Antiochus, 719, d. Distress the Ætolians, 720, & seq. Truce with them, 726, c. Peace, 730. Fresh opposition, ibid. & seq. Admitted to the mysteries of Ceres, 732. Reduction of the Athenians, 741, & seq. of the Bæotians, 743, & seq. of the Acarnanians, 745, & seq. of Epirus, 746, & seq.
- Romanus's* success against the Persians, iv. 360, d, e.
- poisoned by Nero, v. 544, b, c.
- extortions in Africa, vi. 349, a, b, & seq. Gains over Palladius, ibid. d, e. Arrested by Theodotus, 358, e. 359, d.
- defeats the Scenitzæ in Palestine, 520, a. Put to death by Phocas, 538, a.
- Zoe's General, his treason, 579, a, b. Cruelty to Leo, ibid. Assumes the purple, ibid. c. Allies with the Bulgarians, ibid. e. Outwitted and dethroned, 580, a, b. Banishment and death, ibid. d, e.
- the son of Constantine crowned, 580, f. Poisons his father, 581, d, e. Reign and character, 582, a, b. Success against the Saracens, ibid. d. Death, ibid. e.
- Ild, forced to marry Constantine's daughter, 594, a, b. Ill success against the Saracens, ibid. & seq. Works of piety, 595, b. Death, ibid. c, d.
- Diogenes. See under Diogenes, 604, & seq.
- sent prisoner to Constantinople, vii. 632, f. 633, c. Why unfit for the crown, ibid. &c.
- exarch of Rome defeated by Agilulf, 685, a.
- † Rome, the capital of Latium, 411, c. How, and by whom built, 424, b, c. (L). When, 425, a, b. (M). Described, ibid. c, (O). How peopled, 429, a. Enlarged by Romulus, 430, b. by Tullus, 443, c. by Ancus, 446, a. by Servius, 455, a. Visited with pestilence, 463. Formed into a republic, 466, & seq. The time of it according to the Newtonian chronology, 467, 10 L. (T).

- (T). Plagued with intestine broils, 480, & seq. 485, & seq. With famine, 493, d. Invaded by Coriolanus, 499, & seq. By a fresh pestilence, 518, 532, & seq. Assaulted by the Volsci, ibid. e. Falls under the decemvirs, 535, & seq. Plague and famine, 550, c, 554, c. Forsaken at the approach of the Gauls, 563, d. Ruined by them, ibid. & seq. Saved by Camillus, 566. Rebuilt, 567, & seq. New famine and pestilence, 574, b, 583, c. An earthquake in the forum, 586, d. A new census taken, 598, c. In general mourning, 613, d. A fresh census, 617, c. Severe plague, 638, b—d. Fresh census, 641, d. 647, b. Embassy to the king of Egypt, ibid. c. Severity to the Campanians, 648. Extent of its territories taken, 649, c. A fresh pestilence, 651, a. New census, 668, d. Fleet built, ibid. f. Inhabitants diminished, 665, 675. Overflowed and burnt, 679, f. In dread of Hannibal, 705. Streets when first paved, 760, f. A new census, 765, c. 807, c. In an uproar from the Gracchi, ibid. pass.
- Its history from the Gracchian faction, v. 1, & seq. A new census, 3, c. Conformation from the Gauls, 29, a, b. Purified, and how, 43, c. Blocked up by Cinna, 62, a. Fresh famine, 63, c. Invaded by the Samnites, 63, & seq. Saved by Crassus, 64, b, c. Opens her gates to Sylla, 72, a. Made a shamble by him, 75, & seq. In-slaved, 77, & seq. Restored by his abdication, 83, a. In danger from Lepidus, 84, & seq. from a fresh famine, 92, b. A new census, 99, d. again, 129, d. In a civil war, 131, & seq. Deep and sad consternation, 132, d, e. Abandoned, 133. Confusion at Cæsar's death, 185, & seq. and a new civil war, 201, & seq. Under the triumvirate, 220, & seq. 260, & seq. In flames and confusion, 224, & seq. and slaughter, 225, & seq. Split into two factions, 263, f. A fresh famine, 271, b, c. Enriched by Augustus, 294, f. A fresh census, 296, c, (Y). Joy at Augustus's recovery, 303, f. Depopulated by plague and famine, 305, a. as appeared by the next census, 323, b. Destroyed by fire, 324. Divided into wards, ibid. c. Under a new famine, 333, f. The next census attended with prodigies, 345. In deep mourning for Germanicus, 399. A new famine, 470, e. Want of horses to grind corn, 476, b. A fresh one under Claudius, 494, a. The city enlarged by him, 507, c. Degenerates under Nero, 535, c, d. 544, e, f. Burnt, 546, & seq. Whether by him, 547, d, e. Rebuilt in a new form, 549, & seq. A grievous plague, 560, f. and famine, 574, d. Affronts Nero, ibid. & seq. Joy at his death, 576, d, e. Damaged by an earthquake at Galba's entry, 585, d. Dread at Vitellius's approach, 601, d. From a mistaken sedition, 603. Prodiges and famine, 604, d, e. Dreadful case after Vitellius's death, 635, c, d. Beautified by Vespasian, 647, e. A new census, 651, b. Burnt, 660, d. Repaired by Titus, ibid. & seq. A grievous pestilence, ibid. e, f. Dismal state under Domitian, 684, & seq.
- Suffers by fire, water and famine, vi. 58, f. Under two emperors, 62, f, & seq. Laid under water, 63, b, c. and other great calamities, 66, b. A three years pestilence, 90, d. Fire and famine, ibid. e, f. Celebrates her Millennium, 166, c. Walls repaired by Decius, 169, c. New pestilence, 180, b. Maxentius's tyranny, 241, d—f. Why disliked by Constantine, 263, a. In deep mourning for him, 268, d. A new famine, 406, c. A fresh one caused by Gildo, 438, a. Greatly streightened by Alaric, 458, a, b. Relieved at a vast charge, ibid. d, e. Blocked up a-fresh, 460, a. Submits to him, 461, b. A grievous famine, 462, f. 463, c. Taken and burnt by the Goths, 464, c, e. Plundered by Genseric, 501, b, c. Besieged by Ricimer, 511, b. Cover'd with the cinders of Vesuvius, ibid. d. Submits to Odoacer, 513, f, & seq.
- Taken by Belisarius, vii. 655, a, b. Besieged by Vitiges, 656, c, & seq. Under a plague and famine, 657, e. Relieved, 658, a, b. Besieged by Totila, 668, e, f. Its dreadful condition, 669. Surrender'd and plunder'd, ibid. & seq. Retaken and rebuilt by Belisarius, 670, e, f. Betrayed to Totila, 672, f. and repaired, 673, c. Retaken by Narses, 677, d, e. Stript of its privileges, 679, e. Reduced into an exarchate, 683, c. The extent of it, ibid. & seq. Ravaged by the Lombards, 685, b, c. Revolts from the emperor, 705, d, (Y). Besieged by Luitprand, 707. Subjected to the Pope. See sub Pope, vii. 705, & seq.
- Romulus's* treachery to Sicinius, iv. 531, b—d. Revenged, 532, b, c. Proposes introducing of Solon's laws, ibid. e. Chosen Decemvir, 534, a.
- Romuald I.* receives the Bulgarians into Benevento, vii. 624, e, f. Defends it against Constans, 695, b, c. Defeats him, ibid. e, f. Dies, 700, c.
- II. conquests in Naples, 701, a. Death, ibid. b.¹
- Romula*, the mother of Galerius, vi. 210, c. Instigates him against the Christians, ibid. d.
- † Romula Colonia, in Spain, where, vii. 301, a.
- Put to the sword, iv. 630, f.
- † Romulianum, where, and by whom so called, vi. 210, d.
- Romulus*, by whom brought up, iv. 422, b. Re-inthrones his father, 423, c. Builds Rome, 424, c, (L). His palace describ'd, 425, c, (O). Chosen king, 426, a. His conquests, &c. 429, & seq. Wounded by the Sabines, 430, e. Triumphs, 433, & seq. Laws, 434, a. Death and Apotheosis, 434, & seq.
- augural staff preserved, 567, f.
- the son of Maxentius, chosen consul, vi. 237, a.
- Sent ambassador to Attila, vii. 472, a.
- Romus*, prince of Troy, one of the founders of Rome, ii. 316, f.
- an ancient king of Spain, vii. 321, d.
- Romulus* revolts against the Greeks, vi. 636, a, b. Put to death by Michael, ibid. c.
- Rosamond*, causes Alboinus to be murder'd, vii. 620, c, f, & seq. Her flight and punishment, 621, c, f, & seq.
- Roscius* and his brother's treachery to Cæsar, v. 140, d, (P).
- Roscius*, a companion of Sylla's debauches, v. 83, c.
- Roset*, Cyprian, their excellence, vii. 171, a.
- Rosicrucian* notions, their origin, vii. [418], (C).
- † Roffi, invade the Romans, vi. 580, b. Defeated by Bares, 585, c. By Zeminices, 586, c, d. By Monamachus, 598, b.
- † Roffan, among the Persians, what, ix. 305. See below Rustan, ii. 190, & seq.
- Roffal* crown, at Rome, what, v. 281, b.
- † Roffrata, Columna of Duilius, describ'd, iv. 659, f.
- † Roffrate naves, whence so called, vi. 831, (O).
- Roffrum*, whence so called, iv. 603.
- Rotadis*, taught Greek by Elizeus, vi. 557, d.
- Rotbaric*, put to death by Arripert, vii. 699, b.
- Rotbaris*, chosen king of the Lombards, vii. 689, f. Given the first laws to them, 690, a—c, & (V). His conquests, 691, a, b. Death and character, ibid. c.
- a traitor against Luitprand murdered, 701, d, e.
- Rauas* designs against the Boiss, vi. 487, c. Proud message to the Romans, ibid. Death, ibid. d.
- Raugas*, killed by lightning, vi. 480, c.
- Rouille's* father, partiality exposed, v. 222, c. 458, in fin. not.
- Rowna*, Hengist's daughter, whether married to Vortigern, vii. 443, c, d.
- Roxana*, put to a cruel death by Parysatis, ii. 137, d.
- taken prisoner by Alexander, iii. 384. Captivated him, ibid. Her cruelty, 418. Imprison'd by Cassander, 461, f. Murder'd by him, 462, a.
- Herod's daughter by Phædra, iv. 152, not.
- † Roxolana, Ryland, see Rissland, vii. 409, d.
- † Roxolani, who and where seated, vii. 604, e, & seq. Success in Mæsis, 605, c. Cut off by M. Aponius, ibid. d. Become pensioners to Rome, 606, b. Defeated by the Romans, v. 603, a.
- Rualdus's* just censure of Suetonius, vi. 52, sub not.
- † Rubricatus river in Numidia, vii. 112, a.
- in Tarracon, 304, a.
- Rubrius* accused of treason, v. 349, b.
- Rucata*, betray'd by the Donatists, vi. 359, c.
- Rusilla*, Annia's forgery and punishment, v. 409, a, b.
- Rufinus*, sent ambassador to Cosroes, iv. 349, a.
- Cornel, a senator degraded, 647, a.
- Cæcil, another degraded for dancing, v. 665, e.
- escapes Constantius's snare, vi. 290, c, d.
- treachery to Commodus, 419, d. To Tilius, &c. 421, d. Made guardian to Arcadius, 423. His rife and character, 431, a. Avarice and ambition, 432, a, b. Cruelty to Lucianus, ibid. d, e. Sets the empire on fire, 433, c, d. Sues to be colleague, 434, c. Murdered by Guinas, ibid. Indignities shewed to his corpse, ibid. c.
- Stirs up the Huns, vii. 460, pass. & Vigotus, 504, e, f. Undermines Stilicho, 505, pass.
- Rufus Annius*, sent governor into Judea, iv. 194, a.
- Vibulus, sent by Cæsar to Pompey, v. 138, c.
- Trebell, made governor of Thrace, 396, d.
- Tinnius's success against the Jews, vi. 39, c. Razes Jerusalem, ibid. e, f.
- Vetius put to death by Commodus, 88, d.
- Volusius sent into Afric, 241, c.
- revolts against Philippicus, 550, c.
- † Rugians, who and where sited, vii. 664, e, f. Settled in Illyricum, 482, a. Submit to Attila, 466.
- Rugula* the Hunn afflicts OEtius, vi. 432, f. Killed by Lightning, 487, c.
- † Rumestan, vid. Greeks, iv. 385, d.
- Rumitales*, bravery at Nice, vi. 367, a, b.
- Runfius*, P. Cornelius, degraded, v. 22, f.
- Runic* character, what, and why so called, vii. [428], a.
- (T). Brought by Woden from Asia, 489, f. Why condemned, 490, a.
- Rupilius Publ.* quells the Sicilian rebels, iv. 796, d, e. His Code of Sicilian laws, 797, a.
- Ruritus*, sent into Afric, vi. 349, d. Put to death, 350, a.
- † Rusadir, Ryfadir, where situate, vii. 142, c.
- † Rusatus, where situate, vii. 113, c.
- Rusbeck's* whimsical notion of the Atlantis, v. 86, (Z).
- † Rusiana, where sited, vii. 671, d. Taken by Totila, ibid. d.
- † Rusconium, where situate, vii. 113, d.

Rufinus's revolt, vi. 606, d. Taken prisoner, ibid. Sent in chains to Constantinople, 607, b.

† Rufina, where situated, vi. 669, b.

† Ruffians, Russi, from whom descended, i. 167, e. Subdued by Mithridates, iii. 733, d. Seize on Bulgaria, vii. 632, f. Driven out of it, 633, b.

Ruffian and his father re-inthroned the right line of Persia, ii. 190, & seq. Made generalissimo, 191. His noble exploits, ibid. & seq. against the Turks, 196, e. Kills the prince of Persia in single combat, 221, a. Betrayed by his brother, 223, f. Murdered 224. Remarks on his romantic history, ibid. sub not.

Ruffiana, saved by Totila, vii. 669, f.

Rufficus's mild advice to the senate, v. 436, d.

— Junius put to death by Domitian, 674, f. 684, e.

— Aurelius insulted by the Vespasians, 633, b.

— Jun. in high esteem with M. Aurelius, vi. 61, e.

† Rufurium, where situated, vii. 113, c.

Rutius, whence descended, iv. 415, b.

Rutilius's success against Jugurtha, v. 14, & seq. Supplanted by Scaurus, 19, e, (H).

— Rufus raises an army against the Gauls, 29, a. Unjustly banished, 46, d.

— Ruf. Petil. the betrayer of Sabinus, 433, c.

— P. Lupus chosen consul, 28, f. Defeated and killed, 49, e.

— Firbellius put to death, 450, d, & seq.

— Frenus promoted by Nero, 424, d. Made his Pretorian captain, 541.

— Murionius, a stoic knight insulted by the Vespasians, 633, (B).

— Pail. chosen consul, 666, b.

— his rise, & feelings and character, vi. 476, (R). Itinerary, ibid. & seq.

Rutilus Corn. defeats the Volsci, iv. 555, b.

— C. M. a Plebeian chosen dictator, 590. Censor, 592. Sent to quell a mutiny, 598.

† Rutubis, the port of, where situated, vii. 142, c. 146, d.

† Rutuli, war against Latinus, iv. 419, c. Defeat the Trojans, 420, a. Invaded by Tarquin, 464, b. Make peace with the Roman consuls, 466, e.

† Rutupia, Portus Rutupensis, where situated, vii. 408, d, e.

Ruxa, a fabulous chief of the Samaritans, iv. 33.

S

† SABA, Marab, the ancient metropolis of Arabia Felix, i. 164, e. By whom built, ibid.

— metropolis of the Sabæi, 170, c. vii. 230, e, f.

— the famed reservoir of, 272, a. Broken and drowns the country, ibid. b, c.

— the district of, and its towns, &c. vii. 231, a. 235, e.

† Sabæan nations, their extent, cities, &c. i. 170. Origin, site, &c. vii. 230, e, f. Government, 245, b—d. Religion, 246, a—c. Peculiar tenets, 247, a, b, (Q).

Sabbaco, Sabbaco, drives Ayis out of Egypt, i. 263, f. Whether the So of Scripture, ibid. His piety, wisdom, reign and retirement, ibid. c, d. See also vol. vii. 211, d, e.

Sabazarus, Valens, why so nicknamed, vi. 367, b.

Sabaras, the Pertian, ravages Asia, vi. 540, d.

† Sabatia Sabota, metropolis of the Adramitæ, vii. 231, c.

Sabbath, Jewish laws, positive and negative concerning it, i. 600, c, (M). Why and when instituted, ibid. &c.

Sabbatians suppressed, vi. 469, c.

Sabbatic year, laws concerning it, i. 612, a. When it was to begin, ibid. (L).

Sabian religion, by whom founded, i. 913, e. Its steps and progress, ibid. & seq.

Sabina Julia, Titus's daughter, v. 662, e.

— married to Adrian, vi. 11, b. 30, e. Ill used by him, 33, a. Her character, ibid. b. Death, 35, b.

† Sabines, Sabini, who and where situated, iv. 411, b. Whence so called, 416, d. Invade Romulus, 430, & seq. Incorporate with the Romans, 431, d, e. Defeated by Tarquin, 451, et seq.

Subdued, 461, c. 477, e, f. 478, c, d. 479, c.

— women, the rape of, 429, b. Mediate a peace with their parents, 431, a—d. Privileges granted to them, 432, b, (F).

Sabiniana Ala, whence so called, vii. 414, f.

Sabinianus's revolt in Africa, vi. 161, e. Defeat, ibid. f.

— succeeds Ursinus in the East, 306, b. Treachery to him, 307, d, e.

— succeeds against the Ostrogoths, 515, f. Defeated by Pitza, 521, a, b. vii. 521, f, & seq.

Sabinus, sent to seize Herod's treasure, iv. 186, b. Besieged by the seditious Jews, 187. Sets fire to the temple, 188, a. Sneaks out of Judea, 189, f.

— Sent against the robbers about Rome, v. 283, a.

— Pop. succeeds in Thrace, 427, d, e. Death and character, 451, b.

— Titius accused of treason, 433, b. Death, ibid. d, e, (I).

— Cornel. plots against Caligula, 482, c. 484, d. Pardoned by Claudius, 490, d. Kills himself, 492, a.

Sabinus Obultronius put to death by Galla, v. 583.

— Flavius succeeds Macer in the government of Rome, 609, b. Cowardice and indolence there, 630, & seq. Whether thro' envy, ibid. (Y). Besieged in the capital, 131, d. Taken prisoner, 132, b. Murdered, ibid. c. His character, ibid. d.

— Publ. great sway with Vitellius, 619, b, c. Clapt in trons by him, 628, b, c.

— Julius heads the revolted Gauls, 642, a. Proclaims himself Cæsar, ibid. b. Defeat and escape, ibid. c. Nine years concealment, and adventures, 654, a—c. Discovery and execution, ibid. d, e.

— Flavius chosen Domitian's colleague, 665, c. Put to death by him, ibid. e, f. Character and pretended crime, 686, d.

— Fabius recalled from his government, vi. 132, c. Chosen one of Alexander's council, 138, d. Killed by the mob, 154, b.

† Sabit, a ruined port in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b.

Sabius stirs up the Romans against the Capuans, vii. 33, c.

† Sabat, where situated, i. 164, d.

† Sabrecha, where situated, i. 164, f.

Saburnus's valour and defeat, vii. 695, e, f.

Sabus king of Arabia Felix invaded by Gallus, vi. 301, & seq.

Sabyllusbut, a faithful guardian of Epirus, iii. 800, e.

Sacca, the festival of, among the Babylonians, what, i. 928.

† Saccæ, who, and whence sprang, ii. 13, pass. 256. Possess Armenia, ibid. & seq. Since called Titans, 257, & (A). Wars with the Medes, 13, f. Heroic queen, ibid. & seq.

Saccopori, a Manichee, why so called, vi. 350, a.

Saccula, a snarling buffoon, put to death, v. 297, b.

Sacerdos Grafidus banished, v. 453.

Sacred Cohort at Carthage, what, vi. 797, (L).

Sacris, the daily, Moses's law concerning it, i. 623, b, c.

— When it ceased, iv. 284, d, (T).

— Human, offered by the Egyptians, 211, f.

— among the Scythians, how performed, ii. 272. The rest see sub Vitium.

Sacrificing Children to devils, whence, i. 131, (W).

— Living Creatures, how performed by the Jews, 628, (M).

Sacroviri revolt in Gaul, v. 409. Defeat and desperate end, 410, a.

† Sacrum Promontorium in Lusitania, vii. 298, e.

Sad's conquest of Persia, iv. 304, & seq.

Sad-dar, or symbol of the old Peric faith, still extant, ii. 74, a. Compendium of the Zendeavasta, 216, c.

Saddoc, the father of the Sadducees, his doctrine, iv. 36, c.

Saddus king of Thrace's friendship to the Athenians, ii. 504, b.

Sadducees, their rise, iv. 36, c. Why favoured by Alex. Janneus, 95, & seq. Persecuted by the Pharisees, 103, & seq. Peculiar tenets, 166, & seq. The cause of their infidelity, ibid. Their character, 167, d. Downfall, ibid. c. Confuted by Christ, 231, d, (G).

Sadyates king of Lydia, ii. 334, a.

Sais the Pertian, his treachery to Heracles, vi. 540, b. Flayed alive, ibid. c.

† Sagapala, a mount in Ætulia, vii. 160, e.

Sagillus king of Scythia, ii. 281.

† Sagunti, the port of, where, vii. 146, c.

† Saguntines, their origin, vii. 2, d. Threatened by the Carthaginians, vi. 868, & seq. Implore the Romans protection, 870, b, c. Besieged, ibid. f, & seq. Noble defence, vii. 3, a, b, &c. Sad catastrophe, 5, & seq.

† Saguntum, where situated, vii. 2, d. Siege and massacre, e, f, 5, & seq. Vid. iv. 692, b. Rebuilt by Hannibal, 708, f.

† Sahara river in Ætulia, vii. 160, e.

† Sais, an ancient city of lower Egypt, i. 176, c.

— defeated by the Romans, iv. 367, d.

† Sala, where situated, vii. 142, c.

† — river described, 145, a.

† Salabes defeated by Geta, v. 493, d. vii. 159, b. Peace with him, ibid. c.

† Salacio, a city in Lusitania, vii. 298, b.

Saladin bribes Isaac against Isaberoffa, vi. 623, f.

† Salab, the son of Arphaxad, i. 128, a, b. Conjectures about him, ibid. & (I). Where settled, 163, b. One of the chiefs at the dispersion, ibid.

— a prophet of the Arabs, who, vii. 242, e, f. His miracles and death, 243, a, b.

Salamba, an Assyrian goddess, the same with Astarte, i. 923, c.

† Salaminia, one of the four parts of Cyprus, iii. 175, a.

† Salamis, the kingdom of, by whom founded, iii. 136, a. Kings of, ibid. & seq. The end of, 182, e.

† — island taken by the Megareans, ii. 423, b. Retaken by Solon, 425, & seq. Described, iii. 245, a, b. Yielded to

- to the Athenians, ibid. d. By whom subdued, 146, a.
- † Salamis, the city of, by whom built, iii. 173, c. 176, b. Besieged by the Persians, 180, f. by Demetrius, 183. Retaken by Ptolemy, 184, c. Burnt by the Jews, vi. 23, c.
- the famed naval fight of, ii. 123, & seq. 472, & seq.
- † Salapia, where situate, iv. 730, c. Taken by the Romans, ibid. & vii. 59, b.
- † Salasit, Salafis, who, and where fitted, iv. 403, e, f. Defeated, ibid. d. Subdued by Varro, v. 299, f.
- † Salatubus, a river in Getulia, vii. 160, c.
- † Salatis, the first king of Egypt, set up by the Shepherds, i. 247, b.
- Salca Bæbius* basely bribed by Jugurtha, vii. 130, b.
- † Salda, where situate, vii. 113, b.
- † Salena, Solyma, and Jerusalem, by whom founded, i. 328, (Q).
- a place near Shechem in Canaan, 446, d.
- † Salentina, who, iv. 625. Subdued by Volumnius, ibid. d, e. by Attilius, 649, d.
- † Salera, where, vii. 76. Taken by Scipio, ibid. d.
- † Salernum in Italy, said to have been founded by Shem, i. 126, (Z).
- † Salices, the battle of, vi. 381, f, & seq.
- Salia, Flavius*, an orthodox consul, vi. 278, a. Sudden death, 374.
- Salian Hymn*, what, v. 400, (W).
- Salii* among the Romans, their office, iii. 560, (M). iv. 436, b, c.
- † — who, and where fitted, vi. 303, e, f. Subdued by Julian, 304, a, b. See also vol. vii. 548, & seq. 556, c.
- Salinator* sent to guard the Pyrenees, v. 85, d. Murdered by Calpurnius, ibid. e.
- Salustius Crispus*, his extract, v. 354, (G). Privy to Agrippa's murder, ibid. a. Over-reaches the sham Agrippa, 389, c.
- legate of Britain put to death, vii. 431, c.
- † Salmantica, Salamanca, a city in Lusitania, 297, e, f, et seq.
- Salome*, queen of the Jews, iv. 98, a. Sets Januæus on the throne, ibid.
- Herod's sister, her character, 113, (H). Hatred to Mariamne, 135, c. Hellish plots against her, 139, c, d. Divorces her own husband, 140, & (P). Cabals against Herod's sons, 147, b—d, 148, & (H). Accused by Alexander, ibid. d. Raises new accusations, 150, d. Releases the Jewish chiefs, 184, b. Betrays Archelaus, 186, c. Death and last will, 194, a.
- the daughter of Herod by Elpis, 132, sub not.
- the dancer begs the baptist's head, 203, c.
- † Salona, where situate, v. 1, (B). 33, b, (W). Besieged by Batto, ibid. a.
- † Salone, taken by Theodosius, vi. 479, d.
- Salonicus's* birth celebrated by Virgil, iv. 127, (X).
- Put to death by Posthumus, vi. 176, c.
- Salonius*, a strict commander, hated by his soldiers, iv. 598, f.
- Afinius's death, v. 414, c.
- † Salpinates, who, iv. 561, b. Take up arms against the Romans, ibid. b.
- † Salum flumen in Numidia, vii. 116, b.
- † Salt, the famed valley of, where, i. 310, b. 574, a.
- of Jupiter Ammon, a royal present, iii. 147, c.
- houses built with it in Lybia, vii. 177, c.
- Salvianus, Calp.* an informer banished, v. 424, a.
- character of the northern nations, vi. 485, d.
- Salvidienus* comes to Octavian's assistance, v. 264. Harassed by Lucius, ibid. et seq. Betrayed by Antony, 271, a. His death and extract, ibid. et seq. et (I).
- writings and character, vi. 203, (A).
- Salvius* chosen king of the slaves, v. 32, a. Treachery to Athenio, ibid. f. Cowardly flight out of his capital, 39, d.
- Coccianus put to death by Domitian, 674, f.
- Salus*, the temple of, decreed by the senate, v. 553, c.
- Salust* the historian degraded, v. 129, c. Sent against the 10th legion, 157, c. Restored by Cæsar, 165, b. and promoted, 169, c.
- Secundus, Agricola's supposed successor in Britain, 673, c.
- a great favourite of Julian, vi. 223, c. Made prefect in Gaul, ibid. f. Narrow escape, 334, d.
- Secundus different from the former, 324, c. Made prefect in the east, ibid. Saves the philosopher Maximus from the mob, 339, sub not. Refuses the empire, 346, b, c. Promotes Valentinian's election, ibid. c. Resigns through old age, 370, b.
- the stately palace of, burnt, 464, d.
- Salustius* legate of Britain put to death, vii. 431, c.
- † Salver, who, and where, iv. 802, a. Subdued by the Romans, ibid.
- † Samacbonite lake, whence so called, i. 577, c. Described, ibid.
- Samachus*, Constantine the Great's fool, vi. 269, c.
- † Samaria, by whom built, i. 808, f. Why called Sebaste, 588, c. (iv. 114, a. 241, R). Its ruins, 588, c, et seq. Besieged by Benhadad, 383, b, c. Relieved by Ahab, ibid. d, et seq. Miraculously delivered from famine and the Syrians, 387, b, et seq. Taken by Shalmaneser, 835, a, b. Taken by Hyrcan, iii. 614, f. iv. 94, a. Demolished, ibid. b. Rebuilt by Gabinius, 114, a. by Herod, 141, d, et (R).
- Samaritan Pentateuch*, an account of, iv. 33, et seq. (K), (L).
- alphabet described, i. 719, c. Whether it was the eastern Hebrew, 720, a, b. Whether the same with the Phœnician, vi. 701, et seq.
- † Samaritans, their origin, iv. 6, (L). Fall out with the Jews, 7, a. Obstruct the building of the temple, 8, a. ii. 94, c. 102, f. Pay tribute to it, 10, et seq. Petition to Alexander rejected, 28. See vol. iii. 334, 338. Banished Samaria, 30, b. Build Shechem, 37, b. Their religion, ibid. et seq. et (E). Corrupt the Pentateuch, 33, c, d, (I). Claim the Septuagint version, 38, b. Ravage Judea, 42, c. Impious policy, 52. Invaded by Judas Macabeus, 64, f. Subdued by Hyrcan, 92, b, (O), 93, et seq. Pollute the Jewish temple, 193. Converted to Christianity, 254. Deceived by an impostor, ibid. d. Fall out with the Jews, 264, a. Caß at Rome, ibid. b. Defeated by Cerealis, 272, c.
- Samarius*, the bloody butcher of Trebonius, v. 203, f.
- † Samat, or Great City, taken and razed, 795, d, e.
- Sambuca*, a warlike engine, described, iii. 112, b.
- Sambus* submits to Alexander, iii. 400, c, et (H).
- † Same, the metropolis of Cephalonia, iii. 242, a.
- Sameas's* noble speech to Herod, iv. 119, (I), 144, b.
- † Samega taken by Hyrcan, iv. 92, b.
- † Samercand, by whom built, vii. 268, d.
- Samian War*, the grounds of, ii. 493, et not.
- Worthies enumerated, iii. 195, sub not.
- Exiles afflicted by the Spartans, 192. Their success, ibid. et seq.
- Earthen-ware famed, 188, d.
- † Samians, great navigators, iii. 187, c. Worshipers of Juno, ibid. et seq. First builders of transport ships, 188. Their government, laws, &c. ibid. et seq. Plant a colony in Egypt, 189, a. War with the Egyptians, ibid. c, and Megareans, ibid. d. Inslaved by the Sylofon, ibid. f. by Æaces, 190, b. By Polycrates, ibid. c. by Meandrus, 195, a. by Sylofon ibid. 196, et seq. Abandon their country, 197, d. Inslaved by Æaces, ibid. et seq. Treachery to the Ionians, 197, e. Subjected to the Persians, 198, d. Revolt to the Greeks, ibid. f. Ally with Athens, 199, a. Revolt, ibid. b. Subdued by Pericles, ibid. d. Their various changes since, 200, et seq.
- Samlab* king of the Horites, i. 312, c. In whose time Esau peopled part of that country, ibid. &c.
- Sammonicus's* writings and noble library, and death, vi. 129, (O).
- † Sannites, who, and where fitted, iv. 412, a. Ally with Rome, 591, c. Defeated by Val. Corvus, 596, c. by Cossius, 597. Invaded by the Campanians, 599, b. Haughty answer to the Romans, 606, e. Outwitted at Paleopolis, 607, c. Defeated by Fabius, 608, d. by Crassus, 610. by Fabius, ibid. e. Force the Romans to a shameful peace, 612, et seq. Defeated by Lentulus, 615, e. by Papyrius, 616, b, c. In Apulia, ibid. d. twice more by Fabius, 618. Lose 30,000 men, 619, c. Defeated by other consuls, 620, et seq. Ally with Rome, 627, a. Driven out of their country, 630, f. Slaughtered by Fabius, 633, et seq. Oath given to their army, 636, b. Totally defeated, 637. New alliance, 640, c. Defeated by Fabricius, 643, f. Quite abolished, 647, e.
- Defeated by Sylla, v. 52, d, c. Brought over by Marius, 62, e. March to Rome, 72, & seq. Success against Sylla, 73, pass. Defeated by Crassus, 74, c. Their miserable end, ibid. d, e.
- † Sannium, where situate, iv. 412, a. Entered by Julius Cæsar, v. 49, c. Plunder'd by Hannibal, vii. 23, d. Taken by the Lombards, 683, e.
- Samona's* rife and treachery to Leo, vi. 576, a—d. Disgraced, ibid. f.
- † Samos island, described, iii. 186, & seq.
- † — metropolis of the island, described, 186, f, & seq. by whom built, 187, a. Its rarities, &c. ibid. b. Taken by Pericles, 200, b, c. Subdued by the Athenians, ii. 494, a. Revolts, ibid. c. Retaken and destroyed, 495, b. Made free by Augustus, v. 309, a. Distracted by Vespasian, 650, d.
- † Samosata, a chief city in Comagene, i. 360, d. Whence called Samothracia, iii. 186. Taken by Heraclius, vi. 541, b.
- † Samothrace, where, iii. 237, d. Described, 238, a.

- † Semotrace, the gods of, dreaded by all nations, 239, b.
 — the deluge of, ibid. c. Government, &c. 240, a.
 † Samfirenus, founder of the Emeſſan kingdom, iii. 848.
 — II. His reign, ibid.
Samſon's birth and prowess foretold by an angel, i. 754, c.
 Marriage at Timnath, 348. Riddle, and dire Revenge on the Philistines, ibid. & seq. Betrayed to them by the Jews, 349, a. Carries off the gates of Gaza, ibid. b. Betrayed by Dalilah, ibid. c. &c. His slavery and death, 350, a. See also 755, & seq.
Samuel, the prophet, born and dedicated, i. 755, d, e. Denounces God's judgments against Eli, 756, a. Obtains a signal victory over the Philistines, 757, c, d. Dissuades the people from having a king, 757, pass. Anoints Saul, 759, a. Justifies his past conduct before him, ibid. f, & seq. His view in it, 760, a, b. Falls out with Saul, 761, b. Anoints David in his stead, 763, c. His death, 768. Apparition, 771, pass. Discussed, ibid. & (P).
 — chosen king of the Bulgarians, vii. 633, c. Horrid ravages, ibid. d. Defeated by the Romans, vi. 591, e, f. vii. 633, e, f. Fresh conquests, 634, b, c. Defeated by Uranius, ibid. d, e. by Basilus, 635, c, d. Breaks his heart, ibid. e; see also vi. 597, a.
Sana, Sa, the supposed founder of Sais, i. 280, c.
 † Sanan, the metropolis of Yaman, i. 170, a. Called by the Jews Uzzah, ibid. vii. 230, f. Described, 235, a, b. — the palace of, ibid. c.
Sanballat, why called the Horonite, iv. 21, (G). His spite against the Jews, ibid. & seq. Encourages their renegadoes, 26, b. Whether two of that name, ibid. (R).
Sanboniatbo, his origin of the world, i. 11, d, e. Idolatrous line of Cain, 86, b. Production of the first pair, 86, e. Pedigree compared with that of Moſes, 89, b, c. & seq. History continued, 133, b. Bishop Cumberlane's amendment of it considered, 139, b. His account of the flood; see Deluge.
Sanſuaris at Rome, their number lessened, v. 412, c.
Sandabad queen of Perſia's unlawful amour with her son-in-law, ii. 192, & seq.
Sandarion left governor at Palmyra, vi. 191, d. Murdered, 192, a.
Sandracolus drives the Macedonians out of India, iii. 513, f.
 † Sangarius river in Phrygia, ii. 294, d.
 † — in Bythinia, iii. 827, b.
 † Sangata, where, iii. 393. Razed by Alexander, ibid. & seq.
Sangban, king, who, vii. 476, c, (K).
Santadrin, Jewish, whether the council of 70 continued, i. 525, (H). No mention of it till the Maccabees, ibid. Their various conſults against Chriſt, iv. 223, a. 225, b. 227, a. 233, c. Unjuſt ſentence againſt him, 235, c, d. Horrid hypocriſy, ibid. (R). 236, a. Inveteracy againſt him, 237, & seq. Revile him on the croſs, 240, b. Obduracy, 242. Suppreſs the truth of his reſurrection, 244; and the propagation of the goſpel, 252, b.
Santabarinus's treachery to Leo, vi. 573, e, f. Punished, 574, d.
 † Santorin iſland; see Thera, iii. 214, & seq.
Sion poſſeſſes the Samothracians, iii. 329, e.
Sauldubinus king of Aſſyria, whether the Nabuchodonozor of Judith, i. 897, a, (N).
Sauot murdered, iv. 389, b.
 † Sapeans, fiſt inhabitants of Lemnos, iii. 235, a.
 † — in Thracia, their kings, &c. 794, pass.
Saph, the ſon of Goliath, ſlain by Sibbechai, i. 357, b.
 † Sopbar, deſcribed, vii. 232, e. The frankincenſe of, ibid.
Supple, where born, iii. 204.
 † Sapporita, who, and where ſited, vii. 232, d.
Sapor, Sapores king of Perſia's ſucceſs againſt the Romans, iv. 326, & seq. Shamefully repulſed by Gordian, ibid. & vi. 161, & seq. Deſeated, 163, e. Ravages the empire, 174, a, b. Ill-treatment of Valerian, ibid. e, f. New conqueſts, 176, f, & seq. Death, iv. 327, e, f, (D). 328, b.
 — IIId, his character, iv. 332, pass. Perſecutes the chriſtians, ibid. c. Ill ſucceſs againſt the Romans, 333, pass. Letter to Conſtans, ibid. f. Succeſs againſt him, 334, c. againſt Julian, 335, & seq. Haughty meſſage to Odenatus, vi. 177, d, e. Deſeated by him, ibid. & seq. Embaſſy to Conſtantine, 264, f. Repulſe before Niſibis, 277, f. Deſeated by Conſtantius, 278, c—e. before Niſibis, 279, d, e. High demands on Conſtantius, 302, e, f. Renews the war againſt him, 306, & seq. Cruelty to the Amidans, 307, c, d. Takes ſeveral cities, 308, b. Frighted back by ill omens, 314, c, d. Fiſt offers of peace rejected, 329, d, e. Second, 333, b. Sudden fall on Julian's army, 334, a. Peace with Jovian, 341, f, & seq. Treachery to Arſaces, 372, e, f. Invades Armenia, 373, c. Deſeated by Valens, 374, a. Death and long reign, 404, f. See also vol. iv. 326, & seq.
 — IIIId, his wicked reign, 328, a.
 — Roman general ſent to ſurprize the heretics, 395, c.
Supping, when fiſt brought into uſe, iv. 445, d.
 VOL. VII. No 11.
- † Sapreſyte, the rich mines of, iii. 78, b—e.
Sapur's cruelty to the Arabs, v. 273, b.
Sarablagas's ill-ſucceſs againſt Heraclius, iv. 368, a.
Sarac the laſt king of Aſſyria, i. 902, a. Invaded by Nabopolassar, &c. ibid. Burns himſelf and his palace, ibid. b. Whether the Sardanapalus of prophane hiſtory, ibid. &c.
Saracenic Alphabet, vii. 257, pass.
 † Saraceni, whence ſo called, i. 165, a. Their extraſt, ibid. b. Who, and where ſited, vii. 227, b. 233, b. Origin of their name, 240, c, d, (N). 241, b—d. Penſionary to the empire, 283, f, & seq. Burn the Alexandrian library, iii. 629, & seq. 100,000 of them cut off by the Romans, iv. 340, f. Invade Perſia, 370, c. Whether ſubdued by Trajan, vi. 22, e. Invade Meſopotamia, 289, c. Go over to the Perſians, 329, e. Repulſed by the Goths, 387, f, & seq. Waſte Egypt, Syria, &c. 467, c. Deſperate panic under Alamundarus, 475, a. Repulſed by Marcian, 498, b. Join with Mohammed, 543, b. Succeſs againſt the Romans, ibid. c—e. Swift conqueſts, ibid. e, f. Peace with Conſtans, 545, e. Cruel ravages in Afric, 546, a. in Sicily, ibid. Repulſed before Conſtantinople, ibid. b. Peace with Conſtantine IIIId, ibid. c, d. Deſeated in Syria, 548, d. Repulſed before Antioch, ibid. Driven out of Armenia, ibid. d, e. Freſh invaſion, 550, b. Deſeated at ſea, 555, a. by Leo, 557, a. Perſecute the chriſtians, ibid. b. Repulſed by Irene, ibid. d. Bought off by the Perſians, ibid. e, & seq. Repulſed in Cilicia, 559, b. Succeſs againſt Irene, ibid. d, e. againſt Nicephorus, 561, & seq. Deſeated by Leo, 562, e, f. Settle in Crete, 566, b, c. Signal victory there, ibid. & seq. Seize on Sicily, 567, c, d. Deſeated by Petrona, 572, a. by Baſilius, 573, c, d. New conqueſts on the Romans, 575, e, f. Deſeated by Heraclius, 576, b—f, 581, a. in the eaſt, 582, c, d, 584, a, b, 585, b.
 † Saragſſa, by whom built, v. 299, e. Plundered by the Suevi, vi. 489, e. Taken by the Viſigoths, vii. 514, d.
Sarah paſſes for Abraham's ſiſter, i. 422, e. Taken and reſtored by the king of Egypt, 423, a. by Abimelech, 345, a, b. A ſon promiſed to her, 429, a. Severity to Hagar, 430, pass. Fiſt called Sarah, 427, a, (P). Death and burial, 431, c, &c.
 † Saramael, conjectures concerning that place, iv. 85, in fin. (A).
Sarames put to death by Varamus, iv. 360, e.
Sarbanazas deſeated by Heraclius, iv. 367, c.
Sarbaratas murders the king of Perſia, iv. 369, f. Mounts the throne, 370, a. Murdered, ibid. b.
Sarbarazes repulſed before Chalcedon, vi. 541, f, & seq. Revolts to Heraclius, ibid. & seq. Put to death by Coſrobaces, 542, a.
Sarbarus's ſtratagem to ſave his own life, iv. 368, d.
 † Sarcinates, who, and where, iv. 649, d. Conquered by the Romans, ibid.
Sardanapalus's character, i. 885, a. Reign, ibid. & seq. Succeſs againſt the revolted Medes and Babylonians, 886, a—d. Surprized and routed by them, ibid. e. Beſieged in Nineveh, 887, a. Deſtroys himſelf, and his riches, ibid. c. Pillar erected to him, ibid. (V). Probably the ſame with Sarac, 902, b.
 † Sardi ſend an embaſſy to Carthage, vii. 42, a. Deſeated by the Romans, 45, d, e.
Sardians, to ſell, whence the proverb, iv. 433.
 † Sardica taken by Crumus, vi. 562, a. by the Bulgarians, vii. 514, d.
 † Sardinia conquered by the Romans, iv. 660, c. Seized by the Carthaginians, 681, d. Recovered, 682, a, 683, c. Made a Roman province, 684, f. Regained from the Carthaginians, 720, b. Taken by Geſeric, vi. 507, a. Reduced by Marcellinus, 509, e. by Scipio, 834, b, c. Yielded to the Romans, 864, & seq. vii. 1, & seq. Taken by the Vandals, 536, d. by Marcellinus, 538, b, c. by Geſeric, 539.
 † Sardis, a city of Lydia, ii. 328, d. Taken and ſpared by Cyrus, 92, b. Taken and burnt by the Ionians, 109, c. Surrenders to Alexander, 156, d. Taken by the Cimmerians, 334, a.
Sari, a meaſure of time in Beroſus, i. 90, a, (N).
 † Sarmatia, its extent, ſite, &c. vii. 604, e. Various nations, ibid. e, f. Submits to Trajan, vi. 18, d. See Sauromatia, ii. 266, et seq.
Sarmatian Giant killed by Conſtantine, vii. 608, c.
 — Gamel, whence, vi. 257, b. vii. 608, d.
 † Sarmatians, from whom deſcended, ii. 266, 268, 277, d, et not. Quelled by Domitian, v. 684, a. Deſeated by Adrian, vi. 36, b. War againſt M. Aurelius, 66, b. Deſeated, ibid. f. by Gordian, 163, c. by Conſtantine, 257, a. Ingratitude to him, 264, b, c. Severely puniſhed, ibid. d. Driven out by their own ſlaves, 265, a, b. Settled by Conſtantine, ibid. c. Reſtored and enfranchiſed, 303, c, d. Deſeated in Meſſia, 362, c. Sue for peace, 363, a. Cruelties in the Roman territories, 388, a, b. Cut off by Theodoſius, 405, e. Settled in Illyricum, vii. 482, a. Their names, character, &c. 605, a, b. Fiſt irruptions, ibid. b, c. Submit to Adrian, 606, a, b. Peace

- Peace with M. Aurelius, ibid. c, d. New settled, ibid. e.
 Defeated by Caracalla, ibid. et seq. by Maximus, 607, c, d. Peace with Probus, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Carus, ibid. et seq. by Constantine, 608, c, d. Defeat the Goths, ibid. e, f. Submit to Constantine, ibid. et seq. Beat by the Goths, 609, a. Restored to their country, 610, a, b. Fresh inroads and defeats, ibid. b, c. Subdued by the Huns and Goths, ibid. d.
Sarnobanus sent against Heraclius, vi. 540, c. Defeated by him, 541, c.
 † Saron, Saronas, the northern part of the Legionic plain, i. 575, a.
 † — the gulph of, described, iii. 243, (G).
Sarpodon, 1st and 11d kings of Crete, iii. 166, c. Driven from it, ii. 338, b. Settled in Lycia, ibid.
Sarramas, the Persian governor of Egypt, i. 276, a.
Sarus sent against the Goths, vi. 452, d. against Constantine, 454, d. Disobliges Alatic, 463, f. Noble defence and death, 467, e.
Sasales king of the Odryse, iii. 793.
Sasas, the father of Artaxerxes, iv. 324, a.
 † Sasos, an island of Greece, where, iii. 240, b.
 † Saffanian Dynasty, a list of, according to oriental writers, iv. 373. The end of it, 405, et seq.
 † Safus, the golden mines of, vii. 215, (H).
Safybis king of Egypt, a second Legislator, i. 249, b.
 † Satbagetes, who, vii. 466, c. Submit to Attila, ibid.
Satibarzanes murders Darius, iii. 359, c. Revolts from Alexander, 361, c. Killed by Erigus, 367, d.
 † Satricula, where, and taken by the Romans, iv. 617, & seq.
Satirical Libels forbid by Octavius, v. 344, e, et seq.
 † Satricum burnt by the Latins, iv. 578, b. Taken by Valerius, 595, d.
Saturatus lays the Scavi under tribute, vi. 557, e. Conspires against Irene, 559, e. Dies of grief, ibid. e, f.
 — made colleague with Nicephorus, 561, c. Narrow escape, 562, c. Retirement and death, ibid. d, e.
Saturn first king of the Celtes, ii. 259, c. His other names, ibid. d. Marries his sister Rhea, 260. Taken prisoner and released by Jupiter, ibid. c. Dethroned by him, 261, b. Civilizes the Cretans, iii. 168, a.
 — the chief deity at Carthage, vi. 681, d, e. Whence the fable of his devouring his children, 682, a, (O). The same with Moloch, ibid. c, (P).
 — the festival of, by whom instituted, iv. 443, e, (X).
 — temple, the treasury at Rome, v. 135, a.
 — in human worship at Carthage, vi. 679, a. and by other nations, 684, a, b, (Q).
 † Saturni Promontorium in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
 † Saturnia, Italy, why so called, iv. 407, b.
 † Saturnine Hill; see Capitol, iv. 430, b.
Saturnius Pompon, his writings and character, vi. 29, sub not.
Saturnius pleads for the sons of Herod, iv. 151, b.
 — chosen consul, v. 308, d. Governor of Syria, 331, c, (O). Commands under Tiberius, 333, d. Sent against the Marcomani, 335, b. Speech to the senate, 489, c.
Satyrus first king of Bosphorus, iii. 841, f. Tribute to Demosthenes, 842, a.
 — 11d, killed, ibid. b—e.
 — tyrant of Heraclea, 824, d.
 — request to king Philip, 294.
 † Saverna, where situate, vi. 300, c. Rebuilt by Julian, ibid. Fortified, vii. 591, b.
Saul anointed king of Israel, i. 758, d. Received with universal applause, 759, b. Success against the Ammonites, ibid. e. against the Philistines, 353, b, c. Tortured by an evil spirit, 764, d. Ingratitude to David, ibid. & seq. Cruelty to Abimelech and the other priests, 767, a. to the whole city of Nob, ibid. &c. Consults the witch of Endor, 771, a, b. Displeases Samuel, 761, b. Conjectures about his crime, ibid. (C). Rejected by God, 762. Defeated and killed by the Philistines, 356, d. His body mangled and hung up, 772.
 — Saulius king of Scythia, ii. 285.
 — the apostle converted; see Paul, iv. 253, et seq.
 — a Gothish general under Theodosius, vi. 424, a.
 — a pagan one under Honorius, 450, c.
Saurid believed by the Copts to have built the Pyramids before the flood, i. 184, d.
 † Sauromatia, Sarmatia described, ii. 266, 268, pass.
Sauromates's embassy to Trajan, vi. 13, d. Driven from Iberia, 373, a. Restored to half of it, ibid. e.
 † Savus river in Numidia, vii. 116, a.
 † Sawa worshipped by the Arabs, vii. 248, e.
 — a city in Parthia, iv. 289, c.
Saxa defeated and killed, v. 269, a.
 † Saxon Shore, where, and whence so called, vii. 408, e, f.
 † Saxos, first south kingdom, vii. 445, et seq.
 — second, 447, et seq.
 — third, west, 449, d, et seq.
 † Saxon, fourth, east, vii. 450, d.
 — fifth, ibid. c.
 — sixth, East-Angles, 452, d.
 — seventh, Mercas, 453, b.
 † Saxons, their origin and settlements, vii. 440, et seq. Why so called, 441, f, et seq. Their manners, &c. 442, b. Government, religion, &c. ibid. c, d. Sail into Britain, 440, a, b, (1). Success there, 443, b, et seq. Driven out by Vertimer, 44, e, f. Treachery to the Britons, 445, c, d. Victories over them, 446, et seq. Invade the Romans, 435, c. Quelled by Stilicho, 436, c, d. Leave Italy, and cut off by the Suevi, 680, f. Repulsed by Theodosius, vi. 353, f. by Severus, 355, e, f. Settle at Nantes, &c. 508.
Scæva Memor, a dramatic poet's writings and character, v. 693, sub not.
 — Mucius; see Mucius, v. 45, & seq.
 † Scalabis, a city in Lusitania, vii. 297, b.
Scaldi, Scaldri, Gothic bards, why so called, vii. 489, c, f.
Scamander, the father of Theucer, ii. 311, not.
 † — river of Treas, 306, f.
 † Scandia, the temple of Venus at, described, iii. 242, f.
 † Scandoloro, a city in Cilicia, ii. 340, d.
 † Scandinavia, the original seat of the Lombards, vi. 391, d. of the Goths, vii. 456, b. Described, ibid. & seq. Whence so called, ibid. c. By whom peopled, ibid. e.
 † Scaptelyla, the rich mines of, iii. 786, c.
Scaptius procures an unjust sentence against Ardea, iv. 436, c.
Scapula defends Corduba against J. Cæsar, v. 175, d. His death, ibid. e.
 † Scardian mountains in Macedon, iii. 257, e.
Scarlet, a fine dye of, among the Persians, vi. 191, f.
 — coat of arms, the Roman signal of battle, v. 244, c.
Scaurus gained by Antiochulus, iv. 108, b. Letter to Arcus, ibid. Made governor of Syria, 112, a.
 — Emilius chosen consul, v. 3, d. Success in Gaul, ibid. f. against Jugurtha, 8, b. Corrupted by him, ibid. c. Goes with Bethia against him, 9, c. Severity against his bribed accomplices, 12, c.
 — the noble consul wounded by the mob, 29, c. Severity to his own son, 37, b.
 — M. Aurel. chosen consul, 15, d. Taken prisoner by the Gauls, 28, c. His brave advice to them, 29, c. Stabbed by Bojorix, 30, a.
 — Mamercus discarded by Tiberius, 355, c.
 — Emilius kills himself, 449, c, d.
 — a grammarian under Adrian, vi. 52, in fin. not.
 — general in Gaul, his success, and roads there, vii. 396, a.
Scendelaidas, king of Illyricum, accedes to the Achæan league, ii. 652. Reprisals on the Macedonians, 663, not.
Semes, painted, when first introduced, v. 43, d.
 † Scenite Arabs, who, vi. 519, f. Defeated, ibid. & seq. See also sub Arabs.
Scerpe, when wholly departed from Judah, iv. 256, & seq. & (O).
Severinus Fl. the conspirator. See Flavius v. 551, & seq.
Schabour, the Sapor of oriental writers, iv. 375, b.
 — 1st king of Parthia, according to the same, 372, (A).
 — 1st king of Persia born, 375, b. His reign, 376, & seq. Death, 378, b.
 — 11d. why cruel to the Arabs, 380, b, c. Wars with Constantius, ibid. & seq. Against the Delemites, 381, c, d.
 — 111d. allies with Theodosius, 382, b.
Scheriar's bloody rebellion, iv. 401, c, d. Affiliated, 402, b, c.
 † Schirvan, a province of Persia, described, ii. 36, b.
Schismaticks, suppressed by Constantine, vi. 252, b.
Schirius, a christian queen of Persia, iv. 399, & seq.
 — Stratagem to come at her husband, 404, c.
Schirouich, king of Persia, vii. 426, d, & seq.
Scipio Cornel. chosen general of horie, iv. 558, f. Triumvir, 562. Success against the Hetrurians, 620, c, d. Commands the Roman fleet, 657. Taken by the Carthaginians, ibid. e.
 — L. Cornel. sent consul against the Ætolians, ii. 726, b. Against Antiochus, iii. 555, f. Comes to Troy, 460. Defeats Antiochus, 564, & seq. Peace with him, 605, & seq. Commands the Roman fleet, iv. 660, a. Takes Corsica and Sardinia, ibid. b, c. Outwitted by Hannibal in Gaul, 695, & seq. Returns into Italy, 698. Wounded and defeated by the Carthaginians, 699. Pauses the Trebia, 700, c. Retires to Placentia, 702, a. Sent Proconsul into Spain, ibid. c. Joins his brother there, 708, f. Defeats the Carthaginians, 715. Their farther success there, ibid. & 722, c. 723. Defeated and killed, 725, & seq.
 — Sent consul into Asia, 754, f, & seq. Defeats the Syrians, 755, c. Tried, 757. His few effects confiscated, ibid. f. Reduced to poverty, 758, a. Enriched, ibid. b. Degraded by the censor, 759, a.

Scipio,

- Scipio*, the sons of Corn. Scipio, chosen Ædiles, 723. The rest see under Scipio Africanus, I. & II. under the two next articles.
- Africanus, the eldest sent proconsul into Spain, iv. 730. Takes and plunders New Carthage, 732. His signal continence, &c. ibid. (D). Drives the Carthaginians out of Spain, 734. Victory at Bætica, 737, d. Alliance with Syphax, ibid. & seq. With Masinissa, 738, e. Recalled, ibid. f. Chosen consul, 739, a. Embarks for Africa, 740, c. Success and severe discipline, 741, a, b. Proconsulship lengthened during the war, 742, b. Burns the enemy's camp, ibid. d, e. Amused by the Carthaginians, 744, d, e. Ravages their country, 745, pass. Interview with Hannibal, 746, b. Success against him, 747, f. Proposes him peace on the hardest terms, 747. Which are accepted, ibid. et seq. Triumphs, and is surnamed Africanus, 748, e, f. Disobliges the Plebeians, 753, et seq. Serves under his brother, 755, a. Prosecuted, 756, et seq. Dies, 757, b. See also vol. vii. 13, et seq. iii. 555, et seq.
- Æmilianus, or younger Africanus's noble speech to the Romans, 768. Gallantry in Spain, 769, a. Saves the Roman army, 773. Vast success in Africa, 774, d. Chosen consul, 775, b. Success against the Carthaginians, 776, et seq. Takes and utterly razes Carthage, 777, et seq. Triumphs over it, 779. Success and cruelty to the Numantines, 786, et seq. Sweet retirement with Lælius, 797. Murdered, 798, e. Character, ibid. et seq. See also vol. vii. 101, & seq. Immenfe booty at Carthage, 104. Library, ibid. (S). Divides Masinissa's kingdom, 127, a. Speech to An iochus's ambassadors, iii. 565, d. — Cn. Sent against Adirubal, iv. 693, b. Success in Spain, 704, a. 708, e. — proconsul's son's noble speech to his cowardly Romans, 712, c. — Nafica's success in Lusitania, 753. Triumph over the Boii, 754, d, e. Affronts the Carthaginians, 768, b. Fury against Gracchus, 793, c, d. Success in Macedonia, iii. 503. Character, v. 9, b. Death, iv. 804. — Hipolis, dies of an apoplexy, 760, c. — L. Corn. chosen consul, v. 69, e. Surprised and repulsed by Sylla, 70, b, c. Deserted by his army, ibid. e. Prosecuted, 76, b. — general of the Pompeii kills himself, 165, d. — P. Corn. consulship, 312, f. — over-reached by Hamikar, v. 830, f. Success in Corsica, &c. 833, et seq. et (Q). — Lucius's success against Oringis, vii. 69, b. Sciran, an infamous robber killed by Thefeus, ii. 364 (H). — Scilavi, who, vi. 535. Join with the Avari, ibid. e. against Heracleus, 541, c. Defeated by Constant, 544, f, et seq. Forsake Justinian, 547, b, c. Cruelly punished for it, ibid. d. Invade the empire, vii. 674, e. — Scilavonia, where and whence so called, vi. 545, a. Scolopitrus, settled in Thermosclira, ii. 279, not. Scopus, the Aetolian, ravages Macedonia, ii. 653, b. — signal services to Egypt, iii. 543, a, b, (C). Taken prisoner, ibid. Treasonable attempt against Ptolemy, 546, f. Punished, 547, a. — Scordisci, who, v. 3, f. Defeat the Romans, 4, a. Defeated by Metellus, 5, a. Repulse the Danube, ibid. e. Defeated by Minutius, 10, c. Forbad the use of gold and silver, vii. 384, a, b. (K). — Scots, who, see Caledonians, v. 660, & seq. Unconquered by the Romans, 302, d. Invaded by Agricola, 660, b. Irruption on the Romans, vi. 308, e. Invade North Britain, 400, d, e. Receive and assist the Picts, vii. 403, c. Their origin, 404, b. Whether different from the Caledonians, 414, c. When first distinguished in history, 435, b, (Q). Submit to Julian, ibid. Invade the Romans, ibid. c. Repulsed by Constantine, 436, e. By Honorius, 437, c—e. Fiech invasions, 438, & seq. Retire into Ireland, 439, d. Repulsed by the Saxons, 443, b. — Scour river, the battle at, vii. 424, (D). Scribonia, divorced by Octavian, v. 275, (N). — the wife of Crassus put to death, 499, b. Scribonius seizes on Dynamis's kingdom, v. 315, b. Put to death, ibid. d. — Proculus murdered by the senate, 480, b. — Driven out of Bosphorus, iii. 843, f. Scudilio, sent to fetch Gallus into Italy, vi. 292, f. Hatches his downfall, 293, d. Scutarii, among the Romans, what, vi. 347, c. Scutber, I. Mediates a peace for Perdiccas, iii. 280, f. Mounts the Odrasian throne, 281, 791, & seq. II. III. & IV. Their wars with the Macedonians, ibid. & seq. Scythraeus sends the Serapis into Egypt, iii. 628, a, b. — Scythraeus, retaken from Pompey, v. 279, a. — Scyras river in Macedonia, whence so named, ii. 397, c. — Scyras island, where, ii. 482. Taken by Cimon, ibid. f. — Scyrri, who, vi. 396, b. Defeated by Theodosius, ibid. in Thrace, 459, e. In Corsica, &c. 833, & seq. & (Q). Scythia, a fabulous founder of Armenia, iii. 696, c. Scythale, Spartan, what, ii. 604, not.
- Scythos*, the fabled father of the Scythians, ii. 281. — king of Scythia, kill'd for introducing of Greek customs, 285, & seq. — king of Zante banished, 198, b. — Scythia, described, ii. 266, & seq. Uninhabited towards the North, 267. — in Europe described, ibid. f. & seq. The Extent of both, 268, d. — submits to Attila, vii. 466, c. — Scythians, the opinion of the fathers about their origin, i. 167, d. Whence so called, ii. 266, a. Described, ibid. & seq. Descended from Magog, 241, & seq. Different from the Celtes, 242, & seq. Their migrations towards Europe, 244. Territories described, 266, & seq. — royal Scythians, where situate, 269, a. Their government, laws, &c. 270, pass. Character, valour, &c. ibid. & seq. Why misrepresented by the Greeks, 273, b. Very populous, 274. Language, trades, &c. 275. Discovery of the Amazons, 279, not. Kings, 280, & seq. Conquest of Asia, 281, & seq. Dispossessed by treachery, 282. Their return opposed by their slaves, ibid. & seq. Invade Media, 16. Prevented from conquering Egypt, 17, a. Plunder the temple of Ascalon, 282, a. Punished ibid. &c. Invaded by Darius, 105, & seq. 283. Message to him, 283, e, & not. Brave defence against him, ibid. & seq. Force him out of Scythia, 285, a. Betrayed by the Ionians, ibid. Outwit the king of Macedonia, 286, c, d. & seq. Overthrown by him, 287, b. Some account of the other Scythian tribes, 386, not. — driven out of Bactria, iii. 846. Defeated by Alexander, 351, c, d. and reduced, 370, f, & seq. Peace with him, 372, e. Friendship to the Jews, iv. 67, c. Invade the Romans, vi. 110, e. Driven back by storm, ibid. Invade Asia, 171, c. Desperate defence, 586, c, d. New invasion, 611. Total defeat, 612, a. New war, ibid. d, e. Repulsed before Adrianople, ibid. f. & seq. By John Comnenus, 618, a. — of Bede, who, vii. 403. — Hunns, their bloody character, &c. 457, b, c. Government, ibid. e, f. The rest see under Hunns. — Scythopolis, Bethshean in Judea, so called by the Scythians, ii. 282. Betrayed to Hyrcanus, iii. 614, f. iv. 94, b. Made the metropolis of Palestine Secunda, vi. 372, d. Sea, Salt, and dead, see Asphaltite, i. 576, & seq. — overflows in Gallienus's reign, vi. 180, b. Seal royal, sacred among the Macedonians, iii. 264, c. — Seba, where sited, i. 164, d. By whom founded, vii. 230, a. — Sebasta, ancient Samaria, its ruins, i. 588, c. Why so called, iv. 114, a. 141, (R). — Sebastia, a city in Cilicia, ii. 240, d. — Sebastia, the second city in Armenia, iii. 693, b. — in Pontus, 721, b. Sebastian, Julian's general persecutes the christians, vi. 331, b. The orthodox, 354, c. Supplies Jovian with provisions, 342, f. Success against the Goths, 382, & seq. — made colleague to Jovinus, 467, c. Murdered by Aetaulphus, ibid. f. Sebut, the fifth Jewish month, answering to our January, i. 611, (K). — Sebra, Ceuta, a maritime town in Africa, i. 126. Said to have been built by them, ibid. (Z). Sets, among the Jews, according to the Talmudists, i. 732. Alluded to by St. Paul, ibid. Four principal ones described, iv. 164, et seq. Secular games, under Antoninus, vi. 58, b. Secundus Sater, a tool of Sejanus, v. 423, a. — of Nero's rapines, 550, c. — Julius, his writings and character, 656, (D). — Secutus, the head of the Nile, vii. 187, a. Sedocus's treachery to Anicetus, v. 636, a, b. — Sedusii, who and where sited, vii. 407, d. — Sigesta, a city in Sicily, described, iii. 7, f, & seq. Taken by the Romans, vi. 828, d. Why so named, ibid. (K). Sigestani reduced, v. 1, a, (A). Sigestes, a friend to the Romans, v. 372, c. Speech to Germanicus, 374, a. — Segabria, capital of the Celtiberi, vii. 307, (K). Segovius settles in Bohemia, iv. 561. Seguntines submit to Caesar, vii. 426, b. Where sited, ibid. (F). — Segusia, Sufa, metropolis of the Segusians, iv. 409, a. — Segusiani, where situate, iv. 408, e, f. Sejanus, whence his hatred to the Jews, iv. 408, e, f. Made governor of young Drusus, v. 362, c. Ill offices to Agrippina, 377, e. Great sway, 408, a. Statue set up in the theatre, 414, a. Character and views, ibid. & seq. Attempt against Drusus, 416, & seq. Against the sons of Germanicus, 418, d, 420, a. Petitions to marry Livia, 425, e. Persuades Tiberius to retire, 426, d. Hatches Agrippina's ruin, 427, e, & seq. and of her two sons, 430, & seq. Excessive arrogance, 435, a, b. 439, b. Bold letter to the senate, 436, f. Honours decreed to him,

- him, 437, & seq. Chosen consul, 438, a, b, (O). Over-reached by Tiberius, ibid. & seq. Forsook by his creatures, 440, b, c. Imprisoned, ibid. e. Put to death with his children, 441, & seq.
- Sejanus, L.* affronting behaviour to Tiberius, v. 445, b.
- Seif-ehu D'bu*, drives the Ethiopians out of Yaman, vii. 271, e. The last of Hamyar's race, ibid.
- † Seir mount, the settlement of Esau, i. 307.
- a Horite, who gave name to it, 308. His descendants reigned as dukes there, 312.
- the wilderness of, 527, d.
- Sejus*, the father of Sejanus his extract, v. 415, s.
- Carus put to death by Helioagabalus, vi. 136, c.
- † Sela, Petra, a city in Edom, 309, c.
- † — capital of Arabia, ibid. d. Taken by Amaziah, 316, b. and called Jockbel, ibid. c.
- † Selasia, the famed passage of, described, ii. 648, d.
- the battle of, 649, pass.
- Selene*, wife of Antiochus, keeps Ptolemais, iii. 617. Put to death by Tigranes, 619, b.
- † Seleucia, a city in Seleucis, i. 361, a.
- † — in Cilicia, by whom founded, 340, d. iii. 515, a, (F). Recovered from the Egyptians, 535, f.
- † — Trachiotis, by whom built, 546, f, (E).
- † — on the Tigris, described, 515, & seq.
- † — taken by Alex. Jannæus, iv. 102, a.
- † — subdued by Trajan, vi. 21, a.
- † — demolished by Cassius, 65, d. by Severus, 114, b. by Carus, 204, e.
- † — the famous port of, built, 277, e.
- Seleucide*, whence so called, iii. 509, d. A list of them, ibid. e. Their reigns, &c. ibid. & seq.
- the æra of, how and whence computed, 512, c, d. 513, c.
- † Seleucia, part of Syria, its situation, i. 361, a.
- Seleucus Nicator*, founder of the Syromacedonian kingdom, iii. 509, f. Various attempts against Eumenes, 426, d. 510, pass. Attachment to Antiochus, 431, d. Falls out with him, 432, a. 510, & seq. Reception at the Egyptian court, 511. Invades Babylon, ibid. Defeats Nicanor, 512, e. Gains Susiana, Media, &c. ibid. c. Vast strength, ibid. d, e. Recovers Babylon from Demetrius, 513. Assumes the royal title, ibid. e. Goes into India, ibid. & seq. Defeats and kills Antigonus, 441, 514, c, d. Builds Antioch, ibid. e. Allies with Demetrius, 516, a, b. Strips him of Sicily, &c. 516, e. Imprisons him, 444, & seq. 518, d. Yields his wife and part of his dominions to his son, 519, & seq. Kindness to Ptol. Ceraunus, 468. Defeats and kills Lyfimachus, 469, a. 520, d. Takes the name of Nicator, 521. Basely murdered by Ceraunus, 469, b. 521, c. His character, ibid. & seq. Coin, 620, (W).
- Callinicus mounts the throne by parricide, 525, & seq. Invaded by Ptolemy, 527, a, b. and defeated, ibid. c, d. by his own brother, 528, c. Drives him off, 529. Taken prisoner by Arsaces, ibid. d. Dies, ibid. e. Why called Callinicus, ibid. f. Coin, 620, (W).
- Ceraunus, his character and death, 530, a, b.
- Philopater's success in Asia, 556, b. Driven out of Pergamos, 557, c, d. Succeeds his father, 569, a. Generosity to the temple of Jerusalem, ibid. b. Poisoned by Heliodorus, 570, e. His coin, 521, in fin. not. See also vol. iv. 45, c.
- the son of Demetrius Nicator murdered by his own mother, 612, a.
- the son of Gryphus defeats his uncle, 615, c. His defeat and death, ibid. d, e.
- king of Bosphorus, 841, e.
- Cyriofastes, why so called, 667, e. Sent to Rome, 617, b, c. Made king of Egypt, 620. His death, ibid. & (W). 667, f.
- † Selga, where situate, iii. 550, (H).
- † Selgovæ, who, and where sited, vii. 413, f.
- † Selinuntines, who, and where sited, iii. 25. First war with the Egæstines, ibid. & seq. Second war, 37, & seq. See also vol. vi. 737, & seq. Defeated by the Carthaginians, ibid. 738, f.
- Selinus* king of Ægialeæ, gives his daughter to Jon, ii. 414, d.
- † — the city of, described, iii. 6, & seq. Taken and razed by Hannibal, 38, b—f. vi. 741, & seq.
- † — the river of, iii. 6.
- temples of, plundered, vi. 742, d, e.
- † Selli, who, and where sited, iii. 798, d.
- † Selymbria inclosed within Anastasius's long wall, vi. 521, e. Noble defence against the Turks, 650, c. Taken, ibid. d.
- Semiramis*, her birth, i. 875, a. Married and carried to Nineveh, 876, a. Goes to Ninus's camp at Bactra, ibid. e. Causes the city to be taken, 877, b. Married to Ninus, ibid. c. Her character, 878, a, & (Y). Builds Babylon, ibid. b. By the lake she dug, 879. Temple of Belus, &c. ibid. & seq. Wars with the Medes, 880, a. Invasion of India, ibid. & seq. Mock elephants, 881, a. Passes the Indus, 882, b. Routed by Strabrobates, ibid. d, e. Assassinated by an Eunuch, ibid. & seq. Etymon of her name, 885, (P). Her passing for her son Ninus exploded, 877, (W). Worshipped in the form of a dove, 862, a. Who she probably was, 942, f. Her reign in Babylon accounted for, 943, b. Why so short, ibid. e, f. Other particulars of her, 944, c, & seq. and fabulous exploits in Media, ii. 12, pass.
- Semno* taken prisoner by Probus, vi. 200, f. vii. 528, c. Released by him, vi. ibid. & seq.
- † Sennones, Sennones, who, and why so called, vii. [410] a, (G). Ally with the Ædui, 367, (C). Invade the Cluicians, 370, a, b. Noble answer to the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- Sempronia's* treachery to her husband, iv. 798, c.
- Sempronian Law*, what, iv. 789. Causes new troubles at Rome, 798, b.
- Sempronius Attratinus's* speech against the Agrarian law, iv. 505, a. Chosen consul, 546, e. Censor, 547, d. Ill-success against the Volsci, 551. Tried and acquitted, 552. Tried again, and fined, ibid. f.
- Sopbus's success against the Æqui, 627, b. against the Picentes, 649, c.
- Blæus triumphs over Sicily, 667, f.
- Tuditanus sent to seize on Sardinia, 681, d. Success in Gaul, 723, a—c. Repulsed by Hannibal, 740, d. Defeats him, ibid. e. Killed by the Spaniards, 751, a.
- Tib. Long. defeats the Carthaginians at sea, 693, d. Sent against Hannibal, ibid. f. Joins Corn. Scipio, 700, d. Defeated, 701, pass. Bold journey to Rome, 702, b, c.
- Tib. Gracchus chosen consul, 718. Defeats the Campanians, ibid. f, & seq. Saves Beneventum, 720, f. Defeats the Carthaginians, 721, c. Betrayed and murdered, 724, pass.
- Gracchus debauches Julia, v. 358, b. Banishment and death, ibid. c, d.
- a valiant friend to Galba, 596, b. His death, ibid. d.
- a vile Eunuch made governor of Rome, vi. 125, b. His revolt and death, 181, e, f.
- Sextus, Jul. revolt, 201, f. Defeated and put to death, 202, a, b.
- the base judge of Timæus, 436, e, f, & seq. Delivered up to Guinæus, 445, d. Banished, and escapes to Constantinople, ibid. e, f.
- recalled against Hannibal, vii. 17, a, b. Fatal rashness, 18, e, f. Defeat, 19, b, c. Watches him at Luceria, 47, a. Surprized and slain, 54, e, f.
- Senate of Athens*, ii. 430, c. Increased, 438, b. How chosen, 440. A new one of 400 chosen, 523, et seq. Augmented to 5000, 525.
- of Sparta, instituted by Lycurgus, ii. 560.
- of Rome, how, and when instituted, iv. 427, b, & seq. Partiality to Herod, 126, e. Disobliged by Romulus, 434, & seq. Partiality to Jugurtha, v. 8. Power curtailed, 30, d. Threatened by Marius's faction, 40, f, et seq. Deputation to Sylla, 69, a. Cowardice to Pompey, 100, et seq. Fatal decree in his favour, 131, b, c. Affronted by Cæsar, 178, pass. Divided on occasion of his death, 187, f. General amnesty to the conspirators, 188, d, e. Base submission to Octavian, 221, d. and flattery to him, 282, e, f. How regulated by him, 296, a. 297, a, b. Heap new titles, &c. on him, 296, f. 298, d. and larger power, 299, f. 301, b, 304, c. Reformed by him, 311, c, d. Regulated afresh, 322, a. Recommended to Tiberius, 345, b. Flattery to him, 354, et seq. Highly respected by him, 371, b, c. Base flattery to him, 388, a. 412, b, c. Honours to Germanicus, 400, e. Servility to Sejanus, 437, & seq. to Caligula, 468, c, d. 470, c, d. 476, c, d. Cruelly requited by him, 479, et seq. Makes a push for liberty, 481, d, e. Outwitted by Agrippa, 490, d, e, (R). Proclaims Claudius, 492, c, (S). Slavishness to Pallas, 513, b, c. to Nero, 535, c, d. 543, b. 544, b. 558, b. to Nymphidius, 583, f. to Otho, 596, a. Partiality to their own body, vi. 4, c, d. Honours to Trajan, 21, a, b. 22, f. Favour for Adrian, 46, pass. 54, c. Honours to Antoninus, 55, a, b. Flattery to M. Aurelius, 79, a, b. to Commodus, 92, e. Fury against him after his death, 94, a, b. Acknowledge Pertinax, 96, b. and Julianus, 101. Proscribe him, 106, d. Submission to Severus, 107, c. Hatred against Caracalla, 130, e. Acknowledge Macrinus, ibid. f. Relentment against Maximin, 154, b—d, (S). Applied to for a new emperor, 198, a, b. Chuse Tacitus, ibid. c, d. Restored by Constantine, 247, c, d. Embassy to Theodosius for the altar of Victory, 414, f. Converted to christianity, 415, d, e.
- of women, instituted by Helioagabalus, vi. 136.
- Senate-house* burnt by the mob, 126, a.
- Senators of Athens*, their power, &c. ii. 440, & seq. Salary, 441.

- Senators* of Rome, the age required, iv. 491, a, (M). Degraded for luxury, 647, a. A new set of them raised, 717, c, f. Murdered by Marius, v. 65, a. Forty proscribed by Sylla, 75, e. Butchered by Catiline, ibid. & seq. 82, c. Six hundred and forty degraded by Catulus, 99, d. Their number augmented to nine hundred, 178, a. Three hundred more proscribed, 225, c. Carried away by Otho, 605, a. Ill-treated by the soldiers, 613, c, f. Augmented to one thousand by Vespasian, 647, d. Honoured by Antoninus, vi. 56, d. Forty put to death by Severus, 113, c. Forbid to live far from Rome, 302, c. How to be tried, 378, a.
- Seneca's* base adoration of Drusilla, v. 467. Narrow escape, 473. Character of Caligula, 485, a. Banished by Claudius, 493, b. Recalled by Agrippina, 506, c. Unjust character of Claudius, 517, a, b. Made one of Nero's governors, 518, d. Blamed for his remissness to him, 520, e, f. 523, d. Charged with divers shameful crimes, 526, c. Advice about Agrippina's murder, 533, e, f. Extortions in Britain, 557, f. Whether ever chosen consul, 541, b. Accused to Nero, 542, b. Retires, ibid. d, e. Close confinement and abstinence, 550, d, e. Accused by Natalis, 553, b. 554, c. His death and character, ibid. & seq. Whether in the conspiracy against Nero, 555, e, f. His writings, &c. 578, (T). Life and blemishes, 579, sub not. Date of his works, ibid. Forged letters to and from St. Paul, 580, sub not. Where born, vii. 313, f.
- Senecio*, a lewd favourite of Nero, v. 520, c.
- Tullus conspires against Nero, 551, & seq. Turns informer, 523, b, c.
- put to death by Domitian, 634, e. His crime, 685, a, b.
- chosen consul, vi. 9, a.
- treachery to Constantine, 254, d.
- Senes*, whence so called, vi. 825, (D).
- Seniachus* murdered in Gaul, vi. 345, b.
- † Senjar city, its site, i. 142, c, & (F). Called also Samara, ibid. d.
- † Sennaar of Babylon, i. 142, b.
- Sennani*, druids, why so called, vii. 360, (D).
- Sennacherib*, Sankherib, succeeds Shalmanezzer in Assyria, i. 892, b. Besieges Lachish, ibid. c. Proud letter to Hezekiah, 838, a. Unsuccessful expedition against the Jews, 894. One hundred and eighty thousand smitten by an angel, 895, a. What is meant by it, ibid. (Z). Tyranny to the captive Jews, ibid. a. Murdered by his two sons, ibid. & c.
- † Sennar watered by the Nile, vii. 187, b. Whether different from Nubia, ibid. (E).
- † Sens, where, vi. 298, d. The siege of, raised, ibid. d.
- Sentius's* bravery in Parthia, vi. 18, f.
- † Senones, where situate, iv. 561, f. Invade Etruria, 562, a. Defeat a Roman legion, 563, a. Murder the Roman deputies, 643, b. Defeated, ibid. c, d.
- † Sepphar and Mesha of Moses, where sited, i. 169, d, e. Various opinions about those mounts, ibid. & seq.
- † Sepphoris made one of the five courts, iv. 114, b. Where situate, 188, (R). Taken and destroyed, 189, d. Rebuilt and fortified by Antipas, 194, d.
- † Seppinum taken by the Romans, iv. 637, c.
- † Septa; see Geuta, vii. 139, c.
- September*, the month of, why called Germanicus, v. 676, d.
- Septimius* the base murderer of Pompey, v. 150, a.
- a centurion insulted by his soldiers, 365, a.
- his writings and character, vi. 148, (Q).
- Septuagint Version*, when, how, and by whom made, iv. 37, & seq. & (O).
- † Sepulchre of the kings at Jerusalem, i. 589, a, (R). Described, ibid. & 698, b—d.
- of the common Jews, ibid. & seq.
- that of David still to be seen, ibid. & 589, b. Broken up by Hyrcan, and 3000 talents taken out of it, 699, a. Another vast treasure taken out by Herod, ibid. & c. The story examined, iv. 91, (M).
- at Athens, Solon's laws relating to them, ii. 413.
- † Sequani, who, and where seated, vii. 367, c. Subject to the Arverni, ibid. Invaded by the Germans, v. 118, b, (W). Faithfulness to the Romans, 642, f.
- Sequinus*, the famed story of, iv. 440, d, e.
- Seraia*, one of the heads of the returning Jews, iv. 4, b.
- † Serapeum described, iii. 628, d. The famed library of, 629, d.
- Serapion* murdered by Achilles, iii. 675, e.
- Serapis*, one of the Egyptian deities, i. 204, e. Whether the same with Osiris, ibid. How represented, 205, c.
- † — the statue of, brought into Egypt, iii. 627, & seq. Whence so called, 628, (B). Broken, vi. 417, c.
- the temple of, demolished by Theodosius, vi. 416, & seq.
- Seras*, an informing philosopher, executed, vi. 3, c. Found innocent, 4, d.
- † Serbetis, Yiser river in Numidia, vii. 116, a.
- Vol. VII. No. 11.
- † Serbonis, a dangerous lake between Egypt and Phœnice, li. 153, a.
- Serena*, the celebrated daughter of Theodosius, vi. 390, e. Married to Stilicho, 425, d. Plunders the statue of Cybele, ibid. e. Put to death, 458, e.
- Serenianus* delivers up the city of Cyzicus, vi. 367, d. Put to death, ibid. His reason for surrendering it, 368, f.
- Serenus*, Vib. See Vibius, v. 419.
- † Seres, the same with China, v. 300, b.
- Sergia*, a poisoner at Rome put to death, iv. 605, a—d, e.
- † Sergius the martyr prayed to by Cosirhoes, iv. 364, c, (D).
- his revolt and death, vi. 530, a.
- patriarch of Constantinople left prime minister by Heraclius, 540, b.
- governor of Sicily, raises a revolt, 551, a.
- Seriphean* frogs dumb, iii. 218, b.
- † Seripians, who, and whence, iii. 218, a. Their government, &c. ibid. & c.
- † Seriphus island described, 217, & seq.
- Seron* defeated and killed, iv. 53, c.
- Serpent*, the body of, why used to tempt Eve, i. 61, a. What kind, 62, a. Its punishment reasonable, ibid. e. Supplied by Josephus endowed with speech, 61, (N).
- Mohammedan traditions about it, ibid. & seq.
- fiery Serpents that annoyed the Israelites, their nature, 532, (S).
- craft of enchanting of Serpents considered, 853, f.
- a dangerous kind of them in Numidia, vi. 805, (S). which live upon dust, ibid. ad fin. and their monstrous size, 837, (T).
- Sertorius* saves himself in his first campaign, v. 28, f. Bravery in Spain, 44, c. and against the Allies, 49, d. against Cinna, 61, d. Advances against Marius, ibid. e, & seq. Proscribed by Sylla, 76, b. Success in Spain, 85, c, d. Forced into Africa, ibid. e. Shipwreck'd, ibid. & seq. Success in Mauritania, 86, b. Heads the Lusitanians, ibid. & seq. Excellent character, and success, 87, pass. Civilizes the Lusitanians, 88, pass. Gains on their superstition, ibid. & seq. Success against Pompey, 91, & seq. Defeats him, 92, e. Contemptuous sarcasms on him, 91, d. 93, a. Second victory, ibid. d. Forces him out of the field, ibid. e. and two other generals out of Spain, ibid. & seq. Filial love, 94, b. Glorious treaty with Mithridates, ibid. e, & seq. Conspired against, 95, d, e. Severity to the Lusitanian hostages, 96, a. Assassinated, ibid. e.
- Servants*, their condition at Athens, ii. 438, c.
- Seruz*, the supposed inventor of coinage, i. 131, b, & W.
- † Servia taken by Basilus, vii. 635, a.
- Servianus's* consulship and character, vi. 17, b, c. Success in Pannonia, ibid. Put to death by Trajan, ibid. d.
- ill-offices to Adrian, 30, e. Put to death, 44, b.
- † Serviere, the famed lake of, in High Dauphiné, ii. 249, b.
- Servi* defeated, vi. 618, a.
- Servilia's* love-letters to J. Cæsar, v. 107, (N). Divorced by Octavius, 224, a.
- the daughter of Thrasea tried, 563, b. Noble defence before the senate, ibid. d. Death, ibid. & seq.
- Servilius, C.* defeated by the slaves, v. 39, e.
- Q. murdered by the Aufculans, 49, a, b.
- P. Vatia chosen consul, 82, d.
- Isauricus defeats the pirates, 95, a.
- Nonnianus's writings and character, 57, (T).
- Sentius defeats, and takes Pifo prisoner, 400, d.
- success against the Carthaginians, vii. 27, b, c. Defeated and killed, 30, f.
- Servius Maluginus* succeeded by his son, v. 419, d.
- Sesac's* conquest of Æthiopia, vii. 207, pass. Civilizes it, 208, & seq.
- Sesac*, a Babylonian deity, i. 923, d.
- Sesacbris* king of This in Egypt, i. 239. His monstrous stature, ibid. e.
- Sesofis* king of Egypt; see Pheron, i.
- Sesofes's* fidelity to Cavades, iv. 344, d. Rewarded, 345, a. Put to death, 346, e, & seq.
- Sesoftris* king of Egypt, i. 249, d. Whether the Sesac of scripture, ibid. (H); or the Pharaoh who perished in the red-sea, 251, (N). All the boys gathered that were born on the same day with him, 254, a. Undertakes to subdue the world, 255, a. Divides Egypt into thirty-six nomes, ibid. b. Military order, ibid. c. Conquest of Ethiopia, ibid. d. Institutes the maritime order, e. Over-runs Asia, and part of Europe, ibid. f. Plants a colony in Colchis, 256, b. His pillars and statues, ibid. c, d. Return into Egypt, ibid. e. Miraculous deliverance from his bloody brother, ibid. f. His religious, civil, &c. works, 257, b, c, &c. Infatigable, ibid. f, & seq. Kills himself, 258, a. See also vol. vii. 207, d, & seq.
- Sessorian* church, built by Constantine, vi. 248, f.
- † Sestiarium, the promontory of, where, vii. 145, b.
- Sestius* opposes the Terentian law, iv. 533, c. Yields it to the tribunes, ibid. d. Made Decemvir, 534, a.
- Sestius, P.*

- Sestius P.* Receives the fasces from Augustus, v. 304, b.
† Sestus, where, ii. 476. Taken by the Athenians, ibid. d.
Setb, the son of Adam, when born, i. 75, d. His offspring, supposed meant by the sons of God, 77. Their religious life, 81, b. Defection, whence and when, ibid. b—d. Who meant by his children in Balaam's prophecy, 289, (N). His name known in Egypt, 81, (N). Line according to Sanchoniathon, 134, (N). Worshipped by the Sabians, vii. 248, in fin. not.
Setibites, their impiety, i. 83, b, c.
Setbon, king and priest of Egypt, i. 264, c. Miraculous victory over the Assyrians, ibid. f. His statue why represented with a rat, 265, a. See also vol. vii. 211, c. & seq.
Seven, some curious remarks on that number, vi. 684.
Severa, the wife of the emperor Philip, vi. 165, a. A good christian, 167, f.
— the mother of Gratian divorced, 352, d, c. & seq.
Recalled by him, 377, c.
Severianus made governor of Macedon, vi. 166, c. Recalled, 167, b.
— the son of Severus put to death, 253, c.
— defeated and killed by the Germans, 350, e.
Severinus, totally defeated by the Parthians, 63, e.
Severus's success in Parthia, iv. 321, c, f. Against the Persians, 325, e, f.
— one of Nero's architects, v. 548, c.
— Car. made governor of Syria, vi. 33, c.
— Julius ends the war with the Jews, 39, c, & seq. Equity to the Bithynians, 44, d—f.
— grandson of M. Aurelius, born, 62, c. Commendation of Pesc. Niger, 90, b. Accused and acquitted, ibid. d, e. Sent into Illyricum, 91, f. Funeral honours to Commodus, 94, b. To Pertinax, 99, e. Becomes suspected, 102. His extract, rise, &c. 103, & seq. Proclaimed emperor, 105, b. Proscribed by the senate, ibid. c. Refuses the copartnership with Julianus, 106, a. Acknowledged by all, ibid. Reception of the hundred senators, ibid. e. Disbands the praetorian guards, ibid. & seq. Entry into Rome, 107, c. Speech to the senate, ibid. & seq. Chuses a new guard, 108, c, d. Success against Niger, ibid. & seq. Cruelty to all his friends, 110, a—c. Treachery to Albinus, 111, c. Damned piece of witchcraft, ibid. e, f. Cruelty to Albinus, &c. 112, pass. Threats to the senate, 113, c. Cruelty to them and others, ibid. d, e. Success against the Parthians, ibid. f, & seq. Baffled before Atra, 114, f. Expedition into Syria, Egypt, &c. 115, b, c. Edict against the Christians and Jews, ibid. &c. Partiality to Plantianus, 116, & seq. Reformation of some abuses, 117, c. Severity, parsimony, &c. ibid. & seq. Expedition against Britain, 118, & seq. Taken ill at York, 119, b. Behaviour to the papicide Calpurnia, ibid. c. Severity to his accomplices, 120, a. Last legacy and works, ibid. c. Death and funeral honours, ibid. & seq.
— wall in Britain, when built, vii. 1415, b, c. Severe expedition against the Caledonians, 433, pass.
— one of Alexander's counsellors, 138, c.
— chosen Cæsar, 218, b. Why preferred to Constantine, 230, e. His extract, character, &c. ibid. & seq. Share of the government, 231, c. Extortions in Italy, ibid. & 233, d. Sent against Maxentius, ibid. e. Chosen consul, 234, d. Defected by his troops, ibid. e. Imprisonment and death, ibid. & seq.
— the successor of Marcellus in Gaul, 299, a.
— stands candidate for the empire, 352, b. Success in Germany, 354, d. & seq.
— Attilius's writings and character, 386, sub not.
— a priest put to death by Theodosius, 486, b.
— raised to the empire by Ricimer, 506, c. Consulship, ibid. f. Death, 508, a.
— Valentinian's general sent into Britain, vii. 435, d.
— the senator, sent to treat with Genferic, 539, c. His amiable character, ibid. b. Obtains the release of the Roman prisoners, ibid. & seq.
† Seville, where, 488, d. Taken by Attila, ibid. By the Vandals, vii. 531, d. By Rechila, 545, f.
† — the church of, given to the Arians, 531, e.
Sewers, common, built at Rome by Tarquin, iv. 449, c, (H).
Sextia's signal constancy and death, v. 560, b—d.
Sextilia, honoured with the title of Augusta, v. 618, f.
Sextius revives the contest of the Agrarian law, iv. 553, & seq.
— a plebeian, chosen tribune, 579, a. Consul, 582, f.
— Tull. speech to the dictator, 589.
— Subdues the Salyes, 802, b.
Sextus, Pompey's son's narrow escape, v. 150, b. Brings Cato the news of his death, 156, b. Follows him, 157, b. Kind reception of the proscribed citizens, 226, c. & seq.
— His grandson chosen consul, 345, d. Swears allegiance to Tiberius, 354, b.
— Caius, a corrupt senator, 444, b.
— the stoic, an account of, vi. 82, sub not.
— Condianus put to death by Commodus, 88, d.
Shaddad, prince of the ancient Arabs, vii. 241, e, & seq.
Shallum, the murderer of Zecharia, i. 828, c. Murdered by Menahem, ibid.
Shalmanzer succeeds Tiglath Pileser in Assyria, i. 891. Reduces Samaria after three years siege, ibid. b. Transplants the ten tribes into Assyria, 135, a, b. 891, b. Vain five years siege of Tyre, 416, f. Defeated at sea, 892, a.
Shamar Tarabsh, twenty fourth king of Yaman, vii. 268, d.
Shammai, a famed Jewish doctor, iv. 119, (I). Opposes Herod's oath of allegiance, 144, b.
Shamgar delivers Israel from the Philistine yoke, i. 343, a. Kills 600 with an ox goad, ibid. & 742, f. This event not mentioned by Josephus, ibid. (S).
Shanater D'by, deposed for his incontinence, vii. 269, d.
Shang-Ti, the Supreme Being in the Chinese Theology, i. 34, a.
Sharazer murders his father in the temple of Nisroch, i. 895, b. The motive of his parricide, ibid. (C).
† Sharon, the country of, described, i. 575, (A).
† Shaveb, the valley of, described, i. 574, b, & (T). Formed for the meeting of Abraham and Melchizedek, ibid.
† Sheba, what countries peopled by him, i. 164, d.
— raises a revolt against David, 737, c. Murdered, ibid. f.
† — the queen of, visit to Solomon, i. 801, b, (S). A doubtful tradition of her, vii. 195, b—d. Her country, religion, &c. ibid. c, f. et seq. The Abassins account of her, 206, et seq.
† — a city in the land of Canaan, i. 446, d. Where sited, iv. 204, (N). Made the metropolis of Samaria, iv. 30, c. Beautified, 31. Taken by Hyrcan, 92, b.
† Shechemites, and the men of Millô, who, i. 747. Proclaim Abimelech king, ibid. c.
Shekel, Jewish, an account of, i. 721, b.
Shek-kia, who, i. 24, e.
Shekas Arab, their office, power, &c. 244, d.
Shelab, Juda's son by a Canaanitish wife, i. 450, c.
Sheliah Zibber, his office among the Jews, iv. 25, (Q).
† Shelph, one of Joktan's sons, uncertain where settled, i. 170, a.
† Shm, and his posterity, i. 125, a. When born, b. The pretended inventor of astronomy, ibid. e. Confounded with Melchizedek, ibid. His death and supposed works, ibid. Whether the same with Pluto or Typhon, ibid. (A). Countries planted by his descendants, 162, c, f.
Shemaia, a prophet of the Jews, i. 806, d.
Shemmar, the highest excommunication of the Jews, i. 674, a.
Shemzer, king of Zeboim, routed by Chedarlacmer, i. 327, b.
Shepherds, the irruption of, into Egypt, i. 247, b. Hold that country 511 years, ibid. d, e. Whence and when they were, ibid. (B). Driven out of it, 258, e. Build Jerusalem, ibid. f. Mistaken for Israelites, 259, a, (I).
Shephai, the son of Anac driven out of Hebron by Caleb, i. 334, a, et (B).
Shetarbushai, governor of Samaria, an enemy to the Jews, iv. 9, c.
† Shewaa, the mountains of, where, vii. 185, d.
Shewbread, why called the bread of faces, i. 624, b. How made, &c. ibid. &c.
— the table of, described, 658, d. &c.
Sheshbazzar, whether the same with Zerubbabel, iv. 3, (C).
Shilboleth, a word by which the Ephraimites were discovered, i. 753, b.
Shikkab, among the Arabians, what, vi. 668, c.
† Shibr, the country of, where, vii. 234. Famed for its frankincense, ibid. d.
Shilob, what meant by Jacob in his prophecy, i. 462, (G).
Shimi's villainous behaviour to David, i. 784, b. How to be treated by Solomon, 792, a. Put to death, 793.
† Shinram, where, i. 332, e. The king of, defeated by the Jews, ibid. f.
† Shinjar, the plain of, where, i. 141, b, c. Extent, 142, a. Etymon, ibid. (D). Footsteps of it in authors, ibid. c, d.
Shipra and Shush, two religious midwives in Egypt, i. 474, d. Rewarded for not obeying Pharaoh's bloody orders, 476, a, b, and notes.
† Shittim, the vale of, its uncertain situation, i. 574, a. — wood, various opinions about it, i. 652, (Q).
† Shoab, the same with Jethro, vii. 238, c. — the cave of one of the stations from Egypt to Mecca, i. 305, (R).
Shobach, an Assyrian general, defeated and killed by David, i. 382, d.
† Shur and Cadesh, two deserts, where sited, i. 429, c.
† Shusan, the metropolis of Sutiana, i. 952. Sometimes the imperial residence, ibid. c. See also Susa, ii. 58, not. — a gate of the Jewish temple, why so called, iv. 10, e.
Siamek, second king of Persia, according to oriental writers, ii. 175, f.
Siamefe, hold the stoic doctrine of the destruction and renewing of the earth, i. 25, a.
Sibylline books, brought to Tarquin, 462, d. By whom kept, ibid. e. (M). Consulted, 558, a. A law for preserving them,

- them, 580, & 581, c. Consulted by Sylla, v. 99, a. An account of them, ibid. (V). Purged by Augustus, 312, b, c. A new one proposed by Gallus, 445, d, (V). Opened a-fifth, vi. 180, b. Answer to Maxentius, 246, c.
- Sibylla*, who, and how many, v. 79, c, & (V).
- Sibyllus*, promoted by Antiochus, iii. 431.
- † Sicambri, who, v. 122, c. vii. 541, a. Defeated by Drusus, v. 319, b, c. Ravaged by Cæsar, [438], d, (M). Submit to Tiberius, 541, a, b. Why so soon extinct, ibid. b, c. Some notions about them exploded, 548, a, b.
- † Sicani, who and whence, iv. 415, a, b. iii. 10, f, & seq. Go over to the Carthaginians, vi. 759, & seq.
- † Sicania, the ancient name of Sicily, iii. 10, f.
- Sicanus*, a fabulous king of Spain, vii. 320, d.
- Sicarii*, in Judea, their cruelties, iv. 264, c, & (C). Horrid insolence, 267, b. Join with the zealots, 269, & seq. — a new set of them, 276, a.
- Sicca venera*, an ancient deity, probably Succoth Benoth, vi. 697, a.
- † — city, where sited, vii. 110, e.
- Siceus*, a fabulous king of Spain, vii. [321], a.
- Sichæus*, priest of Hercules, murdered by his brother Pygmalion, i. 415, f.
- † Sicily, island, described, iii. 1 & seq. Whether ever joined to the continent, a, b. Famed for learning, 10, b. Its first inhabitants, 11, & seq. Invaded by the Athenians, 26, c. By the Carthaginians, 40, & seq. 50, et seq. 86, et seq. Invite Pyrrhus, 88, et seq. Oppressed by him, ibid. f. Drive him away, 89, et seq. Divided into two factions, ii. 507, b. The war of, ibid. & c. Quelled by Hermocrates, 510, f. et seq. Invaded by the Athenians, 517. By the Romans, iv. 655, et seq. Yielded to them, 678. Made a Roman province, 679, d. Revolts, 794, et seq. Laid waste by the slaves, v. 31, et seq. 34, a. Subdued by Pompey, 77, a. Visited by Adrian, vi. 36, b. Infested with Banditti, 180, a. Submits to Constantine, 285, c. Plundered by the Vandals, 485. Ravaged by the Saracens, 546, a. Subdued by Genesic, vii. 539, d. Yielded to Odoacer, ibid. Subdued by Totila, 674, c, d. Recovered by the Romans, 675, b.
- the Thema of, 721, c, et seq.
- Sicinius Bellutus* chosen head of the revolt, iv. 490, a. and first tribune, 492, a. Speech against Coriolanus, 495, b, c. Accusation against him, 497, a, b.
- Sabinus defeats the Volsci, 503, d.
- Dentatus; see Dentatus, 529, f.
- a buffooning tribune baffled, v. 89, d, e. Assassinated, 90, a.
- † Sicoris river in Spain, vii. 320, d.
- Siconolfus* made duke of Salerno, vii. 724, f, & seq.
- † Siculi, who, and whence, iv. 414, a. Why so called, ibid. b. vi. 11, c, & seq. Their kings and government, 13, c, & seq. Various changes, 14, pass. Assist Hannibal before Agrigentum, 39, b. Dismissed by him, 40, a.
- † Sisyra gives name to a kingdom, and to Peloponnesus, ii. 349, b. 350, c.
- † — the kingdom of, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. Its site, names, &c. 349, pass. Kings, &c. 350, a—c. Afterwards governed by priests, ibid. c. Invaded by the Herælidæ, ibid. &c. Accedes to the Achaean league, 641, & seq.
- † Sidenki, who, and where, iv. 595, f. Invaded by the Samnites, ibid. & seq. Subdued by the Romans, 604, a—c.
- † Sidim, Siddim, the vale of, invaded by Chedorlaomer, i. 326, c. Five of its kings defeated by him, 627. Inhabitants defied by fire from heaven, 328, b, c, (T).
- Sido* king of the Suevi assists Vespasian, v. 623, b. vii. 541, f.
- † Sidon, eldest son of Canaan, the founder of that city, i. 392, b. 410, c.
- the daughter of Pontus, the inventress of hymns, i. 137, a.
- † — the metropolis of Phenice, whence so called, i. 392, b. Various opinions about the etymon, ibid. (E). Its harbour described, ibid. c. History, kings, &c. 410, e, & seq. None mentioned in scripture till Jeremiah, ibid. &c. Betrayed to Ochus by Tennis and Jeremias, 411, c. Set on fire by its inhabitants, ibid. f. The ashes of it sold for a vast sum, 412, a. Rebuilt by its absent citizens, ibid. b. Taken by Alexander, ibid. by Antiochus, iii. 543, d.
- † Sidonians, their extract, i. 392, b. 410, c. 40,000 burn themselves and their city, 411, f. Revolt from the Persians, ii. 151, & seq. Betrayed by Mentor, 152, b, c.
- Sidonius*, a zealous orthodox bishop, vii. 515, e, f, & seq. His character of Euric, 516, e, f. Retreat from Lions, 583, f.
- † Siga, where situate, vii. 114, f.
- † Sigaum, a city in Phrygia Minor, ii. 305, b, (D). Taken by the Athenians, iii. 106, b.
- Sigebor* invaded by the Allemans, vii. 568, d. Murdered by his son, 578, b, c.
- Sigeric* chosen king of the Goths, vi. 470, f. Murders Atrophus's children, 471, a.
- succeeds him in Gaul, vii. 492, e. 509, c. Assassinated, ibid. 585, & seq. vi. 471, b.
- Sigg* made king of Franconia, vii. 489.
- Sigmund* sent to assist Manuel, vi. 646, d. Defeat and narrow escape, ibid. f.
- made a patrician, vii. 581, c. Submissive letter to Anastasius, 585, e—e. Murders his son Sigeric, ibid. e, f. Retirement and penance, 586, a, b. Defeated by Chlotildis's sons, ibid. c. Death, ibid. &c.
- Sigifunt*'s success against Bonifacius, vi. 481, a.
- Signet-ring*, by whom first worn in Persia, ii. 179, a.
- † Sigtuna in Sweden, built by the famed Woden, vii. 489, c.
- Sibon* the Amorite dispossesses the Ammonites, i. 294, c. and Moabites beyond Jordan, 330, a. Refuses Moses a passage, ibid. b. Defeated by him, ibid. c.
- Silana* divorced by Silius, v. 502, d. Accuses Agrippina, 523, & seq. Her character, 624, a. Banishment, ibid. d.
- Silanus*'s success in Spain, iv. 737, pass. Treaty with Mafinissa, ibid. e.
- Jul. chosen consul, v. 312, c.
- Gaius' trial and banishment for extortion, 412, e, f, 413, (I).
- Appius betrayed to death by Messalina, 494, c, d.
- Lucius betrothed to Octavia, 505, e. Betrayed by Vitellius, 506, a, b. Kills himself, ibid. d.
- Junius put to death by Agrippina, 518, b, c.
- Torquatus put to death by Nero, 559, c, & seq.
- † Silingians, who, and where, vii. 509, e, 530, f.
- Silius*'s trial, v. 420, a, b, (X). Death, ibid. d.
- Publius banished, 422, e.
- Caius' speech against pleaders, 500, c, (L). Becomes Messalina's flatterer, 502, b, c. Marries her, ibid. d, e. Put to death, 504, b.
- Italicus chosen consul, 569, c.
- the poet; see Italicus, 603, sub not.
- Silk*, when first brought into Europe, v. 300, (B). Law made against wearing it, ibid. in fin.
- Sillanus* defeated in Gaul, v. 12, f. Chosen consul, 107, a. Condemns the conspirators, ibid. b.
- M. put to death by Caligula, 466, c, d.
- Silo*'s falsehood to Antigonus, iv. 127, d, e. to Herod, 128, b.
- † Siloam, the famed pool of, i. 586, b, et (E).
- † Siloe, where situate, i. 586, c.
- † Silphium, the famed plant, described, vii. 170, d. Where it grows, ibid. et seq.
- Silvanus*, Plaut. kills his wife, v. 421, a. His death, ibid. b.
- Gras. one of Nero's conspirators, 551, et seq. Kills himself, 557, d.
- † Silures, who, and where sited, vii. 410, e. Brave defence against the Romans, 430, pass. Subdued by Frontinus, 431, a.
- in Britain, who, v. 510, b. Treachery to the Romans, ibid. et seq. Success against them, 512, & seq.
- Simen*, Jacob's second son born, i. 441, b. Kept by Joseph in Egypt, 454, b. Jacob's prophecy against him, 462, a. How fulfilled, ibid. (F). His tribe, why omitted in Moses's blessing, 543, a. His lot in the promised land, 569, a. — his testimony of the child Jesus, iv. 163, b. Who he was, ibid. (E).
- a seditious Jew burns and wastes Judea, 188, e, et seq. Beheaded, 189, a.
- wars against the Romans, vi. 574, c. Cruelty to them, ibid. et seq. New invasions, 577, et seq. Alliance with Romanus, 579, e, f. Success and ravages in Macedonia, vii. 629, d. Defeated, ibid. e. Treachery to Leo, ibid. et seq. Peace with him, 630, a, b. Falls out with Alexander, ibid. c. Takes Adrianople, ibid. d, e. Defeats the Romans, ibid. et seq. Cruelty to Leo, 631, d, e. Besieges Constantinople, ibid. e, f. Peace with Romanus, 632, a. Defeated by the Chibati, ibid. b. Dies, ibid.
- Simeonites* defeat and destroy the Amalekites, i. 321, d.
- Similis* promoted by Adrian, vi. 33, c. His character, ibid. et seq. Relinquishes and retires, 34, c.
- † Simois river described, ii. 306, e, f, et seq.
- Simma* adopts Semiramis, i. 876.
- Simon the Just*, High Priest of the Jews, his character, writings, &c. iv. 36, a, et (N).
- Id. Onias's successor's excellent character, 42, d, e. Death, 45, b.
- the Maccabee's exploits against Demetrius, iii. 603, c, d. Succeeds Jonathan, 604, c. Allies with Demetrius, 605, d. with Sidetes, 606, d, e. Success in Galilee, iv. 64, d. Made general by Antiochus, 81, e. Takes Beth-zurah, 82, b. Joppa, 83, b. Outwitted by Tryphon, 84, b, c. Sundry alliances, ibid. e, f. Letter to Demetrius, ibid. et seq. Takes the title of Prince, 85, a, (A). His character, 86, et (D). Alliances with Rome, &c. 87, a. Coin,

- Coin described, ibid. (E). Answer to Antiochus, 87, d.
 Riches and death, ibid. et seq.
 — a Benjaminite falls out with good Onias, 45, et seq. et (V). Betrays the temple-treasure to the Syrians, 64, a.
 — father-in-law to Herod, made high priest, 142, d, c. Deposed, 153, b.
 — Peter the apostle; see Peter, 119, & seq.
 — the Canaanite, why so called, 208, (T).
 — a proud Pharisee offended at Christ's charity, 210, & seq.
 — the leper entertains Christ at supper, 232, b, (I).
 — a Cyrenian bears the cross of Christ after him, 239, a.
 — Magus converted, 254, b. Gives a new name to an old sin, ibid. &c.
 — Canbaras made high priest, 261, b.
 — a furly lawyer mollified by Agrippa, 261, (V).
 — the son of Judas Galileus crucified, 263, d.
 — a Jew of Scythopolis, his desperate end, 269, (M).
 — head of the Sicarii, raises an army against the zealots, 276, b. Invades Idumea, ibid. d. Marches against Jerusalem, ibid. & seq. Besieges John in the temple, 277, b. Holds the city against him and the Romans, 280, a—c. Bloody ingratitude to Matthias, 283, b. Taken prisoner, 288, f. His punishment, 289, c.
 Simonides's wife instructions to Hiero, iii. 22, c, d.
 — two worthies of that name at Coos, 217, a, & (V).
 † Simple-Gades, two dangerous rocks, where, ii. 384, (H).
 Simplicius's opinion of the Eleatic system, i. 7, a. Contender for the world's eternity, 14, a. Reflexions against the Mosaic creation, ibid. &c.
 — his banishment, vi. 305, f.
 — vicar of Rome, his cruelties there, 361. Put to death, 377, f.
 † Sin, the famed desert of, vii. 227, c.
 † Sinai, the sacred mount of, vii. 227, d.
 † Sindia, where situate, vii. 224, (B).
 Sinex's treachery and death, vi. 481, a.
 † Singana, where situate, vi. 308. Taken by Sapor, ibid. b. Demolished, ibid. c. Yielded to the Persians, 341, f, & seq.
 — the famed battle of, 278, c—e.
 † Singara, the city and mountain of, i. 142, b, c.
 † Singidunum taken by Attila, vii. 465, f. Described, ibid. & seq. sub not.
 † Singillic Bay in Macedon, iii. 260, a.
 Sinnaces conspires against Artabanus, iv. 314, f. Put to death, 315, b.
 † Sinope, where, iii. 725. Taken by Phraartes, ibid. c. by Lucullus, 748, c, & (O).
 Sintula carries off part of Julian's forces, vi. 309, & seq. Brings them back to him, 310, d.
 † Sion Mount described, i. 573, b.
 † Siphus island, its riches, &c. iii. 192, e. Plundered by the Samian exiles, 193, a. 219, pass.
 † Sipilus, a city in Phrygia, ii. 293, c.
 † Sippara, the city of the sun, where, i. 91, d.
 Sira, a christian lady married to Cosroes II, iv. 365, a.
 † Sirbon, the famed lake of, in Egypt, described, i. 244, (B).
 † Siriad, the land of, where situate, i. 81, b, & (N).
 † Sirmium, metropolis of Pannonia, v. 336, a. Besieged by them, ibid. Burnt with lightning, vi. 364, f. Taken by the Avari, 534, a. by Attila, vii. 465, f. Described, 466, (L).
 † Siroco, the wind of, described, vii. 29, in fin. not.
 Siroe's treason and parricide, iv. 368, f, & seq. Peace with the Romans, 369, d. Death, ibid. & seq. Vid. & vi. 542, a—c.
 Siromus king of Salamis, iii. 177, c.
 Sirpius the centurion, whence so called, v. 362, b, (Z).
 Sifachbia at Athens, what, ii. 429, a—c.
 † Sifaris, a river in Numidia, vii. 115, f.
 Sifibalus, Sifenand, kings of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.
 Sifera, general of Jabin, routed by Deborah and Barac, i. 335, & seq. Killed by Jael, 336, c.
 Sifbac, king of Egypt, strips the temple of Jerusalem, i. 806, d.
 Sifigambis, how treated by Alexander, iii. 336, & seq. 355, c. Her death, 419, a.
 Sifypbus, the supposed founder of Corinth, ii. 390, b. His punishment in hell, ibid. (A).
 † Silana, where sitcd, vi. 833. Taken by the Romans, ibid. c.
 Sitakes put to death for oppression, iii. 403.
 — Ist king of the Odryse, iii. 791.
 — Iid, his warlike reign, ibid. e, f.
 † Sittace, a province of Assyria, i. 858, b.
 Sittas king of the Deuceletæ, wars against the Bastarnæ, iii. 790.
 — the betrayer of Martyropolis to the Persians, iv. 360, c. Burnt alive, 363, f.
 Sittas defeated by the Persians, vi. 523, d, c. Success against them, 524, c, f.
 † Sittis, where situate, vii. 115, a.
 Sittis's signal services to Jul. Cæsar, v. 165, c. and rewarded ibid. d.
 — Publ. success in Numidia, vii. 136, & seq. Death, ibid. (V).
 — success against Juba, rewarded, 137, d, c.
 † Sittiorum, Colonia Ciria, whence so called, vii. 296.
 † Sittones, who and where sitcd, vii. 486, d.
 Sivan, the month of, answering to our May, i. 612, (K).
 Skold, made king of Jutland, vii. 489, c.
 Slaves, how used at Athens, ii. 438, d.
 — at Sparta, 567, a, & not.
 — favoured by Servius, iv. 455, c.
 — their conspiracy and punishment at Rome, 480, b. A new one formed to burn the city, 553. A third discovered by Errius, 660, b.
 — inflicted into the army, 713, c.
 — raise a rebellion in Sicily, 749, & seq.
 — their desperate end, v. 31, f.
 — raise a new war, ibid. & seq.
 — defeated by Licinius, 39, d.
 — revolt over to Cinna, 63, c.
 — butcher the Romans, 64, d.
 — 10000 made Roman citizens by Sylla, 72, & seq.
 — new revolt in Italy, 97, d. Defeated by Crassus, 98, d, c.
 — generosity of some to save their masters, 226, & seq. 228, & seq.
 — their oaths how admitted in courts, 322, b.
 — a severe law against them, 526, a. 400 of them executed by it, 540, e, f, & seq.
 — forbid to inform against their masters, vi. 3, c.
 — Adrian's law concerning them, 47, c.
 — their manumission facilitated by Constantine, 255, d.
 — encouraged by Honorius to take up arms, 453, c, d.
 — 40000 desert over to Alaric, 460, a.
 Slavonians, Slavonians, their signal hospitality, vii. 389, (D).
 † Sleswick, the ancient seat of the Angles, vii. 441, a.
 † Smeas river in Lacedæmon, ii. 397, c.
 Smerdis put to death by Cambyfes, ii. 98, d.
 — the Mage, substituted to the real one on the throne, 100, & seq. Discovered by the want of ears, 101, pass. Murdered by the Persian nobles, 102. Called Artaxerxes in scripture, 103, not.
 — king of Cappadocia, iii. 764.
 — Smoke, the selling of, at Rome, what, vi. 141, a. Its punishment, ibid. d.
 † Smyrna, a city in Lydia, ii. 289, c. By whom built, 750, b. Described, ibid. d.
 — the modern one described, 751. Subject to earthquakes, ibid. (D). Confederates with Seleucus, iii. 528, a. Besieged by Antiochus, 545. Repaired by M. Aurelius, vi. 79, f.
 Smyrneans, build a temple to Tiberius, v. 419, d. Their contest with ten other cities about it, 428, c, (F).
 So, in scripture, probably the same with Sabbaco, i. 264, b. Surprised by the Colophonians, ii. 751, pass.
 Socrates Prytanis, of Athens's, singular integrity, ii. 528, f. Character and accusation, 552, & seq. Defence, 534. Glorious death, ibid. & seq. & (O). Courtcd by Archelaus, iii. 284, b. Vindicated from Cynædium, 635, e. His writings and character, vi. 491, (S).
 † — island, where, vii. 239, d.
 † Sodom and Gomorrah, where, &c. i. 327, c. Taken by Chedorlaomer, 327, c. Destroyed by fire from heaven, i. 284, & seq. 429, c.
 Soemis, the mother of Heliogabalus, vi. 132, & seq. Signal bravery, 133, f. Vile character, 134, f. Made president of the petticoat senate, 136, c. Murdered, 137, b.
 † Sogdia, where, iii. 369. Invaded by Alexander, ibid. & seq.
 † Sogdian rock, taken by him, iii. 383, & seq. Described, ibid. & (B).
 Sogdians revolt against Alexander, iii. 382, & seq.
 Sogdianus murders Xerxes, ii. 134, a. Mounts the throne, ibid. d. Cruel death, ibid. & (O).
 † Sobar, where sitcd, vii. 235, c.
 Sobemus betrays Herod's bloody orders to Mariamne, iv. 138, b, c. Put to death for it, 139, d.
 — made king of Sophene, v. 519, c.
 — king of Edessa, declares for Vespasian, 621, a. Driven from his throne, vi. 63, c. Restored by M. Verus, 65, a.
 Soily, Henry de, erects a new monument to king Arthur, vii. 449, sub not.
 † Soiffons, erected into a small kingdom, vi. 507, f.
 — city, made metropolis by Clovis, 567, b.
 Soldiers, Roman, their pay, &c. v. 360, (R). Raise Otho to the empire, 595, & seq. Become too powerful under him, 596, f. Relieved from a grievous impost, 597, a, b.
 — esteemed by the Spartans, ii. 564, a. Lycurgus's laws concerning them, 565, & seq. How regulated at Macedon, iii. 267, & seq.

- Solduri*, among the Gauls, what, vi. 88, (D).
Solecism, whence derived, ii. 340, c.
 † Soli, Solæ, a city in Cilicia Propria, ii. 340, c.
 — of Cyprus, why so called, iii. 173, a.
 † Solicinium, where situate, vi. 354, c.
 — the battle of, ibid. d, e.
 † Solis mons, the promontory of, vii. 145, c.
Solomona and her seven sons martyred, iv. 54, b, c. & (I).
Solomon, several kings of that name before Adam, according to oriental writers, i. 51, b.
 — king of Judea born, i. 780, d. Proclaimed, 790, c. Puts Adonijah and Joab to death, 192, d. and Shimei, 793, a. Marries Pharaoh's daughter, ibid. b. Signal proofs of his wisdom, ibid. c. d. Magnificence, ibid. e. Builds the temple, 795, and dedicates it, 797, & seq. Its utensils, &c. ibid. (M). Vast number of victims, 798, c. Palaces, 799, a, &c. Navy, 800, pass. Visit from the queen of Sheba, 801, b. Defection from God, 802, c. Idolatries, ibid. &c. Death, 803. Whether he ever repented, 801, (W).
Solon, the Athenian lawgiver's extract and character, ii. 424, a. Elogy on the loss of Salamis, 425. Recovers it from the Megareans, ibid. & seq. Gains his cause against them, 426, e. Stratagem against the Cyreans, 427. Chosen archon, 428, e. Legislator, 429, e. & seq. Builds the city of Soli, 430. His body of laws, ibid. & seq. Regulation of the Athenian months, 434, b, & not. Travels into Egypt, Cyprus, &c. 435. Interview with Thales, ibid. With Cræsus, 335, c. 445, not. Quells the Athenian factions, 446, a. Just reproof to Theipis, ibid. c. Letter to Epaminondas, 447, f. Answer to Pisistratus, 448. Death, ibid. & seq.
 — his laws introduced at Rome, iv. 532, e, f.
 † Solos, in Cyprus, whence so called, ii. 445, c.
 † Solva, the metropolis of Noricum Mediterraneum, v. 314, in fin. not.
Solyman's irruption into Thrace, vi. 551, c. Death, ibid.
 — the son of Cutlumeses, makes peace with Rome, 609, d. Attempts to save Nice, 615, c—e.
 — the successor of Orchades, invades Europe, 645, e, & seq.
Sons of God, who meant by, i. 81, b, c, & seq.
Sopater's writings and character, vi. 274, sub not. Put to death, ibid. ad fin.
 † Sopbeme, where situate, vi. 215, c. Yielded to the Romans, ibid. b. See also Zobab, i. 731, & seq.
Sophia, the empress, instigates Justin to cruelty, vi. 531, f, & seq. Moving letter to Cosrohes, iv. 357. vi. 532, c. Obtains a three years truce from him, iv. 357, d. Cabals against Tiberius, vi. 533, c. Strip of her treasure for it, ibid.
 † — the famed church of, built by Constantine, vi. 316, b. By whom burnt, 414, d.
Sopboniba married to Syphax, iv. 740, b. to Masinissa, 743, d. Her character and death, 744, b. See also vii. 75, b. 124, f.
Sopbronius yielded to Maxentius, vi. 241, d. Kills herself, ibid. c.
Sopbronius Tigellin, banished by Caligula, v. 477, a.
 † Sora, where, iv. 618. Taken by the Romans, ibid. & seq.
Soranus Bareas unjustly accused, v. 562, e. Condemned, 563, pass. Signal intrepidity and death, ibid.
Sorex, a companion of Sylla's debauchees, v. 83, c.
 † Sofia, the metropolis of New Ducia, vi. 195, a.
Sofibus, Philopater's wicked minister, iii. 643, & seq. Murders the queen, 646, e. Turned out, ibid. e. Made guardian of Epiphanes, 647, d. His character, ibid. e, f.
 — the false accuser of Valerius, v. 499, & seq. (H). Put to death by Agrippina, 508, a.
Sofipater's speech to the Syraculans, iii. 106, c.
 — Cbar. his writings and character, vi. 478, not.
Sofis head of a faction at Syracuse, iii. 103, f.
Sofistratus tyrant of Syracuse, deposed, iii. 80. Opposes Tæmion, 88, e. Revolts from Pyrrhus, 90, b. vi. 788, e. Applies to the Carthaginians, ibid. f. Received again at Syracuse, 789, a, b.
Sofius left governor of Syria, iv. 129, d. Assists Herod, 130, c. Contempt of Antigonius, ibid. d.
 — the consul, retires to M. Antony, v. 286, a. Defeated and killed, 289, e.
Sofibenes chosen general of Macedon, iii. 470, c. Slain by the Gauls, ibid. e.
Sofistratus builds the tower of Pharos, iii. 626, f. Outwits Ptolemy in the inscription, ibid. & seq.
 — foretells Titus's advancement, v. 620, b.
Sotades the Cynedic poet put to death, iii. 635, a.
Sotbimus king of the Odryæ, iii. 793, a.
Soul of man, a spiritual substance, i. 46, a. How infused, ibid. d. Various opinions about it, ibid. et seq.
Sous king of Sparta, his valour and conquests, ii. 403, & seq.
- Soto* sacrificed in ratifying of treaties, iv. 441, (S).
 — with pig, sacrificed to Juno, 595, c.
Sozomen's account of Sapor IId, iv. 332, (H). Other writings and character, vi. 491, (S).
 † Sozopetra destroyed by Theophilus, vi. 569, c.
 † Sozopolis taken by stratagem, vi. 617, f.
 † Spain described, vii. 294, a. Its limits, names, &c. ibid. & seq. How divided, 295, c, d. Its cities, colonies, &c. 296, & seq. How governed under the Romans, 311, & seq. Suffers a twenty-six years drought, [323], a, b. By what nations invaded, ibid. & seq. When, and how subdued by the Carthaginians, [325], & seq. by the Romans, [326]. Strip of its immense riches, ibid. & seq. & (A). Abandoned by the Vandals, 530, a, b. Its dreadful state occasioned by it, ibid. d, &c.
 — first inhabited by Celtes, ii. 247, b, c. Why called Iberia, 244, E, (vii. 294, pass.) — its total reduction by Scipio, iv. 738, pass.
 — made a Roman province, 750, & seq.
 — sundry revolts, 751, a. 767, pass.
 — recovered by Metellus, 781, b.
 — visited by Adrian, vi. 35, d.
 — invaded by the Franks, 182, a.
 — submits to Constantius, 285, c. to the British Constantine, 455, d, e.
 — invaded by the Barbarians, 462, d.
 — cruelly ravaged, ibid. e, f. How divided amongst them, ibid. & seq.
 — part of, subdued by Attila, 488, d. by the Goths and Suevi, 514, a.
 — when first invaded by the Carthaginians, 729, & seq.
 † Spalato, the palace of, described, v. 218, d.
 † Spaniards, their extract, &c. ii. 247, & seq. vii. 295, & seq. Declare for the Pompeii, v. 171, b. Subdued by Augustus, 299, d. Anciently brave soldiers, vi. 731, a. Begin to court the Romans, vii. 58, e. Revolt under their Reguli, 71, f. Defeated, 72 a, b. Take up arms, 73, c, d. Forced to peace, ibid. & seq. Their religion, 309, & seq. Government, 311, pass. Laws, 312, b—d. Valour and discipline, ibid. e, & seq. Why so hardly conquered, 313, a—d. Arts, sciences, &c. ibid. e, & seq. Ancient language, 314, e—f. Why mixed with Hebrew, 315, a—c. When exchanged for the Latin, ibid. d—f. Writing, 316, a—c. Odd way of computing time, ibid. c—e, & not. Education of children, ibid. f, & seq. Riches and commerce, 317, b—d. Character, ibid. e, f. Fabulous history, 319, & seq.
Spanish Bishops zeal for their flocks, vii. 530, c.
 — women, their hardihoods, 302, d, e.
 † Sparta, whence so called, ii. 395, a. Described, 396, & seq.
 — their kings; see sub Lacedemon.
 — betrayed to the Heraclidæ, 403. Damaged by an earthquake, 594, b. Defended by the valour of her women, 623, pass. Burnt by the Heruli, vi. 84, d.
Spartacus, 1st king of Boiopus, iii. 841, d.
 — IId, ibid. e.
 — IIIId, 842, f.
 — head of the Capuan slaves, v. 97, d. Defeats the consul, ibid. e. Defeated and killed, 98, d, e. vii. 397, b, c.
 † Spartans, whence so called, ii. 395, b, c. Treatment of Darius's heralds, 111, e. Brave defence against Xerxes, 120, & seq. Defeat, 121, & seq. The rest see under Lacedemonians.
Spartianus's writings and character, vi. 220, (G).
Spartus, whose son he was, ii. 395, c.
 † Spauban, Hispaban, the metropolis of Persia, described, ii. 33, not.
 — by whom built according to oriental writers, 192, b.
Speech, the origin of, i. 149, a, b. How formed, ibid. c. 150, a. Whether under more tongues before the flood, 151, b, c. Which was the original one, ibid. (V), & seq.
Speluncæ, in great use among the Romans, v. 430, (B).
Spendius raises a tumult among the Carthaginian mercenaries, vi. 854. Sent against Hamilcar, 859, c, d. Defeated, 860, b, & seq. Seized by him, 862, e, f.
Spendibbalbus makes peace with the Romans, vi. 586, f, & seq.
 † Spermatophagi, their site, food, &c. vii. 184, c.
 † Spbacteria islands, where sited, iii. 242. Taken by the Lacedemonians, ii. 508, d. Retaken by the Athenians, 509, e.
Spbixes, shew'd the beginning of the Nile's rising, i. 179, a. Some relics of them, ibid. b.
Spbodriat, king of Sparta's, attempt on the Pyrræum, ii. 615, d.
Spider, immense, the cause of all things, according to the Pendets, i. 23, d.
Spies, twelve sent to view the promised land, i. 526, a. Bring an ill report of it, ibid. c, d. Destroyed by sudden death, 527, d.

- death, 527, a. Jewish fast kept on that account, ibid. &c.
- Spies*, sent by Joshua to Jericho, i. 554, a. Concealed by Rahab, ibid. b. Their return and brave report, 555, a, b.
- † Spina, by whom built, iv. 414, d.
- Spinoza*, the first who reduced atheism into a system, i. 6, c. Monstrous system of the universe, 8, c. Of the sun standing still, confuted, 559, b.
- Spintria*, driven from Rome, v. 461, c.
- † Spire, taken by the Vandals, vi. 453, f.
- Spirits*, good, see angels, i. 48, & seq.
- evil, not mentioned by Greeks or Romans, 51, c.
- Spitamenes*, offers to deliver up Bessus to Alexander, iii. 369, c, & seq.
- Besieges Maracanda, 371, f, & seq. Defeats Pharnaces, 372, f. Driven off by Alexander, 373, c. Heads the revolted Sogdians, 382, b. Defeated by Cernus, 383, b. Murdered by the Scythians, ibid. c, & (A).
- Spolis*, among the Romans, how bestowed, iv. 487, (I).
- Spoletum*, made the capital of Umbria, vii. 620, d. Taken by Belisarius, 670, c. Confiscated by Sylla, v. 76, d.
- the dukes of, 696, b. 701, d. Extent of their territories, 721, a.
- Spolia opima*, see Opima, iv. 430, a.
- Spoliarium*, among the Romans, what, iv. 804, (Z).
- † Sporades islands in Ethiopia, vii. 190, b. Whence so called, iii. 203, b. Described, ibid.
- Sporus*, a Catamite married to Nero, v. 546, d. Accompanies him in his flight, 575.
- Spurinna*, the augur's warning to Cæsar, v. 181, b.
- Vesivius, commands in Placentia for Otho, 606, c.
- † Squirri, Scirri, who and where, vii. 462, a. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. b. Submit to Attila, 466, c. Regain their liberty, 482, a. Settled in Mæsia, &c. 518, d. Defeated by the Ostrogoths, 519, d. Settled in Scythia minor, vi. 496, b.
- † Stabiae, where situated, v. 52. Taken by Sylla, ibid. c.
- Stabrobates*, king of India, defeats Semiramis, i. 882, c.
- Stabuli præfectus*, his office, vi. 346, b.
- † Stæni, who and where situated, v. 3. a. Their desperate end, ibid. b. vii. 395, d, &c.
- † Stagira, a city in Macedon, iii. 256, c.
- Standards*, Roman, why abhorred by the Jews, iv. 195, b. Brought into Jerusalem by Pilate, ibid. c.
- How respected by the Romans, 490, sub not.
- Stasimachus*'s interview with Adrian, vi. 37, a.
- Star*, miraculous, at the birth of Christ, iv. 161, & seq. & (C).
- a blazing one before Valentinian's death, vi. 564, f.
- fixed, why worshipped by the Arabs, vii. 246, a, b.
- Their names, worship, &c. ibid. d, &c.
- Stater*, Roman, what, iv. 220, (Q).
- a beautiful Cyprian coin, ii. 324, b.
- Stasianus* cut off by the Parthians, iv. 310, & seq.
- Statilia*, see Messalina, v. 559, c.
- Statilius*, a young Roman's bravery, v. 162, c, (H). His death prevented, 165, b. 180, c. Answer to Brutus, ibid. d. Slain by the Triumvirs army, 253, c.
- Taurus, lands in Sicily, v. 278, a. Chosen consul, 298, f.
- falsely accused, 515, a. Kills himself, ibid. b.
- Statira*, the wife of Artaxerxes's power and cruelty, ii. 137, d. Poisoned by Parysatis, 140, c.
- her death and burial, iii. 349, pass.
- daughter of Darius, married to Alexander, 405, c. Murdered by Roxana, 418, d.
- Statius*, Gell. taken prisoner, iv. 626, f.
- the poet, an account of, v. 692, sub not.
- Priscus*, see Priscus, vi. 64, & seq.
- Stator*, Jupiter, whence so called, iv. 431, b.
- Statorius* sent to discipline the Numidian youth, vii. 50, a—c.
- Statuary*, in great perfection in Egypt, i. 221, f.
- Statues*, how and to whom erected by the Romans, v. 401, (Z).
- of emperors become sanctuaries, 409, a. The excess of them regulated, 498, b.
- heathenish, demolished in Egypt, vi. 417, pass. At Rome by the Goths, 464, f.
- † Stella, a famed mount in Pontus, iii. 721, b.
- † Stellates, who, iv. 760, f. Subdued by the Romans, ibid. & seq.
- Stemhal*, the son of Masinissa, vii. 126, e.
- Stenobia*, the unchaste wife of Prætor, ii. 354, b.
- Stephanio* whipped out of Rome, v. 312, c.
- Stephanophorus*, the priest of Ceres, why so called, iii. 732, sub not.
- Stephanianus* conspires against Domitian, v. 689, c. Stabs him, 690, d. Killed in the fray, ibid. e.
- Stephen* the protomartyr, his character and death, iv. 253, c, d.
- a cruel minister of Justinian, vi. 547, d, e. Burnt alive, 548, b.
- the son of Basilus turns monk, 573, a. Made patriarch of Constantinople, 574, c.
- Stephen* the son of Romanus crowned, vi. 579, c.
- over-reaches Basilus, 589, f, & seq.
- king of Hungary's success in Bulgaria, vii. 639, b.
- IIIrd pope, makes peace with the Lombards, 710, b, c. Invaded by Astolph, 711, pass. Goes to king Pepin, 712, a, b. Stirs him up against the Lombards, ibid. & seq. Enriched by him, 714. Bought off by Desiderius, 715, d, e.
- Stertinus*'s success against the Bructeri, v. 374, d. Sent against Arminius, 382, b. against the Cherusci, 384, b.
- Stefagoras* king of the Dolonci, iii. 789.
- Stefanor*'s lot after Alexander's death, iii. 423, c.
- Stefenor* king of Curium's treachery to the Salaminians, iii. 178, b.
- Stesichorus* the poet, where born, iii. 8, c.
- Stesimbrotus*, an account of him, iii. 237, d.
- Sthenelades* decrees war against Athens, ii. 596, a.
- Sthenelus* king of Argos, ii. 353, b.
- Sthenis*'s brave answer to Pompey, v. 77, d.
- Stilicho*'s revenge on the Balthæ, vi. 419, d. Commands the Romans against Eugenius, 424, a. Plunders Jupiter's temple, 425, c, f. Made guardian to young Honorius, 430, f. His rise and character, 431, d. Avarice, ibid. & seq. Hatred against Rufinus, 432, b, c. Assumes an unlimited power, 433, b. Peace with the Germans, ibid. c, f. Stopped short by Arcadius, 434, a, b. Defeats Alaric in Greece, 435, d. Suffers him to escape, ibid. d, e. Undermined by Eutropius, 436, a, b. Falls out with St. Ambrose, 438, a. Success against Gildo, 439, & seq. Treachery to Marcian, 440, e, f. Exploits in Britain, 441, b—d. Chosen consul, 445, b. Suspected to have stirred up Alaric, 449, b, c. Marches against him, 450, a, b. Peace with him, ibid. c, f. Success against Radagaisus, 451, & seq. Invites the Northern nations into Gaul, 453, c, d. Private correspondence with Alaric, 455, f. Secures Britain against the Picts, vii. 436, c, (R). Success against the Huns frustrated, 460, b. March against the Goths stopped, 505, c. Partiality to them, 506, a, b. Disgraced and put to death, vi. 456, a. and all his friends after him, ibid. b, c. His character, ibid. c, d. Estate confiscated, 457, a, b.
- Stilpo* held the eternity, &c. of the world, i. 6, d.
- † Stobæum, the promontory of, in Numidia, vii. 111, d.
- Stoics*, their two principles, one active and one passive, i. 22, d. Notion of the deity, ibid. & seq. Confounded it with nature, 23, a. Their notions not unlike those of the Pythagoreans, ibid. c. and of the Sufies of Persia, ibid. d.
- Stonehenge*, by whom reared, vii. 338, c—e. Whence so called, 339, b. Not a temple, ibid. & seq. Errors about it confuted, 340, pass. & (P). The fabric described, 341, & seq. New conjectures concerning it, 342, & seq. Its stones, whence brought, 343, f. Huge bulk and weight, 344, c—e. Disposition, &c. 345, & seq.
- Stones*, rain of, on the Canaanites, i. 564, b. Instances of the like nature, ibid. c, 565, a. How engendered, ibid. b—e.
- their growth seen at Olearos, iii. 219, c.
- Stoning*, the capital punishment of the Jews, i. 672, c. How performed, 673, a.
- † Stora, the gulph of, where, vii. 109, c.
- Strabo*'s writings and character, v. 458, sub not.
- Strangers*, Solon's law about their naturalization, ii. 457, d.
- Strangling*, one of the capital punishments of the Jews, i. 673, d. How performed, ibid.
- † Strata Julia & Marcella, by whom made, vii. 420, a.
- Strateges*, their office at Athens, ii. 644, c.
- † Stratæra, the battle of, v. 671, pass.
- Strato* of Lampascus's opinion of the origin of things, i. 7, c, d.
- a lewd king of Sidon, deprived by Alexander, i. 412, d, e.
- king of Tyre, how raised to the throne, i. 417, & seq.
- king of Arados submits to Alexander, iii. 337, d.
- the murderer of Brutus, v. 253, f.
- Stratocles*'s device to alter the months, ii. 555, e.
- † Straton's tower, by whom built, iv. 141, (R). See also Cæsarea.
- a gallery in the royal palace so called, 97, (C).
- Stratonice* builds the famed temple at Hierapolis, i. 374, d. Her story with relation to Combabus, ibid. & seq.
- married to Seleucus, iii. 441, c, d. Yielded by him to his son, 519, & seq.
- † — three cities of that name, where, iii. 784, (F).
- † Stratzburg, the metropolis of the Trebocci, vii. [415], a, (R). Taken by the Vandals, vi. 453, f.
- the battle of, vi. 301, c. vii. 591.
- † Strombolo, the island of, described, iii. 10, d.
- † Strophades islands described, iii. 242, c.
- † Strompitza, where, vii. 635, c. Taken by Basilus, ibid. f.
- † Strutobpogi, who, and where sited, vii. 183, c.
- † Strymon, a river in Macedon, iii. 260, d. The boundary of it, v. 242, d.
- † Strymon,

- † Strymon, a river in Thrace, iii. 787.
 † Strymonic Bay, where, iii. 260, a.
 † Stuff the Saxon arrives in England, vii. 449, c.
 † Stutely's noble description of Stonehenge, vii. 388, & seq.
 † Stylita, the hermit, foretells the ill-success of the Vandals, vii. 537, c.
 † Symphalian Birds killed by Hercules, ii. 356, not. 376, a.
 † Syrax defeated and sent prisoner, vii. 483, a.
 † Stryx River, why the Gods swear by it, i. 17, d.
 — in Arcadia, described, 376, a.
 † Suani, who, vii. 680, c. Defeat the Saxons, ibid. f.
 † Subaspine Gaul described, iv. 408, pass.
 † Sublucius's bridge, how, and by whom built, iv. 446, a. (C).
 † Subur River in Tingitania, vii. 145, a.
 — in Cæstus, 160, c.
 † Suburbanice province, what, vi. 271, b.
 † Suburbanus, Trajan's speech to, vi. 7, d.
 † Succoth, a city in Canaan, why so called, i. 446, c.
 — one of the encampments of the Israelites, 502, a. Different from the former, 509, (O). Called by Josephus, Lilepolis, ibid. Severely punished by Gideon, 745, d, e.
 † Succoth Benoit, the Assyrian Venus, i. 916, c. Conjectures concerning it, vi. 697, a.
 † Succoth, who and where sited, vii. 140, d.
 † Suedava, the famed pals of, vi. 313, d. Taken by Julian, ibid.
 † Sueffa, Pometia, where situate, iv. 461, (L). Taken by Tarquin, ibid. b. Ruined by the Romans, 487, a.
 † Suefulani, invaded by the Samnites, iv. 480, d.
 † Suetonius disgraced by Adrian, vi. 35, d. His writings and character, 51, sub not.
 — Paul, his success in Britain, vii. 430, c. See also Paulinus, v. 493, & seq.
 † Suevi, who and where sited, v. 122, (D). Invade the Romans, 674, a. Rhætia, vi. 299, c. Enter Gaul, 453, d, e. Spain, 488, f. Submit to Theodoric, 503, b. Chuse Maldra their king, ibid. d. Fall out among themselves, 505, c. Reconciled by him, ibid. e. Other Settlements vii. [409], d. 440, b—d. 441, a. Submit to Attila, 466, b. Defeated in Spain, 512, c—f. Retire into Galicia, 513, b. Assist the Vandals, 529, c—e. Re-enter Spain, 530, b. Their territories there, ibid. f. & seq. Various tribes, 540, c. Whence called Suevi, ibid. c, d. Their government, ibid. & seq. Submit to Augustus, 441, a. Part settle in Gaul, ibid. b—d. Some in Frisia, ibid. f. Defeat the Romans in Pannonia, 542, a, b. Defeated in Italy, ibid. c. Divide Spain, ibid. e. Defeated by Wallia, 543, a. Shut up in Biscay, ibid. Defeated in Germany, ibid. b. Ravage Galicia, ibid. c, d. Submit to Theodoric, 545, a, b. War against each other, ibid. & seq. Kill the Romans on Easter-day, 546, b. Turn Christian, ibid. e. Infected with Arianism, ibid. & c. Ravage Spain, 547, pass. Settle in Galicia, ibid. d.
 † Suevus river, where and why so called, vii. 540, d.
 † Suffes advises the burning of the capitol, v. 43, a. His death, ibid. c.
 † Sufes, at Carthage, what, iii. 547, d.
 † Suffetes, judges, who governed at Tyre for some years, i. 417, d. Eymon of that name, ibid. (C).
 — at Carthage, their office, vi. 674, & seq. & (E, F). Whence so called, 677, & (I).
 † Sulius's trial and banishment, v. 526, e, f.
 † Suizzeri invade Gallia Narbon, v. 28, b. Italy, 34, c.
 † Suones, who and where sited, vii. 486, d.
 † Suntilla, king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
 † Sukkim, who and where sited, i. 165, d.
 † Sulmona, confiscated by Sylla, v. 76, d.
 † Sulpicia, famed for her chastity, v. 4, d.
 — writes a bitter satire against Domitian, 686, c.
 † Sulpicianus Flav. brings up Pertinax's son, vi. 96, d. Sent to quell the Pretorian troops, 98, d. His benefacts to them, 99, d.
 † Sulpitius, the Roman prætor, defeats Philip at Elis, ii. 666. Invades Sicily, 706, b. Retires into Ægina, 707, a. Assists the Athenians against Philip, 734, d. Sent against Macedon, iii. 147, c. Relieves Athens, ibid. d.
 — sent to Antiochus, 551, & seq.
 — P. his sad character, v. 55, b. Popular laws, ibid. c, d. Treacherous attempt on the consuls, ibid. f, & seq. Proscribed and beheaded, 555, e.
 — Serv. subdues the Marrucini, 53, d.
 — Apollinar's writings and character, vi. 60, sub not.
 — the consul subdues Sardinia, 834, & seq.
 † Sun, when created, i. 35, b. Its inverted course out of Herodotus, 67, (N). When begun to be worship'd, 86, (N). Its standing still at Joshua's prayer, 558, b, (G). Maimmon's and Spinoza's account of it exploded, 559, a, & c. Of Grotius and Le Clerc's, & c. confuted, 560, & seq. Its going back ten degrees, how understood, 838, (T).
 — in what sense worshipped by the Perses, ii. 72, a. The deity of the Persians, 103, c.
 † Sun, Darkened at the crucifixion of Christ, iv. 240, (C).
 — worshipped by the Parthians, 291, a.
 — strangely darkened in Gallienus's time, vi. 180, b.
 — worshipped at Carthage, 689, c. By the Mauritians, vii. 150, d. By the Gauls, 353, & seq. Germans, [418], & seq. Saxons, 442, d.
 † — the famed temple of, consecrated, vi. 194.
 † — the fountain of, vii. 169, a.
 † Sunday, work forbidden on, vi. 256, f.
 † Sunator, a betrayer of his country, vi. 679, (K), 773, f.
 † Sunieric's success in Lusitania, vi. 506, d. Against the Suevi, vii. 513, e. 545, e, f. Ravages, 546, b.
 † Suntium, the promontory of, ii. 521, a. Fortified by the Athenians, ibid.
 † Suomarius sues to Julian for peace, vi. 304, b. vii. 592, a, b.
 † Sunno, king of the Franks, vii. 550, b. Ill-success against the Romans, 557, f, & seq.
 † Suovetauralia, the sacrifice of, iv. 457, b.
 † Suphian repelled before Constantinople, vi. 551, d. Defeated by Florus, 546, c.
 † Suphis, king of Memphis, strange things reported of him by the Egyptians, i. 239, (G).
 † Sur, the famed desert of, described, vii. 227, c.
 † Sura, a city in Iberia, iii. 835, c.
 † Sura, chosen consul, vi. 12, e. His extract, & c. ibid. f, & seq. Death, 13, a.
 † Surena's character, iv. 297, e, f. Recovers Mesopotamia, 298, b. Stratagem against the Romans, 299, d, e, 300, c. Defeats them, 302, & seq. Takes Crassus, 304, d, e. Mock cavalcade, 305, d, e. Put to death by Orodus, 306, b.
 † Sureta's Notitia, when first published, vi. 429, sub not.
 † Surgery, when first brought into Rome, iv. 691, f.
 † Susa, Shushan, metropolis of Persia, ii. 58, sub not. Taken by Alexander, 166, & seq. iii. 354, & seq. Taken by Adrian, vi. 22, d, by Constantine, 245, b.
 † Susiana, a part of Elam, taken to be part of Assyria, i. 162, e. Described, ii. 35, a.
 † Suffex, seized on by the Saxons, vii. 445, d. 446, d.
 † Suburbulus, made guardian of Bulgaria, vii. 632, b, c.
 † Subul, where situate, vii. 110, f.
 † Sutrium, where situate, v. 265, a. Taken by V. Agrippa, ibid.
 † Swine abhorred by the Scythians, ii. 272, f.
 — the herd of, drowned by the devils, iv. 213, a, (E).
 † Syagrius, governor of Soissons, vii. 566, d. Defeated by Clovis, 567, a. Beheaded by him, ibid. b. See also vol. vi. 507, f.
 † Syagrus's escape and disgrace, vi. 355, b.
 † Syazec, Prince of Persia, according to oriental writers, his signal chastity, 192, f. Assassinated at Turkestan, ibid. His death revenged by Rustan, ibid. & c.
 † Sybarites, an ancient people of Italy, ii. 492. Defeated by the Crotonians, ibid. sub not. Restored by the Athenians, ibid. Join in the Achæan league, 642, a.
 † Sybeta island, where situate, iii. 241, b.
 † Syde in the Phœnician records, who, i. 134, (E).
 † Syden, the antiquities of, to be still seen, i. 395, c.
 — series of the kings of, 407, pass. Assist the Jews, iv. 8, b.
 † Sydra, a city in Cilicia Aspera, ii. 340, d.
 † Syebi, who, and where situate, vii. 489.
 † Syene, an ancient city of Thebes, i. 175, c.
 † Syeneftis, Ist, Ild, and Ild kings of Cilicia, ii. 343, a.
 † Sylla sent against Mithridates, ii. 737, b. Besieges Athens, ibid. & seq. Plunders the Greek temples, 738. Turns the siege into a blockade, 740, c. Takes it, 741, pass. Severity to the Athenians, ibid. & seq. Vast tribute extorted by him, 767, pass. Chosen dictator, iii. 665, c. Success against Mithridates, 733, & seq. Peace with him, 737. Return to Rome, 838, pass. Haughty behaviour to the Parthians, iv. 293, d. Sent into Numidia, v. 22, c. His character and bravery, ibid. & seq. Chosen proquestor, 24, f. Whence surnamed the Fortunate, 25, e. Interview with Bocchus, ibid. & seq. Success in Gaul, 31, a. Rivals Marius at Rome, 45, & seq. Public shows, 46, d. Receives an embassy from Arbaces, ibid. & seq. Defeats Marcius, 50, e. Baffles the Allies, 52, c. Defeats the Samnites, ibid. f. Consul and triumph, 53, a. Retires from Rome, ibid. f, et seq. Marches with an army against it, 54, e. Enters it, 55, a. His new laws, ibid. d. Prosecution of Marius, 56, et seq. Sails for Asia, 60, d. Proscribed, 65, c. Success in Pontus, 66, d. Expostulatory letter to the senate, ibid. e. Marches against Fimbria, 68, d, e. Answer to the senate, 69, e. Lands in Italy, ibid. e. Outwits L. Scipio, 70, b. Defeats young Marius, 71, d, e. Enters Rome, 72, a. Defeats the consuls over and over, ibid. et seq. Defeated by the Samnites, 73, et seq. Bloody revenge on them, 74, et seq. Speech to the senate, ibid. e, f. Barbarity to the Preneftines, 75, b, c. Horrid proscriptions and butcheries, ibid. et seq. Perpetual dictatorship, 77, et seq. New set of laws, 78, et seq. Tyrannic

- Tyrannic speech, ibid. c. Grand triumph, 80, b, c. Title of Fortunate, ibid. et (W). Grows jealous of Pompey, 80, c. Profuse consulship, 81, a, b. Marries Valeria, ibid. c. Envy to Cæsar, 82, b. Abdicates his dictatorship, ibid. f, et seq. Speech to young Pompey, 83, d. Debauched life, ibid. c, d. Death and character, ibid. et seq. Funeral honours and epitaph, 84, c, d.
- P. Cornel. conspires with Catiline, v. 102, e, f.
- Faustus, Pompey's son-in-law, defeated, 165, c, d.
- Cornel. unjustly banished, 527, d, (D). Assassinated by Nero, 542, c.
- Sylla's hatred to Herod, whence, iv. 150, (K). Accusation of him to Cæsar, ibid. c. Put to death, ibid. (L).
- treachery to Augustus, v. 301, et seq.
- to Ælius Gallus, vii. 282, c. Punishment, ibid. f.
- Syllianus, Fun. accused by the Macedonians, iii. 506, c. Condemned by his own father, 507, a. Hangs himself, ibid. &c.
- retires from Antony, v. 287, c.
- joins with Gordian, vi. 153, f.
- left to awe the Spaniards, vii. 59, c. Brings Masinissa over to the Romans, 70, c. Retires to Tarraco, ibid. & seq.
- Sylofon Ist. inflaves the Samians, iii. 189, f.
- Id. invades Samos, 196, b, et seq. Cruelty to them, 197, c.
- Sylvanus raises a revolt in Gaul, vi. 176, c. Put to death, ibid. d.
- goes over to Constantius, vi. 284, a. Betrayed by Arbetio, 294, f. Assumes the purple, 295, c. Acquitted, ibid. d. Murdered, 296, a. His character, ibid. c, d.
- Sylvius, the son of Lavinia, born, iv. 421, b. Made king of Alba, ibid. d. His successors, ibid. et seq.
- Symmachus intercedes for the Cæfareans, vi. 359, c. Answer to Theodosius, 414, f. Recalled and promoted by him, 415, a, b. Sent by the heathen to Valentinian, 419, c. His writings and character, 427, (M). Extract and rise, 428, sub not.
- Pope, confirmed by Theodoric, vii. 643, e, f. Put to death by him, 645, et seq.
- Synadenus's success against the rebel Andronicus, vi. 639, e, f, et seq.
- Synagogue, the grand, the Rabbies account of, confused, iv. 13, (X).
- Synagogues, when first brought into use, i. 730, d. iv. 25, b. How regulated, ibid. (Q).
- † Synneda, a city in Phrygia Salutaris, ii. 293, d.
- † Syntellus's series of kings considered, i. 234, et 240.
- Syphax allies with the Romans, vii. 50, a. Flattering letter to the senate, 61, d. Gain'd by Scipio, 71, c. Brought off by Asdrubal, 75, a. Letter to Scipio, ibid. b, c. Defeated, 77, et seq. Joins Asdrubal with fresh forces, 78, b, c. Taken prisoner, 79, c. Defeated by the Numidians, 122, c. Success against Masinissa, 123, et seq. De-throned by him, 125, b. His end, ibid. c. Defeated by the Massilians, iv. 723, et seq. Whether led in triumph, 748, c.
- Sypilene, the Cybele of the Lydians, ii. 330, f.
- † Sypilus mount in Lydia, ii. 329, b.
- † Syracuse, head of the Doric faction, ii. 507, b. Besieged by the Athenians, 518, a. Relieved by Gylippus, ibid. c, f. Metropolis of Sicily described, iii. 4, et seq. Its harbour, &c. 5, b. By whom founded, 11, c. Adorned, 17, c. Besieged by the Athenians, 28, c. by the Carthaginians, 52. Surprised and plunder'd by Nysius, 70, et seq. Put to the sword, 71, c. Besieged by Marcellus, 111, et seq. Under a grievous pestilence, 118, e. Forced to capitulate, 119, & seq. Taken, 121, & seq. Plundered by the Saracens, vi. 546, b. Taken by them, 573, d. By the Franks, vii. 553, d. By Totila, 574, d, e. The rest see under Syracusians.
- a three-headed monster born at, v. 590, a. How interpreted, ibid. b.
- † Syracusians, their origin, government, &c. iii. 14, & seq. Chase Gelon their king, 18, c. Defeat the Carthaginians, ibid. & seq. Set up a popular government, 23, & seq. Repeal the law of Petalium, 24, b, c. Tyrannise in Sicily, ibid. d, e. Why invaded by the Athenians, 25, & seq. Outwitted by Nicias, 27, f. Straightly besieged by him, 28, c, f. Defeat the Athenians by land, 29, c. Beaten at sea, ibid. f. Beat them before Syracuse, 31, a, b. and at sea, 32, & seq. Force them to surrender, 33, & seq. Cruelty to their prisoners, 36, e, f. Enslaved by Dionysius, 45, & seq. Revolt from him, 46, c, 47, b. Reduced, 48, & seq. Defeat the Carthaginians at sea, 52, f. Crown Dionysius II. 63, c. Joy at Dion's reception, 67, b. Make him their general, ibid. c, d. Mutiny against him, 68, & seq. Butchered by Dionysius, 70, c, 71, c, d. Enslaved by Calyppus, 73, d. By Hipparinus, ibid. Restored by Timoleon, 77, pass. Repopled by the Corinthians, 79, d, e. Gratitude to Timoleon, ibid. d—f. Enslaved by Sosistratus, 80, d. Massacred by Agathocles, 81, & seq. Groan under feve-
- ral tyrants, 88, d, e. Under new troubles, 103, & seq. Regain their liberty, 105. Put the royal family to death, 106, c. Invaded by the Romans, iv. 654, & seq. Success against Carthage, vi. 739, & seq. New preparations against them, 746, o. Go to the relief of Agrigentum, 747, b. Receive the fugitives, 749, b, c. Send Dionysius against Imilcar, 750, a. Disarmed and enslaved by him, 754, a, b, & seq. Approve of his war against Carthage. Cruelty and injustice to them, ibid. d—f. Victory and rejoicings, 766, pass. Peace with them, 789. Besieged by Hamilcar, 793, & seq. Deceived into a belief of Agathocles's death, 799, c, d. Undeceived and raise the siege, ibid. f. Revenge on the Carthaginian general, 81, c, d. Get fresh supplies from Agathocles, 810, c, f. New peace with Carthage, 812, & seq. Divided between Thinyon and Sosistratus, 814, a. Besieged by the Carthaginians, ibid. b, &c. Plundered by the Franks, vii. 553. Subdued by Totila, 674, c, d.
- Syrjanes, a wicked tool of Andronicus, vi. 638, c, f. Abandoned by the Turks, 639, f.
- † Syria, from whom named Aram, i. 360, a. Where situate, ibid. b. How divided, ibid. d, e. Under the Romans, 361, d. Its climate, soil, &c. ibid. & seq. Natural rarities, 362, pass. Artificial, 363, b, c.
- the kingdom of, described, iii. 509, a—c. Its Boundaries after Alexander's death, ibid. c, d. & 515, b. Kings, 509, c. Why called Tetrapolis, 515. Surrendered to Alexander, ii. 161, c. Conquered by the Persians, according to oriental writers, 202, b. Invaded by Eumenes and Attalus, iii. 528, c. Invaded by the Parthians, iv. 305, & seq. Revolts from the Romans, 307, d.
- Ravaged by Cosroes, 366, b. By Volages, vi. 63, f. Sides with Cassius, 79, b. Forgiven by Aurelius, ibid. c. Threatened by the Persians, 139, d, e, 141, c. By Sapor, 176, f. By famines and pestilence, 264. Under Theodosius, 403, c. Invaded by the Goths, 433, d. Persians, 526, e, & seq. Subdued by the Saracens, 543, c, f.
- † Syria Dea, her temple at Hierapolis, i. 372, c. Its statues, lake and oracle, described, 373, & seq. Different sorts of priests, 374, c. Sacrifices, &c. How performed, 375, a, b.
- How worshipped at Carthage, vi. 691, b.
- Syriac, the antientest oriental tongue, i. 152, a, (X). Where used in Jacob's time, 377, c.
- character in vogue 300 years before Christ, i. 377, c—f. Two kinds, ibid. c. Without points till the eighth century, 378. By whom restored to its primitive purity, 379, a. Grammar, &c. ibid. &c.
- Syrian Goddes, see Syria Dea, i. 372, & seq.
- coins described, iii. 620, & seq. (W).
- † Syrians, ancient, their origin, i. 370, c. Monarchy in Saul's time, 371, b. Various kingdoms, ibid. c, d. Changeable religion, 372, a, b. Idols, temples, &c. 374, c, d. Sacrifices, festivals, &c. 375, a—c. Traditional customs, ibid. & seq. Temper, arts and sciences, 377, b, c. Alphabet, 378. Trade, 379, b, c. Chronology, ancient kings, &c. 380—383. Kingdom, when abolished, 390, b. — older than the Assyrian, 868, f.
- defeated by the Maccabees, iv. 58, et seq. By the Romans, 754, pass. 50000 slain by Scipio Asiaticus, 755, c.
- † Syringes, a place so called, where, i. 81, (N).
- Syrophœnician woman, her singular faith, iv. 217, d. Country, ibid. (K).
- † Syrophœnicians, who, i. 392, (B).
- † Syros island, described, iii. 224.
- † Syrtica regio, described, vii. 170, c. Its limits, 175, a, b. Nations, mountains, &c. 176, pass.
- † — islands, ibid. f, & seq. To whom subject, 177, a, b.
- Sytakes's war and peace with Macedon, iii. 280, d, e, & seq.

T.

Tautus, the same with the Thoyt or Hermes of Egypt, i. 11, a. The first inventor of Letters according to the Phœnician records, 134, a.

† Tabæ, where sited, iii. 583, c, (Z).

Tabellæ Potivæ described, iii. 212, (T).

† Taberab, burning, a murmuring station of the Israelites, i. 524, b.

Tabernacle set up at the foot of Mount Sinai, i. 523, b. Built by God's direction, 651, b. Whether borrowed from the Egyptians, ibid. d, e. Described, 652, et seq. 659, et seq.

Tabernacles, the feast of, why instituted, i. 606, b. How celebrated, 607, et seq.

Tabili, the Scythian name for Vesta, ii. 272, a.

Tables, the ten, when first introduced, iv. 534, c. Augmented to twelve, 536, b.

— eating, how regulated at Rome, v. 12, d.

Tables of Cain's descendants from Sanchoniutho and Moles, i. 89.

89, b, c. of the Chaldean kings before the flood, 90, et seq. of the gods and demi-gods of Egypt, 93.
Tables; Whiston's computation of mankind down to the flood, 105. of the postdiluvians down to Abraham, according to the Hebrew, 110, et seq. according to the Septuagint, 111. and the Samaritan Pentateuch, 112.
 — of the Descendants of Noah, 117. Increase of men after the flood, 159, et seq.
 — of the Egyptian dynasties, from the old Egyptian chronicle, 228.
 — from Manello, out of Josephus, i. 234.
 — of the Theban kings, out of Erastosthenes, ibid.
 — of the Egyptian kings, out of Syncellus, ibid. et seq. out of Herodotus and Diod. Siculus, 235.
 — of the Israelitish judges, 737.
 — of the Jewish kings before Jeroboam's revolt, ibid.
 — of the decalogue, Talmudic comments on them, i. 519.
 (A). How written and given to Moses, 519, a, b. Fables of the Mahomedans about them, ibid.
 † Tabacca in Numidia, its ruins, &c. vii. 120, c, d.
 † — island, where sited, 12, d.
Tabrimon king of Damascus's friendship with Judah and Israel, i. 383, a. Who he was, ibid. (B).
Tacalbaimanout, a Coptic saint and apostle, vii. 218, c. Etymology of his name, 219, a.
 † Tacatua, where situate, vii. 110, a.
 † Tacaza river falls into the Nile, vii. 187, b. Described, 189, (I).
Tacfarinas raises a revolt in Afric, v. 393, d. Defeated, ibid. e. by Apronius, 407. Bold embassy to Tiberius, 414, b. Narrow escape, ibid. c, d. Defeated and killed, 421, c. See also vol. vii. 158, & seq.
Tachos king of Egypt, i. 277, d. Impolitic conduct towards Agesilaus, ibid. d. Driven out by his subjects, ibid. & seq. Flight into Persia, ibid. & vol. ii. 149, a—d.
Tacius's consulship, vi. 4, c. Account of the Germans, 8, e, f. His writings and character, 28, sub not. Character of Felix, iv. 264, in fin. (B). of Augustus, v. 350, (F). of the christians, 549, c—e, & (O). His own, 550, a. A sad chasm in his Annals, 564, b. Funeral oration of Virginius, 573, f. Character of Agricola, 682, & seq. — emperor chosen by the senate, vi. 198, b, c. High respect for the historian, ibid. f. Character, laws, &c. 199, a—c. March against the Barbarians, ibid. d. Death, ibid. e.
 † Taci, Tevi Oflum, where situate, vii. 413, f.
Tafia and her daughters turn nuns, vii. 709, c.
Tagonius Gallo's rank flattery to Tiberius, v. 443, b.
Tagus, a fabulous king of Spain, vii. 319, b.
 † — a river in Lusitania, 299, a.
 — the golden sand of, ibid. b.
Tabmurab, a fabulous king of Persia, said to have warred with the Genii, i. 342, a.
Tabmurab, 4th king of Persia, according to oriental writers, ii. 177, a.
 † Taifalæ, who, and where, vii. 498, c. Their inroads into the empire, 499, d, e. in Sarmatia, vii. 303, d. Driven out by Athanaric, 380, e. Join with the Greuthungi, ibid. & seq.
 † Talabrica, a city in Lusitania, vii. 296, e.
 † Talabrissa surrendered to the Romans, iv. 784, d.
 † Taloura, where, iii. 757, f. The vast riches of, ibid. & seq.
Talcius's success against the Scythians, vi. 611, d, e.
Talmui, the son of Anac, driven out of Hebron, i. 334, a, & (B).
 — king of Geshur, gives his daughter to David, 391, c.
Talmudists, their extravagant notions of the first man, i. 44, c.
 † Taluda river in Tingitania, vii. 144, c.
Tallutus defeated by the Olynthians, iii. 285, c, d.
Talus's reign in Crete, iii. 165, a.
Tamar, Er's wife, married to Onan, i. 450, c. Over-reaches Judah, 451, c. Condemned and afterwards absolved by him, ibid. & seq. Brings forth twins, 152, a, & not.
 — David's daughter ravished by Hammon, 781, a.
 † — the mouth of, near Plymouth, vii. 407, c.
 † Tamna, a city in Arabia Felix, vii. 231, c. 239, a.
Tamocroboes defeated by Mauritius, vi. 533, e.
Tamjapor treats for peace with the Romans, vi. 299, f. 302, e.
Tamas basely murdered by Pſammitichus II, i. 276, c, d.
Tanaim among the Jews, their office, iv. 37, a.
Tanais worshipped by the Armenians, iii. 697, b. Her stately temple at Acilefina, ibid. c.
 † — an ancient city in lower Egypt, i. 176.
 † — river, parts the two Scythias, ii. 266, e, & not.
Tanaquil, Tarquin's wife, her proud character, iv. 446. Politic stratagems in favour of Servius, 452, f. 453, d. 454, f.
 — her distaff hung in Hercules's temple, 455, a.
 † Tanara, the promontory of, in Lacedæmon, described, ii. 396, c, & (C).
Tancred the Norman, his rise and progeny, vi. 609, c.

VOL. VII. N^o. 11.

† Tanfana, the temple of, what, and where, v. 369, c, (P). vii. [418], b, (C). Destroyed, v. 369, c.
 — worshipped by the Saxons, vii. 442, c.
 † Tangier; see Tingis, vii. 140, & seq.
 — the famed cave of, 148, d.
Tangripermes repulsed by Alexius, vi. 616, c.
Tangrolipix's success against Mohammed, vi. 598, f, & seq. Made king of Persia, 599, b. Ill-success against the Arabians, ibid. c. Huffing message to the emperor, ibid. f. Excursions into Iberia, 600, c, d.
Tanitic mouth of the Nile, why abhorred by the old Egyptians, i. 243, c.
Tantalus king of Sypilus in Phrygia, ii. 296, b. His resentment against Tros, 313. Subdued by Ilus, 315.
 — defeated by the Romans, iv. 784, b.
 † Tappene given to the fugitive king of Edom, & 314, c.
 † Taphiæ islands described, iii. 241, f.
Taran, the Gaulish Jupiter, why so called, vii. 353, c.
Tarbigil; see Trebigil, vi. 442, d.
Tarcon king of Hetruria, iv. 418, c.
 † Tarentines invite the Epirots into Italy, iv. 599, e. Their extract and character, 642, & seq.
 — stir up fresh enemies against Rome, 643. Hostilities against them, 544, a, b. Invite Pyrrhus to their defence, 645. Subdued by Papyr. Cursor, 648, b. by Fabius, 733, b. Their miserable state, ibid. d, e. Invite Hannibal, vii. 48, b. Surrender to Valerius, 51, & seq. Besiege the citadel, 54, a. Annoyed by the Carthaginians, 59, a. Their sad catastrophe, 62, d, e.
 † Tarentum, where, and whence so called, iv. 642. Diminuted by the Romans, 648, b. Betrayed to Hannibal, 723, f. Retaken by Fabius, 733, c. See also vol. vii. 62, c, d. Betrayed by Milo to the Romans, vi. 819, e, f. Retaken by Belisarius, vii. 670, e. by Totila, 673, c.
 † Taricheæ islands, where sited, vi. 671, (E).
 † Tarichea, where, iv. 272, (V). Taken by the Romans, ibid. c.
Taricheuta, the embalmers of Egypt so called, i. 215, a.
Tarpeia betrays the Roman citadel, iv. 430, d. Her death, ibid.
 † Tarpeian mount, why so called, 430, d. Jupiter's temple built on it, 452, a.
Tarpeius made governor of the Roman citadel, 430, c.
Tarquini, his pedigree, iv. 446, d. Gallantry, 447, a, b. Chosen king, ibid. d. Defeats the Latins, ibid. & seq. the Hetrurians, 448, & seq. Outwitted by an Augur, 450, c, d. Wars with the Sabines, ibid. & seq. Murdered, 452, e, f.
 — Lucius married to Tullia, 455, e. Incestuous marriage with the younger, 458. Plots against Servius, ibid. & seq. Murders him, 459, c, d. His tyranny, 460, b. Treachery to Herdonius, ibid. e, f. War with the Volsci, 461, b. With the Sabines, ibid. c. Outwits the Gabini, ibid. & seq. Buys the Sibylline books, 462, e. Consults the Delphic oracle, 463, & seq. Banished by the senate, 466.
 — Sextus's shameful stratagem against the Gabini, 461, e. Cruelty to them, 462, b. Rape of Lucretia, 464, pass. Banishment, 446. Plot against the Roman consuls, 468, pass. Estate confiscated, 470, b, c. Defeated by Valerius, 472. Attempt on the Roman ladies frustrated, 476. Conspiracy defeated, 479, & seq. His death, 484, d.
 — Accusation of Crassus, v. 106, f. Punishment, 107.
 † Tarquinienses, who, iv. 588, f. Defeat the Romans, ibid. & seq. Defeated by Quinctius, 591, d. Make a forty years truce with Rome, 592, d.
Tarquini, their fruitless embassy in favour of Tarquin, iv. 468, pass. Discover a plot against Rome, 480, c, d.
 † Tarraco, Tarragona, metropolis of Tarracon, vii. 303, b. Described, 305, d. Visited by Adrian, vi. 35, d. Taken and destroyed by the Franks, 183, e. vii. 552, c. By the Visigoths, 514, f, & seq.
 † Tarracon, the province of, described, vii. 303, c, & seq. Its various nations, ibid. & seq. & notes.
 — the city of, where situate, 305, d, (F). Councils held at, 306. By whom built, [324], a.
 † Tarsenses, who, v. 233, a. Heavily fined by Cassius, ibid. b.
 † Tarshish, where settled, i. 168, c. Gave name to Cilicia, ibid.
 — sometimes denotes Carthage, vi. 722, a.
 † Tarsus, a city in Cilicia Propria, i. 168, e, ii. 340, f. By whom built, ibid. & seq. Taken by Alexander, 158, b. Taken and plundered by Sapor, vi. 177, a. Designed for Julian's residence, 327, a. Proved the place of his burial, 335, c. 343, a.
Tartan, the Assyrian, takes Asdod from the Philistines, i. 359, c, d. 896, b.
 † Tartars, who, vi. 630, d. Their success against the Turks, ibid. & 632, a, b. 634, & seq.
 † Tartary, part of ancient Scythia, ii. 267, pass.
 † Tartesa, where sited, ii. 262, a, & not. Jupiter defeated at, by the Titans, ibid. Often mistaken for Gadir or Cadiz, vi. 730, in fin. (A).
 † Tartessus,

10 P

† Tartessus,

- † Tartessus, where situate, vii. 301, b. (G).
 † Tasm, an ancient Arabic tribe, vii. 243, b.
Tassilo, duke of Bavaria, revolts against the emperor, vii. 485, d, e.
Taster, the office of, its origin, v. 516, (Z).
Tatian's character of the heathen philosophers, vi. 81, d. (H).
Tatianus's friendship to Adrian, vi. 25, f. Severe advice to him rejected, 31, c. Promoted by him, 33, c. Made a senator, 34, d, e.
 — Attil, banished for treason, 56, d.
 — bravery in Syria, 64, b, c.
 — accused by Rufinus, 421, d. Banished, ibid. e.
Tatienus, the order of, whence so called, iv. 423, a.
Tatilius, destroys the crusado fleet, vi. 616, b.
Tato and Caco, murdered by Gregory, vii. 688, d, e.
Tatus, king of the Lombards, success against the Heruli, vii. 617, a. Death, ibid. b.
Taverni, suppressed by Tiberius, v. 371, f.
 † Taulantii, who and where sited, iii. 254, a, (C).
 † Taurasia, metropolis of the Taurini, iv. 408, e, f.
 † Tauri, who and where sited, iii. 840, f, & seq.
 † Taurian Scythians, their site, customs, &c. ii. 277.
 † Taurin, the ancient Ecabane, ii. 2. (B). Famed for its wines, 4, a.
 † Taurinum, where sited, iv. 648, a. Taken by Hannibal, ibid. and put to the sword, vii. 16, c, d.
Taurinus, chosen emperor, vi. 139, f. Flees and drowns himself, ibid. & seq.
 † Taurisci, who and where, v. 4. Ravaged by the Cimbrians, ibid. f, & seq.
 † Tauraminium, a city in Sicily described, iii. 3, c. Delivered up to the Romans, iv. 654, e. Seized by the revolted slaves, 796, a. Retaken by Rutilius, ibid. d. Taken by the Saracens, vi. 575, e, f. Yielded to Dionysius, 770, e.
 † Taurominius river, described, iii. 3, c.
 † Tauropolium, Diana's temple, why so called, iii. 212, a.
Taurus, banished by Julian, vi. 325, d.
 † — mount in Scythia, ii. 267, d. The biggest in all Asia, 338, b. Where situate, vi. 761, (L).
Tausias, the murderer of Pertinax, vi. 98, f.
Taxes, regulated by Nero, v. 528, a. By Constantine, vi. 256, e.
 † Taxila, a city in India, described, iii. 390, (D).
Taxiles's submission and presents to Alexander, iii. 385, & seq. 390, a. Speech to him, ibid. (D). Sent back to his dominions, 393, b.
Taygeta, daughter of Atlas, ravished by Jupiter, ii. 395, (A).
Taytes, kings of Hira, 275, c.
 † Teckoa, its situation, &c. iv. 76, (M M). The famed battle of, ibid. & b, c.
 † Tellofagi, who and where sited, vii. [412] (I). Defeated by Sylla, 396. Their treasure, whether brought from Delphos, v. 27, e.
 † Tegea, metropolis of Arcadia, ii. 379.
 — Orestes buried at, 380, a, & not.
 — the battle of, 380, 560.
Tegean women, their signal bravery, ibid.
 † Tebama, the province of, where, &c. vii. 238, e, & seq.
Teia, chosen king of the Ostrogoths, vii. 493, a. 677, a. Cruelty to the Romans, ibid. d, e. Goes to relieve Cumæ, ibid. & seq. Defeated and slain, 678, c, d.
Teichomerus, chosen king of Bulgaria, vii. 637, e, f. Stoned to death, 638, a.
 — betrayed and murdered, vi. 596, f, & seq.
 † Teies, where sited, iii. 725, f. Taken by Leocritus, ibid. & seq.
Telamon's ill treatment of Hecione, ii. 317, b. 318, c.
 — king of Salamis, iii. 245, b.
 † Telchinæ, who and where sited, iii. 131, e. The first inhabitants of Rhodes, ibid.
 † Tekines, who and where, iii. 238, in fin. (E).
Telestes, one of the artists of Apollo Pythius's statue, i. 221, f.
Telestus, king of Sparta's character and reign, ii. 569, & seq.
Telemachus, a hermit, stoned to death, vi. 450, b.
Telephus, the son of Hercules, king of Myfia, ii. 327, b.
 — the fable of him, 379, (I).
 — writings and character, vi. 60, sub not.
Telephus, Pont. outwits Sylla, v. 72, f. Marches to Rome, 73, a. Defeats Sylla, ibid. & seq. Defeated and killed, 74, c.
 — Lucius banishes himself from Rome, 686, b.
Telephus chosen king of Bulgaria, vii. 626, b.
Telestes last king of Corinth murdered, ii. 392, e.
Teleucias slain by the Olynthians, ii. 614, f.
Telias the foothlayer's stratagem against the Thessalians, ii. 367, b.
Telissila's bravery against the Lacedemonians, ii. 585, not.
Telinus made high-priest of the JEleans, iii. 15, sub not.
- † Tellus, the temple of, built, iv. 649, (D).
 — the Athenian, why counted the happiest man, ii. 335, d.
Telmessans, great south-layers, iii. 333, b. ii. 301, b.
 † Telmessus, where sited, ii. 337. iii. 332, d. Taken by Alexander, ibid. & seq.
 † Temani, a famed city of Edom, i. 309, b.
 † Temani, the country of one of Job's friends, ibid. c.
Temenus one of the Heraclidae, made king of Argos, ii. 360, c. Murdered, ibid.
 — the fabulous story of, iii. 272, (A).
 † Tempea, the valley of, in Thessaly, described, ii. 381, d.
 † Temple of Jerusalem, built by Solomon, i. 795, a. Dedicated, 797, a. Its ornaments, utensils, &c. ibid. & (M). Vast number of victims, 798, c. Twice plundered by Nabuchadnezzar, 848, a—c. Burnt to the ground, 850, d. Described, according to the sacred books, append. after page 796, 1, & seq. The rebuilding of it begun, iv. 5, & seq. Dimensions, 4, & seq. Disparity from the old one, 6, b, & (K). Discontinued, 9, a, b. Resumed, ibid. c, d. Dedicated, 10, c. by Nehemiah, 22, a, b. How, ibid. (K). Profaned by Sanballat, 24, a. by Antiochus, 50, c, d. Its worship suppressed, 51, d. Polluted with Jupiter's statue, 52, d, (H). Purified by Judas Maccabeus, 61, pass. Walls demolished by Alcimus, 76, d, (N). Most sacred place entered by Pompey, 126, b. Rebuilt by Herod, 144, & seq. (Y), (Z). Described, ibid. & seq. & (B). Dedicated, 150, b. Polluted by the Samaritans, 193, pass. Forced by the Zelots, 274. Defended by Gikhal, 286, c. Gates burnt, 283, & seq. Sanctuary burnt, 285, & seq. & not. Plundered and filled with blood, 296, & seq. Demolished and ploughed, vi. 39, d, e. Its materials used to build a heathen temple, 41, e.
 † — of Samaria, built on Mount Genizim, iv. 29, & seq.
 † — in Egypt, built by the schismatic Jews, iv. 79, pass. Described, ibid. (F). Shut up and plundered, 290, c, (G).
 † Temples of Egypt, their structure, i. 112, d.
 — of Greece, destroyed by Darius, ii. 109, d. 112, a. 127, c. by Xerxes, why, 471, f. by Sylla, 738, a.
 — of Thermæ, burnt by Antigonus, 658.
 — hated by the Scythians, 272.
 — at Rome, stripped by Carbo, v. 71, b. by Nero, 550, b, c.
 — How built in honour of the Roman emperors, 424, (C).
 — pagan, suppressed by Gratian, vi. 396, e, f. Forsaken under Theodosius, 415, d—f.
 — demolished under Arcadius, 444, e, f. Turned into churches, 445, a.
 † Tempyrium, a city in Thrace, iii. 787, d.
 † Teneteri, who, and where sited, vii. [407], d. Defeated by Cæsar, [438], b—d. by Drusus, v. 319, c—d.
Tenedian Piper, a proverb, ii. 308.
 † Tenedos island described, ii. 307, d. Why so called, ibid. &c.
Tenes, his character, &c. ii. 307, d, (D).
 † Teneriff, the pike of, its height, i. 102, (N).
Tennes king of Sidon, i. 410, f. Conspired against by his subjects, 411, a. Joins Ochus against them, ibid. c—e. Put to death, ibid. 9, ii. 152, c.
 † Tenos island described, iii. 225. Famed for its wines, 226, a. Subdued by the Persians, ibid. c, d.
 — metropolis of the island, 226, a.
Tents, Macedonian, how made, iii. 269, f.
 † Tentyris, an ancient city of Thebais, i. 175, e.
 † Teos, by whom founded, ii. 369, d. The state of it, 752, & seq.
 — described, iii. 559, c.
Terab, the father of Abraham, his age at his son's birth, i. 112, a, b, (N). Affirmed the inventor of coinage, &c. 131, (V). Supposed the Azer of the Afatics, 132, a. Sundry traditions about him, ibid. (Z), (A). Leaves Ur, 133, a, (B). Dies in Haran, 422, a, (B).
Terapim, what meant by, in the Hebrew, i. 443, a.
Terebintus, a heretic; see Buda, iv. 318.
Terence, the poet, taken captive, iv. 748, e. in high esteem, 765, b. His plays father'd upon Scipio Æmilianus, 775, c. His writings and character, vi. 710, (N).
Terentia, Mæcenæ's wife, her intrigue with Augustus, v. 313, b.
Terentian Law, what, iv. 519, c. 520, a. Opposed by Q. Cæso, ibid. b. Revived by the Tribunes, 529, e, f. Passed, 532, & seq. Ratified, 534, d, e.
Terentianus's writings and character, v. 693, sub not.
Terentius, Arfa, proposes fixing a body of laws, iv. 519, c, d.
 — Varro sides with Minucius, 706, e. Chosen consul against Hannibal, 709, b. Defeated, horse and foot, 710, & seq. Flees to Venusia, 711, b. to Canusium, 712, c. Reception at Rome, 713, c, d.
 — Marc. noble defence before the senate, v. 444, c, d. Acquitted, 445, a.
 — sent into Iberia, vi. 373, d. Sacrificed to the mutinous soldiers, 460, e.

Teres, a warlike king of the Odrysiæ, iii. 791.

Tereus, the fable of, ii. 389, not.

— a long-lived king of Characene, iii. 853, a.

Terillus, invites the Carthaginians into Sicily, vi. 733, f.

Termitians defeat the Romans, iv. 782, c.

Terminalia, the festival of, iv. 437, a.

Termini Dii, not impudently removed, ibid.

† Terra Sigillata, of Lemnos, famed, iii. 234, c.

Terracina, the port of, repaired by Antoninus, vi. 56, c.

Terrible Jupiter, why so called, iv. 492.

Tertullian's judicious remarks on Trajan's persecution, vi. 27, c, d.

Tertullus, one of Faustina's gallants, promoted, vi. 78, d.

Exposed on the stage by a mimic, ibid. c.

† Terwingæ, war against the Vandals, vi. 209, c.

Telamenes, king of Thebes, ii. 375, b.

Telša, an ancient king of Spain, vii. [321], c.

Teby's care for her son Achilles, ii. 385, b.

Teiractys, God why so called by the Pythagoreans, i. 26, b, c.

Tetamestus, king of Sidon, i. 410. Assists Xerxes with 300 gallees, ibid. f.

Tetricus, declared emperor in Gaul, vi. 184, b. Sacrifices his men to Aurelian, 192, c, d. Led in triumph by him, ibid. e. and promoted by him, 193, c.

— his son also promoted, ibid. c. House described, ibid.

d. See also vol. vii. 403, d, e.

Tetcer, supposed the first king of Troy, ii. 308, a, 311, c.

— the son of Telamon settles in Cyprus, 321, f.

— founds the kingdom of Salamis, iii. 176, d.

— Introduces human sacrifices, ibid. c.

† Teucra, see Troas, ii. 308, b.

Teuta, queen of Illyricum's treachery to the Roman ambaf-lators, iv. 685, b. Invaded by the consuls, ibid. c.

Shameful peace with them, 686, c.

Teutbras, king of Mysia, ii. 327, a.

Teutobocchus defeated by the Romans, v. 36, b. His gigantification, ibid. (L), & 39.

† Teutoburgium, the forest of, where situate, v. 374, d.

Teutones, Germans, why so called, vii. [406], c, [411],

(M). Invade Italy, [435], d, e, et seq. See also vol.

v. 4, e, f. Their taunts to the Roman army, 34, et seq. Above one hundred thousand killed by Marius,

36, b.

† Texaga, taken by Scipio Æmilianus, iv. 774, d. By Manil. Nepos, vii. 100, f.

† Tbahir mount, where sited, vii. 237, c.

† Tbabor mount, described, i. 571, a. In high veneration, ibid. (A). Whether Christ was transfigured upon it,

572, a.

Tbaddes, see James the less, iv. 208, (T).

† Tbaisfa, a city in Hejaz, vii. 237, e, et seq.

Tbair's wars with Persia, iv. 380, b. Betrayed by his daughters, and put to death, ibid. c.

Tbais, the Athenian harlot, causes Xerxes's palace to be burnt, ii. 168, d.

† Tbala, where situate, vi. 670, c. Taken by the Romans, v. 20, c, d. Its dreadful fate, vii. 132, b, c.

† Tbalana, a city in Lacedemon, ii. 397, b.

Tbalassius's pride exasperates Gallus, vi. 290, b.

Tbales, prince of the Ionic philosophers, i. 17, c. His first principle of all things, ibid. & seq. The first who foretold an eclipse, 218, d. New division of the year, ii.

434, note. Converse with Solon, 445. Prophecy concerning the Milesians, 757, e.

— a Lyric poet, companion of Lycurgus, ii. 559, c.

† Tbambes mount in Numidia, vii. 111, c.

Tbammuz, Adonis, how worshipped by the Phœnicians, i.

402, c, d, 403, a.

Tbammuz, the month of June of the Jews, i. 611, (K).

† Tbamud, a tribe of ancient Arabs, vii. 242, e, et seq.

Their impiety, 243, a, b.

† Tbamydeni, who and where sited, vii. 233, c.

Tbamyris, a boasting musician punished, iii. 790, f.

† Tbanet island, where, vii. 440, c. Given to the Saxons, ibid.

† Tbapfacus, a city in Arabia Deserta, vii. 230, a.

† Tbapfus, where situate, vi. 669, d.

— the battle of, v. 160, et seq.

Tbaramis, worshipped by the Saxons, vii. 242, d.

Tbarymbus, a wise king of Epirus, iii. 800.

† Tbafians, who and where situate, ii. 483, f. Reduced by Cimon, ibid. & seq. War with the Athenians, iii. 237,

b, c.

† Tbafes island, described, iii. 236, & seq. By whom inhabited, 237, a. Subdued, ibid. &c.

† Tbafus, taken from the Athenians, ii. 529, c.

Tbano, wife of Antenor, priestess of Pallas, ii. 315, d.

Tbaretides, made admiral by Dionysius, iii. 65, f. His Decent on Lippari, 57, a.

Tbactres, at Rome, divided into factions, v. 359, (P). Regulated, 380, pass.

† Tbcbais, Upper Egypt, why so called, i. 175, b. and in scripture, Pathros, ibid. Described, ibid. & seq. Worshipped the eternal Cneph, 204, d. Destroyed by Dio-clesian, vi. 213, d.

† Tbcban kingdom, part of ancient Greece, ii. 344, b. By whom founded, 372. Its government, kings, &c. ibid.

et seq. Dissolution, 375, c. Cause and success of its war, 358, et seq. Fatal catastrophe, 374, & seq.

† Tbcbans, their treachery to the Greeks, ii. 112. Part join with the Ionians in quest of new settlements, 369.

— war with the Athenians, 428, c. Surprise Plataea,

500. Kindness to the fugitive Athenians, 551. Subdued by the Lacedemonians, 539, c. Reject the common peace, 441, d. Separate one with Persia, ibid. et seq.

war with them, 442. Subdued by the Spartans, 614, c.

By the Romans, 696, c. Join with Philip against Sparta, iii. 298, d. Join the Greeks against him, 307, a. Defeated, ibid. d, e. Revolt from Alexander, 320, c.

Defeated by him, 321, pass. The rest see under the next article.

† Tbcbes, metropolis of Thebais, i. 175, e. Why called

Diospolis and Hecatompyle, ibid. Described, ibid. et seq.

Destroy'd by Lathyrus, iii. 663, f, et seq.

† — in Beotia, by whom founded, i. 499. Enlarged by Amphion and Zetus, ibid. & seq. Made capital of Bœo-tia, ii. 372, a, b. Why so called, ibid. (C). Fortified by Amphion, 373, c. Destroyed by the Epigoni, 375, b.

Plundered by Cambyfes, 97, f. By Alexander, 549, pass.

Betrayed to the Lacedemonians, 614, c. Abandoned to the Romans, 696, c. Destroyed by Alexander, iii. 321,

& seq. By Cassander, 459, b. Taken by Demetrius,

466. Stripp'd by C. Gallus, v. 300, b.

† — capital of Phthiotis taken by Alexander, ii. 662.

Tbcbet Monib, the Jewish Decemler, i. 611, (K).

Theft, how far capital among the Jews, i. 683, c.

— other thefts, how punished, ibid. & seq.

— a capital crime among the Scythians, ii. 270.

— Solon's laws against it, 433, a.

— how far allowed by the Spartans, 564, f.

† Thema, a city in Arabia Deserta, vii. 230, a.

Thematia in Italy, what, vii. 721, c, (C).

Themis, the first diviner, iii. 163, b.

† Themiscira, a city in Pontus, described, iii. 720, d, & seq.

Surrendered to the Romans, 746, c.

Themison, tyrant of Oropus, iii. 251, e.

Themistias plots against the Republicans, iii. 105, f. Put to death, 106, b.

Themistius the philosopher, raised by Constantius, vi. 294, d.

Flattery to him, ibid. c. Sent with a golden crown to him,

299, b. His reward and gratitude, ibid. c, d. Sent ambassador to Gratian, 378, e. Worthless speech to the senate, ibid. f. Embassy to Theodosius from the Constanti-nopolitans, 392, c. Fifteenth oration addressed to him,

395, c. His extract, rise and character, 429, sub

not.

Themistocles chosen admiral against the Persians, ii. 460, & seq.

124, f. His power against Aristides, 466, & seq. Sails against Xerxes, 468. Stratagem to detain the fleet at Salamis, 123, c. 472, pass. Success against the Persians, ibid.

& seq. Highly rewarded by the Athenians, 124, f. 476,

b. Outwits the Lacedemonians, 477, & seq. Why bannished Athens, 480, b. Goes into Persia, ibid. & seq.

His speech to Artaxerxes, 481, not. Reception and death,

ibid.

† Thena, where situate, vi. 670, a.

Theoclymenes king of Lydia, ii. 332.

Theocritus, where born, iii. 108, not.

— a worthless slave made captain of the guards, vi. 125, b.

Defeated in Armenia, 127, b.

— executed for treason, 523, a, b.

Theodatus's treachery to Amalasunta, vii. 650, & seq. War against Justinian, 653, pass. Deposed, 654, c, d. Murdered, ibid. e.

Theodemir king of the Ostrogoths, vii. 493, a. Serves under Attila, 518, d. Defeats the Suevi, &c. 519, e, f. In-vasades Illyricum, 520, b. His death, ibid. c.

Theodomir, where settled with his Goths, vi. 496, c. Invades the eastern empire, 511, e. His death, ibid. f.

— king of the Franks, vii. 550, b. The same with Pharamond, ibid. & 551, b, c.

Theodora married to Constantius, vi. 209, f. 226, c.

— her magnanimity supports the frightened Justinian, 526, a,

b. Inclined to Eutychianism, 631, b.

— widow of Theophilus, takes the administration, 570, c.

Severity to the Manichees, ibid. & seq. Resigns, 571, b,

c. Dies, ibid. d.

— Constantine's daughter raised to the imperial government,

597, d, e. Mounts the throne, 601, a, b. Her good but short reign, ibid. b, c.

Theodore's treachery to Ptolemy, iv. 42, f.

Theodore's treachery to the Goths, vii. 655, d, e. 661, b—d.

Retires laden with spoil, ibid. & seq.

— censure on Porphyry, vi. 223, & seq. sub not. Charafter of Julian, 335, & seq.

Theodoric succeeds Vallia in Spain, vi. 473, a. Besieged by Littorius, 484, c. Takes him prisoner, ibid. d. Peace with

- with the Romans, ibid. e, f. Success against Attila, 494, & seq. Bravery at the battle of Chalons, 495, d, e. Death, ibid. f. See also vol. vii. 474, & seq. Funeral, ibid. 477, c. Theodoric, the murderer and successor of Thorismund, vi. 597, f, & seq.
- embassy to Requiarius in Spain, 503, a, b. Defeats him, ibid. c. Returns to Toulouse, 505, b.
- defeated by Majoranus, ibid. e, f. Sues for peace, ibid. f, & seq. Murdered by his brother, 508, b. See further under Theodoric Ist. The son of Triarius, invades Zeno, 515, c. Enters Macedon, ibid. e. Peace with Zeno, 516, a. Success against Leontius, ibid. c. New treaty with Zeno, 516, d, e. Invades and subdues Italy, 517, & seq. Acknowledged king of it, 519, b. With a submission to the emperor, ibid. c. Assists Mundus against him, 521, a, b. Favours the Arians, 523, f. See under Theodoric IId.
- Ist king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, e. Reduces Italy, 493, a. Peace with the Romans, 510, b. Repulsed before Narbonne, ibid. c, d. Defeated by Oetius, ibid. d, e. Defeats Littorius, ibid. & seq.
- IId Peace with Rome, 511, f. His death, 512, b. See under Theodoric IId.
- IId, his character, 511, f. Alliance with Rome, 512, a, b. Success against the Suevi in Spain, ibid. & seq. Ravages in Lusitania, 513, b. Conquests in Gaul, ibid. & seq. Death, 514, c.
- IId, sent hostage to Leo, 519, c. Returns richly laden, ibid. f, & seq.
- success against the Sarmatians, 520, a. Invades the empire, ibid. b. Succeeds his father, ibid. c. Careless and deserted by Zeno, ibid. d, e, & seq.
- ravages Thrace, &c. 521, b, c. Defeated, 522, a, b. Goes to Constantinople, ibid. c, d. Retires, ibid. & seq.
- marches into Italy, 523, c, d. Victories and conquests there, 524, a, b. Betrayed and shut up in Pavia, ibid. c. Assisted by the Visigoths, ibid. c, d. Reduces all Italy, ibid. & seq.
- treachery to Odoacer, 525, c. Subdues Sicily, ibid. e.
- confirms the Roman laws, &c. 526, a—c. His courts of judicature, ibid. d, e.
- protects the Allemans, 568, f. Letter to Clovis in their behalf, 571, a, b. Outwits him, 572, e, f, & seq. Interposes between him and Alaric, 573, e, f. Second letter to Clovis, 574, a—c. to Gundebald, ibid. c, d. to the Heruli, ibid. & seq. Opposes the Franks, 576, & seq. Falls out with Sigismund, 585, & seq. Outwits the Franks, 587, d, e. His glorious reign, 639, & seq. Acknowledged by the emperor, 640, a—c. Vast territories, ibid. d, e. Great moderation, ibid. & seq. with regard to the Romans, 641, a—d. to religion, ibid. & seq. Singular justice, 642, b, c. Temperance, ibid. c, d. Generosity to his captive subjects, ibid. & seq. War with Anastasius, 643, a—c. Peace, ibid. d. Entry into Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Munificence there, 644, a, b. War with the Burgundi, ibid. c. with Clovis, ibid. d. Chosen guardian to Amalaric, ibid. f. Restores him to his crown, 645, a—c. Cruelty to Boetius and Symmachus, ibid. & seq. Great grief for it, 646, d. Death and offspring, 647, a—b.
- success against the Huns, 485, pass.
- Basiliscus's general's treaty with Theodoric, IId, 520, c, f. Forces Zeno to shameful articles, 521.
- Theodorician Laws*, whence so called, vii. 517, c, d.
- † Theodoropolis, where, and why so called, vi. 587, f.
- Theodorus*'s noble speech against Dionysius, iii. 53, c.
- the betrayer of Antony's son to Octavian, v. 292, b.
- put to death for magic and treason, vi. 374, c, d.
- Manilius's consulship, 441, e. Rise and character, ibid. & seq.
- the Reader, his history imperfect, 491, (S).
- joins in Longinus's revolt, 518, e. Taken and beheaded, ibid. & seq.
- prefect of the east, put to death, 538, a.
- the Cappadocian, conspires against Phocas, 538, c. Put to death, ibid. f.
- the brother of Heradius, his success against Sais, 541, d, e. Defeated by Haumar, 543, b.
- revolt and banishment, 601, c, d.
- despot of Epirus, 629, e. Treachery to Peter, 630, a. Assumes the purple, ibid. d. Defeated by John, ibid. e. His eyes put out, ibid. et seq. Restored by Azen, 631, d.
- Calliopa, chosen exarch, vii. 691, d.
- Theodosiolus*, put to death by Valens, vi. 376, a. Not the same with Theodosius the great, 378, c.
- † Theodosiopolis, where, iii. 693, (A). Burnt by the Turks, ibid. Defended by Eumenius against the Persians, vi. 474, e. Taken by Cabades, 520, c. Retaken by Constantine IV. 555, c.
- Theodosius*, driven out of Spain, vi. 455, d.
- Theodosius*, left under the guardianship of Ildigertes, iv. 338, b. War against the Persians, 340, & seq.
- sent into Britain, vi. 353, c. Success there, ibid. d, e. In Mauritania, 359, d—f. Outwitted by Firmus, ibid. & seq. Success against him, 360, c, d. Triumphs over him, 361, b. Unjustly put to death by Gratian, 378, b, c. Honours conferred on him after his death, ibid. et seq. See also vol. vii. 435, & seq.
- his son's bravery against the Sarmatians, 362, c, d. Retires into Spain, 378, d. Sent for back by Gratian, 388, e. Success in Sarmatia, ibid. & seq. Raised to the throne, 389, c. Signal modesty and valour, ibid. d, e. Extract and rise, 390, a—c. Why called Theodosius, ibid. d. Addressed to by several cities, 392, b, c. Success against the Goths, ibid. & seq. In Thrace, 393, a. Sickness, baptism, and recovery, ibid. b—d. Zeal for orthodoxy, ibid. e. Wholicome laws, 394, a—c. Victory over the Goths, ibid. d—f. Honours to their king, 395, d, e. Summons an oecumenic council, ibid. e, f. Success against the Goths, 396, b. Subdues and settles them, 397, b, c. Allies with the revolted Maximus, 402, b. Success against the Saracens, ibid. c. Great sway over Valentinian II. 403, a. Severe laws against idolatry, ibid. d, e, & seq. Against incestuous marriages, 404, c, d. Against heretics, ibid. e. and Jews, ibid. f. Supplies of corn to Rome, 406, c. Clemency to the conspirators, ibid. e. Success against the Greuthungi, 407, a, b. Clemency to them, ibid. & seq. Marries Galla, ibid. d. A noble wish of his, 408, a. Insulted by the Antiochians, ibid. b, c. Severity to the ungrateful city, ibid. f, & seq. Yet mitigated by him, 409, a, b. Wholly forgives them, 411, e, f. Letter to them, ibid. et seq. Succours Valentinian, 412, c, d. Success against Maximus, ibid. & seq. Clemency to his adherents, 414, a. To the Arians, ibid. e, f. Laws against heretics, 415, a, b. Entry into Rome, ibid. b, c. Proves the means of converting it, ibid. et seq. Clemency to the Alexandrian pagans, 416, f. Demolishes idolatry there and in Egypt, 417, pass. His silver statue reared, 418, b. Laws against apostates and heretics, ibid. c. Dreadful havoc of the barbarians, ibid. & seq. In great danger from them, 419, a, b. Laws against extortion, 421, c, f. Against the Lycians, ibid. et seq. March against Eugenius, 422, d. Fresh laws against heretics, &c. ibid. e, f. Forces the Alps, 423, c, f. Defeats Eugenius, 424, pass. Supported by a miracle, ibid. e, f. Clemency to the revolted, 425, a, b. To Eugenius's family, ibid. b, c. Divides the empire between Arcadius and Honorius, 426, c, d. Death, obsequies and character, ibid. et seq. Mailace of the Theissalonians, 427, a—c. Repentance for it, ibid. d, e.
- his square and column finished at Constantinople, 423, b.
- IId, the son of Arcadius baptized, 448, c. Created emperor, 449, a. But eight years old when his father dies, 454, f. Peaceful state of his empire, 458, f. 459, a, b. Piously brought up by his mother, 470, c, d. Removes to Eudonopolis, 472, b. Refuses to acknowledge Constantius, 473, d. Marries Eudocia, ibid. e, et seq. Success against the Persians, 474, c, et seq. Peace with them, 475, d. Kind reception of Placidia, ibid. f, et seq. Proclaimed emperor of the West, 478, a. Sends Placidia thither, ibid. & seq. Makes her son emperor, 480, a. Peace with the Vandals, 483, a. Destroys all the relics of paganism, ibid. d. His code published, 484, b, c. Jealousy of Eudocia, 485, & seq. Sends a fleet to Valentinian, 486, c, d. Shameful peace with the Huns, 487, c. Slavery to Attila, 488. More shameful peace with him, 489, c—e. See also vol. vii. 465, et seq. Treachery to him, 470, a, b. To Constantius, ibid. d, e. Receives the Goths into Thrace, 502, f. Blamed for it, 503, b, c. Death and character, vi. 490, d—f.
- the son of Ataulphus born, 470, a. Dies in Spain, ibid. d, e.
- of Mauritius, put to death by Phocas, 536, e.
- brother of Constantius IId. put to death by him, 545, b.
- an obscure person proclaimed emperor, 550, e. Enters Constantinople, ibid. f. Refrains to Leo, 551, a.
- Theodota*, married to Constantine Porphyry, vi. 559, a. Brought to bed of a prince, ibid. c.
- Theodotus*'s surprising constancy on the rack, iii. 101, a. Becomes head of a faction, 103, f, & seq.
- Ist founder of the Bactrian kingdom, 525, b. 846, c. Invades Syria, 528, e.
- IId, allies with Arfaces against Seleucus, 528, et seq. Defeated by Eutydemus, 541, e. 846, c.
- Ptolemy's general goes over to Antiochus, 536, a, b. Made governor under him, ibid. c. Attempts on his life, 538, b, c.
- the Egyptian rhetorician advises the murdering of Pompey, 673, d. Presents his head to Caesar, v. 151, a. His miserable end, 152, d. 239, b, c.
- Theodorus*, strip of his immense treasure by the Maccabees, iv. 102, e.
- defeats Æmilianus, vi. 181. Why not promoted, ibid. f.
- forgiven and cared for by Julian, 327, d.
- king of Italy's reign, &c. 493, a.
- Theodulus*'s writings and character, vi. 517, (V).

Theodolus, a cruel minister of Justinian, vi. 547, d, e. Burnt alive, 548, b.
Theopetes, the Asian, banished, vi. 260, e. Recalled, 262, c.
Theopetor, tyrant of Samos, iii. 198.
Theon's writings and character, vi. 430, in fin. not.
Theophrastus, persuades Pompey to flee for Egypt, v. 248, d, e.
 — put to death, vi. 537, f.
Theophrastus, married to Soterius, vi. 561, e. Retires from the world, 562, e.
Theophrastus, takes the government upon her, vi. 582. Intrigues with Nisiphorus, 583, c. Married to him, ibid. e. Treachery to him, 584, d. Banished, 585, b. Recalled, 587, f.
Theophrastus, of Euboea, the supposed introducer of Syriac points, i. 378.
 — made high-priest, iv. 255, a.
Theophrastus, his extract and successful stratagem against the Saracens, vi. 568, e, f. Singular fidelity to Theophilus, 569, d, e. Death, 570, c, d.
Theophrastus, the son of Romanus, designed for the church, vi. 579, c. Dethrones him, 580, c. Falls out with his brother, ibid. d. Banished, ibid. e.
 — cut off by the Bulgarians, vii. 635, f.
Theophrastus's writings and character, vi. 84. sub not.
 — governor of Syria, murdered by Gallus's treachery, 291, a, b.
 — bp. of Alexandria exasperates the heathen, 416, d, e. & seq.
 — one of the compilers of the Justinian Pandects, 530, e.
 — stratagem to find out the murderers of Leo, 567, e, f. Ingratitude to Manuel, 569, a. Great honours done to him, ibid. c, d. Pardons the revolted Persians, ibid. e. Grief for the loss of Amorium, 570, b. Death and character, ibid. c. Burns his wife's ship, ibid. d.
Theophrastus, king of Lacedaemon invades Messenia, ii. 571. Creates the Ephori, 574, & not. Takes Ithome by stratagem, 576, a. His character and death, ibid. c, d.
 — the fabulist gratified by Cæsar, v. 149, a.
 — where born, &c. iii. 108, & not.
Theoris, the name of the Delian ship, iii. 230, e.
Theotichus, a magician, put to death, vi. 253, c.
 — the island of, described, iii. 214, & seq.
 — city, the ruins of, iii. 216, b.
 — the son of Aucteson, the story of, iii. 214, b.
Theotimus, Athenian admiral, ii. 526. Treachery to his colleague, 528, & seq. One of the thirty tyrants, 530. Put to death, ibid.
Theophrastus, their sect, life, &c. iv. 171, a, &c. Prophetic spirit, 172, a, b. Austerity, ibid. c, d. Whether Jews or Christians, 173, d, e.
Theotians, their wars, iii. 215, d, & seq.
Theotimia, the celebrated daughter of Honorius, vi. 390, c.
 — Theotima, where situate, ii. 658. Taken and burnt by Antigonus, ibid. In Sicily, by whom founded, vi. 745, d. where situate, 832, (P).
 — Theotima, the hot waters of, described, iii. 10, d.
 — Theotimus bay, described, iii. 260, b.
 — Theotimon, a river in Pontus, iii. 722, e.
 — the famed battle of, ii. 279, not.
Theotomoria, one of the feasts of Ceres, ii. 731. not.
Theotomoria, what, ibid.
 — Theotomoria, the streights of, described, ii. 371, a. Guarded against the Goths, vi. 180, c.
 — the famed battle of, ii. 588, pass & not.
 — Theotimus, metropolis of Ætolia, described, ii. 410, b. Why called Panetolium, ibid.
 — his stratagem against the Ligurians, iv. 753, f. Defeats them, 754, d, e.
Theotimus married to Phrazates, iv. 314, a. Poisons him, ibid. c.
Theon's monument struck down with lightning, vi. 746, c.
Theotander, king of Thebes, killed before Troy, ii. 375, b.
Theotimus, driven out by the Huns, vi. 379, c. Fall foul upon the Romans, 381, b. The rest see under Visigoths, vii. 459, & seq. 504, a.
Theotus, where born, ii. 364, c. First adventures, ibid. & not. Sails with the unhappy victims to Crete, 365. Kills the Minotaur, ibid. Forgets to hang out his victorious flag, ibid. & seq. Succeeds his father, 366, a. Becomes a follower of Hercules, ibid. b. Expedition against the Amazons, ibid. (K). Steals Helen away, ibid. & seq. Dangerous attempt upon Proserpine, 367, a. Undermined at Athens, ibid. b. His death, ibid. &c. Cruelty to Hippolytus, ibid. (M). Supposed the founder of the Isthmian games, 391, (C).
 — his famous pillar on the Isthmus, 366, d.
 — temple at Athens, 436, c. Made a sanctuary, 438.
 — tomb discovered, and bones brought to Athens, 432.
Theotomus, at Athens, their office, ii. 417, 443.
 — Theotima, a city in Boeotia, ii. 371, a.
 — Theotima, the cities of, iii. 796, b.
 — Theotimians, who and where seated, ii. 344, b. 381, pass. Brave warriors and horsemen, 382, c. Their government, 383, a. Kings, ibid. & seq. Drive out the Boeotians, Vol. VII. No 11.

386, a. Hatred and wars against the Phocians, ibid. & seq. Highly rewarded by Alexander, 162. Treachery to the Athenians, 487, & seq. Punished by Myrionides, 489, a. Over-reached by the Macedonians, iii. 286, pass. Defeats Alaric, vi. 449, b. The rest see under Theotima.
 — Theotima, part of ancient Greece, ii. 544, b. Part of ancient Theffaly, 381, a.
 — Theotima, by whom founded, iii. 256, c, (F). Taken by the Romans, 493, f. Besieged by the Goths, vi. 180, c. Taken by the Saracens, 575, f. Betrayed to the king of Sicily, 622, b. Taken by the Bulgarians, vii. 632, b.
Theotimians, seven thousand enslaved by Theodorus, vi. 427, b-d.
Theotimus, the son of Onocus, ii. 581, a.
 — a name used by ancient poets for poisonous drugs, 562, a.
 — Theotima, part of ancient Greece, ii. 544, b. Whence so called, 381, a. Its site, division, &c. ibid. b, c. Famed for oxen and horses, &c. 382. Subdued by Acilius, iv. 734, c. By Æmilius, 763, c. By the Macedonians, 774, c. Ravaged by the Goths, vii. 496, f.
Theotima's noble answer to Dionysius, iii. 53, f.
Theotima, the lowest rank of Athenians, ii. 430, a.
Theotima, a Jewish impostor, beheaded, iv. 263, c, (Z).
Theotiminda takes Agilulf for her husband, vii. 684, b. and converts him, ibid. d.
Theotima king of the Goths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.
Theotimulus king of the Goths in Gaul, vii. 492, e.
Theotima, one of the names of Mercury, its etymon, ii. 264, (A). Worshipped in Gaul, vii. 367, a, b, (T), & seq. by the Saxons, 492, e.
 — Theotima, a new island, described, iii. 215, c.
 — Theotima river in Lacedaemon, ii. 397, c.
Theotima, the penitent, why absolved, iv. 240, b, c, (B).
Theotima crucified with Christ, who, iv. 239, (A).
Theotima defeated and crucified, iii. 421, b.
 — Theotima, where, iv. 76, c. Fortified by Barchides, ibid.
 — Theotima, its true situation uncertain, vii. 210, d.
Theotima, an ancient city in Thebais, i. 175, e.
Theotima king of Corinth, ii. 334, (M).
 — king of Lemnos, iii. 236, b.
 — pretor of Ætolia, opposes the Romans, 711. Convenes the general assembly in favour of Antiochus, 712. Haughty answer to the Roman consul, 713, b. Sent to surprise Chalcis, 714, b. Disappointed, 715, pass. Goes over to Antiochus, ibid. e. Famed speech to him, iii. 553, f.
 — his speech against Hannibal, vii. 29, a, b.
 — river in Ætolia; see Achelous, ii. 409.
Theotima, the son of Phush, 6th judge of Israel, i. 750, a.
 — Theotima Temple and Treasury, by whom built, vii. 355, c, (R). Plundered by Cæpio, 396, a, b. Described, 350, (F), 537, (M). Taken by the Visigoths, 509, a.
 — Theotima, where situate, iv. 741, c. Taken by Syphax, ibid. & seq.
Theotima, Didymus, one of the twelve apostles, iv. 208, (T). His incredulity reproved, 245.
 — usurper, his extract, treason, and conquests, vi. 56, c, a, b. Repelled before Constantinople, ibid. c, d. Defeats and kills Gregory, ibid. e. Defeated by the Bulgarians, ibid. e, f. Imprisonment and death, 566, a.
Theotima worshipped by the Saxons, vii. 442, d.
Theotima sacrificed by the triumphs, v. 224, a.
Theotima's bravery at the battle of Chalons, vi. 495, & seq. vii. 476, pass. Narrow escape, 477, b. Proclaimed king of the Goths, ibid. c, vi. 496, a. Returns to Gaul, ibid. c, d. vii. 477, c, f. 511, b. Succeeds against Attila, 480, c, d. Succeeds Theodoric in Gaul, 492, & seq. 511, b. Wars with Rome, ibid. d. Murdered, ibid. e.
 — king of the Ostrogoths, his short reign and death, vii. 518, d.
Theotima queen of Scythia's encounter with Cyrus, ii. 87, 283. Bloody revenge on him, ibid.
 — Theotima; see Taulouje, vi. 469, & seq.
 — Theotima, the kingdom of, described, iii. 786, pass. Its soil, customs and government, 788. Invaded by Philip, 298, a, & not. Subdued by the Romans, 791, f. Made a Roman province, v. 650, d. Ravaged by the Goths, vi. 169, pass. 180, c. 181, d. Abandoned to them, 382, a, b. Destroyed by the Quadi, 388, c. Freed by Theodorus, 393, a. Ravaged by the Huns, 480, c. Repeopled by the Barbarians, 498, b. Walked by the Huns, 513, a. by the Turks, &c. 636, c, f. 637, b, c. by Attila, vii. 468, c, f.
 — Theotimians greatly skilled in music, iii. 795, b. in eloquence, ibid. c.
Theotimund king of the Vandals in Afric, vii. 427, d.
 — Theotima Petus; see Petus, v. 562, & seq.
 — Theotimians, where situate, iii. 261, a.
Theotima unjustly put to death, iii. 101.
Theotimulus victorious at sea, ii. 526. Endeavours to rescue Attica, 531, b. Recovers Pyreum, ibid. Peace with Sparta, ibid. f, & seq. Hopeful expedition into the Hellespont, 537. Slain at Aspendus, 538, a.
 — tyrant of Miletum's stratagem to obtain a peace, ii. 334, e. Advice to Pericles, 758.
 — king of Syracuse, his cruel reign, iii. 22, f. Banishment, 23, b.

- Tbrasybulus* foretells Alexander what death he should die, vi. 145, b.
- Tbrasydeus*, tyrant of Agrigentum, defeated by Hiero, iii. 21, c. Kills himself, ibid. d.
- the murderer of the king of Cyprus, 181, d.
- made king of Thessaly for his flattery, 310, (L).
- Tbrasydras* of Elis procures a peace with Sparta, ii. 600, a.
- Tbrasyllus* unjustly put to death, ii. 528, & seq.
- a famed astrologer beloved by Tiberius, v. 330, c. Deceives him, 453, d, (D). His death and character, 458, not.
- † Tbrasymentus, the battle of, iv. 704, & seq.
- † Tbronium, metropolis of Locris Epichnem, ii. 413, a.
- city and promontory of Cyprus, iii. 173, d.
- in Abantis, built by the Eubaeans, iii. 251, a.
- Tbracydides* descended from the Sapean kings, iii. 794, c.
- Commands in Macedon, ii. 511, pass. Saves the city of Jone, ibid. f.
- † Tbule island discovered, v. 672. Where situate, vii. 598, d.
- Thundering Legion*, an account of, vi. 72, pass.
- Tburians* revolt from the Carthaginians, vii. 50, d. Receive them afresh, 54, pass. Plundered by Hannibal, 77, a.
- † Tburians, who, vii. 566, (G). Oft confounded with the Tongrians, ibid. Where seated, 567, b.
- Tburinus* third king of Macedon, iii. 272, b.
- † Tburium in Sybaris, whence so called, ii. 493, (E), in fin. Taken by the Tarentines, iv. 644.
- Tburneldis* carried off by Arminius, v. 372, c. Her signal bravery, 373, b, c. Deliverance, 374, b, (A).
- Tbuscus Arbian*, his treason forgiven, vi. 132, a.
- Tbia*, a feast of Bacchus described, ii. 406, (D).
- † Tbyatira, a city in Lydia, ii. 329, a.
- Tbyestes* brother of Atreus, his incest, ii. 336, b, & not.
- † Tbymateriam, where situate, vii. 142, b.
- † Tbymbria, where, and by whom founded, ii. 312, b.
- † Tbyni & see Bithynians, iii. 729, & seq.
- Tbyras*, the son of Japhet, settles in Thrace, iii. 786, b.
- † Thyreia island, where, iii. 193, a. Given to the Samian fugitives, ibid.
- city taken by the Athenians, ii. 510, f.
- † Thysdras, where situate, vi. 153, d. Gordianus proclaimed at, ibid. e.
- † Tiber river, boundary of Etruria, iv. 410, d. Whence so called, 412, e. Its spring-head, &c. 413, b. Overflows, 679, f. Drowns part of Rome, v. 457, d. under Otho, 604, e. Fresh overflows, vi. 26, e. 58, f. More dreadful, 63, b, c. Lays Rome under water, 365. Reckoned ominous, ibid. b.
- † Tiberias, the sea of, described, i. 577, b. Whence it had all its other names, ibid. (P). and that of Tiberias, iv. 194, d, (A).
- city, [by whom built, iv. 194, d. Taken by the Romans, 272, d, (V).
- Tiberinus* king of Alba drowned, iv. 421.
- Tiberius, Claud. Nero*, ill-fuccels in Campania, v. 267, d, e. Flight into Sicily, ibid. & seq. Return to Rome, 273, c. Cruelty to the Astures, 299, b.
- Augustus's son-in-law made questor, v. 301, c. Succels against the Germans, 314, b. Succels Agrippa, 318, d. Marries the infamous Julia, ibid. e. Reduces the Pannonians, ibid. f, & 320, a. Sent against the Germans, 322, f. Triumphs over them, 324, a, b. Sudden retreat to Rhodes, ibid. f, & seq. Behaviour there, 325, pass. Forbid to return, 326, a. Divorces Julia, 327, a, b. Letters to Augustus, 328, d. Return to Rome, 330, c. Adoption, 332, c. Succels against the Germans, 333, d, e. 334, b, c. Slow expedition against the Marcomani, 335, b, c. Jealousy of Germanicus, ibid. e. Surprized by the Dalmatians, 339, c, d. Triumphs over them, 340, b. 342, c. Quinquennial tribuneship renewed, 345, c. Recalled from Illyricum, 346, f. Assists at Augustus's last moments, ibid. & seq. Declared his successor, 347, e. Why, ibid. (E). Murders young Agrippa, 351, a. 354, a, (H). Declared emperor, 354, & seq. His extract, &c. 356, (L). Where born, 357, not. Ingratitude to his mother, ibid. b. Cruelty to Julia, 358, a, (M). Letter to the revolted legions, 362, & seq. Jealousy of Germanicus, 370, b, c. Signal modesty, ibid. & seq. Reformation, 357, f. Jealousy of Agrippa, 377, d, e. Affected popularity, 378, & seq. Severely lampooned, ibid. (H). Outwits the Veterans, 380, & seq. Saluted emperor by Germanicus, 384, c. Grows suspicious of him, 386, b, c. Treachery to Libo, ibid. & seq. to Archelaus, 390, d. Liberality to the twelve ruined cities, 392, c. to that of Rome, 402, b. Edict against mourning for Germanicus, 404, a, b. Speech to the senate about Piso's trial, ibid. & seq. Partiality to Plancina and hers, 406, c, d, (E). Fourth consulate, 408. Excuse for not going against the Germans, 410, b. Law for relieving criminals ten days, 411, b, (H). Speech against suppressing luxury, ibid. c. Disimulation to Livia, 412, e. Speech in favour of young Drusus, 416, e, & seq. on the greatness of his army, &c. 417, (S). Why nick-named Calli-
- pedes, ibid. in fin. not. Monoured with a temple, 419, d. Singular knowledge of mankind, 422, e. Answer about building temples to him, 424, & seq. to Sejanus's petition, 425, & seq. Suspicious against Agrippina, 427, & seq. Contest between eleven cities about building a temple to him, 428, d, (F). Retires from Rome, 429, pass. His motives, ibid. & (G), (H), & (I). His life saved by Sejanus, 430, b. Grows suspicious and cruel, ibid. & seq. Retires to Caprea, 432, b, c. Letter on the execution of Sabinus, 434, a. Hatred to his mother, 435, & seq. Letters against Agrippina and Nero, 436, pass. Cruel usage of them, 437, a, b. Informed of Sejanus's designs, ibid. e, f. Letter to the senate against him, 439, & seq. Butchers all his friends, 441, b, c. Other cruelties, 442, et seq. Dreadful condition, 444, et (T). Murders all his old friends, 445, et seq. Sham approach towards Rome, 446, b. Seizes on Marius's estate, 447, a. His baseless and cruelty, et seq. Generosity to the Roman sufferers, ibid. 451, c. Publick buildings, ibid. (B). Taken ill out of Caprea, 452, b, (C). Deceived by an Astrologer, 453, d, (D). Whether, and how he settled the succession, 554, & seq. Foretells Gemellus and Caligula's deaths, 455, c. Stifled by Macro, ibid. et seq. Burial, 456, f. Character, 457, a, (F). Anniversary instituted, 478, c. The twelfth year of his reign, how computed, iv. 194, b. Embassy and defeat of Cosroes, 358, b, c, d. An error about him corrected, vii. 348, (G).
- Gemellus Nero, whether named to succeed his grandfather, v. 454, & seq. Adopted by Caligula, 463, c. His dismal end, ibid. d, e.
- the son of Brutus, cabals against him, iv. 468, b. His death, 469, e.
- an obscure usurper of the empire, vi. 266, b.
- Justin's prime minister governs during his madness, 532, c. Created Caesar, ibid. f. Chosen emperor, 533, c. Creates Anastasia empress, ibid. d. Generosity to Hommifdas, ibid. e. Death, ibid. et seq. Character, 534, a.
- brother of Constantine III, disfigured by him, 545, & seq.
- Aspimar depofes and confines Justinian, 548, c. Driven out by him, 549, a. Put to death, ibid. b.
- the son of Justinian II, murdered in a sanctuary, 549, f, et seq.
- an impostor proclaimed emperor, vii. 707, d.
- Tibetes* sent to raise disturbances in Bithynia, iii. 145, e. Dies in his journey, ibid.
- king of Bithynia deposed by his brother, 829.
- Tibni* elected king of Israel, i. 808, e. Builds Samaria, ibid. A wicked person, ibid. et seq.
- † Tibur, put to the sword by Attila, vii. 668, a.
- † Ticinum, Pavia, fortified by Scipio, vii. 17, c.
- the battle of, ibid. & seq.
- Tidius Sextus*, goes over to Pompey, v. 138, c.
- Tigellinus's* sumptuous banquet for Nero, v. 546, b, c. Judges the conspirators, 553, f, & seq. 556, a. His reward, 557, & seq. Treachery to Nero, 575, b. and escape by dint of bribery, 588, pass. His death, 601, f, & seq.
- Tigellius* promoted by Nero, v. 541, f. Leud character, 542, a. Bloody advice to him, ibid. e.
- Tigillum sororium*, the yoke under which criminals were made to pass, iv. 442, d.
- Tiglab-Pilefar*, king of Assyria, who, i. 890, a, (A). Carries the Jews into captivity, ibid. b. and the whole tribe of Naphtali into Assyria, ibid. c.
- Tigranes* I. king of Armenia, iii. 699, f. Invades Cappadocia, ibid. & seq. Chosen king of Assyria, 617, a. 700, a. Driven out by Pompey, 619, e. 700, b. His conquests, ibid. c. Alliance with Mithridates, 699, f. 700, e, f. Cold reception of him, ibid. & seq. vid. & 748, a, (N). New conquests, 701, b, c. Excessive pride, ibid. c, d. Answer to Lucullus, ibid. & seq. Invaded by him, 702, b. Defeated by Sextilius, ibid. c, d. By Lucullus, 703, pass. Jointly with Mithridates, 705, c. Defeats his rebellious son, 706, e, f. Submits to Pompey, 707, a, b. Strong attachment to the Romans, ibid. d, e. Death, ibid. f. See also vol. iv. 104, c. 318, c.
- his son, rebels against him, 706, f. Leads Pompey into Armenia, 707, a. Sent in chains to Rome, ibid. d, e.
- II, crowned by Tiberius, iii. 709, b. Put to death, ibid. & v. 308, b. 329, c. 351, d.
- III, defeated by Caius, v. 329, c.
- promoted by Nero, v. 336, b. His extract, ibid. (F).
- yields his share of Armenia to Theodosius, vi. 487, b.
- † Tigrano-certa, by whom built, iii. 693, b, 700, d. Besieged by Lucullus, 703, b, c. Betrayed to him, 704, d, (L). Taken by the Parthians, iv. 318, d.
- † Tigre, the mountains of, where, &c. vii. 185, d.
- † Tigris river described, i. 55, d, e, & seq. 858. Why so called, ibid. (H).
- in Armenia, described, iii. 694, a—c.
- Trajan's bridge over, vi. 18, f.
- † Tiguri, who, v. 19, d. Defeat the Romans, ibid. e.
- Timeus Locrus's* account of the origin of things, i. 27, c.
- Siculus's writings and character, vi. 739, (F).

- Timarchus*, king of Atropatene, iii. 844, f.
 — a tool of Antiochus put to death for oppression, 591, c.
Timasius sent against Maximus, vi. 412, f. Commands the Romans against Eugenius, 424, a. Betrayed by Eutropius, 436, c, f. Dreadful Banishment, 437.
Timea, the wife of Agis debauch'd by Alcibiades, ii. 600, c.
Timus, the accuser of Propidius, v. 481, e.
Timo, priestess of Ceres, her advice to Miltiades, iii. 223, cleared by the oracle, 224, a.
Timolaus reigns jointly with his father Odenatus, vi. 183, d, &c. 189, d. His death, 192, c.
Timoleon's aversion to tyranny, iii. 73, & seq. Kills his brother, 74, c, & not. Sent general into Sicily, ibid. c. Takes Syracuse, ibid. & seq. Repeoples it, 77, d, c. Establishes democracy in it, ibid. &c. Defeats the Carthaginians, 78. Peace with them, 79, a. Clears that island of its tyrants, ibid. b, c. vol. vi. 775, & seq. Success against Ictas, 776, pass. Outwits the Carthaginians, ibid. & seq. Defeats them, 777, b, c. Takes Messana, 780, c. His merry cry after the Carthaginians, ibid. f. Storms Ictas, ibid. et seq. Deposits the Sicilian tyrants, 781, b—d. Quells the mutinous mercenaries, 782, c—e. Defeats the Carthaginians, 783, et seq. Gets an immense plunder, 785, a—c. Fresh defeat of Ictas, 786, a. Puts him and his family to death, ibid. b. Defeats Mamercus, ibid. e. Peace with Carthage, ibid. d. Death and funeral honours, iii. 79, e, & seq.
Timoteus's epitome of the Orpheic cosmogony, i. 16, a. Testimony of Orpheus, ibid. c.
 — Athenian general, his character, ii. 540. Defeats the Lacedemonians, ibid. & seq. Success in Macedonia, 541. Disgrace and death, 543, b.
 — tyrant of Heraclea, iii. 824, e.
 — governor of the Ammonites, defeated by Judas Maccabeus, iii. 587, b. iv. 59, e. Afresh and killed, 63, a.
 — invades Gilead, and defeated, 64, b. A second time, 66, & seq. Taken prisoner, 67, c.
 — the Eutychnian raises new troubles in the empire, vi. 521, f.
Tin, fetched from Britain by the Phenicians, vii. 401, & seq. Discovered by the Greeks, 405.
 † Tina, the true Pelusium, i. 166, a.
 † Tinda, the metropolis of the Bistones, iii. 790, d.
 † Tingis, Tangier, metropolis of Maurit. Tingitania, v. 493, d, (W), vii. 139, a. When and by whom built, 140, e, f. A gigantic corpse dug up at, 141, a. Its other names, ibid. b, c. Taken by Sertorius, v. 86, b.
 † Tingitania, see Mauritania, vii. 139, et seq. When made a roman province, 157, b.
 † Tingitanum, taken by Theodosius, vi. 360, c.
 † Tipasa, where situate, vii. 113, c.
 † Tiras and his descendants, where settled, i. 169, b.
Tirbakab, king of Ethiopia, probably the same with the Sabaco of Herodotus, i. 893, (V), vii. 211, f. & seq.
Tiribajus the Persian general, invades Cyprus, ii. 145. Recalled and disgraced, 146, c. Saves Artaxerxes and his army, ibid. &c. Restored, 147, b, c. Put to death for treason, 149, et seq. See vol. iii. 180, et seq.
Tiridates, opposed by Corbulo, iii. 713, et seq. Driven out of Armenia, 714, et seq. Sues to Rome for the crown, 716, b. Interview with Corbulo, ibid. et seq. Crowned by Nero, 717, b, c. v. 304, et seq. Rank flattery to him, ibid. 564, c. d. Narrowly escapes the Alani, 650, c. His successors, iii. 717, d. e. See also vol. iv. 319, et seq.
 — set upon the Parthian throne, iv. 313, b. Wars with Phraates, ibid. & seq.
 — the son of Phraates set up by Tiberius, 315, b, c. Outed by Artabanus, ibid. & seq.
 — kills the king of Armenia, vi. 63, c. Taken prisoner, ibid.
 — restored to the Armenian crown, 131.
Tirshata, its office, iv. 3, (C).
 † Tisfata, where situate, vii. 44. Hannibal's camp at, ibid. & seq.
 † Tisfidium, where situate, vii. 131, (N).
Tisamenes, king of Lacedemon, outed by the Heraclidæ, ii. 403, c.
Tisamenus king of Mycenæ, ii. 357, f. Killed in Achaia, 416, b.
Tisri, the sept of the Jews, i. 607, a. The first month of the civil year, 609, a.
Tissaphernes's expedition into Greece, ii. 140, e. Influenced by Alcibiades, 521. Cowardice, 141, b. Treachery to Agesilaus, ibid. d. Put to death, 142, e. 610, a.
Tit, the Celtic name for the earth, ii. 159, a, & not.
Titan, brother of Saturn, disputes the crown with him, ii. 260, d. and with Jupiter, 261, & seq.
Titanic war, an account of, ii. 261, & seq.
Titanides, Artemides, the seven daughters of Astarte, i. 136, b.
 † Titans, ancient Gomerians, ii. 245, b. War against Jupiter, 261, & seq. Defeated in Spain, 262. In Crete, described, iii. 162, & seq.
Titta, the jealous wife of Uranus, ii. 259, & seq.
Titbes, the chief income of the Levites, i. 627, b. Which to be redeemed, ibid. c. The manner of decimating the cattle, 628, c.
Titbrautes embroils the Grecian states, ii. 610, b.
Titianus Salvus, left to govern in Rome, v. 605, e. Sent to succeed Paulinus, 607, e, f. Rash advice to Otho, 608, c, d. Defeat, 610, d. Surrenders, ibid. & seq. Pardoned by Vitellius, 615, b, c.
 — insulting message to Constantius, vi. 283, f. Breaks his heart at his kindness to him, 288, b.
Titinius Catus, betrays the revolted slaves, v. 31, f.
 — Cassius's friend, the unfortunate cause of his death, 246, c. Kills himself, ibid. c.
Titus Sextus banished, v. 43, c.
 — Marc, defeats Pompey, 283. Murders him, ibid. e. Made consul, 289, a.
Titus, unknown among the ancient Jews, i. 695, c.
Tintanus, king of Lydia, ii. 328, 332.
 † — mount, 328.
Titonus, the son of Laomedon, ii. 315, f. His bravery, ibid. & seq.
Titus Tatius, king of the Sabines, wars with Romulus, iv. 430, & seq. Peace with him, 431, d, e. Dies, 433, b.
 — the son of Brutus cabals for Tarquin, 468, f. Put to death, 469, e.
 — the son of Vespasian joins his father in Judea, iv. 276, a, b. Puts off his journey to Rome, 277, e. Left commander in Judea, 278, a. Gratitude to Josephus, ibid. f. Marches against Jerusalem, ibid. b, c, & seq. Order of his army, ibid. (I). Besieges the city, 279, b, &c. Offers of peace rejected, 280, pass. Swears the destruction of it, 282. Endeavours to save the temple, 285, b, c. Enters the sanctuary, ibid. e. Carries off the sacred utensils, ibid. & seq. Mercy to many Jews, 286, d, (Y) and (Z). Enters the city, 287, b. His triumph and trophies, 289, c, (C). Cuts off the relics of the house of Judah, 290, d. His fondness for Berenice, 291, c. Sent to congratulate Galba, v. 582, e, f. 620, b. Is promised the empire at Paphos, ibid. c. A further account of his Jewish war, 638, c. and triumph, 649, e. Saluted emperor, ibid. & seq. Private life recapitulated, 657, pass. Pathetic apology for his worthless brother, 657, b, c. Private character abhorred by the people, ibid. e, f. Public one as much admired, 658, a, b. Discards his dear Berenice, ibid. c. Profuse generosity and clemency, ibid. d, e, et seq. Success in Britain, vii. 429, e. Triumphs over it, v. 659, f. Munificence to the Campanians, 660, c. To the city of Rome, ibid. d. His death and excellent character, 662, & seq.
 — stately amphitheatre dedicated, 660, f. Other famous buildings, &c. 661, d.
 — triumphal arch still extant, 649, f, & seq.
 † Tivoli, Adrian's palace at, vi. 47, a.
Tlepomenus settles in Rhodes, iii. 132, d. Made king of it, 133, a.
 — Alexander's general's lot after that monarch's death, 423, e.
 — prime minister of Philopater, 646, e, f. Falsely accused, 467, b, c. Cleared, ibid. c.
 † Tob, the land of, where, iv. 63, c. The Jews of, massacred, ibid. e. Country invaded by the Maccabees, 67, a.
Tobiab, endeavours to obstruct the rebuilding of the Jewish temple, i. 298, d. Prophanes it, iv. 24, pass.
 † Toclosida, where situate, vii. 143, c.
 † Tocas, where situate, vi. 808, (Z). Taken by the Sicilians, ibid. d.
Todasius, chosen king of the Heruli, vii. 600, b.
Tœnion, tyrant of Syracuse, iii. 88, c.
 † Togarmab, the last son of Gomer, where settled, i. 167, a. Peoples Cappadocia, iii. 762, c.
 † Togata Gallia, whence so called, vii. 322, a. Describ'd, ibid. &c.
Togodunus, defeated by the Romans, vii. 428, b—d. Killed, 429, a.
Toi, Thœnus, king of Hamath in Syria, i. 390, c. Delivered by David from Hadadezer, ibid. d.
 † Tolerum, Toledo in Spain, where sited, vii. 306, d, et seq.
Tolmides, the Athenian's expedition into Laconia, ii. 489, a. Defeated and killed in Boeotia, 491, d.
 † Tolosa, Toulouse, metropolis of the Visigoths, vi. 47, a, e, f. vii. 510, b. Taken and plundered by the Romans, v. 27, d. By Ataulphus, vi. 469.
 † — its temple and treasure, see sub Tboloufan, 350, (F), 537, (M), & alib.
Tollumius, kills the Roman Ambassadors, iv. 548, e. Slain by Cornel. Cossus, ibid. f.
 † Tomos, metropolis of Lower Mœsia, v. 242, (A).
 † Tongres, where sited, vii. 473. Taken by Attila, ibid. d.
 † Tongrians, who, 567, a. Subdued by Clovis, ibid. d.
Tongues, the confusion of, at Babel, whether a punishment, i. 144, a. How effected, 154, c, d. Whether a new language was form'd from them, 155, a—c.

Topiris

- † Tapiris, a city of Thrace, iii. 786, a.
Torch-bearers at Athens, their office, &c. ii. 464, not.
Torquin's signal fidelity to Ildisgas, vii. 389, (D).
† Torone, a city in Macedon, iii. 257, a. Taken by the Athenians, ii. 542, a.
† — the bay of, iii. 260, b. Taken by Brasidas, 282, a.
Torpedos, their strange effects, vii. 189, (I).
Torquatus, Tit. Man. an instance of his great justice, iii. 507, a. The rest see under Manlius, iv. 586, & seq.
— sent against Antony, v. 208, c, d.
— Silanus condemned to death by Nero, 545, e, f.
† Toryne, where sited, v. 289, b. Surprised by Octavian, ibid. Cleopatra's pun upon it, ibid. (T).
Tosorthrus, king of Memphis, the Egyptian Æsculapius, i. 239. Other of his discoveries, ibid. (F).
Toilla, chosen king of Italy, vii. 493, a, 665, b. Defeats the Romans, 666, b—d. His other conquests, ibid. c, & seq. Letter to the senate despised, 667, e, f. Pursues his victories, 668, pass. Enters Rome, 669, d, e. Stern speech to the senate, 670, a. Carries them prisoners, ibid. d. Second attempt upon Rome abortive, ibid. & seq. Takes it afresh, 672, c, f. Repairs it and the senate, 673, c—e. Conquests in Sicily, ibid. & seq. Reduces it, 674, c, d. Plunders Greece, ibid. & seq. Offers to the emperor rejected, 675, b. Subdues Sardinia, ibid. c. and Corsica, ibid. d. Marches against the Romans, ibid. f, & seq. Defeated and killed, 676, d, e. His character, ibid. & seq.
Touran-dock, princess of Persia, causes the usurper to be assassinated, iv. 402, b. Mounts the throne, ibid. d. Her reign and character, ibid. f, & seq.
† Tournay taken by Clodio, vii. 560, f, & seq. & not.
† Tournesfort's account of Mount Ararat, i. 112.
Tours, Gregor. de, his history defective, vii. 572, & seq.
Tower of Babel; see Babel, i. 123, & seq.
Towers for sieges, by whom invented, iv. 604, b.
† Toxambria, where situate, vi. 303, e, f.
Taxatæ at Athens, their office, ii. 443, c.
Trachalus's consulship, v. 569, d.
Trachandimorus follows Antony, 288. Defeated and killed, 389, c.
† Trachonitis, where situate, iv. 158, (W). Given to Herod, 143, b, (V). Infested with Banditti, 150, b, c. 158, c. Destroyed by Zamaris, ibid. d. Bequeathed to Philip, 184, a.
Trading forbid to men of quality, vi. 457, f.
Tragedy, by whom invented, ii. 446, d.
Tragicus lets Hannibal into Tarentum, vii. 51, f.
Trajan sent against Japhia, iv. 272, b, (R). Success against Colrhoes, 319, & seq. Subdues Parthia, 320, a, b. Adopted by Nerva, vi. 5, d. Created Cæsar, ibid. e. His extract and character, 6. pass. Failings, 7, f, & seq. Why called Parietarius, 8, a. Saluted emperor, ibid. d—f. Entry and reception at Rome, 9, b, c. Signal generosity there, ibid. & seq. Modesty, 10, b. Impartiality, ibid. d, e. First war with the Dacians, 11, d. Triumph, 12, c. Finishes the port of Centum Cellæ, 13, b, c. War against Decebalus, ibid. f, & seq. Bridge over the Danube, 14, b. Subdues Dacia, ibid. & seq. Cities built by him there, 15, d, e. Triumph and conquests, ibid. & seq. Conspired against, 16, d. Expedition into Parthia, ibid. & seq. Entry into Antioch, 17, a. Presents brought to him, ibid. d, e. New conquests, ibid. & seq. Whether he returned to Rome, 19, d, e. Why surnamed Parthicus, 20, & seq. Vast and swift conquests, 18, & seq. Hurt by an earthquake, ibid. c, f. Sails to the Persian gulph, 22, b, c. Expedition against Hagareus, 24, d. Narrow escape before Atræ, ibid. c, f. Falls ill and embarks for Italy, 25, a. His death, obsequies, &c. ibid. b, c. Stately works, ibid. & seq. Misfortunes following his death, 26, e, f. His character, 27, & seq. Fruitless attempt against Arabia, vii. 282, f, & seq.
— square and column, 26, d, e.
— triumphal arch, 23, a.
† — the castle of, repaired by Julian, 302, a.
† — canal of, cleansed by Julian, 332.
— cotemporary authors, 27, & seq. sub not.
— the son of Decius, vi. 168, b. His death, 170, d.
— general of Valens, defeats the Persians, 374, a. Murders the king of Armenia, 376. Sent against the Goths in Thrace, 381, c. Defeated by them, ibid. & seq. Degraded, 382, c. Noble speech to Valens, ibid. f. Death, 384, b.
† Trajanopolis Selinus, whence so called, vi. 25, b.
† Tralles, where situate, iii. 329, f. Razed by Alexander, ibid. & seq.
† Transilvania, part of ancient Dacia, vii. 611, a.
† Trapeza made the metropolis of Arcadia, ii. 379, d.
† Trapezond, the empire of, when, and by whom founded, vi. 628, b. vii. 288, & seq. The emperors of, 289, & seq. Subdued by the Turks, 293, & seq.
† Trapezuntines, their religion, customs, &c. vii. 289, & seq.
† Trapezus, a city in Pontus, iii. 722, a. The residence of the Comneni, ibid. b, c. Taken by the Scythians, vi. 174, c. Made metropolis of the empire, 288, d, e. Described, ibid. (A). See below Trebisond.
Traustila, the assassin of Valentinian, 499, f.
Treacle, by whom invented, v. 302, c. Made by Demetrius for M. Aurelius, vi. 61, f.
Treafon, Higg; vid. sub Majesty, v. 378, & seq. How punished in men of quality, vi. 394, b, c. Laws against it mitigated, 423, a.
Treasury, Roman, their decrees preserved in, v. 411, (H).
Treatics, how ratified at Rome, iv. 441, (S).
† Treballi, who, and where, iii. 305, b. Defeated by Philip, ibid. &c. Make peace with Alexander, 319, & seq.
Trebatius defeated by Cosconius, v. 52, b.
Trebellius's kindness to Justinian, vi. 548, f. Rewarded, 549, a, b. Success against him, ibid. c, d.
Trebellius Annius's revolt and death, vi. 182, c.
† Trebia river, the boundary of Liguria, iv. 410, a.
† — the battle of, vii. 19, & seq.
† Trebisond, the temple of Mercury at, by whom built, vi. 41, f. The port of, begun, 44, b.
Trebotian Law, what, iv. 294, c. When first introduced, 545, c, & pass. v. 128, b.
Trebotianus, a compiler of the Justinian Code, &c. vi. 530, & seq.
Trebonius rewarded by Marius, v. 33, a. Besieges Madaïlles, 135, d.
— Caius, one of Cæsar's conspirators, v. 180, b. Amuses Antony, 184, a, (D). His cruel death, 203, & seq. & (N). Character, 204, a.
— one of Cæsar's murderers, 179, & seq. Reception of Brutus, 217, c.
Tree of knowledge, in paradise, why so called, i. 63, b.
† The heathen retained some notions of it, ibid. &c.
† Tremitus, a city in Cyprus, described, iii. 173, b.
† Treves, revolts against Galba, v. 598, d. Rebuilt by Constantine, vi. 328, d. Stands up for Constantius, 285, f. Burnt by the Franks, 468, c. vii. 558, e, f. By Attila, 474, c.
† Treviri, cause a revolt in Gaul, v. 126, d, e. Subdued, 128, c. Who and where sited, vii. [407], e, f, (C). Subdued by Cæsar, 400, d. New wars against the Romans, [438], d, e, & seq.
Triarii amongst the Romans, whence so called, iv. 600, (T).
Triarius, success against Mithridates, iii. 743, c. 746, c. Takes Heracles, 747. Defeats and defeated, 749, c—e. Counsel to Pompey conferred by Cæsar, v. 144, (T).
— slain at Argentaria, vi. 387, b.
† Triballi, who and where sited, v. 10, c, (E). Defeated by the Romans, ibid. d.
Tribetis afflicts Anastasius, vii. 625, c.
Tribes, at Rome, increased to twenty five, iv. 569, c. Two more added, 604, c. Increased to thirty one, 617, c. The last augmentation, 680, b. All but one disfranchised, 691, c.
Tribigil, revolts against Arcadius, vi. 442, et seq. In great distress, 443, a, b. Succoured by Gainas, ibid. c. Phandering march against Constantinople, 445, c. Death, 446, a. See also vii. 506, & seq.
Tribocci, who and where sited, vii. [408], a.
Tribunals, how reared among the Romans, v. 360, c, (S).
Tribune, whence that word, iv. 455, b.
Tribunes, when first created, iv. 492. Their office, &c. ibid. c, & seq. Contest with the senate, 493, & seq. Against Coriolanus, 495, et seq. Increased to ten, 528, e. Suppressed by the decemvirs, 541, et seq. Restored, 543, c. Strengthened by new laws, 544, a. Ambitious views, 545, c, d. 546, b, c. 549, et seq. Cabals against the Patricians, 579, et seq. Obtain seats in the senate, 798, b. Sylla's laws against them, v. 78, f. Humbled by Curius, 89, e, f. Regain their power, 92, b.
— in Britain, their office and stations, vii. 418.
— military chosen by the army, iv. 543, b. Invested with consular power, 546, d. Lay it down, ibid. c. Resume it, 548, et seq. Defeated by the Æqui, 553, c. Their office suspended, 561, et seq. Chosen from among the plebeians, 577, a.
— legionary, their office, 621, b, (Y).
Tribute, whence that word, iv. 455, b. How levied, 485, et seq.
† Triers, capital of the Treviri, [407], f. By whom built, [415], c.
† Trinacra, Sicily, why so called, iii. 1. Destroyed by the Syracusans, 14, a, b.
† Trinassus, a sea-port in Lacedæmon, ii. 396, c.
† Trinobantes, who, and where seated, vii. 426, a. Subdued by Cæsar, ibid. et seq.
Trio, Fulcin, put to death, v. 450, d. His fury against Tiberius, ibid.
† Triocala, where, v. 32. Made the capital of the revolted slaves, ibid. c.
Triopæus, king of Argos, ii. 353, a.
† Triptolæus, who, ii. 655, not. Invaded by the Achæans, ibid.

Tripled,

- Tripod*, an immense one presented by Gelon, vi. 736, b.
† Tripolis, where and whence so called, i. 394, a. Described, ibid. & iii. 588, d. vi. 349, c.
† — another in Pontus, iii. 722, a.
† Tripolitana Libya, where, vi. 349, a. Harassed by the Afturians, ibid.
Tripudium, a kind of augury among the Romans, iv. 428, (S).
† Triquetra, Sicily, why so called, iii. 1.
† Trifanto, ancient Southampton, vii. 407, f.
† Trifidis, where situate, vii. 143, c.
Trismegistus, Hermes, secretary to Cronus, i. 135, a.
Triton, worshipped at Carthage, vi. 691, d.
† — river described, 670, c, f.
† Tritum, a promontory in Numidia, vii. 111, d.
† Tritentum, taken by the Romans, iv. 635, a. Where, ibid.
Triumph of Tarquin described, iv. 449, b.
Triumphs forbid by Augustus, v. 318, f. 319, f.
Triumvirate, how and by whom first hatched, v. 112, d, c. The second, 122, & seq. Their first edict, 124, b, c. Butcheries, ibid. & seq. Extortions and cruelties, 232, c, d. Their army in sad distress, 243, b. In a worse case after the battle of Philippi, 248, pass. Defeated at sea, ibid. & seq. Victory over the republicans, 255, & seq. Cruelty to them, 257, & seq.
Triumviri monetales, their office, v. 355, (I).
Triumvirs, first chosen at Rome, iv. 517, c. A new set chosen for the Sempronian law, 791, f.
— capitales, their office, iv. 641, c.
† Troas, where situate, ii. 288, c.
— called Phrygia minor, ii. 304. Its rivers, cities, &c. ibid. & seq.
— Alexandria described, ii. 306, e.
— taken by the Mitylenians, iii. 106, a.
Trochilus, a bird of the ancients, the Sackfak of Egypt, i. 182. The only creature with which the crocodile is at friendship, ibid.
† Trocmi, Trogmi, Trocmeni, who and where situate, i. 167, b. Described, ii. 762, c.
Trocondus sent against Zeno, vi. 514, d. Revolts, ibid. e. Beheaded, 516, c.
† Troesen, in Argos, the seat of Pittheus, ii. 351, b.
† Trogilorum portus, described, iii. 116, (V).
† Trogilus, a port in Sicily, iii. 5, b.
† Troglodytes, why called in scripture Ziyim, i. 167, b. Where situate, ibid. & vii. 183, pass. Their country barren, 184, a, b. Way of living, 201, b, c. (B). Inhuman customs, ibid. d.
Tropus Pomp. an account of his works, vi. 59, (E).
† Trojan kingdom, its extent, ii. 304, c. Origin, &c. 308. Blended with other nations, 309, b. Government, religion, &c. ibid. & seq. Kings, 311.
— war, the cause of, 318. Fatal end of, 321, c.
— horse, how explained, ibid. d.
† Trojans, who, iv. 419, d. Settle in Latium, ibid. e. Deify Æneas, 420, c. Follow Remus and Romulus, 423, c.
† Troies, Troyes in Gaul, forsaken, vii. 478, d. Burnt by the Goths, 495, b. Repopled by the Franks, vi. 212, b.
† Trophæus, Jupiter, his temple built by the Doræ, ii. 414, a.
Tropici, mistaken for idols by the zealous Jews, iv. 141, c.
† Tropæonian cave in Boeotia, described, ii. 371, a, & not.
Tros, king of Troas, the founder of Troy, ii. 305. Unsuccessful war with Tantalus, ibid. & seq. Numerous progeny, 314, b.
Troffulum, where, iv. 637, e. Taken by the Romans, ibid.
Troy built and described, ii. 305. Different fates, 206, a, 213, & seq. Its walls, how, and by whom built, 317, a, & not. Taken and burnt, 321. By whom rebuilt, 323, a. Its poor condition at the coming of Scipio, iii. 563, (N). Taken by Fimbria, 736, f. and burnt, ibid. & seq.
Trumpets, the feast of, among the Jews, i. 609, b. Why instituted, ibid. How kept, 610, a.
Tryphæna married to Gryphus, iii. 613, a. Cruelty to her sister, 614, c, d. Punished, ibid. e.
Tryphon's character, iii. 601. Sets up the son of Balas, 602, b, (L). Treachery to Jonathan, 604, b, c. to Simon, ibid. d, e. (iv. 83, & seq.) to Antiochus, 605, a. Seizes the crown, ibid. b. Rejected by the Romans, ibid. d. Forsaken by his forces, 606, c. Flight, 607, c. Death, ibid. e. Coin, 622, (W).
† Tubal, where settled, i. 169, d. Whether he peopled Spain, ii. 244, (E). 266, c. Said to have been the first inhabitant of Iberia, iii. 835, f. Coming into Spain confuted, vii. 318, & seq. & (A).
— Cain, the Vulcan of the Gentiles, i. 77, (N). 94, c.
† Tubantes, who, and where situate, v. 370, (R). Defeated by Germanicus, ibid. a, b.
Tubero Sejus's success against the Germans, v. 384, c. Accused of Treason, 422, a.
† Tubeni, Jews whence so called, iv. 67, a.
Tubulus, C. Hoff. saves the Salentines, vi. 65, d. Sent to reinforce Fulvius, ibid. & seq.
† Tubusaptius, where situate, vii. 115, c.
— the battle of, 359, c.
Tufa's double treachery, vii. 524, b.
† Tugurt, metropolis of Wad-Reag, vii. 163, f.
Tuisco worshipped by the Saxons, vii. 442.
Tulga king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
Tulis king of Egypt, in whose reign Abraham came thither, i. 280, d.
Tullia, Servius's two daughters married to Tarquin's grandsons, iv. 455, c. Their different characters, &c. ibid. & seq. The younger plots against her father, 458, pass. Cruelty to him, 459, d, e.
Tullius, M. Cicero's son's friendship to Brutus, v. 215, b. Defeats Caius, 216, f. Returns to Rome, 273, c.
Tullus, Hosil. succeeds Numa Pompilius, iv. 438, c. Generosity to the Romans, 439, a. Wars with the Albians, ibid. & seq. Subdues the Fidenates, &c. 442, & seq. the Sabines, 443, c. 444, b. His death and character, ibid. c, & (Y).
— Servius made commander under Tarquin, 451, c. Allies with him, 452, d. Mounts the throne, 453, a, b. His extract and character, ibid. c, d. Liberality, 454, b. Chosen king by the Curies, ibid. e, f. His laws, 455, b. Alliance with Tarquin's sons, ibid. e. Wife regulations, ibid. & seq. Curtails the regal power, 457, & seq. Undermined by his family, 458, & seq. Murdered, 459, c. His character, ibid. & seq.
— Attius; see under Attius, v. 498, & seq.
† Tunes, Tunis, the city of, described, vi. 665, & seq. By whom founded, 666, a, b. Taken by the revolted Africans, 769, c. Taken and razed by Agathocles, iii. 84, b. vii. 795, e. Besieged by the Carthaginians, 800, b. Relieved, ibid. e. Taken by the Romans, iv. 664, b. vii. 838, c. Invaded by the Mercenaries, 852, & seq. Taken by Scipio, iv. 743, a. Abandoned by him, vi. 78, f.
† Tungarians, who, v. 640, b. Revolt from the Romans, ibid.
† Tungri, Tongri, who, and where seated, vii. [407], c.
Tunica Palmata among the Romans, what, iv. 449, (G).
Turbo's success against the Jews, vi. 23, f. Sent governor of Pannonia, 34, c.
† Turdetani, where sited, iv. 722. Severely treated by the Romans, ibid. & vii. 49, c. Go over to Scipio, 70, c. Settled in Lusitania, 296, b, c.
† Turduli, whether the same with the Turdetani, vii. 296, b, c. 299, (A).
Turdulus Gallus's writings and character, vi. 203, (A).
Turf, tribunals made of, v. 360, c, (S).
† Turin, where sited, vi. 245, c. Opens her gates to Constantine, ibid. d.
Turinus, Petr. put to a new kind of death for extortion, vi. 141, b—d.
Turk, the son of Japhet, an account of, from oriental writers, ii. 239, b.
† Turks, whence so called, ii. 381, f. Wars with Persia, ibid. & seq. Subdued by them, 192, b. iv. 384, b—d. Their first appearance, vi. 598, e, f. Conquests, 603, d. Defeated by Diogenes, 604, b—c, f. New invasions, 609, c. Success in Asia, 610, f. Defeated by the Crusaders, 615, e, f. by Alexius, 617, b. by John, ibid. f. Peace with Manuel, ibid. & 620, b, c. Totally defeated by him, ibid. d. Driven out by the Tartars, 630, d. 632, a, b. Success on the Mediterranean, 635, e, f. First invited into Europe, 636, c, d. Betrayed by the Greeks, ibid. e. Revenge on them, ibid. f. Victory over Paleologus, 637, b, c. Defeated by Philes, ibid. e, f. Shut up by sea and land, ibid. & seq. Totally cut off, 638, a, b. New invasion, 639, c, d. Success against Andronicus, 641, & seq.
Turmas, among the Romans, how composed, v. 369, (N).
Turnus, the satyrist, his writings and character, v. 369, sub not.
— goes over to the Rutuli, iv. 419, d. Killed, ibid. e.
† Turoni, who, and where, v. 409, c. Defeated by the Romans, ibid.
Turpentine-tree, why abhorred by the Jews, vi. 40, b.
Turpilianus, Petron. his quiet government in Britain, v. 540, d. Honoured by Nero, 557, & seq. Put to death by Galba, 585, c.
Turpilio sacrificed to the mutinous soldiers, vi. 460, c.
Turpilius betrayed by the Vacce, v. 17, b. Unjustly put to death, ibid. c.
† Turvel, the supposed capital of the Turdetani, vii. 300, d, (D).
† Tusca river, one of the boundaries of Africa Propria, vi. 664, e. Whether the modern Zaine, vii. 107, b. 112, b.
† Tuscans, their account of the creation of the world, i. 31, a. The rest see under Hebrurians, iv. 430, & seq.
Tuscany; see Hebruria, iv. 410, & seq.
† Tusculans, who and where, iv. 575, f. Join with the Volsci, ibid. & seq. Forgiven by Camillus, 576, b.
10 R Waste

- Wasted by the Latins, 578, b. Relieved by Quinctius, ibid. c.
- Tuscius*, king of the Hetrurians, iv. 418, c.
- Tuta* succeeds her husband in Illyria, iii. 474, d.
- Tutia*, a vestal, condemned to death, iv. 683, f.
- Tutor, Julius*, heads the revolted Gauls, v. 642, a. Succels against the Romans, ibid. d, e. & seq. Defeated by Felix, 643, d. By Cerealis, 644, b, c.
- † Tuoni, an Algerine frontier, vii. 107, c.
- † Tyana, where situate, vi. 190, b, c. Made the metropolis of Cappadocia secunda, 372, d. Betrayed by Heraclamon, 190, b.
- † Tyaneani, who and where, v. 698, b. Worship their Apollonius, ibid. c. Spared by Aurelian on his account, ibid. d, e.
- † Tyburtes, who and where, iv. 587, e. Join with the Gauls, ibid. & c. Defeated by P. Libo, 588, d. Subdued, 590, c.
- † Tycho, one of the four poets of Syracuse, iii. 46, c. Taken by the Romans, 117, c.
- Tycheus* afflicts Hannibal, vii. 81, b. At the battle of Zama, 82, c.
- Tydeus*'s, success at Argos, ii. 358, a. Bravery against the Thebans, ibid. e. Wounded by Menalippus, 411, a. Eats his brains in revenge, ibid. b.
- Tyndareus*, the father of Helen's oath to her suitors, ii. 318, f. Made king of Lacedemon, ibid. & seq.
- † Tyndeses, defeated by Theodosius, vi. 359, e. Who and where, ibid. f.
- Typhon*, who, i. 94, b.
- the Egyptian, brother to Osiris, 204, c. His history, 241, pass. Kills his brother, 243, d—f.
- Typhonian*, in Egypt, a name given to the men that were sacrificed, i. 212, a.
- Tyrach* defeated by the Romans, vi. 600, a, b.
- Tyrannus Tylus*, one of the heads of the Sabines, iv. 431, e.
- Tyrants*, the xxx. ii. 530, pass. Expelled, 331, d.
- Tyrannis, its ancient meaning, vii. 368, (D).
- † Tyras river in Scythia, see Nießer, ii. 268, c.
- † Tyre, in Phenice, its site, i. 393, a. Three different cities in order of time, ibid. Its names, ibid. b, (I). Four places of that name, ibid. (K), (L). Height of its walls, ibid. Besieged by Shalmaneser, 416, c. The Siege raised, ibid. f. Taken and razed by Nabuchadnezzar, 417, a, b. Rebuilt by its fugitive inhabitants, ibid. c, d. Governed by Suffetes, ibid. d. Regal dignity restored, ibid. e. Taken by Alexander, 418, d, e. ii. 162, a. iii. 339, & seq. The dreadful catastrophe of it, i. 420. Rebuilt by him, and resettled, ibid. & iii. 341, & seq. Now called Sur, i. 393, b. Its present forlorn situation, ibid. (O). Described in all its parts, ibid. a, (M). Remaining antiquities, 345, a. Solomon's wells there, ibid. b. Its kings, judges, &c. 407. Their history, 413, & seq. Taken by Antigonus, iii. 432, c. By Ptolemy, 433, b, c. Betrayed to Antiochus, 537, d. Why made independant, 611, (T). Noble defence against the Romans, v. 269, b. Declares for Niger, vi. 109, c. Taken and put to the sword, ibid. d.
- † Tyrians with twelve vessels disperse the Assyrian fleet, i. 416, e. Five years defence against Shalmaneser, ibid. f. Tributary to the Assyrians seventy years, 417, e. All murdered in one night by their slaves, 417, f. Except Strato raised to the crown, 418, a—c. Stout defence against Alexander, iii. 319, 340, et seq. Cruelly butchered by him, 342. Murder king Demetrius, 611, c, & (T). Assist the Jews, iv. 8, b. Why spared by Herod, 123, b. Build several cities in Spain, vi. 658, c, d. bloody worship of Hercules, 690, b. Embassy to the Carthaginians, 787, e, f.
- † Tyrin, the kingdom of, where, ii. 354, c. Severed from that of Argos, ibid.
- † Tyrrenians, who and whence so called, ii. 331, d. The rest see under Hetrurians, iv. 410, & seq. 430, & seq.
- Tyrrennius*'s arrival into Italy, iv. 415, e.
- Tyrteus*, the lame Athenian schoolmaster, chosen general of Sparta, ii. 577. His signal wisdom and bravery, 578, b. 579, b.
- Tzacus* erects a principality at Smyrna, vi. 612, a. Treachery to Delafenus, ibid. c. Death, ibid. d.
- † Tzana lake, crossed by the Nile, vii. 187, a—c, (F).
- † Tzani, who, iv. 347, e. Revolt to the Romans, ibid.
- Tzibus*, Tzibus, outwits the Lazi to a revolt, iv. 353, b. vi. 527, d. Driven out by Colrhoes, iv. 353, d.
- † Tzym, in scripture, what, and who, i. 167, b. vii. 184, a, b.
- † Waccæi, who, iv. 753. Defeated by Fulvius, ibid. By Sempronius, 760, b. Defeat Lepidus, 785, d.
- † Wacmata, where situate, vii. 140, d.
- Vacuum*, see Matter, i. 2, & seq.
- Vadomarius*'s treachery to Julian, punished, vi. 312, e. Sent against Procopius, 367, e.
- † Vaga, in Numidia, described, vii. 109, d.
- Vagesus*'s noble answer to Crassus, iv. 297, d.
- † Valachia, part of ancient Dacia, vii. 611, a.
- † Valemir, king of the Goths, where settled, vi. 496, c.
- a great favourite of Attila, vii. 466, c. 518, d. Serves under him, 473, a, b. Defeats the Huns, 482, b. 519, a. Slain by the Squirri, ibid. e.
- Valens*, king of Persia, subdues the Huns, iv. 343, a.
- Fabius, stirs up Vitellius to revolt, v. 592, a, b.
- salutes him emperor, ibid. f, & seq. Sent against Otho, 599, e, f.
- his success through Gaul, 600, pass. Extortions and degeneracy, ibid. & seq. Passes the Alps, 601, b. Defeated, 606, b. Joins Cecina, 607, f. Repelled at Bedriacum, 629, f. Infamous rapines, 623, f, & seq. Retires into Hetruria, 628, e. Design against Vespasian frustrated, ibid. e. Taken prisoner, ibid. f. His head struck off and exposed, 630, e, f. See also vol. vii. 402, e, & seq. & notes.
- Pinar, chosen commander of the guards, vi. 157, e.
- sent against Macrianus, vi. 179, c. Assumes the purple, ibid. Murdered, d.
- created Cæsar, and deposed, 254, e, f.
- brother of Valentinian, where born, 346, e. Promoted by him, 348, b. Chosen his colleague, ibid. c, d. His share of the empire, ibid. f, & seq. Goes into Syria, 366, b, c. Sends to oppose Procopius, ibid. d—f. Baffled before Chalcedon, 367, a, b. Success against Procopius, ibid. f, & seq. against Marcellus, 369, a. Severity to the revolted, ibid. b, c. Baptized into Arianism, 370, a. Success against the Goths, ibid. & seq. Peace with them, 571, c, d. Cruelty to the orthodox, ibid. f, & seq. Sends forces against Sapor, 373, c, d. Severity against philosophers, &c. 374, & seq. against the Theodosians, 375, f, & seq. against Paras, 376, d, e. Peace with Persia, 377, a. Settles the Goths in Thrace, 380, a—c. Assaulted by them, 381, pass. New offers to Sapor, ibid. e. March against the Goths, 382, e. Defeated and killed, 384, b—d. His character, 305, pass. Fatal jealousy of Gratian, 387, d—f.
- success against the Goths, vii. 501, & seq. Peace with them, 502, a, b.
- † Valentia, the province of, in Spain, described, vii. 303, & seq.
- † — the city, by whom built, 306, b. Described, ibid. c, & (G). 321, d, e.
- † — the colony of, when, and by whom settled, iv. 784, c.
- † — a new province in North-Britain, vi. 353, c. Whence so called, vii. 416, e, f. Governed by Consulars, 417, b. Made a fifth province, 435, e.
- Valentine*'s revolt in Britain suppressed, vi. 353, e. vii. 436, a.
- general of Honorius, his narrow escape, vi. 460, a. Promotion, ibid. c.
- marches against the Quadi, vii. 604, b. His sudden death, ibid. c.
- Valentinian* Ist, cashiered by Barbetio, vi. 300, c. Narrow escape, 345, b, c. Chosen emperor, 346, b. His extract, rise, &c. ibid. & seq. Zeal for christianity, 347, a. Ill used on that account, ibid. b, c. Proclaimed, ibid. e. Intrepid speech to the soldiers, ibid. f, & seq. Divides the empire with Valens, 348, f. Success against the Germans, 351, b—d. Creates his son emperor, 352, b. Whether guilty of bigamy, ibid. f, & seq. Betrays his cruel temper, 353, f, & seq. Enacts some excellent laws, 354, b, &c. Success against the Allemans, ibid. & seq. Countenances Maximin's cruelties, 356, f. Favours the pagans, 357, e. Vain attempt against the Allemans, ibid. f, & seq. Severity to Hymetius, &c. 358, b—d. March against the Germans, 361, d. Peace with Macrianus, 362, e. March into Illyricum, ibid. & seq. Ravages the Quadi, 364, b. Harshness to their ambassadors, ibid. c. Sudden death, ibid. e. Omens foregoing it, ibid. f, & seq. Buried by Theodosius, 365, b. His character, ibid. et seq.
- Ild, chosen emperor, vi. 377, d, e. Governed by his mother, 403, a. Defeats the Sarmatians, 405, c. Rebuilds St. Paul's church at Rome, 407, e. Invaded by Maximus, 412, b, c. Persuaded to renounce Arianism, ibid. d, e. Succoured by Theodosius, ibid. et seq. Restored by him, 414, b, c. Rejects the requests of the heathen, 419, e. Desires St. Ambrose to baptize him, ibid. Murdered, ibid. et seq. His character, obsequies, &c. 420, d—f.
- Ild, the son of Placidia, born, vi. 473, b. Created Cæsar, 449, c. Crowned emperor, 480, a. Marries Eudoxia, 483, e. Yields part of Illyricum to Theodosius, ibid. f, et seq. His offering by Eudoxia, 484, a. First embassy † VABAR, the promontory of, where, vii. 115, d.

† Vacca, where situate, vii. 131, a. Taken by Metellus, ibid. & v. 14, c. Betrayed to Jugurtha, 17, b. Retaken by the Romans, ibid. d. & vii. 131, b, c.

- to Attila, 494, b, c. Second, and truce with him, 497, b, c. Murders Oëtius and his friends, 499, b, c. Over-reached by Attila, vii. 472, & seq. Preparations against Genserich, 534, pass. Peace with him, ibid. 8, c. Murdered by Maximus, vi. 499, d, et seq. His character, 500, b.
- Valentinian*, a tribune racked by Constantius, vi. 305, b.
- Galata, 369, c. His death, 372, b, c.
- Valentinus* Tullus excites the Treverians against the Romans, v. 643, a, b. Defeated and taken prisoner, ibid. c.
- Valeria's* noble advice to the Roman matrons, iv. 500, f. and speech to Veturia, 501, b.
- married to Sylla, v. 81, c.
- the wife of Galerius, ill-treated by Maximin, vi. 240, pass. Her wandering, flight, and death, 253, e, f.
- Severa, the wife of Valentinian, 346, c. Her offspring by him, ibid.
- † New Pannonia, why so called, vi. 211, a.
- Valerian* Law, what, iv. 481, d.
- Valerianus*, one of Niger's generals, defeated, vi. 109, c.
- Pertus put to death by Heliogabalus, 136, c.
- chosen censor, 169, f. Sent against Ammianus, 171, c. Proclaimed emperor, ibid. f. His rise, character, &c. 172, d—f. Raises the eight persecution, 173, e, f. Marches against the Persians, 174, a. Taken prisoner by Sapor, ibid. d. Cruel treatment and death, ibid. e, f. See also iv. 327, d, (D).
- master of the horse slain, 384, b.
- killed before Rome, vii. 657, c.
- Valerius* sent into Sicily, iii. 96, c. Success there, ibid. &c.
- Volsus, one of the heads of the Sabines, iv. 431, c.
- Poplicola takes an oath against the Tarquins, 468, b. Surprizes the conspirators, 469, a. Chosen consul, 471, d, (Y). Defeats the Tarquins, 472, c, d. His laws, 473, pass. Rechosen consul, 474, a. Valour against the Sabines, 477, e, f. 478, c, d. His death and character, ibid. e, f.
- his brother's bravery at the battle of Regillus, 483, c, f.
- Marius chosen dictator, 488, c. Defeats the Sabines, 489, a. Resigns, ibid. d. Advice to the senate, 490, c, d.
- Publius, chosen consul, 522. Stirs up the Romans to a brave defence, 524, e. Slain by the Sabines, 425, a.
- Potitus's speech against the decemvirs, iv. 536, & seq. 538, a. Chosen consul, 543, f. Defeats the Volsci, 545.
- Poplicola II, general to Camillus, 570, b. Defeats the Hetrurians, ibid. e, f. Chosen prætor, 593.
- Corvus, why so called, 593, f. Chosen consul, 594, b. Defeats the Volsci, 595, d. Rechosen consul, new contr. 628, f. His death and character, 529, a.
- Manlius Flaccus, triumphs over Sicily, 654, & seq.
- Falro, chosen Prætor Peregrius, 677, c. Defeated by the Gauls, 681, c.
- Maximus, his writings and character, v. 457, (G).
- Asiaticus's brave speech to the senate, 489, d. Accused of treason, 499, a. Noble defence, ibid. d, (H). Death, 500, a, b, (I).
- declares for Vitellius, 399, d, e.
- Marius set aside by Vitellius, 618, a.
- Festus cabals in favour of Vespasian, 622, d.
- Caul, sent against Severus, vi. 105, c. Sides with him, ibid. d.
- Flaccus refused by Probus, 173, f. Success in Sicily, 826, et seq.
- success against the Carthaginians, vii. 64, c. 69, c.
- Valbala*, Odin's paradise described, vii. [419], pass. et not.
- Valball*, among the Saxons, what, vii. 442, e, et seq.
- Vallia* chosen king of the Goths, vi. 471, a. Peace with Honorius, 472, a. Wholesome advice to him, ibid. b. Success against the Silingi, ibid. e. and Albani, ibid. His reward and death, ibid. f, et seq.
- † Vallona river in Tingitania, vii. 144, e, (C).
- † Vandals, their origin, &c. vii. 527. Over-run Pannonia, vi. 69, b. Repulsed by Aurelian, 188, f. Enter Gaul, 453, d. Defeated by the Franks, ibid. e. Over-run Gaul, 462, b. and Spain, ibid. d. Defeated by Oëtius, 480, b. Over-run Afric, 482, c, d. Peace with the Romans, 483, b. Conquests in Afric, 485, a. Repulsed by Majoranus, 505, d. Defeated by the Goths, vii. 498, f, & seq. Driven out of Andalusia, 509, f. & seq. Their character, religion, &c. 527, & seq. Alliances, conquests, &c. 528, a. Defeats and repulses, ibid. & seq. Settled in Cambridgeshire, 529, a. Others in Thrace, ibid. b. Revolt and defeated, ibid. Horrid ravages in Gaul, ibid. c, d. Defeated by Constantine, ibid. e, f. Enter Spain, 530, a, b. Divide it with the Alans and Suevi, ibid. & seq. Humbled by Vallia, 531, b, c. Fresh ravages, ibid. d. In Afric, ibid. e, f. Refuse to return into Spain, 533, a. Repulsed before Hippo, ibid. b, c. Beat the Romans, ibid. v, d. Defeated in Campania, 535, f. Vain attempt on Alexandria, 537, c. Settled in Afric, 559, & seq.
- † Vandalusia, Andalusia, whence so called, vi. 463, a, vii. 531, a.
- † Vandelsburg, in Cambridgeshire, whence so named, vii. 529, a.
- Vangio* and Fido, reign over the Suevi, vii. 541, e, f.
- † Vangiones, who and where sited, vii. [408], a.
- Vannius*, driven from his kingdom, v. 396, b, c. Made king of the Suevi, 508, c. Driven out, ibid. d, vii. 541, e, f.
- Varanus's* ill success against the Romans, iv. 360, d. Revolt against Hormisdas, ibid. e, f. Disdainful answer to Cosroes, 362. Conspired against, 363, d. Defeated, 364, d. Poisoned, 365, c.
- Varanus* I. king of Persia, iv. 329, a.
- II. kept under by the Romans, 329, & seq.
- III. why surnamed Sengansas, 330, b.
- IV. why surnamed Cernafas, 338, b.
- V. Persecutes the Christians, 340, a. Wars with Theodosius, ibid. d, e. Invites the Saracens, ibid. e, f. Defeated by the Romans, 341, b—d. Makes peace with them, ibid. f.
- VI. obscure reign, 342, a.
- Vardanes*, when he reigned in Parthia, v. 694, c.
- † Vardi, who, iv. 786, a. Subdued by Flaccus, ibid.
- Vargunteus*, slain by the Parthians, iv. 303, c.
- Varbonas* betrays his own father, iv. 350, a.
- † Varica, a city in Iberia, iii. 835, c.
- Varius Alphenus* defeats Otho's gladiators, v. 610, c.
- Varranes* sues Probus for peace, vi. 201, d. Success against the Segetani, 204, d. Defeated by Carus, ibid. e. Restores his conquests to Dioclesian, 207, f. Murdered, 242, a, b.
- chosen consul of the east, 463, b. Renews the war against the Romans, 474, pass. Repulsed before Theodosiopolis, ibid. e. Defeated, 475, c, d. Makes a hundred years peace with him, ibid. & seq.
- Varro* commands in further Spain, v. 135, e. Surrenders to Cæsar, 127, a. Put to death by Antony, 257, d.
- Terentius sent against the Salassi, 298, f.
- Cigon, put to death by Galba, 585, a, b.
- character and fatal rashness, vii. 28, et seq. Defeat and flight, 30, et seq. Ill advice to the Romans, 33, b, c.
- Varus Quintil.* extortions in Germany, v. 340, c, d. Defeated, 346, b. His death, ibid. c. Buried six years after, 375, b, c. Monument demolished by the Germans, 381, c. Standard recovered from them, 385, f.
- accused of treason, 432, a, (G).
- Arius defeated by Primus, 625, b. Sent to guard the Appenine passes, 629, c. Chosen prætor, 635, d. Undetermined by Mucianus, 648, a.
- Vase*, golden, presented to the delphic oracle, iv. 559, e.
- † Vasso, the famed temple of, in Gaul, vii. 351, & seq.
- Valaces*, John Ducas, the second emperor of Nice, vii. 287, c, d.
- Vatas*, among the Carthaginians, in great esteem, vi. 706, a.
- among the Gauls, their office, 365, b.
- † Vatican church, built by Constantine, vi. 248, c.
- Vatinius*, affronted by Pompey's men, v. 139, a.
- a man of wretched character, 545, d, e, (K).
- † Ubi, who and where seated, v. 122, a. 364, (D), vii. [407], e, [415], c. Outwitted by Cæsar, 438, d, (M). build an altar to Augustus, v. 367, (K).
- Ucbanius*, king of Edessa, iii. 847, c.
- Ucboreus*, king of Egypt, i. 249, a. Removes the imperial seat to Memphis, ibid. b.
- Ve, We*, one of the sons of Woden, vii. 489, d.
- Veadar*, the intercalary month of the Jews, i. 611, (K).
- † Vellones, who, iv. 753, b. Defeated by Fulvius, ibid.
- † Vediantii, who, and where seated, iv. 408, e.
- Vegdeg*, Wegdeg, made king of East Saxony, vii. 489, e.
- Vegetius's* writings and character, vi. 429, sub not.
- † Veientes, who, and where sited, iv. 433, (H). Defeated by Romulus, ibid. c. Treachery to Tullus, 442, d, e. Severe punishment, 443, a, b. Defeated by C. Servilius, 505, e. Return with fire and sword, 506, f. Defeated by Mamercus, 548, f. by Priscus, 549, b. Defeat the Romans, 550, c. Expel their ambassadors, 555. Alter their government, 556, c. Subdued, 559. Their lands divided among the Romans, 561, a.
- † Vei, where sited, iv. 556. Besieged by the Romans, ibid. Taken after a ten years siege, 559, c.
- Veil* of the tabernacle described, i. 653, a.
- of the temple, rent at the death of Christ, iv. 242, a.
- Velir*, one of the sons of Woden, vii. 489, d.
- † Veliterni, who, and where, iv. 574, c. Revolt from the Romans, ibid. &c. Defeated by Papyrius, ibid. e. Totally subdued, 579, f.
- Velleius*, Caius, kills himself, v. 267, f.
- Paterculus, his shameful partiality against Pompey, 272, f. Follows Tiberius into Germany, 333, d, e. His writings and character, 457, (C).

Velleius

- Velleius Paterculus's* success in Thrace, v. 409, d.
† Velpi, mountains in Cyrenaica described, vii. 170, c.
† Venedi, who, vii. 502, c. Subdued by Hermanaric, ibid.
† Venedic Bay, whence so called, vii. 486, c.
† Venedotia, the ancient name of South Wales, vii. 454, a.
† Veneptes, king of This, builds the Pyramids at Cochoe, i. 238, (C).
† Veneti, ancient Ligurians, iv. 410, c. Subdued, vii. 399, a.
† Ventia, the country of, abandoned, vi. 496, f. The rest see under Venice and the Venetians.
† Venetians, their origin, &c. vi. 497, a. Their low beginning, vii. 479, (L). Territories, trade, &c. 720, c, d. Support Gregory Ild, vi. 552, & seq. Success against Rob. Guiscard, 610, a. 611, b. Assist young Alexius, 625, et seq. at the siege of Constantinople, 627, d, e. Their share of the empire, 628, a. Settle at Constantinople, 634, c. Recover the islands of the Archipelago, ibid. c, f.
† Venice, the foundation of, vi. 495, f, et seq. vii. 479, c. Taken by the Franks, 672, c.
Venones made king of Parthia, v. 334, b. Deposed, 391, a. Sent to Pompeiopolis, 395, f. Slain, 396, d, (R).
† Venta Bulgarum, Winchester, vii. 407.
† — Silurum, Kaerwent, 411, a.
Ventidius sent against the Parthians, iv. 307, f. Defeats them, 308. Stratagem against Pacorus, ibid. d. Defeats him, ibid. f. Sent back to Rome, 309, b, c. His triumph, rise, &c. ibid. et seq.
— P, an infant led in triumph, v. 52, a.
— a soldier, raises forces for Antony, 205, a. Surprised and dismissed by Octavian, 208, c. Made consul, 225, b, (B). Success in Parthia, 273, et seq. Dismissed by Antony, 274, c.
Ventilianus succeeds Libo in Syria, vi. 65, c.
† Venus the Assyrian, why called Succoth-Benoth, i. 916, c. Her name masculine and feminine, ibid. d—f. Whether the same with the Phœnician Astarte, 919, b.
— the worship of, introduced into Persia, ii. 71. Condemned by their Magi, ibid. Worshipped by the Scythians, 272, (B). by the Trojans, 310.
— her temple at Ascalon, plundered, 282.
— at Aphrodisia, a stately building, 410, c.
— at Cyprus, by whom built, 379, d.
— at Sparta, 402, et (M). Statue, why bound with chains there, ibid. a.
— at Erix, iii. 7, d, e.
— at Soli in Cyprus, 173, b. at Amathus, ibid. c.
— at Paphos, how worshipped, ibid. et seq.
— in Cytherea, 174, f.
— at Cyprus, 176, b.
— her festival at Delos, 231, a.
— temple at Scandia, 243, a.
— Apatura near Phanagoria, 840, b, c.
— at Erica, iv. 676, c.
— Verticordia, the temple of, why so called, v. 4, d.
— at Paphos, described, 620, b.
— Calva, her temple at Aquileia, vi. 159, b.
— at Carthage, how worshipped, 686, pass.
† Venusia, where situate, vii. 23, d. Taken by Hannibal, ibid.
† Venusium, where sited, iv. 649, f. Taken and colonized by the Romans, ibid. et seq.
Venutius's bravery against the Romans, v. 512, et seq.
Ver Sacrum, what, iv. 705, f.
† Verbica, where situate, vii. 140, d.
Vercingetorix defeated by Cæsar, v. 126, f. vii. 399, c. 340, a, b. Surrenders Alesia to him, v. 127, d. Led in triumph by him, 167, b.
Vergilianus killed by an earthquake, vi. 21, d, e.
Verginius, his success against the Gauls, v. 573, a—c. Unspotted character, ibid. et seq. Refuses the empire, ibid. e. Faithfulness to the senate, 582, b—e, f. Coldly received by Galba, 583, b. Undermined by T. Vinus, ibid. c. Saved by Otho, 612, e. Rejects the second offer of the empire, 613, c, d. In danger for it, ibid. e, f. Saved by Vitellius, 617, a.
Verianus killed by the Heruli, vi. 184, c.
— driven out of Spain, 455, c. Put to death, ibid. e.
Verina obtains Basiliscus's pardon, vi. 509, f. Conspires against Zeno, 512, a, b.
Vermina joins Hannibal in Africa, vii. 81, b. Defeated, 83, b, c—f. Success against Masinissa, 124, d, e.
† Verona, where situate, vi. 245, d. Taken by Constantine, ibid. e. The Romans shameful attempt against, vii. 665, pass. Taken by the Huns, 479, b. by the French, 717, f.
Verres, his villainy to Antiochus, iii. 617, et seq. Comes over to Sylla, v. 70, c.
Verronianus's extract and character, vi. 340, a. Made his son's colleague, ibid. b. Death, ibid.
— the son of Jovian made Cæsar, 340, e, f, et seq.
† Verrugo taken by the Volci, iv. 554, c.
Versotina worshipped by the Ethiopians, vii. 197, a, b.
Vertabets, in Armenia, their office, iii. 698, a, (F).
Vervain, used in ratification of treaties, iv. 441, (S).
† Vervus, who and where sited, vii. 140, d.
† Verulam, St. Albans, taken by J. Cæsar, vii. 409, b, c. 426, b, c.
Verulamians, massacred by the Britains, v. 538, f.
Verus sent against the Parthians, iv. 321.
— Aurel. Commod. adopted by Adrian, vi. 43, c. Chosen consul, 44, a, b. Sickness and death, ibid. f, & seq. Apotheosis and character, 45, e, f.
— L. his son adopted by Antoninus, 45, a. 54, c. Takes the manly robe, 47, f. Despised by Antoninus, 58, b. Made quaestor, 59, a. Consul, ibid. b. Savage disposition, 62, d, e. Created Cæsar, and colleague with M. Aurelius, ibid. e, f. Sent against Parthicus, 63, c. Against the Parthians, ibid. f, & seq. Horrid debaucheries and neglect, 64, b, c. Success and triumph, ibid. & seq. Spreads a plague wherever he comes, 65, f, & seq. Goes with Aurelius into Germany, 66, c. Dies, 67, a, b. His obsequies and character, ibid. &c. Supposed to have been poisoned, ibid. f. Letter concerning Cassius, 75, c, d.
— Martius's bravery in Syria, 64, b, c. Informs Aurelius against Cassius, 76, a. Supposed to have been defeated by him, ibid. d. His generosity, &c. ibid. & seq.
— L. Ann. the son of Aurelius, dies in Palestine, 68, f.
Vespasian, Flavius, sent into Judea, iv. 270, c. Enters Galilee, 271. Reception of Josephus, 272, a. Politic way at Cæsarea, 257, d, (C). Waives Idumea, 277, d. Goes for Rome upon his election, ibid. & seq. Bafe flattery to Caligula, v. 476, b. 477, e, (X). Bravery and success in Britain, 497, b, (vii. 429, e.) In danger from Nero, v. 559, b. Sent against the Jews, 566, b. Sends 6000 of them captives to him, ibid. d. and his son to congratulate Galba, 582, e. 619, a. Declares for Otho, ibid. d. 620, b. Diffimulation to Vitellius, ibid. d. Saluted emperor at Alexandria, ibid. f. In Judea, Syria, &c. 621, a, b. Success against the Vitellians, 622, & seq. 625, & seq. At Cremona, 626, et seq. Proclaimed in Spain, &c. 629, a, &c. By the Samnites, 630, c. By the senate, 635, d. His extract and private life, 636, et seq. Prodigies foretelling his rise, 637, & seq. & (C). Gratitude to his friends, 638, b, c. Timely supplies Rome with corn, ibid. d, e. Second consulship, 644, f. Miracles at Alexandria, 646, b, c. Consults, ibid. d. Reception at Rome, ibid. e, f. Wholesome regulations there, 647, a, b. Censorship, ibid. d. Beautifies the city, ibid. e. Recovers three thousand records, ibid. & seq. Clemency and contempt of titles, 648, a. Of informers, ibid. b. Of injuries, ibid. c. Of money, ibid. d. Jokes upon it, f, & seq. Signal generosity, 649, b—d. Triumph over Judea, ibid. e, f. Public edifices, ibid. d—f. Kindness to Antiochus, 650, b. Disoblige Volageses, ibid. b, c. Reduces several provinces, ibid. & seq. Takes a new census, 651, b. Severity to Sabinus, 654, d, e. To two conspirators, ibid. e, f. Death and character, 655, a—c. Obsequies, ibid. d. Colonies, ibid. e, f. Contemporary authors, ibid. & seq. (D). Converse with Apollonius Tyaneus, 695, d.
Vespilio, Q. Luc. chosen consul, v. 308, c.
Vespronius Candid. sent against Severus, vi. 105, c. Confirms him in the empire, ibid. d. Defeats Niger, 109, b.
Vesta worshipped by the Scythians, ii. 272, a. Challenged as their progenitrix, 283, c. Worshipped by all the Greeks, 310, a. Esteemed the first builder, iii. 163, c. Worshipped in Latium, iv. 420, a. Said to have affrighted Nero, 545.
† — the temple of, at Rome, iv. 420, a, 680. Burnt, ibid. & v. 548, a. vi. 92, b. The fire of, carried to that of Heliogabalus, 136, c.
Vestals, instituted by Æneas, iv. 420, a. Their office, 436, c. Punishment for breach of vows, 452, c. Remove to Cærea, 563, d. Punished for incontinence, v. 4, b—d. Their seat at the theatre, 419, c. Four of them condemned for incest, 666, c. Desflowered and put to death, vi. 26, f, et seq. Executed by Caracalla, 124, f. Suppressed by Gratian, 396, c, f.
Vestilius kills himself, v. 445, b, c.
Vestilia's signal impudence, v. 401, c. Banishment, ibid. et seq.
† Vestini, their country described, iv. 411, f. Subdued by the Romans, 608, c.
† Vesuni, who, and where seated, vi. 160, (B).
† Vesuvius mount, where, v. 659, b. A dreadful eruption of, ibid. c, d. Another, vi. 511, d.
† Vetere, the old camp of, where situate, v. 368, b, (L).
† Vetere, the Roman station of, described, vii. 412, d.
Vetranid's

Veterano's revolt in Pannonia, vi. 281, b. Deputation to Constantius, 282, c. Outwitted by him, ibid. e, f. His pious end, ibid. et seq.

Veterans regulated by Augustus, v. 316, e, f. Who were properly such, 359, (Q.). Revolt in Pannonia, 360, et seq. and in Germany, 364, c, d. Discharged by Germanicus, 366, b. Whence called Vexillarii, ibid. (G). Fresh revolt, 368, b. Quelled by Germanicus, ibid. et seq. Outwitted by Tiberius, 380, et seq. Shamefully dismissed by Caligula, 474, d.

Vetienus Montanus banished, v. 426, d, e, (E).

Vetulus defeated and killed, iv. 774, a.

Veto, the tribune's word, to signify his dissent, iv. 492, c.

Vetius raises a revolt at Capua, v. 31, c. His death, ibid. d.

— Cato's victory over the Romans, 49, c. Defeated by Pompey, 52, a. Betrayed and stabbed, 53, d.

† Vettones, who, vi. 866, b. Their pretended stratagem against Hannibal, ibid. c.

Veturia's answer to the Roman matrons, iv. 501, b, c. Speech to her son Coriolanus, 502, a. Success and reward, ibid. &c.

Veturius, C. chosen consul, iv. 529, c. Fined by the people, 532, b.

— T. chosen decemvir, 534, a.

— consul shamefully defeated by the Samnites, 611, et seq.

— his son cruelly treated by Plotius, 641, e, f.

— one of the conspirators against Galba, v. 593, a.

Vetus acquitted of adultery, iv. 409, b. Banished for treason, ibid. c.

— his noble project obstructed by Gracilis, 428, c, d. Put to death by Nero, 560, c, d.

Vexilla, the ensign of, vii. 407, d.

Vexillum, among the Romans, what, iv. 490, sub. not.

Vezina's narrow escape, v. 676, c.

Vhabalit, the son of Odenatus, vi. 183, d. His joint reign, ibid. e, & 189, d. Spared by Aurelian, 192, c. Made king of Armenia, 193, b.

Uffa, founds the 7th Saxon kingdom, vii. 452, c. His ditch, 453, c.

Vibidia, intercedes for Messalina, v. 503, c—f.

Vibius, a noble exploit performed by, iv. 724, b.

— Serenus condemned by Tiberius, v. 419, a. Re-accused by his own son, 421, & seq. & (A). Banished, 422, c.

— a noted informer, 424, b.

— Vir poisons himself at Capua, vii. 58.

† Vibo, the name of ancient Hippo, vi. 773, a.

Vibulenus's mutinous speech to his general, v. 361, c, d. Put to death, 364, a.

Vicars, among the Romans, their office, vi. 271, a.

— in Britain, vii. 417, a, b. Ensigns, ibid. d.

— the first, 419, a.

Vicellius goes to view the dead body of Nero, v. 576, d. His surprising speed to bring Galba the news of it, 582, b.

Victims, human, offered by the Romans, &c. vi. 27, a, b. Forbid by Adrian, 47, f. The priests of them crucified, ibid. & seq. When utterly abolished, 48, a. Practiced by Severus, 111, f. By Heliogabalus, 136, e, f. By the Carthaginians, 679, a, b. 681, d. Abolished by Tiberius, 695, c. The horrid excess of them, ibid. &c. especially in calamitous times, 696, a, b, (A).

— Used by the Gauls, vii. 329, a. 353, & seq.

— by the Germans, [421], & seq. & (I), [432], a—c.

† Vitobates, who and where, vi. 285, c. vii. 609, b. Receive the Sarmatians, vi. 281, c.

Victor Aurelius, made governor of Pannonia secunda, vi. 313, c. His writings and character, 317, sub. not.

— made general of Julian's foot, 329, b. Sent to make peace with Persia, 378, c. Advice at the battle of Adrianople rejected, 383, d. Bravery and death, 384, b.

— the son of Maximus made his colleague, 399, f, & seq. Put to death by Theodosius, 413, c.

— the younger, his writings and character, 428, sub. not.

Victorina's great sway in Gaul, vi. 184, b.

Victorinus declared partner by Posthumus, vi. 182, d. His motly character, ibid. e. Murdered by his men, 184, a.

Victory, the temple of, demolished, vi. 277, a.

— the altar of destroyed by Gratian, 396, c.

† Vicumvix, where situate, iv. 702, b. Taken by Hannibal, ibid. vii. 20, c.

Vidimir, king of the Ostrogoths, serves under Attila, vii. 418, d. Settled in Pannonia, ibid. & seq. Invades the empire, 520, a. His death, ibid. b.

† Vienne, fined and disarmed by Valens, v. 600, d. Taken by Gerontius, vi. 466, a. Yielded to the Burgundi, vii. 583, d, e.

VOL. VII. N^o 11.

Vigilantius sacrificed to the mutinous soldiers, vi. 460, c, d.

Vigilius's ingratitude to Cicero, v. 116, b, (S).

— obtains a peace from Attila, vii. 469, b, c. Orders to murder him, 470, a. Forgiven by him, ibid. c.

Villian law, received at Rome, iv. 760, a.

Vilius, P. sent to Hannibal, vii. 87, f. Undermines him, 88, d.

† Viminacium, where situate, vi. 428, a. Taken by the Hunns, ibid. & vii. 465.

† Vindebona, Vienna, capital of Austria, vii. [408], b.

Vindicius discovers the conspiracy of the Equilii, iv. 469. His reward, 470, b.

† Vindelici, who and where situate, vii. [408], b. Quelled by Aurelian, vi. 194, c. Subdued by Octius, 481, c, f.

† Vindelicia, where situate, v. 4, (C). Described, 13, (E). Subdued by Tiberius, 314, b.

Vindemir invades Italy, vi. 511.

— his son abandons it, ibid. f.

Vindemius's writings and character, vi. 317, sub. not.

Vindex Jul. his character, v. 569, f. Revolt in Gaul, ibid. & seq. Biting edicts against Nero, 571, d. Contempt of him, 572, b. Interview with Verginius, 573, a. Defeat and death, ibid. b, c. See also vol. vii. 402, pass. & (X).

— defeated at Aquileia, vi. 66, c.

Vine, a rich golden one sent a present to Pompey, iv. 108, & seq.

Vinegar, why given to Christ, iv. 239, (Z).

Vinicius M. chosen consul, v. 437, d. Marriage with Julia, ibid. c. Poisoned by Messalina, 498, b.

— forms a conspiracy against Nero, 569, b.

Vinius confirms the news of Nero's death, v. 582, d. Treachery to Verginius, 583, b. Ill advice to Galba, ibid. d, e. Great sway over him, 585, pass. His motly character, ibid. & seq. Cabals in favour of Otho, 590, c, d. Assassinated by his troops, 595, f, & seq.

Viomald procures Childeric's liberty, vii. 563, b. And restoration, 564, d.

Vipsania, one of the three daughters of Agrippa, v. 406, e. The only one who died a natural death, ibid. e, & seq. & (F).

Virgil writes his eclogue on Salonicus, iv. 127, (X). His narrow escape, v. 262, c. Goes to Rome, ibid. e. His death, monument, &c. 309, c, (D). Whether guilty of anachronism in coupling Dido and Æneas, vi. 722, & seq.

Virgilianæ sortes, how imitated by the Jews, iv. 229, c.

Virginia, her excellent character, iv. 539. Treacherously claimed by Claudius, 540. Her noble defence, ibid. & seq. Killed by her father, 542.

Virginity, how far encouraged by Octavian, v. 338, c.

Virginus's prosecution against young Cæso, iv. 520, & seq. Hellish plot against the Patricians, 522, c, d. Speech to the senate, ibid. e, f. Raises new troubles, 528, et seq.

— why recalled from the Veii, 557, b, c. Fined, ibid. c.

— the father of Virginia, see Virginia, iv. 539, & seq.

— Rufus's consulship and death, vi. 4, c.

Virgins, Phrygian, obliged to walk in the Scamander before marriage, ii. 307, b.

— Spartan, their immodest dress, ii. 363, a.

— Roman, not to be executed till deflowered, v. 442, b, (Q).

— sacred, protected by Jovian, vi. 344, d.

Viriates defeats the Romans, iv. 774, a. 776, pass. Defeated by Fabius, ibid. & seq. Obliges the Romans to make peace, 782, f. Murdered by Cæpio, 784. See also vol. vii. [327], b—d.

Virius's desperate advice to the Capuans, iv. 729, c.

† Virocomum, capital of the Cornavii, vii. 410, d.

† Visigoths, who, and where seated, vi. 496, b. Defeated by Ægidius, 507, d. More successful in Spain, ibid. e. and in Gaul, ibid. f.

— permitted to settle in Thrace, vii. 459, c, d. Invade Italy, 493, d. Found a kingdom in Gaul, ibid. e. Where seated, 492, d. Settled in Thrace, 504, a. Serve under Theodosius, ibid. e, f. War with the Romans, 509, & seq. in Spain, 510, & seq. Return into Gaul, 513, d. Defeated by the Romans, ibid. & seq. Conquests in Gaul, 515, & seq. Profess Arianism, ibid. f, & seq. The end of their Gaulish kingdom, 518, b.

Vismar killed by the Goths, vi. 265, b.

Vishnov, the supreme deity among the Bramins, i. 33.

† Vistula river in Sarmatia, ii. 368, c.

— in Germany, vii. [414], e, f.

Vismar defeated by the Goths, vii. 499, a.

† Visurgis river in Franconia, vii. [415], a.

10 S

Vitalianus,

- Vitalianus* put to death by Gordian, vi. 153, f.
 — raises a revolt in favour of the orthodox, 522, a, b.
 Over-reached by Anastasius, ibid. b, c. Confusion and death for treason, 523, b, c.
Vitellius cabal in favour of Tarquin, iv. 468, f. Put to death, 470, b.
Vitellius's arrival in Judea, iv. 254, c. Kindness to, ibid. d.
 Deposes Pilate, ibid. c. Comes with Herod to Jerusalem, 255, a.
 — dismal journey down the Amasia, v. 377, f. Arraignment of Piso, 404, & seq. Rewarded by the senate, 406, c.
 — Publius's arraignment and death, 441, d, e.
 — L. chosen consul, 449, c. Sent into Syria, 450, a. Forces the Parthians to peace, 462, c, d. Saves himself by his baseness, 472, & seq. Left governor of Rome, 497, (B). Fulsome flattery to Messalina, 498, d, (F). Treachery to Valerius, 500, b. to Claudius, 503. to Silanus, 506, a. Accused of high treason, 509, b, &c.
 — Aulus, the emperor, made governor of Lower Germany, 589, f. on the bare merit of his gluttony, ibid. & seq. His behaviour there, 598, a. Revolt against Otho, ibid. &c. Saluted emperor, ibid. f, & seq. Assumes the purple, 599, c, d. Displays his voluptuousness and sloth, 600, & seq. Messages to and from Otho, 602, b, c. Gains many cities in Italy, 606, c, d. Defeats Otho's army, 610, & seq. Congratulated on it by the senate, 614, pass. Comes to Lyons, 615, b, c. Severity to Otho's Centurions, ibid. d. to Dolabella, ibid. e, f. His monstrous gluttony, 616, a, b. Raises a degeneracy and discord in his army, ibid. f, & seq. Disbands part of it, 617, b. Inhuman delight in viewing his slain enemies, ibid. d, e. Other instances of his cruelty, ibid. e, f. Shameful imitation of Nero, 618, a. Corrupts his whole army, ibid. c, d. Which murders the whole populace in their cups, ibid. c. Entry into Rome, ibid. f, & seq. Awkward function of the pontifical office, 619, a. Swayed by two sycophants, ibid. b, c. Profuse-ness in his gluttony, ibid. d—f. Preparations against Vespasian, 622, pass. 623, f, & seq. His statues overthrown, 624, e, f. Cavalry routed, 625, d. Army defeated, ibid. & seq. Resumes his gluttony, 628, c. Conceals his de-facts from the senate, 629, a, b. Guards the Appenine passes, ibid. e. Marches to Mevania, ibid. f. Threatened by sundry omens, ibid. (X). Returns to Rome in a fright, 630, a. First assumes the title of Cæsar, ibid. c. Exhorted to resign, ibid. e, f. Hindered by the people, 631, b. Treachery to Sabinus, ibid. d, (Y). Burns the capitol, 632, a, b. Offers to Primus rejected, 633, c. Aban-doned and discovered, 634, b, c. Grievously insulted, ibid. d. Executed, ibid. e. His character, ibid. f, & seq.
 — his son murdered by Mucianus, 645, a.
Vitellius abandons his country to the Hunns, vii. 459, b. 502, d. Retires into Podolia, 518, c.
Vitricabius murdered, vi. 353, b. vii. 593, d.
Vitimir, king of the Ostrogoths, vii. 502, d. Slain by the Hunns, 459, b. 518, c.
Vitia barbarously executed, v. 445, c.
Vittiges, Vittiges, king of the Goths, stirs up Cosroes against Justinian, iv. 350, d.
 — king of Italy, vii. 493, a. His election, 654, c. Be-trayed by Matafuente, ibid. & seq. Wars with the Ro-mans, 655, pass. Marches against Belisarius, ibid. f, & seq. Repulsed by him, 656, a—d. Ill success before Rome, 658, a—c. Repulsed before Rimini, 659, a, b. Embassy to Cosroes, 660, e, f. Besieged in Ravenna, 662, d, &c. Offers of peace rejected, 663, a, b. Car-ried off prisoner, ibid. e, f. His death, 664, a.
Vittrius Vacus put to death, iv. 6, d.
Vitulus, Q. Man. success in Sicily, vi. 829, & seq.
Vitus defeated in Spain, vi. 488, f. by the Suevi, vii. 544, a.
Vixerunt at Rome, a word to signify they are dead, v. 107, c.
Vladislaus defeated and killed, vi. 648, d.
Uldes defeats Gainus, and sends his head to Arcadius, vi. 467, d, e.
Uldin sent against the Goths, vi. 452, d. Driven out of Thrace, 459, e.
 — king of the Hunns, vii. 458, a. Assists the Romans, 461, c. Defeats and kills Gainus, ibid. e, f. Invades the Romans, ibid. & seq. Defeated, 462, a, b.
Ulixis's adventures, an account of, ii. 322, b, &c.
Ulixiens defeated and killed, vii. 658, b.
 † Ulla, where, v. 172, b. Besieged by Cn. Pompeius, ibid.
Ulpilus, a Gothish bishop, infects them with Arianism, vi. 380, a, b. Stratagem against Constantine, 466, f.
Ulpianus, Dom. made counsellor to Papianus, vi. 117, c. to Alexander, 138, d. Murdered by the Pretorian guards, 139, e.
Ulpus, Marcell. success in North-Britain, vi. 87, d. Ill re-quired by Commodus, ibid. e.
Ulpus, Julianus's timely advice to Macrinus, vi. 128, d. Sent against Heliogabalus, 133, b. His head sent to Macrinus, ibid. d.
 † Ulpiana, where sited, vii. 550, b. Taken by Theodoric, ibid.
Ulus, a fabulous king of Spain, vii. [321], b.
 † Umbri, a branch of the Gomerians, ii. 246. First inhab-itors of Italy, ibid. e, & seq. Their names and extract, iv. 416, c. Defeated in the social war, v. 51, a. Reckoned the Aborigines of Italy, vii. 323, e.
 † Umbria, part of Italia Propria, iv. 410, d. Described, ibid. f. Invaded by the Sennones, 562, b. by the Ro-mans, 623, e. Plundered by Hannibal, vii. 22, c. Made a duchy by Alboinus, 620, d.
Unclean Meats, the prohibition of, whence, i. 108, & 687, b. How distinguished, ibid. c. The fat of beasts esteemed such, ibid. (E).
 † Unelli, who, and where sited, v. 121, (A). Defeated by Cæsar, ibid. a. Subdued, vii. 399, a.
 † Universe; see World, i. 2, & seq.
Unus's fidelity to Partharit, vii. 694, a, b.
Uromian Law at Rome, what, v. 338, (X). Abrogated by Augustus, ibid. b, c.
 † Uromii, who, and where, v. 600, d. Oppressed by Va-lens, ibid. e.
Vacula, Dell. sent against the revolted Batavians, v. 640, f. Defeated by them, 641, a. Fortifies his camp, ibid. d. Marches against Civilis, ibid. c. Betrayed and murdered by his troops, 642, b, c.
 † Volana, where situate, iv. 637, c. Taken by the Romans, ibid.
 † Volaterra in Etruria, reduced by Sylla, v. 82, d.
Volero raises a new faction at Rome, iv. 513, c, f. Cho-sen tribune, 514, b. His law opposed by the consuls, ibid. & seq. Forced upon them, 516, b.
 † Volga, a river in Scythia; see Rba, ii. 267.
 † Voliba, ancient Falmouth, vii. 407, d.
Vologeses, 1st king of Parthia, assists his brother Tiridates, iii. 713, d, e. Wars against the Romans, 715, c, d. Drives them out of Armenia, ibid. & seq. Sends an embassy to Rome, 716, b. Opposed by the Romans, iv. 318, pass. Success against them, ibid. & seq. Alliance with Vespasian, 319, b. Death, ibid. c. See vol. v. 638, c. Kind-ness to Antiochus's sons, ibid. 650, a, b.
 — IIId, invades Armenia, 321, a. Confirmed by Anto-ninus, ibid. c. His death, ibid. d.
 — IIIId, wars with several states, 321, e, f. Death, 322.
 — a Thracian priest seizes on Chersonesus, iii. 790, c.
 — success in Thrace, v. 320, a, b.
 — refuses Nero's invitation to Rome, 564, d.
 — complaint to Adrian, vi. 43, a. Revolt, 63, d. Sig-nal victory over the Romans, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Cas-sius, 65, b, c. Wars against Severus, 113, & seq. Peace with him, 114, d.
 † Vologeserta, where, and by whom built, iv. 319, c.
Volones, slaves, whence so called, iv. 713, e.
 † Volsce, Volsce, their site, cities, &c. iv. 411, d. vii. 11, b, (E). Origin uncertain, iv. 415, b. Alliance with Tar-quin the Proud, 461, a. War with the Romans, 484, & seq. Defeated, 487, a. by Virginius, 489, a. Driven out of Rome, 499, a. Defeat Appius Claudius, 516, d. Defeated by Valerius, 545, a. by Rutulus, &c. 555, b—d. by Camillus, 575. Plunder the Roman camp, 577, b. Waisted by the Romans, ibid. e.
 † Volsagi, subdued by Marcian, vii. 395, d. The rest see under Tetragagi, iv. 27, 31, & alibi.
 † Volsentes, who, and where, vii. 62, b. Submit to the Romans, ibid.
 † Volsiani, who and where, vii. 8, e. Noble answer to Q. Fabius, ibid. &c.
 † Volsinii, where sited, iv. 561, b. Oppressed by the free-men, 561. Taken and razed, ibid. f.
Volsius's malicious accusation of Cæso, iv. 526, d. Banished, 528, a.
 † Volubiani, who, and where sited, vii. 140, d.
 † Volubilis, where situate, vii. 143, b.
Volumnia goes with Coriolanus's mother to him, iv. 501, f.
Volumnius condemns Herod's two brave sons to death, iv. 151, b.
 — defeats Hardonius, 525, b.
 — Flummas's success against the Samnites, 630, e. Falls out with Appius, 631, b. Defeats the Etrurians, ibid. e, f. Sent to cover Samnium, 632, f.
 — a biting buffoon, put to death, v. 250, b.
 — the historian's account of Brutus, ibid. e.
Volsenus sent into Britain, v. 122, c. vii. 121.
Volsianus declared Cæsar, vi. 170, e. Various names, 171, a. Death, ibid. d.
Volsius, Quint. his extreme old-age and death, v. 525, f.
 — Proculus discovers the conspiracy against Nero, 551, & seq.

- Vulsius*, Caius's bravery before Cremona, 627, a.
Vonones, 1st king of Parthia, defeated by Artabanus, iv. 314, d. Killed by Remmius, ibid. e.
 — 11d, his short reign, 318, b.
 — king of Armenia, driven out, iii. 710, b.
Vopiscus, Caius, animadverted upon, iv. 329, (F). His character of Suetonius, vi. 52, sub not. Other writings, &c. 220, c.
Vortigern consents to invite the Saxons, vii. 440, a, b. Heads them against the Picts and Scots, 443, b. Deposed by his subjects, 444, c, d. Taken prisoner by the Saxons, 445, b, c. Retirement and death, ibid. d, c.
Vortimer's success and valour against the Saxons, vii. 444, d, & seq. Death and last command, 445, a, b. Where buried, ibid.
Vortipora's wicked reign, vii. 451, e.
Vovus, of a two-fold nature among the Jews, i. 630, a—c. Of things vowed to destruction, ibid. e, & seq. Laws concerning all sorts of vows, 630, a, b.
† Ur, the land of, where situated, vi. 342, f.
Uraia sent against Belisarius, vii. 661, a, &c. against Thomas, 662, f. Refuses the Gothic crown, 664, b. Murdered by Ildebaldo, ibid. d.
† Urania, worshipped at Carthage, vi. 685, & seq.
† — a city in Cyprus, taken by Demetrius, iii. 183.
Uranus, why so called, i. 89, a. The heaven, ibid. His sons, 134, b. Killed by his son Chronus, or Ilus, 137, b.
Uranus, second king of the Celtes, ii. 159, a. Imprisoned by his son, and breaks his heart, ibid.—His revolt and defeat, vi. 139, f.
 — defeats the Bulgarians, vii. 613, c.
Urban 11d, Pope, encourages the Holy war, vi. 613, e, f.
 — 1Vth, supports the tyrant Paleologus, 634, f.
† Urbium, and Urbiventum, where sited, vii. 659, d. Taken by Belisarius, ibid. e.
† Urce, part of the country of the Basiliani, vii. 300, d.
Urgulania, cast by the brave Pilo, v. 338, e, f, (A).
Uriab, killed by David's direction, i. 779, d.
 — the prophet put to death by Jehoiakim, 846, d.
Urim and Thummim, an appendage of the Jewish high-priest's garment, i. 537, (C). The meaning of those two words, ibid. How and by whom consulted, ibid. Various opinions about its origin, form, &c. 638, a, b, & seq.
Urfacius exasperates the Germans into a revolt, vi. 350, c.
Urficius opposes Gallus's misconduct, vi. 291, f, & seq. Goes to Rome, 292, c. Narrow escape, 294, a. Sent against Sylvanus, 295, e, f. Treacherously murders him, ibid. et seq. Stripped of his power, 297, a, b. Restored and sent into the east, 299, f, et seq. Betrayed by Eusebius, 306, b—d. Gallant behaviour there, ibid. et seq. Tried and disgraced, 307, e, f, et seq.
Urfius sent against Sapor, iv. 334, c.
Ursula ungratefully put to death by Julian, vi. 325, b, c.
 — the martyr and her 11000 virgins, the story of, exploded, 401, a, b.
Ursus ordered to assist the African clergy, vi. 251, f.
 — the murderer of Maximus, 501, a.
† Urgate mountains described, vii. 163, d—f.
† Urcudama, metropolis of the Bessi, iii. 790, b.
† Uridilas, slain by the Ostrogoths, vii. 675, c.
† Urentine tribe, whence so called, iv. 617, c.
† Usher, archbishop, vindicated and cleared up, vi. 719, (B). Procures several copies of the Samaritan pentateuch, iv. 34, (L).
† Uspitatus, who and where sited, v. 122, (B), 370, (S). Defeated by Cæsar 122, b. By Drusus, 319, c. By Germanicus, 370, a, b.
† Uspitii, Uspitians, who, and where seated, vii. [407], c. Defeated by Cæsar, [438], c. Dangerously tossed round Great Britain, v. 677, c—e.
Ufus, in the Egyptian Cosmogony, who, i. 87, b, & (N).
† Ufrigoths, who and whence, vii. 597, c. Refuge among the Lombards, ibid.
Ufury, how far forbid by Moses, i. 685, c. How punished, ibid. &c.
Uiber, whether the same with Nazaleod, vii. 447, & seq.
† Uica, taken by the Romans, iv. 664, b. Evacuated, 666, d. Besieged by Scipio, 741. Abandoned by him, 742. Blockaded, ibid. f. Surrendered to the Romans, 780, c. Defended by Cato, v. 161, a. Her grief for his death, 164, d. Surrendered to Cæsar, ibid. e. See also vol. vii. 97, b.
 — Described, vi. 665, c. Becomes the metropolis of Africa, ibid. e. Taken by Agathocles, 807, et seq. By Regulus, 838, c. Revolts to the Mercenaries, 861, c, d. Destroy'd by pestilence, vii. 127, c, d.
Uicans, come to congratulate Dido's arrival, vi. 721, d.
Uilis, one of Faustina's gallants promoted, vi. 78, c.
† Uiturgian Hunns, whence so called, vii. 456, b. Where sited, ibid. c. Fall foul on their Catusgarian brethren, 483, f, & seq.
Vulcan, one of the demi-gods that reigned in Egypt, i. 93, a. Invents the working of metals, 94, c. Supposed the same with Tubal Cain, ibid. &c.
 — his reign in Crete, iii. 165, a. Why worshipped at Lemnos, 234, b. And in what sense by the ancient Germans, vii. [421], b, (H).
† Vulcania island, where, vii. 29, d. Seized on by the Carthaginians, ibid.
Vulcentius Terentius's writings and character, vi. 220, (C).
Vulger heads the Bulgarians into Mesia, vi. 623, f.
† Vulturni, a city in Etruria described, v. 415, a, (P).
Vulso, L. Manlius's descent into Africa, iv. 662, c. Sent into Sicily, 668, e, f.
 — Cn. Manlius's success against the Galatians, iv. 755, et seq.
Vulturius, one of Catiline's conspirators, seized, v. 106, d.
Vulturinus invaded by Hannibal, vii. 23, f. Whence so called, 29, (L). Why worshipped by the Etruscans, ibid.
† — the wind of, whence so called, 29, b, & not.
Vulturs appear at Augustus's installation, v. 213, e.
Vulpilast, the apostle of the Goths, vii. 500, (A). His old Gothic character described, 489, a. 490, b.
† Vurglab, a city in Gætulia, vii. 164, a.
† Uxellodunum, where situated, v. 128, c. Taken by J. Cæsar, 129, a. vii. 400, d, e.
† Uxians, who and where sited, ii. 167, c. Subdued by Alexander, ibid. iii. 355, a.
Uyffney, what meant by, in the Bramia physiology, i. 33, b.
Uz, the son of Aram, the founder of Damascus, i. 163, c.
† — the country of Job different from this, ibid. Where situated, 309, b. 482, d.
† Uzal, one of Jocktan's sons, i. 170, a. His name given by the Jews to the capital of Yaman, ibid. &c.
† Uziens, who, and where sited, vi. 603, d. Invade the Romans, ibid. Defeated by the Hungarians, ibid. e, f.
† Uzita, where situated, vi. 670, c.
Uzzab, smitten with death for touching the ark, i. 776, a.
Uzzab, king of Judah dismantles the cities of the Philistines, i. 358, d. Builds fortresses to keep them in subjection, ibid. &c.

W

- WACHO*, his reign, wives, &c. vii. 617, a, b.
 † Wadd-ragb, the district of, vii. 163, c. How supplied with water, 164, a.
Walamir, king of the Visigoths, vii. 493.
† Waleka, the mountains of, where, vii. 185, d.
† Wales, retains the pure ancient Celtic, vii. 377, e, f. The reason of it, 378, b. Its ancient inhabitants, 410, e, & seq. Whence so called, 453, c. Its six regions, ibid. & seq. Dismembered of some of its provinces, 454, a, b.
Wahid, first king of Egypt, of the race of Amalek, i. 280, f. Why surnamed Pharaoh, ibid. & seq. Supposed the Pharaoh of Moses, 281, c.
† Wall built by Sesostris in Egypt, i. 257, c.
† Wall's-End, Finis Walli, in Northumberland, vii. 419, a.
Wallia, king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c. Succeeds Sigeric, 509, d. Peace with the Romans, ibid. c. War with the Vandals in Spain, ibid. & 531, b, c. Settles in Aquitaine, 510, a. His death, ibid. b.
Walterus, king of the Lombards, vii. 617, b.
Wamba, king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
† Wanastreefe mountain in Numidia, vii. 116, d.
Wandalar, king of the Ostrogoths, vii. 493, a. 518, d.
War, Holy, in Greece, why so called, ii. 388, & seq.
 — Theban, an account of, 358.
 — Peloponnesian, the history of, 499, & seq.
 — Æginean, 484, & seq.
 — Macedonian, 542.
 — Social, ibid. & seq.
 — Messenian, the first, 470, & seq.
 — — the second, 577.
 — Bæotian, 615, & seq.
 — Clemonic, 630, & seq.
 — Confederate, 652.
 — Atbenian, in Sicily, iii. 25—36.
 — Cartaginian, 37, & seq.
 — Mitbridatic, 727, & seq. Renewed, 639. The length of it, 756, in fin. not.
 — how declared among the Romans, iv. 445, (A).
 — social, the causes of, v. 46, b. 47, b. The success of, ibid. & seq.
 — noble, why so called, vi. 556, a.
 — holy, see Crusade, 613, & seq.

War,

- War*, unjust, the era of, vii. 286, a. (F).
 — Carthaginian, and other nations, see under their respective names.
Wards, Solon's laws concerning them, ii. 432, d—f.
Warne Cant, duke, put to death, vii. 685, e.
Warnefrid, defeated and killed, vii. 696, e, f.
 † Warni, who, and where sited, vii. 513, b.
 † Warnsdike, the battle of, vii. 453, b.
Washing the feet, how and whence the ceremony among the Jews, i. 692, a.
Water, supposed by many ancients the original of all things, i. 17, d. Why the Gods swore by it, ibid.
Waters, what is meant by those above the firmament, i. 98, (N).
 — turned into blood by Moses, 496, a. How long they continued so, ibid. b, c. & notes.
 — of jealousy, instituted by Moses, i. 676, c. How the ceremony was performed, ibid. & seq.
 — Solon's laws concerning them, ii. 432, d—f.
 — mineral of Hierapolis, 293.
 — of Thermopylae, described, 371, b.
 † Watling-street, where and why so called, vii. 419, f. Its extent, ibid. & seq.
Weyel, sixth king of the Arabs, vii. 267, e.
Week, the Jewish feast of, how computed and kept, i. 606, a, & (Y).
Welcar, made duke of Friuli, vii. 696, f.
 † Westphalia, where situate, vii. 441. Inhabited by the Saxons, ibid.
Westgoths, Visigoths, who, and why so called, vii. 487, c. Where seated, 492, d.
 † Wetalla-bedb, Cimbrian islands, where, and why so called, vii. 484, e.
Wbales, a particular kind of in the Mediterranean, iv. 212, (C).
 † Wballop castle, the ruins of, extant, vii. 412, e.
Whips, why presented by the Muscovite brides to their husbands, ii. 283, not.
Wibston's theory of the earth examined, i. 38, b, c. & seq. Account of its changes after the fall, 67, a, b. & seq. and after the flood, 110, c.
 † White Hunns, see Neptthalites, vii. 456, & seq.
Widimer, king of the Visigoths, vii. 493, a.
Widows forbid to marry during the year, vi. 394, a.
 † Wight island, where, v. 497, c. Taken by Vespasian, ibid. Inhabited by Jutes, v. 441, c. Put to the sword by Cerdic, 450, a. Given to his nephew, ibid. d.
William, lord of Sicily, wars against Andronicus, vi. 622, b, c.
Wills, Solomon's laws concerning them, ii. 431, d.
 † Wine, the making of, ascribed to Bacchus, ii. 373, (D). How and when introduced into Persia, 177, c. Muscate of Tenedos, famed, 308, in fin. (D). Of Lampfacus, 324, d. Of Tmolus, 329, c. Of Lydia, 330, c. Forbid the Carthaginian soldiers whilst in the field, vii. 705, c. and to the magistrates during their office, 706, b.
 — mingled, why given to malefactors, iv. 239, (Z).
Winitar, king of the Visigoths, vii. 493, a.
Wiomand's signal fidelity to Childeric, vii. 473, c.
Wisemen, from the east, come to pay homage to Christ, see Magi, iv. 160, & seq.
Wistnowan, a deity of the Malabarians, i. 33, d.
Wismar, king, defeated and killed, vii. 609, a.
Witar, the Saxon's arrival in Britain, vii. 449, c.
Witcraft, some account of its origin, i. 853, c, d, & seq.
Witness, false, Moses's laws against, i. 686, a. Who excepted from being witnesses, ibid. (B).
Witteric, king of the Visigoths in Gaul, vii. 492, c.
Wittizix, king of the Visigoths, vii. 492, c.
Woden, king of the Goths. See part of his character under Odin, vii. [419], & seq. His reign and conquests, 489, c, d. Settles and dies in Sweden, ibid. e. His character, acts, &c. ibid. & seq. When he reigned, 460, c, d. Worshipped by the Saxons, 442, d.
Wolf, why adored by the Egyptians, i. 211, a.
Wolves, a reward for destroying them, ii. 432, d.
 — Nerians, famed to turn once a year into Wolves, 278, b.
 — the fable explained, vii. [427], (R).
Women, Solon's laws concerning them, ii. 431. Against the infamous sort, ibid. &c.
 — esteemed great prophetesses amongst the ancient Celtes, &c. 278, not. Held in common amongst some Scythians, ibid. a. Their martial bravery, 273, c. 276, a. Way of preserving their beauty, 279.
 — Sarmatian, their martial genius, 277, c. Treachery to their husbands, 282. Punishment, 283.
 — Spartan, their dress, ii. 563, a. Singular hardiness, 565, a. Bravery, 566, d.
 — Arcadian, their surprising valour, 376, c.
 — Tegean, defeat the Lacedaemonians, 38.
 — of Argos, drive the Spartans from it, 585, not.
 — Roman, a number of them turn poisoners, iv. 604, e.
Women, two die for joy at the unexpected sight of their sons, iv. 605, d. Turn gladiatrices, 805, sub not.
 — their inheritance confined by the Voconian law, v. 338, (X). Degeneracy in Nero's reign, 535, d.
 — Gaulish, in high repute, vii. 348, b. Their signal bravery, ibid. & seq.
 — German, their bravery, &c. v. 373, (Z). vii. 375, c, d.
 — old, supposed prophetesses, [417], a, (B).
 — married, their slavish fidelity, [430], b—d, (W). Hard laws against them, ibid. & 432, b.
 — old, esteemed in Ethiopia, vii. 207, d.
Wonderful, one of the peculiar characters of the Messiah, iv. 157, a. 159, b. 160, a.
Wood, carried to the temple once a year, iv. 222, c.
Wool of Laodicea, famed, ii. 291, c.
 — of Carmania drops off the sheep, 28, not.
 — rains down in Artois, vi. 354, b.
Work-bouses among the Romans abused, vi. 48, a. Regulated by Adrian, ibid. b.
World, how created, i. 2. Its origin, 3, & seq. Whether possible to be eternal, 5, & seq. Opinions of philosophers about its matter and form, 6, & seq. Whether eternal, 9, & seq. Its creation of a late date, 11, pass. & seq. and liable to dissolution, 31, & seq.
 — its creation as delivered by Moses, 35, & seq. Whether completed in six days, 48, b. In what season of the year, ibid. c. Whether any thing before it, ibid. d. Destroyed by the flood, 85, c, d. Changes made in it according to Burnet and others, 110, & seq.
 — its production according to the Phenicians, Egyptians, Chaldeans, &c. See under their respective names.
 † Wormes, a city in Germany, vi. 453, f. Taken by the Vandals, ibid. & seq.

X.

- Xamolxis's* reign in Thrace, vii. 487, e. Who he was, 611, b, c.
 † Xanthians, who, and why so called, iii. 338, a. Their brave defence against the Romans, v. 237, pass. Betrayed by the Oenoandes, ibid. d. Their desperate end, ibid. e, f, & seq. Dreadful instances of their love of liberty, 238, a, b. Favoured by M. Antony, 260, d.
 † Xanthus, metropolis of Lycia, v. 236, d, (F). Besieged by Brutus, ibid. e, f. Burnt by its inhabitants, 237, c, f.
 — king of Bæotia's contest with the Athenians, ii. 368, c.
 — prince of Pelagia, comes to Lesbos, iii. 105, c.
 † — river in Troas, 306, c. The same with Scamander, 307, c.
Xantippus, Athenian general, defeats the Persians, ii. 126, & seq. 475, c, f. Conquers the Thracian Cherronnesus, 128. Takes Sestos, 476, c. Impales Artayctes for sacrilege, 476, f.
 — the son of Pericles, dies of the plague, 503, c.
 — general of the Carthaginians, iv. 664, & seq. Defeats the Romans, 665, f. Retires to Lacedaemon, ibid. & seq. New-disciplines the Carthaginians, vi. 839, c—e.
Xenagoras measures the height of Olympus, iii. 259, a.
Xenarchus, the Achaean Pretor, declares for Pericles, ii. 686, b.
Xene sent prisoner to Constantinople, vii. 639, c. Released, 640, a.
Xenias, the Elean, expelled by Thrasylorus, ii. 599.
Xenidocbus, general of the Agrigentines, vi. 802, a. His successes in Sicily, ibid. b. Defeated by Demophilus, 808, b.
Xenoclydes's descent on Corcyra, ii. 496, c.
Xenocrates, his principle of indivisible particles, i. 20, a. Character, writings, and death, iii. 450, (A).
Xenoctas, general of Antiochus, defeated and killed, iii. 531, c.
Xenoi, strangers so called at Athens, ii. 458, b.
Xenon's noble speech to the Roman deputies, ii. 688, & seq.
Xenophanes held God and the world to be the same, i. 6, c. Founder of the Eleatic sect, ibid. How far he held the eternity, &c. of the world, ibid. d, e.
 — sent from Philip to Hannibal, vii. 42, c. Treaty with Carthage, ibid. & seq. Forced by the Romans, 43, & seq.
Xenophon's noble retreat out of Persia, ii. 139, & seq.
 — Claudius's physician, highly extolled by him, v. 514, (X).
 — a commander under Arrianus, vi. 41, f.
 † Xerolybia, where situate, vii. 178, c.
Xerxes succeeds his father Darius, ii. 114, & seq. Confirms all his grants to the Jews, 115, pass. Dissuaded by his uncle from invading Greece, ibid. & seq. Pushed on by a three-fold dream, 116, pass. Allies with the Carthaginians, ibid. & seq. Grows insolent, 117. His army and fleet, 118. Defeats the Spartans at Thermopylae, 121, & seq. Engages the Athenians at sea, ibid. & 124. Outwitted by Themistocles, ibid. His fleet defeated at Salamis, ibid. & seq. Flees to Sardis, ibid. & seq. The hardship of his army, army, 125, & seq. Goes into Persia, 127. Burns all the Grecian temples, ibid. pass. Passion for his brother's wife, ibid. e, f. His wife's cruelty to her, ibid. & seq. His barbarity to his brother, 129. to the body of the Spartan king, 588, d. Killed by Artabanus, 129, d. See also vol. iii. 276, b. Disjoins Athos from the Land, 258, (G), & 276, c.

 — His short reign, ii. 134, b. Murdered by Sogdianus, ibid.
Xerxes's salutary advice to Antiochus, iii. 533, b.
 † Xibam, Shibam, a city in Arabia Felix, vii. 231, c.
Xiphares put to death by his father, iii. 754, c.
Xiphius, Niceph. saves Basilus from the Bulgarians, vii. 635, d.
Xipbilin's abridgment of Dio. Cassius imperfect, vi. 19, c. 150, sub not. Account of Antoninus Pius, 55, & seq. of the Thundering Legion, 72, pass. His character, 150, sub not.
 — the patriarch, outwitted by Eudocia, 604, d, e.
Xiphius's revolt and submission, vi. 593, a.
Xisubrus, the tenth of the Chaldean kings, according to Berossus, i. 90, d. Reigned before the flood, ibid. & 92, a.
 † Xois, one of the chief cities of Lower Egypt, i. 176, c.
Xutbus, the grandson of Deucalion, ii. 363. Adjudges the Athenian crown to Cecrops, ibid. d. 414, d. Settles in Achaia, ibid. e.
Xylophoria, a festival of the Jews, so called by Josephus, i. 650, d. How kept at Jerusalem, iv. 222, c.
Xylos, or Olympic stadium of Elis, described, ii. 405, c, & not.

Y.

Y*A*, emperor of China, i. 34, c.
Yasar, eight king of Yaman, vii. 267, e.
Yagudb, an idol of the Arabs, vii. 248, c, d.
 † Yamama, the province of, described, vii. 239, b.
 — city, ibid. Princes, ibid. Fountain, ibid.
 † Yaman, or Arabia Felix, described, i. 164, c. The meaning of that name, 170, d. By whom inhabited, vii. 205, b, c. Its extent, &c. 230, e, f. Description, 234, d. Towns, soil, &c. ibid. & seq. Mountains, &c. 235, & seq. By whom founded, 245, c. Its kings, 267, & seq. End of their kingdom, 271, e, f. Seized by the Abasfines, 285, d.
 † Yambo, Yanbo, a port in Arabia, vii. 238, a, b.
Yarab, succeeds Jocktan in Arabia, i. 169, f. vii. 265, b, c. 267, b.
 † Yarab, the son of Joktan, gives name to Arabia, i. 131, a. and to the Arabic tongue, ibid. b. Founder of the Yamanik kingdom, ibid. & seq.
Yasdejird, king of Persia; see Jysdegerdes, vi. 442, b.
Yasubub, the successor of Yarab, vii. 267, b.
 † Yatreb, the ancient name of Medina, whence, vii. 237, d, e.
Yauk worshipped by the Arabs, vii. 248, & seq. sub (R).
Year, how amended by Numa, iv. 473, e, f. Of the Carthaginians, how computed, vi. 712, d, e.
Years, Antediluvian, how computed, i. 110, (N). Four sorts distinguished by the Mosaic law, 611, c. Those of the Jews, how long, ibid. (K).
 — Sabbatic and Jubilee; see under those words.
 — Macedonian, how calculated, iii. 266, pass.
Yemen, the king of, his war with Keykaus king of Persia, ii. 192, c. Subdued by him, iv. 385, d.
Yezad, Jezadan, the good principle among the Persian Magi, i. 31, d. ii. 76, c. Some accounts of him, 207, & not.
Yar, the 8th month, or April, of the Jews, i. 611, (K).
Yn, in the Chinese physiology, what, i. 34, b.
Yoke, prisoners of war, made to pass under, iv. 442, d.
Youtb, now educated at Sparta, ii. 363, d, & seq. In Macedonia, iii. 265.
 — the goddess of, iv. 452, b.
 — her temple, 455, b.
 — prince of the Roman Youtbs, his office, dignity, &c. v. 324, (G).
 † Yjel, Isala, river in Germany, vii. [415], b.
Yusef introduces judaism in Yaman, vii. 252, a. Persecutes the recusants 269, d.

Z.

† ZAsh*, the district of, where, vii. 163, c.
 † Zab, river in Assyria, i. 859, (I).
 — king of Persia, ii. 183, d.
 † Zababe, the sea of, where, &c. vi. 379, c.
Zabas defeated by the Romans, vi. 190, e.
Zabdiel murders Alexander Balas, iii. 599, a.
Zabians, corrupt the Perfic religion, ii. 71, a.
 VOL. VII. N^o 11.

† Zabulun, Jacob's sixth son by Leah, born, i. 448, a. His lot in the promised land, 463, a. (I).
Zachariab, the Jewish high-priest, slain by Joash, i. 824, c.
 — the Baptist father's vision in the temple, iv. 153, & seq.
 Noble canticle at the birth of his son, 158, b.
 — patriarch of Jerusalem, carried prisoner into Persia, 366, c. (vi. 539, c.) Released by Siroes, 369, d.
 — the son of Barachias, murdered by the zelots, 275.
 Some conjectures about him, ibid. (B).
 — pope's embassy to Luitprand, vii. 708. Sway over him, ibid. e, f. over Kachis, 709, d, e. His death, 710, a.
 † — the famed sepulchre of, in the vale of Jehoshaphat, i. 592, c, & (M).
Za-chu-ne, a remarkable fruit in the plain of Jericho, i. 583, b.
Zacynthus peoples the island of that name, ii. 313, a.
 † — the island of, described, ii. 677, not. Reduced by the Athenians, 489, c. Wasted by the Peloponnesians, 504. Bought by the Achæans, 677, c. Given to the Romans, ibid.
Zadefprates put to death, iv. 363, et seq. et (D).
Zadoc, the son of Ahitub, high-priest of the Jews, i. 791, c.
Zadriades, one of the founders of the Armenian monarchy, iii. 698, et seq. 718, c.
Zagan diverts Mohammed from raising the siege of Constantinople, vi. 652, b.
 † Zageria, where sited, vi. 549, b. Given to Trebelis, ibid. &c.
 † Zagreusii, who and where sited, vii. 140, d.
 † Zaine river in Numidia, vii. 112, b.
 † Zaitba, Zantha, where sited, vi. 164, b. Gordian buried at, ibid. His tomb at, 331, d.
Zala, a famed old woman, i. 107, b. Traditions of the orientals about her, ibid. &c.
 † Zalacus mount, where sited, vii. 115, e.
 † Zalissa, a city in Iberia, iii. 833, c.
 † Zalmonab, a place so called from the brazen serpent there erected, i. 532, d.
Zalmunna's cruel war against the Jews, i. 304, a. Defeated and killed by Gideon, ibid. & 305.
Zalzer, Zal-zer, the father of Rustan, his history, ii. 184. Recovers the Persian crown from the Turks, 187, d. Taken prisoner by the Persians, 223, e.
 † Zama, where situate, iv. 745, e. The battle of, 746, pass. vii. 82, & seq. Besieged by the Romans, v. 16, a.
 — Hannibal's camp at, vii. 81, c.
 — the fountain of, 112.
 † Zamar, the city of, where situate, vii. 112, d.
Zamuragus's success against the Lombards, vii. 681, b.
Zamarga, defeated by the Romans, vii. 484, b, c. By Zandilichus, ibid. d, e.
Zambades, chosen king of Persia, iv. 344, a. Deposed and punished, 345, a.
Zames, prince of Persia, why excluded the succession, iv. 346, c. Plots against his brother, 349, c.
Zamelxis, a Dacian philosopher and lawgiver, v. 676, f.
Zamzumim, a gigantic race driven out by the Ammonites, i. 292, e.
Zanara, queen of the Saccæ, a famed heroine, ii. 13, f. Her exploits and stately monument, ibid. & not.
 † Zancle, Messina, anciently so called, iii. 2, d. When and by whom built, 12, a.
 † Zancleus, who and where sited, iii. 2. et seq. Defeated by Anaxilas, 3, a. Invite the Samians to settle among them, 197, f. Outed by them, 198, a.
Zangruf, duke of Verona, put to death, vii. 685, e.
Zanticbes, king of the Jazyges's submission to M. Aurelius, vi. 73, d.
Zanticbus's peace with the Romans, vii. 606, d.
Zantzax, removes the mart to Theisalonica, vii. 629, c, d.
Zapbir, Moses's rod, so called by the Jews, i. 489. Their fables concerning it, ibid. (Z).
Zapbnab panch, the name given to Joseph in Egypt, i. 453, b. Its meaning, ibid. &c.
Zarab, the supposed father of Job, i. 481, a. The brother of Phares born to Judah, 452, a.
Zarbiennus, king of the Gordians put to death, iii. 702, b. His funeral obsequies, 705, a.
 † Zarcaum, a mountain said to have been levelled by Semiramis, i. 880, c.
 † Zaretban, since Zeredathan, where sited, i. 553, e. Famed for the copper-works cast there for Solomon's temple, ibid. & (Y).
Zarmar, the gymnosophist, burns himself, v. 308, f.
 † Zarvaspa, whether the same with Bactra, iii. 845, c. Surrendered to Alexander, 373, d.
 10 T † Zarvaspa,

- † Zarvaspa, a river in Bactria, iii. 845.
Zarxas joins with the revolted mercenaries, vi. 862, e, f.
† Zea, Sr. the famed church of, built by Marcian, vi. 504, c.
Zeal, the right of, among the Jews, its extent, i. 675, c.
† Zealand, where sited, 441, a. Inhabited by the Saxons, ibid.
Zealots, in Judea, the spawn of the Gaulonitish faction, iv. 193, pass. Join with the Sicarii, 298, & seq. Defeat the Romans, 259. Put all to the sword, ibid. & seq. Their cursed character, 273, e, f. Seize the temple, 274. Set up a high-priest of their own, ibid. a, & (Y). Their horrid butcheries, ibid. & seq. Abominable crimes, 277, (E). Josephus's character of them, 281, b. Their desperate defence, 283, & seq. Suit to Titus rejected, 286, c, d. Seized with a fatal delusion, 287, a, b. Raise new troubles in Egypt, 290, (G).
Zebab heads the Midianites, &c. against the Jews, i. 304, a. Defeated and killed by Gideon, ibid. &c.
Zebedes, the sons of, become apostles, iv. 208, (T).
Zebina, Alexander, see Alexander, iii. 611, & seq.
Zebul kills Abimelech by his command, i. 749, d.
Zebulun, Jacob's blessing to, i. 463, a. His lot in the promised land exactly fulfilled, ibid. (I).
Zecbariah succeeds his father Jeroboam II, i. 827, c. Maf-sacred after a six month's reign, 828, b.
— prophecies to the returned Jews, iv. 10, b. Assists Ezra in his reformation, 13, (Y). His character and prophecies, 24, (P). Those particularly which concern Christ's sufferings, 235, (P). And the destruction of the Jewish common-wealth, 234, (S).
— the son of Baruc, 275.
Zedekiah's impious reign, i. 849, a. Deceived by his false prophets, ibid. b, c. Rebels against Nebuchadnezzar, ibid. d. Carried into captivity, 850, a, b. His miserable end, ibid. c.
Zeeb, prince of Midian, defeated and killed, i. 304, pass.
† Zeira, where sited, iii. 294, a. Taken by Philip, ibid.
† Zela, a city in Pontus, iii. 721, c.
— king of Bithynia, killed by the Galatians, 829, c.
† Zelis, where situate, vii. 141, c. Whether the Roman Arzilla, ibid. d.
† — river in Tingitania, 144, e.
Zelophebad's five daughters obtain an inheritance from Moses, i. 537, a. A law made on that occasion, ibid. b.
Zelotes, Simon, the apostle, whence so called, iv. 208, (T).
Zelus, Belus, Baal, &c. one of the Phœnician deities, i. 397, b.
Zembla, north part of ancient Scythia, ii. 267, c.
† Zemzem, the famed well of, at Mecca, vii. 236, d. The Turks tradition about it, 237, c.
Zenadika, a Mohammedan sect hold that whatever we see is God, i. 8, a.
† Zendera island, said to be governed by a dog, vii. 194, (S).
† Zenderoud, a river in Persia, described, ii. 32.
Zendevasia, the famed book of, ii. 26, a, & (O).
Zengite, the third rank among the Athenians, ii. 430, a.
† Zengiza, a promontory in Ethiopia, vii. 190, a.
Zeno, held the eternity, &c. of the world, i. 6, d. His notion of the origin of things, 23, b, c. Where born, ii. 759, a. iii. 174, c.
Zeno, general of Antiochus, defeated, 531, c.
— king of Armenia, see Artaxias III, 710, b.
— emperor, marries Ariadne, vi. 510, a. His extract and rise, ibid. b, c. Promotion opposed by the Romans, 511, f. Declared his son's colleague, 512, a. His wicked character and flight, 513, a, b. Pursued into Isauria, 514, d. Dethrones Basiliscus, ibid. & seq. Shameful peace with Theodoric, 515, c. Besieged by Marcian, ibid. d. Yields Italy to Theodoric, 516, c. Horrid cruelties, ibid. e, f. Treachery to Constantius, vii. 470, d. To Theodoric, 520, d—f. Rejects his offers, ibid. d. Bestows great honours on him, 522, b, c. Treaty with Genserich, 529, c. Death and character, vi. 516, f, & seq.
— a priest, his zeal for Cunipert, 698, c—e.
Zenobia's adventures, iii. 712, f. Married to Odenatus, vi. 177, c. Created queen, 178, b. With the title of Augusta, 182, b. Whether accessory to her husband's death, 183, d. Her reign, ibid. et seq. Conquest of Egypt, 187. Pedigree, learning and valour, 189, c—e. Noble exploits, ibid. e, f. Defeated by Aurelian, 190, d, e. Brave defence of Palmyra, ibid. e, f. Letter to Aurelian, 191, a. Pursued, and taken in her flight, ibid. c. Led in triumph under a huge load of jewels, 192, c. Her retirement and death, 193, a, b.
Zenobius's writings and character, vi. 51, sub not.
— bishop, whether descended from queen Zenobia, 193, b.
— oppresses the Chians, iii. 211, d.
— library-keeper to Ptolemy Soter, 630, et seq.
Zenodorus, why stript of his toparchies, iv. 143, b, c, et (V).
† Zenodotia, where sited, iv. 296, b. Taken by Crassus, ibid.
Zenodotus, the first corrector of Homer's works, iii. 638, b.
Zenonides, Zeno's empress, declared Augusta, vi. 513, b, c. Her death, 515, a.
Zenus's success against Alexander, vi. 241, c.
† Zephyrian Venus, her temple, iii. 639, c.
† Zephyrium and other ciucs submit to Antiochus, iii. 544, c.
Zerab the Ethiopian, at the head of 10,000,000 men defeated by king Afah, i. 807, e. vii. 194, b. 220, d.
† Zerbi island, where sited, vii. 176, (F).
† Zermisegethusa, where, and by whom founded, vi. 15, d.
Zerubabel heads the returning Jews, iv. 4. His genealogy, 3, b.
Zetbus, tyrant of Athens, killed by his own mother, ii. 373.
Zeuda Crarta, where, iii. 361, b. Surrender'd to Alexander, ibid.
† Zeugitania described, vi. 665, b, c.
— the sea and inland towns of, 667, et seq.
† Zeugma, where situate, iv. 298, (E).
Zeus, Belus, the son of Chronus, whether the same with Mizraim, i. 137, (R).
Zeuxidas, Prætor of Acarnania, attached to the Romans, ii. 745, c. Deposed, ibid.
Zeuxippus, last king of Sicyon, 350, c.
— a Roman, kills the Bœotian Prætor, 744, b.
† Zia island, where situate; see Cea, iii. 216.
Ziba, the treacherous servant of Mephibosheth, outwits him and king David, i. 784, a, &c.
† Zidon; see Sidon, i. 410, & seq.
† Ziglag, David's retreat, taken and burnt, i. 321, b. 769, f. 770, a.
Zilpah, Leah's maid, bears Jacob two sons, i. 441, d.
Zimiser, John's success against the Saracens, vi. 585, f. Ill requited by Nicephorus, 584, c. Murders him, ibid. Submission to Polyencius, ibid. f. Crowned, 585, a. Takes Romanus for his colleague, ibid. b. Success against the Rossi, ibid. et seq. Peace with them, 587, a. Poisoned, ibid. e. His character, ibid. f, et seq.
Zimri brings a Midianitish princess into the Jewish camp, i. 535. Slain with her by Phineas, 536, a.
† Zin, the famed wilderness of, i. 531, b. vii. 227, d.
† Zion, the fortress of, where, i. 775, a. Taken by Joab, ibid. Enlarged and fortified by David, ibid. &c.
Zipates, Ist king of Bithynia, wars with the Hæcæans, iii. 228. Dies for joy, ibid. et 522, c.
— II, defeated by his brother, 522, d. Dies in banishment, 829, a.
Ziporab married to Moses, i. 301, c. Falls out with, and parts from him, ibid. d. Reconciled, ibid. &c. Why called a Cushite by Miriam, 489, (Y). Circumcises her child, 492, a. Comes with her father and children to her husband, 512, c.
Zizai, Zizais, made king of Sarmatia, vi. 303, d, e. vii. 609, f.
— put to death by Phoras, vi. 558, a.
† Zym, Troglodytes so called in Scripture, who, and where sited, i. 165, d.
† Zea, where, and by whom built, vii. 172, d.
Zoak, a tyrant of Persia; see Deber, ii. 179.
† Zoar, the country of, where, i. 327, b.
— the king of, defeated by Chedorlaomer, ibid. &c.
† Zobab, the kingdom of, in Syria, i. 371, b. On the ruins of which rose up that of Damascus, ibid. c. The chronology of its kings, 380, pass. Why called also Sopheme, ibid.
Zobair's vain attempt and insignificant aqueduct, vii. 236, d, e.
Zobores king of Albania, defeated by M. Antony, iii. 839, a.
Zobares defeated before Antioch, vi. 585, b.
Zoe Ist, married to Leo, and dies, vi. 575, b.
— II, the mother of Constantine, ibid. Banished by Alexander, 577, f. Recalled by her son, 578, c. Assumes the government, ibid. d. Defeated by the Bulgarians, 578, f, et seq. (vii. 630, d, e.) Confined by Romanus, vi. 579, c.
— Constantine's daughter, married to Romanus II, 594, b. Poisons and murders him, 595, c, d. Marries Michael, and makes him emperor, ibid. e, f. Over-reached by his brother, 596, b, c. Confined by Calaphates, 597, c. Recalled, ibid. d, e. Married afresh, 598, a. Dies, 600, f.
Zoganus commands at the siege of Constantinople, vi. 650, d, e.
Zobair Ist, a wife prince of Kelab, vii. 278, d.

Zelair

- Zobair* IIId, murdered, 279, a.
Zotius's revolt from Syria, iii. 615, b.
 — the Critic, writes against Homer, 638, b. His miserable end, ibid. d.
Zoticus, Heliogabalus's beastly husband, vi. 135, c.
Zonara's abridgment of Dion Cassius, vi. 150. sub not. Account of Macrianus's usurpation, 179.
Zonobazzes, king of Iberia, baptized, iii. 837, a.
Zupbasemem, in the Phœnician cosmogony, what, i. 12, b.
Zopyrus's stratagem to betray Babylon to Darius, ii. 105. Amply rewarded, ibid. f.
Zoroaster, Zoroastres, Zerdust, his Chaldean Cosmogony from their ancient oracles, i. 15, b. Description of the supreme deity, 31, b. Introduces learning into Persia, ii. 62, c. Reforms the Persian religion, 71, (C). Had his own from the Mosaic writings, 74, b. His life, doctrine, &c. according to oriental writers, 204, et seq. Said to have been brought up under one of the prophets, 207. Converts the king of Persia, 211, et seq. His miracles, ibid. Religion, 214, et seq. Liturgy, 215, d. Laws, writings, &c. ibid. et seq. Foretold the coming of the Messiah, 217. His death, 218.
Zoroaster king of Bactria's reign, ii. 846.
Zorus's expedition to Carthage, vi. 658, b, c.
Zosimus, an enemy to the Christians, vi. 166, d. His history truncated, 220, c. Partiality against Constantine the Great, 269, c, d. Censured and confuted, ibid. e. Against Theodosius, 392, c.
Zotto, first duke of Benevento, vii. 683, f. His death, 684, c.
Zoub, king of Persia; see Zab, ii. 187, d.
† Zow-aan, mount, where situated, vii. 800, (M).
† Zuchabari, the spring of, in Syrtis, vii. 176, c.
† Zupbons, a tribe of Numidians, where sited, vi. 804, (Q).
Zur, king of Midian, i. 303, a. Sends his daughter to debauch the Israelites, ibid. b.
Zuxidamus king of Sparta, ii. 576, e, f.
† Zydreta, who, and where sited, vi. 37, a.
Zygrise, who, and where sited, vii. 168, b.

F I N I S.

THE CHRONOLOGICAL TABLES
TO THE
UNIVERSAL HISTORY.

ADVERTISEMENT

Concerning the following

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLES.

AT our first setting out in this work (Pref. to Vol I. pag. 1.) we gave our readers the chronology of the world from the creation to the flood, according to the various systems of the most eminent chronologists in all nations, after which we subjoined our reasons for preferring that of the Samaritan pentateuch to that of the Hebrew septuagint, Josephus's, &c. as far as relates to that remote and impenetrable epocha; upon which account we were induced to compute all the events from the latter period by the years of the flood, rather than by those of the world. (Preface ibid, pag. ult.) We need not repeat our reasons at large here, but only remind our readers, that as we engaged to subjoin the year of the world to that of the flood in the chronological tables whenever they came to be printed, so we have accordingly performed our promise in those that follow.

As for the Julian period, we have in pursuance of our reasons there given wholly omitted it as imaginary, and therefore useless. Those readers who retain a fondness for it, may however supply it all along, by adding its complement to the year of the world; only let them remember, that it is not (according to these tables) that of 710, which is the Hebrew computation, but of 408, which is the Samaritan, that we have here followed. The reader will find our reasons for all these in the preface above-mentioned.

It is necessary to observe furthermore in this place, that we had purposed in our original plan to insert at the end of each volume a chronological table of its particular contents: But upon mature consideration, we have thought it much more eligible to comprize the whole in one general table, that our readers may see at one view all the synchronological events of each nation and kingdom, by which means a great deal of trouble, confusion, and needless repetitions will be avoided, especially as the most material are purposely made so full and explicit, that a reader who even is but moderately versed in History may, by the helps here afforded, frequently spare himself the labour of consulting the volumes; whilst those that are less acquainted with it will, by the help of the two last columns in the table, be easily directed to the volume and page where the point in question is more fully discussed.

The great difficulties which the authors of the foregoing volumes have met with in the carrying on this arduous and extensive work (of which some account hath been given in the preface to this 7th volume, pag. 2, & seq.) have occasioned a number of anachronisms to creep into several parts of the history, to say nothing of typographical oversights, which are almost unavoidable in a work of this nature. For this reason the greatest care hath been taken to make the following tables so exact, that the accurate reader may, if he pleases, by the help of them rectify and adjust every error or inadvertency he meets with in the text.

The time and labour which a task like this must have taken up, will, we hope, apologise for this volume coming out so much later than was intended. And we doubt not but the kind friends and encouragers of this work will think themselves sufficiently gratified for waiting somewhat longer for it, when they find how much more useful and easy the reading of this Universal History is made to them by the assistance of such a copious general index, and such full and exact chronological and other tables as are inserted in this volume.

THE CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE TO THE SEVEN VOLUMES.

Y. of world.	Y. of flood.	Before Christ		Vol.	Pag.
1		4305	G OD creates the world, and with it, time and man. Places him in Paradise.	I	59
1		4305	Forbids him eating of the tree of knowledge, and gives him Eve for his wife.	I	59
1		4305	Adam , by the persuasion of his wife, eats the fruit of the forbidden tree, and there- by introduces sin, misery, and natural death - - - - -	I	72
2		4304	Cain , the eldest Son of Adam , born within this year - - - - -	I	73
129		4177	Abel , Adam 's second son, born - - - - -	I	74
			Cain slays his brother Abel , and is condemned by God to be a fugitive and a va- gabond, &c. - - - - -	I	75
130		4176	Seth (or the appointed one) born to supply the place of Abel , whom Cain slew, &c.	I	71
235		4071	Enos , the son of Seth , born in the 105th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
325		3981	Cainan , the son of Enos , born in the 90th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
395		3911	Mahalaleel , the son of Cainan , born in the 70th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
460		3846	Jared , the son of Mahalaleel , born in the 65th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
522		3784	Enoch , the son of Jared , born in the 62d year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
587		3719	Methuselah , the son of Enoch , born in the 65th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
654		3652	Lamech , the son of Methuselah , born in the 67th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
707		3599	Noah , the son of Lamech , born in the 53d year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
887		3419	Enoch , the son of Jared , the father of Methuselah , as a reward for his extraordinary piety, is translated from earth to heaven alive, without first dying naturally, in the 365th year of his age - - - - -	I	78
930		3376	Adam , the first man, and common parent of mankind, dies a natural death in the 930th year of his age - - - - -	I	79
1042		3264	Seth dies in the 912th year of his age - - - - -	I	71
1140		3166	Enos dies in the 905th year of his age - - - - -	I	71
1187		3119	Noah begins to preach repentance, and forewarn the people of the universal de- struction of the world - - - - -	I	85
1207		3099	Japhet , the son of Noah , born in the 500th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
1209		3097	Shem , the son of Noah , born in the 502d year of his father's age - - - - -	I	71
1235		3071	Cainan , the son of Enos , dies aged 910 years - - - - -	I	71
1290		3016	Mahalaleel , the son of Cainan , dies aged 895 years - - - - -	I	71
1307		2999	Jared , the son of Mahalaleel , dies aged 847 years - - - - -	I	71
1307		2999	Methuselah , the son of Enoch , dies aged 720 years - - - - -	I	71
1307		2999	Lamech , the son of Methuselah , dies aged 653 years - - - - -	I	71
1307		2999	The flood, after 120 years preaching by Noah , is brought upon the earth; and Noah and his family by God's command, goes into the Ark; which he had built by God's own appointment, and with them all kind of beasts and fowls, and every thing that creepeth on the earth; of the unclean by pairs, and of the clean by sevens, male and female, with proper quantities of food, &c. on the 17th day of the second month, answering to our December - - - - -	I	95
1308	1	2998	The waters being sufficiently abated, and the dry land visible, Noah , by God's di- rection, with all that were with him, comes out of the Ark on the 27th day of the second month (or December) having been in it a year and ten days, &c. - - - - -	I	108
1309	2	2997	Arphaxad , the son of Shem , born in the 100th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	112
1444	137	2862	Salah , the son of Arphaxad , born in the 135th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	112
1574	267	2732	Eber , the son of Salah , born in the 130th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	112
1657	350	2649	Noah dies in the 950th year of his age, and is supposed to be buried in Mesopotamia - - - - -	I	116
1708	401	2598	Peleg , the son of Eber , born in the 134th year of his father's age - - - - -	I	112
1708	401	2598	The building of Babel ; the confusion, or multiplicity, of languages, and the Disper- sion of mankind all over the earth - - - - -	I	129

Y. of world.	Y. of flood.	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
1738	431	2568	Nimrod, the son of Cush, is supposed to drive his cousin Ashur, the son of Shem, out of Shinaar, in Babylon, and settle in it, making it the foundation of a large kingdom, over which he reigned -	I	124
1738	431	2568	Ashur, the son of Shem, being driven out of Babylon, by his cousin Nimrod, retires (no doubt with a large number of hands) into Assyria, and builds the cities of Nineveh, Rhoboth, Calah, and Resen, and founds the Assyrian monarchy -	I	126
1747	440	2559	Arphaxad, the son of Shem, dies in the 438th year of his age -	I	112
1809	502	2497	Shem, the son of Noah, dies in the 600th year of his age -	I	112
1838	531	2468	Ren, the son of Peleg, born in the 130th year of his father's age -	I	112
1877	570	2429	Salah, the son of Arphaxad, dies in the 433d year of his age -	I	112
1947	640	2359	Peleg, the son of Eber, dies in the 239th year of his age -	I	112
1970	663	2336	Serug, the son of Ren, born in the 132d year of his father's age -	I	112
1978	671	2328	Eber, the son of Salah, dies in the 404th year of his age -	I	112
2077	770	2229	Ren, the son of Peleg, dies in the 239th year of his age -	I	112
2100	793	2206	Nahor, the son of Serug, born in the 130th year of his father's age -	I	112
2179	872	2127	Terah, the son of Nahor, born in the 79th year of his father's age -	I	112
2200	893	2106	Serug, the son of Ren, dies in the 230th year of his age -	I	112
2216	909	2090	Ægialeus, the supposed first king and founder of the kingdom of Ægialea, since called Sicyon and Peloponnesus, began to reign and reigned 52 years -	II	350
2247	940	2059	Ninus, son of Belus, is supposed to be the first king of Assyria, who governed that kingdom 52 years -	I	876
2248	941	2058	Nahor, the son of Serug, dies in the 148th year of his age -	I	112
2268	961	2038	Europ, the second king of Ægialea, (or Sicyon) began to reign, and reigned 45 years -	II	350
2289	982	2017	Began the 16th dynasty of the Egyptians, which was of five Theban kings, that reigned 190 years -	I	229
2299	992	2007	Semiramis, wife of Ninus, succeeds her husband in the kingdom, as guardian of her son Nynias, (by some called Zameis) she is said to have built the great city of Babylon, and other extraordinary and magnificent works; and to be killed by her son for tempting him to lie with her, after reigning 42 years -	I	880
2309	1002	1997	Abram, the son of Terah, born in the 130th year of his father's age -	I	112
2313	1006	1993	Telchin or Selchin, the third king of Ægialea, (or Sicyon) began to reign, and changed the name of it into Telchinia, and reigned 20 years -	II	350
2320	1013	1986	Israh, the daughter of Haran born, who was afterwards wife of Abram, and called Sarai and then Sarah -	I	132
2333	1026	1973	Api, (by some said to be a stranger, that came out of Æsolia, and by medicines and charms rid the country of all sorts of vermin that formerly annoyed it) the fourth king of Sicyon, changed its name into Apia, during his reign of 25 years -	II	350
2341	1034	1965	Nynias (or Zameis the son of Ninus and Semiramis) began to reign, and reigned 38 years in Syria, whose capital city was Nineveh -	I	883
2358	1051	1948	Thelxion or Thelajon, the fifth king of Sicyon, began to reign, and reigned 52 years -	II	350
2372	1065	1934	Chederlaomer, king of Elam, invades the inhabitants of the vale of Siddim (governed by five kings) where Sodom and Gomorrah stood, conquers and makes them tributaries -	I	327
2379	1072	1927	Arius succeeded Nynias in the throne of Assyria, and reigned 30 years -	I	883
2383	1076	1923	Terah, Abram, and Lot, went for Ur to dwell at Haran -	I	113
2384	1077	1922	Terah, the son of Nahor, dies in the 205th year of his age -	I	112
2384	1077	1922	This same year Abram, by God's immediate command, leaves Haran, and takes his wife and family, and Lot and his family, and goes and settles in the Land of Canaan, builds an altar at Sichem, where the Lord appears to him, promises to bestow the Land of Canaan upon his posterity -	I	112
2385	1078	1921	Abram is drove out of Canaan into Egypt by a great famine, where Pharaoh the king, and his house, are punished, for taking Sarah, Abram's wife, upon which she is returned; and the plague being over, Abram and his family return into Canaan again -	I	327
2393	1086	1913	Bera, and the other four kings of the vale of Siddim, having revolted from Chederlaomer, to whom they were tributaries, he comes against them, and slays great numbers, and carries away the rest captive, among whom was Lot and his family, upon which Abram arms, pursues the conqueror, recovers his kinsman, and with him a great deal of plunder -	I	327
2394	1087	1912	Ismael, Abram's son, by his maid Hagar, born -	I	426
2407	1100	1899	Abram's name changed to Abraham, and his wife Sarai to Sarah; and circumcision instituted by God's immediate command, upon which he circumcises all the males in his family -	I	426
2407	1100	1899	Isaac, promised by God to Abraham and Sarah, upon his entertaining three angels at a feast -	I	428
2408	1101	1898	The cities of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, with their inhabitants for the unnatural sin of Sodomy, are destroyed by a rain of fire and brimstone, or a prodigious storm of thunder and lightning, and the whole valley of Siddim from thenceforward became the Dead or Salt Sea, called sometimes the lake Asphaltites -	I	328
2408	1101	1898	Isaac, son of Abraham by his wife Sarah, born, and at eight days old circumcised, Abraham being an 100, and his wife 90 years of age -	I	429
2409	1102	1897	Aralius succeeds Arius as king of Syria, and reigns 40 years -	I	883
2410	1103	1896	Ægydrus, or Ægyrus, the sixth king of Sicyon, now Peloponnesus, begins to reign and reigns 34 years -	II	350
2414	1107	1892	Isaac is weaned, (here begins the 400 years that Abraham's seed were to be strangers, and to have no country of their own) -	I	430
2415	1108	1891	Ismael mocking Isaac, Sarah the mother of the latter, requests Abraham, the father of both of them, to send Ismael quite away from him, he hesitating, God assures Abraham he would make Ismael a great nation, and thereupon he sends both him and his mother away -	I	430
2434	1127	1872	Abraham, by God's command, takes his son Isaac, and goes to mount Moriah, to sacrifice him there, but is prevented by a voice from Heaven, and the victim offered,

Y. of world.	Y. of flood.	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			offered, that was found in a neighbouring thicket; upon this the covenant or promise that God had formerly made with Abraham , is again renewed, &c. -	I	431
2444	1137	1862	Thurimachus , the seventh king of Sicyon , begins to reign, and reigned 45 years -	I	383
2445	1138	1861	Sarah , the wife of Abraham , dies in the 127th year of her age, in the city of Arbah , where Abraham mourns for her, and buries her with great funeral solemnity, in the cave of Machpelah , which he had bought of Ephron the Hittite , for that purpose -	I	432
2449	1142	1857	Abraham first swears, and then sends his chief steward or servant to Meopotamia , where his brother Nahor dwelt, with large presents, to demand one of his daughters to be the wife of his son Isaac , who was now forty years of age, upon receiving the message, and the presents, Nahor sends him his daughter Rebecca , a very beautiful virgin, who became the wife of Isaac accordingly -	I	433
2449	1142	1857	The same year Abraham marries Keturah , (which is supposed to be Hagar , the mother of Ishmael), and though he was then 141 years old, had six sons by her -	I	434
2449	1142	1857	Xerxes called also Baleus , succeeds Aralius as king of Syria , and reigned thirty years -	I	383
2450	1143	1856	Inachus founded the kingdom of Argos , and was the first king thereof, and reigned fifty years, having by his sister Melissa , whom he took to wife, two sons, Phoroneus and Ægialeus , and a daughter called Io , supposed to be Isis the goddess of the Egyptians , whom Jupiter turned into a cow; and from her swimming over the Thracian strait, it was called the Bosphorus -	II	351
2469	1162	1837	Rebecca , after having been childless for twenty years, brings forth twins, and calls the first-born, Eſau , (a child remarkably hairy) and the other Jacob , who came into the world, holding his brother by the heel -	I	437
2469	1162	1837	Apis , Oſyris , or Isis , the chief God of the Egyptians , now began to be worshipped under the form of a bull -	I	206
2479	1172	1827	Armamitres succeeds Xerxes as king of Syria , and reigned 38 years -	I	883
2479	1172	1827	The seventeenth Egyptian dynasty of pastors for 130 years -	I	229
2483	1176	1823	Abraham being 175 years old, dies, and is buried by his sons Isaac and Ishmael , in the cave of Machpelah , along with his wife Sarah -	I	434
2489	1182	1817	Leucippus , the eighth king of Sicyon , began to reign, and reigned 53 years, having one only daughter Chalcinia , upon whom Neptune got a son, called Eratus -	II	350
2499	1192	1807	Phoroneus , son of Inachus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Argos , was the first that sacrificed to Juno , and the first that made laws, and governed by them, and therefore by some called, or said to be, the first man: He collected the people that were scattered up and down the country into a body, and incorporated them in a city, built by him, and called Phoroneum ; he is said to have a son by the nymph Laodice , named Apis , and a daughter called Niobe , who was the first paramour of Jupiter , and had by him a son called Argos -	II	352
2501	1194	1805	Isaac is forced to leave his habitation upon account of a great famine; and by God's direction, he goes to Abimelech , king of Gerar , who entertains him and all his family, very kindly; after staying there some time, he enters into covenant with Abimelech , and then goes and lives in the valley of Gerar -	I	438
2509	1202	1797	Eſau , at forty years of age, marries Judith , the daughter of Beer , and Bashemath , the daughter of Elon , both Hittites , at which his parents are much grieved -	I	438
2517	1210	1789	Belochus succeeds Armamitres in the kingdom of Aſſyria , and takes his daughter Atossa , called also Semiramis , a partner with him in his kingdom, for twelve years -	I	883
2517	1210	1789	The Telchines and Caryata , make war against Phoroneus and the Parrhaſi -	II	352
2525	1218	1781	Apis and Niobe , born to Phoroneus -	II	352
2540	1233	1766	The Ogygian flood in Attica and Bœotia , 248 years before Dencalion's flood in Thessaly -	III	2
2542	1235	1764	Meſapus , the ninth king of Sicyon , began to reign, and reigned 47 years -	I	96
2544	1237	1762	Meſſana in Sicily , was built and called Zancle , till the Meſſenians got it, and called it Meſſana , afterwards the Mamertines got it, and called it Mamertina , and now Meſſina -	II	350
2546	1239	1760	Isaac being 137 years old, and grown very dim-sighted, calls his son Eſau (who was a great hunter) to him, and desires him to go and get him some veniſon for ſupper; and that then he would give him his particular bleſſing, which Rebecca hearing, prepares a ſavoury diſh of meat, and obliges her favourite ſon Jacob to diſguiſe himſelf, and perſonate Eſau , and carry the meat in to his father, in order to obtain the promiſed bleſſing, which he doing with ſome difficulty, ſucceeds juſt before Eſau returned from hunting -	I	439
2546	1239	1760	Eſau threatening to kill Jacob , Isaac , by the inſtigation of Rebecca , ſends Jacob to his uncle Laban in Padan Aram , whom he agreed to ſerve ſeven years, to have his beautiful daughter Rachel to wife, to which the father conſents; but cheats him, and in the dark puts her eldeſt ſiſter Leah to bed to him in her ſtead, upon which complaining next day to Laban , he agrees he ſhould have Rachel alſo, provided he would ſerve him ſeven years more, which he agreeing to, has both the ſiſters for his wives -	I	440
2548	1241	1758	Reuben , the firſt ſon of Jacob , by his wife Leah , born -	I	441
2549	1242	1757	Simeon , the ſecond ſon of Jacob , by his wife Leah , born -	I	441
2550	1243	1756	Levi , the third ſon of Jacob , by his wife Leah , born -	I	441
2551	1244	1755	Judah , the fourth ſon of Jacob , by his wife Leah , born -	I	441
2552	1245	1754	Rachel very ſorrowful that ſhe had no children, deſires Jacob to take her maid Bilhah , and what children Bilhah might have, ſhe would adopt for her own; this agreed to, Bilhah conceives, and brings forth a fifth ſon to Jacob , whom Rachel called Dan -	I	441
2552	1245	1754	Baleus ſucceeds Belochus as king of Syria , and reigned 52 years -	I	883
2553	1246	1753	Bilhah , Rachel's maid, conceives again, and brings Jacob a ſixth ſon, whom Rachel calls Naphtali -	I	441
2554	1247	1752	Leah ſeeing the ſucceſs of her ſiſter, and having ceaſed ſometime from child-bearing herſelf, takes her maid Zilpah , and deſires Jacob would grant her the ſame favour he had allowed her ſiſter, he conſents, the maid conceives, and brings Jacob , a ſeventh ſon, whom Leah calls Gad -	I	441
2555	1248	1751	Zilpah , Leah's maid, conceives again, and bears Jacob the eighth ſon, whom Leah calls Aſher -	I	441

Reuben,

Y. of world.	Y. of flood.	Before Christ		Vol.	Pag.
2556	1249	1750	Reuben , Leah's eldest son, having been in the fields, bringing home some mandrakes to his mother, Rachel desires them, and agrees, that Jacob should lie with Leah that night, provided she gave her the mandrakes; all parties agreed, and Jacob lying with Leah , she conceives: And,	I	442
2557	1250	1749	Leah brings forth Jacob's ninth son, (but the fifth of her own body) and calls his name Issachar , (or the man of reward)	I	442
2558	1251	1748	Leah brings forth her sixth son, (Jacob's tenth) and calls his name Zebulun	I	442
2559	1252	1747	Leah bears Jacob a seventh child, (Jacob's eleventh) which being a daughter, she called her name Dinah , after whom she bore no more	I	442
2559	1252	1747	Apis , son of Phoroneus , succeeds his father as king of Argos , from whom the country was called Apia , and the people Apidones	II	352
2561	1254	1745	Rachel , to her great joy, brings forth a son, and called his name Joseph ; this was Jacob's eleventh son	I	442
2564	1257	1742	The Telchines being driven out of Peloponnesus , planted Rhodes , from them called Telchini	III	131
2567	1260	1739	Jacob having served Laban his father-in-law 20 years, and his own separate family being grown numerous, while Laban was gone to his sheep-shearing, moves off with all his house-hold, &c. in his way to Canaan , he has a vision of the angelick host, by whom he is comforted, &c. but hearing his brother Esau was coming towards him, he sends a very great present before him to pave the way, that he might have a friendly reception, &c. in the mean time an angel appears to him in the common shape of a man, and wrestles with him, touches his thigh, and he grows lame: at his departure, Jacob insists upon his blessing, and then the angel changed his name from Jacob to Israel , at a place from that time called Peniel	I	445
2574	1267	1732	Shechem the son of Hamor , falls in love with Dinah Jacob's daughter, and forces her, to revenge which affront, after having prevailed with Hamor and Shechem , to have themselves and their subjects circumcised, the brothers of Dinah enter the city, and put all the males to the sword, while they were yet sore	I	329
2577	1270	1729	As Jacob (now Israel) was marching towards Ephrath , Rachel fell in labour, and was delivered of her second son (Jacob's twelfth) whose name she called Benoni (or the son of my affliction) and died presently after, and was buried at Ephrath ; she being dead, Jacob changed his name from Benoni into Benjamin , (or the son of my right-hand)	I	447
2578	1271	1728	Jacob shewing a particular fondness for Joseph and Benjamin , the other brothers are so much displeased, that they take Joseph and sell him to some travelling merchants, who carried him into Egypt , and sold him to Potiphar , a principal officer belonging to king Pharaoh	I	448
2588	1281	1718	Sparta the capital of the kingdom of Sparta , built by Spartus , son of Phoroneus king of Argos	I	449
2589	1282	1717	Eratus , tenth king of Sicyon , son of Chalcinia , daughter of Leucippus , eighth king of Sicyon , began to reign and reigned 46 years	II	395
2589	1282	1717	Joseph having been enticed by his mistress, Potiphar's wife (one of Pharaoh king of Egypt's great officers of state) to incontinency, he refuses her, whereupon she accuses him of attempting the crime, she would have persuaded him to, in consequence whereof, he is cast into prison; and there interpreting the dreams of two state prisoners that were under displeasure, is greatly taken notice of, &c.	II	352
2590	1283	1716	Isaac now 180 years old, worn out with labour and age, dies, and his two sons, Esau and Jacob , buried him in the cave of Machpelah , with Abraham his father and Sarah his mother	I	450
2591	1284	1715	Pharaoh , king of Egypt , has two extraordinary dreams, which his magicians or wise men, not being able to interpret, Joseph is sent for, who explained them so amply and satisfactorily, that from that moment he's advanced to be the second man in the kingdom, &c.	I	448
2591	1284	1715	This, and the following six years, make up the seven years of extraordinary plenty that Joseph had foretold would happen, in which he laid up immense stores of provisions, making prodigious magazines all over the kingdom	I	453
2594	1287	1712	Argus succeeds Apis as king of Argos , from whom all Peloponnesus was called Argos , he reigned seventy years	I	453
2596	1289	1710	Pelagius , brother of Niobe , is said to have now founded the kingdom of Arcadia , and to be the first king thereof	II	352
2598	1291	1708	This and the following six years, make up the seven years of dreadful famine, according to Joseph's prediction	II	378
2599	1292	1707	Ten of Joseph's brethren goes out of Canaan into Egypt to buy corn, which he lets them have, but detains Simeon , and charges the others, that when they came again, they should bring Benjamin their other brother with them	I	453
2600	1293	1706	The famine compels Jacob to send his sons again, and with them Benjamin , &c. after some artificial trials of them, Joseph makes himself known to them, sends presents to his father, and invites him and all his household into Egypt	I	454
2601	1294	1705	Upon the arrival of Jacob and his family in Egypt , Joseph acquaints Pharaoh with it, who orders them the land of Goshen to dwell in, this happened in the 130th year of Jacob's age	I	457
2604	1297	1702	Altadus , the tenth king of Affyria , began his reign, and reigned 32 years	I	457
2604	1297	1702	According to the set time appointed by Joseph , he told the Egyptians , the following year the land would be fruitful as in common; that the Nile would overflow and restore all things to its usual course, &c. which accordingly happened	I	865
2607	1300	1699	Chebron , king of Egypt , began to reign, and reigned thirteen years	I	459
2617	1310	1689	Jacob now advanced to the 147th year of his age, growing weak and sickly, sends for his son Joseph , tells him his departure (or death) was at hand, and makes him swear not to bury him in Egypt , but in the cave of Machpelah , in the land of Canaan , &c.	I	230
				I	460

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ	(905)	Vol.	Pag.
2617	1310	1689	Joseph brings his two sons to his father Jacob , now on his death-bed, and desires him to bless them, which he not only does, but adopts them to be his sons instead of grandsons, and makes them the heads of two tribes, &c. — — —	I	460
2617	1310	1689	Jacob , after having given each of his children his particular blessing, and prophetically declaring what would happen to them, dies, and with the utmost funeral pomp and solemnity is carried and interr'd (according to his desire) in the cave of Macpelah . — — —	I	461
2619	2312	1687	Prometheus , the inventor of striking fire, the use of metals, and other arts and sciences among the Greeks . — — —	II	163
2620	1313	1686	Amenophis king of Egypt began to reign, and reigned 21 years. — — —	I	230
2635	1328	1671	Plemneus , 11 king of Sicyon , son of Eratus , succeeds his father, and reigned 48 years. — — —	II	350
2636	1329	1670	Mamitus , king of Affyria , begins to reign, and reigned 30 years. — — —	I	865
2641	1334	1665	Mephres , Amerfu , or Miphris , king of Egypt , began to reign, and reigned 12 years. — — —	I	230
2653	1346	1653	Mispharmutofis , Nisaphris , or Misphragmuthofis , succeeds Mephres as king of Egypt , and reigns 26 years. — — —	I	230
2664	1357	1642	Criafus , son of Argus , succeeds his father as king of Argos , and reigns 54 years. — — —	II	352
2666	1359	1640	Mancaleus succeeds Mamitus as king of Affyria , and reigns 30 years. — — —	I	865
2671	1364	1635	Joseph , being arriv'd to the 110th year of his age, found himself so weakned with the laborious station he had been in, for now near 80 years, that he foresaw his departure was at hand, and sending for his brethren (being divinely inspired) told them, that God would certainly bring their posterity out of Egypt into the land of Canaan , and charged them absolutely not to leave his bones in Egypt , but to take his body with them, and bury it in the spot of ground that Jacob had given him by his last will, and then gave up the ghost, &c. — — —	I	467
2679	1372	1627	Thomofis succeeds Mispharmutofis as king of Egypt , and reigned 9 years. — — —	I	230
2683	1376	1623	Orthopolis , son of Plemneus , succeeds his father as 12th king of Sicyon , and reigned 63 years. — — —	II	350
2688	1381	1618	The famous Coloffus , or groaning statue, called Memnon after the name of him it was made to honour, was now suppos'd to be set up by Amenophis , king of Egypt . — — —	II	316
2688	1381	1618	Amenophis succeeds Thomofis as king of Egypt , and reigns 31 years. — — —	I	230
2696	1389	1610	Spherus succeeds Mancaleus as king of Affyria , and reigns 20 years. — — —	I	865
2716	1409	1590	Mamitus succeeds Spherus as king of Affyria , and reigns 30 years. — — —	I	865
2717	1410	1589	Epidaurus , a famous sea-port in Argos , built (by Apollo or Hercules) — — —	II	396
2718	1411	1588	Phorbas , son of Criafus , succeeds his father as king of Argos , and reigned 35 years — — —	II	352
2719	1412	1587	Horus succeeds Amenophis as king of Egypt , builds the famous city of Memphis , (others say 'twas built by Memes their first king, Vol. I. 176.) and several others, and having reign'd 38 years, dies. — — —	I	230
2725	1418	1581	Miriam born, (sister of Moses) the daughter of Amram , the son of Kobab , grandson of Levi by his wife Jochabed . — — —	I	477
2726	1419	1580	Hæmon , son of Pelafgus , becomes the first king of Theffaly , so called from his son Theffalus . — — —	II	381
2728	1421	1578	Phorbas , son of Lapithas , reign'd at Ophiussa (now Rhodes) having first clear'd the country of serpents. — — —	III	129
2732	1425	1574	Aaron , brother of Miriam and Moses , son of Amram , born. — — —	I	477
2733	1426	1573	Phorab king of Egypt , publishes an edict under the severest penalties, that every Hebrew male child, should be drown'd in the Nile as soon as it was born. — — —	I	477
2735	1428	1571	Moses , brother to Miriam and Aaron , son of Amram is born, and conceal'd three months, after which time, being forced to expose the child in a cradle, or ark of bulrushes to the mercy of the waters, Phorab 's daughter (Thermuthis by name) attended with her maids, coming to the river Nile to bathe, seeing him to be a beautiful child, order'd him to be put to nurse, (through ignorance to his own mother) and as he grew up, caus'd him to be instructed in all the learning of the Egyptians . — — —	I	477
2739	1432	1567	Cydon , king of Crete , began to reign — — —	III	164
2746	1439	1560	Sparetus succeeds Mamitus as king of Affyria , and reigns 40 years. — — —	I	865
2746	1339	1560	Marathus succeeds Orthopolis as 13th king of Sicyon , and reigned 30 Years. — — —	II	350
2749	1442	1557	Cecrops , the first king of Athens , by birth an Egyptian , brought into Attica a colony of Saïts , gathered his people into 12 tribes, dedicated his city to Minerva , and set up the Areopagus , or high court of judicature. He is said to be the first that deified Jupiter , and offered sacrifices to him as the supreme Deity. — — —	II	362
2753	1446	1553	Tripoas succeeds Phorbas as king of Argos , and reigned 46 years. (His son Xanthus first planted or peopled Lesbos , a famous Greek Island. Vol. III. 205) — — —	II	352
2756	1449	1550	Lycæon , son of Pelafgus , reign'd in Arcadia , built Lycosura in Mount Lycæus , instituted the Lycæan Games , where he is said to offer up living Children to Jupiter , &c. — — —	II	378
2757	1450	1549	Acencheres succeeds Horus as king of Egypt , and reigns 12 years — — —	I	230
2759	1452	1547	The Curetes and Corybantes built Cnosus in Crete . (Note w. Vol. II. 298.) — — —	II	299
2760	1453	1546	Scamander from Crete came into Phrygia . (See the Note of this Page.) — — —	II	311
2761	1454	1545	Lesbos , planted by Macar , one of the 7 brethren called Heliadae , that built Falissus in Rhodes . — — —	III	205
2769	1462	1537	Achoris succeeds Acencheres in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 9 years. — — —	I	230
2775	1468	1531	Moses seeing the cruelties us'd towards his countrymen, particularly by the task-masters, one day killed one of them, and buried him in the sand, upon which he was forced to fly into Midian , or Arabia Petraea . — — —	I	479
2775	1468	1531	Moses coming into Midian , (where he is supposed either to have compos'd or purchased the book of Job) Jethro , the priest or prince there, taking a liking to him, gave him Zipporah , one of his daughters to wife, with whom he lived forty years in her father's house, &c. — — —	I	302
2776	1469	1530	Caleb , the son of Jephunneh born, (who was one of the 12 persons Moses sent to view the land of Canaan . — — —	I	526

			(906)	Vol. Pag.
Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ
2776	1469	1530	Marathus succeeds Marathus in the kingdom of Sicyon, and reigns 20 years.	II	350
2778	1471	1528	Cenchres succeeds Achoris in the kingdom of Egypt, and reigns 16 years.	I	230
2785	1478	1521	Erycthon, son of Cecrops, begins building Apollo's Temple at Delus, which was afterwards enlarged and embellished at the common charge of all the states of Greece.	III	228
2788	1481	1518	Deucalion's Flood in Thessaly, (Note N)	I	95
2794	1487	1512	Acherres succeeds Cenchres as king of Egypt, and reigns 8 years.	I	230
2796	1489	1510	Echyreus, or Coronus, succeeds Marathus in the kingdom of Sicyon, and reigns 55 years.	II	350
2799	1492	1507	Cranaus succeeds Cecrops in the kingdom of Athens, and reigns 9 years, (from his Daughter Attis dying a virgin, the country was called Attica.)	II	362
2799	1492	1507	Crotopus succeeds Triopas as king of Argos, and reigns 21 years.	II	352
2801	1494	1505	Apteras, son of Cydon, (by some called the Saturn of Crete) reigns as king in Crete.	III	164
2802	1495	1504	Cherres succeeds Acherres in the kingdom of Egypt, and reigns 15 years.	I	230
2804	1497	1502	Teuter, the son of Scamander, reign'd in Phrygia over that People, from him called Teuceri, afterwards Trojans.	II	311
2808	1501	1498	Amphiſyon, son-in-law to Cranaus, began to reign (having first expelled his father-in-law, who thereupon fled to Eleufis, and reign'd there) and reigned as king of Athens (or Attica) 10 years.	II	362
2812	1505	1494	Cadmus having built a city, and called it Cadmea, and afterwards Thebes, became the king thereof, and reigned 62 Years.	I	409
2815	1508	1491	God appears to Moses in a burning bush upon mount Horeb, which, though visibly all in flames, not a leaf is either burned or scorched, and commands him to return back into Egypt, to do miracles before Pharaoh, and to deliver his people.	I	484
2815	1508	1491	This year the Passover was instituted and kept, and the people thrust out of Egypt.	I	500
2816	1509	1490	In the first six months of this year the tabernacle was set up, and in it the Ark of the Covenant, and the Altar, &c.	I	523
2816	1509	1490	The Decalogue delivered by Moses, &c.	I	514
2816	1509	1490	Aaron and his Sons consecrated and appointed for the performance of the priest's office for ever.	I	523
2816	1509	1490	Nadab and Abihu, Aaron's two eldest sons, struck dead for presuming to burn incense in the tabernacle with strange fire.	I	524
2816	1509	1490	Quails sent to satisfy the people's hunger for 30 days.	I	525
2816	1509	1490	The messengers sent by Moses to view the land, report it, if not impossible, very hard and difficult to conquer, whereupon a general murmuring arose among the people, which so displeased God, that by Moses he assur'd them, that not one above 20 years of age should go into the promis'd land, except Joshua and Caleb.	I	526
2817	1510	1489	Korab, Dathan, and Abiram, three principal persons, rebel against Moses, whose un- dutifulness is rewarded by the earth's bursting asunder and swallowing up them, their families, and substance.	I	530
2817	1510	1489	The Priesthood confirmed to Aaron and his family, by a miraculous budding of Aaron's rod.	I	530
2817	1510	1489	Armais (called by the Greeks Danaus) son of Cherres, succeeded his father in the kingdom of Egypt, and reigned there 5 years.	I	230
2817	1510	1489	Lacedæmon (or Sparta) built by Lacedæmon, son of Jupiter, &c.	II	395
2818	1511	1488	Erichthonius, son of Vulcan, drives out Amphiſyon, and becomes king of Athens in his stead, and reigns 50 years.	II	362
2820	1513	1486	Arcas, the reputed son of Jupiter, succeeds Nyctimus, and calls his kingdom Arcadia.	II	376
2820	1513	1486	Sthenelus, son of Crotopus, succeeds his father in the kingdom of Argos, and reigns 11 years.	II	352
2822	1515	1484	Rameſſes (called by the Greeks Egyptus, from whom the land took its name of Egypt, being before called Aeria, or Actia, from the river called first Æetus, then Egyptus, and now Nile) ejected his brother Armais, and became king of Egypt in his stead, and reigned 68 years.	I	230
2826	1519	1480	Amyntas, king of Assyria, begins to reign, and reigns 45 years.	I	865
2826	1519	1480	Dardanus, son-in-law to Teuter, reigns as king of Troy for 31 years, in which time he builds a capital city called Dardania.	II	311
2831	2524	1475	Gelanor, the son of Sthenelus, after he had reigned some time, yielded up the kingdom of Argos to Danaus, who was come thither from Egypt in a ship of 50 Oars, being the first ship in Greece, where before that time they only used Ratts. Gelanor reigned 59 years.	II	352
2834	2527	1472	Busiris (son of Neptune by Lybya) now exercis'd his cruelty upon strangers.	I	211
2835	1528	1471	Oenotrus, youngest son of Neſtymus, led the first colony out of Greece into Italy, where he reigned as king.	IV	416
2838	2531	1468	Clymenus comes from Crete into Elis, and there held the first Olympick games. (For an Explanation of them see Note K, p. 509. Vol. IV.)	I	264
2844	2537	1462	Tat, son of Trismegistus, son of Hermes, flourish'd.	II	350
2851	2544	1455	Corax, son of Coronus, succeeds to the throne of Sicyon, which he enjoyed 30 years.	II	123
2854	2547	1452	The temple at Delphos burnt by Xerxes.	I	532
2854	1547	1452	Miriam, the sister of Aaron and of Moses, dies.	I	531
2854	1547	1452	The Israelites defeated by Arad, one of the Canaanitish kings.	I	532
2854	1547	1452	Moses smites with his rod, brings water out of a rock to satisfy the thirst and murmuring of the people; but being vex'd, and using some cholerick expressions, God tells him that he and Aaron should only see, but not enter the promis'd land.	I	532
2854	1547	1452	Moses commanded to take Aaron and his son Eleazer to the top of mount Nebo, and in the sight of all the people strip the father of, and clothe the son with, the priestly robes; this done, Aaron died immediately, and was buried so secretly, that the place of his interment was never publickly known.	I	532
2854	1547	1452	Balak, king of Moab, sends for Balaam, son of Beor, a famous prophet or diviner, to curse Israel.	I	288
2855	1548	1451	Moses goes to the top of mount Nebo (having first settled all the publick and private matters relating to him) and from thence views the promis'd land, and presently ex-

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			pired, being 120 years old, and was succeeded by Joshua in the command of the army, and as head of the civil government, Joshua being now 93 years old. —	I	543
2855	1548	1451	Joshua sends two spies to Jericho , who are saved by the artifice of Rahab , to whom they promise safety and protection by an oath; at their return they make an encouraging report, and tell Joshua all they had done. —	I	551
			On the 10th day of Nisan (our 30th April) all Israel passed over the river Jordan into the land of Canaan . —	I	554
			The 11th of the month Nisan the whole camp was circumcised, that ceremony having been omitted for some years past. —	I	554
			The 14th of the month Nisan (our 4th May) the passover was celebrated, which had been now discontinued near 40 years. —	I	555
			Jericho besieged, and by being only gone round with some priests, &c. founding rams horns, the 7th day the whole army making a grand shout in consort, the city walls fall down, and the besiegers enter and put every creature to death, except Rahab . —	I	556
2857	2550	1449	Erichthonius , son of Dardanus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Troy , and reigned 75 years, he is reported to be the richest king of his time. —	II	311
2860	1553	1446	Europa , daughter of Phœnix , (brother of Cadmus) is stole from Sarepta by the Curetes , in their ship called the Bull , and carried to their king Asterius , by whom she had three sons, Minos , Rhadamanthus , and Sarpedon . —	I	408
2861	1554	1445	Joshua , having conquered Canaan , and settled the districts of land each tribe was to have, call'd the heads or governors of Israel together, wish'd them carefully to observe the laws Moses had given them, and particularly caution'd them against idolatry, died in the 110th year of his age, and was buried at Timnath-herah in mount Ephraim , a part of his own inheritance. —	I	738
2868	1561	1438	Pandion , son of Amphictyon , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Athens , and reigned 40 years. —	II	362
2871	1564	1435	Belochus , king of Affyria , begins his reign, and reigned 25 years. —	I	865
2874	1567	1432	Polydorus , son of Cadmus , under his guardian Nycteus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Thebes , and reigns a short time, and leaves the kingdom to his son Labdacus (which he had by Nycteis , daughter of Nycteus) under the guardianship of his grandfather Nycteus . —	I	409
2876	1569	1430	Bacchus son of Jupiter , by Semele daughter of Cadmus , famous for finding out the art of making wine: He built Nysa in India , was reputed a God whilst alive, but was not solemnly deified till 100 years after his death. —	III	372
2881	1574	1425	The burning of Ida . —	II	350
2881	1574	1425	Epopeus succeeds Corax as king of Sicyon , where he reigned 35 years. —	II	352
2881	1574	1425	Lyneus , king of Argos , succeeds Danaus to the crown: He is said to be the only person out of 50 brothers that escaped being murdered by his wife; for his great skill in mining, he is said to see thro' stone walls. —	II	352
2882	1575	1424	King Tereus from Thrace , settled at Daulis above Chæronea . —	II	389
2887	1580	1419	Athens has war with Thebes , in which Tereus having been very serviceable, Pandion king of Athens bestows his daughter Progne upon Tereus , as a reward for his valour, by whom he had a son called Itys . —	I	739
2893	1586	1413	Micah , a great man in the tribe of Ephraim , erects a chappel, puts up images, and encourages idolatry. —	I	742
2896	1589	1410	Cusharishathaim , king of Mesopotamia , subdues and keeps Israel in subjection 8 years. —	I	865
2896	1589	1410	Belleperes , son of Belochus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 30 years. —	II	390
2896	1589	1410	Corinth built by Sisyphus (Son of Æolus ;) its antient name was Ephyra . —	III	166
2899	1592	1407	Minos I. reign'd in Crete , and built Cydonia . —	II	340
2899	1592	1407	Side in Gilicia , built by Orion , which he called by the name of his wife Side , the daughter of Danaus . —	I	740
2900	1593	1406	The inhabitants of Gibbeath in the tribe of Benjamin , having express'd their desires in a brutish manner, to have a Levite delivered to them who happened to be travelling that way, so abus'd the woman that was with him, that she was found dead at the door in the morning; this occasioned a civil war, &c. —	I	135
2900	1593	1406	Cinyras , son of Sandochus , reign'd at Byblus , the first city that was built in Phœnicia . —	I	742
2904	1597	1402	Othniel , the son of Kenna , Caleb's youngest brother, is chose the first judge in Israel , raises an army, and marches against Cusharishathaim , overthrows him, and delivers Israel to their full liberty. —	I	742
2908	1601	1398	Erechtheus , son of Pandion , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Athens , the people whereof till now were called Cecropii , but from henceforward Athenians , and the race of kings from this time Erechthidæ ; he reigned 50 years. —	II	362
2910	1603	1396	The first jubilee among the Jews observed. —	I	614
2912	1605	1394	Cinyras built Old Paphos in Cyprus , and married king Pygmalion's daughter. —	I	402
2914	1607	1392	Labdacus , king of Thebes , killed in a tumult, leaving Laius his son (1 year old) under the guardianship of Nectus his grandfather, who died next year of grief for the loss of his daughter Antiope . —	I	409
2915	1608	1391	Epopeus , king of Sicyon , in the 35th year of his reign received Antiope , then with child and flying from Thebes from her father Nycteus , his brother Lycus in revenge made war against him, in which war Epopeus was killed. —	II	350
2916	1609	1390	Lamedon succeeds his brother Corax in the kingdom of Sicyon , and reigned 40 years. —	II	350
2916	1609	1390	Lycus , brother to Labdacus , succeeds in the guardianship of his nephew Laius king of Thebes , for the space of twenty years, in the first whereof Lamedon his brother delivers up Antiope and her two twin sons, Amphion and Zethus ; Lycus us'd her cruelly, and exposed the twins, but in vain. —	I	409
2922	1615	1384	Phryxus and Helle (from whom the Hellefont had its name) went to Colchis in a ship called the ram. —	II	305
2922	1615	1384	Abas , son of Lyneus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Argos . He built Abæ in Pœcis , from whence came the Abantes in Eubœa , he reigned 23 years. —	II	352

			(908)
Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
2922	1615	1384	Ceres came to Atbens , and both civilized the people and taught them husbandry, being the first that regularly planted corn there, and sent it out by Triptolemus her favourite to be dispersed to other countries.	I	421
2925	1618	1381	Triptolemus plants corn in Raria at Eleufis , for the first time.
2926	1619	1380	The rape of Ganymede .
2926	1619	1380	Lamprides succeeds Bellepares in the kingdom of Affyria , where he reigned 30 years.	I	865
2930	1623	1376	This year is fix'd for the beginning of the 19 Egyptian dynasty of 194 years, in which they began to have kings of their own, the first whereof was Sethos , who reigned 55 years.	I	230
2932	1625	1374	Adonis (the son of Cyniras and his wife Metharme) born, called also Thammuz or Shammuz , and Ofiris .	I	402
2932	1625	1374	Tros , the son of Erichthonius , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Teucris , which from this time forward was called Troy ; he reigned 60 years.	II	311
2936	1629	1370	Amphion and his brother Zeibhus rebels, and in a battle having kill'd Lycus , the guardian of Laius king of Thebes , is set up by the people, and reigned 35 years: He named the metropolis of the kingdom Thebes , which he inclosed with a wall, &c.	II	373
2943	1636	1363	Tantalus , king of Sipylus in Phrygia , before called Meonia , was as famous for his great riches as he was infamous for his notorious wickedness.	II	297
2944	1637	1362	Eglon , king of Moab , &c. invades the eastern parts of Israel , takes Jericho , and obliges them to pay tribute 18 years.	I	291
2945	1638	1361	Prætus , son of Abas , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Argos , and reigns 17 years.	II	352
2956	1649	1350	Sicyon succeeds Lamedon in the kingdom of Sicyon ; from him the city Ægiale was called Sicyon . He reigned forty-five years.	II	350
2958	1651	1348	Sofares succeeds Lamprides as king of Affyria , and reigned 20 years.	I	865
2958	1651	1348	Cecrops II. son of Erechtheus , succeeds his father as king of Athens , and reigns 40 years. It was now agreed that the Erechthidae should be kings, and the Eumolpidae priests.	II	362
2961	1654	1345	Prætus is driven out of his kingdom of Argos (where he had reigned 17 years) by his brother Acrisius , and flies to his wife's father, Jobates king of Lycia , who accommodated the matter, that from this time the kingdom was divided into two parts, the one called Mycenæ , the other by its old name Argos .	II	354
2962	1655	1344	Acrisius , brother of Prætus , is made the first king of Mycenæ , and reigned 31 years.	II	354
2962	1655	1344	Prætus is made king of Argos , as divided, (which contained Midea , Heræum , and Tiryns .) and reigned 14 years.	II	354
2962	1655	1344	Ebud , the son of Gera , a Benjamite , and famous for his left-hand dexterity, is chose second judge or principal governor in Israel ; he going with the annual present or tribute, gets accession to Eglon king of Moab , privately stabs him, makes his escape, raises an army, and frees his country, and under him Israel enjoyed peace 40 years.	I	742
2974	1667	1332	Amphion king of Thebes , his family, and multitudes of the people, died of the great plague that at this time raged there.	II	373
2975	1668	1331	Laius , son of Labdacus , succeeds Amphion (who had invaded his right) in the kingdom of Thebes , and reigned 55 years.	I	409
2975	1668	1331	The city of Ilion , or Ilium , built by Tros king of Troy , who also called this city Troy after his own name, and Ilium from his son Ilus ; it was seated on a rising ground near mount Ida , about 5 miles from the shore.	II	305
2976	1669	1330	Janus , or Saturnus Albanus , becomes the first king of the Aborigines in Italy , who reigned 33 years.	II	261
2976	1669	1330	Bacchus deified, and Pentheus the son of Echriion was torn in pieces by his mother and sisters for profaning his rites.	III	372
2976	1669	1330	Prætus king of Argos died.	II	354
2977	1670	1329	Acrisius , king of Mycenæ , sets up the court of the Amphictyons , or general court of Greece , at Delphos , and endowed them with very great powers and privileges.	II	388
2977	1670	1329	Megapenthes , son of Prætus , who was king at Tiryn , changes it for Argos , where his sons Argæus and Anaxagoras reigned after him, and with him in two thirds of the kingdom. Melampus , son of Amythaon and brother of Bias .	II	354
2978	1671	1328	Lampares succeeds Sofares in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 30 years.	I	865
2978	1671	1328	The city of Crete built. (See Note K)	III	164
2984	1677	1322	Pelops , son of Tantalus , a little king in Phrygia , failing in an attempt upon Ilium , fled into Greece , and being wise, valiant, and rich, acquired the greatest part of the country which was afterwards (from him) called Peloponnesus .	I	407
2985	1678	1321	Ramses succeeds Sethos in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 66 years.	I	230
2986	1679	1320	Shamgar , the son of Anath , was the third judge among the Israelites ; he is said to have slain 600 Philistines with an ox-goad.	I	742
2992	1685	1314	Perseus , son of Acrisius , killed his father, king of Mycenæ , and changed Argos with Megapenthes for Tiryns . He built the city of Mycenæ for his seat, and reigned 32 years.	II	355
2992	1685	1314	Ilus , the son of Tros , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Troy , where he reigned 54 years.	II	311
2992	1685	1314	Apollo and his mother Latona are said to come from Hyperborei to Delphi ; Olen Hyperboreus was his first prophet there.	III	228
2998	1691	1308	Pandion II. succeeded Cecrops as king of Athens , and reigned 25 years: In this king's reign the sacrifice of man's flesh and Lycea were shewn (perhaps revived) in Arcadia .	II	362
2999	1692	1307	In memory of king Oenomaus , whom he had driven out of Pisa , Pelops held his Olympic , which by his son Atræus was revived 100 years after.	II	406
3001	1624	1305	Polybius succeeds Sicyon in the kingdom of Sicyon , and reigned 40 years.	II	350
3001	1694	1305	Jabin , king of Hazor , conquers Israel , and sorely harrasses them for twenty years, &c.	I	335
3005	1698	1301	The 11 th lustration at Athens .	IV	457
3008	1701	1298	Panyas succeeds Lampares in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigned 45 years.	I	865

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3009	1702	1297	Cyzicus of Cyzicum , built; this city was the capital of an island of the Propontis of the same name, which Alexander the Great join'd to the continent by two great bridges.	II	323
3009	1702	1297	Picus or Jupiter Albanus , the second king of the Aborigines , began to reign, and reigned 37 years.	II	261
3010	1703	1296	Melanthus , partner with Megapenthes in the kingdom of Argos , dies.	II	354
3012	1705	1294	Marsyas , liv'd at Celæne , a city in Phrygia Major ; he invented the bagpipe, with which he challeng'd Apollo , and for his insolence was slay'd.	II	292
3012	1705	1294	Oedipus , the son of Laius king of Thebes born, and expos'd on mount Cithæron , and found by the shepherd's of the king of Sicyon , and by him brought up.	II	374
3012	1705	1294	Bias , brother of Megapenthes , and one of his partners in the kingdom of Troy , dies. (Note D)	II	382
3018	1711	1288	Miletus built by Sarpedon .	II	756
3021	1714	1285	Deborah , a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth , raises an army of 10,000 Israelites , with which Barak her general engages and conquers Sijera , Jabin's general, who in his flight goes to the tent of Heber , where was Jael , Heber's wife, who gave him refreshment, and he being wearied lay down to sleep, at which time Jael drove a large nail into his temples, and so killed him. This victory obtain'd Israel a forty years peace.	I	336
3023	1716	1283	Ægeus , the son of Pandion , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Athens , and reigns 48 years.	II	362
3025	1718	1281	Orpheus , Museus , and Linus flourish'd; the last of the three was the master of Hercules .	II	384
3025	1718	1281	The three brothers Electro , Mestor , and Sthenelus , reign as kings of Mycenæ in common.	II	355
3028	1721	1278	Eupilamus invented the anchor.
3030	1723	1276	Laius , king of Thebes , going to the oracle at Delphos to enquire after his son, is killed by his son Oedipus ignorantly, who was also come thither to enquire who was his father, &c.	II	374
3030	1723	1276	Creon , brother of Jocasta the wife of Laius , succeeds his brother-in-law in the kingdom of Thebes , and reigns about ten years.	II	373
3031	1724	1275	Mestor , one of the three kings of Mycenæ , dies.	II	355
3032	1725	1274	Electro , another of the three kings of Mycenæ , dies.	II	355
3032	1725	1274	Hercules , the son of Amphytrion , born; said to be the son of Jupiter by Alcmena , wife of Amphytrion . (Note H)	II	355
3032	1725	1274	Sthenelus becomes king of Mycenæ alone, his two brothers Mestor and Electro being dead, who were partners with him in the kingdom, and reigned alone 8 years.	II	355
3036	1729	1270	Androgeus , the son of king Minos , kill'd at Athens , as it was thought, by the procurement of king Ægeus , upon which follow'd war, plague, and famine: The oracle being consulted, bid the Athenians satisfy king Minos for his son; he demanded, that every 8th year, at his Ludi held in memory of his son, there should be sent him 7 young men and 7 virgins, to be given as rewards to the victors at these sports.	II	364
3037	1730	1269	The first colony of the Aborigines goes out of Italy into Sicily five years before the last Colony.	IV	414
3039	1732	1267	Jason and his Argonauts went now from Iolchus over the Euxine sea to Colchis , in search of the golden fleece, from whence this is called the Argonautic expedition.	II	383
3040	1733	1266	Atræus and his brother Thyestes (sons of Pelops) reign'd in Mycenæ 65 years.	II	355
3040	1733	1266	Oedipus married his mother Jocasta , at that time not knowing she was his mother, and became king of Thebes .	II	355
3042	1735	1264	The second colony goes out of Italy into Sicily , called the Ligures , or Siculi , from their leader Siculus .	IV	416
3042	1735	1264	Meleagar killed the Calydonian boar.	II	410
3043	1736	1263	The first Pythia , or games in honour of Apollo for his killing the serpent Python , were now held by Adrastrus .	II	382
3046	1739	1260	Faunus , or Mercurius Albanus , 3d king of the Aborigines , begins to reign, and reigned 44 years.	IV	414
3046	1739	1260	Laomedon succeeds Ilus in the kingdom of Troy , and reigned 36 years.	II	315
3051	1744	1255	Amenophis succeeds Ramses in the kingdom of Egypt , and reign'd 40 years.	I	230
3053	1746	1253	Sofarnes succeeds Panyas in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigned 19 years.	I	865
3054	1747	1252	The first tribute-children sent to Crete .	II	364
3054	1447	1252	Tyre built; the metropolis of Phœnicia , formerly called Sor , and commonly the daughter of Sidon .	I	393
3061	1754	1245	Zebab and Zalmunnab , two confederate kings of Midian , waged so cruel a war against the Israelites that they were not able to stand against them, but forced to fly into holes and corners, &c. this continued seven years.	I	743
3062	1755	1244	The second tribute of children sent to Crete .	II	364
3062	1755	1244	The Arcadians enter Italy , and settle there.	IV	414
3068	1761	1238	God raised up Gideon , who by stratagem frightned and discomfited the host of the confederate princes with the slaughter of 120,000 men, and many prisoners, particularly the two kings, Zebab and Zalmunnab , who were by him put to death; took immense spoil, and delivered Israel by destroying four kings, &c. so that they had peace 40 years, that is, all the remainder of Gideon's government.	I	743
3070	1763	1236	At the third sending of the Athenian children to Minos king of Crete , Theseus , son of Ægeus king of Athens , went to fight the champion that Minos had appointed, called Minotaur , whom Theseus killed, by the help of Ariadne's daughter of Minos , and brought her away with him to Athens .	III	167
3071	1764	1235	Theseus , son of Ægeus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Thebes , and reigned 30 years; this first year was called the year of Theseus and the Minotaur .	I	409
3072	1765	1234	Carthage , a capital city of Africa , built by Elisa , called also Dido , sister of Pygmalion king of Tyre .	I	415

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3072	1765	1234	Mitrus succeeds Sofarmes in the kingdom of Assyria, and reigns 21 years.	I	865
3072	1765	1234	The Pan-asbenaica and Iphimia revived by Theseus.	II	391
3076	1769	1230	Hercules having killed Augeas, held an Olympick Agon at Elis.	II	401
2078	1771	1228	Oedipus is turn'd out of the kingdom of Thebes, and his son Oeteocles and his brother Polynices reign jointly in his stead.	II	374
3080	1773	1226	The Nemea instituted by Adrastus, &c. sacred to Jupiter and Hercules.	II	251
3081	1774	1225	Oeteocles and Polynices die, and Creon (as guardian of Laodamas, son of Oeteocles,) governs the kingdom of Thebes.	I	409
3081	1774	1225	The Theban War.	II	488
3082	1775	1224	Priamus (also called Podaces) the son of Laomedon, succeeds his father in the kingdom of Troy, and reigned 40 years.	II	411
3083	1776	1223	Phaestus, the son of Hercules, succeeds Janiscus in the kingdom of Sicyon; he reigned 8 years and went to Crete.	II	350
3084	1777	1222	Hercules (held his Olympic for Pelops) kills himself, by jumping into the Flames of a great fire, he had made upon mount Oeta.	I	401
3090	1783	1216	Latinus, the son of Faunus, succeeds his father as king of the Aborigines, and reigns 36 years: Some say he was the son of Hercules by a daughter of Faunus.	II	261
3091	1784	1215	Epigoni, having killed Laodamas king of Thebes, gave the kingdom to Thersander son of Polynices.	I	409
3091	1784	1215	Adrastus left the kingdom of Argos to his son Egialeus, and went himself to Sicyon.	II	352
3091	1784	1215	Ammenemes succeeds Amenophes in the kingdom of Egypt, and reigns 26 years.	I	230
3091	1784	1215	Adrastus (coming from Troy) succeeds Phebus in the kingdom of Sicyon (who was gone to Crete) and reigned 4 years.	II	350
3093	1786	1213	The Amazonian War.	II	366
3095	1788	1211	Polyphides succeeds Adrastus in the kingdom of Sicyon, and reigns 31 years.	II	350
3098	1791	1208	Eurytheus, king of Mycenæ, and five of his sons, killed in battle with Theseus king of Athens.	II	365
3098	1791	1208	Atreus succeeds Eurytheus in the kingdom of Mycenæ, and reigns 6 years.	II	352
3099	1792	1207	Tautanes succeeds Mitrus in the kingdom of Assyria, and reigned 32 years.	I	865
3100	1793	1206	Herephile (called also Sibylla Troica) priestess of Apollo Smintheus, lived about this time	V	79
3101	1794	1205	Menestheus succeeds Theseus in the kingdom of Athens, and reigns 23 years.	II	362
3104	1797	1202	Hercules and Æsculapius deified.	III	212
3105	1798	1201	Agamemnon, son of Atreus, becomes king of Mycenæ, and reigns 18 years.	II	352
3107	1800	1199	Eli made high priest, though of the house of Ithamar.	I	754
3107	1800	1199	Abimelech, Gideon's bastard-son, sets himself up for a judge or king in Shechem, and puts his father's 70 sons to death.	I	749
3108	1801	1198	After Gideon's death, Israel fell to worship Baal-berith, the God of Berith.	I	749
3108	1801	1198	The Rape of Helen by Paris, which occasioned the famous ten years Trojan war, and the destruction of Troy.	II	366
3110	1803	1196	The Shechemites revolt from Abimelech's government, he conquers them, and burns 1000 persons in the temple of Baal-berith, whither they flew for safety, then razed the tower and city. Thebez, a city of Judah, had also revolted, whither he went and besieged it; but a woman, by throwing a great stone upon him, wounded him so sorely, that he commanded Zebul his servant to kill him: Tholar the son of Phuah, the son of Doda, of the tribe of Issachar, succeeds Abimelech, who reigned 23 years as judge of north and east Israel.	I	749
3112	1805	1194	Laodamas, king of Thebes, went to Aulis to meet the Greek princes going against Troy.	II	371
3113	1806	1193	The Trojan war began with the Greeks.	II	318
3113	1806	1193	King Laodamas of Thebes is killed by Telephus king of Mysia, where the Greeks by mistake first landed.	II	319
3113	1806	1193	Theseus king of Athens goes with Agamemnon to the siege of Troy, and dies in his return after it was ended, at Melos.	II	320
3113	1808	1193	Tisamenus becomes king of Thebes.	I	409
3117	1810	1189	Thuoeres began to reign in Egypt, and reigned 7 years.	I	865
3118	1811	1188	Castor and Pollux deified.	II	402
3121	1814	1185	Penelopeus Spartus, guardian of Tisamenus king of Thebes, killed in the Trojan war by Eurypylus. Tisamenus had a son called Autestion, who after his father's death, by the direction of the oracle, went to the Herafide in Doris, and left his kingdom to Damafichthon, son of Opheltas and grandson of Penelopeus; next after Damafichthon reigned Ptolemeus, last of all reigned Xanthus.	I	409
3122	1815	1184	At night between the 23d and 24th of Thargelion, viz. between the 11th and 12th of June, after midnight, the Greeks entered and took Troy, when king Priam and all his children (except two or three that were made captives) were killed; thus Troy was taken 408 years before the first Olympiad.	II	321
3122	1815	1184	Æneas enters into Thrace.	II	322
3123	1816	1183	Æneas goes from Thrace into Sicily.	II	322
3123	1816	1183	Agamemnon killed by Ægisthus, who reigned at Mycenæ.	II	357
3123	1816	1183	Cynipus dies, by means whereof all Argos comes to Cyllabarus, son of Sthenes.	II	352
3124	1817	1182	The 20th Egyptian dynasty begins, being the 3d of the Diospolites for 178 years; Diospolis was Thebes, and there king Polybus and his wife Alcandra are said to have entertained Menelaus and Helen.	I	230
3124	1817	1182	Demophon, son of Theseus, succeeded his father in the kingdom of Athens, and in his return from the siege of Troy, he was cast on the coast of Thrace: Queen Phillis received him kindly, but having got his kingdom, he neglected her, upon which she strangled herself. He reigned 33 years.	II	362
2124	1817	1182	Æneas, with 22 ships and 600 men, goes from Sicily to Laurentum, king Latinus being at war with the Ardeans, begg'd his assistance, which being granted, he gave him 500 acres of land to settle in.	IV	419

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Pag.
3125	1818	1181	Latinus is killed in the war against the Rutuli , by king Turnus .	IV	419
3125	1818	1181	Aeneas succeeds Latinus as king of the Latins , marries Lavinia the daughter of Latinus , and calls the city which he had now finish'd after her name Lavinium , and then reigns by her right.	IV	419
3126	1819	1180	Pelagus becomes king of Sicyon , and reigns 20 years.	II	350
3128	1821	1178	Anchises , father of Aeneas , dies.	IV	420
3129	1822	1177	Aeneas , king of the Latins dies, and is succeeded by his son Arctanius , who reigned 38 years in Latium .	IV	420
3130	1823	1176	Ægisthus king of Mycenæ , and his wife Clytemnestra , killed by Orestes , son of Agamemnon , who reigned 15 years.	II	357
3130	1823	1176	Orestes having lost his wife Hermione , daughter of Menelaus , (who in his return from Troy took her with him to Sparta) runs mad.	II	357
3131	1824	1175	Tanteus , or Teuteus , succeeds Tautanes in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 40 years.	I	869
3131	1824	1175	Orestes being cured of his madness, went to Athens to be tried for the murder of Ægisthus and Clytemnestra , and was acquitted by the vote of Minerva .	II	403
3131	1824	1175	While Orestes was gone to Athens to take his trial, Aletes , the son of Ægisthus , set himself up for king of Mycenæ , for which Orestes kills him. Soon after he got Argos , Cyllabarus being dead without heir.	II	403
3131	1824	1175	Jesse , (the son of Obed) the father of king David , born.
3133	1826	1173	Thola dies, and is succeeded by Jair , who judged north and east Israel 22 years; a man of vast possessions, having 30 cities, which he gave to his 30 sons.	I	750
3135	1828	1171	During this time the Israelites were in bondage to the Ammonites for 18 years.	I	750
3135	1828	1171	Eli now judged south and west Israel 40 years, during which time they were oppressed by the Philistines .	I	754
3135	1828	1171	Aeneas was worshipped under the name of Jupiter Indiges , by the Latins .	IV	420
3135	1828	1171	Sampson born. In this year the 18 years oppression of north and east Israel by the Ammonites began, and the 40 years of south and west Israel by the Philistines .	I	755
3141	1834	1165	Hophni and Phineas , the two sons of Eli the high priest, and judge of south and west Israel , make the people, by their extraordinary wickedness, forsake and abhor the worship of God.	I	755
3142	1835	1164	Pyrrhus is killed at Delphi , and so Orestes recovers his wife Hermione .	III	799
3143	1836	1163	Tifamenes , the son of Orestes , by his father's consent reigns as king at Mycenæ , and afterwards he gave him Argos also.	II	352
3143	1836	1163	Menelaus dies, his natural sons set up at Lacedæmon , but were dispossessed by Orestes , who drove them out and reign'd in right of his wife.	II	400
3146	1839	1160	Zeuxippus succeeds Pelagus in the kingdom of Sicyon , and reigned 32 years. With him died the kingly government, it being upon his demise changed into the government of the priests of Apollo Carneus .	II	35
3149	1842	1157	Jephtha , in a quarrel with the tribe of Benjamin , cut off 42,000 of their men.	I	753
3152	1845	1154	Cleodæus , the son of Hyllus , kill'd in the third attempt of the Heraclidae to get Peloponnesus .
3153	1846	1153	Alba Longa , built by Ascanius , the son of Aeneas king of Lavinium , which he made the capital of his dominions, and his chief residence the last 12 of his 38 years reign.	IV	421
3154	1847	1152	God rais'd up Sampson , who judged south and west Israel 20 years, &c. in partnership with Eli .	I	754
3154	1847	1152	Jephtha , the bastard-son of Gilead , quarrelling with the Ammonites about some of his land, assembles an army, goes against and overcomes the Ammonites , and with a prodigious spoil regains his country's liberty: Upon his return his daughter goes out to meet and congratulate him, for which she is sacrific'd, in performance of a vow he had rashly made before the battle. He judged north and east Israel 6 years.	I	751
3157	1850	1149	Oxyntes , the son of Demophon , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Athens , and reigns 12 years.	II	362
3158	1851	1148	The Temple of Diana at Ephesus , the most magnificent structure in the world, burnt by Erostratus .	II	753
3159	1852	1147	Jephtha dies, and is succeeded by Ibzan as judge of north and east Israel , who continued in that station 7 years.	I	753
3164	1857	1142	The first Agon of the Lyceæ held on the top of mount Lyceus , the Arcadian Olympus : The victors were rewarded with brazen arms.
3166	1859	1140	Sylvius Posthumus succeeds his grand father Aeneas as king of Latium , and reigned 29 years: From him the kings of his race were called Silvii , upon account of his mother Lavinia retiring into a wood to grieve for his father Aeneas , during which time he was born there. Now the Latins and Albans join'd both their Dominions into one kingdom.	IV	421
3166	1859	1140	Elon succeeds Ibzan , and judged North and East Israel 10 years.	I	753
3169	1862	1137	Aphidas , son of Oxyntes , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Athens , and reigns but one year, being killed by Thymetes , his bastard brother.	II	362
3170	1863	1136	Thymetes , the bastard son of Oxyntes , succeeds Aphidas in the kingdom of Athens , and reigned 8 years, and was the last of the Erethidae .	II	362
3171	1864	1135	Samuel becomes known to all Israel as a prophet, by foretelling Eli the high priest's death: He was a second Moses for 40 years, in all extraordinary cases, over Israel , and probably now over south and west Israel in all ordinary cases.	I	756
3171	1864	1135	Thinæus succeeds Tanteus in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 30 years.	I	865
3174	1867	1132	Sampson pulls down the temple of Dagon at Gaza , and destroys both himself and a vast number of Philistines by the fall thereof.	I	349
3174	1867	1132	The Israelites engage the Philistines , and lose 30,000 men, and the ark at Shiloh , which was carried by the Philistines to Ashdod .	I	756
3174	1867	1132	Eli the high priest, being now 98 years of age, hearing of the ark being taken, falls backwards in a swoon, breaks his neck and dies, upon which Samuel succeeds him as judge of south and west Israel , and Ahitub as high priest.	I	756

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3175	1868	1131	The Philistines send back the ark with presents; upon its coming to Bethshemesh , the people's curiosity prompts them to look into it, for which 50370 is said to be struck dead; from thence it was carried to Kiriath Jearim , and lodged in the house of Abinadab , where it continued 20 years.	I	757
3176	1169	1130	Abdon succeeds Elon in the judges seat of north and east Israel , and sat therein 8 years.	I	753
3177	1870	1129	Melantbus king of Athens kills Xanthus king of Thebes in a duel, and upon the death of Xanthus the kingdom of Thebes devolves into a democracy.	II	375
3178	1871	1128	Melantbus drove Thymetes out of the kingdom of Athens , and reigned there 37 years.	II	362
3178	1871	1128	Archelaus , priest of Apollo Carneus , reigns as chief magistrate in Athens one year.	II	350
3179	1872	1127	Automedon succeeds Archelaus in the magistracy of Athens for one year.	II	350
3180	1873	1126	Pheoclytus succeeds Automedon in the magistracy of Athens , and holds it four years.	II	350
3181	1874	1125	Pentbilus , base son of Orestes , reigned 22 years in Mycenæ .	II	357
3182	1875	1124	The Bæoti being driven out of Arne by the Theffali , went to live in Cadmei , which they called Bæotia after their own name.	II	370
3182	1875	1124	The Æolian migration under Pentbilus from Aulis , the famous sea port in Bæotia , where the Grecian chiefs met and swore the destruction of Troy .	II	371
3184	1877	1122	Euneus , priest of Apollo Carneus , is made chief magistrate of Athens , in which station he continued 6 years.	II	350
3184	1877	1122	Abdon dies, upon which, 'tis supposed, Samuel become judge over north and east as well as south and west Israel , in all cases, both ordinary and extraordinary.	I	753
3190	1883	1116	Theonimus succeeds Euneus in the magistracy of Athens , and holds it nine years.	II	350
3195	1888	1111	Æneus Sylvius succeeds his father Sylvius Posthumus in the kingdom of Latium , and reigned 31 years.	IV	421
3195	1888	1111	By Samuel's prayers, sacrifices, and encouragement, the Israelites engage the Philistines at Mizpeh , and obtain a complete victory, by which they are delivered from the yoke of bondage they had long groan'd under, and a stone called Ebenezer set up in memory thereof.	I	757
3199	1892	1107	Amphigyes succeeds Theonimus as chief magistrate of Athens , and holds it 18 years.	II	350
3200	1893	1106	Orestes dies at Tegea , Ægyptus being then king of Messenia .	I	865
3201	1894	1105	Dercilus succeeds Thineus in the kingdom of Assyria , and reigns 40 years.	II	359
3201	1894	1105	Ariomachus , son of Cleodæus of the Heracidae , asking the oracle the way of entering into Peloponnesus , was answered, by the Straights , which he interpreting to be the Isthmus , was slain in the attempt; his sons Temenus , Cresphontes , and Aristodemus , enquiring again, was answer'd, by the streights of the sea; and then they built ships at Naupactas , formerly Ætolia in Elis .	II	359
3201	1894	1105	Carnia were now instituted to Apollo , upon Hippote's killing a prophet of Apollo Carneus , which was followed by a plague, and he banish'd for 10 years.	II	359
3202	1895	1104	The Heracidae (or descendants from Hercules) returns after two years, and outs the Pelopidae .	II	359
3202	1895	1104	Temenus , &c. having finish'd their ships, they passed the Straights , and landed at Rhium Promontory , where meeting with Oxylus , king of Ætolia , he became their guide and commander, and in a short time made themselves masters of Peloponnesus .	II	359
3204	1897	1102	Eurysthenes and Procles , sons of Aristodemus , reigned jointly at Lacedæmon .	II	360
3204	1897	1102	Now the Heracidae shar'd the country by lot thus; Temenus had Argos and Mycenæ Cresphontes , Messenia , and the sons of Aristodemus , Lacedæmon .	II	360
3211	1904	1095	Oxylus would have had Elis , but is refus'd.	I	758
3211	1904	1095	Samuel sacrifices as high priest of the Jews .	I	758
3211	1904	1095	Saul the son of Kish , of the tribe of Benjamin , anointed by Samuel the first king in Israel , over whom he reigned 40 years.	I	759
3211	1904	1095	This year Nabash , king of the Ammonites , besieged Jabesh Gilead ; the people desirous to capitulate, are answered they must consent to have each man his right eye put out; they send word to Saul , who comes with a great army and relieves them.	I	760
3212	1905	1094	Jonathan , son of king Saul , surprizes and defeats the Philistines at Geba .	I	761
3213	1906	1093	Saul , by the fearfulness of the people, was reduced so low, that not a smith was to be found in Israel ; he assumes the priests office, for which Samuel foretells the loss of his kingdom to his family.	I	762
3213	1906	1093	Abia officiates as high priest of the Jews .	I	762
3215	1908	1091	Codrus , son of Melantbus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Athens , and reigns 21 years, in which time the Iones being driven out of their country, come to Athens , are kindly received, and allowed to settle there.	II	362
3216	1609	1090	Abiathar , the son of Abimelech , born.	II	350
3217	1910	1089	Charidemus held the magistracy one year in Sicyon , then Phalces took the city, and made it a part of Argos , and from this time the Sicyonians were called Dorians .	II	350
3218	1911	1088	The Æoles , consisting of a mixture of Achæi and others, brought by Pentbilus into Thrace in 1124, now under his youngest son Archelaus move out of Thrace into Asia , and fix'd themselves about Discyleum in Cyzicena , and as far as the river Granicus .	II	323
3218	1911	1088	Another colony of the Æolians , under Cometes son of Tisamenes , and Clenas son of Doras , both descendants of Agamemnon , planted themselves about mount Phricus in Locris .	II	763
3221	1914	1085	David , the son of Jesse born, who afterwards became king of Israel and Judah .	II	303
3227	1920	1079	In the 27th year of Dercilus , king of Assyria , the Amazons and Cimmerians make an incursion into Asia together.	II	303

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3232	1925	1074	Aletes , son of Hippotes and grandson of Hercules , expels the race of Sisyphus from the government of Corinth , and becomes king of Corinth , and reigned there 38 years: From him his descendants called themselves Heraclidae .	II	392
3233	1925	1074	Erefus in Pityusa , built by the Phœnicians .	VII	308
3235	1928	1071	Zadock , son of Abitub heir of Eleazer , born.	I	791
3236	1929	1070	Codrus , king of Athens , falling a voluntary victim for his country in the war with the Peloponnesians , the people abolish kings and choose archons for life.	II	362
3236	1929	1070	Medon , son of Codrus , is chose first archon of Athens , and continued in that station 20 years.	II	362
3236	1929	1070	After the death of Codrus was the great remove out of Athens , under his son Nileus , of the Iones , together with the other sons of Codrus : Nileus settled at Miletus , and liv'd and died there.	II	369
3237	1930	1069	Syndus , Jalyssus , and Camirus , in the island of Rhodes , built by Altbemenes son of Cliffus .	III	129
3238	1931	1068	Miletus built by the Iones , in the Lesser Asia .	II	369
3241	1934	1065	Eupates succeeds Dercilus in the kingdom of Affyria , where he reigns 38 years.	I	865
3243	1936	1063	Saul having destroy'd the Amalekites deceitfully, is rejected by God, and Samuel ordered to anoint David , the youngest son of Jesse , to be his successor.	I	763
3243	1936	1063	David engages and kills Goliath , upon which the Israelites falls upon, overthrows and quells the Philistines , with a great slaughter.	I	764
3244	1937	1062	Saul grows melancholy through vexation, is relieved by David's musical performances, but at last endeavours to kill David , upon which he flies to the deserts of Juda .	I	765
3246	1939	1060	Mephibosheth , the son of Jonathan born.	I	778
3246	1939	1060	Abia dies, and his brother Abimelech is high priest, whom Saul in a fury, for having succour'd David at Nob , kills, with all his family, except his son Abiathar , who saved himself by flying to David , and afterwards succeeded his father as high priest.	I	767
3246	1939	1060	Procles having adopted Sous for his son, who reigned (likewise in partnership in the kingdom of Lacedæmon , which had now two kings) after Procles's death 32 years.	II	938
3247	1940	1059	In the the reign of king Agis was the third remove of the Æoles , under Grays the youngest son of Echelatus , they possessed themselves of all the country between Ionian and the Mys , now called Æolis .	II	288
3247	1940	1059	Euristhenes dies, and his son Agis succeeds him in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , but reign'd only one year: From him the descendants of Euristhenes were called Agidae . The Helote rebelled against him upon account of tax he imposed on them, for which he reduced them into a state of perpetual villenage.	II	400
3248	1941	1058	Echestrates , son of Agis , succeeds his father as partner in the kingdom of Lacedæmon , which he held for the space of 35 years.	II	400
3248	1941	1058	The prophet Samuel dies.	I	768
3249	1942	1057	The Iones distributed themselves to make other plantations.	II	763
3249	1942	1057	Myus and Priene built, by Nileus , &c. Codrus's son.	II	369
3250	1943	1056	David flies to Ziklag to avoid Saul's fury, from whence he makes frequent excursions against the enemies of Israel , and totally destroys men, women, and children.	I	769
3251	1944	1055	Ziklag plunder'd and burnt by the Amalekites ; David pursues after the Amalekites , slew their army, and brought back the spoil.	I	770
3251	1944	1055	King Achish goes against Israel , upon which Saul (being terrify'd) goes to consult the witch of Endor .	I	770
3251	1944	1055	King Achish engages Saul upon mount Gilboa , where he and his three eldest sons are slain.	I	772
3251	1944	1055	Upon Saul's death the 12 tribes divide, and Judah receives David , and the other tribes set up Ishbosheth , Saul's only son that was living, and they reign together 7 years and 6 months.	I	773
3252	1945	1054	Grays passes over with the greatest part of his army into the isle of Lesbos .	II	305
3252	1945	1054	Mytilene in Lesbos built.	III	204
3253	1946	1053	Magnesia (at mount Sippylus) planted.	II	381
3253	1946	1053	War begun between Joab and Abner .	I	773
3254	1947	1052	Cumæ in Italy built by Hippocles and Megasthenes .	II	606
3256	1949	1050	Acastus , son of Medon , declared archon of Athens , which he enjoyed 36 years.	II	362
3257	1950	1049	Androclus , son of Codrus , led his great colony to Ephesus , where having drove out the Leleges and Lydi , he added it to Samos and other neighbouring isles: The Samiens flying from Samos planted themselves in Dardania , and called it Samo-Tbrace .	III	237
3258	1951	1048	Ishbosheth being murdered by Baana and Rechab , as he lay on his bed they cut off his head, and carry'd it to David , who having ordered them to be put to death, becomes king over all Israel .	I	774
3258	1951	1048	Joab kills Abner treacherously.	I	774
3261	1954	1045	Hadar-Exer , king of Zobab , so totally twice routed by David's army, under the command of Joab , that his very kingdom was dissolved.	I	382
3261	1954	1045	The ark brought up from Keriat-Jearim , first to the house of Obed-Edom , where it staid three months, and then was placed in Sion , upon which occasion David compos'd the 68th psalm.	I	775
3262	1955	1044	The first meeting of the cities or states at the Pan-Ionia , or common council of the Ionian colonies, held at mount Mycæ .	III	189
3262	1955	1044	Toi king of Hamath sends his son with great Presents to David king of Israel .	I	391
3263	1956	1043	Hiram , with his father Abiblus , reign in Tyre together 19 years.	I	774
3263	1956	1043	Abimaaz , son of Zadock heir of Eleazer , born.
3266	1959	1040	Edom subdued by Joab , David's general	I	314

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3268	1961	1038	Nabash , king of the Ammonites dies, and war is made with his son and successor Hanun , for shamefully treating David's ambassadors, &c. ———	I	778
3270	1963	1036	Ixion succeeds Altes in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigned there 38 years. ———	II	390
3271	1964	1035	Rabba , the metropolis of the Ammonites , besieged and taken, where Uriab , the husband of Bathsheba was slain. ———	I	779
3272	1965	1034	David reproved by Nathan for taking Uriab , the Hittite's wife, being sensibly smote with the heinousness of his crime, in a very penitential mood composes the 51st psalm. ———	I	779
3273	1966	1033	Solomon is born to David by his wife Bathsheba . ———	I	780
3276	1969	1030	Ammon killed by the command of his brother Absalom , for having deflowered his sister Thamar two years before. ———	I	781
3277	1970	1029	Latinus dies, and his succeeded in the kingdom of Albany (or Latium) by his son Alba , who reigned 39 years. ———	IV	421
3278	1971	1028	Eurypon , son of Sous , upon the death of his father succeeds him in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , which he held seven years: From him the descendants of Procles were call'd Euryponidae . ———	II	400
3279	1972	1027	Laosphenes succeeds Eupales in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 45 years. ———	I	805
3279	1972	1327	Absalom after three years returns to Jerusalem from Geshur , whither he flew upon his killing his brother Ammon , having been protected by his grandfather Talmai king of Geshur , and lived two years privately. ———	I	391
3281	1974	1025	Absalom being restored to favour, conspires against his father David . ———	I	783
3182	1975	1024	Abiblus , joint king of Tyre dies, and Hiram his son reigned alone 34 years, was great with David and Solomon . ———	I	783
3283	1976	1023	Absalom having collected an army, breaks out into open rebellion against his father king David , and is defeated and slain by Joab . ———	I	786
3283	1976	1023	Echelestratus dies, and is succeeded by his son Labotas in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , which he enjoyed 37 years. In his reign the Lacedæmonians first declared war against the Greeks . ———	II	400
3284	1977	1022	Amasa , king David's general, killed treacherously by Joab ; and Sheba , who was in open rebellion, beheaded by the people of Abel , and his head thrown over the wall of the city to Joab , who thereupon rais'd the siege, and the rebellion ceased. ———	I	827
3285	1978	1021	Famine brought upon the Israelites 3 years, for Saul's killing the Gibeonites . ———	I	788
3285	1978	1021	Eurypon dies, and his next son Prytanis succeeds him in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , which he enjoyed 35 years. ———	II	400
3289	1982	1017	David , out of pride, numbers his people, and thereby offends God, who sends the prophet Gad to rebuke him, and give him his choice of three sorts of punishments; David chooses the plague, of which 70,000 die in three days. ———	I	789
3290	1983	1016	Rheboam , the son of Solomon born. ———
3291	1984	1015	The two books of Samuel supposed to be wrote by the prophets Nathan and Gad about this time. ———
3291	1984	1015	David dies, and is succeeded in the whole kingdom of Israel by his son Solomon , who reigned 40 years. ———	I	792
3292	1985	1014	Adonijah and Joab both put to death for rebellion against Solomon , and Abiathar degraded from being high priest. ———	I	792
3292	1985	1014	Archippus succeeds Acastus (as archon or chief magistrate) in Athens , and reigned 19 years. ———	II	362
3292	1985	1014	Abiathur deprived of the high priesthood, for conspiring with Adonijah against Solomon , and Zadock put into his place. From this time the high priesthood went out of the family of Ithamar , and returned into the family of Eleazar , wherein it continued, according to what had been foretold, 1 Sam. xi. 35. ———	I	792
3294	1987	1012	The Temple founded by Solomon , 480 years the Israelites departure out of Egypt . ———	I	795
3295	1988	1011	Shimei put to death for breaking his confinement. ———	I	793
3301	1994	1005	The famous temple at Jerusalem built by Solomon king of Israel , finish'd. ———	I	795
3302	1995	1004	The first Jewish temple at Jerusalem dedicated by king Solomon , with the utmost solemnity and magnificence, on the 8th day of the 7th month of the sacred year, and which was the first month of the civil year, answering to the latter end of our October . ———	I	796
3302	1995	1004	The 21st dynasty of the Egyptians began, called the dynasty of the Tanites , the first king whereof was called Semendis , who reigned 26 years. ———	I	230
3308	2001	998	Agelaus succeeds Ixion in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigned 38 years. ———	II	390
3311	2004	995	Thersippus succeeds Archippus in the archonship of Athens , which dignity he held 41 years. ———	II	362
3311	2004	995	Homer , the famous Greek poet, was brought up by Pheonius of Smyrna , who had married Homer's mother. ———	III	108
3316	2009	990	Balbazer , son of Hiram , succeeded his father in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigned 7 years. ———	I	414
3316	2009	990	Abimaaz succeeds his father Zadock in the high priesthood of the Jews . ———
3316	2009	990	Medon , king of Argos dies, and is succeeded in his kingdom by Lacidaus . ———	II	352
3316	2009	990	Capetus succeeds Alba in the kingdom of Latium , and reigns 26 years. ———	IV	421
3320	2013	986	Samos built, and Smyrna enlarged into the form of a city. ———	III	187
3320	2013	986	Doryssus or Dorysseus , son of Labotas , succeeds his father in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reigns 29 years. ———	II	400
3320	2013	986	Eunomus , son of Prytanis , succeeds his father in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reigned 79 years. ———	II	400
3323	2016	983	Abdrastus , son of Balbazer , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigns 9 years. ———	I	414
3324	2017	982	Pyritades succeeds Laosphenes in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 30 years. ———	I	865
3326	2019	980	Solomon drawn into idolatry, out of complaisance to his many wives and concubines. ———	I	802
3228	2021	978	Pseusennes succeeds Semendis in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 41 years. ———	I	230
3331	2024	975	Phialus , son of Bucolion , began to reign in Arcadia , and changed the name of Phigalia into Phialia . ———	II	378

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3331	2024	975	Solomon repenting, writes the Ecclesiastes , and is assured his seed should reign over only Juda and Benjamin , 1 Kings , XL. 13. 32.	I	802
3331	1024	975	Solomon dies, whereupon the tribes divide themselves, ten forsaking Reboboam his son, and set up a kingdom of their own, under the command of Jeroboam , which from this time forwards was called the kingdom of Israel ; and two tribes adhere to Reboboam , under the title of king of Juda 17 years.	I	803
3331	1024	975	Jeroboam becomes the first king of Israel , and reigns 21 years, during which time he sets up two golden calves at each end of his kingdom for the people to worship, instead of going up to Jerusalem , &c. From his introducing idolatry in the first year of his reign, the 300 years of Israel's iniquity is to be reckoned, mentioned Ezekiel iv. 5. 9.	I	803
3332	2025	974	Isthomius , son of Glaucus , began to reign in Messenia .	II	355
3332	2025	974	Abdastartus , king of Tyre , is killed by the four sons of Narjes , the eldest of whom reigned 21 years.	IV	414
3334	2027	972	The Thracians settle themselves in Bebrycia , now called Bythinia .	III	827
3335	2028	971	Shishak King of Egypt goes against Jerusalem , takes it, and plunders the temple of all the golden vessels, &c.	I	806
3342	2035	964	Capys succeeds Capetus in the kingdom of Latium , where he reigned 28 years.	IV	421
3344	2037	962	Astartus , son of Delastartus , becomes king of Tyre , and reigns there 12 years.	I	414
3345	2038	961	Proymnes , or Prymnes or Prumnis , succeeds Agelaus in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigns 35 years.	II	390
3348	2041	958	Azariah succeeds his father Abimaaz in the high-priesthood at Jerusalem .
3348	2041	958	Abijah , one of the sons of Reboboam , succeeds in the kingdom of Judah upon the death of his father, and in a pitched battle with Jeroboam overthrew him, and killed 500,000 of his men. He reigned only 3 years.	I	807
3349	2042	957	Agessilaus , son of Doryssus , succeeds his father in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reigned 44 years.	II	400
3351	2044	955	Abijah , or Abijab , dies, and is succeeded by his son Asha in the kingdom of Judah , where he reigned 41 years: He was a prince of extraordinary piety, and purged out the idolatry that had crept in during the three foregoing reigns.	I	807
3352	2045	954	Jeroboam dies, and is succeeded in the kingdom of Israel by his son Nadab , who reigned about two years.	I	807
3352	2045	954	Phorbas succeeds Thersippus in the archonship of Athens , and holds that dignity 31 years.	II	362
3353	2046	953	Baasha , of the tribe of Issachar , kills Nadab king of Israel at the siege of Gibbion , and succeeds him in the kingdom of Israel , where he reigns 24 years, during which time he destroyed the whole race of Jeroboam .	I	807
3354	2047	952	Ophrateus succeeds Pyritiades in the kingdom of Assyria , and reigns 20 years.	I	865
3356	2049	950	Ashbarymus succeeds his brother Astartus in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigns 9 years.	I	414
3356	2049	950	Meltas began to reign at Argos .	II	352
3357	2050	949	Jebozophat (son of Asha king of Judah) born.	I	809
3365	2058	941	Asha king of Judah commands all the idols that had been set up in his kingdom to be broken down, and deposed his mother from the regal dignity for being an encourager of them.	I	807
3365	2058	941	The Cushites attack Asha's kingdom with 10,000,000 men, commanded by Zerah the Ethiopian ; Asha encounters them at Marzhab , totally routs them, and returns to Jerusalem laden with prodigious spoil, is met by a prophet who assures him of future success, &c.	I	807
3365	2058	241	Pheles succeeds his brother Ashbarymus in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigns 8 months.	I	414
3366	2059	940	Ithobalus , priest of Astarte , succeeds Pheles in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigns there 32 years.	I	415
3366	2059	940	Asha king of Judah sends ambassadors and large presents to Benbadad king of Damascus , who thereupon makes war with Baasha king of Israel , and takes several of his frontier towns, &c.	I	383
3366	2059	940	Asha king of Judah builds Geba and Mizpeh , with the materials that he took from Baasha king of Israel , which were by him designed for the building of Ramab . Asha throws the prophet Hanani into prison for reproving him.	I	808
3369	2062	937	Nephercheres succeeds Pseusennes in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 4 years.	I	230
3370	2063	936	Calpetus succeeds Capys in the kingdom of Latium , and reigns 13 years.	IV	421
3373	2066	933	Amenophis succeeds Nephercheres in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 9 years.	I	230
3374	2067	932	Ophratenes succeeds Ophrateus in the kingdom of Assyria , and reigned 50 years.	I	865
3375	2068	931	Dotadas , son of Isthmius , began to reign in Messenia .
3376	2069	930	Meltas dies, and thereupon the regal government of Argos becomes a democracy.	II	360
3376	2069	930	Ela succeeds his father Baasha in the kingdom of Israel , and reigned only one year, being then murdered by Zimri .	I	808
3377	2070	929	Zimri , the general over Ela's chariots, conspires against Ela and kills him, and then proclaims himself king, and as such reigns 7 days at Trizab , but being attacked by Omri (another general officer) Zimri , to avoid being taken, burns the king's house and himself in it: Upon this the kingdom of Israel was rent in twain, part following Thibni the son of Ginath , and the other part Omri , for 4 years they reign'd together.	I	808
3380	2073	926	Lycurgus , (son of Eunomus by his second wife Dianissa) the famous Lacedæmonian lawgiver born.
3380	2073	926	Bacchis , son of Proymnes , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigned 35 years: From him came the Bacchiadæ .	II	390
3381	2074	925	Thibni , the partner king with Omri in the kingdom of Israel , being killed, Omri reigned alone 8 years.	I	808
3382	2075	924	Onfobor succeeds Amenophis in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 6 years.	I	230

Omri

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3382	2075	924	Omri having bought the hill of Someron or Samaria , of one Shemer , for two talents of silver, built the famous city of Samaria thereon, and removed the royal palace from Tirzah to Samaria , and made it the metropolis of the kingdom of Israel .	I	808
3382	2075	924	Joram (the son of Jehosaphat the son of Asha king of Judah) born.
3383	2076	923	Tiberinus succeeds Calpetus in the kingdom of Latium , and reigned 8 years.	IV	421
3383	2076	923	Megacles succeeds Phorbas in the archonship of Athens , and held that dignity 30 years.	II	362
3388	2081	918	Psinafinaces succeeds Onsachor in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 9 years.	I	230
3388	2081	918	Abab , the son of Omri , upon the death of his father succeeds him in the kingdom of Israel , where he reigned 22 years; and having married Jezabel , daughter of Ethbaal king of the Zidonians , greatly encouraged idolatry, particularly the worship of Baal , by human sacrifices, &c. 1 Kings , xvi. 31.	I	809
3390	2083	916	The Rhodians become Masters of the sea, by their expertness in navigation; and the Rhodian laws for many ages were the standard to decide all maritime affairs; the Romans esteemed them so highly as to incorporate them into their pandect of laws, &c.	III	132
3391	2084	915	Tiberinus , king of Latium , being killed at the river Albula and drowned, that river from him was, and still is, called the Tiber .	IV	421
3391	2084	915	Agrippa (by Ovid called Remulus) succeeds Tiberinus in the kingdom of Latium , where he reigned 41 years.	IV	421
3392	2085	914	Jehosaphat , upon the death of his father Asha , succeeds him in the kingdom of Judah , and reigned 25 years: He began his reign with purging away idolatry, &c.	I	809
3393	2086	913	Archelaus succeeds his father Agessilaus in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon and reigned 60 years. In this year the Lacedæmonians took Agis and raz'd it to the ground, to prevent their revolting to the Arcadians .	II	400
3395	2088	911	Jehosaphat caus'd a competent number of priests and Levites to attend some of his chief officers with copies of the Pentateuch , to go through his kingdom and teach the real law of Moses , which was then greatly corrupted.	I	809
3397	2090	909	Psusennes succeeds Psinafinaces in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 35 years.	I	230
3398	2091	908	Bazorus , son of Ithobalus succeeds his father in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigned 8 years.	I	415
3399	2092	907	Polydectes succeeds his father Eunomus (who was killed in a riotous tumult) in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon .	II	400
3399	2092	907	Abaziah , son of Joram , (son of Jehosaphat king of Judah , by his wife Atbalia daughter of Abab king of Israel) born.
3405	2098	901	Benhadad king of Syria , and his thirty-two confederate kings beaten off from Samaria , by Abab king of Israel , with prodigious slaughter.	I	383
3406	2099	900	Metinus , son of Bazorus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigns 9 years.	I	415
3406	2099	900	Benhadad , king of Syria , is a second time defeated by Abab king of Israel , with a mighty slaughter, &c.	I	384
3408	2101	898	Polydectes , half king of Lacedæmon , is succeeded by his half brother Lycurgus , who reign'd as guardian to his son Cbarilaus , who was born 8 months after his death.	II	558
3408	2101	898	Abab takes his son Abaziah into partnership with him in his kingdom of Israel .	I	812
3409	2102	897	Abab king of Israel , and Jehosaphat king of Judah agree to besiege Ramoth Gilead , and retake it from the Syrians , where Abab is slain, &c.	I	813
3409	2102	897	Abaziah , upon the death of his father Abab , reign'd alone in the kingdom of Israel about one year.	I	813
3409	2102	897	Amariah , or Azariah , succeeds his father Azariah in the high-priesthood at Jerusalem . 2 Chron. xix. 11.
3409	2102	897	The Moabites revolt, (who from David's time till now had been subject to Israel) but are entirely defeated by the united force of Israel and Judah .	I	814
3410	3103	896	Johanan , or Jehoiada , the son of Amariah , succeeds his father as high-priest at Jerusalem .
3410	3103	896	Elias being taken up into heaven alive, is succeeded by Elisha in the prophetic Office.	I	809
3410	3103	896	Joram , or Jehoram , the brother of Abaziah king of Israel , (who was killed by the bruises he received in a fall) succeeds him in the kingdom of Israel , and reigned 12 years.	I	813
3412	2105	894	Lycurgus abdicated his government of the Lacedæmonians , and began his 10 years travel, to see the customs and manners of other nations.	II	399
3413	2106	893	Diognetus succeeds Megacles in the archonship of Athens , which he held 28 years.	II	362
3414	2107	892	Joram is taken into partnership in the kingdom of Judah , by his father Jehosaphat .	I	814
3415	2108	891	Agelas , or Agelastes , succeeds Bacchis in the kingdom of Corinth , where he reigned 30 years.	II	390
3415	2108	891	Pygmalion , the son of Metinus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Tyre , and reigns 40 years: He is said to have built the city of Carpasia in the island of Cyprus , and to present the temple of Hercules in the island of Gades , with an olive tree made of massive gold, whose berries were emeralds, &c.	I	416
3417	2110	889	Joram (upon the death of his father Jehosaphat) reigns alone 4 years, during which time he debauched the peoples manners, and introduced idolatry.	I	814
3417	2110	889	Edom now revolted from the Israelitish government (to which they had been subject from David's time) and having expelled or assassinated their vice-roy, set up a king of their own again.	I	315
3418	2111	888	The Philistines and Arabians invade Judah , and take and plunder Jerusalem , and among others carry away Jehoram's wives, and all his sons, (except Jehoabab) and Abaziah , captive.	I	815
3419	2112	887	Pompus , son of Simus , began to reign in Arcadia .	II	378

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			(917)
3420	2113	886	Jehoram king of Judab takes his son Abazia partner with him in his kingdom.	I	815
3421	2114	885	Upon the death of Joram his son Abazia reigned king of Judab alone, for about the space of one year, being then killed by Jehu , one of the officers of Jehoram .	I	819
3421	2114	885	Samaria being besieged by Benbadad king of Syria , the city is reduced to the utmost extremity by famine, &c. and is miraculously delivered by the prophet Elisha .	I	816
3421	2114	885	Hazael murders Benbadad king of Syria at Damascus , and succeeds him in the kingdom of Syria , which he raised to its meridian of glory.	I	388
3422	2115	884	Elisa , sister of Pygmalion king of Tyre , (called also Dido) flying from Tyre upon the murder of her husband Sichæus priest of Hercules , in company with many others, goes and settles in Africa , and builds the famous city of Carthage .	I	415
3422	2115	884	Joram king of Israel killed by his servant Jehu , who reigned 28 years, and destroyed all the house of Abab , and caus'd queen Jezabel to be thrown out of a window, &c.	I	819
3422	2115	884	Hazael king of Damascus (or Syria) warring against Jehu king of Israel , overcame him, and took almost all his kingdom from him, having slain and taken captive an infinite number of his subjects.	I	389
3422	2115	884	Abaziah dies, and his mother Athaliah (daughter of Abab) reigns 6 years in Judab , during which time she practised and promoted idolatry with all her might, and killed all his children, except Joash , whom Jehoshaba (sister of king Abaziah and wife of Jehoiada the high-priest) saved, being then but one year old.	I	822
3422	2115	884	Lycurgus returns to Lacedæmon from his travels, and settles the government by excellent laws.	II	559
3422	2115	884	Iphitus began accounting or computing time by Olympiads , 108 years before the first Olympiad .
3424	2117	882	Ocraxapes succeeds Opbratanes in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns there 42 years.	I	865
3425	2118	881	Sybotas , son of Dotadas , was now king of Messenia .	II	355
3428	2121	878	Jehoiada the high-priest shews young Joash (the son of their late king Abaziah) to the heads and people of Judab , who being tired with the cruelty and wickedness of Athaliah , proclaimed Joash king; and the high-priest having anointed him and crowned him, slew Athaliah , Joash reigned 40 years, &c.	I	823
3432	2125	874	Begins the 22d Egyptian dynasty of the Bubastites , the first king whereof was Sensoris , who succeeded Pfusennes , and reigned 21 years.	I	230
3432	2125	874	Agrippa , king of the Latins dies, and is succeeded by Allades , or Alladius , who reigned 19 years.	IV	421
3433	2126	873	Charilaus takes the government of Lacedæmon upon himself, and reigned 64 years.	II	400
3437	2130	869	Carthage , the famous metropolis of Africa , built by queen Dido : Phidon now governed at Argos , and made measures and scales, and coined silver money at Egina .	I	415
3441	2134	865	Pherecles succeeds Diognetus in the archonship of Athens , and reigned 19 years.	II	362
3444	2137	862	Jonas prophesied against Nineveh .
3445	2138	861	Eudemus succeeds Agelas in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigned 25 years.	II	350
3449	2142	857	Joash repairs the temple of Jerusalem , &c.	I	823
3450	2143	856	Jehoahaz succeeds his father Jehu (now dead) in the kingdom of Israel , and reigned 17 years.	I	822
3451	2144	855	Allades king of the Latins , together with his palace is swallowed up by an earthquake, as he was imitating thunder, and was succeeded by Aventinus , who reigned 37 years.	IV	421
3452	2145	854	The Lacedæmonians , by the help of the Eleans , overthrew the tyrant Phidon .	II	400
3453	2146	853	Teleclus succeeds Archelaus in the partnership of the kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reigns 40 years.	II	400
3453	2146	853	Oorthon succeeds Sensoris in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 15 years.	I	230
3456	2149	850	Jehoiada the high-priest dies, at 130 years old, and is succeeded in that office at Jerusalem by his son Zachariah .	I	824
3458	2151	848	Polymestor , son of Eginetas king of Arcadia , overcame the Lacedæmonians , and took Charilaus prisoner, whom they oblig'd to take an oath that he should not make war any more on the Tegeans , but some time after he broke it.	II	569
3460	2153	846	Arifbron succeeds Pherecles in the archonship of Athens , and reigned 20 years.	II	362
3464	2157	842	Jonas prophecies of Israel's deliverance.
3465	2158	841	Jehoahaz , king of Israel , takes his son Joash partner with him in the regal government.	I	825
3466	2159	840	Zachariah the high-priest having reprov'd Joash king of Judab for falling into and encouraging and promoting idolatry, &c. is, by that king's command, stoned to death.	I	824
3466	2159	840	Tonosconleros , or Sardanapalus , succeeds Ocraxapes in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigned 20 years.	I	865
3467	2160	839	Hazael , king of Syria , (or Damascus , he being called by both titles) after taking Gath and conquering the king of Judab's army, was about invading Jerusalem , but by large presents, &c. departed for that time, but soon after sent a part of his great army, who (overthrowing Joash , &c.) sack'd Jerusalem , slew the princes, and sent a prodigious spoil to Damascus .	I	388
3467	2160	839	Joash being murdered on his bed by his servant, is succeeded by his son Amaziah , who reigned 29 years as king of Judab .	I	824
3467	2160	839	Jehoahaz , king of Israel dies, and Joash his son reigns alone 3 years.
3468	2161	838	Amaziah overcomes the Edomites , slaying 10,000 in battle, and throwing 10,000 prisoners down from the rock whereon Selah their capital city was built, &c.	I	316
3468	2161	838	The prophet Elisha dies.	I	825
3468	2161	838	Tachelotus succeeds Oorthon in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 13 years.	I	230

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3470	2163	836	Aristodemus succeeds Eudemus in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigns 35 years.	II	390
3470	2163	836	Joash king of Israel takes his son Jeroboam to be a partner with him in his kingdom.	I	389
3470	2163	836	Hazael king of Syria dies, and was deified; but being succeeded by his son Benbadad the 3d, he was thrice defeated by Jeboash , the son of Jeboabaz , the king of Judah , and made a tributary.	I	389
3471	2164	835	Pbintas , son of Sobyas , was king of Messenia ; in his time the Messenians first sent their sacrifices to Apollo at Delos , with a chorus of men.	I	389
3472	2165	834	Eumelus composed the hymn called the Proslodium , to be sung by the Messenians in their sacrifices to Apollo at Delphos .
3480	2173	826	Thespicus succeeds Ariphron in the archonship of Athens , and governed 27 years.	II	362
3480	2173	126	Amaziab , king of Judah , challenging Joash king of Israel , is taken by him, and a very large ransom set upon him.	I	826
3481	2174	825	Joash king of Israel dies, and Jeroboam his son reigned alone 41 years.	I	827
3481	2174	825	The twenty-third dynasty of the Egyptians , called the Tanites , the first king whereof was Petubastes , who succeeded Tachelotis , and reigned 25 years.	I	230
3483	2176	823	Arbaces , præfect of Media , and Belefsi , a priest of Babylon and a famous astronomer, revolt against Sardanapalus king of Assyria , and besieged him with a vast army in Nineveh ; in the 3d year of the siege, the river over-flowed and threw down a great part of the wall, through which breach they entered and took the city, upon which Sardanapalus burnt both his palace and himself in it; Arbaces and Belefsi divided the empire between them, Arbaces taking Media , Perfia , and Assyria ; and Belefsi , Babylon , whose successors are not known till the time of Nabonassar .	I	887
3485	2178	821	Media now freed from the yoke of the Assyrians by Arbaces , is govern'd by him 28 years.	II	12
3488	2181	818	Aventinus dies, (and being buried upon a mountain, it was called from thence mount Aventine) and is succeeded in the kingdom of the Latins by Procas , who reigned 23 years.	IV	421
3492	2185	814	Caranus (one of the Heraclidæ) coming to Macedonia , founded the kingdom so called, and reigned over it 28 years.	III	271
3493	2186	813	Teleclus , half king of Lacedæmon , is slain by the Messenians in the temple of Diana Limnas , and succeeded by his son Alcamenes , who reigned 37 years.	II	400
3496	2189	810	Amariah , the high priest of the Jews , dies, and his son Abitub II. succeeds him in that office.
3496	2189	810	Amaziab , king of Judah , is driven from Jerusalem by a conspiracy that was formed against him, and which followed and killed him at Lacib , when he was succeeded by his son Uzziab , or Azariah , who reigned 52 years.	I	826
3497	2190	809	Nicander , the son of Charilaus , succeeds his father in the half kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reigns 39 years.	II	400
3505	2198	801	Agamemnon , brother of Aristomedes , succeeds him in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigns 16 years.	II	390
2505	2198	801	Capua , a noble city in Campania , built (but now in ruins) about 12 miles distant from the present city of that name.	IV	412
3506	2199	800	Joel prophesied about this time
3506	2199	800	Osothron the II. succeeds Petubastes in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 9 years.	I	230
3507	2200	799	Agamestor succeeds Thespicus in the archonship of Athens , and governed 20 years.	II	362
3509	2202	797	Ardyfus , king of Lydia , reigns 36 years, was one of the Heraclidæ or descendants of Hercules .	II	333
3511	2204	795	Amulius , son of Procas , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Latium , having first put by his elder brother Numitor , to whom Procas had left the kingdom, and reigned 42 years.	IV	421
3513	2206	793	Sofarmes succeeds Arbaces as king of Media , and reigns 30 years.	II	12
2515	2208	791	Psamis succeeds Osothron in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 10 years.	I	230
3519	2212	787	Amos prophesied against Jeroboam king of Israel .	I	823
3520	2213	786	Cænus succeeds Caranus in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigned 12 years.	III	271
3520	2213	786	The Corinthians now first of all the Greeks had Triremi , or boats with 3 oars on each side.
3521	2214	785	Alexander succeeds Agamemnon in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigned 25 years.	II	360
3521	2214	785	Hosea prophesied against Israel .	I	827
3522	2215	784	Jeroboam king of Israel died, upon which followed an interregnum of 11 years.
3525	2218	781	Begins the 24th Egyptian dynasty of the Saites , when Bocchoris succeeds Psamis in the kingdom, and reigned 44 years.	I	230
3527	2220	779	Æschylus succeeds Agamestor in the archonship of Athens , and reigns 23 years.	II	362
3530	2223	776	Polydorus succeeds Alcamenes in the half kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reigned 52 years.	II	400
3530	2223	776	This is commonly esteemed the beginning of the first Olympiad , (vulgarly so called.)
3532	2225	774	Thurinus succeeds Cænus in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns 45 years.	III	271
3533	2226	773	Zachariah , son of Jeroboam , the 4th and last of the house of Jehu (according to the prophecy 2 Kings , xv. 10.) succeeds in the kingdom of Israel , and reigned but 6 months, being killed by Shallum son of Jabeish , one of his own domesticks, who reigned in his stead one month, and was killed by Menabem , Zachariah's general.	I	828
3534	2227	772	Abitub , the high priest of the Jews dying, is succeeded by his son Zadock , (called also Azariah .)
3534	2227	772	Menabem succeeded Shallum in the kingdom of Israel , and reigned 11 years.	I	828
3535	2228	771	Uzziab , king of Judah , was struck with a leprosy by Azariah the high priest, till his death, for presuming to burn incense; and his son Joabam governed the kingdom for him 13 years.	I	829
3535	2228	771	Pul in scripture appears to be the first king of Assyria .	I	888
3535	2228	771	Pul king of Assyria , invading Israel , Menabem gives him 1000 talents of silver as homage-money.	I	889

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3536	2229	770	Theopompus , son of Nicander , succeeds his father in the half kingdom of Lacedæmon , and reign'd 47 years.	II	558
3543	2236	763	Medinus (or Mlandaues) succeeds Sofarmus in the kingdom of Media , and reigns 40 years.	II	12
3545	2238	761	Pekaia , son of Mebanem , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Israel , and reigned 2 years.	I	830
3545	2238	761	Halyattes succeeds Ardysus in the kingdom of Lydia , and reigned 14 years.	II	333
3546	2239	760	Ejay began to prophesy.
3546	2239	760	Telestes , son of Aristomenes , having killed Alexander , succeeds him in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigned there 12 years.	II	390
3546	2239	760	Theopompus sets up the Ephori at Lacedæmon , which consisted of five persons, arm'd with power to check even the king, as well as govern the people.	II	574
3547	2240	759	Peka kills Pekaia king of Israel , in his royal palace at Samaria , and reigned in his stead 20 years.	I	830
3548	2241	758	Uzziab king of Judab dies, and is succeeded by his son Jotham , who reigned alone 16 years.	I	830
3548	2241	758	Nabum prophesied against Niniveh , foretelling the dreadful destruction of it, which afterwards happened in the days of Josiah .	I	830
3550	2243	756	Alcæon succeeds his father Æschylus in the archonship of Athens , and reigns 2 year, when that office for life was dissolved, and persons chose to hold it for 10 years only.	II	362
3552	2245	754	Charops begins the archonship of Athens , upon the new regulation of holding that office 10 years.	II	362
3552	2245	754	Romulus killed Amulius , and sets up Numitor .	IV	424
3553	2246	753	Romulus having built and finished the city of Rome , is chosen king, and translates the kingdom from Alba to Rome , where he reigned 37 years.	IV	426
3554	2247	752	Romulus instituted his year of 10 months, of which March was the first; this calendar was corrected by Numa , his successor, as is more particularly related and described.	IV	437
3554	2247	752	Daicles now first crown'd in the olympic games.
3556	2249	750	The rape of the Sabine virgins by the Romans .	IV	429
3557	2250	749	Telestes king of Corinth is killed, and the kingly government changed for yearly magistrates, of which Automenes was the first.
3557	2250	749	War between the Romans and the Sabines upon account of the rape: Romulus encounters and kills with his own hand Arcon their king, disperses their army, raises their city, and incorporates the prisoners among his own people.	IV	429
3559	2252	747	The Romans and Sabines conclude a peace, and become one people; and Tatius , then Sabine king, reigned jointly with Romulus , and the people were called Quirites .	IV	431
3559	2252	747	Tiglatb-pileser becomes king of Affyria , as successor to his father Pul .	I	890
3559	2252	747	Nabonassar , king of Babylon , lays the foundation of the first of the four great monarchies, and reigns 14 years.	I	940
3559	2252	747	Melles succeeds Halyattes in the kingdom of Lydia , and reigns 12 years.	II	333
3462	2255	744	Æsmedes succeeds Charops in the archonship of Athens , for 10 years.	II	362
3563	2256	743	Androcles , one of the kings of Messenia , killed in a quarrel with his brother Antiochus , soon after which accident Euphaes reigned in Messenia .	II	570
3564	2257	742	Tatius , joint king with Romulus , killed by the Lavinians at the foot of the altar, while he and Romulus were offering a sacrifice to the tutelary Gods.	IV	433
3565	2258	741	Abaz succeeds his father Jotham in the kingdom of Judab , and reigned 16 years; but being a wicked prince and committing idolatry, &c. was very unsuccessful.	I	831
3565	2258	741	Peka king of Israel warring against Judab , kills 120,000 in one day, and carries 200,000 away prisoners.	I	832
3566	2259	740	Tiglatb-pileser , king of Affyria , invades Damascus , takes Kezim their king, transplants the inhabitants, and dissolves the kingdom of Syria , and made Aiaz king of Judab tributary.	I	390
3567	2260	739	Peka king of Israel is killed by Hosea , son of Ela , upon which followed a state of anarchy for 9 years.	I	830
3568	2261	738	The Romans make a triumph for their victory over the Camerini .	IV	433
3569	2262	737	The 25th Egyptian dynasty called the Æthiopes , the first king whereof was Sabacon , who reigned 12 years.	I	232
3571	2264	735	Candaules succeeds Melles in the kingdom of Lydia , and reigns 17 years.	II	333
3572	2265	734	Clidicus , the son of Æsmedes , succeeds his father in the archonship of Athens , for the space of 10 years.	II	362
3573	2266	733	Naidius succeeds Nabonassar in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigned 2 years.	I	940
3573	2266	733	Naxus in Sicily built by the first Greek colony that came from Calchis in Eubæa to settle in Sicily .	II	220
3574	2267	732	The Romans make a triumph for their conquering the Veientes .	IV	433
3574	2267	732	Syracuse , formerly the metropolis of all Sicily , was built by Archias of Corinth .	III	4
3575	2268	731	Cincirus and Porus succeed Naidius in the kingdom of Babylon .	I	940
3576	2269	730	Euphaes being killed in battle, was succeeded by Aristodemus in the kingdom of Messenia .	II	573
3576	2269	730	Hosea becomes king of Israel , and reigns 9 years.	I	833
3577	2270	729	Perdiccas succeeds Thurimas in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns 51 years.	I	558
3578	2271	728	Salmanazar , king of Affyria , conquers and makes Hosea king of Israel tributary.	I	833
3579	2272	727	Abaz , king of Judab , takes his son Hezekiah partner with him in the kingdom: The prophet Ejay foretels the birth of Emanuel (or Christ) and that he should be born of a virgin.	I	831
3579	2272	727	Leontinis in Sicily built by the inhabitants of Naxus , and afterwards Catana , another famous city of the same island.	III	3

Upon

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3580	2273	726	Upon the death of Abaz king of Judah , his son Hezekiah reigns alone 28 years : he endeavours to reform Judah by purging away idolatry, solemnizing the passover, &c. in which Azariah the high priest was greatly serviceable. —	I	833
3580	2273	726	Jugæus succeeds Cincir in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns 5 years. —	I	945
3581	2274	725	So , king of Egypt , intices Hosea king of Israel to rebel against Salmanasar king of Affyria . —	I	833
3581	2274	725	The Prophet Hosea declared his last prophecy. —
3581	2274	725	Sevicius succeeds Sabacon in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns there 12 years. —	I	230
3582	2275	724	Hippomenes succeeds Clidicus in the archonship of Athens , which he enjoyed 10 years. —	II	362
3582	2275	724	The Lacedæmonians end the long War with the Messenians with the taking of Ithome , upon which the Messenians serve the Lacedæmonians 39 years. —	II	575
3582	2275	724	Polydorus being killed by one Polemarchus , a person of mean extract, is succeeded by his son Eurycrates in the joint kingship of Lacedæmon for 17 years. —	II	558
3582	2275	724	Aristodemus kills himself at his daughter's tomb, to whom he had sacrificed 13 years before. —
3583	2276	723	Cardiceas succeeds Medidus in the kingdom of Affyria , and reigns 13 years. —	I	865
3583	2276	723	Theopompus , one of the partner kings of Lacedæmon , dying, is succeeded by his grandson Zeuxidemus , (son of Archidamus , who died before his father Theopompus) who reigns 33 years. —	II	558
3585	2278	721	Mardokempad succeeds Jugæus in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns 12 years. (In scripture this prince is called Merodak Baladan .) —	I	945
3585	2278	721	Salmanasar , king of Affyria , takes Samaria after a siege of three years, and carried away the ten tribes of Israel into captivity, and so put an end to the kingdom of Israel , after it had stood 234 years divided from Judah . —	I	835
3586	2279	720	Azariah , the high priest of the Jews dies, and is succeeded by his son Shallum . —
3588	2281	718	Caudales being killed by Gyges (the first of the Mermnadæ , who ruled 170 years) is succeeded by him in the kingdom of Lydia , who reigned there 38 years. Gyges sends many rich presents to the oracle at Delphos , &c. —	II	333
3588	2281	718	The Tyrians intirely defeat Shalmanasar king of Affyria's fleet. —	I	892
3589	2282	717	Shalmanaser , king of Affyria , besieges Tyre , which held out 5 years against him. —	I	892
3589	2282	717	Hezekiah , king of Judah revolts, and refuses to pay tribute to the king of Affyria any longer. —	I	892
3589	2282	717	Romulus killed, upon which followed an interregnum for upwards of one year in Rome . —	IV	434
3591	2284	715	Numa becomes king or governor in Rome , but more like Pontifex than Rex , for the space of 43 years. —	IV	435
3592	2285	714	Leocrates succeeds Hippomenes in the archonship of Athens , and ruled there 10 years. —	II	362
3593	2286	713	Senacherib , king of Affyria , goes up against Hezekiah king of Judah , who being sick of the plague, upon his earnest prayer to God has an addition of 15 years made to his life, and Senacherib goes away against Egypt . —	I	836
3593	2286	713	Taracus succeeds Sevicius king of Egypt , and reigns 20 years in that kingdom. —	I	230
3596	2289	710	Numa Martius is made the first Pontifex Maximus among the Romans . —	IV	436
3596	2289	710	Tirhaka , king of Ethiopia , helps the Egyptians and Jews against Senacherib king of Affyria . —	I	893
3596	2289	710	Senacherib , king of Affyria , returns from Egypt and besieges Lachish ; Hezekiah buys his peace, but Senacherib breaks his promise, and returns against Jerusalem with his whole army, of which God by his angel destroys 185,000 in one night. —	I	838
3596	2289	710	Senecbarib , king of Affyria , returning to his royal palace at Nineweb , grew fullen and tyrannical upon his defeat at Jerusalem , and thereby becoming hateful to all about him, Adrammelech and Sharazer , two of his sons, killed him, as he was worshipping his God Nisroch , and Esarhaddon , his third son, reigned in his stead. —	I	895
3597	2290	709	Pityusa first planted with a colony of Carthaginians . —	VII	308
3597	2290	709	An order of 12 priests instituted among the Romans and Salii . —	I	946
3597	2290	709	Arcianus succeeds Ardokempad in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns 15 years. —	I	946
3598	2291	708	Ecbatana (the metropolis of all Media , and seat of the Median and Persian monarchs) built by Dejoces , and Sybaris by the Thurians . —	II	14
3599	2292	707	The Parthenians under Phalantus build Tarentum . —
3602	2295	704	Arcianus dies, and an interregnum follows in the kingdom of Babylon for two years. —	I	946
3602	2295	704	Aminocles of Corinth built for the Samians their first triremes, or galleys with 3 oars on a side. —	I	946
3602	2295	704	Apfander succeeds Leocrates in the archonship of Athens for 10 years. —	II	362
3603	2296	703	Coreyra built by the Corinthians . —	III	240
3604	2297	702	Belibius succeeds, after an interregnum of 2 years, in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns 3 years. —	I	946
3607	2300	699	Apranadius succeeds Belibus in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns 6 years. —	I	946
3607	2300	699	Dejoces is chose the first real king of Media , (those before this time being only nominal ones) and sets about reforming abuses, &c. (Marshall's tables call him the son of Phraortes , and puts his creation in 710.) He reigned 54 years. —	II	14
3608	2301	698	Hezekiah , the good king of Judah dies, and is succeeded by his son Manasses , a youth of 12 years old, who reigned 55 years in the most wicked infamous manner possible. —	I	839
3609	2302	697	Midas king of Phrygia dies. —	II	301
3612	2305	694	Eryxias succeeds Apfander in the archonship of Athens for 10 years. —	II	369
3613	2306	693	The 26th Egyptian dynasty of the Saites begins with the reign of Merres , who governed that kingdom 12 years, and succeeded Taracus . —	I	230
3613	2306	693	Rigebeus succeeds Apranadius in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigned but one year. —	I	946

			(921)
Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3614	2307	692	Mesfismordachus succeeds Rigebelus in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns four years.	I	946
3616	2309	690	Anaxidamus , son of Zeuxidamus , succeeds his father as one of the two kings of Lacedæmon .	II	577
3618	2311	688	Dejoces , king of Media , extended his empire to the river Halys-Usher .
3618	2311	688	Upon the death of Mesfismordachus king of Babylon , follows an interregnum, which lasted 8 years.	I	946
3619	2312	687	Gela in Sicily built on a river of the same name, by Antiphemus a Rhodian , and Entimus a Cretan , who each of them heading a colony of their countrymen, came and settled here.	III	11
3619	2312	687	Anaxander , son of Eurycrates , succeeds his father as one of the two kings of Lacedæmon .	II	577
3620	2313	686	Archilochus , the famous inventor of Iambick verse, a native of Paros , now flourished; he wrote so satyrically against Lycambes , his father-in-law, for taking his daughter from him, that Lycambes hanged himself.	III	223
3621	2314	685	The Messenians rebel against the Lacedæmonians , which occasions a second war, which lasted 18 years, in which the Lacedæmonians are beat at Dera , where Aristomenes for his bravery was made general, and offered the kingdom of Messenia .	I	577
3622	2315	684	The government of Athens is now changed into annual archons, chose from among the most considerable of the citizens; the first was Creon .	II	369
3623	2316	683	The Lacedæmonians are beaten again by the Messenians , under their general Aristomenes .	II	578
3624	2317	682	Lyfias is archon at Athens .	II	417
3624	2317	682	The Messenians are betray'd by the Arcadians to the Lacedæmonians .	II	578
3624	2317	682	The Lacedæmonians consult the oracle at Delpbos about the success of the Messenian war, and are answered, they must have an Athenian leader; upon which, applying to Athens , they send them one Tyrtæus , a school-master, who did them mighty service.	II	577
3625	2318	681	Stephinales succeeds Merres in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 7 years.	I	230
3625	2318	681	Aristomenes , the Messenian general, celebrates a second time the Hecatombonia , or sacrifice appointed for those who had killed 100 of the enemy with their own hands; after which he lived to do it a third time.	II	580
3626	2319	680	Ardfysus , or Ardfes son of Gyges , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Lydia , and reigned 49 years; during which time the Cimmerians over-run all Asia Minor .	II	333
3626	2319	680	Assaradinus , or Efarbaddon , (king of Nineveh or Affyria) makes himself king of Babylon , for the space of 13 years.	I	895
3628	2321	678	Argæus son of Perdiccas , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Macedonia , and reigns 38 years.	III	271
3629	2322	677	Manaffes , king of Judah , being conquered by Efarbaddon king of Babylon , is bound with chains, and so carried prisoner to Babylon , and cast into a dungeon.	I	840
3629	2322	677	Efarbaddon transplants the remnant of the Israelites , and supplies their country with strangers; so that from this time forward it was no more a kingdom in name or thing.	I	896
3630	2323	676	Manaffes king of Judah returns from his Babylonish captivity, and reigns 38 years in Judah , where he wrought a great reformation.	I	841
3631	2324	675	Chalcedon , a famous city of Bythynia , built on the Bosphorus which parts Europe from Asia , and joins the Propontis with the Euxine sea.	III	822
3632	2325	674	Nechepfos succeeds Stephinales in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 6 years.	I	230
3633	2326	673	Efarbaddon , king of Babylon , reduces the Ethiopians and Egyptians to be his tributaries.	IV	438
3635	2328	671	Leoftratus archon at Athens .	II	417
3637	2330	669	Pisistratus archon at Athens .	II	417
3638	2331	668	Necho succeeds Nechepfos in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 8 years.	I	230
3638	2331	668	Efarbaddon dies, and is succeeded in the kingdom of Babylon by his son Saosduchinus , who reigned 20 years.	I	897
3638	2331	668	Ira taken by the Lacedæmonians , and Aristomenes dies, which puts an end to the war by driving the Messenians out of Peloponnesus .	II	580
3638	2331	668	Autofhenes is made archon at Athens .	II	417
3638	2331	668	The second Messenian war ends, and Aristocrates , king of the Arcadians , is stoned to death by his people.	II	581
3539	2332	667	The Messenians being invited by Anaxilas , tyrant of Rhegium , they go into Sicily , settle there, and build the famous city of Messene , now called Messina .	II	581
3640	2333	666	Tullus Hostilius succeeds Numa as king of the Romans (after a short interregnum) and reign'd 32 years.	IV	438
3642	2335	664	Miltiades archon at Athens .	II	417
3642	2335	664	The Messenians assist Anaxilas , and take Zanell , and change its name into Messena or Messene .	III	3
3642	2335	664	A sea-fight between the Corinthians and Corcyrians , wherein the latter are beat, and the former take the city of Epidamnum .	III	280
3642	2335	664	Eurycrates the son of Anaxander , and Archidamus (or Hegificles) the son of Anaxadimus , succeed their fathers jointly in the kingdom of Lacedæmon .	II	582
3643	2336	663	The famous battle between the three Horatii and Curiatii , by which the kingdom of Alba was joined to Rome .	IV	442
3643	2336	663	Suffetius , the Alban king, ordered by the Romans to be ty'd to two chariots, and torn to pieces by horses, for treachery, and all his accomplices to be put to the sword.	IV	443
3644	2337	662	The Romans triumph upon their conquering the Fidenates .	IV	443
3644	2337	662	Acræ in Sicily built by the Syracusians upon the mouth of the Eurotas , &c.	III	12
3646	2339	660	Pjamniticus succeeds Necho in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 44 years.	I	263

			(922)
Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3647	2340	659	Miltiades archon at Athens .	II	417
3647	2340	659	Cypselus began to tyrannize at Corinth ; he reigned 30 years, (being the first king after the aristocracy.)	III	393
3648	2341	658	Byzantium built (by Pausanias , a Spartan captain) in Thrace , now called Constantinople .	VI	263
3649	2342	657	Alcmeon and Lesches flourished.
3650	2343	656	Acanthus and Stagira built, (the latter famous for the birth of Hipparchus and Aristotle , who is called the Stagyrise philosopher.)	III	256
3651	2344	655	Istrus , Borysthenes , Lampascus and Abdera built.	II	324
3652	2345	654	The Romans and Sabines make war.	IV	442
3658	2351	648	Phraortes , son of Dejoces , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Media , and reigns 22 years, during which time he subdued Persia and Asia .	II	15
3659	2352	647	Chyniladanus (called also Nebuchadonozor in the scripture) succeeds Sarduchinus in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigns 22 years.	I	935
3661	2354	645	Dropilus made archon of Athens .	II	417
3661	2354	645	Terpander wrote.
3663	2356	643	Ammon , the son of Manasses , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Judab , and reigned 2 years. (He was an idolater.)	I	841
3665	2358	641	Ammon king of Judab killed by his servants, and was succeeded by his son Josiab , (but 8 years old) who reigned 31 years, and was the best king ever Judab had.	I	841
3666	2359	640	Philip , son of Argæus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigned 38 years.	III	2-1
3666	2359	640	Tyrtaeus , the lame Athenian school-master, flourished.	II	577
3667	2360	639	Damafias chose archon of Athens .	II	417
3668	2361	638	Thales , the prince of the Ionie philosophers, born, &c.	II	434
3670	2363	636	Chyniladan (or Nebuchadonozor) conquers and kills Arphaxad king of Media , and makes his kingdom tributary.	I	898
3670	2363	636	Holofernes , the chief general of Nebuchadonozor , (Chyniladan) besieges Bethulia with a prodigious army, is charmed by the beauty, &c. of Judit ; she cuts off his head, his army flies and is plundered, &c.	I	901
3673	2366	633	Tullus Hostilius , king of the Romans , and all his family, is destroy'd by lightning, upon which a short interregnum follows, and then the senate chose Ancus Marcius , grandson of Numa by his daughter Pompilia , king, who reigned 24 years in Rome .	IV	444
3673	2366	633	Ancus wars with the Sabines , takes Politorium , and lays it waste.	IV	445
3674	2367	632	Sinope and Lipara built, (famous Greek cities on the coast of Paphlagonia .)	III	725
3675	2368	631	Jeremiah began to prophesy.	I	846
3675	2368	631	Battus , son of Polymnestus , founded and built the city and kingdom of Cyrene , and reigned 40 years.	III	215
3675	2, 68	631	Sadyattes , the son of Ardyfus , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Lydia , and reigns 15 years.	II	334
3676	2369	630	Josiab , king of Judab , begins a reformation in Judab and Jerusalem .	I	843
3676	2369	630	Zephaniab began to prophesy.
3677	2370	629	Prusias in Bythinia built.
3677	2370	629	Periander succeeds Cypselus in the kingdom of Corinth , and reigns 40 years.	II	393
3679	2372	627	Epidammi (or Dyrachium) built, and the Megarians send a colony into Sicily .	III	254
3680	2373	626	Nabopolassar succeeds Chyniladanus in the kingdom of Babylon , (or Chaldea) and reigns 21 years; during which time he transferred the kingdom of Affyria to Babylon .	I	947
3680	2373	626	The Fidenates and Sabines rebel against the Romans .	IV	445
3680	2373	626	Lucumo Tarquin (called Priscus) an Etrurian , got a command among the Romans , and did great service against the Latins .	IV	447
3681	2374	625	Cyaxares succeeds his father Phraortes in the kingdom of Media , and reigns 40 years: He conquered all above the river Halys , and destroyed Nineveh .	II	16
3682	2375	624	Draco (the bloody law-giver) is chose archon at Athens , and publishes his laws, which he called Sanctions .	II	421
3683	2576	623	Hilkiah , the high priest of the Jews , finds a true copy of the original book of the law, as they were repairing and purging the temple.	I	843
3683	2376	623	All Israel kept the passover, and utterly destroyed idolatry.	I	844
3684	2377	622	The Veientes conquered by the Romans .	IV	445
3684	2377	622	The Gauls , (under Bellovesus , nephew of Ambigatus king of Celtigallia) crossed the Rhone and the Alps , and settled themselves in that spot of Italy now called Piedmont and Lombardy , then inhabited by the Hetrurians .	VII	391
3686	2379	620	Hilkiah the high priest of the Jews dies, and is succeeded in that office by his son Azariah III.
3686	2379	620	The Veientes conquered by the Romans again.	IV	445
3686	2379	620	The city of Ofsia (a sea-port) built by the Romans .	IV	446
3687	2380	619	Tarquin made a patrician and a senator, as a reward for his bravery against the Veientes .	IV	446
3690	2383	616	The Samians hinder the Corinthians from carrying away 300 youth of the principal families of the Corcyrians to be made eunuchs.	III	190
3690	2383	616	Necho , son of Psammiticus , (called in scripture Pharaoh-Necho) succeeds his father in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigned 16 years.	I	264
3691	2384	615	Heniachidas chose archon at Athens .	II	417
3692	2385	614	Panatius was the first tyrant (or absolute prince) in Sicily .
3696	2389	610	Pharaoh-Necho , king of Egypt , goes against the king of Affyria , to besiege Carchemish , (a city upon the banks of the river Euphrates).	I	845
3696	2389	610	As Pharaoh-Necho was going against the king of Affyria , in his march through Palestine , Josiab king of Judab rashly opposes him, and is slain in battle, upon which the people set up his son Shallum (or Jehoabaz) who after a reign of

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			three months, is carried away prisoner to Egypt by Pharoah-Necho , who set up his elder brother Eliakim (or Jehoiaxim) who reigned 11 years.	I	845
3697	2390	609	Lucurno Tarquin , the Greek, who fled from Corinth to save his wealth and his life, took shelter at Rome , is chose to succeed Ancus (now dead) as king of the Romans , whom he governed 38 years.	IV	447
3697	2390	609	The Romans conquer the Apolani , and build the Circus for the Roman games.	IV	447
3697	2390	609	Habakkuk prophesied the Jewish captivity.	I	847
3697	2390	609	Jeremiab prophesies the Jewish captivity, and likewise Uriah , whom king Jehoiakim puts to death.	I	846
3698	2391	608	Tarquin having overthrown the Hetrurians , &c. Rome , being now at peace, sets about beautifying, cleansing, and fortifying Rome , by building the walls with hewn stone, the famous aqueducts, &c.	IV	449
3699	2392	607	Nebuchadnezzar drives the Egyptians home, and besieges and takes Jerusalem , &c.	I	848
3700	2393	606	Jehoiakim burns the roll of the prophecy wrote by Baruck from the mouth of Jeremiab .	I	847
3700	2393	606	Nebuchadnezzar puts Jehoiakim king of Judab in irons, but soon releases him, and leaves him king under tribute, takes away Daniel and many others to Babylon : This begins the seventy years captivity foretold by Jeremiab the prophet.	I	848
3700	2393	606	Pittacus , the Mytilenæan commander, kills Phrynon the Athenian commander, in single combat.	II	422
3701	2394	605	Aristocles archon at Athens .	II	417
3702	2395	604	Critias I. made archon at Athens .	II	417
3702	2395	604	Nabopolassar (in scripture Nebuchadnezzar) becomes king of Babylon , and reigns 43 years.	I	948
3703	2396	603	Daniel interprets king Nebuchadnezzar 's dream, and is made governor of the whole province of Babylon , &c.	I	951
3703	2396	603	Jehoiakim , king of Juda , depending upon assistance from Egypt , rebels against Nebuchadnezzar , who sends a great army against him, overthrows him, kills him, &c.	I	848
3704	2397	602	Sappho (the famous poetess, the inventress of the Sapphick verse) now flourished.	III	204
3704	2397	602	Æropas , son of Philip , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns 26 years.	III	271
3705	2398	601	The Medes and Lydians being at war, while they were engaged in a battle very furiously together, happens an eclipse of the sun and parts them.	II	18
3706	2399	600	Cylon , and his companions are killed in an attempt of aspiring to the government of Athens .	II	422
3706	2399	600	Psamis succeeds his father Nechus in the throne of Egypt , and reigned 6 years.	I	265
3706	2399	600	Nebuchadnezzar 's army over-runs and destroys all Judab , and takes Jerusalem .	I	848
3706	2399	600	Azariah the high-priest of the Jews dies, and is succeeded in that office by his son Seraia .	I	848
3707	2400	599	Mordecai , queen Esther 's uncle, and Ezekiel carried into captivity.	I	848
3707	2400	599	Jehoiakim king of Judab taken, and killed by Nebuchadnezzar , who buries him with the burying of an ass, as prophesied by Jeremiab , &c. Nebuchadnezzar sets up his son Jehoiachin (called also Conias , or Jeconias) king in his stead; but after a reign of three months and 10 days, Nebuchadnezzar takes him and all Jerusalem captive to Babylon , and sets up his uncle Mattaniah king in his stead, and changed his name into Zedechiab , who reigned tributary to Nebuchadnezzar 11 years.	I	848
3707	2400	599	Cyrus , the son of Cambyses king of Persia , and of Mandane daughter of Astyages king of Media , born. (He was surnamed Cyrus the Great .)	II	88
3707	2400	599	The Romans , under king Tarquin , conquers the Fidenæ and the Camerini .	IV	448
3708	2401	598	The Romans entirely conquer the Latins .	IV	449
3709	2402	597	The Sabines and Romans make a drawn battle.	IV	449
3709	2402	597	Camarina (a famous city in Sicily) built by the Syracusians .	III	12
3709	2402	597	Anaxandrides and Ariston jointly reign in Lacedæmon .	II	582
3709	2402	597	The Sabines defeated, beg a truce of 6 years, which is granted.	IV	449
3711	2404	595	The destruction of Babylon by the Medes and Persians , and the restoration of Israel foretold by Jeremiab the prophet, Ch. L. LI. and Baruck in captivity read his book, and Ezekiel being in captivity, had his first vision.	I	846
3711	2404	595	Epimenides the Phestian is sent for to Athens from Crete , to expiate the Athenians , &c.	II	423
3711	2404	595	Philombrotus archon at Athens .	II	417
3712	2405	594	Apries (the Pharoah-Hophra of scripture) succeeds his father in the kingdom of Egypt .	I	267
3712	2405	594	Solon , the wise law-giver, archon at Athens .	II	417
3714	2407	592	Eucrates archon at Athens .	II	417
3714	2407	592	Anacbarfis having vowed to introduce the worship of the mother of the Gods among the Scythians , is slain in the midst of his ceremonial performance.	II	285
3715	2408	591	Zedechiab , king of Judab rebelling, Nebuchadnezzar went up against Judæa , lays all the country waste, and comes up against Jerusalem .	I	849
3715	2408	591	Archelaus succeeds Battus in the kingdom of Cyrene , and reigns 16 years.	III	215
3716	2409	590	About the middle of winter Nebuchadnezzar begins the siege of Jerusalem in form.	I	849
3717	2410	589	Jerusalem closely besieged for 360 days; from hence the 70 years of indignation, mentioned Zech. I. 12. VII. 5. are supposed to commence.	I	848
3717	2410	589	Psammetichus succeeds Periander in the government of Corinth for 3 years.	I	849
3717	2410	589	Jeremiab being in prison, has his own deliverance revealed to him by God. Jer. xxxix. 15, 18.	I	849

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3718	2411	588	Jeremiah carried captive as far as Ramah , is there released by Nebuchadnezzar , upon which he returns home, (and, 'tis supposed, wrote the two books of the Kings .)	I	850
3718	2411	588	The famine prevailing, Jerusalem is broken up by Nebuchadnezzar , upon which king Zedekiah flies, but is pursued and taken, and his sons first slain in his presence, then his own eyes are put out, and afterwards he is carried in chains captive to Babylon : On the third day after the taking and plundering the city, by Nebuzar-adan Nebuchadnezzar's general, being the 10th of the 4th month, (our 27 August) the temple, palace, and whole city was burnt to the ground, &c. the walls and fortifications all demolished, and the people carried away captive: Such was the dreadful end of that glorious kingdom, and of the Israelitish monarchs, after it had stood 468 years from the beginning of David's reign, 388 from the revolt of the 10 tribes, and 134 from the excision of the Israelitish commonwealth.	I	850
3718	2411	588	Seraia , the Jewish high-priest, killed at Riblah by Nebuchadnezzar , and his son Jozadak carried captive to Babylon .	I	850
3718	2411	588	Nebuzar-adan leaves Gedaliah governor of Judah , with the power of life and death, who, about three months after was treacherously killed by one Ishmael , &c.	I	851
3719	2412	587	Obed prophesied against the Edomites .	II	382
3720	2413	586	The Pythia (or games in honour of Apollo) exhibited at Delphos , where the victors were crowned with oak leaves.	II	382
3722	2415	584	Astyages (called in scripture Abasuerus) the son of Cyaxeres , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Media , and reigns 35 years.	II	20
3722	2415	584	Nebuchadnezzar besieging Tyre , was the last carrying away of the Jews by Nebuzar-adan , the Babylonish general.	I	955
3724	2417	582	The victors at the Pythian games are now first crowned with laurel, from whence some call this the first Pythias .	II	382
3724	2417	582	The Isthmean games now restored, (first instituted by Theseus at Corinth in honour of Neptune ;) the victors were crowned with pine leaves.	II	366
3724	2417	582	Damascus archon at Athens .	II	417
3730	2423	576	Alcetas , the son of Æropas , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns 29 years.	III	271
3731	2424	575	Battus II. succeeds Arcefilaus in the kingdom of Cyrene , and reigns 21 years.	III	215
3734	2427	572	Phalaris , the cruel tyrant of Agrigentum , begun his 16 years reign.	III	128
3734	2427	572	Tyre , after 13 years siege, yields to Nebuchadnezzar . Ezek. xxix. 18.	I	955
3734	2427	572	Tarquin , king of Rome , treacherously murdered, and succeeded by his son-in-law Servius Tullius , who reigned 44 years.	IV	453
3735	2428	571	The Jews in Egypt carried to Babylon .	I	956
3735	2428	571	Servius Tullius defeats the Veientes , &c. for which he has a triumph, and is legally elected king by the Curia .	IV	454
3735	2428	571	Apries , king of Egypt , is drove out of his kingdom by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon .	I	956
3736	2429	570	Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the great tree, &c. and Daniel's interpretation, &c.	I	962
3736	2429	570	Servius a second time defeats the Hetrurians , and has a second triumph, and then enlarges the city of Rome , &c.	IV	455
3736	2429	570	Aristomenes made archon at Athens .	II	417
3737	2430	569	Apries king of Egypt gives battle to Amasis , Viceroy of Nebuchadnezzar , but is defeated, taken prisoner and strangled, and Amasis reigned 44 years as king of Egypt .	I	956
3737	2430	569	Nebuchadnezzar becomes mad, and is driven out of his kingdom for seven years.	I	963
3739	2432	567	The Nemean games renewed.	I	964
3744	2437	562	Nebuchadnezzar throws his son Evil-merodach into prison, for male administration during his illness.	I	964
3744	2437	562	Cræsus , son of Hallyattes , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Lydia , and reigned 14 years.	II	334
3744	2437	562	Nebuchadnezzar is restored to his senses.	I	964
3744	2437	562	The first comedy at Athens made by Sufarion , and acted upon a moveable scaffold.	II	446
3745	2438	561	Iloardudamus (called in scripture Evil-merodach) becomes king of Babylon , and reigns 2 years, when he is murdered by Neriglissar (his sister's husband) who succeeds him in the kingdom.	I	965
3745	2438	561	Comias made archon at Athens . During his reign, Pisistratus set up his tyranny or absolute government in Athens .	II	417
3745	2438	561	Evil-merodach prefers Jeconiah king of Judah above all his captive kings.	I	966
3745	2438	561	The prophet Daniel obtains great favour in the eyes of Nebuchadnezzar .	I	951
3745	2438	561	Æsop the famous fabulist dies.	I	951
3746	2439	560	Pisistratus , Solon's kinsman, having obtained a guard for his private person, seizes the citadel of Athens , and turns the commonwealth into a kingdom, reigning alone under the name of a tyrant, (though a very good prince.)	II	446
3746	2439	560	Thespis the Athenian poet, the inventor of tragedy, about this time introduced it into Athens , together with the use of masks or painted faces, &c.	II	446
3746	2439	560	Servius Tullius having spent his time in regulating the kingdom by good laws, &c. established a Census (or valuation of each man's estate to be taken, and the possessors to be esteem'd of such and such a rank, in proportion to the value thereof,) every five years, at which time a solemn lustration, or expiatory sacrifice for all the people, was performed: From this institution the Romans computed time, making this first an Æra to reckon from. Servius is supposed to coin the first money in Rome with the figures of the animals that were then sacrificed upon it.	IV	457
3746	2439	560	Hegesistratus made archon at Athens .	II	417

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3746	2439	560	Cyrus (son of Cambyſes , by Mandane daughter of Aſtyages) began to reign over Perſia .	II	82
3747	2440	559	Solon dies, aged 79 years.	II	448
3747	2440	559	Niricaſſoſaſſarus ſucceeds Evil-merodach in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigned 4 years.	I	935
3747	2440	559	Servius Tullius makes a law to form a fourth tribe among the Romans , and abridges the royal power, by giving the judgment of all common matters to the ſenate, and reſerving only ſtate crimes to the crown.	IV	457
3749	2442	557	Simonides born.	III	217
3750	2443	556	Phalaris kill'd by the Agrigentines , for his extraordinary cruelty and tyranny.	III	128
3750	2443	556	Euthydemus made archon at Athens .	II	417
3750	2443	556	Chilo , one of the ſeven wiſe men of Greece , was Euphorus .
3751	2444	555	Laboroſarchod , ſon of Niricaſſoſaſſarus , ſucceeds his father in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigned 9 months.	I	935
3751	2444	555	Daniel has the viſion of the four monarchies.	I	958
3751	2444	555	Nabonadius (in ſcripture called Belſhazzar) ſucceeds Laboroſarchod in the kingdom of Babylon , and reigned 17 years.	I	935
3752	2445	554	Arceſilaus II. becomes king of Cyrene , and reigns 4 years.	III	215
3752	2445	454	Barce (a ſea port of Cyrenaica) built by the brothers of Arceſilaus king of Cyrene .	VII	151
3753	2446	553	Daniel ſees the viſion of the Perſian and Grecian monarchies.	I	958
3755	2448	551	Confuſius born.
3756	2449	550	Battus III. ſucceeds in the kingdom of Cyrene , and reigns 24 years.	III	215
3757	2450	549	Cyaxares II. ſon of Aſtyages , ſucceeds his father in the kingdom of Media , and reigns 24 years. (In ſcripture called Darius the Mede . Dan. ix.)	II	16
3758	2451	548	Cræſus paſſing the river Halys upon a bridge built by Thales , is taken by Cyrus at Sardis , who carried him away captive, put an end to the kingdom of Lidia , after it had ſtood 248 years under the government of 9 kings, and made it a province of Perſia .	II	336
3758	2451	548	Thales dies, aged 90 years, and is ſucceeded in his ſchool by Anaximander .	I	18
3759	2452	547	Amyntas , ſon of Alcetas , ſucceeds his father in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns 53 years.	III	271
3759	2452	547	Anaximander dies, aged 64 years, and is ſucceeded by Anaximenes in his ſchool.	I	19
3761	2454	545	The Medes go againſt the Ionians .	II	109
3763	2456	543	The united fleets of the Carthaginians and Etruscans engage the Phœceans in the Sardinian ſea, and ſink or diſable their whole fleet, upon which the Phœceans are obliged to quit the iſland of Cyprus (now Corſica) to the Carthaginians and Etruscans .	VI	724
3768	2461	538	Daniel interprets the hand-writing upon the wall to Belſhazzar , and is promoted to be the chief of the three princes over the whole kingdom of Babylon .	I	971
3768	2461	538	Daniel is caſt into the lion's den, but is preſerved, and ſees the viſion of the 70 weeks, &c.	I	972
3768	2461	538	Cyrus takes Babylon and kills Belſhazzar ; Darius (or Cyaxares) becomes king of Babylon for 2 years.	II	92
3769	2462	537	Machæus , the Carthaginian general, gains great advantages for his countrymen over the Africans .	VI	713
3770	2463	536	Cyrus makes a decree, and ſends Zerubabel (or the ſupreme judge over all that returned) of the ſeed of Dawid , and the high-prieſt Jefhua , with a great number of Jews to Jeruſalem , with authority to rebuild the temple, and to have the free exerciſe of their religion.	II	94
3770	2463	536	Athenæus made archon at Athens .	II	417
3770	2463	536	The firſt great monarchy of Babylon diſſolved, after it had ſtood 210 years under 21 kings and two interregnums.	II	92
3770	2463	536	Cyaxares (or Darius the Mede) dies, and is ſucceeded by Cyrus , whole father, Cambyſes king of Perſia , dying likewise, he unites the two kingdoms, and forms the ſecond great monarchy, under the name of the Perſian monarchy, over which he reigned 7 years.	II	93
3770	2463	536	Machæus , the Carthaginian general, reduces a great part of the iſland of Sicily to the obedience of Carthage .	VI	724
3771	2464	535	The foundation of the new temple at Jeruſalem is laid, and Jefhua the ſon of Jozadak made high-prieſt: The Cuthim offer to aſſiſt in building, but being reſuſ'd, get a ſtop to be put to it.	II	94
3771	2464	535	The plague makes dreadful havock at Carthage , whereupon the Carthaginians ſacrifice their children to appeaſe the Gods.	VI	725
3772	2465	534	Daniel ſees his laſt viſion, as recorded in the X. XI. and XII. chapters of the book of Daniel .	II	93
3774	2467	532	Polycrates and his brother Pantagrotus tyrants together at Samos , but Polycrates ſoon reigns alone.	III	190
3776	2469	530	Machæus , with the Carthaginian army, leaves Sicily , and invades Sardinia , where he is defeated and half his army deſtroyed, upon which the ſenate baniſhes the general and the remainder of his army, who revenge themſelves by beſieging Carthage , and crucifying Cartalo , the ſon of Machæus ; and after the ſurrender of the city, they put 10 ſenators to death, and ſo re-eſtabliſh the publick peace.	VI	726
3777	2470	529	Cambyſes (in ſcripture alſo called Ahaſuerus) ſon of Cyrus , ſucceeds his father in the united kingdoms of Perſia and Media , or the 2d great monarchy, and reigns about 8 years.	II	92
3777	2470	529	Tarquin (ſurnamed the proud) ſon-in-law to Servius king of the Romans , conſpires againſt his father and murders him, aſcends the throne, and reigns very arbitrarily and cruelly 25 years.	IV	458
3778	2471	528	Piſiſtratus the tyrant of Athens dies, after 33 years reign, though twice interrupted, and is ſucceeded by his ſons Hipparchus and Hippias .	II	453

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3780	2473	526	Arcefilaus III. succeeds Battus III. in the kingdom of Cyrene , but after one year's reign he yields his kingdom to Cambyfes king of Persia .	II	93
3781	2474	525	Plammenitus succeeds his father Amasis in the kingdom of Egypt , but after a reign of 6 months is conquered by Cambyfes king of Persia , and the whole country becomes tributary to Cambyfes .	II	96
3782	2475	524	Cambyfes king of Persia marches with a great army against Ethiopia , and is so distressed for food, that every tenth man in his army is slain by lot to feed the other nine. On his return to Thebes he caused all the temples to be pillaged and burnt to the ground; there was 300 talents of gold and 2300 talents of silver saved out of the flames; he likewise carried away the famous gold circle that encompassed the tomb of king Ozymandias , which was 365 cubits in circumference, and had upon it the representation of the motions of the several constellations, &c.	II	97
3782	2475	524	Cambyfes first marries, and then murders his own sister Meroe , by kicking her on the belly while great with child.	II	98
3783	2476	523	Polycrates , tyrant of Samos , is treacherously murdered by Oretes the Persian governor of Sardis (under Cyrus) at Sardis ; upon hearing whereof Meandrus , secretary to Polycrates , sets himself up for his successor, and being established in the supreme power, offers to restore the Samians to their former liberty, &c.	III	195
3783	2476	523	Machæus the Carthaginian general endeavours to overturn the government of Carthage , and introduce arbitrary power, for which he was put to death, and succeeded in the generalship by Mago .	VI	714
3783	2476	523	Cambyfes king of Persia orders his brother Smerdis to be murdered, for fear he should, during his absence, take the kingdom from him.	H	98
3784	2477	522	Cambyfes king of Persia dies, and is succeeded by Smerdis , brother of Patizitbes , who being personally like Smerdis the son of Cyrus and brother of Cambyfes pretended to be the real person, and so got himself established in the empire, and reigned about 8 months.	II	100
3784	2477	522	Darius son of Hystaspis , a noble Persian of the royal family of Achamenes , governor of the province of Persia , with 7 other lords, conspire against and murder the impostor Smerdis , the then reigning Persian monarch, and is chose king in his stead: To strengthen his interest he married Atossa and Artystona , the two daughters of Cyrus ; also Parmys , the daughter of Smerdis the real son of Cyrus , (who was murdered by order of his brother Cambyfes) and Pbedyma the daughter of Otanes , (one of the seven lords who assisted Darius , and who detected Smerdis the impostor.) He reigned 36 years.	II	103
3786	2479	520	Arcefilaus III. king of Cyrene , revolts from Persia , but being pursued to Barce was killed there; upon which his mother Pheretyme , getting an army in Egypt , returns to Cyrene , and reigned there 6 years.	VII	173
3788	2481	518	Darius , king of Persia , makes a decree to enable the Jews to go on with rebuilding the temple at Jerusalem .	IV	10
3789	2482	517	The Babylonians revolt from Darius king of Persia , upon which Darius comes with a great army and besieges Babylon ; the Babylonians to make their provisions hold out, collect the women, old men, and children, and strangle them without distinction.	II	105
3790	2483	516	The temple of Jerusalem finished by Zerubabel , the civil governor under Darius king of Persia , and Jehu the high-priest, in the month Adar , answering in part to our February .	IV	10
3791	2484	515	Darius king of Persia puts away his wife Vashti , and promotes Esther , a Jewess , to be queen in her stead.	IV	11
3791	2484	515	Darius takes Babylon , by the assistance and artifice of Zopyrus , one of his chief commanders, and broke down the walls that were 200 cubits high to 50 cubits high.	II	105
3792	2485	514	Pheretyme dying in Egypt , is succeeded by Battus IV. in the kingdom of Cyrene , where he reigned 48 years.	VII	173
3793	2486	513	Hipparchus , one of the tyrants of Athens , is killed by Harmodius and Aristogiton ; and then Hippias reigned alone in so cruel a manner, that the people expelled him three years afterwards.	H	453
3796	2489	510	Cleomenes and Demaratus jointly reign kings in Lacedæmon .	II	558
3797	2490	509	Haman , an Amalekite , having got into favour at Darius 's court, out of spite to Mordecai , queen Esther 's uncle, he gets an order to destroy all the Jews on the 13th of the month Adar ; but Esther petitions the king, and gets an order for the Jews to kill all their enemies, on that and the following days, throughout all the provinces of his vast dominions, upon which Haman was hang'd, &c. In memory of this deliverance the Jews keep the feast of Purim to this day, on the 13th and 14th days of Adar .	IV	12
3797	2490	509	The tyrant Hippias flies from Athens to Darius king of Persia .	III	275
3797	2490	509	In the bloody war between the Crotonians and Sybarites , Milo , the general of the Crotons , conquers 300,000 Sybarites with 100,000 Crotons ; upon which Milo destroys Sybaris , &c. This Milo was the disciple of Pythagoras , and had been six times victor in the Olympic games, and often in others. (See note E.)	II	492
3798	2491	508	The Carthaginians and Romans make a league of amity together for the first time.	VI	714
3800	2493	506	Pythagoras the famous philosopher died. (Note O.)	IV	194
3800	2493	506	Tarquin , king of the Romans , buys the Sybiline books, and appoints two persons, called the Duumviri , to be their guardians, and orders them to be lock'd up in a vault under the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus , (the most magnificent and expensive building that ever was erected) where they remain'd till they and the temple were burnt together.	IV	463
3800	2493	506	Upon a raging plague breaking out at Rome , Tarquin sends his two sons to consult the oracle at Delphos , who being ask'd, who should be prince of Rome , answered, he that first kiss'd his mother; which Brutus , one of their company, explained

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3801	2494	505	plained mystically, by falling down upon the ground as soon as he came within the limits of Italy , and kiss'd the earth, the common parent of mankind.	IV	464
			Tarquin , king of the Romans , having ravish'd Lucretia , the wife of Collatinus , she assembles her father, &c. tells them what had happened, and then stabs herself; upon which Junius Brutus assembles the senate, inveighs bitterly against Tarquin , &c. so that the senate and people deprived Tarquin of the crown, banished him and all his family for ever, and dissolved the regal government, and turned it into a commonwealth under the management of two annual consuls, &c. the first whereof were Junius Brutus and Tarquinius Collatinus , &c.	IV	466
3802	2495	504	Collatinus is oblig'd to resign the consulship with shame, and Publius Valerius is chose in his stead.	IV	471
3802	2495	504	Tarquin raises the Veientes , &c. and comes against Rome : The consuls command the Roman army: Brutus is slain, but Valerius comes off conqueror.	IV	472
3802	2495	504	Valerius summons the people, and they chuse Sp. Lucretius his Colleague; but he dying in a few days, Valerius reigns alone, and from his love to the real interest of his country was called Poplicola , or Popular .	IV	473
3803	2496	503	Poplicola and T. Lucretius chose consuls; they revive the Census and Lustrum , and find 130,000 men in Rome past the age of puberty.	IV	473
3803	2496	503	Naxos , the famous and fruitful city of the Cyclades in Sicily , besieged by Aristagoras , governor of Miletus in Ionia , assisted with 200 ships and a considerable army of land forces from Darius king of Persia ; but after 4 months, the siege was rais'd, &c. by their being forewarned of the design, by Negabates the Persian general, out of pique to Aristagoras , with whom he had quarrell'd.	III	221
3804	2497	502	Histæus , tyrant of Miletus in Ionia , persuades Aristagoras to revolt from Darius , which he does, and gets many of the Greeks on his side.	III	221
3804	2497	502	Porfenna , king of Clusium , at the head of a great multitude of Etrurians , espouses Tarquin's cause, which defeat and intimidate the Romans for a while; but by the bravery of Horatius Cocles the Romans were supported, and by means of Mutius Scævola's extraordinary courage a peace is made, and the Tarquins rejected by Porfenna , &c.	IV	476
3805	2498	501	Spurius Lartius and T. Herminius chose consuls at Rome for this year.	IV	477
3806	2499	500	M. Valerius and P. Posthumus being consuls, twice defeat the Sabines , who invaded the Roman territories, for which they were decreed a triumph, and extraordinary honours and privileges.	IV	477
3806	2499	500	Gorgus , brother of Onesilus , being king of Salamis in Cyprus , Onesilus raises a party, drives out Gorgus , and shakes off the Persian yoke.	III	177
3807	2500	499	Zeno Eleates , the famous Athenian philosopher, born at Pergamus , now flourished and taught the doctrine of Xenophanes , viz. That God and the world is one and the same thing, &c.	I	6
3807	2500	499	Poplicola being the 4th time consul of Rome , the Sabines resolve to renew the war; upon which Atius Clausius , the greatest man in all Sabinia , with 5000 families, comes over to the Romans , and changes his name for Appius Claudius : Poplicola engages and entirely routs the Sabines , is honoured with a triumph, and dies, &c.	IV	478
3808	2501	498	Aristagoras , the Ionian , killed in Thrace by the Persians in battle, from whom he had persuaded the Ionians to revolt.	II	110
3808	2501	498	The Sabines again attack the Romans , and are entirely defeated by Mentius the consul, for which he is granted a triumph, and his colleague Posthumus an ovation.	IV	479
3809	2502	497	Histæus , the Ionian , crucify'd at Sardis by Artaphernes , general of the Persian army under Darius king of Persia .	II	111
3809	2502	497	Hippocrates began his tyranny at Gela .	III	15
3809	2502	497	The Sabines being troublesome, the new consul Cassius Ucellinus overthrows them in a pitched battle, kills 10,000 upon the spot, upon which they sue for peace, which is granted them upon condition of their paying great sums of money, and furnishing large quantities of corn, and yielding up 10,000 acres of arable land.	IV	479
3809	2502	497	Alexander , the son of Amyntas , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigned 43 years.	III	271
3810	2503	496	The conspiracy of the Tarquins to murder the senators, and establish themselves upon the Roman throne again, is discovered by Publius and Marcus , upon which the conspirators were taken and put to death, &c.	IV	481
3811	2504	495	Darius , king of Persia , first reduces the Greek islands under his dominion, and lays a tribute on all the provinces, (Esther X) which before only paid a free gift.	III	197
3812	2535	494	Mardonius , the Persian general, loses 300 ships about mount Athos , and more than 20,000 men, by a violent storm that drove about half his fleet on shore, &c.	III	275
3813	2506	493	The dignity of dictator, or absolute governor in the Roman commonwealth for 6 months, is created, and Lartius the consul is made the first dictator, who promoted Sp. Cassius general of the horie, or second man in the government, which office died with the dictatorship.	IV	482
3813	2506	493	Lartius the dictator, having made a truce with the Latins for a year, lays down the dictatorship before the expiration of the time appointed for the continuance of that office.	IV	482
3814	2507	492	Posthumus , the Roman consul, being made dictator, goes against and engages the Latins , kills 33,000 men, and their three generals, and so ended the war entered into to settle Tarquin on the Roman throne, who hereupon retired to Cumæ , and died there in the 90th year of his age and 14th of his exile.	IV	484
3815	2508	491	Hybridides made archon (or Judge) at Athens this year.	II	453
3815	2508	491	Cleomenes , joint king of Sparta , thrusts out his colleague Demaratus , and Leotychides succeeds and reigns with Leonidas .	II	558
3815	2508	491	Cleomenes , joint king of Sparta , kills himself, and is succeeded by Leontidas , the second son of Anaxandrides .	II	558

The

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3815	2508	491	The Romans make a law, that all persons entering themselves into the army should be free from all prosecutions for debt, upon which the army under P. Servilius the consul becomes very numerous, with which he engages the Volsci and defeats them entirely; whereupon demanding a triumph, he is denied it, but gives himself one by force of arms.	IV	486
3815	3508	491	Miltiades , the Athenian general, with only 10,000 men overcomes the Persian general Datis , with 100,000 foot and 10,000 horse, in the plains of Marathon , killing vast numbers, and driving the rest on board their ships, many of which he also burnt and destroyed.	II	112
3816	2509	490	The book of Esther is now supposed to be wrote by Mordecai , uncle to Esther the Jewess , queen of Persia instead of Vashti , who was put away for disobedience.
3816	2509	490	Pausanias , king of Sparta , conspires with Artabazus the Persian general to make himself sovereign of all Greece , for which the allies deprive him of his command of the allied army, and even besiege him in Byzantium , from whence flying to Heraclea he returned to Sparta , where the Ephori try him, but pass him by for a time; but continuing his male practices, and being pursued, flew into the temple of Minerva Chalcidica , where he was starved to death.	II	593
3816	2509	490	Manius Valerius , brother of Poplicola , is chose dictator of Rome ; by whose wife management the publick dissentions between the people and patricians were appeased, and all the foreign enemies of Rome subdued; for which he was decreed a triumph.	IV	848
3816	2509	490	The city of Eretria in Eubœa being treacherously delivered into the hands of the Persians , was by them first pillaged, then burnt, and the inhabitants sold for slaves.	II	460
3817	2510	489	Leotychides , king of Sparta , takes bribes of the Thessalians , profess'd enemies of his country; but being detected, he flies to Tegea , and dies there in exile.	II	594
3817	2510	489	Valerius lays down the dictatorship, and the Roman people rise in arms upon account of the law of indemnity from debt, not being confirm'd, &c.	IV	490
3817	2510	489	Mago , having thoroughly introduced a strict military discipline into the Carthaginian troops, and behaved in an unexceptionable manner in all his great posts and employments, dies, and is succeeded in his honours and estates by his two sons Asdrubal and Hamilcar .	VI	714
3817	2510	489	The Carthaginians endeavour to free themselves from paying an annual tribute to the Africans for the ground whereon their city of Carthage stood, are beat by the Africans , and the tribute fix'd more firmly than before.	VI	728
3818	2511	488	The Roman Senate agrees to pass the law of indemnity from debt, and choose five officers out of the people, or plebeans, called them tribunes, whose office was to examine and disannul all laws pass'd by the senate that were injurious to the people; upon which the people return to their duty, &c.	IV	492
3818	2511	488	Miltiades (one of the ten Athenian generals) going against the Persians , miscarries; at his return to Athens he is try'd, and condemn'd to pay fifty talents, (the whole charge of the expedition;) but not being able to pay, is cast into prison, &c.	II	465
3818	2511	488	Darius king of Persia sends ambassadors to Carthage , to desire those people to abstain from human sacrifices, and the eating dogs flesh, to burn their dead and not to bury them, and to furnish him with a body of auxiliary troops against the Greeks ; all which they comply'd with, except the last.	VI	728
3819	2512	487	Cominius the Roman consul honours Caius Martius with the surname of Coriolanus , for his taking Corioli , the metropolis of the Volsci , and being greatly instrumental in defeating the armies of the Volscians and Antiates ; this consulship ended with a census and lustrum, when it appeared there were but 100,000 men in Rome fit to bear arms.	IV	493
3820	2513	486	A great famine at Rome breeds a civil dissention, upon which the Antiates make incursions into the Roman territories, and even threaten Rome itself; upon which Coriolanus assembles a band of volunteers, advances into the enemies country, defeats them several times, and returns loaded with booty, &c.	IV	493
3820	2513	486	Xerxes (son of Darius Hystaspes , by Atossa the daughter of Cyrus) succeeds his father in the kingdom of Persia , and reigned 21 years. Artamenes , his half brother, son of Darius by the daughter of Gobryas , oppos'd him, pleading his primogeniture, but finding himself too weak to contest it, yields the kingdom to him.	II	114
3820	2513	486	Coriolanus , after a long dispute between the Senate and people, is condemned to banishment; upon which he goes over to the Volsci .	IV	498
3820	2513	486	Asdrubal , the Carthaginian general in Sardinia , dying of his wounds, the command of that army falls upon his brother Hamilcar .	VI	714
3821	2514	485	Xerxes , king of Persia , renews, confirms, and enlarges the former privileges granted to the Jews .	IV	11
3821	2514	485	Coriolanus , as general of the Volscian army, besieges Rome , is wrought upon by his mother, wife, and the Roman matrons, to raise the siege, for which he was stabbed in the Volscian senate, when he appeared to answer the complaints exhibited against him.	IV	502
3821	2514	485	Gelon (a native of Gela in Sicily) upon the death of Hippocrates , under pretence of defending the rights of Hippocrates 's children, after several engagements with, and overcoming the Syracusians , &c. was declared the first king thereof, and reigned 18 years with great applause, striving all that time to do all the good possible.	III	18
3821	2514	485	The Sicilians beg the assistance of Leonidas , the Athenian general, against the Carthaginians , but are refus'd; whereupon Gelon defends himself, &c.	VI	728
3822	2515	484	Xerxes king of Persia goes against the Egyptians , who had revolted from him, overcame them, and fix'd his brother Achamenes viceroy, and then returns to Susa .	II	115

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3823	2516	483	Aristides is banish'd Athens , by ostracism; viz. a writing the accused person's name upon a shell by the freemen, which, if they amounted to 6000, banished the person for ten years.	II	467
3823	2516	483	Aquilius Tuscus and Sicinnius being consuls at Rome , Tuscus gains a complete victory over the Hermici , and is voted an ovation. Sabinus overcomes the Volsi , kills their general, and takes their camp, for which he is decreed a triumph, &c.	IV	503
3824	2517	482	The Agrarian law for dividing the conquered lands among the people &c.	IV	503
3825	2518	481	Cassius is accus'd by his own father of aspiring to the Roman sovereignty, and is condemned and executed, by being cast headlong from the Tarpeian rock.	IV	505
3826	2519	480	The Roman senate order the consecration of the temple of Castor and Pollux .	IV	505
3826	2519	480	Themistocles buys off Epeicides from soliciting to be made general of the Athenian forces, and gets himself elected; procures an act to recall all the banished, by which means Aristides returns home, at the end of 3 instead of 10 years.	II	468
3826	2519	480	Jeshua the Jewish high-priest dies, and it succeeded in that office by his son Joiakim , who held that office 36 years.	IV	11
3826	2519	480	About this time the Rhodians laid aside the monarchic form of government, and introduced the republican form among them.	III	134
3826	2519	480	Xerxes makes his first expedition into Greece , whose army, when he arrived at Thermopylae , a narrow pass that divides Thessaly from Greece , consisted of 2,641,610 soldiers, exclusive of servants, eunuchs, women, sutlers, &c. computed at as many more.	II	118
3826	2519	480	Leonidas joint king of Sparta , and 300 Spartans , resolutely resist the Persians at Thermopylae , and are all slain; and is succeeded in the kingdom by his son Cleombrotus , who dying very soon, was succeeded by his son Pausanias , tutor to Plistarchus son of Leonidas .	II	121
3826	2519	480	Xerxes takes Athens , and burns the city and all its temples down to the ground, and lays waste and destroys the country all about; but being soon after engaged by the united confederate Grecian fleet, (consisting of 380 sail, under the sole command of Themistocles the Athenian commander) at Salamis , the Persians and their confederates, being 2000 sail, Themistocles took and destroy'd upwards of 200 sail, with all the men and ammunition, and dispersed the rest, &c.	II	124
3826	2519	480	Hamilcar , the Carthaginian general, is killed by Gelon the Syracusan tyrant, and their army intirely defeated; whereupon his son Gisco is banished, and a peace concluded.	VI	714
3827	2520	479	The Spartans decree the prize of prudence to Themistocles the Athenian general, honour him with a crown of olive leaves, and bestow a most magnificent chariot upon him, and escort him home with a guard of 500 men, an honour never by them paid to any one before.	II	474
3828	2521	478	Athens laid in ashes by Mardonius , the Persian general, a second time, who was soon after killed at Platea in a general engagement, where the Greeks overcame the Persians with so great a slaughter, that they left but 3000 persons alive out 300,000; and the same day the Persians were also defeated at Mycala in Ionia , by the Greeks , under the command of Xanthippus , &c.	II	126
3828	2521	478	Disputes arising among the Romans about choosing consuls, S. Atratinus is appointed chief governor, and is succeeded by Sp. Lartius a few days afterwards, by whose good management C. Julius Julius , and Q. Fabius Vitulanus were chose consuls.	IV	506
3829	2522	477	The Athenians take Sestos , and pursue and take Oibazus , one of the Persian generals, and put him and his men to death; and also Artaydes , another Persian general, who offered to sacrifice 100 talents to Protesilaus , and pay 200 talents for his own and his son's life, but is refused, he being impaled, and his son stoned before his face.	II	476
3830	2523	476	Themistocles rebuilds Athens , and makes Pyraeum the Athenian port, instead of Phalerum , it being larger and more commodious.	II	478
3830	2523	476	Anaxillas , the tyrant of Rhegium , (a famous city over-against Sicily on the coast of Italy) dies.
3830	2523	476	The Romans with great difficulty defeat the Hetrurians , the consul Cn. Manlius , Cincinnatus , &c. being slain.	IV	508
3831	2524	475	The Fabii undertake the defence of the Roman frontiers against the Veientes , at their own expence.	IV	509
3832	2525	474	Cæso Fabius is made the first proconsul, which office gave him consular power over the troops that he commanded.	IV	509
3832	2525	474	Pausanias , the Spartan king, behaved so insolently and tyrannically towards the Greek confederates, that they unanimously chose Aristides the Athenian to be their chief commander, and voluntarily tax themselves, and acknowledge Athens to be the chief city of Greece .	II	479
3834	2527	472	Gelon , tyrant, (king) at Syracuse , dies, and is succeeded by his brother Hiero , who reigned 13 years.	III	20
3834	2527	472	Epicarmus , a famous Syracusan poet, that either invented or introduced comedy among them, flourish'd in the times of Gelon and Hiero , kings of Syracuse . Marshall.
3834	2527	472	The Roman consuls, Virginus and Servilius , intirely defeat the Hetrurians , who besieged Rome and caused a famine, by which overthrow, plenty, liberty, &c. was again restored to the city, and the inhabitants thereof.	IV	512
3836	2529	470	The Roman consul Manlius , without any loss, reduces the Veientes to sue for peace, and a truce of forty years is granted them: For this unbloody victory, he is granted an ovation.	IV	513
3836	2529	470	Democritus , the supposed author of the Atomic system, (vol. I. page 19.) and of Fatal Necessity , &c. now flourish'd. He was a great astronomer and geometrician; he us'd to ridicule the Athenians unreasonable pursuit after wealth, by laughing at them; he made himself blind, by looking upon a brazen globe when the sun shone upon it: He was born at Abdera in Thrace , and called the Abderite .	III	786

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ	(930)	Vol. 'Pag.
3837	2530	469	Pausanias joint king of Sparta dies, and is succeeded by Plistarchus , who reigned three years.	II 558
3837	2530	469	Cimon the Athenian , (son of Miltiades by the daughter of the king of Thrace) a man of consummate wisdom, integrity, and courage, chose admiral of the Grecian fleet, and sent against the Persians .	II 482
3837	2530	469	Leotychides , joint king of Sparta , (Lacedæmon) dies in exile, and was succeeded by his grandson Archidamus , the son of Zeuxidamus , who died before his father Leotychides .	II 558
3838	2531	468	Diagoras the Greek philosopher, born at Melos , one of the islands in the Ægean sea, was the first that affirmed that there were no Gods, (for which he was called an atheist) now flourish'd. — Marshall .
3838	2531	468	Cimon , the Athenian general, taking the city Eion from the Persians , the Persian commander burnt the palace, his garrison, all his wealth, and himself.	II 482
3838	2531	468	A most dreadful earthquake happened at Sparta , in which 20,000 inhabitants and all the houses but five, were destroy'd; upon which the Helotes and Messenians , &c. revolt.	II 594
3838	2531	468	Cimon performs great things in Caria , sails to Cyprus , and obtains a complete victory over the Persian fleet, takes 100 of their ships, pursues and attacks them on land, routs them, and so gains two victories in one day.	II 483
3838	2531	468	Cimon , with only four ships, takes 13 of the enemies galleys, reduces all Cherlesus , conquers the revolted Thasians , recovers the gold mines from them, lying between the rivers Nysus and Strymon , upon which the Athenians send a colony to settle in Amphipolis , a famous city of Thrace .	II 484
3838	2531	468	The Lacedæmonians solicit the Athenians for help against their revolted subjects, the Helotes , &c. upon which Cimon is sent with an army, and does wonders.	II 484
3839	2532	467	Aristides , the great Athenian commander, dies. (Note C.)	II 480
3840	2533	466	Arcefilaus IV. succeeds Battus IV. in the kingdom of Cyrene , and reigned 35 years.	VII 172
3840	2533	466	Upon the death of Hiero , tyrant of Syracuse , his brother Thrasybulus succeeded him, but after 11 months reign, the people drove him out, and thereby enjoyed their liberty sixty years.	III 23
3840	2533	466	Plistoanax succeeds Plistarchus in the joint kingship of Lacedæmon , and reigned 58 years.	II 558
3841	2534	465	Appius , now out of his consulship, is cited to appear before the people of Rome , the complaints exhibited against him; he being conscious of his own guilt, murders himself.	IV 517
3842	2535	464	The Roman consul Servilius , defeats the Sabines , and Quintilius , the Equi and Volsi , and takes the city of Antium , and has a triumph decreed him.	IV 517
3842	2535	464	Xerxes king of Persia giving himself up to luxury, &c. Artabanus , the captain of his guards, conspires against him, with Mitbridates his chamberlain, and murders him upon his bed.	II 129
3842	2535	464	Artaxerxes I. (called Longimanus) succeeds his father Xerxes in the kingdom of Persia , after having killed his uncle Artabanus , who had usurp'd the crown seven months, and reigned 41 years.	II 130
3842	2535	464	Cimon the Athenian commander, after all his heroic actions, is rewarded with ostracism or banishment for 10 years.	IV 487
3843	2536	563	The Bactrian rebellion gives rise to the Lybian rebellion of Inarus , and the Egyptian rebellion of Amyrteus .	II 131
3846	2539	460	The Carthaginians war against the Moors , Numidians , &c. the success whereof was, that they were excus'd the annual tribute they formerly paid, &c.	VI 714
3847	2540	459	After ten years war, the Spartans reduce the Helotæ , and expell the Messenians from Ithome .	II 595
3847	2540	459	Ephialtes , one of the great sticklers for liberty at Athens , having gained over a considerable party, became a great check upon the Areopagite court, for which he was murdered by Aristodiceus , a Tanagrian , in the street.	II 487
3847	2540	459	A dreadful plague broke out in Rome , which swept away the flower of their youth, the fourth part of the senators, the greatest part of the tribunes, the two consuls, and the two augurs, &c.	IV 518
3848	2541	458	Ezra the Jew sent by Artaxerxes king of Persia , in the seventh year of his reign, to Jerusalem , with great presents for the temple, and full power to rectify the Jewish church and state, &c. and also to have power over life and death.	IV 12
3848	2541	458	The consul Lucretius Tricipitinus , at the head of a large army, goes against the Equi and Volsi , to revenge the affronts they had given the Romans during the plague, engage and kill both their generals, and 13,460 men.	IV 519
3849	2542	457	The Athenians engage the Lacedæmonians at Tanagra , and are overcome with a great slaughter; soon after they engage again, but both sides suffering greatly, a truce is made for a short time.	II 488
3849	2542	457	The Spartans take the Thebans into their protection, and give them Beotia , &c. upon which the Athenians send a small army against them, under Myronides , who gained a complete victory over a very great army, then marches to Tanagra , and took it by storm, and razed it to the ground; then plundered Beotia , and overthrew an army of the inhabitants; falls upon the Locrians , pierces into Theffaly , and chastises their treachery, and then returns to Athens , laden with riches and glory.	II 489
3850	2543	456	Tolmides , the Athenian admiral, takes Methon , (a sea port in Lyconia , belonging to the Spartans ;) but being forc'd to quit it, takes Gythium , another sea port, which he burnt, with all the shipping and naval stores; then he reduced Zacynthus , and all the neighbouring cities, and also Naupactas , by composition, turns out the Spartans , and plants a colony of Messenians in their stead.	II 489

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3850	2543	456	Appius Herdonius , a Sabine , attempts the reduction of Rome by surprise, puts all to the sword he meets with, and lodges himself in the capitol, from whence he kills the consul Valerius , who went against him, &c.	IV	525
3850	2543	456	Quintus Cincinnatus , father of Cæso , is sent for from his country seat, where he practis'd farming, to be the Roman consul: As soon as his time was out, he left the city, and went home to farming again.	IV	525
3850	2543	456	The Persians , with a great army under Megabyzus , goes to raise the siege of Memphis ; Inarus and his confederates engage him, but are overthrown with a great slaughter, by which Egypt was again reduced to the subjection of Persia , and Sartamus was made governor thereof.	II	130
3851	2544	455	Pericles the Athenian invades Peloponnesus with 50 ships, &c. and burns and spoils all before him; but Cimon being recalled from banishment, a peace is concluded.	II	489
3851	2544	455	The Roman consul L. Cornelius Maluginensis intirely reduces the Equi , and the consul Fabius Vibulans the Volsci , and make both become tributaries to the Romans , for which the two consuls have a triumph.	IV	526
3852	2545	454	Perdiccas II. succeeds his father Alexander in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns 41 years.	III	271
3852	2545	454	Inarus , and the Athenians that escaped at Memphis , having long defended themselves in the city of Byblus in the island of Protopolis , were at last forced to surrender upon honourable terms, and were carried prisoners to Susa .	II	132
3853	2546	453	Cimon the Athenian commander, with 200 sail of ships, attacks the Persians with 300 sail, takes 100, destroys many others, lands in Cilicia , defeats Megabyzus , the Persian general, with 300,000 men, and concludes a peace for 51 years between the Greeks and Persians .	II	133
3854	2547	452	The Romans again make Quintus Cincinnatus dictator, and send for him from his rural retirement: He goes with an army to the relief of the consul Minucius , who was shut up by the Equi , who had revolted, overcomes them, and makes them pass under the yoke; returns in triumph to Rome , with the enemies general at the head of his chariot, and a great number of the enemies officers in chains, &c. He abdicates his office the sixteenth day, &c.	VI	527
3854	2547	452	The tribunes of the people are increased from five to ten persons, to be all chose new every year.	IV	528
3856	2549	450	The two books of the Chronicles in the Old Testament are now supposed to be wrote by Ezra ; the two last verses are the beginning of the book of Ezra . ——— Marshall .———
3857	2550	449	Themistocles , the famous Athenian commander, after having done abundance of noble acts for his country, was ingratiously banish'd; and retiring to the Persian court, became a great favourite with king Artaxerxes , who gave him a Persian wife and a large estate, which after enjoying some years, he died, and was honourably buried. (Note A.)	II	481
3857	2550	449	Cimon the Athenian general takes Citium , (where he died of his wounds) and Malus in Cyprus , defeats the Phenician fleet, beats the Persian army under Megabyzus , and besieges Cyprus , upon which the Persians conclude a peace greatly advantageous to the Greeks .	II	490
3857	2550	449	Inarus the Libyan king, contrary to agreement, is delivered to the mother of king Artaxerxes , who caus'd him to be crucify'd, and all his companions beheaded; upon which Megabyzus the Persian general revolts, raises a great army in his province of Syria , and defeats Ofris , who was sent against him with 200,000 men.	II	134
3857	2550	449	The Romans make a law, to impower magistrates to punish such as were wanting in respect to their dignity, 2 oxen and 30 sheep.	VI	532
3857	2550	449	The Romans send messengers to Greece , to collect a body of laws from all those used in the Greek cities, especially Athens .	IV	532
3858	2551	448	Megabyzus (the rebel Persian general) defeats Menostanes , the king's nephew; upon which the king sends him his pardon, and he lays down his arms and returns to the king at Susa .	II	133
3858	2551	448	A great plague in Italy sweeps away abundance of all sorts of people, the consul, and him named to succeed him, the high priest of Jupiter , the augur, and four of the tribunes.	IV	533
3859	2552	447	Tolmides , the Athenian commander, and his army, are cut to pieces at Cheronea by the Bæotians , &c. To redeem their prisoners, the Athenians for ever quit claim of all right over them.	II	492
3860	2553	446	Pericles , the Athenian general, enters the island of Eubæa , takes the city of Hestica , turns out the inhabitants, and puts a colony of Athenians therein; upon which the whole island submits to the Athenians , and a peace is concluded between them and the Spartans for 30 years.	II	492
3860	2553	446	The decemvirs chose at Rome , to compose a body of Roman laws, and to have the execution thereof; at first they governed daily and alternately, &c.	IV	534
3861	2554	445	The Roman people being assembled, the decemvirs cause the laws they had collected and composed, wrote in ten tables, to be read; which being approved, were ordered to be transcribed on pillars of brass, and set up in the forum, as the foundation of all judicial determinations.	IV	534
3861	2554	445	Artaxerxes , king of Persia , in the 20th year of his reign, in the month Nisan , (about the 21 of our April) sends Nebemiah (who was his cup-bearer, though a Jew) governor over the Jews in Judea , &c. and commands him to rebuild Jerusalem , which he did with great expedition, the wall being rebuilt in 52 days, though strongly opposed by Sanballat the Haronite : From this year begins the 70 prophetic weeks, or 490 years, in which time was to be accomplished the 7 weeks of prophecy and anointing our great high-priest Jesus Christ , called also the cutting off the Messiah , and lastly, the covenant with many till the ceasing of the sacrifice, &c.	IV	21

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3861	2554	445	Jehoiakim , the Jewish high-priest, dies, and is succeeded by his son Eliaſib , who enjoyed that office 34 years.	IV	26
3862	2555	444	The Athenians give the Sybarites (a people of Italy , who were a second time drove out by the Crotonians) the assistance of ten ships, with a considerable number of men, under the command of Lampo and Xenocrates , and likewise proclaim free liberty for such as were desirous to go and settle with them, which many did: The Sybarites being re-established, called their new built city Thurium , and themselves Thurians .	II	492
3863	2556	443	The decemvirs appointed time being expired, instead of proposing the election of new magistrates, propose adding two tables of laws more to the former ten, so that there was now the twelve famous tables of Roman laws, and continue themselves by force.	IV	541
3864	2557	442	The decemvirs acting quite contrary to their institution, the people and Roman army revolt; the senate assembles, and abolishes the decemvirs, and chose L. Valerius and M. Horatius consuls for the year ensuing, who to ingratiate themselves with the people, made many popular laws.	IV	543
3864	2557	442	The Equi , Volſci , and Sabines , having revolted, are reduced by the consuls Valerius and Horatius , for which the Roman people give them a triumph, in opposition to the senate, who refused it to them.	IV	545
3866	2559	440	The Athenians declare war against the Samians , and having conquered them, their general Pericles changed their government into a democracy, which occasioned great tumults; the Samians being supported by Pissuthnes , the Persian general, they revolt, and expel the Athenian garrison; Pericles going against them, defeats them at sea, &c. and after nine months siege, takes Samos , demolishes the walls, seizes their ships, &c.	II	495
3866	2559	440	Pindar , the famous Theban poet, dies; he was chief of all the lyric poets, and so valued by Alexander , that his house only remained unburnt at his taking the city of Thebes .	II	321
3866	2559	440	The Roman patricians and plebeians renewing their old dispute about superiority, the Equi and Volſci revolt, and ravage the country, even to the gates of Rome ; upon which the consuls Quinctius and Fabius head an army of Romans , engage and defeat them.	IV	546
3867	2560	439	Pericles , the Athenian general, pronouncing an excellent oration in praise of the slain in the several engagements he had been in, for their country's service, is crowned with garlands by the ladies at Athens .	II	495
3868	2561	438	The office of consulship at Rome made void, and military tribunes chose; which government lasting but a very short time, T. Quinctius is named for the interrex, who summoned the people, who restored the consulship again in the persons of T. Quinctius Capitolinus and M. Gregamus ; the censorship was also revived again, consisting of two persons, empowered every five years to review the estates and persons of all the Roman people; Papirius and Sempronius were now chose into that office.	IV	547
3868	2561	438	The Corcyrians beat the Corinthians and their confederates, and take Epidamnium by storm, &c.	II	495
3868	2561	438	Isocrates , the famous Athenian philosopher, born: His panegyrick upon Evagoras king of Salamis , was so well received, that his son Niacles gave him twenty talents as a reward for it. He died at 98 years of age.	III	181
3869	2562	437	The Athenians assist the Corcyrians , &c. against the Corinthians , &c. they engage, and both sides getting alternate advantages, both gain the victory.	II	497
3869	2562	437	Sp. Maelius , a Roman knight, aspires to the sovereign power. At this time a great famine happening in Rome , the senate creates a new magistrate, called the Super-intendant of provisions; who endeavouring to procure corn from the neighbouring countries, was disappointed by Sp. Maelius's having monopolized it before; and who, to strengthen his party, distributed it among the meaner people gratis, &c.	IV	547
3870	2563	436	Anaxagoras , the famous philosopher and preceptor to Pericles , is banished Athens , under pretence of introducing novelties in religion.
3870	2563	436	Quinctius Cincinnatus is made dictator, and having appointed Servilius Ahala his general of horse, cites Sp. Maelius before him in the forum, who refusing to appear, is arrested by the lictors, but rescued by the people, upon which Servilius rushes in among the crowd and kills Maelius upon the spot, and then his house was razed to the ground, and the vast quantities of corn he had amassed was sold to the people at low rates.	IV	548
3870	2563	436	Pericles gets Thucydides , his competitor, banish'd by ostracism.	II	497
3870	2563	436	The Potidea ns revolt from the Athenians , upon which Callias , with an Athenian army, engages and defeats them; Callias is killed in the battle, and Phormis becomes a general in his stead, who invests the city of Potidea , and the inhabitants obstinately defend it.	II	497
3871	2564	435	Disputes running very high at Rome , three military tribunes are chose for the officers of this year, instead of two consuls.	IV	548
3872	2565	434	The Fidænae revolting from the Romans , L. Sergius the consul being unsuccessful against them, Mamercus Emilius is made dictator, overcomes them and their allies, kills Tolumnius , and overcomes the united forces of the Falisci , Fidenates , and Veientes , returns in triumph, and deposits the Spolia Opima in the temple of Jupiter Feretrius .	IV	548
3873	2566	433	Nehemiah having finished his work at Jerusalem , dedicates the temple with great joy, and afterwards goes to give king Artaxerxes an account of his proceedings, &c. Here the Old Testament history ends.	IV	23
3874	2567	432	The Peloponnesian war breaking out, the Athenians and Lacedæmonians both solicit the friendship of Artaxerxes king of Persia , which he artfully evaded.	II	33

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page.
3874	2557	432	A grievous plague raging in Rome , the Veientes and Fidenates revolt again, upon which Q. Servilius Priscus is made dictator, who engages and overcomes them, and took the city of Fidenæ , &c. A census this year. —	IV	548
3875	2568	431	The Athenians do infinite mischief along the Peloponnesian shore, infect the Locrians , and eject the inhabitants of Egina , and people it with Athenians : They enter Megara , &c. and burn and destroy all before them, as the Spartans had done in Attica ; thus the first year of the war did immense damage to all parties. —	II	501
3875	2568	431	The Peloponnesian war actually begins in the spring of this year. —	II	499
3875	2568	431	Arcefilas IV. king of Cyrene , being killed by his subjects, his son endeavoured to succeed him, but being repulsed by the Cyrenians , was forced to retire into the Heperides , where he died, and so ended the kingdom of Cyrene , after it had stood 200 years, under the government of 8 kings. —	VII	173
3876	2569	430	Jeremiah is supposed to write his book or prophecy about this time. —
3876	2569	430	The consuls laid aside, and three military tribunes chose for this year's government of Rome . —	IV	549
3877	2570	429	Three military tribunes govern Rome this year. —	IV	549
3878	2571	428	The consulship restored again to T. Quinctius and C. Julius Mento , who go against the Equi and Volsci , who had revolted, but through disagreement between themselves are defeated, near mount Algidus ; upon which Posthumius Tubertus was chose dictator, who going against the rebels, defeated them; and returning to Rome in triumph, laid down his commission. —	IV	550
3878	2571	428	Anaxagoras the great philosopher dies: He mended the Ionic philosophy, and first admitted an intelligent Being, distinct from matter; and also supposed the air to be the first principle of the universe. He was the first that wrote of the eclipse of the moon. —	I	19
3878	2571	428	Pericles , the famous Athenian partizan, with all his family, dies of the plague at Aibens . —	II	504
3878	2571	428	Archidamus , king of Sparta , besieges Plataea , with a great army. —	II	504
3878	2571	428	The Peloponnesian navy wastes the island of Zanthus , and does abundance of damage. —	II	504
3878	2571	428	The Lacedæmonians solicit the king of Persia to assist them against the Athenians , and also Sytacles king of Thrace ; but Sytacles having been admitted a citizen of Aibens , he delivers up the Spartan ambassadors to the Athenians , who put them to death. —	II	505
3879	2572	427	Archidamus invades Attica a third time, and wastes and destroys with implacable hatred whatever belonged to the Athenians , upon which Lesbos and Mythinia revolt from the Athenians . —	II	505
3879	2572	427	Agis succeeds his father Archidamus as joint king of Lacedæmon , and reigned 27 years. —	II	558
3879	2572	427	A law made at Rome to turn the fines for disrespect to magistrates into money; the ox to be rated at 100 asses of brass, and the sheep at 10 asses. —	IV	450
3880	2573	426	The Lacedæmonians , after a siege of two years, take Plataea , put all the garrison to the sword, and sell the women for slaves; and so put an end to one of the bravest and most generous of all the Grecian people; and a while after the city was razed, and so remained till rebuilt by Alexander the Great . —	II	506
3880	2573	426	The famous Corcyrian sedition. —	II	506
3881	2574	425	The plague rages extravagantly at Aibens , and carries off great numbers of all sorts of people. —	II	507
3881	2574	425	An extraordinary drought occasioned a famine, which was followed by a dreadful plague in Rome . —	IV	550
3882	2575	424	Archidamus , king of Sparta , returns home from his intended invasion of Attica , being frightened by abundance of earthquakes that now happened. —	II	507
3882	2575	424	Upon the death of Artaxerxes , his only legitimate son Xerxes II. succeeded him in his kingdom of Persia , who having drank immoderately at a great entertainment, retired to his bed-chamber to sleep, whither being followed by one of his bastard-brothers, named Sogdianus , whom Pharnacus the eunuch let in, Sogdianus killed him there, after he had reigned 45 days, and set himself up in his stead. —	II	134
3882	2575	424	Sogdianus , (by the murder of Darius his lawful king, and Bagorazus , his father's most faithful eunuch) became so odious and hateful, that he endeavoured to murder all those he suspected, and therefore sent for Ochus (one of his bastard-brothers, at that time governor of Hyrcania) to murder him, who being apprized of his intent, rais'd a great army, being joined by several of the governors of the provinces: They put the Tiara upon the head of Ochus , and proclaimed him king; upon which Sogdianus came to an accommodation with Ochus , who as soon as he got hold of him, ordered him to be smothered in ashes, after a reign of 6 months and 15 days; then Ochus changed his own name into Darius , and is commonly called Darius Nothus , or Darius the bastard. he reigned 19 years as king of Persia . —	II	134
3883	2576	423	The consuls were laid aside this year, and four military tribunes governed Rome in their stead. —	IV	550
3883	2576	423	Three of the tribunes go against the Veientes , who had revolted; but differing among themselves, the Veientes defeat them; upon which Mamercus Emilius was again chose dictator, who entirely routed the Veientes and the Fidenates , took the city of Fidenæ , and the Veientine camp, the whole being performed in sixteen days. Emilius returns to Rome , had the honours of a triumph, and laid down his dictatorship. —	IV	551
3883	2576	423	The Athenians having taken the island Pylus from the Lacedæmonians , and carried away all the Spartans prisoners, people it with a colony of Messenians , whom the Spartans had cruelly drove out of their own country. —	II	508
3884	2577	422	The Athenians having overcome the Corcyrians , drew them out by 20 at a time, and put them to death with the utmost cruelty, for assisting the Spartans against them. —	II	509

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3884	2577	422	The Athenians suspecting the Chians intended to revolt, sent a fleet with orders to break down the walls of their city of Chios , which was done accordingly.	II	510
3884	2577	422	The consulship again laid aside, and four patrician military tribunes chose at Rome .	IV	551
3885	2578	421	This year the government of Rome was also by four patrician military tribunes.	IV	551
3885	2578	421	The beginning of this year a great earthquake, and an eclipse of the sun, happened at Athens together.	II	510
3885	2578	421	The Lacedæmonians and Beotians having engaged the Athenians , who besieged Megara , got possession of the city, and drove out all those who sided with the Athenians , and then called home the exiles, who seized and got put to death 100 of their opponents, and then changed the democratic form of government into an oligarchy.	II	511
3886	2579	420	The Lacedæmonians surprize, engage, and kill 600 Athenians , and rout the rest, with the loss only of seven men: In this battle both armies lost their generals, Brasidas for the Spartans , and Cleon for the Athenians .	II	512
3886	2579	420	A peace concluded between the Athenians and Spartans , which continued 50 years: This was called the Nician peace, from one Nicias , a great man of Athens who brought it about.	II	512
3886	2579	420	The consulship again restored at Rome , in the persons of C. Sempronius Atratinus and C. Fabius Vibulans .	IV	551
3887	2580	419	Upon the conclusion of the peace, the Athenians , at the request of the Spartans remove the Helotes and Messenians from Pylus to the island of Cephalenia .	II	513
3888	2581	418	The Athenians conclude a league with the Argives , &c. for 100 years.	II	514
3889	2582	417	Agis king of Sparta grants a truce of 4 months to the Argives , for which the Ephori must him a great fine, and threaten to raze his house, &c.	II	599
3889	2582	417	The Athenians bring back the Helotes and Messenians , and resettle them in Pylus .	II	515
3889	2582	417	Agis king of Sparta and his confederates defeat the Argives , Athenians , &c. and gain a complete victory over them.	II	599
3889	2582	417	The tribunes opposing the election of consuls at Rome , L. Papyrius Mugellanus is chose inter-rex, who prevailed to have military tribunes chose instead of consuls, and two new questors to be added, to make up their number four.	IV	552
3890	2583	416	Four military tribunes govern Rome this year, in which a plot for setting fire to the city, and seizing the capitol by the slaves, was discovered and prevented, &c.	IV	553
3890	2583	416	Agis king of Sparta enters Argos , where the confederate Greek army lay; and just as the engagement was going to begin, a truce was clapp'd up, &c.	II	515
3890	2583	416	The Athenians invade Sicily , and besiege Syracuse , which defends itself bravely, and after being reduced to extreme necessity, is relieved by Gylippus , general of the Corinthians , their confederates.	III	29
3890	2583	416	The Athenians joining the Argives , &c. they break the truce concluded with the Spartans , the Spartans engage and overthrow them, and thereupon erect a trophy.	II	518
3890	2583	416	The Argives desert the Athenians , and make a league with the Spartans for 50 years, upon which they demolished democracy (or popular government) and establish aristocracy (or government by the nobles) among themselves.	II	515
3891	2584	415	The Argives disliking their new aristocratic government, abolish it, and return to democracy again, and fall upon the Spartans , and such citizens as were their friends, kill some and banish others, renounce their new league with the Spartans , and confirm their old one with the Athenians .	II	516
3891	2584	415	Three military tribunes govern Rome this year, when the city Labicum and the Equi revolt; the two tribunes who went against them, quarrelling, are entirely defeated by the Equi ; upon which Q. Servilius was again chose dictator, goes against the enemy, engages and defeats them, and takes Labicum , returns to Rome in 8 days after his departure from it, and lays down his dictatorship.	IV	553
3891	2584	415	The Athenians finding themselves betrayed by Perdiccas king of Macedon , renounce their league with him, and declare war against him.	II	516
3892	2585	414	The Lacedæmonians begins the 10 years Declan war.	II	516
3892	2585	414	The Athenians take Melos , and put every man able to bear arms to the sword, and carry the women and children captive to Athens .	II	516
3892	2585	414	Rome enjoyed profound peace this year under four military tribunes.	IV	553
3893	2586	413	Four military tribunes govern this year, when the 10 tribunes of the people create great disputes about (the Agrarian law, or) the distribution of the lands taken from the enemy.	IV	553
3893	2586	413	The Hermæ , or statues of Mercury , (of which there were abundance set up) were all in one night defaced in Athens , but could not be discovered by whom.	II	517
3893	2586	413	Pisuthnes , governor of Lydia , revolts from Darius king of Perfia , being supported by a great army of Greek mercenaries; against whom Darius sent Tisaphernes , who bought the mercenaries, and forced Pisuthnes to surrender upon promise of Life; which he doing, Darius ordered him to be smothered in ashes.	II	135
3893	2586	413	Archelaus , the son of Perdiccas king of Macedon , upon the resignation of his father, succeeds him, and reigns 14 years.	III	271
3893	2586	413	Alcibiades , an Athenian general, being wrongfully accused, runs away to the Spartans , who entertain him courteously.	II	517
3893	2586	413	Egypt revolts from the Persians , and Amyrteus Saites , being joined by the inhabitants, came out of the Fens , and drove the Persians out of Egypt , and reigned over the whole country.	II	135
3894	2587	412	Demosthenes , the Athenian general, attacks Epipole , in the night, but is repulsed with a mighty slaughter.	II	519
3894	2587	412	The Syracusans attack, overthrow, and kill and take prisoners Demosthenes the Athenian general, and his whole army; — and a few days afterward attack Nicias , the other Athenian general, who was taken prisoner, and his whole remaining army. The two generals, and many of the soldiers, contrary to the capitulation, were put to death at the instigation of the people. Thus ended the Sicilian war, with great disgrace and prodigious loss to the Athenians .	II	521

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3894	2587	412	The four military tribunes keep all things quiet at Rome this year. ————	IV	553
3895	2588	411	P. Posthumius , one of the military tribunes that governed this year, going against the Equi that had revolted, promis'd his soldiers the spoil of Bala , if they took it, but breaking his word after the reduction of the place, for it, and other disagreeable behaviour, was stoned to death by his legions, being the first general that was killed by his own soldiers since the foundation of Rome . ————	IV	554
3895	2588	411	The Athenian fleet engages and overcomes the Peloponnesian fleet; they take a part, and a storm disperses the rest. ————	II	526
3895	2588	411	The Athenians reduce the revolted Lesbians , Clasmenians , &c. to their obedience again. ————	II	521
3895	2588	411	Alcibiades , &c. twice defeat the Spartans , &c. and in the last engagement gained two victories in one day, one by sea, the other by land; took the enemies whole fleet, and more spoil than his and the remains of theirs could carry. ————	II	526
3896	2589	410	The consulship was again restored at Rome , in the persons of A. Cornelius Cossus , and L. Furius Medullinus . In this and the three following years, nothing remarkable but a plague happened. ————	IV	554
3896	2589	410	Antipho (an Athenian of such extraordinary parts and eloquence, was so feared, that he was prohibited speaking in publick,) and Pisander induce the Athenians to abolish democracy, to choose five prytanes (or chief magistrates) who should choose 100, and each of these 100 should choose 3 colleagues, and that these 400 should be a senate with supreme authority. ————	II	523
3896	2589	410	The Spartans defeat the Athenian fleet, and take 22 ships out of 36, and kill most of the men in the residue, upon which Eubœa revolts from the Athenians . ————	II	524
3896	2589	410	The Spartans and Athenians engage again, the latter takes 21 of the former's fleet, which consisted of 73 sail, under Mindarus ; and the Athenians but of 55 under Thrassibulus , and of these 19 were sunk or taken in the beginning of the fight; a few days after the Athenians took 8 Spartan galleys coming from Byzantium , which had revolted, and reduced the city, and Alcibiades took nine more. ————	II	525
3896	2589	410	The Lacedæmonians besiege Pylus by land and sea; the Athenians send Anylus to relieve it, with a squadron of ships, &c. but the wind not proving favourable, he returned to Athens , where he is condemned to death for not performing his orders; and the Spartans take Pylus . ————	II	527
3896	2589	410	Alcibiades takes Byzantium , and puts all the Spartan garrison to the sword, except 500 which he sent prisoners to Athens . ————	II	527
3896	2589	410	Eliashib high-priest of the Jews dies, and is succeeded by his son Joiada (or Judas) who officiated in that station 36 years. ————	IV	26
3896	2589	410	Myndarus the Spartan admiral defeated and killed. ————	II	526
3897	2490	409	The expiration of the first seven weeks of the seventy weeks of Daniel's prophecy. ————	IV	27
3897	2490	409	Alcibiades and Theramenes return to Athens in triumph, with 200 ships, and an immense spoil. ————	II	527
3897	2490	409	Antiochus , the lieutenant of Alcibiades , breaks his master's orders, and in his absence attacks the Spartan fleet, is defeated and killed, and 15 of his ships taken by the enemy; upon which Alcibiades is accused, and deposed by the Athenian senate, and goes into voluntary banishment. ————	II	528
3898	2591	408	Paulanias , the son of Plifionax , succeeds his father in the joint kingdom of Lacedæmon . ————	II	599
3898	2591	408	Hannibal (the son of Gisco the Carthaginian) makes an expedition into Sicily , takes and razes Selinus and Himera . ————	VI	715
3898	2591	408	Conon the Athenian general engages Callicratides the Spartan general in a sea-fight, is overcome, and loses 30 ships, and afterwards was closely besieged in Mytæne . ————	II	528
3898	2591	408	The Athenians engage Callicratides a second time, and overcome and kill him, take and destroy 79 Spartan ships, with the loss of 19 of their own. ————	II	528
3899	2592	407	Lyfander , the Spartan general, surprizes Conon the Athenian general, and intirely defeats him both by land and sea, upon which he fled to Cyprus , with only eight galleys full of men: This put an end to the maritime power of Athens at once. Lyfander visits all the neighbouring cities, and reduces them to the Spartan subjection, changes their form of government, and puts Spartan governors in them to keep them in subjection. ————	II	602
3899	2592	407	Darius king of Persia invests Cyrus his youngest son, though but a youth of 16 years old, with the supreme command of all the provinces of Asia Minor . ————	II	136
3900	2593	406	Three of the four quaestors at Rome were this year, for the first time, chose out of the plebeians. ————	IV	554
3901	2594	405	This year Rome was governed by three patrician military tribunes; but the Volsi , &c. revolting, P. Cornelius Rutilus was made dictator, who gain'd a compleat victory over the enemy, returned to Rome , laid down the dictatorship, and the military tribunes resumed their government. ————	IV	555
3901	2594	405	Artaxerxes II. eldest son of Darius II. succeeds his father in the kingdom of Persia , and reigned 46 years; before his ascending the throne, he was called Arfaxes , (whom the Greeks for his extraordinary memory called Menemon , that is, the Rememberer.) ————	II	136
3901	2594	405	Artaxerxes (Arfaxes) upon the death of his father Darius , went to Pasargada , to be there inaugurated after the Persian custom, by the priests of Bellona , where he was informed his brother Cyrus intended to murder him; upon which Cyrus was seized and condemned, but at the intercession of their mother Parysatis , he was both pardoned and restored to his government of Asia Minor . ————	II	137
3902	2595	404	Dionysius Miles , son-in-law to Hermocrates the great Syracusan , began his tyranny at Syracuse , having by many insinuations got himself made generalissimo, and a guard allowed him for his own person, therewith seized the government, and held it with great cruelty 38 years. ————	III	45
3902	2595	404	Hannibal , the Carthaginian general, dies, with a great part of his army, of the plague, as they lay before Agrirentum in Sicily . ————	VI	714

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3902	2595	404	Imikar , the Carthaginian general, after Hannibal's death, takes Agrirentum and Gela , and puts an end to the war, by concluding a treaty with Dionysius the Syracusan tyrant.	VI	715
3902	2595	404	Four patrician military tribunes govern Rome this year. The Volsci retake Verrugo , and put the Roman garrison to the sword; upon which the military tribunes go against them, surprize the Volsci while in quest of Booty, and cut them all to pieces.	IV	555
3903	2596	403	Lyfander , the Spartan general, having put Philotes the Athenian general, and 300 captives, with all their officers, to death, took Athens , and pulled down the walls, and established an oligarchic government of 30, called the 30 tyrants, and so completed the ruin of Athens . Lyfander growing insolent, the ephori send him the scytale, or counter-tailly, to recall him.	II	529
3903	2596	403	Lyfander sends immense treasure, which he had taken from the Athenians , to Sparta , by Gyllypus , who stole a part of it, but being detected, was banished and branded with infamy.	II	603
3903	2596	403	Four patrician military tribunes are again chose, and revenge the affront offered to the Roman ambassadors, by taking Anxur by storm, &c. This year pay was first given to the plebeian foot soldiers.	IV	555
3904	2597	402	Six military tribunes chose to govern Rome , &c. this year.	IV	556
3905	2598	401	Six military tribunes chose to govern Rome , &c. this year, who closely besieged Veii , (one of the greatest cities in Italy) and took and razed the city of Artena , after having defeated the Volsci .	IV	556
3905	2598	401	Thrasybulus , the Athenian general, marches with his army into Athens , where laying down their arms, they sacrifice with the citizens, and restore the old democratic government, and expel the 30 tyrants.	II	532
3905	2598	401	Socrates , the great philosopher and soldier, wrongfully put to death by the Athenians .	II	533
3905	2598	401	Plato pleads for Socrates at Athens , but is forced to desist by the people, who would not permit him to go on.	II	535
3905	2598	401	Cyrus , the younger brother of Artaxerxes (Artaxerxes) king of Persia , aspires to the throne, and wars against him, with the help of Zenophon , the famous Greek commander, with 13,000 Greeks ; but Cyrus being overcome, and killed, Xenophon , with his remaining Greeks , returned home, 2325 miles through the enemies country, though continually harassed by their army.	II	139
3906	2599	400	The Lacedæmonians make war with the Persians .	II	140
3906	2599	400	Conon the Athenian made admiral of the Persian fleet: He engages the Lacedæmonians , kills their admiral, and totally defeats their whole fleet, consisting of 50 sail, and takes 50 of them, and 500 prisoners, and reduced many of the states dependant on Sparta to change sides.	II	536
3906	2599	400	Agis king of Lacedæmon dies, and is succeeded by his brother Agessilaus , who reigned 41 years.	II	538
3906	2599	400	Conon , after defeating the Spartans , returns to Attica , and in his way brings over the Cyclades to join the Athenians , and reduces Cythera , and confirms the Corinthian league; and upon his arrival at Athens , sets about rebuilding the walls, refortifying the city, &c. for which the Persian general puts him in prison.	II	537
3906	2599	400	The siege of Veii still carried on with great vigour, by the six military tribunes of this year, who are now said to invent lines of circumvallation and contravallation, and kept the army in the field all winter in wooden barracks covered with skins.
3907	2600	399	This year a law was made, that the Roman cavalry should be paid out of the publick treasure.	IV	556
3907	2600	399	Agessilaus , king of Sparta , routs the Persians under Tisaphernes , takes a great deal of spoil, and over-runs all Lydia ; upon which Tisaphernes was put to death.
3907	2600	399	Amyntas succeeds Archelaus in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns only one year, and is then set aside.	III	271
3908	2601	398	Pausanias succeeds Amyntas in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigns only one year.	III	271
3908	2601	398	Agessilaus , king of Sparta , invades Phrygia , took many cities, amassed great sums, marched into Paphlagonia , joins Spithridates , a revolted Persian lord, then returns and takes Dascylium , a strong city of Phrygia , and winters in the palace of Pharnabazus the Persian general.	II	142
3909	2602	397	Dionysius , the Syracusan tyrant, having defeated his enemies, and confirmed himself by slaughter, cruelty, and bribery, in the government, adds himself to poetry and other polite arts, in which he imagined himself a nonpareil.	III	58
3909	2602	397	Amyntas is restored, and succeeds Pausanias in the kingdom of Macedon , and reigned 6 years.
3909	2602	397	Six new military tribunes were chose to govern Rome this year; but by the disagreement of two that commanded at the siege of Veii , they are routed by the Talisci and Capenates , and the sallies of the Veientes ; which occasioned the deposition of all the six military tribunes, and the choice of six new ones.	IV	557
3909	2602	397	Dionysius the Syracusan breaks his faith with the Carthaginians , and seizes the persons, houses, and effects of all their subjects, which was very large, then trading at Syracuse .	VI	755
3910	2603	396	Dionysius the Syracusan invelts Moya (a very strong city, in league with the Carthaginians , built in a small island about half a mile from the sea-shore, where the Carthaginians kept their military stores and provisions) and ravaged and reduced most of their other confederate cities and provinces; after some time spent in the siege, and several times attempting to storm it, was as often repulsed, with great loss on both sides, but at last he takes it, and puts every person to the sword, except some that sheltered themselves in the Greek temples; here he got immense riches.	VI	758
3910	2603	396	The Carthaginians enter the port of Syracuse in the night, with 10 gallies, and sunk most of the ships then there, and returned without the loss of one man.	VI	757

			(937)
Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3910	2603	396	Five patrician and one plebeian (P. Licinius Calvus) military tribune chose for the government of Rome this year.	IV	557
3910	2603	396	Thrasybulus reduces Byzantium and Chalibis ; then he goes to Lesbos , and reduces all the revolted cities to the subjection of Athens ; after which he goes to Rhodes , and exacts a great sum of money; the Rhodians , set upon him in the night, and kill him, and drive his army on board their ships.	II	518
3911	2604	395	Nephereus (or Nepherites) of the Mendesiti , becomes king of Egypt , and reigns 6 years.	I	274
3911	2604	395	Licinius behaved so well this last year, that five plebeians and one patrician were chose to be the military tribunes for governing Rome this year.	IV	557
3911	2604	395	The Carthaginians under Himilco retake Moyta , reduces Lipara , the capital of the island Lipara , the principal of the 7 Æolian islands; then they invest Mesfana , take it, and raze it; upon this the Siculi revolt from Dionysius , and join Himilco : Leptines , the Sicilian admiral, engages Mago the Carthaginian , and is entirely defeated with great slaughter, losing 100 galleys, and more than 20,000 men. Himilco marches to Syracuse , lays all the country about it waste, takes Acradina , and plunders, the rich temples of Ceres and Proserpina , then besieges Syracuse ; but a plague breaking out, carries off 150,000 of his men; Dionysius attacks the remainder by land and Sea, and entirely routs them, killing, burning, taking and destroying, almost all their vast fleet and army; Himilco is forced to pay 300 talents for leave for himself and the citizens of Carthage to get away in the Night. Upon Himilco's return to Carthage , he kills himself.	VI	759 to 768
3911	2604	395	Upon Himilco's defeat, the Africans revolt from the Carthaginians , and with an army of 200,000 men they take Tunis , and come to Carthage ; but mutinying among themselves, they return home again.	VI	769
3911	2604	395	The Carthaginians imagining all their misfortunes happened to them for violating the temple of Ceres and Proserpina at Syracuse , to appease them they dedicated temples, and set up magnificent statues to their honour, and select priests out of the greatest families to sacrifice to them.	VI	769
3912	2605	395	Upon a great mortality that happened in the Roman army, by the sudden change of the weather from extreme cold to excessive heat, the Sybyline books were consulted: The Duumviri (who were their keepers) pretended to find a new expiation, called the Letisternium ; viz. three beds were placed in a temple, round a plentiful table, and the statues of Apollo , Latona , Diana , Hercules , Mercury , and Neptune taken down from their niches, were laid on the beds, and served with magnificent repasts for eight days; These ceremonies were imitated in private families; open houses were kept for friends, strangers, and enemies; all law-suits, disputes, &c. were suspended, and even the prisoners released, to partake of these publick rejoicings.	IV	558
3913	2606	393	Conon comes to Athens with 80 ships, and 50 talents, and repairs the city of Athens , and offers a sacrifice of 100 oxen.	II	144
3913	2606	393	Six military tribunes, all patricians, chose this year, out of a superstitious notion that plebeians were of too low an extract, however well qualified, for the discharge of so high a station.	IV	558
3914	2607	392	Six patricians chose military tribunes for this year, who cause (in conformity to the answer of the oracle at Delphos) pioneers to make a canal to carry off the waters of the lake Albano , and convey them all over the fields in trenches, which wonderful work subsists to this day: The auguries being not auspicious, these six tribunes lay down; and after a short interregnum six new ones are chose in their stead, all plebeians.	IV	558
3914	2607	392	Mago the Carthaginian endeavours, by popular means, to retrieve their affairs in Sicily , uses the inhabitants courteously, encourages all deserters from Dionysius , &c. but engaging with Dionysius , is drove out of the field, with the loss of 800 men, and retires into Abacenum , and Dionysius returns to Syracuse .	VI	770
3915	2608	391	Dionysius the Syracusan tyrant, and Mago , the Carthaginian general, conclude a peace.	VI	770
3915	2608	391	The two military tribunes that carried on the war were intirely defeated: upon which M. Furius Camillus was made dictator, who pushes on the siege so vigorously, that after ten years siege, Veii was taken by storm, and the dictator entered the city in triumph, drawn in a chariot by four milk white horses, and his own face painted with vermillion, which gave great offence, &c.	IV	559
3915	2608	391	The Roman ladies, for voluntarily bringing in their golden toys to make a vase to present to Apollo , were allowed to have funeral orations for illustrious women, like those of the men, and liberty to ride in chariots at the publick games.	IV	559
3915	2608	391	Evagoras king of Cyprus revolts from the Persians .
3915	2608	391	Amyntas king of Macedon is deposed by the Illyrians , who brought in Argæus , but two years after Amyntas was reitored again, and reigned 19 years.	III	271
3916	2609	390	Six patrician military tribunes rule this year, in which a proposal is made, that half the senators, knights, and people of Rome should remove to Veii ; but after vast struggles and much arguing, 'tis over-ruled.	IV	559
3917	2610	389	Camillus (general of the Roman army, and one of the military tribunes) by an act of justice and generosity towards the children of the nobles of Falisci , and their tutor, so wrought upon them, that they submit voluntarily to the Romans .	IV	560
3917	2610	389	Acoris succeeds Nephereus as king of Egypt , and reigned 13 years.	I	274
3918	2611	388	The consulship at Rome is restored again in the persons of L. Lucretius Flavius , and Severus Sulpitius Camerinus . This year great disputes happen between the tribunes of the people and the senate; who at last decreed that six acres of the Veii land should be given to every father of a family and every freeman that was single.	IV	561
3919	2612	387	L. Valerius Potitus and M. Manlius Capitolinus chose consuls at Rome , and begin their office with celebrating the great games in honour of Jupiter , Juno , and Minerva , &c. but a contagious distemper happening, with which the consuls were affected,

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Pa.
			the people depos'd them, and an inter-regnum followed, during which three pre- sidents ruled alternately, day by day, for a small time ; and then six military tri- bunes were again chose. — A census being taken, the number of people fit to bear arms was reported to be 152,583
3919	2612	387	The Spartans and Persians conclude the peace, called the peace of Antalcidas , greatly prejudicial to the Greeks .	IV	561
3919	2612	387	Camillus , the great Roman commander, goes into voluntary banishment, and re- sides at Ardea .	II	144
3919	2612	387	Evagoras expels Abdymon the Citian , the Persian governor for Artaxerxes , and takes possession of his paternal kingdom of Cyprus , by the help of the Athenians .	IV	562
3920	2613	386	Brennus , king of those Gauls called the Senones , situate between Paris and Mcaux , comes into Italy , and besieges Clusum ; the Clusini beg assistance of the Romans , who send the three Fabii ambassadors to Brennus ; who behaving haughtily, the ambassadors go into the town, and head the besieged in a sally, whereia they kill a principal Gaulish officer ; this enrages Brennus , upon which he demands of the Roman senate, that the Fabii should be delivered up to him ; but instead there- of, the people chuse them military tribunes for the year ensuing ; upon which Brennus marches towards Rome .	II	145
3920	2613	386	Dionysius , the Syracusan tyrant, fond of being thought a great poet, sends his verses and chariots to the Olympic games, where he is despised, which makes him mad, and causes him to break out into extravagancies, killing some of his friends, and banishes others.	IV	562
3920	2613	386	The Lacedæmonians fall upon the Thebans , and seize their capital ; 400 principal Thebans fly to Athens for succour, where they are kindly received, and by their assistance retake Thebes .	III	59
3920	2613	386	The Persians , under the command of Tiribazus , invades Cyprus with 300,000 men, and 300 ships, and after an engagement with Evagoras king of Cyprus , obtain a great victory ; upon which Evagoras flies to Sallamine , whither the Persians pursue, and besiege him by land and sea, where he is forced to yield on very hard terms.	II	539
3921	2614	385	The military tribunes assemble a Roman army of 40,000 men, and go to meet Bren- nus , king of the Gauls , whose army was 70,000 : They meet and engage, up- on the banks of the river Allia , where the Romans were intirely defeated ; upon which the people fled from the city of Rome into the neighbouring cities, and 4 days after the battle Brennus entered Rome , killed all the people he met with, ra- vaged and burnt the city, demolished the temples and publick edifices, and razed the walls to the ground, and besieged the capitol.	II	146
3921	2614	385	The Gauls besiege Ardea , with a considerable force ; but thinking themselves secure, neglect discipline ; whereupon Camillus , the great Roman general, heads the Ardean youth, and sallies out in the night, surprizes the Gauls drowned in wine, and makes a dreadful slaughter ; whereupon the scattered Romans send deputies to beg Camillus to take upon him the command of all the remaining Roman for- ces, but he refusing, the senate reverse his sentence of condemnation, and pro- claim him dictator.	IV	564
3921	2614	385	The Gauls besieging the capitol, find a private passage of very difficult ascent, gets up it undiscovered in the night ; but some geese that were kept in the court of the capitol in honour of Juno , and near her temple, making a noise at the Gauls approach, Manlius (a gallant soldier, who had pass'd the consulate) attacks them, and beats them off the walls, and so saves the capitol ; for which he was highly honoured, and geese were ever after had in honour at Rome , a flock of them being always kept at the publick expence : A golden image of a goose was erected in memory of them, and a goose every year carried in triumph, upon a soft litter finely adorned. From this time the Dogs were held in abhorrence, and every year one impaled on a branch of elder.	IV	565
3921	2614	385	Gaus , admiral of the Persian fleet, revolts from Artaxerxes , is joined by the Egyp- tians and Lacedæmonians ; but while vast preparations were making to support him, Gaus was murdered by one of his officers, and the whole affair dropt.	II	146
3921	2614	385	The plague and famine rage in Brennus's army, and so many of them died in one quarter of the city, as occasioned it to be called Busta Gallica , or the place where the dead bodies of the Gauls were burnt. Both sides suffering extremely, 'twas agreed upon oath, that upon the Romans paying 1000 l. weight of gold, the Gauls should raise the siege, and quit the Roman territories : When the gold was brought, the Gauls scales and weights were found to be false ; upon which Sal- picius , one of the Roman military tribunes, complaining, Brennus , instead of ex- cusing it, threw his sword and belt into the scales where the weights were, crying out, Væ Victis , or Woe to the Conquered . This continuing the dispute, Camillus with his army comes up, and he with a few followers gets into the city, and orders the gold to be carried back to the treasury ; upon which a scuffle happens, and in the following night, Brennus and his army retires to the Gabinian way, eight miles from Rome , and encamped there ; in the morning Camillus pursued, engaged, and totally overthrew them, with a great slaughter, and the remainder were cut off, as they wandered up and down the fields by the inhabitants ; so that there was not one left to carry the news home ; and Camillus returned to Rome in tri- umph, loaded with spoils, the soldiers in their songs calling him Romulus , father of his country, and second founder of Rome , at which some of the great men being offended, the tribunes speak disrespectfully of Camillus , insinuating he aimed to make himself king ; but the senate voted his continuing in the dictatorship for one whole year, to put their confusions to rights, which ended in a decree for re- building the city, which Brennus had burnt down.	IV	567
3922	2615	384	Camillus laying down the dictatorship, an interregnum followed, wherein Camillus and P. Cornelius Scipio ruled alternately ; and after some time, six military tri-

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			bunes were chose, who immediately set about collecting what monuments, tables, of laws, treaties with nations, &c. that could be found in the ruins, &c. —	IV	567
3922	2615	384	The Ædiles have the care of rebuilding the city of Rome : The expence of building the private houses was defrayed out of the publick treasury; but through haste, ignorance, and covetousness, the plan was very illy projected and executed —	IV	567
3922	2615	384	Artaxerxes , king of Persia , goes in person against the Cadusians , (a people inhabiting the mountain between the Euxine and Caspian sea) with an army of 300,000 foot and 20,000 horse; but the country being unable to furnish provisions, a famine ensues, whereby all the horse, and abundance of the foot, &c. were lost; but the Cadusians , by the artful negotiations of Tiribazus were brought to submit to the Persians . —	II	147
3922	2615	384	Achoris king of Egypt dies, and is succeeded by Psammutis , who reigned only one year. —	II	147
3922	2615	384	Sphodrias , the Spartan commander at Thespiis , attempts in the night to seize the fort of Pyraeum at Athens ; but the sun rising when he came to Eleusina , his men refused to march any farther; upon which the Athenians declare war against the Spartans . —	II	339
3923	2616	383	The Lacedæmonians , under Agessilaus , one of their kings, invades Bæotia , and braves the Thebans and their allies, in the neighbourhood of their own city. —	II	540
3923	2616	383	The hardships and misfortunes of the Romans encourages their tributaries to revolt, upon which Camillus is again chose dictator, who, at the head of an army, attacks and defeats the Volsci and Latins , takes their camp and the city of Bola , the capitol of the Equi ; from whence he marches against the Volsci , whom he intirely reduced; from thence he went to Sutrium , (which the Hetrurians had taken, and turned out all the inhabitants, and in which they were revelling without guard) entered the city, put many to the sword, took a vast number of prisoners, and restored the natives again, and then returned to Rome in triumph a third time. Upon his return, the captives were sold, and with part of the amount of the sale the Roman ladies were repaid for their jewels they had formerly contributed to make a present to Apollo ; and the remainder bought three gold vases, which, with Camillus's name inscribed on them, were put at the feet of Juno in the temple of Jupiter . —	IV	569
3923	2616	383	Nicoreon , tyrant of Salamis , taking offence at a satyrical expression of the philosopher Anaxarchus , ordered him to be pounded to death with iron pebbles in a great mortar. —	III	179
3923	2616	383	Nepherotes succeeds Psammutis in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns only four months. —	I	275
3924	2617	382	Neftanebis (the first of the Sebennytic race) succeeds Nepherotes in the kingdom of Egypt , and reigns 12 years. —	I	275
3924	2617	382	The Romans lay the country of the Equi waste, to prevent their revolting, and demolish the two cities of Cortusofa and Contenebra , and repair and strengthen the capitol. —	IV	569
3924	2617	382	Dionysius , the Syracusan , makes a descent into Hetruria , plunders a rich temple in the suburbs of Agylla , from whence he carries off 1000 talents in money, and rich spoils that he sold for 500 more. —	III	60
3924	2617	382	The Carthaginians having declared war against Dionysius king of Syracuse , he engages Mago the Carthaginian general, and kills 10,000 of his men, takes 5000, and obliges the rest to sue for peace, which is refused. —	VI	771
3924	2617	382	The Carthaginians having recruited under Mago's son, engage and defeat the Syracusans at Cronion , and kill Leptines , the king's brother, and 14,000 Syracusans on the spot; upon which, to obtain peace, Dionysius was forced to pay 1000 talents, and deliver up the city and territories of Selinus , and part of the territories of Agrigentum . —	III	60
3924	2617	382	Chabrias , the Athenian , engages the Lacedæmonian fleet, and after a very long and doubtful battle, at last gained an absolute victory, though with the loss of 18 gallies, the Lacedæmonians losing 24, besides 8 that were taken with all their men. —	II	540
3924	2617	382	Chabrias , the Athenian general, after delivering the Abderites , while he was settling the affairs of the city was assassinated. —	II	540
3925	2618	381	The Athenians and Lacedæmonians make a peace, wherein it was concluded that all the Grecian cities should be free, which was neither long nor well kept, the Thebans protesting against it, &c. —	II	540
3925	2618	381	The Persian army and fleet come upon the coasts of Egypt , and attack Pelusium ; but Neftanebis , king of Egypt , having well fortified and garrisoned it, the Persians could not get any considerable advantage, and quarrelling among themselves, ended the war and returned home. —	I	275
3925	2618	381	A temple, which in the Gaulish war had been vowed to Mars , is now built, and consecrated at Rome , and four tribes of the people beyond the Tiber added to make up the whole number of tribes 25, who all enjoyed the same common rights and privileges. —	IV	569
3926	2619	380	Camillus chose by the Romans one of the military tribunes for this year, with full power to preside and direct in all warlike affairs; upon which he heads an army, and engages the Antiates , Latins , and Hernici , who had revolted, and overthrows them; after which, going to the relief of Sutrium , (then besieged, and in part taken by the Hetrurians) he makes a dreadful slaughter of the enemy, conquers the city, and goes to Nepet , which had submitted to the Hetrurians , and took it by assault, and put all the Hetrurian soldiers to the sword, and condemned those citizens to die by the lictors axes , that had promoted the disaffection. —	IV	516
3929	2622	377	Manlius , one of this year's military tribunes, endeavours by all possible acts of popularity to engage the peoples affections, in order to grasp the supreme power; —

upon

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			upon which the Volsci revolting, A. Cornelius Cossus is chose dictator, who marching against the Volsci , defeats them; then returning to Rome , cites Manlius before him, and condemns him for an incendiary, &c. after which he was honoured with a triumph; upon which the senate orders a colony of Roman citizens to be sent to Sutrium , and allotted each man 2 acres and half of arable land.
3929	2622	377	The Carthaginians land an army in Italy , and restore the inhabitants of Hippo (built by the Locri) to their city, from whence they had been expelled for being the allies of Carthage .	IV	572
3930	2623	376	A most terrible plague breaks out at Carthage , which swept away an infinite number of people, and almost depopulated the whole country; this distemper made the people so mad as to cause the afflicted to fall out of their houses, sword in hand, and kill all they met with: Upon this the Africans and Sardi revolt, and are reduced with difficulty: This Distemper is said to afflict the Carthaginians several years.	VI	772
3930	2623	376	Agefilas , king of Sparta , comes ambassador to Nectanebis king of Egypt , to solicit succours for the Lacedæmonians against the Thebans .	VI	773
3930	2623	376	Camillus again chose one of this year's military tribunes, and Manlius condemned for aspiring to the regal dignity, and thrown headlong from the capitol; but a plague happening soon after, the populace ascribe it to be a judgment, for unjustly punishing Manlius .	I	272
3931	2624	375	The plague sweeping away great numbers of the Romans , the Volsci , &c. revolt, the military tribunes assemble an army, but can't go against them, through the violence of the plague; upon which the Volsci , &c. commit great ravages upon the Roman allies.	IV	574
3932	2625	374	Six military tribunes govern Rome this year; and the plague being ceased, they reduce part of the revolters to their obedience again.	IV	574
3932	2625	374	Niacles killed Evagoras king of Cyprus , and reigned in his stead.	IV	574
3933	2626	373	Camillus is a 6th time chose military tribune, much against his will, and with L. Furius , his colleague, goes against the revolted Volsci , who overcome Furius , but are entirely defeated by Camillus .	IV	575
3933	2626	373	Johanan (or John) succeeds his father Joiada in the Jewish high-priesthood; but Bagoses , governor of Syria , &c. having promised it to Jesbua , (or Jesus his brother) upon his coming to act, Johanan raised his passion so high, that he killed him in the inner court of the temple; for which Bagoses (the Persian general) severely mulcted the temple seven years.	IV	28
3934	2627	372	The Roman patricians oppose the choice of censors, which occasions so great a disturbance, that the Prænestines revolt, and come up to the very gates of Rome ; upon which Titus Quinctius was chose dictator, and the Prænestines retire from the city to the banks of the Allia , whither the dictator followed, and overthrew them: Afterwards he pursued them, and overtook them before they reached Præneste , and overthrew them a second time, took all their strong holds, and appearing before Præneste , it capitulated. The Dictator returned to Rome in triumph, bringing from Præneste the statue of Jupiter Imperator , which was placed in the capitol between Jupiter Capitolinus and Minerva , and then laid down his dictatorship, which lasted but 25 days; upon which three patricians and three plebeians are chose military tribunes.	IV	576
3934	2627	372	The Volsci draw the Roman generals into an ambuscade, and kill many of their men, and take their camps.	IV	577
3934	2627	372	The Athenians and Lacedæmonians make peace again, proclaiming all the Grecian cities free, against which the Thebans again protest, &c.	II	541
3934	2627	372	The Thebans and Lacedæmonians being at war, the Thebans demand help of the Athenians , who send Iphicrates to their assistance, who succeeds but badly.	II	541
3935	2628	371	The Spartans having made a truce with the Thebans , &c. in their return home meeting Archidamus coming to their assistance with a great reinforcement, return, break the truce, engage, and are totally overthrown in the battle of Leuctra , whereby they lost the empire of Greece , which they had held for 500 years. This fatal news coming to Sparta , while the Ephori were superintending the Gymnic solemnities, went on without taking any notice of the calamity.	II	616
3935	2628	371	The Volsci entering the Roman territories, lay them waste; upon which the Romans enter the enemies country with two armies at once, and lay it waste, and return to Rome with great booty. Two censors are this year chose, but suspend their office upon account of the publick troubles.	IV	577
3935	2628	371	Cleombrotus , king of Lacedæmon , is killed in battle at Leuctra , and is succeeded by his son Agefipolis .	II	558
3936	2629	370	The Latins and Volsci join against the Romans , but are overthrown by the military tribunes P. Valerius and L. Æmilius .	IV	578
3936	2629	370	The Latins remaining obstinate against the Romans , enter the country of the Tusculans , and put many to the sword, and take their city: The Romans come to their relief, take the place by assault, and put every Latin to the sword, and return back to Rome , having reintituted the Tusculans .	IV	578
3936	2629	370	Agefipolis king of Lacedæmon dies, and is succeeded by his brother Cleomenes , who reigned about two years.	II	558
3936	2629	370	Agefilas is made dictator at Sparta , with power even over the laws: He raises an army, marches into the Arcadian territories, ravages the country, takes some towns, and returns home.	II	617
3936	2629	370	The Mantineans rebuild their city, and fortify themselves therein; and the Arcadians rebuild Megalapolis , to which they repair from all their villages: The Lacedæmonians go against them, kill Lycomedes , the Mantinean general, and 200 men; upon which the Thebans send them assistance, under Epaninondos and Pelopidas ; the Spartans being retir'd, they invade Laconia , and come even to

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			Sparta ; but by the wise management of Agefilau , are forced to retire; and in their return laid waste the country as they marched off.	II	617
3936	2629	370	Two hundred Spartan rebels seize the temple of Diana at Ifforion ; but Agefilau having artfully dispersed them, all were taken and put to death, without any trouble.	II	17
3936	2629	370	Epaminondas , the Theban general, upon his leaving Sparta rebuilt the city of Megjena , and recalled and replaced the ancient inhabitants, after they had been dispossessed 300 years.	II	617
3937	2630	369	Epaminondas , the Theban general, attacks and forces the lines of the Spartans and their confederates, and wastes the country of Peloponnesus , reduces Sicyon , and attacked Corinth .	II	618
3937	2630	369	Taiches , king of Egypt , (the successor to Neftanebis) while he was gone to oppose the Perfians in Phanicia , was deposed at home, and Neftabenus his kinsman set up in his stead.	I	275
3937	2630	369	The Roman state fall into a sort of anarchy for four years, by the contentions of the tribunes, there being only tribunes and ædiles chose governors during that time.	IV	579
3938	2631	368	The Lacedæmonians kill 10,000 Arcadians , without the loss of one man.	II	618
3938	2631	368	Agefilau defeats the Mendesian that opposed Neftabenus , being king of Egypt , and thereby settles him upon the throne.	I	276
3938	2631	368	Dionysius the Syracusan breaks the peace, and falls upon the Carthaginians , takes several cities from them in Sicily , &c. but growing secure and negligent, the Carthaginians surprize his galleys in the port of Erix , and take and destroy most of them, upon which a peace ensues.	VI	773
3938	2631	368	Cleomenes succeeds his brother Agefipolis as joint king of Sparta , which he held only one year.	II	618
3939	2632	367	Cleomenes acts as first magistrate of Sparta , and Archidamus (son of Agefilau) has the command of the army: He goes into Arcadia , takes Caryæ , and puts all to the sword. Cissidas , general of Dionysius , declaring his time was out, and that he must return home, which attempting, he was in part surrounded by the Messenians ; hereupon he sends to acquaint Archidamus with it, who comes to his assistance, falls upon the Arcadians , and utterly defeats them, and kills 10,000 upon the spot, without losing one Spartan ; which for that reason was called the tearless battle,	II	618
3941	2634	365	The Velitre declaring war against Rome , and over-running the Roman territories besiege Tusculum , whose inhabitants were now admitted as Roman citizens. Six military tribunes are chose, who raise an army, defeat the enemy, relieve Tusculum , and invest Velitræ .	IV	579
3942	2635	364	The disputes between the patricians and plebeians at Rome arises to so great a height, that Camillus is chose a fourth time dictator; but the faction for the people was so strong, that he could do but little good, and therefore laid down his office; upon which, after a short inter-regnum, P. Manlius succeeded.	VI	581
3943	2636	363	Six military tribunes govern Rome this year; but upon an information that the Gauls were in full march against Rome , Camillus was a fifth time made dictator, though now 80 years of age; he goes against the Gauls , encamped upon the banks of the Anio , and by stratagem puts them into confusion, and entirely routs them; then goes against Velitræ , which immediately submits; then returns to Rome , where he is decreed a triumph both by senate and people. Rome being now delivered from publick danger, the private disputes rising too high to be allay'd, the senate is forced to enact the three following laws, the 1st. for suppressing the military tribuneship and restoring the consulate, one of which was to be a plebeian, the other a patrician; the 2d. that what interest any person in debt had paid, should be esteemed as so much principal, and his debts so much reduced, and the remainder to be paid by equal payments; the 3d. that no Roman should hold more than 500 acres of land; the surplus to be divided among the poorer citizens.	IV	582
3944	2637	362	The consulate restored in the persons of L. Æmilius Mamercinus , a patrician, and L. Sextus , a plebeian. The senate orders the great games, and a new Officer, called a Prætor , is chose out of the patricians, to be a judge in all civil matters: Likewise two patrician Ædiles are chose to take care of the temples, theatres, games, markets, tribunals of justice, and the city walls, &c.	IV	583
3944	2637	362	New commotions break out in Peloponnesus , between the Tegetæans and Mantineans , which draw in the Athenians and Spartans .	II	619
3945	2638	361	Epaminondas , in a very obstinate battle with the Lacedæmonians , &c. is killed, and a great number of men on both sides.	II	542
3945	2638	361	Dionysius , the Syracusan tyrant, having caused a tragedy composed by himself to be acted at Athens , for the prize of poetry at the feast of Bacchus , was proclaim'd victor, upon which he treated all Syracuse for several days, and drinking excessively, contracted a violent disorder, for the cure of which requiring an opiate, his physicians gave him one from which he never awoke.	III	61
3945	2638	361	Perdiccas , king of Macedon , goes against the Illyrians ; they engage, and the Macedonians are routed with a great slaughter; among the slain was Perdiccas himself, with many of the officers; his son Amyntas , then a child, was declared his successor.	III	287
3945	2638	361	L. Genucius , a plebeian, and Servilius Abala , a patrician, being Consuls this year at Rome , a dreadful plague broke out, which carried off great numbers of the people, one censor, three tribunes of the people, and one Curule ædile , and the great Camillus , whose character was, that he never fought a battle without getting a complete victory, never besieged a city without taking it, nor ever led an army into the field which he did not bring back loaded with glory, honour, spoil, and booty, &c.

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page.
3946	2639	360	Dionysius II. (the son of the late Dionysius , by his wife Doris , the Locrian) succeeds his father in Syracuse , and sends to Athens for Plato the philosopher, to instruct him in polite literature, who came accordingly.	III	65
3946	2639	360	Dion , a great man in Syracuse , being banished, conspires against Dionysius , and comes with 800 well disciplined troops, who were immediately joined by a vast multitude of malecontents; they enter Syracuse without opposition, take Epipolæ by storm, and set all the citizens at liberty who were prisoners in the fort, and then block up all the tyrants friends.	III	67
3946	2639	360	Dionysius returns from Caunonia in Italy , and finding his affairs desperate, offers the Syracusans to restore the government of the democracy.	III	67
3946	2639	360	The parties of Dion and Dionysius engage, wherein many being killed on both sides, Dion at length prevails; upon which Dion is presented with a gold crown, &c. Soon after Dionysius offers to surrender the citadel, all the troops in garrison, and money to pay them five months, and to retire into Italy ; but this not being granted, he escaped in a single vessel, with his treasure, &c. into Italy , leaving his son Apollocrates governor in the citadel.	III	69
3946	2639	360	The Macedonians , under the king Philip , defeat Mantius , the Athenian general, who was assisting Argæus , Philip's competitor for the crown of Macedon .	II	542
3946	2639	360	Philip , brother of the deceased Perdiccas , returns from Thebes , and (though at first he pretended to act as guardian to his nephew) presently takes upon him the kingdom of Macedon , with the free consent of all parties; and to strengthen his interest, declares Amphipolis a free city, makes large presents to the great men of Peonia , and to Pausanias king of Sparta .	III	283
3946	2639	360	C. Sulpitius , a patrician, and C. Licinius Stola , a plebeian, are chose consuls at Rome : The plague continuing, to appease the Gods they use the Leæsternium , and constitute new sports, called the Scenici , or pantomine dances, and revive the ceremony of driving a nail (by the dictator T. Manlius , who was now named for that purpose) into that part of the wall of Jupiter Capitolinus's temple: which divided it from the chappel of Minerva , under the same roof; which being performed, he offers to raise an army to go against the Hernici , but is opposed by the tribunes, who compel him to lay down his office, then impeach him for his ill conduct.	IV	585
3947	2640	359	Agefilaus , one of the famous Spartan kings, dies in his return from Persia , and is succeeded in the joint kingdom of Sparta by Archidamus the 2d. who reigned 23 years.	II	620
3947	2640	359	Dion is shamefully and ingratelully forced to fly, with his adherents, from Syracuse .	II	69
3947	2640	359	Ochus , son of Artaxerxes , succeeds his father in the kingdom of Persia , the most cruel and wicked prince that ever reigned in Persia , causing all of the blood royal of all ages and sexes to be murdered.	II	150
3947	2640	359	Argæus (a pretender to the crown of Macedon) comes with an army as far as Ægæ ; the inhabitants oblige him to retire, upon which Philip pursues him, engages and defeats him, with great slaughter.	III	289
3947	2640	359	Philip , king of Macedon , concludes a peace with the Athenians , invades the Peonians , takes their city, and reduces them to become his tributaries; then marches against the Illyrians , engages, totally routs, and kills 7000 upon the spot, and constrained them to buy a peace, at the expence of all their former conquests in Macedonia .	III	290
3947	2640	359	A terrible earthquake making a chasm that could not be stopped up at Rome , the augurs declared it could not be done till what the strength and power of the Roman people consisted in was thrown into it, and that such victim would secure the eternal duration of the Roman state: M. Curtius , a brave young patrician, explained this answer by arms and valour, puts on his habiliments of war, and riding upon a fine horse, richly caparisoned, jumped into the gulph. Upon this, Genucius the plebeian consul goes against the Hernici , but falls into an ambuscade, and the legions flying, he is killed; upon which Appius Claudius is made dictator, who with great loss and difficulty beat the Hernici , but is refused a triumph.	IV	586
3948	2641	358	Nyffias comes to the port of Aræthusa , with a reinforcement of men and supply of corn, encourages the tyrants friends to hold out to the last extremity: The Syracusans set upon his ships, taking some, sink others, and disperse the rest; then give themselves up to debauchery; upon which the army of Nyffias falls upon them in the night, takes the city, and kills all they meet with, &c. and then retire into the citadel; upon which the citizens that were left send deputies to Dion , who makes all the haste possible to their relief: The next night Dionysius's soldiers sally out of the citadel, murder all they meet with, and set fire to the city; in the midst of this confusion Dion comes with what Peloponnesian troops he had, and marching through fire, blood, and dead bodies, attacked the enemy with the greatest fury imaginable; after many hours fight with a much superior number, the Peloponnesians forced the Dionysians into the citadel, after great loss on both sides: After some time, Apollocrates is allowed to retire, with all his friends and relations, to his father in Italy . Then Dionysius , having nobly rewarded those who had assisted him, dismissed his guards, lived like a private citizen, and soon after is murdered by one Calippus , an Athenian .	III	72
3948	2641	358	Asia Minor , Syria , Phenice , and many other provinces, revolt from Ochus , now king of Persia , through their hatred of his cruelty.	II	150
3948	2641	358	Philip king of Macedon besieges and takes the city of Amphipolis by storm, puts all the partizans against his interest to death, and uses all the common inhabitants kindly: Then he reduced Pydna , and Potidæa , which last having an Athenian garrison, he dismissed with all the marks of military honour, and delivers up the city to the Olynthians .	III	290
3948	2641	358	C. Licinius Stola , a plebeian, and C. Sulpitius (surnamed Peticus) being chose consuls at Rome , besiege and take Terentinum from the Hernici : In their return to Rome , the gates of Tybur are shut against them, the Tyburtes being in alliance with the

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
(943)
			Gauls , who were in motion again; upon which T. Quinctius Pennus is made dictator; the Gauls advance, and encamp upon the banks of the Anio , within three miles of Rome , and the Romans opposite to them. A Gaul of gigantic size and strength, challenging all the Romans to a single combat, Manlius accepts the challenge, engages and kills him; and tearing off a gold collar from his neck, put it on his own all bloody; from whence he was surnamed Torquatus . The following night the Gauls abandoned their camp, and retired into Campania .	IV	583
3949	2642	357	Orontes , governor of Myfia , being chose general of all the provinces of Asia Minor , and upon his receiving money sufficient to raise troops, to maintain them in their revolt, makes his peace with Ochus , by delivering up those who had brought it; and Rheomitres , another chief, instead of using the help from Egypt , where he had collected 500 talents and 50 ships of war, assembles the ring-leaders, and delivers them into the hands of Ochus king of Persia .	II	151
3949	2642	357	Philip king of Macedon takes Crenides , the capital city of the country, lying between the river Strymon and Nessus , famous for its gold mines; makes great alterations in the city, and new names it Philippi , directs the working the mines, more advantageously than heretofore, and gets 10,000 talents a year from them.	III	291
3949	2642	357	C. Petilius Libo and M. Fabius Ambustus , the two Roman consuls, having each an army, Libo goes against the Tyburtes , and Ambustus against the Hernici , who continued their revolt upon the Gauls coming into the neighbourhood of Rome , and blocks up the gate Collina ; upon which Servilius Ahala is made dictator, who engaged the Gauls under the walls of Rome , from whence, after much blood shed on both sides, the Gauls are forced to run away, &c. Fabius overthrews the Hernici , in a general battle. Libo has a triumph, Fabius an ovation; and Servilius lays down the dictatorship.	IV	588
3950	2643	356	The Chians , Rhodians , Coans , and Byzantines , revolt from Athens , and form the social war.	II	542
3950	2643	356	The Rhodians join in the social war against the Athenians , ravage the islands of Imbros and Lesbos , take many ships, and raise contributions sufficient to pay their fleet and army.	III	135
3950	2643	356	Chares , the Athenian general, accuses Timotheus and Iphicrates , his colleagues, for neglect of duty; upon which they are recalled, fined, and cashiered; Timotheus unable to pay the mulct laid on him, retir'd to Chelos , and there broke his heart with grief at his disgrace.	II	543
3950	2643	356	Advice is brought to Philip king of Macedon , then in the field, that his wife Olympias (daughter of Neoptolemus king of Epirus) was brought to bed of a son at Pella , whom he named Alexander , and who was afterwards surnamed the Great; at the same time he received also advice, that his chariot had gained the prize at the Olympick games, and that Parmenio his general had beaten the Illyrians .	III	291
3950	2643	356	The Tyburtes come in the dead of the night to the very gates of Rome ; in the morning the two consuls march out at two different gates of the city against them, and drove them away immediately.	IV	588
3950	2643	356	The Phocion , or sacred war, breaks out, about the temple of Apollo , and the things therein dedicated to his use.	II	543
3951	2644	355	C. Falius Ambustus the consul goes against the Tarquineses , and is defeated, they taking 307 Romans prisoners, first treat them barbarously, and then cut their throats. C. Plautius Proculus , the other consul, goes against and entirely subdues the Hernici .	IV	588
3951	2644	355	The Boii (or Gauls) advance to Pedum , ten miles from Rome ; Sulpitius is made dictator, who with his allies the Latins go against the Gauls , and after an obstinate fight obtain a complete victory, and kill and drive all away, for which he is honoured with a triumph, and lays down his dictatorship.	IV	590
3952	2645	354	Philip king of Macedon besieges Isbome , which makes a stout defence, but at last surrendered, with leave to depart the place; which being done, Philip razed the city and divided the land among his soldiers: He is said to lose an eye in this siege.	III	291
3952	2645	354	Interest of money is now settled at Rome , at one per cent, which heretofore had been arbitrary, according to the avarice of the lender, and necessity of the borrower. Licinius Stolo , the late plebeian consul, is fined 10,000 asses of brass, for having more than 500 acres of land. The Privernates having revolted, are defeated, and their city taken by the consul Marius . The tribunes get a law passed, prohibiting any magistrate upon pain of death, to assemble the Comitia any where but at Rome .	IV	590
3953	2646	353	Upon the death of Dion , the deliverer of Syracuse , Calippus (or Gylipus) got into the supremacy of that territory, and practised all manner of cruelties, even greater than the former tyrants had done.	III	73
3953	2646	353	Gylippus marching his forces against Catana , Syracuse revolts, and going to Messana , the inhabitants shut their gates, and take up arms against him, and in a sally cut off the Zacynthian troops that had murdered Dion ; and all the Syracusan cities refusing him admittance, he retired to Rhegium , where he was slain by Leptines and Polyperchon .	III	73
3953	2646	353	Philip king of Macedon , having partly by fraud, and partly by force, gained possession of the Straits of Thermopylae , Demosthenes , to route the Athenians , composed the first of those inimitable orations, still in being, called the Philippics .	II	545
3953	2646	353	Artabazus , governor of one of the Asiatic provinces, revolts from Persia , and gets Chares the Athenian to join him with a fleet and body of troops: Ochus , king of Persia , sends an army of 70,000 men against the rebels; which Chares cut all to pieces; for which service Artabazus gives him large gifts, &c. Ochus threatens the Athenians to join the Chians , Rhodians , &c. with whom they were at war, if they did not recall Chares ; for fear whereof they recall him, his army and fleet, with which he returns home.	II	151

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3953	2646	353	At the request of the Alcæada , or chiefs, Philip marches his Macedonians against Lycophron , the tyrant of Theffaly , and engages him and the Phocians ; his allies, who were defeated by Philip , and the Phocians driven out of Theffaly ; but Onomarchus , (the Phocian general) coming with his whole army to the assistance of Lycophron , discomfits Philip in two general battles, and forces him to retire out of Theffaly in great distress.	III	292
3953	2646	353	Philip again engages Lycophron , and his allies the Phocians , obtains a complete victory, kills the Phocian general, and 6,000 men, obliges Lycophron and his brother Pitolaus to surrender the capital city Phærea into his hands, and swear to be quiet; then he restores all the cities to their liberty.	III	293
3953	2646	353	All the Hetrurians taking up arms, the Romans chuse the plebeian C. Marius Rutilus dictator, and he named C. Plautius Proculus , a plebeian, for his general of horse; which so enraged the patricians, that they used their utmost interest to hinder his having necessities for the war; but the people being pleased with this promotion (it being the first time a plebeian had been made dictator) hasten the levies and stores, which being soon ready, he marches against the enemy, surprizes and forces their camp, kills a great number, and takes 5,000 prisoners; for which, in spite of all opposition, he entered Rome in triumph.	IV	591
3953	2646	353	The Athenians conclude the social war, upon very advantageous terms to the revolters, leaving Rhodes , Chios , Cos , and Byzantium , entirely freed from any dependancy upon them.	III	136
3953	2646	353	Mausolus king of Caria , who had assisted the Rhodians and Cosians against Athens , declares for an aristocratic government, and makes himself master of the two islands Rhodes and Cos .	III	136
3954	2647	352	Hipparinus , brother of Dionysius , arriving at Syracuse , possessed himself of the city, and held it for the space of two years.	III	73
3954	2647	352	Artabazus , the revolted Persian , gets 5,000 Thebans , under the command of Pammenes , to assist him, by whose help he gained two victories over the king's forces; upon which Ochus bribes Pammenes , with 300 talents, to return home; which they doing, Artabazus is forced to fly to Philip king of Macedon for refuge.	II	151
3954	2647	352	Philip king of Macedon being angry with the Athenians , arms a great number of light vessels, which continually harassed their trade, and took large prizes.	III	293
3954	2647	352	After great struggles and an interregnum, two patricians are chose consuls at Rome this year, after having for 11 successive years one of them plebeians.	IV	591
3955	2648	351	Nectanebus king of Egypt and the Phenicians revolt from Persia , and drive the Persians sent against Phenice out of their territories.	II	152
3955	2648	351	The Sidonians being betrayed by Mentor the Rhodian , and Tennes their king, to Ochus king of Persia , as soon as they saw the Persians within their walls, shut up themselves in their houses, to the number of 40,000, and burnt them and themselves together; upon which Ochus ordered Tennes throat to be cut, and marched into Judea , took Jericho , and sent many Jews captive, some into Egypt , and others into Hyrkania , along the Caspian sea.	II	28
3955	2648	351	Ochus makes peace with the Cyprians , redresses their grievances, and settles their 9 kings in their respective governments.	II	152
3955	2648	351	After great opposition, M. Fabius Ambustus and T. Quinctius Pennus , both patricians, are chose consuls to govern Rome this year. Fabius totally subdues the Tyburtes ; and Quinctius in a bloody battle defeats the Tarquineses , who put all the prisoners to the sword (to revenge the death of the 307 Romans they had murdered) except 358 which he sent to Rome , where, after they had been scourged with rods, were beheaded: Upon this the Samnites (a people of Italy) enter into alliance with the Romans , who promise them protection, &c.	IV	591
3955	2648	351	Mausolus king of Caria dying, the nobility and people of Rhodes drive out the Carian garrisons, and recover their former liberty and government.	III	136
3955	2648	351	The Rhodians make a descent upon Caria ; Q. Artemisia (widow of Mausolus) orders the Halicarnassians to express a readiness to surrender by clapping of hands, &c. upon which the Rhodians leave their ships, and go unguarded into the city; the queen seizes the Rhodian fleet, mans it with Carians , sails to Rhodes , gets possession of the city, and puts the chief magistrates to death: But Artemisia dying soon after, they recovered their city and liberty again.	III	137
3956	2649	350	Dionysius comes with foreign troops, and defeats Nysæus , governor of Syracuse , reinstates himself in the government, and acts with the utmost revenge and cruelty towards the people, who apply themselves to Ictas , a Syracusan by birth, and at that time tyrant of Leontini .	III	73
3956	2649	350	Ochus , with his Greek assistants, overcome Nectanebus king of Egypt , who is forced to fly into Ethiopia , so that henceforward Egypt became a province of Persia . Ochus having now quelled all disturbances in his great empire, gives himself up to ease and luxury, and the direction of publick affairs to his two favourites, Bagoas and Mentor .	II	153
3956	2649	350	Philip king of Macedon wars against the Olynthians , takes Zeira , a town in Chalcidia , and razed it to the ground; then takes Mycalerna and Torone , defeats the Olynthians twice in the fields, and shuts them up in their city of Olynthus .	III	294
3956	2649	350	The patricians keep the consulate, and promote T. Manlius Torquatus to the dictatorship, though he had never been consul, contrary to law; he goes against the Carites , who had revolted, who immediately submit, and for former kindnesses to the Romans was forgiven, and a truce made with them for 100 years.	IV	592
3957	2650	349	The disputes run so high, that to avoid a civil war, P. Valerius Poplicola , a patrician, and C. Marcius Rutilus , a plebeian, are chose consuls at Rome this year, who chose five persons, called bankers, to regulate the payment of debts.	IV	592
3958	2651	348	Almost all the cities of Chalcidia , fell into the hands of Philip king of Macedon .	II	540
3958	2651	348	Two patricians are chose consuls at Rome this year, during which the Tarquineses and Falisci submit to the republick, and obtain a truce for 40 years; and Marius

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			Rutilus , a plebeian, and Cn. Manlius , a patrician, are chose censors; and a law is passed to deprive the consuls of the power of filling up the senate, and giving it to the censors.
3959	2652	347	Demosthenes pronounces three most excellent orations, still in being, to persuade the Athenians to assist the Olynthians against the Macedonians .	IV	592
3959	2652	347	Olynthus is betrayed to Philip king of Macedon , by Euthycrates and Lasthenes : Philip plunders the citizens houses, and sells the citizens, and celebrates Olympic games for joy of this victory, exhibiting splendid shews, making magnificent feasts, and bestowing great largesses upon those who had behaved gallantly in the siege.	II	546
3959	2652	347	L. Cornelius Scipio , one of the consuls, falling sick, M. Popilius Lænas his colleague, being a plebeian, to the great mortification of the patricians, became sole general of the Roman troops: The Gauls having entered Latium , and laid the country waste, were advancing towards Rome ; Popilius marches against them, and tho' desperately wounded himself, after a bloody battle overthrew them, forced them to retire with precipitation, takes and plunders their camp, and returns to Rome loaded with booty, for which he is decreed a triumph.	III	294
3960	2653	346	A peace concluded between the Athenians and Macedonians for seven years.	IV	593
3960	2653	346	L. Furius Camillus (son of the great Camillus) and Appius Claudius , both patricians, are chose consuls to govern Rome this year; but Appius dying, and the Gauls invading Latium , plundered it from the mouth of the Tyber to Antium . Camillus raises a great army, and encamps in the Pomptin territory, in sight of them; a fierce Gaul , clothed in very rich armour, challenges any Roman to single combat, which is accepted by M. Valerius , a legionary tribune; they engage, but an eagle flying in the face of the Gaul , Valerius killed him; and to prevent his being stripped of his arms, the Gauls surround and defend him; this occasions a general engagement, wherein the Gauls were entirely defeated. Valerius was rewarded by Camillus with a crown of gold, and two oxen, and surnamed Corvus .	III	295
3961	2654	345	Philip king of Macedon subdues the Phocians , and so puts an end to the sacred war, orders the walls of their city to be demolished, and the people to live only in villages, and to pay 60 talents as a yearly tribute, their arms are taken from them, and their double voices in the council given to the Macedonians , by the Amphyctians , or great council of Greece , who had no voice before now.	IV	594
3961	2654	345	Popilius Lænas , and M. Valerius Corvus , (though but 23 years of age, and even too young to sit in the senate) are chose consuls to govern Rome this year, in which the Romans and Carthaginians make a treaty of commerce and navigation.	III	296
3962	2655	344	The Syracusans send to Corinth to beg assistance against Dionysius and the Carthaginians , who send Timoleon with an army to their assistance.	IV	595
3962	2655	344	Dopetbes , the Athenian governor in Thrace , enters king Philip of Macedon's adjacent territories, and lays all waste with fire and sword.	III	74
3962	2655	344	C. Plautius Hypsæus and T. Manlius Torquatus being chose consuls to govern Rome this year, peace being abroad, the consuls set about regulating the civil government at home, and reduce interest from one per cent to one half per cent, and allow the debtors, upon paying one quarter of their debts down, three years to pay the remainder by annual equal payments.	III	297
3963	2656	343	Dionysius surrenders the citadel of Syracuse into the hands of Timoleon , with all his treasure, arms, &c. and escapes to Corinth in a single vessel.	IV	595
3963	2656	343	Timoleon attacks and takes the city of Syracuse from Ictas , then assembles the citizens, who demolish the citadel, &c. and causes several edifices to be rebuilt, and proclamations to be made over all Greece , Asia , &c. to recall all the Syracusans that had fled from the cruelties of the several tyrants, promising the restoration of their lands, &c. these repair to Corinth , and with some Corinthians , &c. come and repeople Syracuse , &c.	III	76
3963	2656	343	Timoleon goes against Ictas , tyrant of Leontini , and compels him to renounce his alliance with Carthage , demolish his forts, and resign the sovereignty.	III	77
3963	2656	343	The Illyrians harrafs the frontiers of Macedon , but are soon quelled by Philip .	III	78
3963	2656	343	The Volsi revolting from the Romans , Valerius Corvus , now a second time consul, goes against them, defeats them, takes and burns Satricum , sparing only the gods of Mantua ; for which he was honoured with a triumph, in which 4,000 captives marched before his chariot, and the secular games were for the 2d time celebrated.	III	298
3964	2657	342	Dionysius , from a wealthy powerful prince becomes so poor, as to be necessitated to keep a school at Corinth to get a maintenance.	IV	595
3964	2657	342	Phocion , the Athenian general, arriving at Megara , rebuilds the long walls, and joined that city to its port Nicæa , and so secures it to the Athenians .	III	76
3964	2657	342	L. Furius Camillus is a second time chose dictator at Rome , upon account of the Arunis becoming enemies to Rome , (a petty nation on the confines of Latium , on the coast of the Tyrrhenian sea.) Furius overthrew them in battle, and at his return to Rome built a temple, (which, during the action, he had vowed to Juno Moneta) on the capitol, in the place where the house of the rebellious Manlius formerly stood, and which afterwards became a publick mint, from whence the medals stamped for trade were called money.	II	547
3965	2658	341	Philip king of Macedon sends his forces into the Negropont , and demolishes Portmos , the strongest city of those parts, leaving the country to the government of three lords, or tyrants: He likewise takes Orchus , and puts it under the direction of 5 magistrates, called also tyrants.	IV	595
3965	2658	341	Jaddua succeeds his father Johanan in the Jewish high-priesthood.	III	299
3966	2659	340	Philip king of Macedon marches with 30,000 men into Theffaly , and invests Perrynthus , one of the most considerable cities in Propontis .	IV	28
3966	2659	340	P. Valerius is appointed dictator at Rome , to solemnize the festival called Feria Latina .	III	300
				IV	595

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3967	2660	339	Mago , the Carthaginian general, returns with his troops to Carthage , and there murders himself, to prevent being called to an account for his return without leave or command.
3967	2660	339	Philip endeavours to storm the city of Perinthus , but after a vast effusion of blood on both sides, is obliged to raise the siege both of it and also of Byzantium .	III	77
3967	2660	339	Phocion , the Athenian general, takes several of Philip's ships, and retakes several towns, and raises contributions throughout the maritime provinces of Macedonia .	III	304
3968	2661	338	The Athenians very much harass and distress the Macedonians by sea, permitting none of their ships to stir out of their Ports, by keeping large squadrons always cruising to take all they met with.	III	305
3968	2661	338	The enmity between the Romans and Samnites breaking out, upon account of the Campanians , who threw themselves into the protection of the Romans , by surrendering wholly up to them, upon which the Romans , under their consul Valerius , and the Samnites engage, and after a most desperate battle the Samnites retire in the night, and leave the Romans masters of the field and their camp.	III	305
3968	2661	338	Cornelius Cossus , (surnamed Arvina) the other consul, being surrounded, and much harassed and endangered by the Samnites , was delivered by P. Decius Mus , a legi nary, and by a very bold stratagem surprized the Samnites , took and plundered their camp, after having cut 30,000 of them to pieces; upon which the consul honours Decius with a gold crown, 100 oxen, and a white bull with gilt horns, and to his men he assigned a double quantity of corn during their life, and gave them two Saga , or military habits; the legions crown Decius with an obsidional crown, made of the grails growing on the spot, and his own men crowned him with a crown of oak leaves, called the civic crown; thus crowned with three crowns, he offered up the white bull to Mars , and distributed the 100 oxen among his companions that shared the danger and glory with him.	IV	596
3968	2661	338	The Samnites recruit, and Valerius goes against them at Suessula , a town situate between Nola and Capua , where engaging, the Romans are conquerors; 40,000 bucklers are taken from the enemy, and 120 standards, and both consuls are honoured with a triumph, and the Carthaginians present a crown of gold of 20 pounds weight to Jupiter Capitolinus , as a thanksgiving for this victory. This year ended with a census that shewed 160,000 persons fit to bear arms were in the city of Rome , and the whole closed with a Lustrum .	IV	597
3968	2661	338	Ochus having displeased Bagoas by robbing the Egyptian temples, and killing their god Apis , and carrying away the sacred records from thence, 12 years afterwards kills him, causes his flesh to be cut to pieces and given to the cats, and made handles of knives of his bones, then puts Arses , Ochus's youngest son, on the throne, and murders all the rest, so gives Arses the name of king, and himself all the power.	IV	598
3969	2662	337	The Macedonians engage and defeat the Athenians and Thebans in the neighbourhood of Cheronæa , with great slaughter, and thereby obtained the sovereignty of Greece ; after which they made a peace with the Athenians , and put a good garriison into Thebes , and then left the rest of the Beotians unhurt.	II	154
3969	2662	337	A rebellion breaking out at Rome , the rebels seize T. Quinctius (an excellent commander that had retired to his country seat to die in peace) in his bed, and compel him to be their captain. Valerius Corvus is chose dictator, and goes against them, and pacifies them, and the senate not only pardon them all, but consents to pass the following laws; 1st. That no person who was a legionary tribune one year, should be a centurion next; 2. That no Roman should lend money upon interest, and usury absolutely forbidden at Rome ; 3d. That both the consuls should be plebeians; 4th. That no man should bear the same office twice in ten years, or hold two different employments the same year.	IV	599
3970	2663	336	Philip king of Macedon convokes a general assembly of the Greeks , wherein he was recognized generalissimo of all the Greeks , is endued with power to go against the Persians ; and after appointing each state its quota, dismisses them.	III	308
3970	2663	336	Philip king of Macedon repudiates his wife Olympias , mother of Alexander the Great , and espouses Cleopatra , the niece of Attalus ; upon which Alexander quarrels with his father, and retires with his mother into Epirus , the kingdom of his grandfather.	III	310
3970	2663	336	Philip king of Macedon calls home his son Alexander from Epirus , and is friends with him, and also marries Cleopatra (the daughter of his wife Olympias) to Alexander king of Epirus , her brother.	III	312
3970	2663	336	Philip king of Macedon murdered by Pausanias , captain of his guards, at a publick festival made for the celebration of the marriage of his daughter Cleopatra with Alexander king of Epirus , and is succeeded in his kingdom of Macedon by his son Alexander by his wife Olympias , surnamed the Great , from his great natural, and acquired parts, and from his extraordinary exploits and conquests in war.	III	314
3970	2663	336	Upon the death of Philip king of Macedon , the Grecian cities and states revolt from his son Alexander .	II	549
3970	2663	336	Bagoas , to prevent Arses bringing him to an account for his father's death, murders him, and all his family, and then puts Darius the third upon the throne, before called Codomanus , governor of Armenia .	II	154
3970	2663	336	Darius not being so tractable as Bagoas wished him to be, purposed to poison him, of which Darius having notice, when he came with the poisoned potion, he compelled Bagoas to drink it, and so settled himself upon the throne.	II	154
3970	2663	336	The Privernum revolt from the Romans , but are reduced by the consul Piautias ; and the Samnites are so harassed, by Æmilius his colleague, that they sue for peace and an alliance with Rome , which was granted.	IV	599
3971	2664	335	Alexander , now king of Macedon , rejects the Athenian ambassadors with scorn, but upon their sending Phocion , he was so influenced as to make a favourable peace

with

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			with him for the Athenians : At the same time Alexander contracts a great intimacy with and friendship for Phocion .	II	549
3971	2664	335	Attalus , general of the Macedonian army in Asia , is killed by order of king Alexander for aspiring to the crown of Macedon .	III	318
3971	2664	335	Alexander king of Macedon engages and defeats the Triballians , Thracians , &c. upon which all the neighbouring nations make peace with him.	III	319
3971	2664	335	Alexander king of Macedon defeats Cyrtus king of Illyria , that had revolted, and Glacias king of the Taulanii , who was come to his assistance, twice, and forces them to fly into the mountains for shelter.	III	320
3971	2664	335	Alexander king of Macedon takes Thebes by storm, kills all he meets for several hours, without regard to age or sex, and razes all the city but the house of Pindar the poet; the lands he shared among his soldiers, and the prisoners he sold for slaves, whereby he put 440 talents into his treasury; this severity was used towards the Thebans under pretence they were the allies of the Persians , and so enemies to Greece . As an atonement for razing Thebes , he orders the cities Orchomenus and Platea to be rebuilt; upon which all the states of Greece submit to him, and he is made generalissimo of all Greece , &c.	III	321
3971	2664	335	Manlius Torquatus , a patrician, and Decius Mus , a plebeian, are chose consuls at Rome , when Alexander king of Epirus , uncle to Alexander the Great , came into Italy , being invited by the Tarentines to assist them against the Brutians , and concludes an alliance of friendship with the Romans .	IV	599
3971	2664	335	The consuls summon 10 of the chiefs among the Latins to declare their reason for their warlike preparations: The Latins demand, that one of the consuls and half the senate be chosen from among them; which being rejected, both sides fly to arms. Titus Manlius , the son of one of the reigning consuls, having engaged one Gemenius Metius , a Latin , and overcome him in single combat, is punished with death by the consul his father, for fighting without leave, &c.	IV	601
3971	2664	335	The Latins and Romans engage, and the consul Decius Mus devoting himself to the Dii Manes , is slain in the midst of the Latins : The Romans having made a prodigious slaughter of the Latins , at length gain the victory over them at the foot of mount Vesuvius ; after which Numicius their general recruits, and again engages the consul Manlius at a village called Trifana , where he is a second time overthrown; upon which Manlius lays all Latium waste; and all the Latin cities surrender at discretion, likewise Privernum among the Volsii , and all Campania , with Capua its capital; the consul takes their lands from them, and distributes them among the Romans , except the lands of the Laurentini and the Campanian knights, who were not concerned in the revolt.	IV	602
3971	2664	335	The Campanian knights, to the number of 1800, for their faithfulness to the Romans , were made citizens of Rome , but without right of suffrage; and this privilege was engraved on brass, and fixed up in the temple of Castor and Pollux ; and an annual portion of 45 denarii assigned each of them out of the public revenues of Campania . Manlius falling sick, L. Papirius Crassus is made dictator, and goes with his troops into the country of the Antiatres , who had revolted, where he stays some months, living at free quarter, and then returns to Rome , to chuse consuls.	IV	603
3972	2665	334	Anaximenes , the great historian, comes to meet Alexander , and to intercede for Lampascus , a city that Alexander had determined to destroy, for siding with the Persians . Upon seeing him, Alexander swears he would not grant him what he should require; whereupon Anaximenes begs him to burn Lampascus , and so saved it.	III	325
3972	2665	334	Alexander crossing the river Granicus in Asia , engages the Persian army, and defeats them with great slaughter, and the taking many prisoners.—Then marching to Sardis , it immediately surrenders, and with it all Lydia . Then he goes to Ephesus , and restores the democracy, and orders the tribute heretofore paid to the Persians , to be applied to the rebuilding the temple of Diana ; and by another edict, he ordered the restoration of the popular government in all the Greek cities, and sent Alcimalus with a body of troops to see it executed.	III	326
3972	2665	334	Miletus is taken by the Macedon troops by storm; Alexander treats the citizens with great humanity, and sells all the strangers for slaves.	III	327
3972	2665	334	Alexander besieges, takes, and demolishes Halicarnassus , and makes Ada governess of all Caria . Upon this, most of the Asiatic princes revolt from Darius , and submit to Alexander ; among whom was Mitridates king of Pontus .	III	330
3972	2665	334	The Marmarians harraßs Alexander's army, upon which he pursues and besieges them; and after defending themselves some time, the young men murder the old men, women and children, burn their houses, and cut their way through Alexander's guards, and fly to the mountains.	III	330
3972	2665	334	Alexander , son of Æropus , general of the Thessalian horse, corresponds with Amyntas , who was in the service of Darius . Amyntas promises him, in Darius's name, 1000 talents of silver, and the kingdom of Macedon , to murder the king Parmenio , the Macedonian general, communicates it to the king; upon which Alexander is seized and put to death.	III	331
3972	2665	334	Publius , a plebeian consul, goes against an army of the Latins , that had revolted; overcomes them, and is honoured with a triumph: but Æmilius the patrician, his colleague, gaining only some smaller advantages against another Latin army, is denied that honour, which makes him exclaim extremely against the Patricians: They order him to name a dictator, and he chooses Publius , a plebeian, who also chose Brutus Scaevola , a plebeian, for his general of the horse.	IV	603
3973	2666	333	The Macedonians take the city of Aspendus , receive 100 talents, a great number of horses, and a constant tribute, for its redemption, and marches through Phrygia , to meet the rest of his troops at Gordium .	III	332

Darius

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3973	2666	333	Darius , by the persuasion of the Persian Lords puts Cbaridemus to death, who had long been a famous Athenian officer under Philip king of Macedon , for upbraiding them with cowardice, &c.	III	332
3973	2666	333	Alexander king of Macedon , waiting at Gordium for the arrival of the rest of his troops, undoes the knot in the cord, by which Gordius's chariot hung in the palace of Midas their king; concerning which the oracle is said to have declared, that he that could undo it, should reign over all Asia .	III	333
3973	2666	333	L. Furius Camillus , a patrician, and C. Menius , a plebeian, being consuls at Rome this year, overcome the united forces of the Latins , take the town of Pedum by assault, and bring all Latium into subjection; having finished the war, the consuls return to Rome , have a triumph, and two Equestrian statues in the forum.	IV	603
3973	2666	333	Upon Alexander's arriving at Ancyra , a city of Galatia , the province of Paphlagonia submits; he then proceeds to reduce Cappadocia , and possess himself of Cilicia ; soon after is taken with a violent illness, of which he is cured by Philip his physician, who was accused with designing to poison him.	III	333
3973	2666	333	Harpalus , one of Alexander's commanders, having misbehaved, flies from Asia , where he was governor, with prodigious wealth to Atheni , from whence he is banished by the senate.	II	550
3973	2666	333	The Latins , from allies, become subjects to the Romans , and are differently treated, according as their cities had been more or less vigorous in the late revolt, &c.	IV	604
3974	2667	332	Alexander totally defeats Darius , with an army of 600,000 men, at the battle of Ipsus , in which about 100,000 was killed, and the tent of Darius taken, wherein was his mother, wife, two daughters, and his little son, whom Alexander ordered to be treated with the utmost tenderness and respect, and by his universal good usage wrought upon all the provinces of Caelo-Syria to submit: Parmenio , one of Alexander's generals, takes all Darius's baggage, treasure, and equipage, left at Damascus .	III	337
3974	2667	332	Alexander takes Tyre by storm, after a long siege, kills about 8,000, sells 30,000 for slaves, and pardons king Azelmicus , and such Tyrian lords as were taken with him in the temple of Hercules , where Alexander , assisted with his whole army, offered sacrifice.	III	341
3974	2667	332	Darius offers 10,000 talents of silver for the ransom of his mother, wife, and children, that he would consent to the marriage of his daughter with Alexander , and would acknowledge him both for his friend and confederate.	III	343
3974	2667	332	Alexander goes with anger towards Jerusalem , where he is met by Jaddua the high-priest, and all the other priests in their vestments, at Sapha , or Tzapbap , an eminence that commanded a prospect of the whole city and temple, where Alexander pays them great respect, remits that year's tribute, and confirms them in all their privileges granted them by the kings of Persia , upon which many of the Jews list themselves in his army, &c.	II	28
3974	2667	332	Gaza (about five miles from the sea) a large and strong town at the entrance into Egypt , and the bridge of Palestine , after a stout resistance and great slaughter, is taken by Alexander , and thereby all Syria was lost from Darius .	III	344
3974	2667	332	Alexander goes into Egypt , Pelusium is surrendered by the Persians , without any opposition; from thence he sails up the Nile , lands and marches through the deserts to Heliopolis , crosses the river and comes to Memphis , and there offers sacrifice to all the Grecian deities, and to the Egyptian Apis , and celebrates magnificent games, sails down the river to the sea, passes round the city Canopus , and wherever he came, orders the erection of publick temples and structures.	III	345
3974	2667	332	Demosthenes the Athenian orator being convicted of bribery by the court of Areopagus , was fined 50 talents, and to avoid imprisonment flew to Egina .	II	550
3974	2667	332	The Rhodians submit voluntarily to Alexander the Great , which pleased him so much, that he shewed them upon all occasions marks of his esteem and friendship, and is said to have deposited his last will in their archives.	III	337
3974	2667	332	Publius , a plebeian, is chose prætor at Rome , which is the first time any of that order had been admitted into that dignity, which reconciled the people and nobility.	IV	604
3975	2668	331	Alexander goes to the temple of Jupiter Ammon , and sacrifices, then returns to Memphis , and settles the government of Egypt .	III	348
3975	2668	331	The Samaritans having killed Andromachus , governor of Samaria under Alexander , by burning his palace and him in it, and his attendants, Alexander revenged it by putting to death all who had any manner of concern in it, and drove out the rest, and then peopled the city with Macedonians , and granted the rest of their territories to the Jews .	II	30
3975	2668	331	Alexander engages Darius at the village of Guagamela , and routs his army consisting of 1,000,000 horse and foot, with great slaughter, and many prisoners, and pursues Darius himself 10 miles; Parmenio taking the enemies baggage, elephants, and camels, and so absolutely decided the fate of Asia .	III	351
3975	2668	331	Alexander marches against Babylon , upon whose arrival Mazæus the Persian governor retires, and the Babylonians come out joyfully to submit to Alexander .	III	353
3975	2668	331	Agis , king of Sparta , having revolted from Alexander's authority, is engaged by Antipater the Macedonian general, and killed, with 5,500 of his men, and the rest dispersed; which confirmed Alexander in his supremacy over all Greece .	III	354
3975	2668	331	Alexander marches to Susa , where was Darius's palace and treasure, which had been delivered into the hands of his general Philoxenes ; here he received 50,000 talents, being upwards of 9,000,000 sterling, and furniture and curiosities of immense value; then he reduces all the provinces as he passes.	III	354
3975	2668	331	Bessus , governor of Bactria , Barzantes , president of Aracofia , and Nabarzentes , a general of horse, seeing Darius's misfortunes, revolt from and seize him, with intent to set up themselves: Upon Alexander's hearing of it, he pursues the rebels, and upon his coming up to them, they stab and kill Darius , and then fly.	III	359

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3975	2668	331	The Sidicini and Aufones , who had infested the country of the Arunci , at this time in alliance with Rome , are defeated by the consuls, &c.	IV	604
3976	2669	330	A conspiracy is formed against the life of Alexander , which being discovered, Dymnus , the person who was to have killed the king, upon his being apprehended stabs himself.	III	364
3976	2669	330	Alexander , after vast marches in a very rigorous season, and through difficult ways, comes into Media , and orders a city to be built, which he called Alexandria .	III	368
3976	2669	330	Bessus , the Persian rebel, having changed his name into Artaxerxes , upon hearing of Alexander's march against him, wastes all the country as he passes, and burns his ships, then retires to Nautaca , a city of Sogdia : Alexander continuing his march, reduces all Bactria , and Bessus is delivered into his hands.	III	370
3976	2669	330	The Abii , a people of Scythia , having revolted, and taken many cities, Alexander goes against them at Gaza , takes it by storm, burns the city, kills all the males, and gives all the plunder and women to his soldiers, and went so on from place to place, destroying and conquering all where-ever he came.	III	371
3976	2669	330	Pharnaces , one of Alexander's generals, with 2,300 men, horse and foot, is cut off by Spitamenes , all but 340; upon which Alexander goes against him in person, but he flying, Alexander wastes and destroys all the country, and puts the people to death; then he marched to Zariafpa , and went into winter quarters; here he ordered Bessus to be brought into court, to have his nose and ears cut off, and then sent him to Ecbatana , to be tried according to the laws of the Medes and Persians , for the murder of Darius late king of Persia .	III	373
3976	2669	330	M. Valerius Corvus , now a fourth time consul, takes Cale , the metropolis of the Aufones , by means of covered galleries and moveable towers, which he invented to screen his men from their darts and stones.	IV	604
3977	2670	329	Alexander changes the anniversary festival of Bacchus into the festival of the Dioscuri , i. e. Castor and Pollux ; here at a sumptuous feast were present all the principal commanders, and particularly Clytus , the king's favourite, whom the king, in a fit of drunken madness, killed.	III	376
3977	2670	329	Alexander king of Macedon , now called the Great King, receives divine honours, with which being much elated, a conspiracy is formed to kill him, by several young noblemen; but being discovered, the conspirators are stoned to death.	III	381
3977	2670	329	The king of Scythia offers an alliance to Alexander , which he declines, but accepts of the offer of Pharaimanes king of the Chorasmeni , a people bordering on the Euxine sea, and makes an alliance with him.	III	381
3977	2670	329	The new Roman consuls enter the enemies country, and lay it waste, and then return to Rome ; when it being reported the Samnites had joined the Sidicini , P. Cornelius Rufinus was appointed dictator; but the augurs declaring his nomination defective, he was obliged to abdicate. A plague being now at Rome , they declared the inauguration of the consuls was faulty, upon which they were displaced, and an interregnum followed.	IV	604
3978	2671	328	Alexander marches into Sogdia , besieges and takes a fortress built on a rock, and thereby cut off the retiring place of the revolted, wherein was Roxana , the wife of Oxyrates , the greatest beauty in the world, whom Alexander married; upon which Oxyrates surrenders, and with him all Sogdia , and is received with all the marks of esteem and friendship.	III	384
3978	2671	328	Alexander coming to the river Cophenes , sends a herald to Taxiles , and all the other princes on this side the river Indus , to come and meet him, which Taxiles does, with great presents; from thence Alexander goes to the river Choe , besieges and takes a city double walled with some difficulty, and razes it; then proceeds to Andaca , which was surrendered on terms; he goes on, and at last engages a great army of the natives, which he entirely conquered, killing 40,000 upon the spot, and taking 230,000 head of cattle, part of which, for their extraordinary size, goodness, and beauty, he sent to Macedon , to mend the Grecian breed, and to perpetuate the memory of this great victory.	III	387
3979	2672	327	Alexander passes the river Indus , and from thence goes to the river Hydaspis , where his passage is long hindered by king Porus ; but having by a stratagem crossed the river, engages, overthrows, and kills 20,000 foot, and 3,000 horse, hacked 300 chariots to pieces, killed and took all the elephants and two of Porus's sons, and most of the officers of rank were also killed; Porus submits, and is received with the utmost civility by Alexander , who not only returned him his own kingdom, but added very large provinces and kingdoms to it, &c. To perpetuate the memory of this victory, Alexander ordered two cities to be built, one on the field of battle, called Nicæa , and the other on this side of the river where he encamped, called Bucephala , in honour of his horse, which died here of age, being 30 years old.	III	392
3979	2672	327	Several Indian princes confederate together; Alexander engages them before the city Sangala , seated on the top of a hill, defeats them with great slaughter, and takes the city by storm, kills 17,000, and takes 70,000 prisoners, 300 chariots, and 500 horse, razes the city, and goes on to the river Hyphasis .	III	394
3979	2672	327	Alexander's army mutiny, and insist upon returning home, to which he consents, and having made proper preparations, embarks his troops, &c. In his passage he reduces the Malli , by taking their city by storm, and putting all to the sword he finds in it; he then passes the river Hydraotis , and engages a large army, which defeating, he besieges and storms the city where they had retired to, and being desperately wounded, is with great difficulty preserved alive; the soldiers in revenge put all they meet with to the sword; the Malli and Oxydracæ submit, and make great presents, whose example several other kingdoms and provinces follow and do the like.	III	399
3979	2672	327	It being groundlessly reported the Gauls were coming against Rome , Papirius Crassus is named dictator, the City , now greatly encreased, two new tribes, viz. the Mæcian and Scaptian , are added to those that were already in being.	IV	604

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3980	2673	326	A great number of Roman ladies conspire and poison their husbands, which being discovered by a woman slave, the ladies drink the poison they were preparing, and so kill themselves.	IV	605
3981	2674	325	The Privernates and Fundi revolt from Rome , but after a long siege Privernum surrenders, and Vitrinus , the author of the revolt, being delivered up, was first beaten with rods, and then beheaded. The two consuls upon their return to Rome have a triumph, and Æmilius is surnamed Privernas : After punishing some of the ringleaders, Privernum was declared a Municipium , and incorporated into the Roman state.	IV	606
3981	2674	325	Alexander loses a vast number of his troops, &c. as he is passing through Gadrosia , by drought and famine, &c. Upon his coming into Camerania , puts Clitander , Sitalces , and Heracon to death, for male administration during his absence: Orsines the Persian governor is crucified, and Peucestas appointed in his stead. Atropas , governor of Media , is put to death, for assuming the regal title and wearing the royal tiara.	III	404
3981	2674	325	Calanus the Indian philosopher, tutor of Lyfimachus , obtains leave of Alexander to have a funeral pile, on which laying himself at full length, remained without voice or motion in the midst of the flames till he was consumed.	III	405
3981	2674	325	Alexander goes to Sussa , where Abulites and his son Oxathres being proved guilty of male administration, are put to death; and then he gives a loose to luxury, pleasure and ease, takes Barsine , or Statira , the daughter of Darius , and Parisatis , the daughter of Ochus , for his wives: To Hephestion , Craterus , &c. he gave the greatest Persian ladies, to the number of 80, all which marriages were solemnized at once: Next, he ordered all his troops to make their demand, which coming to 20,000 talents, he pays them, and orders a crown of gold to be given to each of his favourites.	III	406
3981	2674	325	Alexander being returned to Opis , a city on the Tygris , he makes proclamation for such as were infirm, or desirous to have leave, to lay down their arms, &c. A mutiny arising, he orders 13 of the ringleaders to be put to death on the spot, and so prevented its spreading further.	III	406
3981	2674	325	The Macedonians come to the king's palace, and lay down their arms, protesting they would remain there day and night till he had compassion on them, which so melted him, that he came and kissed them, and ordered a publick feast, at which 9000 persons were present; the Macedonians sat next the king, next them the Persians , and next them people of all nations.	III	407
3982	2675	324	Harpalus having again robbed the king's treasury of 5000 talents, for fear of punishment, raises 6000 mercenaries, leaves them at Tenarus , and goes himself to Athens ; but being forced away from thence, returns to his troops, where he is killed by Tbimbro , his intimate friend.	III	407
3982	2675	324	Alexander , upon Harpalus's revolt, marches immediately to Ecbatana , where he offered sacrifice, and exhibited solemn sports; but Hephestion dying, makes him melancholy; he honours him with great marks of his esteem, and orders him a monument at the expence of 1000 talents.	III	408
9982	2675	324	Near Ecbatana was a rude and barbarous people, called the Cossians , who had never been conquered by the Persians , and who continually made incursions, and committed robberies upon the neighbouring countries; these Alexander , after several encounters, forces to submit to his mercy.	III	408
3982	2675	324	Ambassadors come from all parts of Greece to Babylon , with garlands on their heads, presenting golden crowns to Alexander , thereby intending him divine honours.	III	410
3982	2675	324	Alexander quitting his throne to quench his thirst, a mean fellow a prisoner rushes through the eunuchs, and seats himself thereon, for which presumption he is put to death.	III	410
3983	2676	323	The Palæopolitans , wh were originally Eubæans , coming into Italy , built Cuma , and Naples , or Neapolis , make an irruption into the Roman territories: The Samnites also break the peace,; Publius the late consul, a plebeian, is made Proconsul , and by stratagem takes Palæopolis , and disperses the Samnites , and in spite of the nobles enters Rome in triumph, which is denied the two consuls, though they also had gained great advantages over the Samnites .	IV	607
3983	2676	323	Alexander dies at Babylon of a raging fever, said to be occasioned by poison given him by Antipater , &c. He left behind him a son named Hercules , by his wife Barsina , daughter of Artabazus , and widow of Memon , who was afterward murdered; by Roxana daughter of Oxyerates the Bactrian , a posthumous son named Alexander , who for a time had the title of king; by Cleopatra queen of part of India , a son named Alexander , who succeeded his mother in her kingdom. He died lord of a multitude of fair provinces, sovereign of many large kingdoms, and held empire more extensive than any before him: Macedon was his hereditary kingdom; great part of Thrace and Illyria he subdued, and all Greece was under his protection: In Asia his conquests reached from the Hellspont to the Indian ocean, and Egypt and Lybia were his.	III	414
3983	2676	323	Upon the death of Alexander king of Macedon , (called the Great King) all the great men, having various interests to promote, are much divided about a successor; at last name Arideus , brother to Alexander , and change his name to Philip .	III	415
3983	2676	323	Perdiccas , master of the horse, causes a lustration of the army, takes 300 out of the phalanx of foot, and throws them to the elephants, who were openly devalued and destroyed; then pursues Malcagres into a temple, whither he had fled for safety, and orders him to be murdered, and so establishes himself in the power he aim'd at for a time.	III	416
3983	2676	323	Alexander , the new-born son of Roxana , (the late king Alexander's wife) is joined with Arideus (now Philip) in the regal authority; and the several kingdoms and provinces distributed to the late king Alexander's favourites, generals, &c.	III	417

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
3983	2676	323	Perdiccas and Roxana (for her son) govern without controul. Roxana sends letters under Alexander's seal for Statira , and Drypatis the daughter of Darius , wives to the late king Alexander , and Hephestion , to come to Babylon immediately, where being arrived, they are murdered.	III	418
3983	2676	323	The mercenary Greeks assemble themselves under one Philo , to the number of 20,000 foot and 3000 horse, and endeavour to march home. Perdiccas sends one Pithon against them, with orders to destroy them all, and to give their effects to the soldiers under him; which was accordingly executed.	III	419
3983	2676	323	The Rhodiens revolt from Macedon , drive out all the Macedonian garrisons, and become a free people.	III	137
3984	2677	322	Violent storms of rain, hail, thunder, &c. happen at Rhodes , whereby abundance of the inhabitants are killed and drowned, and the wall of the city broke down, which gives vent to the waters, and saves the city and people from intire destruction.	III	137
3984	2677	322	Seuthes , descended of the antient race of the Odryssian kings, comes against Lysimachus , governor of Thrace , with 20,000 foot and 8000 horse; which Lysimachus is forced to engage, with 4000 foot and 2000 horse, and behaved so gallantly, that he kept the field, and preserved his government.	III	419
3984	2677	322	Jaddua the Jewish high-priest dies, and is succeeded in that office by his son Onias , who enjoyed that dignity about 21 years.	IV	30
3984	2677	322	Upon the death of Alexander the Great , the Athenians and their allies, under Leosthenes , go against the Macedonians with a great army; they engage Antipater , who being much inferior in number, is beaten, and forced to fly to Lamia (a city of Thessaly), whither Leosthenes follows, and besieges him; where Leosthenes being killed by a stone, Antiphalus is chose general in his stead; who engaging the Macedonian under the command of Leonatus , overthrew them; upon which growing careless and secure, Leonatus , being joined by Antipater and Craterus , they engage and overthrow Antiphalus and Memnon , which so dispirited the confederate Greeks , that they sued to Antipater for peace, which he granted them separately, and thereby reduced the power of Athens so much, as to force them to consent to the delivering up Demosthenes and Hyperides , and that the old method of taxing in the city should be restored, that they should receive a Macedonian garrison into Munichia , defray the charges of the war, &c. This being agreed to, Demosthenes poisoned himself.	II	551
3984	2677	322	Timoleon , full of age and possessed of the love of all the people, dies, and is buried with great pomp at the public expence, 200 Mina's being decreed for that purpose: 'Twas likewise enacted, that the day of his death should annually be honoured with publick sports, horse-races and Gymnastic games; and whenever the Syracusans were engaged in a war with the Barbarians , they should send to Corinth for a general.	III	79
3984	2677	322	Perdiccas goes against Ariarathes king of Cappadocia ; upon the frontiers they engage, and Perdiccas kills 1000, takes Ariarathes and 6000 more prisoners, and disperses the rest; crucifies Ariarathes , and settles Eumenes governor under the two kings of Macedon , &c.	III	420
3984	2677	322	Perdiccas , to revenge the death of Balacrus , the governor of Lauranda , and Issaurus , whom the people had killed, assaults and takes Lauranda by storm, puts all able to bear arms to the sword, and sells the youth, women, and children, for slaves; then besieging Issaurus , a strong and populous city, which was long defended with great bravery, but at last, rather than be taken, the Issaurians burnt the city, with their parents, wives, and children.	III	420
3984	2677	322	The Lucanians are drawn, by a stratagem, to declare for the Samnites against Rome .	IV	608
3984	2677	322	The Roman senate make a law to abrogate the power of creditors over their debtors, appointing, that no citizen's person should be imprisoned for debt, but only for criminal matters.	IV	608
3985	2678	321	Agathocles , a potter by trade, being first a common soldier, for his beauty, strength, and activity, was by Demas the Agrigentine general made a Chiliarch (or commander of 1000 men) and upon Demas's dying, married his widow, and so became the richest citizen of Syracuse : But Sosistrates having usurped the supreme authority, drove him out of Syracuse ; from whence he retired to Italy , and settling at Crotona , attempted the sovereignty thereof, but was forced to fly from the rage of the multitude to Tarentum , from whence he was likewise driven for the like practices, and now all cities refusing him, he collected a body of exiles, and lived by robbery and plunder. Sosistrates coming into Italy besieged Rhegium ; Agathocles and his band unexpectedly fell upon him, and obliged him to return home, where he was soon after forced to abdicate the sovereignty, and quit Syracuse , with about 600 citizens suspected of designing to demolish Democracy , and set up Oligarchy ; upon which they apply to the Carthaginians , who espouse their cause; and the Syracusans call home Agathocles , and make him their commander in chief, who overthrows Sosistrates and the Carthaginians in a pitch'd battle, wherein he received seven wounds: Upon this beginning to exercise sovereign power, the Syracusans has recourse to Corinth , who sent Acestorides to command their army, who commanded Agathocles to go out of the city; but he got a young man that resembled him to go in his stead, who was seized, murdered, and buried, as soon as he came without the city, thinking him to be Agathocles , but were soon undeceived by Agathocles making his escape privately, and raising troops in the heart of Sicily ; upon which the Syracusans offered to recall him home, if he would disband his troops, which he agreed to, and being conducted to the temple of Ceres , swore to do nothing prejudicial to the established Democracy , then consisting of 600 of the chief citizens: He was again made commander in chief of the forces going against the revolted Erbitans ; he employs his army to seize Syracuse , under pretence of ridding them of the 600 tyrants, and their abettors, and murders all they meet

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Page
			meet with, without regard to age, sex, or rank, plundered the houses, and committed all manner of cruelties; so that a few hours strewed the streets with upwards of 4000 dead carcases. This horrid work continued two days; the 3d day Agathocles summons those citizens that were left alive, tells them his design was only to establish the Democracy free, and that he would live a private life: This said, his adherents proclaimed him king, with an absolute power. His first law was, that all the lands should be equally divided between the rich and the poor, which gained him the populace, and then behaved very mildly, freely, and equitably; and thus, in about two years time, he made himself master of all Sicily , when he behaved as cruelly and inhumanly as ever any before him had done.
3985	2678	321	Perdiccas first murders Cynane , the daughter of Philip late king of Macedon , and promotes her daughter Ada (or Eurydice) to be the wife of king Aridæus (or Philip ;) upon which Antigonus , governor of Pamphilia , &c. retires to Greece , to accuse Perdiccas to Antipater and Craterus .	III	82
3985	2678	321	Ptolomy , governor of Egypt , sends Ophellas against Thimbro ; who conquers, takes, and crucifies Thimbro , and so adds Cyrene to Egypt .	III	421
3985	2678	321	Aridæus (one of Alexander the Great's commanders) after two years preparation for the burial of Alexander , late king of Macedon , &c. carries his body from Babylon into Egypt : Ptolomy goes as far as Syria in person, to meet and do honour to his dead master; and conducting his corps to Alexandria , buries him in a rich temple, built there on purpose.	III	421
3985	2678	321	Perdiccas hearing that Ptolomy , Craterus , and Antipater designed to unite and take his power from him, (which he exercised to the dislike of every body) raises a great army, takes the two kings with him, and goes into Egypt ; where, after losing a great many of his men, by death and desertion, &c. he is murdered by the remainder in his tent; upon which Ptolomy comes and treats the army with great tenderness; and Aridæus and Pitbon were chose protectors of the kings persons and chief minister of state.	III	423
3985	2678	321	Eumenes obtains two victories over Craterus and Antipater for Perdiccas , in which Craterus , and Neoptolemus , the revolted governor of Armenia , were slain; upon hearing whereof, in two days after Perdiccas's death, the soldiers put all the friends of Perdiccas to death, proscribed Eumenes and 50 men of quality with him, and then left Egypt and returned into Cælo-Syria , under the command of Aridæus and Pitbon . At their arrival at Tryparadifus , Antipater , governor of Greece , &c. join them. Aridæus and Pitbon lay down their office, and Antipater is chose protector, with sovereign power: But Eurydice , wife of king Philip , behaving imperiously, is check'd by Antipater ; upon which, in a set oration, she accused him to the army, which occasions great disorders; but after some days matters were settled, and Antipater continued in the administration; upon which he made a new division of the provinces, and declares Eumenes a publick enemy, and orders Antigonus , general of the household troops, to prosecute the war against him; then returns with the two kings into his own province, highly commended and admired by all the Macedonians .	III	423
3985	2678	321	The Veslini (a people on the Adriatick sea) take arms against Rome : The consul D. Junius Brutus goes against them, defeats them, and takes the cities Cutina and Cingalia from them.	IV	608
3985	2678	321	The other Roman consul L. Furius Camillus falling sick, names L. Papirius Cursor to be dictator, and to act against the Samnites . He took the field, but is obliged to return home upon account of the auspices being reported unfavourable, and ordered Fabius , his general of horse, not to engage the enemy in his absence: He disobeys, and overthrows the Samnites , and kills 20,000 of them on the spot; then burns the spoil, instead of lodging it in the hands of the Quæstor , that they might not encrease the pomp of the dictator's triumph. The dictator commands Fabius to be stripped, &c. which while the lictors are doing, he escapes, and great commotions and mutinies are in the army. Fabius goes to Rome , and appeals to the people; but the dictator gets the better of him; but all the orders of the people joining with Fabius's submission, the dictator pardons him, and so all is quiet again.	IV	609
5986	2679	320	Eumenes collects the best army he can, but when engaged with Antigonus , is betrayed by Apollodorus his general of horse, loses 8000 men, and is totally routed, but with the remains of his army returns into the field of battle, burns the bodies of the slain, makes two heaps of their ashes, and covers them with earth; then dismisses his army, all but 600 men, takes possession of the castle of Nora , (exceedingly strong, situate on the top of an inaccessible rock, which Antigonus not able to take, builds a strong wall round the bottom, leaves men to defend it, and goes against Alceas and Attalus , who sided with Eumenes .	III	424
3986	2679	320	Antigonus marches into Pisidia , engages and overcomes Alceas , who flying to Trennessus with 6000 troops, is there murdered, and his carcase delivered to Antigonus . Attalus , Decimus , and Polemon were taken prisoners, &c. Upon this Antigonus endeavours to make himself supreme in Asia .	III	425
3986	2679	320	Papirius being continued dictator, engages the Samnites , totally overthrows them, and then over-run Samnium , and forced the enemy to sue for peace, which was granted them upon hard terms: Upon his return to Rome he is decreed and honoured with a triumph.	IV	610
3987	2680	319	The Samnites being joined by the Apulians , declare war against Rome : The consuls go against them, but they shutting themselves up in their strong holds, little could be done with them this year.	IV	610
3987	2680	319	The Carthaginians send Imilcar with a great fleet and army against Agathocles , which is much shattered by a violent storm, and the remainder Agathocles attacks near Himera , forces his trenches, and cut most of his troops to pieces:

Y. of World	Y. of Flood	Before Christ		Vol.	Pag.
			But while his men were greedy after plunder, an unexpected reinforcement comes from Carthage ; they fall upon and rout Agathocles , who was forced to fly into his metropolis, whither they follow and besiege him.	III	83
3987	2680	319	Agathocles engages the Carthaginian fleet, beats and disperses them, then lands his men in Carthage , and burns his own ships, to make his men resolutely desperate, takes and plunders a place called the Great City , and likewise Tunis , which he razed to the ground; then advanced towards Carthage , and engaged Hanno and Bomilcar , kills Hanno , and defeats Bomilcar .	III	84
